With the Los Angeles Actors' Lab in 1947, Litwack did television design, returning to the stage later in the same year as designer for several productions of the Jewish Community Centers.

Four years with the UCLA campus theater added to his accomplishments scenic design for such productions as "Dark of the Moon" and "The Lower Depths"; in 1951 with the Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge, Mass. he designed a dozen productions, including "The Glass Menagerie," "The Silver Whistle" and "I Remember Mama."

During the past year Litwack was technical director for the La Jolla Playhouse of La Jolla, Calif., before coming to the Playmakers last September as assistant technical director in connection with his work in the Graduate School.

Designing the carefully subdued caricatures of the characters in the village of Setzuan was only half the battle. Practical problems of wearability and audibility had to be overcome. Director and designer decided on half-masks, leaving the lower part of the actor's face comparatively free. Then Litwack went to work with clay and a crew of two—John Stockard of Greensboro and George Belk of Williamsburg, Va. to execute his sketches.

The scene designer's best friend —Celastic—was the obvious answer New to theater use, but familiar to the shoemaker, celastic is a colloid-treated cotton fabric which, when softened in a special solvent, can be handled like papier-mache, but dries with its own internal strength, needing no wire or other support. Originally used to shape wall-toed shoes, celastic has come into stage use only in the past two or three years, but in that time has replaced papier-mache entirely.

On a modeled-clay base, Litwack and his assistants mold the celastic masks, turning out a mask and a half a day, as they are needed for rehearsal. The completed masks painted, they are added to the growing collection and turned immediately to use.

"The Good Woman of Setzuan," this season's major experimental production, was written and directed experimentally. Litwack's masks add the last touch of fantastic caricature to what promises to be an exciting new departure in playmaking.

George Hauser Will Talk On Race Relations

George Hauser, ex-director of the Conference for Racial Equality, will speak Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Presbyterian Church on "American and South African Racial Relations in Contrast."

Born in Cleveland, Dr. Hauser spent a year in China and five years in the Philippines where his parents were missionaries. Hauser is now Secretary of the Americans for South African Resistance program.

Dr. Hauser graduated from the University of Denver and attended Union and Chicago Seminaries. He has written numerous articles and pamphlets on racial relations.

Political Science Class To Visit Capitol Today

Professor David G. Monroe's Political Science 81 class will go to the State Capitol this morning to listen in on a session of the State Legislature.

The State and Local Government class will leave the campus this morning and return this afternoon. The group will also attend committee meetings.

As an Arthur Murray Student
You're Sure Of Popularity
Yes, good dancers are the sought-after partners at parties. How popular are you? Why not come in to Arthur Murray's now and let one of his experts develop your dormant dancing ability?
ARTHUR MURRAY
104½ Morris St. at 5 Points
Durham Phone 2-7872
Studios Air-Conditioned

STUDENT CLUB
Being Organized!

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY Sutton's

You get 100% if you answer Badminton, Surrey and Foch . . . just as SUTTON'S DRUG STORE gets 100% for our knowledge of fine pharmaceuticals and expert prescription compounding.
THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER
Sutton's DRUG STORE
Rx SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

You Don't Have to be a Beaver to be Eager or

Should* virtue be its own reward?

Once there was a Junior who was, by nature, a Grasshopper, rather than an Ant. He devoted most of his time and energies to Social Pursuits, with correspondingly little emphasis on the Curriculum in the Catalogue. Consequently, while he was Right Up There socially, he had academically just about reached the Point of No Return.

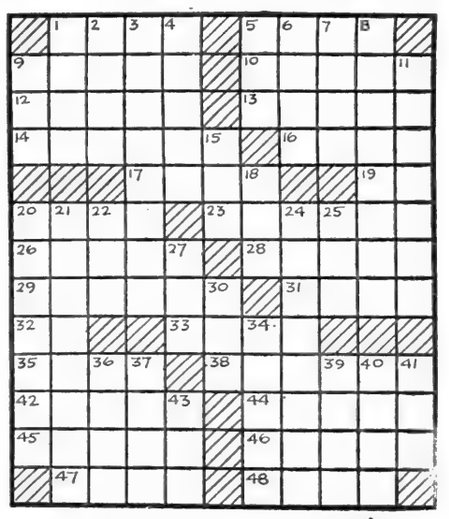
Topping it off was an Ultimatum from the Male Parent, warning that on his next arrival home, he had better be accompanied either by a List of Passing Grades or a Social Security Card. All Our Boy could see ahead was a lifetime at Hard Labor, unless Something Drastic happened.

So he made it happen. Invested heavily in benzedrine and black coffee and lined up three super-skull Tutors. Night and day he Sweated It Out. Made it, too! Wound up, if not with Flying Colors, at least with Respectable Grades. First thing he did, naturally, was to call Western Union and flash the Joyous Tidings homeward by telegram. Then he sat back and waited for the Reaction.

It came an hour later. A Telegraphic Money Order for $500, plus a message that read: "Delighted at your confounding the Prophets, including myself. Hope you will join me on two-month European trip, expenses paid, starting June 20th." Signed, POP.

Moral? When you've got good news to impart, strike while the Item is Hot—by Telegram! It adds weight, as well as wings, to Your Words. In any kind of Communique, from Date Talk to Dream Talk to Job Talk, you'll get farther, faster, when you use the Yellow Blank. Just call Western Union.

North Columbia Ave.
Telephone 8681



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Part of a check
5. Jewish month
9. Scottish tea cake
11. Addition to a bill
12. Examine account books
13. Rugged mountain crest
14. Herds of animals
16. A summit
17. Old measures of length
19. Iowa (abbr.)
20. European river
23. Longs for
26. Herb of carrot family
28. A confection
29. Excepting
31. Sums up
32. South America (abbr.)
33. Bag
35. Large pulpit and reading desk
38. American Indian
42. Cog wheels
44. Scoff
45. Literary composition
46. Draw, as an anchor
47. Anglo-Saxon serf
48. Without effort

DOWN
1. Portion of horn tissue of polled animal
2. Fuss (hyphen.)
3. The cosmos
4. A climbing pepper
5. Constellation
6. Dagger
7. British colony (Arab.)
8. Kept
9. Unhappy
11. Dinners
15. Cunning
18. Southeast by south (abbr.)
20. Finely chopped, highly seasoned meat
21. Native of Annam
22. Trouble
24. Aroused from sleep
25. Color
27. Large worm
30. Juice of a plant
34. Biblical name
36. Fish
37. Seaport (Algeria)
39. Narrow pass, as of a river (Scot.)
40. Impose a tax
41. Metallic rock
43. Sink (obs.)

Saturday's Answer

DUKE PLAYERS
PRESENT . . . .
FERNEC MOLAR'S
THE GLASS SLIPPER
Branson Hall East Campus
TICKETS AT DANZIGER'S
March 11, 12, 13 14 8:15

Internal Injuries . . .
Often accompany serious damage to your car. Our factory-trained mechanics can quickly restore your car's appearance, diagnose and repair collision-caused motor trouble. Call us now.
POE MOTOR CO.
DESOTO 112 W Franklin St. PLYMOUTH

T-O-D-A-Y Varsity
— PLUS —
"STORY OF JOSEPH RODRIGUEZ"
Winner of
The Medal of Honor
Advance was impossible for Joseph C. Rodriguez' company during an assault on a North Korean position — The company was held back by fire from well-entrenched enemy machine gun nests atop a ridge. This is the amazing story of how Rodriguez completely wiped out the enemy nests.

U.W.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Occasional rain and mild with 55 high. Yesterday's high, 50; low, 43.

The Daily Tar Heel

SPLIT
There's a Congressional division of opinion about doing things. See p. 4.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 103 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Semester Transition Explained

Students learned about the semester system in capsule form yesterday by meeting with their deans throughout the campus.

A guaranteed Spring vacation (next year's will be five days), greater flexibility in afternoon classes and an effort to make a "literal translation" of the present system in regard to hours and courses," were mentioned as some of the major points of the semester system, by Dean Clifford P. Lyons of the Arts and Sciences College.

Though not speaking for all schools and divisions in the University, Lyons gave a view of what will be going on come September.

"We will attempt to make at literal translation of what you have now," he told over 800 students in Memorial Hall yesterday. In converting from the quarter to the semester system, adjustments as to hours and courses will be made to conform as nearly as possible to the present setup.

Lyons expects that a schedule for both semesters will be available by April 15. Preregistration should begin later in that month, or in the early part of May.

Afternoon classes will be much more flexible than before in the sense that they meet only three days a week, he commented. He illustrated this point by noting that students who missed an important course because of drill or laboratory would be able to take the course under the semester system.

Those who expect to graduate in March, 1954 should be able to finish in January of that year by means of the semester system. "We will make a strong effort to graduate everyone according to their present plans. We will try to avoid making students study here three months longer than they planned to," he said.

Students who plan to graduate in December can either double up in Summer School (which is not affected by the Trustee order) this academic year or can go the extra month through January. If they continue through January, they can take extra courses, Lyons noted.

Under the new system, classes are held three times a week on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday, Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday basis, with five courses allowed each semester. For the first year in operation, the plan will provide students with more electives than now possible. Lyons said that efforts will be made to give a "balanced distribution" of classes both as to total courses and as to major courses.

He indicated that the Arts and Sciences College is spending time on how to improve the advisory system. "A great deal of thought and study will be given to the overall advisory system," he pointed out. The Daily Tar Heel and student government have long criticized the advisory setup, particularly in the General College.

YMCA Holding Lost Articles

The YMCA yesterday released a list of lost and found articles being held in the Y for owners to claim.

Included in the list: one blue cardigan, a red velvet hat, brown shoulder bag, silver evening bag, black velvet evening bag, white linen bag, small brown bag.

Also, one pair of fur-lined gloves, ladies gloves, one compass, Lenoir Hall meal ticket, glasses (any kind), pens, notebooks, jewelry, scarves, knives, and a pipe.

Draft Test

Applications for the SS Qualification Test must be in the mail by midnight, March 9. Application forms must be secured from a local board.

The nearest boards are in Hillsboro and Durham. The test will be administered in Chapel Hill on April 25 for those whose applications have been submitted in time.

$330,000 From 600 Jobs

Self Help Office Offers Vital Aid

By Hubert Breeze

Helping approximately 600 students find self-help jobs that pay a total of $330,000 is just part of a year's work for the Student Aid Office.

This office, directed by Edwin S. Lanier since 1930, also handles scholarships and student loans amounting to big sums.

In explaining how the Student Aid Office functions, Lanier said there is a Student Aid Committee appointed by the Chancellor which has the power to grant undergraduate scholarships, approve loans and decide who is to get the part-time jobs.

Students who want help make a formal application to the committee and are judged comparatively on the basis of scholastic records, financial situations, and the general promise and reputation of the applicant, Lanier said.

When the committee is not in session Lanier has the power to act, within the set policy, on applications that need immediate attention. For instance, if a part-time library worker has had to quit suddenly, Lanier will look over the applications on the waiting list and decide, just as the committee does, who is to

(See LOANS, page 4)

ED LANIER

CAMPUS SEEN

Carolina Romeos shifting locale of operations as street lamps are installed in Morehead parking lot.

*

Undergrad sauntering around Reserve Reading Room in Library happily yo-yoing.

Prof bending down to search under desks for a copy of Daily Tar Heel after 8 o'clock class has gone.

SUAB Film Is Reel Thriller

"I am the child murderer and I have not yet reached the end."

Thus speaks the mysterious slayer who is the object of a desperate search in "M", psychological thriller to be presented tonight at 8:30 in Memorial Hall. Peter Lorre and an outstanding German cast are featured in this feature of the SUAB Winter movie series. Students are asked to note the change in showing places.

"M" tells the tale of a maniacal killer whose identity remains a mystery until the end of the film. His pursuers finally succeed in his unmasking.

Ticket reservations may be made by calling Chapel Hill, 5-611.

The final picture in the SUAB series will be "Carnival in Flanders," winner of three international awards. "Carnival in Flanders" will be presented March 12.

Clothing Drive For Koreans Is Next Week

The Semper Fidelis Society will sponsor a drive next week to collect clothing for the Pohang Orphanage in South Korea.

Clothing baskets will be placed in Fowler's Food Store, the Glen Lennox Launderet and the Victory Village Rental Office.

The society also will sponsor a house-to-house canvas on Saturday from 10 o'clock to 3 p.m. Those who do not wish to carry the clothing to the baskets are asked to call Wallace Pridgen or Ned Beeker at the Sigma Nu House. A representative will be sent to pick up the clothes.

Up to now, all donations to the Pohang Orphanage have come from Marines and their families. These included gifts of shoes, clothing and china.

Over $750 has been donated to buy rice land. The object of permanent ownership of land is to insure its operation after U.N. forces have left Korea.

The Pohang Orphanage has about 75 orphans. The building for the orphanage was purchased in the name of the Presbyterian Holding Body and is designated The Marine Memorial Orphanage.

The clothing drive will end on March 7, at which time the clothing will be packed and shipped to the Pohang Orphanage.

WHEN MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. experienced a warm—to that city—38 degrees, these two lovelies thought spring had arrived. Sharon Vroman (left) and Jean Hedberg donned bathing suits and celebrated with a snow fight. Sharon's comment was "cold feet"—but many Southerners would have found more than just their feet cold.—NEA Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

UNITED NATIONS — Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told the U. N. Political Committee yesterday there was "little point" in new Korean truce tries so long as the Kremlin-backed Reds were determined to continue the war. Speaking for the Eisenhower administration, Lodge charged that Russia is "actively assisting the aggressors in Korea on a scale which makes possible the continuance of that aggression and determines its scope."

★

RALEIGH — Mack Ingram, Negro sharecropper who gained international notice when he was convicted of assaulting a white farm girl although he got no closer to her than 65 feet, was cleared yesterday by the State Supreme Court. Chief Justice W. A. Devin said in the court's opinion, "The facts in evidence in the case at bar are insufficient to make out a case of assault."

★

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower told a news conference he would be willing to go half way to a meeting with Soviet Premier Josef Stalin or any other world leader under certain conditions. The conditions were if he thought such a meeting would be consistent with what the American people expect of their chief executive and if it would further the cause of world freedom.

★

NEW YORK — Mickey Jelke's social registerite mother testified yesterday at his vice trial that he had an income ranging from $180 to $400 a month at the time the State charges he was living off a prostitute's earnings.

Dr. Knight Lists Milestones For U. S. Education

"Milestones in American Educational History" is the title of a study prepared by Dr. Edgar W. Knight, Kenan professor of educational history here, and published in the February issue of the "Journal of the National Education Association."

The highlights reported by Dr. Knight in the development of education in this country extend from Henrico College and East India School in Virginia in 1617-1622, the first educational efforts in English North America, to recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States on racial and religious issues in education.

Included in Dr. Knight's list of significant educational events and dates are the founding of Harvard College in 1636; the dismissal of President Henry Dunster of Harvard in 1643 because of his beliefs on infant baptism, believed to be the first case involving "academic freedom" in this country; the trial of John Peter Zenger in New York in 1735, which helped to establish the principle of the press; Thomas Jefferson's famous plan for a state-wide public school system in Virginia in 1779.

The opening of the first American state university in Chapel Hill in 1795; the significant Dartmouth College Decision in 1819; the award by Bowdoin College in 1826 of the first collegiate degree conferred upon a Negro; the beginnings of higher education for women in the 1830's; the passage of the Morrill (Land-grant) College Act in 1862.

The Kalamazoo Decision in Michigan in 1874, which established the right of the state to provide high schools through taxation; the founding in 1876 of the Johns Hopkins University, the first strictly graduate school in the United States.

The Oregon Decision in 1925 in which it was held that children could not be compelled to attend public schools, and many other interesting educational highlights.

The "NEA Journal," which has a monthly circulation of about a half million copies, has made several thousand reprints of Dr. Knight's study for use by high school and college students.

Playmakers' 'Good Woman' Will Open Tonight At 8:30

YOUNG LOVERS IN CONFLICT with a world of egoism and hate star in "The Good Woman of Setzuan" which opens tonight at 8:30 in the Playmakers Theater. Anne Edwards of New Bern plays the Good Woman and Buck Roberts of Durham is her airline pilot lover.—Photo by Kai Jurgensen.

ANNE EDWARDS POSES WITH the mask she wears in "The Good Woman of Setzuan." Miss Edwards plays the dual role of good and evil in the expressionist drama.—Photo by Kai Jurgenson.

Something new is on view at the Playmakers Theater tonight — a 20th century morality play done with symbolic characters, symbolic sets and unusual concert staging.

"The Good Woman of Setzuan" is the fourth major production of the Playmakers' season, directed by Kai Jurgensen, with sets by William Long, costumes by Julianne Hale and lighting by John Bonitz. Curtain is at 8:30.

"The Good Woman of Setzuan" is the story of three gods who, in search of good on earth, find the only good person in a prostitute of the city of Setzuan. They set her up in the tobacco business, but she finds that she cannot remain good and survive in this world, so she invents—and impersonates — a cousin who does all her evil for her. This leads to innumerable complications, and the gods finally wash their hands of the whole affair and float away on a pink cloud.

Cast in the role of the Good Woman is Anne Edwards of New Bern, with Buck Roberts of Durham as her airline pilot lover. Playing the other 22 characters are Janet Boyer, Westfield, N. J.; Frances O'Neal, Chapel Hill; Mary Helen Crain, Durham; Joanne San Antonio, Bangor, Me.; Loyd Borstelmann, Chapel Hill; Tommy Rezzuto, Asheville; Walter Creech, Chapel Hill; Edgar Daniels, Raleigh; George Belk, Williamsburg, Va. and Donald Deagon, Chapel Hill.

"The Good Woman of Setzuan" will run through Sunday night, with tickets at Swain Hall and Letbetter-Pickard.

Cornell Phi Delts Approve Of Williams Pledging Jew

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 25. (Special)—Cornell University's chapter of Phi Delta Theta voted a slim approval of the action taken by the Williams University chapter to pledge a Jewish man.

Joseph Hinsey, Cornell's chapter president, declared that "we supported the action of Williams," but the vote was extremely close."

Discussing the suspension of the Williams chapter from Phi Delta Theta, Hinsey declared that the suspension would be reviewed at the national convention this year. He emphasized the fact that a three-fourths vote of all the chapters is needed to permanently suspend a fraternity and he doubted that such a majority would be gained.

In an article in the Cornell Daily Sun, Hinsey said he was opposed to suspending from the campus all fraternities having discriminatory clauses.

"I think it wrong for the University to come out with an order, either do this or else," he declared. Backing the Interfraternity Council's approach to the problem of discrimination by eliminating from within, he called it "methodical and objective rather than emotional."

Myers, Zuckerman To Go To Boston Debate Meet

Carolina debaters Ken Myers and Bill Zuckerman will go to Boston this weekend for the seventh annual Boston Intercollegiate Debate Tournament.

Dr. Norman W. Mattis will be the adviser to the Boston bound debaters.

Grail Offers Senior Invites In Four Styles

Senior invitations to graduation will go on sale from March 3 through March 6.

The Order of the Grail is sponsoring the sales which will be held in the Y court from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on these four days.

Four types of invitations are going on sale this year. The first type is a Dutch folder without the senior roll. It sells for 20 cents each, three for 50 cents, or six for $1.

The second type is a cardboard invitation containing the senior roll, pictures of certain University officials, campus scenes and the senior class committees. These are selling for 35 cents each.

The imitation leather invitations with the same contents as the second type are selling for 60 cents. Genuine leather invitations are avialable with the same material as the second and third types for 75 cents.

The Grail urged seniors to buy their invitations early and avoid the last minute rush.

Carolina Band Will Perform Here Tonight

The University Band, under the direction of Dr. Earl Slocum, will give a concert in Hill Hall tonight at 8:30.

There will be no admission and the public is invited.

Lloyd Bostian, Raleigh, and Tish Harrer, Chapel Hill, flutists, and James Headlee, Asheville, clarinetist, will be featured soloists in the presentation of Handel's "Concerto Grosso" which has been transcribed by Don Malin for two solo flutes, solo clarinet, and band.

The program will also include the Suite of Old American Dances, a composition recently composed for band by Robert Russell Bennett.

Other numbers will be Wagner's "Invocation of Alberich" from Rheingold, Gustav Holst's Second Suite in F, Adagio from Symphony No. 2 by Schumann, and Franck's Symphonic Poem, "Psyche and Eros."

DR. EARL SLOCUM

Welfare Head Here

The local branch of the American Association of University Women is sponsoring an address tonight by Dr. Ellen Winston, state Commissioner of Public Welfare.

Dr. Winston is also Director of the State Legislative Council.

Interested persons are invited to attend the lecture which begins at 8 o'clock in the Pharmacy building.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. — Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Honest Harold

"An honest mistake" whinned Rep. Harold Velde in admitting the first big blunder of his probe into Communist infiltration of American colleges.

The "mistake" was an assertion by Velde that someone who had criticized his probe policy was the author of a letter published in the Russian newspaper Pravda. The charge was proved to be a lie and Velde blithely dismissed the matter.

This is the man who is setting himself up as a judge of what is and what is not truth in our educational institutions.

His cohort will be Senator Jenner who once flagrantly hurled charges of un-Americanism at Gen. George Marshall. Congressional branches have set up probe units but the House committee, with Velde as chairman, claims it will "bear the burden" for most of the campus investigations. However Sen. Jenner, as chairman of the Senate Internal Security Committee, has already begun hearings in New York.

Rep. Velde says criticism of his plans to clean up our colleges is coming from "those groups who are afraid of being probed."

The myopic-minded Senator probably couldn't be made to realize that we fear his intrusion on our campuses and in our classrooms for quite another reason. Most people just plain don't like the idea of having a pathetically unqualified person sit in as arbiter on what is American and what is un-American in our schools.

Indeed, the probe itself stands out as the most un-American aspect of the whole affair.

Velde says he believes that "it's a lot better to wrongly accuse one person of being a Communist than to allow so many to get away with such Communist acts as have brought us to the brink of World War III."

Would we have been farther from World War III if we had voted to end the European Recovery Program, as Jenner did; if we had voted down the move to arm the Atlantic Pact Nations, as Jenner did, or if we had followed his urging not to send troops to Europe in 1951?

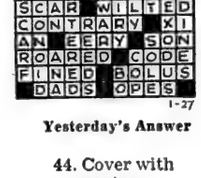
What about Velde's opposition to the Korean Aid Act and his continued efforts to cut Atlantic Pact, MSA and portions of Point 4 aid? This is not to say these records imply un-Americanism, but neither do they indicate the keen judgment and insight which these textbook Sherlocks will need for their job.

Fast Action Helps Out

We like action, fast action, that is.

And that's what happened as soon as the Saturday class-semester system enforcement policy broke upon us. The deans of the different schools are to be commended for rolling up their sleeves and getting down to business immediately.

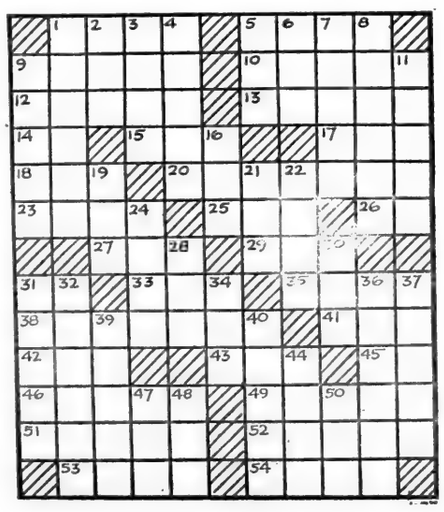
Most students weren't sure of what the semester system would do to them. The only thing they were sure of was the reactionary move made by the Board of Trustees and seconded by the administration to give us Saturday classes.



Yesterday students got an opportunity to find out about the semester system. They were assured that there would be a limit to quirks, loss of credits, and general hardship in the switchover from three quarters a year to two semesters a year.

The news that students will be given special advisory time to cope with the problems presented by the institution of the semester system is easy on the ears. What could have been a mild disaster, encompassing growing discontent among students, has been averted.

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Bottle stopper
5. Eldest son of Noah
9. Article of virtu
10. Ancient district in Asia Minor
12. Rub out
13. One of ten equal parts
14. District Attorney (abbr.)
15. Old times (archaic)
17. Indian (Bolivia)
18. Luzon native
20. Device that measures time
23. Trust
25. Born
26. Lord (abbr.)
27. Plead
29. Evening sun god (Egypt.)
31. Part of "to be"
33. Web-footed bird
35. A whiff
38. Longed for
41. Extinct bird (N. Z.)
42. Land-measure
43. Breach
45. Music note
46. Employs
49. Part of a coat front
51. Steps over a fence
52. Levels
53. Chair
54. Dispatched

DOWN
1. Rector's assistant
2. Openings (anat.)
3. Ascend
4. Cuckoos (Australia)
5. Perch
6. Garden tool
7. Boredom
8. Resembling a miter
9. Pinaceous tree
11. A hold (dial.)
16. Demand payment
19. White linen vestment (Eccl.)
21. Snare
22. Profound
24. Period of time
28. Firearm
30. Silent
31. Nurses (Orient)
32. Deserves
34. Cask
36. Instigate
37. Disappoints
39. Eagle's nest
40. Secluded valleys
44. Cover with paving
47. Guido's highest note
48. Place
50. Enclosure

1-27

Yesterday's Answer

Louis Kraar

Party Line

BACK ROOM STUFF: The four way battle for the Student Party's vice - presidential nomination started last weekend in dorm bull sessions and ended in the halls of Graham Memorial during the nominating session.

Bill Brown, Wade Matthews, Henry Lowet and Baxter Miller visited the party members over the weekend in the dorms. Persistent Lowet was still going strong at midnite Sunday. Matthews and the others visited many that night too.

Miller, called a darkhorse by some SP's, got the votes though. The Student Party couldn't have compromised with a more carefully chosen candidate. But why so many speeches?

MURPHY MUSES: Dick Murphy, for years a cog in student government and now president of the National Student Association, came back to Chapel Hill this week for the NSA conference. Murphy said that he felt Carolina would support NSA in a referendum.

UP PICKS: University Party politicos seem to be able to make shorter speeches. When extolling the virtues of a candidate, a speaker will receive a lot more attention from his audience if he's brief. And the "business at hand," as they say, will be taken care of quicker.

VOTE APPEAL: Newest twist in getting nominations is getting an attractive coed to vouch for the candidate's "vote appeal to the coeds." It may not persuade too many dyed-in-wool politicians but it sure brightens up the humid aired, smoke filled meetings.

LOWET'S LULL: Rarely has there been a more enthusiastic bid for a post than Henry Lowet's. He had enough speakers for seven banquets who alone said enough words to fill this reporter's notebook. And they all had such new cliches too.

POUNDING THE BEAT: Ed Starnes picked to run for one of the Publication's Board seats. . . . Bob Colbert, managing editor of the Yack, interested in running for editor . . .and who are all those strange faces at party meetings during nominations?

Alice Chapman

On Other Campuses

WSSF, WSSF, and more WSSF was sprinkled all over newspaper columns last week.

To those unitiated into the language of initials, WSSF signifies the World Student Service Fund—an organization that does everything from clothing students in bombed Germany to providing a warehouse dormitory for Italian students.

The Campus Chest at Carolina will provide WSSF with a portion of the total it receives in the March drive for funds. But drives for the organization in other colleges have already netted a tidy sum to send world-wide. The University of Chicago gained $500 in its first week of contribution. The mid-western institution set $2,500 as a goal for their student-to-student giving.

WSSF secretaries from Germany, from Japan, and the national officers are touring the country to enlist student support for education abroad. Not the least of these visitors is Makoto Fujita who was loaned to the University of Hawaii by WSSF. On a scholarship from the organization, Makoto knew exactly what he was talking about in requesting $1,850 from the University.

* * *

As of the past week 19 is an undesirable age for any North Carolina male. All 19-year-olds at the University of California share that feeling because this month the draft boards got the word that 19-year-olds were ripe for picking. And the draft boards are picking!

* * *

As Dan Duke theorized and concluded on race and religion, as Controller Carmichael begged for more funds for NC College to keep Negroes in Durham, as brotherhood week drew to an end, Northwestern was blowing up a storm of attitudes and prejudices of its own. The inter-dorm council recommended that the administration assign roommates "without reference to race." This means that in independent housing units Negro and white students will live together. A minority protesting this plan will be respected and their names not placed on the housing list to be assigned irrespective of creed, race, or color. The plan is effective this semester.

* * *

The Oregon Daily Emerald, having no pet gripes about rah, rah spirit in basketball games, did a biting editorial on "the costumes of the yell leaders." The column describes the cheer leaders as wearing "loose, smock-type sweaters that hang nearly to the knees like old-style nightshirts (virtually the same architecture); and shoes one naturally suspects of having been donned for shoveling fertilizer or milking an obsteperous goat." The editorial reminded the rally troupe that it represented a few thousand students when they chose to look like models in a bargain basement.

* * *

The State of Iowa is poverty-stricken—at least the State College thinks so. The proposed state budget is skimping and pinching pennies like a needy miser. No money for new state buildings anywhere in the state for two years, no funds for professors' raises, no chance of educational television, and no raise of taxes to alleviate the situation. The Iowa State paper writes, "one would expect starving children to be holding out begging bowls in the streets and hungry farmers to be grazing our over dry, parched, worthless land."

Express Yourself

Editor:

One thing has me most perplexed:
The DTH is over-sexed.
Its pages filled with buxsom women
In fewer clothes than one wears swimmin'.
Perhaps the men enjoy such sights,
But ain't the coeds any rights?
And one more thing I want to know
What do you owe that gal Monroe?

Janie Bugg

"It's Not Customary, Mr. Wilson"

Chuck Hauser

Tar Heel At Large

SAN FRANCISCO—As far as I'm concerned, you can strike the match for Frisco Fire Number Two anytime you're ready.

This is the most sprawled-out, the most up-and-down, the most mountainous, and the most dirty city I have ever set eye or foot on. It's not friendly; it's not hospitable and it's definitely not a Tar Heel type of town.

Frisco is good for a day of sight-seeing and a night of partying and then it's all washed up.

For sight-seeing, I recommend the cable cars. They're antiquated trolleys with open sides that people hop on and off with a careless abandon that would strike terror into the heart of any normal traffic cop, but occasions not even a frowning glance from San Francisco's Finest.

I rode the cables for several hours in the afternoon. I'd hop on one line, ride it for a round-trip, and hop another. I saw the whole town that way, from Fisherman's Wharf to Chinatown.

For partying, all the tourists go to the Top-O'-The-Mark for at least one snort. It's not worth it. If you're smart, you'll get a bottle and go back to the hotel.

San Francisco is a marvelous place to commit suicide, whether you're planning on it or not. Just step out into any street at almost any time, and at least one or two cars will do their best to cut you down. And if the cars don't get you, there's always a cable car bugging down the hill which will handle the job.

If you're looking for good food, almost any place down on Fisherman's Wharf will fix you up. There are a number of restaurants down there where you can select the crab or lobster you want to eat while he's red hot and red as the Ace of Hearts.

If you're a hot-shot with a Kodak 35, there's always Alcatraz and the Golden Gate Bridge to fill your lens, and if you're a maritime fanatic, you can watch the ships and fishing boats come and go to your satisfaction.

And if you're like me, you'll be ready to move on at the end of the first day.

Next stop on the road to Triangle Hill: Camp Stoneman, California.

English Club

Catechism

Written upon reading that the Commission of Ten of the Orange Presbytery had unanimously recommended the dismissal of the Reverend Charles M. Jones.

How many Pharisees stood apart
When Jesus healed Magdalen's heart?
More than ten. More than ten.

How many Chosen passed in their pride
The hated Samaritan on the wayside?
More than ten. More than ten.

How many Scribes found how many flaws
In Jesus' regard for ancient laws?
More than ten. More than ten.

How many money-men hated the more
For overthrown tables and cash on the floor?
More than ten. More than ten.

How many pieces of silver were paid
When (with a kiss) He was betrayed?
More than ten. More than ten.

What was the number of those who bore
Charges to Pontius Pilate's door?
More than ten. More than ten.

When force had won, and He was gone,
In how many hearts did He live on?
More than ten.

Yr Mst Abt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
DISCIPULUS

John Gibson

Once Upon A Time

Once upon a time there was a rabbit named Elmer. As a boy Elmer was a very smart rabbit, and right after high school he got a scholarship to go to college. This was very fortunate, because it not only offered him a chance to learn more, but kept him out of a big stew that many young male rabbits were getting sucked into at the time. In college Elmer studied very hard, and soon he became a graduate rabbit, which meant he was too smart to study with the other rabbits, but not smart enough to teach them. It was at this time that Elmer learned he would have to specialize if he wanted to become an expert, which was, of course, the aim of every graduate rabbit.

Elmer discovered that all rabbit knowledge was divided into two areas. The first was the study of the tops of carrots, with an emphasis upon the importance of sunlight. This was called greenology. The other area was a study of the roots of carrots and the affect of rain upon them. This was the science of rootology. Elmer chose the first field, greenology, because his major professor was one of the leading proponents of this field.

Elmer then got down to real work, and studied very hard and wrote many articles, which some how or other were always printed under the name of one of his professors. He dated often in his free time (you know rbabits) and once even got to see two movies in a single quarter. He joined all the proper professional societies, and one day his advanced standing was recognized when he was investigated by a congressional committee.

One day after completing a very interesting paper about greenology, Elmer took the document to his major professor. However, he was out of town on a lecture tour, so Elmer asked some other professor to read it. Unfortunately, he made the mistake of giving the work to a rootologist. This wise rabbit studied the paper very carefully, and then told Elmer, "Well, son, this is a very interesting piece of work, but of course it is useless." Elmer was very disturbed, and asked why. "Well," went on the authority," everybody who is anybody knows that rootology is the only real science, the only real discipline that will ever yield any useful information. Greenology is all right for folks who have nothing better to do, but it is really pretty much a waste of time. Everybody knows that the only significant part of a carrot is the piece that you eat."

Elmer was very disturbed, as you can imagine, and when his professor returned he went to him and told him the whole story. "You must not be disturbed," said this old sage. "rootologists talk a lot, they have too, because they never really come up with anything interesting. You stick with me, boy, and I will see that you are president of THE SOCIETY some day."

Elmer was a little reassured by this talk, but it started him thinking. (This is perhaps the most fatal mistake one can make.) Can it be, thought Elmer, that both the top and the bottom of a carrot are important. Might not the sun affect both the greens and the root, and might not the amount of rain have importance to the whole plant. This seemed like a pretty good idea to Elmer, so he wrote a paper about it, and gave one copy to his own professor, and one to the rootologist. Well, you can imagine what happened.

For the first time in their lives, the rootologists and the greenologists got together, and even more amazing they came to a common decision. Elmer would have to be liquidated.

They would have done it, too, but they could not agree on a method.

SC Swim Meet At Raleigh Tonight

Down In Front

by Biff Roberts

Whoopee!!

WE'RE IN! WE'RE IN! WE'RE IN! After being barred from the Southern Conference tournament door for the past two years Carolina's basketball team is assured of being one of the great eight when the annual tournament starts next Thursday. When Maryland, our Maryland, upended George Washington Tuesday night we, along with Duke's Blue Devils, mathematically clinched a spot in the tourney. We've still got tomorrow's game with Duke to go but the outcome of it can affect only our position in the standings. We can be no lower than eighth.

When the Terps beat George Washington you could hear a lot of talk about the Tar Heels "backing in," something which grates me a good bit. It's the same thing in baseball. A player pulls a boner in one of the final games and his club loses the pennant. Everybody blames him, not stopping to look back at a game in mid-July in which the star outfielder botched the works and the club lost. Both games were lost, both games kept the team from winning the pennant, but the only one which was remembered is the one late in the season.

Backing In The Front Door

THAT'S WHAT BURNS ME about this "backing in" talk. We beat N. C. State and Wake Forest earlier in the year. Certainly winning those two games had a good bit of bearing on our making it into the tournament, not to mention the nine straight we won before losing a Southern Conference game. As it turned out the whipping Maryland handed the Generals was the final clincher. It was not until then that we were definitely assured of a place in the tournament. But the fact remains that the team won 15 games. If the Tar Heels hadn't done that then the Terps' victory wouldn't have meant a blessed thing to us.

With the inclusion of the Tar Heels and the Blue Devils seven of the eight tournament teams have been assured of positions, State, Maryland, Wake Forest, West Virginia, and Furman being the others. George Washington and Richmond will have to go for the remaining spot and the Spiders are already assured of at least a tie for the position. Both teams will have to play weakened but still treacherous William and Mary. If GW wins and Richmond loses then we'll have a tie for the eighth spot. Otherwise Richmond will be the choice. If a tie results the two teams will play off that in Raleigh next Wednesday.

The Devils You Say

BUT AS FAR AS Tar Heel fans are concerned this game with Duke tomorrow night still means a good deal. If we lose to the Blue Devils then we'll wind up as the eighth team in the tournament and will have the pleasure of meeting the Wolfpack in the first round. If we win then we'll hold our present fifth-place position and the Blue Devils will be relegated the hot eighth seat.

The game will have a tremendous bearing on the standings in the Big Four, too. Both State and Wake Forest have finished their Big Four seasons with 3-3 records. We now stand at 2-3 and Duke at 3-2. If Duke wins then they will be the undisputed Big Four champs. But if the Tar Heels win then there'll be a four way tie for first place and nobody will be left out in the cold. It's been quite a race—for a change.

This matter of position means a lot to us and although we don't have to depend on the win over Duke to make the tournament anymore a victory would certainly enhance our tournament chances. If Duke and State were to lock in the opening-round game, anything could happen. Duke, despite its upset loss to William and Mary the other night, is still one of the hottest clubs in the Conference right now. Enough has been said about State to know how they stand. Having either of the two out of the way would be a blessing. So it appears that this final game of ours will be an important one nevertheless. If we can get another good game out of big Paul Likins, such as the ones he played against Wake Forest and State in our wins over them, then there's no reason we can't win. When he is on Likins is as effective rebounder as you could want to see.

Poor George Washington

WHILE WE ARE CHEERING our entrance into the tournament we still must bow to a little irony which will probably keep one of the best teams in the Conference on the outside. This George Washington team, whose loss to Maryland Tuesday night so graciously clinched a spot for us, should by all rights, except the standings, be one of the teams in the tournament. How they lost six league games I'll never know, except that they played the best to be played. Two of their losses were close ones to State, another an overtime loss at Wake Forest (which is a moral victory, considering the comparative success of other teams at Gore Gymnasium), still another was a loss at Duke (after the Generals had rolled up the worst defeat handed Duke in recent years earlier in the season), and then that final loss to Maryland, a stingy defensive club which again had th advantage of playing on its home court. But that's the way scheduling works toward a Conference tournament such as ours. He who has the lightest schedule shall find himself in Raleigh come March 5-7, or some such Confucion like that.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, Chi Psi 1 vs. Sigma Chi 2; field 2, Sigma Chi 3 vs. PiKA 1.

5:00—Field 1, Beta vs. DKE 2; field 2, SAE 1 vs. PiKappa Phi 1.

Today's Table Tennis

4:00—Zeta Psi 1 vs. Sigma Nu 1.
4:30—Chi Phi 1 vs. Kappa Sig 1.
5:00—SPE 3 vs. PiKA 1.
5:30—ATO 1 vs. Sigma Nu 2.
7:00—Med School 1 vs. Alexander.
7:30—Med School 2 vs. Med School 3.
8:00—Ruffin vs. Med School 4.

Tickets Left

Plenty of tickets are available for the basketball game Friday night with Duke and may be purchased at the box office of the Duke Indoor Stadium.

The price of the tickets for a Carolina student with an ID card is $2.00.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

FRENCH IN 20 LESSONS—COMplete Cortina set of 12-inch records with lesson book, reading manual and dictionary. A good way of learning French. $40. Write H. S. Milligan, Box 156, Windsor, N. C.
Charge 1 x 1

HELP WANTED 8

WANTED: CLERK STENOGRAPHER GS 3 rating 3,000 per annum. Apply NROTC Armory Phone 7246.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

MEN: LOOKING FOR A GOOD Summer job, requiring lots of brain, not too much brawn? I'm going to the Army so somebody can have my place. See Dorman Cordell Thursday or Friday at 206 Vance St. or call 7871 before 9 p.m. NC—Staff

1500 Meter Event Opens Annual Meet

By John Hussey

The Southern Conference championship swimming meet begins at the Frank Thompson Pool in Raleigh tonight with the swimming of the 1500 meter freestyle race. This is the only event that will take place today.

Swimming for the Tar Heels in the 1500 will be sophomores Larry Shannon and Tommy Gill. Shannon placed third in this event last year behind UNC's Donnie Evans and N. C. State's Frank Nauss. Nauss will probably swim in it again this year. He won the event last year and if he does swim, will be favored to take it again.

There will be no official point totals because the SC championship is decided on a basis of won-lost records in dual meet competition. However, the unofficial team totals will be kept.

The Tar Heels will be hampered in the team totals by the fact that there will be no high board diving. Joe Kelso won this event last year and would have been a favorite to repeat. However, the one meter diving will b held. Top contenders for this title along with Kelso will be Bill Edwards of Virginia and Bill Stenberg of State.

There is a possibility that every one of the thirteen records that are now standing may be broken this year, for both State and Carolina boast their strongest teams of all time.

The only marks which are not in too much jeopardy are the 200 yard backstroke set by Jimmy Thomas of UNC in 1951, the 1500 meter freestyle, also set by Thomas, and the 150 yard individual medley record set by Bob Mattson of State last year. All of the other records have been bettered this year by either State or Carolina in dual meets.

Mainstays of the Carolina team that has just finished its third consecutive undefeated season will be Buddy Baarcke, Jack Edwards, Stan Tinkham, Barry Wall, Buddy Heins, Warren Heeman, Smith Jewell, Bob Linker, Kelso, Gill, Shannon, and Evans.

Mural Swim Finals Set For Tonight

Finals of the Intramural swimming meet will be held starting at 8:15 tonight in Bowman Gray jool with Phi Delta Theta, the defending champion, expected to be given strong competition by SAE and Phi Gamma Delta.

The events in the order they will be held.

25 yard Free Style—Smith (Phi Gam), Hudson (Joyner), Pless (DKE), McMillan (SAE), Bond (Sig Nu) Barwick (Phi Gam), McAllister (Sig Chi) and Colson (PiKA).

50 yard Breast Stroke—Merritt (Sig Nu), Vance (SAE), Colson (PiKA), Smith (Phi Gam), Allison (Phi Delt) Tettlebach (Beta), Pell (SAE).

100 yard Free Style—Dawes (Phi Kap Sig), Hicks (Sig Nu), Ray (Joyner), Ragland (Sig Nu), Wettach (SAE), Craven (Phi Gam).

50 yard Back Stroke—Middleton (Sig Chi), Hamrick (Sig Nu), Baker (Phi Delt), Houghton (Kap Sig), Page (Phi Delt), Gilman (Phi Gam), Clark (DKE).

50 yard Free Style—Irvin (Beta),

(See MURAL SWIM, page 4)

Emerson Hogs Dorm Semis; Both Teams Move To Finals

By Biff Roberts

Strictly an Emerson affair, you might say. That's about what the finals of the dorm division of intramural basketball will amount to this afternoon.

Both Emerson teams won in the semifinals yesterday and it will be roommate against roommate this afternoon for the dorm title.

In one of the closest games of the playoffs Emerson 1 came from way back to top Med School 4, 33-30, yesterday. In the other game Emerson 2 had an easier time, waltzing over Winston 2, 59-35.

Emerson 1 was behind 23-15 at halftime but after the resting period came back to go ahead, 26-25, picking up 11 quick points while holding the medics to two.

Med School threatened later and regained the lead at one point late in the second half but Emerson again rallied and froze the game away with the three point margin of victory.

Doug Fincannon with 11 and Harry Lloyd with 10 paced the winners but Smitty Lineberger was high man for the day with 15 points on seven field goals and a free throw. Following Lineberger for the doctors was Bill White with six.

Emerson 2 took over Winston from the start and except for a brief lapse early in the second half had the game under complete control all the way.

Lettermen Meet Tonight; Sweaters In

The Monogram Club will hold its weekly meeting tonight at 7:15 in the club room. All members are asked to attend and wear their letter sweaters.

Sweaters for fall letter winners have arrived, club president Harry Pawlik announced yesterday, and may be picked up at the Carolina Sport Shop.

All fall letter winners who have not picked up their certificates may do so be seeing Pawlik at the meeting tonight or at his room at 106 Emerson.

Carolina Caravan

Fetzer's Experience Is Established Success

By Jake Wade

The first Southern Conference Indoor Games were held in Chapel Hill in 1930. It was a good sports year here. Carolina's 1929 football team, with its "million backs" had just whisked through a gaudy season. There was joy on the campus.

When the original home of the Indoor Games, the now venerable and drafty Tin Can, was being outfitted with a running track, jumping pits and other strange interior accessories for "Coach Bob" Fetzer's bold and brave experiment, Carolina students were still talking about Johnny Branch, Ray Farris, Jim Magner, Strud Nash, Jimmy Ward, Yank Spaulding, Pot Adkins and assorted other Tar Heel sports heroes of the autumn.

In 1930, when the Indoor Games came into existence as something new in the tobacco, cotton and hominy belt, "Coach Bob" already was firmly established as the "Dean of Southern track." Carolina's quiet spoken Athletic Director, Dixie's biggest man in a still infant sport in this area, was blazing a trail. He wanted to create new interest in the branch of athletic activity closest to his heart. He wanted to take the yawn out of running, jumping, hurdling and heaving curiously shaped objects. He had the answer in the Indoor Games.

Twenty-Three Years Ago

In 1930, "Coach Bob" Fetzer already had turned out Carolina's first All-America athlete, and that worthy wasn't a football player. He was Gallen Elliott, a great, strong distance runner. He was a Fetzer man, a son of the cinders.

Jim Ashmore (remember him?) was coaching basketball at Carolina the year the Indoor Games were founded. It wasn't too good a team. But Burgess Whitehead, Henry House and Jimmy Maus were on his baseball team the following spring and they were athletes of outstanding talent. Lumbering but hard hitting Add Warren, symphonic Archie Allen and the smooth Noah Goodridge, the latter with plans to enter the ministry, were members of Carolina's lusty boxing team. All were skilled with left jabs and robust with stirring rights.

Fred Stallings was captain of Chuck Quinlan's wrestling team. Dale Ranson, even that far back, coached Carolina's cross country team and Cliff Baucom was one of his stars. Carolina's Bitsy Grant that spring would become acclaimed as the country's greatest college tennis player under the tutelage of Coach John Kenfield.

In those days, Kenfield also coached golf. Charlie Chatham was his 1930 captain and Erwin Paxton, the Charlotte Cannoneer with the mighty competitive heart, was not come along until the next spring. Many golfers still played in knickers. A few students still wore them on the campus.

Other Memories

In 1930, when "Coach Bob" Fetzer launched his first "Millrose Games of the South," Premier Yuko Hamaguchi resigned his entire cabinet to Emperior Hirohito at Tokyo. The following fall the late O. Max Gardner would watch his son, Ralph, play center on the Carolina freshman football team.

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase was president of the University. "Bo" Shepard, who later would become a distinguished basketball coach, and then a professor with a doctorate, was director of intramural athletics "Chuck" Erickson, now Athletic Director, at that time was one of Collins' "million backs," a senior, an A.T.O., and a member of the track team.

Washington and Lee won the first Southern Conference Indoor Games which, incidentally, were a success from the first year. After that the conference title never went out of North Carolina until last year, when Maryland triumphed. Coach Fetzer's Tar Heels have won 12 times, Duke three times. In 1943 the event, due to the vicissitudes of war, became the Southern Invitation Games. Carolina won. Navy took the diadem in 1944, North Carolina Pre-Flight in 1945 and then the Tar Heels were victorious the next three years. In 1949 the Games went back under Southern Conference

(See CARAVAN, page 4)

DANZIGER'S

TODAY'S MENU

HOMEMADE CREAM OF MUSHROOM SOUP ____ $ .20

SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES

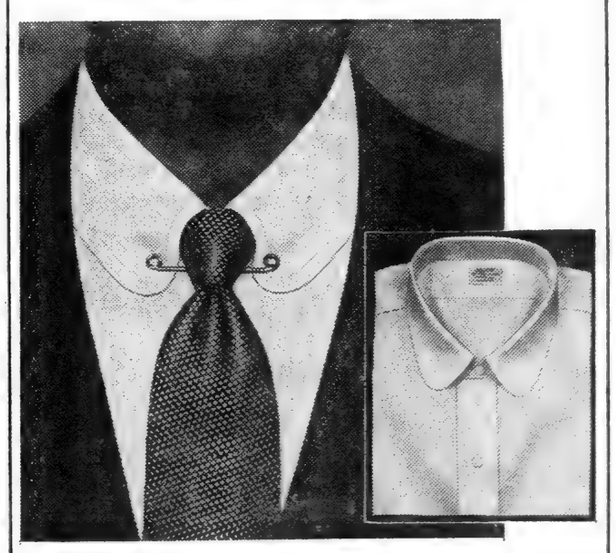
CREOLE WIENER served with baked beans, lettuce and tomato ____ $ .60
MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with spaghetti and salad ____ .50
VEAL RAGOUT served on rice ____ $ .85
SMOTHERED CHICKEN with eggnoodles and vegetable ____ .90
HUNGARIAN PORKCHOP with eggnoodles and vegetable ____ .90
ITALIAN RISOTTO served with tomato sauce and grated cheese ____ .80
SMOKED PORKIES with sauerkraut and potatoes ____ .85
WIENER SCHINTZEL with potato salad and vegetable ____ 1.25

. . . your choice served with bread, butter and salad

THE UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT Suggests The Ideal Way To Spend An Evening With Your Date . . .

Cool Sounds
By J. DUKE and His Combo
8:30-10:30 Tonight

IMPORTED & DOMESTIC BEER
UNUSUAL SNACKS
PLEASANT ATMOSPHERE



You Will Dig This Place The Most

DUKE PLAYERS
PRESENT . . . .
FERNEC MOLAR'S
THE GLASS SLIPPER
Branson Hall East Campus
TICKETS AT DANZIGER'S
March 11, 12, 13 14 8:15

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT-
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Entire Student Body Agrees New Arrow Radnor Is "Hit!"

New Rounded-Point Collar, Small-Knot Tie, Smart Campus Style Note

The rounded-point collar is rapidly winning new converts among well-dressed collegians. Most popular of these new shirts is Arrow Radnor.

ARROW SHIRTS

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

STUDENTS If you liked "Brave Bulls"— See this one!

T-O-D-A-Y Varsity

MEN!

Have you seen our Early Spring Arrivals? If not, come in TODAY. You can depend on our complete selection of quality clothing and furnishings for everything you need—just as you can depend on us for swift, courteous service and moderate prices.

BILLS MAILED HOME

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

ARROW SOLD AT
VARLEY'S MEN SHOP

Naval Aviation

Lt. J. A. Henning will be at the Naval Armory from 9:30 on this morning to interview males interested in the Naval Aviation Cadet training program.

If necessary, Lt. Henning will remain through tomorrow to accommodate those interested in the program.

—Loans—

(Continued from page 1)

get the job.

A breakdown of the statistics on loans shows that there have been 77 granted through January for a total of $42,640 which averages about $550 a loan. This seems to be a pretty large sum to lend a student, Lanier said, but most loans go to help boys through dental and medical school.

The funds are available at three percent interest on endorsed notes to students who are already enrolled in the University. In accordance with committee policy, first year students are not advised to borrow from the loan fund. The reasoning back of this is that students should not go heavily into debt when they have no prospect of paying back for several years.

Lanier said that in an average year loans will amount to approximately $65,000 for 150 students.

Scholarship, fellowship, and grant statistics show that 496 were given this year, exclusive of athletic scholarships, which do not come from University funds. The total scholarship-grant-fellowship amount given was $230,727.

The largest proportion of student aid comes in the form of self help jobs. This year there are 558 students working for a total amount of $329,145 in a wide variety of positions. Lenoir Hall employs 94 persons, the Carolina Inn 31, there are 21 dormitory managers and smaller numbers are employed in many other departments.

"He is rather nearsighted — but he never forgets the Angostura* in a Manhattan!"

ANGOSTURA®
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

P.S. Smart hosts use their heads when they use Angostura to bring out the true flavor of Manhattans and Old Fashioneds. Try Angostura in soups and sauces, too.

Teacher Probers Split On Methods

WASHINGTON—The House Un-American Activities Committee opened its investigations of colleges yesterday with its members sharply split over "persecution" of professors who flirted briefly with Communism in their youth.

Prof. Robert G. Davis of Smith College had admitted to the House Un - American Activities Committee that he joined the Communist Party in 1937 while teaching at Harvard.

Davis, balding and bestackled English teacher at the Northampton, Mass., girls school, said he quit two years later.

He began his testimony after Chairman Harold H. Velde, (R-Ill) said he could add "immeasurably" to the committee's work.

Two of four professors who testified at closed hearings last week were said to have told the committee that they joined the Communist party for a short time while undergraduates, but left when they "found out what it was all about."

Rep. Francis E. Walker (Pa.), the committee's ranking Democrat, said he had hoped the committee would not subject to public questioning the ones who admitted a "brief brush with the party years ago."

"It serves no purpose to get public testimony about things that occurred years ago and which the committee knows all about," he said.

SHOWN DURING testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee is William H. Withers, professor of contemporary civilization and economics at New York City's Queens College. Withers told the subcommittee, which is investigating alleged communism in the nation's schools, that the Red teachers do most of their damage after class hours by posing as idealistic leaders for students. —NEA Telephoto.

Selection Bill's Legality Tested By High Court

The Student Council tonight will rule on the legality of a new law designed to take nomination of its own members out of the hands of the political parties.

The law provides for a Selections Board to choose the candidates for the highest student government court rather than the political parties. The board would be composed of other courts plus two other members appointed by the president and vice-president.

Attorney-General Phin Horton (UP) asked for the ruling, according to Council President Ted Frankel.

John Ammons (SP) originally introduced the bill last month. It was vetoed by President Ham Horton a week later. An attempt to overrule the veto failed. Joel Fleishman, SP Floorleader, reintroduced the bill recently and it was passed.

President Horton's objections to the bill at the time of his veto were: (1) the bill involuntarily takes the nomination of Student Council members out of the hands of the parties, instead of working by mutual agreement like the Bi-Partisan Selections Board. (2) Independents do not have to appear before the board and are not bound by the law.

The final form of the law which is being contested provides for independents.

The Bi-Partisan Selections Board, which is used to choose candidates for the Honor Council, was set up under a "gentleman's agreement" between the two political parties. There is an equal number of representatives from each party on the board. If the parties decided they don't like the system, they can nominate individually.

This type plan has been suggested by opponents of the Student Council bill.

The Student Council rules on all cases which involve a question of constitutionality. Its decisions are final.

What Goes On Here

WIL Meeting

The WIL will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Raymond Adams will speak on "Threat to the UN." Everyone is invited.

Glee Club

The Women's glee club will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Doctor Speaks

Dr. Marion Hines, professor of experimental anatomy at Emory University, will give the second Ross Herman Jennings Bryson Memorial lecture at the clinic auditorium of N. C. Memorial Hospital tonight at 8 o'clock.

Lazy Literates

The Lazy Literate Committee of the YWCA will hear a talk by Dr. Howard Huse of the Department of Romance Languages this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Huse will speak in the Y lounge on "The Spiritual Significance of Dante."

WUNC

The following is today's program schedule for WUNC, a non-commercial FM radio station, operating on an assigned frequency of 91.5 mc. and 1450 watts:

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Let There Be Light.
7:45—Man and The Universe.
8—To be announced.
9—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Chest Solicitors To Hear Facts On 1953 Drive

Plans for the opening of the Campus Chest Drive on Monday will be completed for the most part tonight at a meeting of all solicitors in Gerrard Hall at 7 o'clock.

The meeting is being called for the purpose of familiarizing campaign solicitors with WSSF, UNESCO, CARE and Holland relief—the four fields the Campus Chest is sponsoring in its drive.

Stuart Jones, chairman of Campus Chest, will lead the discussion during the half hour meeting. Dean of Students Fred Weaver and Roy Holsten, his assistant, will speak briefly concerning the drive.

Fraternity and dormitory presidents who have not yet appointed solicitors for their dorm or house are asked to do so before the meeting in order that these solicitors might have a chance to attend also.

All sorority solicitors have been appointed and only three fraternities are yet to make appointments, TEP, Sigma Nu and Phi Kappa Phi.

Three women's dorms, McIver, Spencer and Kenan have not made appointments yet as well as 10 men's dorms. The men's dorms are Stacy, Graham, Lewis, Winston, Conner, Joyner, Mangum, Manley, Old West and Emerson Field.

Four solicitors are appointed for each dorm and one for each fraternity.

Kermit Philips yesterday released the solicitors appointed for the men's dorms as Glen Baughman, Bob Patterson, Wilbur Jones, Bob Kennedy, Steele; Rufus Hackney, Paul Scagnelli, Wis Washam, Wiley May, Ruffin.

Dick Wiggins, Joe Franklin, Billy Joe Johnson, Bill Carter, Maurice Norton, Joe Young, Craig Whitmire, Dale Tedder, Cobb; Chuck Limmerman, Shirrill Johnson, Marbin Ray Sides, Rupert Williams, Alexander.

Ken Collins, Elvery Lowry, John Hallett, Bob Hinshaw, Aycock; Tom Moore, H. L. Stephenson, Leonard Woodall, P. S. Dunn, Whitehead; Wade Mitchem, George Gordon, Bob Farrell, Harold Lugs, Grimes.

Wallace O'Neal, Ray Phillips, Wesley Thompson, Ray Shomfety, Battle - Vance - Pettigrew; Jimmy Daye, Cal Floya, Jerry Gulley, John Guilbert, Old East; Lorenza Clinard, Bob Barlowe, Beverly Webb, Bobby Wyree, Everett.

The solicitors for the fraternities and sororities as released by Fred Mewhinney are John Franch, Chi Phi; Bob Henley, Kappa Sigma; Al Bryant, Zeta Psi; Jim Warren, Theta Chi; Tom Ruffin, SAE; LeRoy Townsend, Phi Delta Theta.

Bob Eberle, Lambda Chi Alpha; Thelma Souder, Alpha Delta Pi; Mary Lowry, Pi Beta Phi; Kathy Newlin, Kappa Delta; Ron Strickland, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Burt Veazey, ATO; Eddie Wayne, Phi Kappa Alpha; Charles T. Hoyt, Phi Gamma Delta; Doug Young, Chi Psi; Henry Issacson, ZBT; Tom Curtis, Kappa Sigma; Charles Johnson, Phi Kappa Sigma.

Mary Jo Paul, Chi Omega; Anne Miller, Alpha Gamma Delta; John Baldridge, Beta Theta Pi; Charles Rodenbough, KA; Seymour Bates, Pi Lambda Phi; Ann Street, Tri Delta; Bill Wood, St. Anthony; Vardy Buckalew, DKE.

Barbara Burgess lists the dorm women solicitors as Mary Anderson, Janet Merritt, Sarah McCarther, Nurses Homes; Sue Hall, Lane Buchly, Bernie Hileman, Smith.

Joan Gant, Pat Turnbull, Betty Burch, Janet Cronwell Alderman; Lillian Kirstein, Margaret Mebane, Betty Parsons, Carr.

Books of Faith

for Lenten Reading . . .

Lenten reading need not be a gloomy chore. Here are some books from our religious section which we think you'll actually enjoy reading again when Lent has passed!

Our English Bible in the Making Dr. Herbert Gordon May, of the interdenominational committee which prepared the new Revised Standard Bible, gives us the fascinating story behind that great book. $2.75

The Silver Chalice—a deeply religious book and a current best seller, we think Thomas Costain's novel will prove worth-while reading. $3.85

Mere Christianity—C. S. Lewis has revised his earlier "Case for Christianity," "Christian Behavior," and "Beyond Personality," to produce a well-rounded statement of his faith. $2.75

You Can Believe—Dr. Frank Hanft, of the U. N. C. Law School, presents a book of faith which grew out of his popular lectures to young people. $2.75

Knight of the Burning Heart—In this new biography of John Wesley, the reader will meet a man of great faith and a burning desire for higher Christian achievement. $1.75

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

Hillel Foundation Lists Entries For Officers; Sets Feast Of Purim

At a nominations supper held at Hillel House Sunday night, the following slate was selected to stand for election March 2:

President, Henry Isaacson; for vice-president, Gary Levinson and Jack Goodman; for secretary, Art Barbanell and Etta Rose Mann, and for treasurer, Howard Zerden and Elliot Solomon.

Balloting will take place from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday. The new administration will assume responsibility for Hillel affairs, with the Spring Quarter.

The feast of Purim based on the story in the Book of Esther will be observed by the Jewish students, and residents of Chapel Hill, over the weekend.

Townfolk will hold a Purim Party Saturday night at Hillel House, while students will mark the occasion with a 'penny carnival' Sunday night.

The actual date of Purim is March 1. According to the Book of Esther, Purim has been celebrated since the days of Artaxerxes because a plot to destroy the Persian Jewish community was aborted. The principle behind the story and festival is that of freedom of worship.

—Mural Swim—

(Continued from page 3)

McMillan (SAE), Ray (Joyner), Pless (DKE), Dawes (Phi Kap Sig) Dann (Phi Delt), Pell (SAE).

Diving—King (SAE), Patterson (Joyner), Boyette (Sig Nu), Ragland (Sig Nu), Brumley (Sig Nu).

25 yard Back Stroke—Newcombe (SAE), Hamrick (Sig Nu), Baker (Phi Delt), Page (Phi Delt), Smith (Phi Gam) Homes (Phi Gam).

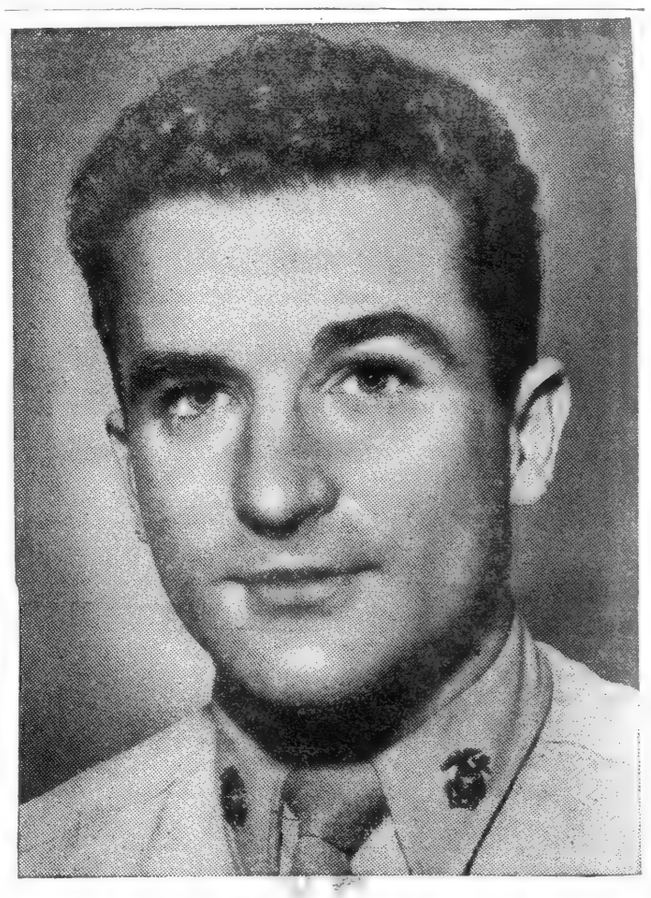
75 yard Individual Medley—Woods (Phi Delt), Allison (Phi Delt), Bond (Sig Nu), Colson (Pi-KA), Hudson (Joyner) Downing (Mangum).

150 yard Medley Relay—Beta, Phi Kap Sig, Sig Nu, Phi Delt, SAE, Sig Chi.

200 yard Free Style Relay—Phi Gam, SAE, Phi Delt, Sig Nu, Beta, Phi Kap Sig.

—Caravan—

(Continued from page 3)



sponsorship.

Many Great Stars

Over the long haul many brilliant track men have thrilled Indoor Games spectators—men like Corpening, Albans, Davis and Hubbard of Carolina; Widmyer, Kehoe and Underkofler of Maryland; Brownlee, Brown, Lach and Storey of Duke; Garrison of N. C. State; Hall of Florida, Fowlkes of Georgia Tech, Zimmerman of Tulane.

Fetzer Field has been built since 1930. It was named in honor of the man who has done more for Southern track, in his quiet and unostentatious way, than any other individual. Woollen Gymnasium also has been built since then and now houses the Games, which will be held Saturday night in the usual colorful setting and with a brilliant field on hand.

Mr. Fetzer is no longer a track coach, no longer the University Athletic Director, having resigned some months ago to become Executive Director of the Morehead Foundation. But he has consented to carry on in directing the Indoor Cames and you'll see him Saturday night, all over the place, keeping the business going. And you'll see a new crop of track stars, performing new and magnificent deeds on the long, winding boards and in the synthetic pits, as they write another chapter in a wonderful sports saga.

How Do You Thank "Somebody" For Blood?

Sgt. John Kehoe

U. S. Marine Corps, Finds the Answer at His Local Blood Donor Center

'I could see the corpsman kneeling over me. The blood plasma was running down through a tube into my arm and he said everything was going to be O. K. I was walking across an enemy mine field in Seoul when one exploded and a piece of shrapnel caught me in the leg.

"'Got enough of that stuff?' I asked him, pointing to the blood. 'I guess we never have enough,' he said, 'but you can thank somebody for this pint.'

"How do you thank 'somebody' for blood? For saving your life? When I got back home, I discovered the answer at my local blood donor center. There's only one way to say thanks—by giving some of your own blood."

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Who are the "somebodies" who give blood? All kinds of people—veterans, businessmen, farmers, clerks—everybody!

And why do they give blood? A refugee who lived through the bombing of Berlin knows "it could happen here." A graying mother who never forgets the day her daughter's party dress caught fire remembers "there just wasn't enough blood in our local blood bank to save her." An anxious father who is expecting a long overdue letter from his boy in Korea feels "he might need it."

Yes, all kinds of people give blood for all kinds of reasons. But whoever gives it—for whatever reason—this they can be sure of: As long as the priceless, painless gift of blood may mean the difference between life and death for any American anywhere . . . including you and me . . . the need for your blood is urgent!

★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★

GIVE BLOOD NOW
Call Your Red Cross Today!

Bloodmobile Will Be Here Soon

Bock Beer Is Here On Tap 20c

This Week's Casebeer At Cost—Special

Schlitz 4.17 plus tax

per case in cans—limit 1 per customer

For the Best In Food—Drink—Atmosphere

RATHSKELLER

WEDNESDAY—MARCH 11

ONE PERFORMANCE—8:30 P.M.

10th Anniversary Tour
World's Greatest Musical Hit!
Fresh as a Daisy and Gay as a Lark

THE THEATRE GUILD NATIONAL COMPANY OF OKLAHOMA!

A Musical Play based on "Green Grow the Lilacs"
by LYNN RIGGS
Music by RICHARD RODGERS
Book and Lyrics by OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN 2d
Production Directed by ROUBEN MAMOULIAN
Dances by AGNES de MILLE

Reproduced by Jerome Whyte
WITH A SUPERB BROADWAY CAST
Company of 75 Chorus—Ballet

Plus
A SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA OF 20

Advance Sale Tickets Now

Orchestra and Mezzanine	$4.20
Rear orches. and 1st Balcony	3.60
Second Balcony	3.00
Colored Mezzanine	1.80
Colored Balcony	1.20

PLEASE SEND SELF ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE

Carolina Theatre—Durham

JUST RECEIVED!

Spring

Sport Jackets
Slacks
Suit

DROP BY AND LOOK

THE TOWN & Campus

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Fair and mild with 55 high. Yesterday's high, 62; low, 39.

The Daily Tar Heel

VISITOR
He's back again and he's writing. See Campus Carousel, p. 4.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 104 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

72 Frosh Get Top Honors

TVA Chief Tells How Unit Helps

The numerous ways in which the Tennessee Valley Authority had helped revitalize the people in the Valley and reclaim the land were outlined here yesterday by W. M. Landess, chief of the Agricultural Exposition Unit of the TVA.

Landess was in Chapel Hill to deliver the annual Common Mooring Lectures under sponsorship of the Department of Health Education of the School of Public Health of the University of North Carolina. He spoke at the University Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, and each morning spoke at the North Carolina College in Durham.

The Mooring lectures were inaugurated in 1943 by the late Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan, former chairman of the TVA Board of Directors and president of the University of Tennessee, who was instrumental in shaping the resource development program of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The Common Mooring was the philosophy of Dr. Morgan who was the father of Dr. Lucy Shields Morgan, chairman of the University's Department of Health Education.

He believed that "the Common Mooring is found in the contributions of nature and the new values we create as we enrich the materials of the universe; every human personality developed to its highest possibility and allowed fullest expression in that creative service it is best capable of rendering."

Dr. Morgan delivered the lectures here until his death in 1950. Since then Landess has given them.

Landess pointed out that the TVA has sought to inspire the residents of the Valley to develop a spirit of teamwork "to meet the challenge to today's complex civilization."

This teamwork, which is evidenced by the transformation of the Valley in the 20 years of TVA, has resulted in a new "interdependence that puts farm communities and farm people on the same footpride in new abilities and new ways ing as their city neighbors; puts of doing things that give agriculture new dignity, farm people new opportunity, and city people a new realization of their dependence upon the land and their responsibility for working with farm families to improve and protect the ource of both rural and urban welfare."

These people have seen what the vast teamwork of dams, operated as one system but each with its own function, could do for a region that was in grave economic trouble in 1933 and is now one of the fastest growing regions in the country, Landess said.

"They are finding that new powers for more satisfying human existence can come from a unified approach to the problems of living—developing a working partnership with nature, giving each person and each family opportunity to contribute whatever each is best fitted to contribute in the proper relationship to the desires of the entire community," he said.

"At the same time," he added, "the individual finds that he loses none of his independence or individual dignity. Rather, like the system of dams where each gains in stature as in effectiveness by its working partnership with all the other segments of the gigantic system he finds greater opportunity to develop his particular talents and achieve new stature in contributing to the new effectiveness of the community, county, and region."

Landess believes that much of the trouble of the world could be resolved if this concept of interdependence, of oneness was shared by all the peoples of the world.

Nurses' Open House

Students are invited to attend open house at the Nurses' dormitory tonight from 7:30 to 10.

Another open house will be held for coeds at the dormitory tomorrow from 2 to 4 p.m.

CHICAGO PARK DISTRICT policeman James Duffy stands guard over a 17-year-old boy after wounding him in the hip. Police said the boy was shot when he attempted to escape after patrolmen halted the car he was driving. The car had been stolen.—NEA Telephoto.

Teaching Ignores Humanities Today

Any serious student of present educational trends is "obliged to recognize that the position of the humanities in contemporary colleges and universities has become pathetic."

That is the view of Dr. Arnold Nash, James A. Gray professor of the history of religion here, who this week delivered the Winter Quarter's faculty lecture in the Humanities in Gerrard Hall.

DR. ARNOLD NASH

Taking as his subject, "Can These Dry Bones Live?" Dr. Nash said "we who identify ourselves with the humanities may ceaselessly prate about the importance of the humanities but by so doing we do little more than give the impression of whistling to keep up our courage.

"Little more than two generations ago the humanities were central to the thought and the feeling alike of what happened, at any rate, at the worst, tolerated, and at the best ignored."

Dr. Nash told his audience "the ironic fact is that the humanities find themselves in their present position because their exponents have so often sought unconsciously rather than consciously to ape the natural sciences by the way in which they have worshipped 'objectivity.'

"Basically, we have ignored the fact that the humanities received their honored place in the early universities of the modern world not by building upon the ridiculous departmentalization of the contem-

(See TEACHING, page 4)

Life Magazine Exhibit Opens This Weekend

A new photographic exhibit, "1848", prepared by the editors of Life Magazine in their series of exhibitions on the history of Western Culture, opens this weekend in the Morehead Building. It will continue through March 7.

Depicting the crucial year of the 19th century which some historians have called "the turning point of history at which history didn't turn," "1848" consists of 24 large panels, including many rare pictures from the journalistic point of view. Some of the more unusual were obtained from 19th century periodicals and other sources contemporary with the period.

"1848" attempts to describe something of the complex nature of the events which culminated in that turbulent year.

The exhibition is divided into into five sections: England and Industrialism, France, Austria, Italy and Germany. The title panel is a reproduction in color of Delacroix's "Liberty Leading the People" and is followed by

(See LIFE, page 4)

Roger Ackerman Chosen New Chancellor Of TEP

Roger Ackerman of Wallace has been elected chancellor of Omega chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi for the coming year.

Other officers are: Murray Politis, Greensboro, vice-chancellor; Charles Friedman, Baltimore, Md., scribe; and Elliot Rose, Durham, Bursar.

Omega chapter has recently received an award from the national TEP headquarters in recognition of its consistent distinguished activity both on the campus and in the national fraternity.

Definition Of University's Mission Aim Of Conference Next Week

Defining the mission of the total University is the main goal of the first annual "State of the University Conference" to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday.

According to a Consolidated faculty memorandum from President Gray, it will be a "realistic work conference, dealing neither with minutiae nor with glittering generalities, but with such basic, concrete problems as the improvement of college teaching, the proper balance between research and teaching, student-faculty relationships, and the mission of the total University in the richer integration of the three institutions."

Working procedure in this "experiment in self-examination" will be as follows: The University's mission will be considered thoroughly by faculty committees from the three branches. During the two-day session President Gray and President A. Whitney Griswold of Yale will address the entire panel of approximately 150 faculty members.

The written findings of the various work sessions will be presented to Gray, who will reply with final appraisals of the conference.

Chairmen of the three Institutional Committees are Franklin H. McNutt of Woman's College, John W. Shirley of State College and B. L. Ullman of Chapel Hill.

Dr. Howard W. Odum is overall chairman of the conference. Arrangements and exhibits chairman is Russell M. Grumman of Chapel Hill.

In his letter to the three faculties Gray listed reasons for his calling the conference: "To have in mind a clear and workable conception of the mission of the total University is a matter of continuing concern to all of us.

"I have learned that such a clear conception is no less important to the faculty member who, giving his best in teaching, research or service to other scholars, requires, and is entitled to, a responsible and practical statement of what the total University is seeking to accomplish in all areas of its work.

"And, of course, it is the devoted faculty member who can contribute most in basic content, to stating clearly the lines that mark out the University's responsibilities to students, trustees and to the people of the State," Gray said.

Registration Required Of Voters For May 5 Election

In accordance with an ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen, a complete new registration of municipal voters will be held prior to the May 5 election.

Dr. Hugo Giduz, retired University French professor, was appointed registrar and Mrs. J. F. Crawford and Mrs. Irene Scroggs were named judges for forthcoming election. Books will be open from April 4 through April 25 every day except Sunday. The biennial election will cover the mayor, three aldermen and Recorder's Court judge.

CAMPUS SEEN

Pungent odors of pharmaceuticals emerging from Howell Hall.

*

Meek male slinking out of Dairy Bar seat after boisterous coed enters announcing, "I've just got to have a booth."

*

High school visitors to Morehead Planetarium impressed by campus beauty many take for granted.

J. C. Lyons Named President Of UNC Men's Faculty Club

Dr. J. Coriden Lyons, professor of Romance Languages in the University, has been elected president of the Men's Faculty Club at Chapel Hill. He succeeds Dr. James C. Andrews.

Other new officers are Earl Wynn, vice-president; Joseph Morrison, secretary, and Dean Henry P. Brandis, treasurer.

Holdover directors are Dr. Andrews, retiring president; Joel Carter, Earl Wynn and the new president. Dr. Lyons. Three new directors named are Dr. J. P. Harland and Secretary Morrison and Treasurer Brandis.

The club meets for a luncheon session at the Carolina Inn every other Tuesday.

DR. J. C. LYONS

EMLYN WILLIAMS, noted playwright and actor, is dressed as he will appear in his impersonation of Charles Dickens. He will be seen in Chapel Hill on March 7 in Memorial Hall. The program is being sponsored by the Playmakers and tickets may be obtained at their office in Swain Hall.

Report Depicts South Koreans' Study Difficulty

WSSF, in a report to the local Campus Chest board depicting the hardships of Korean students going to school in relocated universities, points out the privations and hardships of these students in the Republic of South Korea.

Driven from their buildings by the three battles for Seoul, many Korean university students from the National University, Chosen Christian University, and Ewha Woman's University among others, have found temporary shelter and facilities for study in the hills above Pusan.

There, in huts made from crating lumber, with dirt floors and windows without panes through which the cold wind whistles, in tents, in any kind of shelter which can be found, the process of teaching and learning goes on.

There are no dormitory facilities and no student restaurants. For many, lunch is a bowl of cold rice brought from home mixed with a bowl of hot water supplied by the school.

The woman's university there, Ewha Woman's University, is proud of its "campus in exile" made up of wooden barracks built with cheap crating lumber and tents. High on the six levels of a Pusan hillside, 1,500 young Korean women study in the colleges of liberal arts, education, fine arts and healing arts without heat and with little furniture and equipment.

Dr. Helen Kim, president of Ewha, in a letter to the World Student Service Fund reporting the existing conditions, said, "Our chapel-auditorium is undergoing major repairs, for its roof began to sag. We are bolstering it up with extra pillars and putting on a new roof made up of beer cans.

Twelve hundred students, including a few women, attend classes at another relocated university in the hills around Pusan, Chosen Christian University, which has also been moved from its original location in Seoul. Like Ewha, Chosen is housed in crude barracks with dirt floors.

Contributions from every region of America have already purchased CARE food and textile parcels now on their way to the educational institutions of Korea. The local drive is March 2-6.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL — Allied infantrymen knifed into Red lines and killed an estimated 197 Communists in sporadic predawn clashes along the bleak 155-mile Korean battlefront yesterday. Screening U. S. Sabre jets damaged two Red MIG's in a clash between four Sabres and four Russian-built fighters.

★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Stung by U. S. charges that Russia is prolonging the Korean war, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky worked yesterday on the reply he will make before the United Nations. Henry Cabot Lodge directly challenged Vishinsky to disprove a list of charges that Russia planned and instigated the aggression in Korea, and supplied the North Koreans and Chinese with jet planes, tanks, and heavy military equipment.

★

SAN FRANCISCO — Gen. James A. Van Fleet will begin his "leisurely" trip to Washington tomorrow where he will likely repeat his warning that if the United Nations lost Korea, "the Pacific Ocean would become a Communist Highway." "If Korea is lost Japan and the rest of Asia would follow suit," the former Eighth Army commander said yesterday.

★

NEW YORK — The New York Post said yesterday that funds raised in behalf of Vice-president Richard Nixon "were far more extensive than the $18,000 trust fund exposed during the presidential campaign." The newspaper said that in addition to the fund described by Nixon in his television broadcast during the campaign, there were at least two other funds handled in Nixon's behalf.

★

TORONTO — Canadian and American authorities yesterday investigated an alleged baby-adoption racket that police say may have arranged the smuggling of hundreds of infants into the U. S. in the past year. Authorities said that they have evidence that a black market in babies, in which infants were sold for $250 each, has been operating for the past year between Toronto and New York. At least 20 babies have been smuggled across the border from Toronto in the past year, police say.

★

DURHAM — The administration announced Wednesday the end of ceilings on aluminum, some steel products, copper, cigarets, and everything in the market basket except bread, coffee, and beer.

Initiated Into Phi Eta Sigma; Officers Picked

Seventy-two freshmen were initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman honorary scholastic fraternity, here recently.

To become a member a freshman must make A on at least half his courses and no less than a B on the other half. This average has to be maintained during the first quarter of his college career or maintain this average by the end of his freshman year.

The initiation ceremonies, presided over by Edwin Osborne Ayscue Jr., Monroe, president, were held in the Dialectic Senate Hall Wdnesday night.

Other old officers participating in the initiation were Gam Fat Jung, Charlotte, vice-president; Frederick Delmar Hamrick III, Rutherfordton secretary; Herbert Howard Browne Jr., Columbia, S. C., treasurer; Lyndon Ulysses Anthony, Greensboro, historian, and Dr. Ernest L. Mackie, faculty adviser. Candle bearers were John McNeely DuBose, Chapel Hill, and Kenneth Pruitt, Winston-Salem.

Manning Muntzing was chosen the new president of Phi Eta Sigma. Others elected were Vice President Marshall Newman, Secretary Gerald Daughtridge, Treasurer Richard Baker Jr. and Historian Frank Yates Jr.

The new members are Robert Davis Aldridge, Burlington; Harold Way Austin, Pine Bluff; Richard Henry Baker Jr., Greensboro; Job Oscar Belcher Jr., Norfolk, Va.; William David Benson, Washington, D. C.; Wilbur Malcolm Boice Jr., Whiteville; Richard Elliott Byrd Jr., Selma; Jerry Austin Campbell, Taylorsville; Leonard Stanley Clein, Winston-Salem; Benjamin McLaughlin Covington Jr., Wadesboro; Richard Scott Craddock, Cary.

Gerald Ruth Daughtridge, Rocky Mount; Henry Hursell Dearman, Statesville; Thomas Perrin Harrison Dunlop, Asheville; Harry Roberson Easterling, Bennettsville, S. C.; Lloyd Philip Farrar, Clemson College, S. C.; Richard Gordon Faw, Southern Pines; Herman Sender Fleishman, Fayetteville; Donald Owen Fowler, Winston-Salem; Evangelos Thomas Gavrillis, Weldon; Robert Lorenzo Green, Salisbury.

Wade Whitley Harrell, Cristobal, Canal Zone; Smethen Philip Harris Jr., Henderson; Oliver James Hart Jr., Winston-Salem; Richard Hunter Haywood, Charlotte; Seymour Herzog, New York, N. Y.; Gearge Wyckliffe Hoffler, Sunbury; David Lee Holder, Lewisville; Eric Andrew Jonas, Charlotte; Charles Jackson Katbenstein Jr., New York, N. Y.; William Ray Long, Marion; Daniel Rawls Luke, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Reginald Gladstone Mason Jr., Henderson; Lutz Leo Mayer, Greensboro; Thomas Owen Moore Jr., Winston-Salem; Stephen Andrew Moss, Kintnerville, Pa.

Lewis Manning Muntzing, Mooresville, W. Va.; Kenneth Franklin McCain, High Point; John Lewis McDaniel, Gibsonville; Paul James McDermott Sr., Chapel Hill; Peter Dillard McMichael Jr., Reidsville; Richard Vernon Neill, Fort Pierce, Fla.; Marshall Joseph Newman, Clinton; Owen Lennon Norment Jr., Asheville; Leroy Jerry Pearlman, Norfolk, Va.; Philip Eugene Penninger, Concord; Bobby Lewis Pugh, Asheboro.

Graham Henry Rights, Winston-Salem; Julian Wood Selig Jr., Elizabeth City, N. J.; Alexander Graham Shanks, Birmingham, Ala.; Charles Leed Sharpless IV, Wyncote, Pa.; Sherwood Hubbard Smith Jr., Jacksonville, Fla.; Ray-

(See HONOR, page 4)

Speaks Tomorrow

Dr. George Hauser, ex-director of the Conference for Racial Equality, will speak tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Presbyterian Church on "American and South African Racial Relations in Contrast."

Dr. Hauser is now secretary of the Americans for South African Resistance program. All interested are invited.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily exeept Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. — Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Importance Of Sidetracks

The following excerpt is from a chapter on Youth in a book entitled Humanity and Happiness by Georg Brochmann, translated from the Norwegian.—Editor.

Among other strange elements in the happiness of youth is the sweet pleasure of believing that one doesn't give a damn about anything and is headed straight for hell. It becomes an even more zestful sport when parents and kinfolk stand around wringing their hands in impotent sorrow.

But there is no point to our depriving youth of this pleasure. After all, it's ridiculous to try to close the switch where we ourselves had so much fun getting off the main track and where we now see our sons and daughters making just as big fools of themselves as we did. Sidetracks have their function. The sidetracks of life have, among other uses, the function of sorting out the youngsters who aren't good for anything except to be youngsters, of letting those who are made of putty and string disappear in the scrap piles where they belong. The others will get back on the main track in thir own good time.

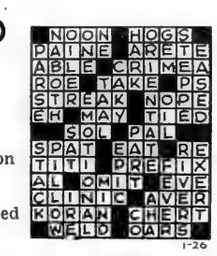
Our first duty to youth is education, quite a different thing from sermons. We must educate youth for the difficult art of democracy by letting young men and women participate as much as possible in the functions of democracy. It is not enough to lower the voting age; youth must be given responsibility as early as possible and learn what it means, learn for itself what it is to live intensely and dangerously. We must give an opportunity for the development of youth's valuable competitive instinct, not merely through those sports, like football, which demand courage, presence of mind, and strength but also through participation in the struggle of life. A younger generation which has no chance to fight for something has the feeling of rotting away, and this was what dominated a far too great part of the youth of the prewar years.

Two for One

Students generally don't have much money to toss around.

Yet as future citizens, they will be asked to give to charitable organizations. And they will want to give to national and international funds—cancer, heart, Red Cross, Radio Free Europe, and others. That is why we have a Campus Chest each year. The main purpose, of course, is to raise money for special causes on the home front, and for students on the international front. Another purpose, however, is to get you in the habit of giving.

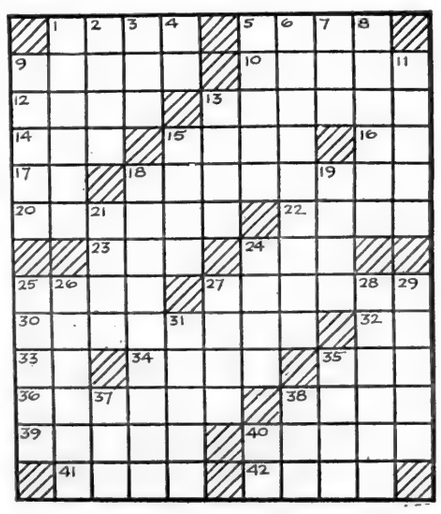
You will have two such chances, the first one beginning Monday, to contribute to the World Student Service Fund. This year there will be two knocks on the door instead of one, primarily because the old pledge system hasn't worked out well.



Here's how that was handled: You signed a pledge for fifty cents, a dollar, or more, then you'd either misplace the pledge, throw it in an empty drawer, disrgard it, or forget it. About two month later the guy who made the initial appeal came around and you didn't remember that there was such a thing as the Campus Chest.

The two-fund campaign this time will give you a chance to specify as to where you want your money to go, and at the same time, give you an opportunity to give to one fund if you have missed out on the other.

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Manufactured
5. Moslem title (pl.)
9. More painful
10. Cries
12. Bird's stomach
13. District (W. Indian Union)
14. Steal from
15. Weary
16. Denoting an alcohol (suffix)
17. Personal pronoun
18. Happy
20. Ruined town (Palestine)
22. Imitative of art
23. Ineffectual actor
24. Malt beverage
25. Cicatrix
27. Drooped
30. Perverse
32. Greek letter
33. Indefinite article
34. Weird (var.)
35. Male descendant
36. Bellowed
38. Signal system
39. Imposed a monetary penalty
40. A large pill
41. Father's
42. Opens (poet.)

DOWN
1. Sullen and austere
2. Native of Arabia
3. Moisture
4. Erbium (sym.)
5. Conscious
6. Ordinarily
7. Cord from candlenut tree bark
8. Grow
9. Rub hard
11. A witticism
13. Prussian canal
15. Plural pronoun
18. Hired by charter
19. Chafe
21. Conjunction
24. Breezy
25. Muffler
26. Cone-shaped
27. Section of a city
28. A going out
29. Takes dinner
31. Bamboo-like grasses
35. Fish
37. Miscellany
38. Conical roll of thread
40. Board of Ordnance (abbr.)

1-26

Saturday's Answer

—A. Z. F. Wood Jr.—

The Mob

A Mob, according to Webster, is a promiscuous collection of people, and is always referred to in the singular. The individuals who compose a Mob are as cells in a human body—or in the body of an animal, such as a tiger. (A tiger is a member of the feline family, and is predatory, cruel, and motivated exclusively by instinct.)

A Mob is nearly always destructive. It destroys things tangile like lives and things intangible like respect or pride.

A Mob is never progressive in the long run. It may accomplish a temporary end by overthrowing the status quo for a few years, but it will always get enough rope to hang itself sooner or later, and something worse than the overthrow status quo will emerge, such as Napoleon Bonaparte and Joseph Stalin.

A Mob always has leaders, though sometimes the leaders themselves don't realize it. And there have never been leaders capable of controlling a Mob once it has gained momentum. The Mob has strength and desire to begin with. All it needs is a slight push like a very small snowball on the top of a steep hill. Once that push is given, there is no stopping the snowball that quickly becomes an avalanche. An avalanche doesn't stop until it hits something—hard.

In many instances, the individuals who compose a Mob are downtrodden and discontent and starving, as in the French Revolution. In more instances, the individuals are frustrated and cowardly. Acting as individuals, they are reckless, inferior, and incapable of self-expression. Acting as components of a Mob, they are cruel, childishh, and very dangerous, and this makes them feel respected and powerful. For this good, feel that they are feared and is the only possible way they can express themselves, and with impunity, for they are responsible only to the Mob, and the Mob is a temporary being. Its existence terminates forever when it disperses. At best, only the leaders can be punished, and they didn't know what they were doing when they pushed the snowball. Leaders are a dime a dozen, and they are inferior to what they lead.

Mobs are to be respected and feared, for they are powerful and they have impunity. Mobs are to be hated, for they are cruel and cowardly and childish. Whether it's a lynch Mob or a Mob of neurotic, overgrown adolescents yelling their fool heads off at a basketball game, it is an extreme manifestation of animal instinct, a headless monster. A Mob cannot be stopped by intellect or reason. The only thing that can stop a Mob is another Mob.

So after I graduate in June and someone asks me where I went to college, I'll say, "I went to UNC, but please don't hold it against me."

— Chuck Hauser —

Tar Heel At Large

Camp Stoneman, Calif.,—This is a smallish and uninteresting Army-Air Force base crouched in a flat valley tucked between the Bay and the green mountains which ramble up and down this usually foggy section of the California coast.

It hasn't been foggy here for the past few days, however, and the Carolina-like spring weather has me homesick for Chapel Hill. Even the nearby mountains, normally buried beneath cushions of cumulus and shrouded by gray sweeps of mist, stand forth to remind me of western North Carolina.

Duffield Smith of Dallas, Texas, an adopted Tar Heel and recent graduate of the University Air ROTC program, is stationed with the permanent party here, and isn't too happy about the distance between the California and Carolina coasts.

I told Duff my opinion of San Francisco, and he decided to prove that I was wrong. Se we headed for Frisco for an evening.

Before dark we drove out to the Cliff House by the Seal Rocks and watched the seals enjoy the cold brine for a while, and then we struck out for the Mark Hopkins just as darkness came.

We had to fight our way through the lobby to get to the express elevator running up to the Top O' The Mark, because an imported bagpipe band was playing a concert down there to celebrate the dance of some Scottish society or other.

With the help of an old friend from Tennessee named Jack Daniels, we settled down to enjoy the celebrated view of Frisco from the top of Nob Hill, where the Mark is located. The sweep of the city is truly impressive from there, if you go for sweeps of that kind. At night, it is especially so, with the glittering lights of the Golden Gate and Bay Bridges flanking the hearth-warm glow from the center of this immense metropolis.

We had dinner at a little place in the International Settlement just off Chinatown called the Iron Pot. For a buck fifty, we picked up a five-course meal with a juicy red and marvelously tender slab of roast beef as the piece de resistance.

The evening was topped with a session at Goman's Gay Nineties and a walking tour through Chinatown, where the inhabitants were celebrating the Chinese Lunar New Year with thousands of crackling fireworks which would send a Chapel Hill policeman to Dix Hill in a state of nervous frenzy.

Goman's Nineties is definitely a night spot to visit if you find yourself in Frisco some day. It's a family-type watering place which features amusingly risque floor shows, but which leaves the vulgarity and the strippers to its more tawdry brothers in the metropolitan tenderloin.

"Steady Now, Pal — Don't Hamstring Me In My Work"

— Drew Pearson —
The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

Exactly what happened inside the White House when a group of congressional leaders were briefed on the international situation has had the world guessing ever since. Just why did senators emerge from the White House to pronounce the state of the world "Grim."

Briefly here are the nonsecurity highlights of what the congressional leaders were told:

1. The Chief Friction Point Is Berlin. Intelligence Chief Allen Dulles, brother of the Secretary of State, warned that the Communist Party might try to squeeze us out of Berlin this spring. Dulles could not predict whether they would try to choke us off with another blockade or send East Germans into the West sector to stage serious riots. However, he warned that trouble was coming. Meanwhile, the Air Force has a master plan ready for another Berlin airlift to be used at the drop of the red flag.

2. Drive In French Indo-China. The congressmen were told that the Kremlin was likely to hit the West in Several places at the same time, and one of these, according to Allen Dulles, is French Indo-China. Russian and Chinese leaders, he said, had been conferring on this recently.

General Bradley, however, claimed the Chinese didn't have a large army on the Indo-Chinese border, though he said guerrillas and supplies did seem to be pouring into Indo-China. As a countermove Dulles urged that American supplies be stepped up to aid the French. The French, he said, were asking for a 5-year plan during which we would send half a billion dollars worth of supplies each year to Indo-China.

This brought an exclamation of surprise and incredulity from Sen. Alex Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

3. A Communist Drive on Korea, General Bradley reported, was not to be discounted. The Chinese are using a new rotation plan and have put two new divisions in the front lines. Unfortunately, lifting the embargo around Formosa hasn't drawn any Chinese troops out of Korea to defend the mainland oppoite Formosa. The Chinese Communist force in Korea remains one million men.

On the other hand, the United Nations has 10 per cent more American troops in Korea today than on January 1. The reason, Bradley said, is because other U. N. units had to be rotated. Any big U. N. drive in Korea, the congressmen were warned, would cost us total casualities of around 50,000 men and would not be possible without sending more American divisions to the front.

4. Cooperation In The Balkans—The Secretary of State, John Dulles, reported one favorable piece of news, namely that three traditional enemies—Turkey, Yugoslavia and Greece—will sign a mutual security pact which will greatly strengthen the West in the Mediterranean. This will bring pressure against two satellite neighbors—Albania and Bulgaria.

Dulles was also pleased about a prospective Mediterranean defense pact which would include Egypt, England and the United States, as well as Italy, Greece and other Mediterranean countries.

His brother Allen, however, painted a pessimistic picture of Soviet propaganda in that same area. He said the Kremlin had stepped up its efforts to woo the Arabs and that hundreds of so-called Russian diplomats were working night and day to persuade the Arab governments to trade with Russia and to ditch any idea of joining the Western Pact against Communism.

This Russian sweet talk, plus the Kremlin's break with Israel, the congressmen were told, is having its effect. And added to our stalled plans to bring Germany and France together in Western Europe, this means some success for Moscow.

5. Financial Headaches—Budget Director Joseph Dodge reported on the headaches of financing the world program. He declared flatly that there is little chance of balancing the 1954 budget or of reducing military expenditures during the coming 12 months.

It was this pessimistic report on finances and the difficulty of balancing the budget that made GOP leaders emerge from the White House to announce that the world was grim. Actually it's no grimmer than it has been for some time.

Reflection Upon A Swindler

"Chicago, Feb. 9, 1952—(Special)—A University of Chicago Student who set up a counterfiting operation 'to make money to go through school' was arrested here recently . . ." (News story, The Daily Tar Heel, Feb. 10.)

There's a kind of cerebration
And of ratiocination
That is common to the prison and the college,

For remission of tuition
In exchange for erudition
May eventuate in several kinds of knowledge.

Though the catalogue will mention
Universal comprehension
And the names of all the ways for you to gain it,

What you really will acquire
When your need of it is dire
Is the skill that will enable you to feign it.

In Cosmology, Zoology,
Or Cultural Biology,
Or Studies in Atomic Economics,

You'll be able to succeed
Although the only test you read
May be the polychromic Sunday Morning comics.

Which is indication ample
That at Harvard, for example,
There's a moral tone that some cannot but censure,

And that inmates up at Yale
Share with those in any jail
Something more than their abbreviated tonsure.

Oh, a truculent psychologist,
A spleeny entomologist,
A chemist who will brook no imperfection,

May intimidate you briefly,
But his net effect is chiefly
To accelerate the process of selection

Which eliminates veracity
In favor of audacity
And cultivates the tendency to cheat.

For we find to our elation
That disguised imitation
Will turn the academic trick toute suite.

So when pleading with a judge
Not to bear a foolish grudge
Acquaint him with your academic bent,

And a tale of slow decay
In the sordid quest of A
May persuade a thoughtful Jurist to relent.

Then the Court will find a need,
As you learnedly do plead
For some recognition of your better parts,

And your sentence, it is plain,
Will not be a ball and chain,
But a Doctorate of Extra-Legal Arts.

Swim Meet Again Today; Cagers At Duke Tonight

Team Seeks Better Spot In Tourney

By Tom Peacock

Carolina's tournament-bound basketball team stops off in Durham tonight to seek revenge over Duke University in the last Tar Heel scheduled game of the season.

Carolina has beaten the other two teams in the Big Four this season, and need only a win over Duke to give them a .500 record in Big Four competition, the best it has had in years.

Approximately 2,000 tickets remain for the Carolina-Duke game at Duke Indoor Stadium tonight, the Duke Athletic Office reported yesterday. Seats cost $2.00 and may be purchased at the Indoor Stadium.

The Tar Heels go into the game with a 17-8 overall record, and 15-5 in the Conference. Maryland clinched a berth in the Southern Conference tournament scheduled in Raleigh March 5-7 for the Tar Heels by defeating George Washington earlier in the week.

If Duke should beat Carolina, the Blue Devils will be Big Four winners, but a Carolina win will throw the race into a four-way tie.

The Blue Devils came from behind to beat Carolina in a previous engagement in Woollen Gym, 95-89. The Tar Heels led most of the game, but lost through excessive fouling.

Duke has the advantage of playing on its own court in today's game, but coach Frank McGuire's young team is determined to finish the season with a flourish. McGuire said earlier in the season that he didn't want to back into the tournament, and would rather not go if he couldn't win one of his final three games.

The Tar Heels will depend on Al Lifson, Vince Grimaldi, Bud Maddie, and Jerry Vayda to lead them tonight. Paul Likins and Jack Wallace vie for the other starting berth, while freshman Jerry Vayda and Bob Phillips will see action in reserve.

Lifson leads the team in scoring with 319 points for a 15.2 average, while Grimaldi is right behind with 366 points and a 14.7 point per game average.

Maddie (290) and Vayda (280) have been steady performers all season, with Maddie being a workhorse under the backboards. Tickets for the contest are on sale to the public at Duke Indoor Stadium.

ATO'sTake Basketball Frat Crown

Dorm Championship Won By Emerson 2; 2 Teams To Meet

By Everette Parker

The strong Alpha Tau Omega quintet, who defeated the Sigma Chi's in a fast game, 53-36, and Emerson-2, victors over Emerson-1 36-31 in a close match, will meet for the campus championship of the 1953 basketball campaign.

ATO, preforming like a precisioned machine with the fast break, trounced the Sigma Chi's after getting off to a slow start in the first quarter. With only a minute gone in the contest, Bill Kirkman put the Tau's ahead to stay with a goal from the corner and the victors were never threatened from that point by the game losers.

Led by Roger Kingsbury and Kirkman, the ATO's had a 22-12 lead at the end of the slow first half. Don McCormick paced the losers by sharing the high scoring honors up to this point with Kingsbury and Kirkman, dropping in six.

Kingsbury, who led the winners with 23 points, scored two field goals and a foul shot, the first made in the game by the ATO's, to give the victors an unsurmountable lead after only two minutes had elapsed in the second half. From this point the losers, led by Buell Moser played the tall Tau's on even terms.

The ATO squad had two others to hit the double figures besides Kingsbury. They were Kirkman, runner-up in scoring, with 12 and Dick Kocornik, who played a good floor game, with 10. High scorer for the Chi's was Don McCormick with 12.

Emerson-2, using a determined game, defeated Emerson-1 36-31, to hand the losers their first loss of the season after nine straight victories.

Led by Doug Fincannon, who canned 17 important points, Emerson-2 broke an otherwise tight ballgame wide open in the last five minutes to win the dorm championship. The contest was tied 31-31 with six minutes to play, only to have the agressive losers drop the game on fouls.

The game, slow and rough all the way, was close from start to finish. Emerson-2 had a 17-14 lead at the half, the widest lead taken until the closing of the contest.

Diving Trials, Dash Slated This Morning

By John Hussey

The second day of the Southern Conference swimming meet will begin at 9:30 this morning with the trials in the one meter event.

The event is expected to be a one contest between Joe Kelso, Carolina's lone entrant, and Al Stenberg of State College, the defending champion. Duke's Poppenberg who placed fourth yast year, will also be trying to cop the title.

The finals of the diving will be held tonight.

The diving trials will be followed by the trials in the 50 yard dash. Buddy Heins, Jack Edwards, and Duke Widoff will swim for the Tar Heels. Their main opposition will be State's Don Sonia who is the defending champion. Another State swimmer, Bill Churn, could possibly win the event, so it could easily turn into a rat-race.

Semi-finals for the 50 will be held in the afternoon and the finals at night.

Preliminaries for the 200 yard backstroke will be held at 2:30 in the afternoon. Carolina entrants are Buddy Baarcke, Warren "Heeman, Smith Jewell and Bob Linker. Baarcke is the defending champion. Swimming for State in the backstroke will be Tommy Dunlap who has been a standout this year.

Larry Shannon and Tommy Gill will swim for the Tar Heels in the 220 yard freestyle after the backstroke event. The finals will be held tonight.

Donnie Evans, the present holder of the 200 yard dual meet breaststroke mark, will try for the championship meet record in that event. His present time betters the standing mark by 2.9 seconds. His main opposition will be Paul Arata of State.

The 400 yard freestyle relay will be the final event on the program this evening. It is a very important event because it gives the winner fourteen points. Swimming for Carolina will be Stan Tinkham, Evans, Edwards, and Heins.

The meet will continue tomorrow with the 100 yard backstroke, breaststroke, freestyle, the 440 yard freestyle, the 150 individual medley and the 300 yard medley relay.

Wrestlers Meet VMI Here Tomorrow

By Benny Stewart

Coach Sam Barnes' varsity wrestlers will bring their dual meet season to an end here tomorrow when they tangle with V.M.I.'s Keydets. The meet will get under way at 4 p.m. in the Tin Can.

The matmen, who have been defeated in their last three meets, can still finish seventh in the conference if they triumph over V.M.I.

Coach Barnes will use the same men who have wrestled in previous meets, with the exception of John Tyndall, who has been moved up from the freshman squad. This includes Harry Pawlik, Ed Haines, Pete McGehee, Arthur Gregory, Harvey Bradshaw, Miles Gregory and Andy Holt. The most improved of the wrestlers is Miles Gregory in the 177 lb. class.

After the V.M.I. meet, the Tar Heels will take a short rest before traveling to Lexington, Va. to take part in the annual Southern Conference tournament on March 6-7. The matmen hope to better last year's sixth-place finish in the ten-team meet. Defending champion Maryland will be back to try for its second consecutive championship.

Sweaters Here

Monogram sweaters for fall letter winners have arrived and may be picked up at the Carolina Sport Shop. Any letter winner who has not received his certificate should see Harry Pawlik at the Monogram Club or 106 Emerson.

Eighteenth SC Indoor Games To Be Held Here Tomorrow

By Sherry Smith

The only Southern Conference championship of the year to be held here will be staged tomorrow as the eighteenth annual Southern Conference Indoor Games get underway.

This event will be the highlight of the indoor track season. Competing in the games will be athletes representing schools from almost every state in the southeast. The meet will consist of three divisions —the Southern Conference, Non-Conference, and Scholastic Divisions.

Tickets for the Southern Conference Indoor Games are still on sale at the Woollen Gym ticket office. Student tickets are 75 cents with passbooks and general admission $1.50. One ticket is good for both the afternoon and evening sessions.

One of the star contenders of the nonconference division will be Jay (Poppa) Hall of the University of Florida. This high stepping athlete won the National outdoor high jump championship two years ago and last week tied the National indoor record with a jump of six feet, nine inches.

The finals of the high jump will start at 3:00 tomorrow afternoon.

The Conference Division will have on hand 26 of last year's 45 point makers, including six defending champions. This will be one of the strongest and most evenly matched groups in years.

The defending champions include Jerry Cates of Duke and Sam Jordan of Carolina, who tied for top honors in the pole vault; Johnny Mapp of VMI, winner of the low hurdles; John Tibbetts of Maryland, who won the half mile. Clyde Garrison of N. C. State, who finished first in the one-mile run; and Bill Langford of VPI, who tied

In addition to the individual for first place in the high jump. winners Duke will have returning three of its four runners who won the mile relay last year.

Carolina is expected, along with the top contenders in the Conference Division. The Tar Heels will be led by Sonny Beall, Sam Jordan, Jeff Newton, Charlie Yarborough and Bobby Barden.

Last year's champions in the meet were Maryland which won the Conference Division; Alabama, winner of the Non-Conference Division; and Craddock High School which finished first in the Scholastic Division.

Both Alabama and Maryland will be on hand to defend their titles, but Craddock High School is not entered, leaving the competition wide open in the Scholastic Division.

The games are scheduled to get underway tomorrow in Woollen Gymnasium at 9:30 a.m. The trials will be run off in the morning and afternoon with the finals in the various events beginning at 6:30 in the evening.

A&P

Come See at A&P

Save Money On Famous Jane Parker Bakery Treats

Jane Parker Gold Pound CAKE - - - - - 23-Oz. Cake 49c

Jane Parker — Enriched White BREAD - - - - 1½-Lb. Loaf 20c

Jane Parker Plain — Cinnamon or Sugared DONUTS - - - - 1-Doz. Pkg. 19c

Dinner Rolls 2 Pkgs. of 12 27c

Breakfast Rolls 25c Jane Parker Cinnamon Pkg. of 9

M & M's Confections 9-Oz. Pkg. 25c

Betty Crocker Crust Quick 9-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Tenderleaf Tea Bags 48-Ct. Pkg. 53c

Kellogg's Sugar Frosted Flakes 10-Oz. Pkg. 23c

Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce 16-Oz. Can 20c Delicious With Chicken

Crescent City with Chickory COFFEE - - 1-Lb. Bag 59c

A&P Fancy Tuna FISH - - - 7-Oz. Can 29c

Sunnyfield Plain or Self rising FLOUR - - - 10-Lb. Bag 73c

Ann Page Creamy Smooth Peanut BUTTER - - 12-Oz. Glass 29c

Ann Page Creamy Mayonnaise Qt. Jar 49c

A&P Green & White Asparagus 19-Oz. Can 39c

Iona Hominy - - 29-Oz. Can 12c

A&P Sections Grapefruit 2 No. 303 Cans 27c

A&P Sliced or Chunks Pineapple - 20-Oz. Can 29c

Franco-American Cooked Macaroni - 15½-Oz. Can 17c

Ann Page Pure Honey - - - 16-Oz. Jar 31c

Libby's or Armour's Vienna Sausage - - 4-Oz. Can 19c

Morrell Luncheon Meat Snacks - - 12-Oz. Can 35c

Ann Page Boston Style — Vegetarian or With Pork BEANS - 2 16-Oz. Cans 23c

A&P Fancy PEAS - - - - 16-Oz. Can 21c

Save Money On Famous Super-Right Meats

Super Right Heavy Western Beef

Porterhouse — T-Bone — Club — Sirloin

Top or Bottom Round — Boneless Rib

STEAKS - - Lb. 85c

Super Right—Chuck Blade Pot Roast - - - - - - - - Lb. 49c

Super Right—Standing 7-In. Cut Rib Roast - - - - - - - Lb. 65c

Super Right—Boneless Shoulder Roast - - - - Lb. 65c

Super Right — Lean Boneless Stew - - - - Lb. 59c

Super Right—Market Style Back Bones - - - - - Lb. 45c

Super Right Center Cut Rib Pork Chops - - - - - Lb. 59c

Super Right—Fresh Pork Loin End Loin Roast - - - - - - Lb. 49c

Morrell Pride Short Shank Skinned — 12-14 Lb. Avg. HAMS WHOLE or HALF Lb. 63c

Smoked Short Shank 4 to 6 Lb. Avg. PICNICS Lb. 39c

Wilson's Corn King SLICED BACON 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c

Swift Premium All Meat FRANKS 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c

Nice Thick FAT BACKS Lb. 13c

King Syrup - - - - - 1½-Lb. Jar 23c

Silver Dust - - Lge. Pkg. 28c Giant Pkg. 55c

Woodbury Facial Soap - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Sweetheart Soap - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Blu White Flakes - - - Reg. Pkg. 9c

Ivory Snow - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c

Camay Soap - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Cheer - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c

Angel Soft Colored Facial Tissues - - - 400 Sheet Pkg. 25c

Angel Soft White Facial Tissues - - - 400 Sheet Pkg. 23c

Save Money on These Dairy Values

Mild American CHEESE Lb. 49c

Golden Maid MARGARINE 1-Lb. Pkg. 21c

Sunnybrook Grade A LARGE EGGS 1-Doz. 57c

Puffin's Easy To Fix BISCUITS 2 Pkgs. 23c

Come to A&P for the Biggest Assortment of Farm-Fresh Fruits and Vegetables And Priced to Save You Money, Too!

Juicy Florida Oranges - - - - - - - 8-Lb. Bag 45c

Red Bliss Potatoes - - - - 5 Lbs. 30c

Crisp Green Pascal—Size 3's Celery - - - - - - - - Stalk 8c

Fresh Nuts Cashews - - - - - - 6-Oz. Pkg. 29c

Crisp Golden Carrots - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Cello Bag 10c

California Dates - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 25c

Juicy Florida Grapefruit - - - 4 For 23c

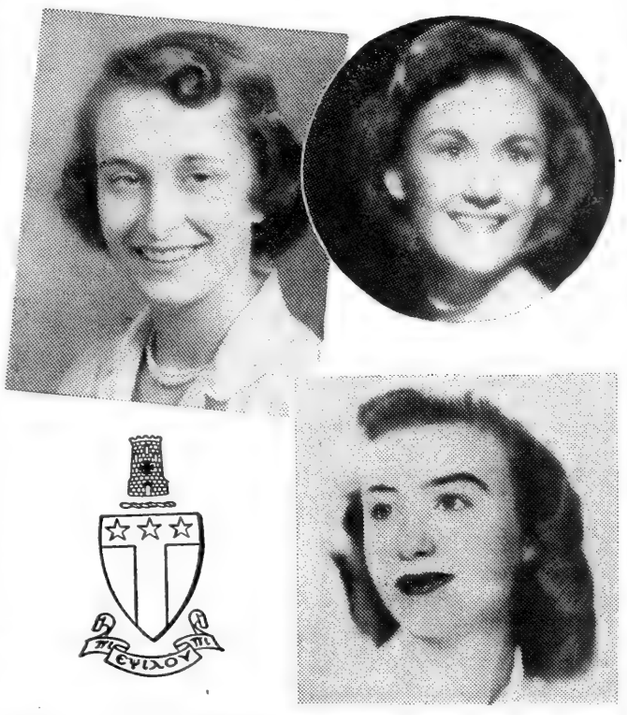
A&P Super Markets THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Thru Sat., February 28th

ATO Weekend Features Dance, Hawaiian Party

Alpha Delta chapter of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity will celebrate its annual pledge weekend with a formal dance at the Chapel Hill Country Club tonight..

Weekend festivities will begin a cocktail party at the club this afternoon. The Duke Cavaliers will provide music for the dance tonight from 9 to 12.



150 orchid leis will be flown in from Hawaii for the ATO's Hawaiian party Saturday night when members and their dates will go to Turnage's in Durham for a party. Turnage's will be decorated in jungle style with sawdust, palm trees and sand. Lanterns will be hung around the room and music will be Hawaiian.

Pledges and their dates to be be presented at Friday night's dance are Richard Alexander, West Palm Beach, Fla., with Dorothy Ann Bell, Montgomery, Ala.; Richard Baker, Greensboro, with Margaret Johnston, Charlotte; William Beebe, Lewes, Del., with Pat Deveraux, Chevy Chase Md.; Thomas Bradford, Washington, D. C. with Burch, Bronxville, N. Y.; Fred Dieffenbach, Tenafly, N. Y., with Camilla Vilas, Tenafly, N. J. Pete Green, West Palm Beach, Fla., with Virginia Capps, Rocky Mount; Phil Johnson, Raleigh, with Carolyn White, Winston Salem; Peter Kelly, Savannah, Ga.; with Billie Dobbs, Charlotte; Robert Linker, Chapel Hill; Dan Luke, Tarytown, N. Y., with Jean Bryant, Durham;

Glenn Lynch, Forest Hills, N. Y., with Jane Carey, Wheeling, W. Va.; John McAllister, Winnetka, Ill., with Sheron Crane, Wilmette, Ill.; Everett Parker, Robersonville, with Patsy Roberson, Robersonville; Graham Shanks, Montgomery, Ala., with Betsy Starr, Hartford, Conn.; Wilson Shoulars, Rich Square, with Jo Cullifer, Murfreesboro; Don Thompson, New York City, with Mary Ann Russel, Charlotte; Burt Veasy, Raleigh, with Natalie Salter, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Thomas Wakefield, Toronto, Canada, with Jerry Snider, Fayetteville; Ned Whitmore, South Orange, N. J., with Frankie Allen, Statesville; Beverly Webb, Greensboro, with Esten Bohannon, Charlotte; and Ogburn Yates, Asheboro, with Rebecca Nesbit, Charlotte.

Pictured are dates of the Pi Kappa Alpha pledge officers, left to right: Jeanne Bryan, Pensacola, Fla. with Pledge President Jim Kennedy, Jacksonville; Elizabeth Raynor, Dunn, with Secretary Treasurer Claude Pope, Dunn; and Judie Smith, Easton, Pa., with Vice-President Baxter Coston, Asheville.

Above are ATO weekend sponsors, left to right, top, Nat Salter, Scarsdale, N. Y., with Burt Veasy, Raleigh; Margaret Johnson, Charlotte, with Richard Baker, Greensboro; bottom, Rebecca Nesbit, Charlotte, with Ogburn Yates, Ashboro.

Dance Is Given By Lambda Chi

Gamma Nu Zeta chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha held its annual pledge dance last Saturday night.

The dance took place at the Chapel Hill country club from 9 til 12 with music furnished by Frank Wright and his orchestra. Following the dance there was a combo at the house.

Favors bearing the fraternity coat of arms were given to dates of pledges.

Friday night there was a cabin party and Saturday afternoon a cocktail party at the county club from 4 til 6.

Pledges presented at the dance were Harold Twisdale, Halifax, Tom Parnell, Lumberton, Herb Callahan, Fayetteville, Gene Staton, Hendersonville, Bill Sellers, Burlington, Billy Cliver, Raleigh, Ries Roland, Asheville, Ray Elam, Candon, and Sam Booke, Winston-Salem.

—Teaching—

(Continued from page 1)

porary divisions of the humanities but by freely recognizing that they stood for 'a world view.' It was clear that scholasticism had failed as a philosophy in terms of which the Renaissance could make its insights available to the world of expanding science and capitalism."

—Life—

(Continued from page 1)

a portrait of Prince Metternich and a painting of the diplomats at the Congress of Vienna. Other reproductions are of paintings, drawings, woodcuts, lithographs, cartoons and maps.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

The quiet that settles over the vanquished has descended on Carolina as the spectre of Saturday classes stalks the campus and frivolity has been reduced to a minimum. WITNESS:

The unceasing Phi Kappa Sigs continue their errant ways at Turnages tonight, the house Saturday afternoon, and again Sunday afternoon. Saturday night will find them honoring their pledges with a dance at the Washington - Duke. Also at the Phi Kap house, Ted Bailey of Burnsville lost his pin but it was fortunately found on Irma Garland of Spruce Pine.

Jack's Grill must be ready to float away because the Phi Gams report they are still holding it down.

Everyone seems to be having a pledge weekend and the PiKA's are no exception. After avidly supporting the team over at Dook tonight, they intend to return here for an informal afternoon of culture the following day at the Pines. Topics of current intellectual interest will be discussed with Tom McMillan acting as moderator.

St. A's will journey to Morehead City and Doug Soo's house for a weekend get together.

Chi Psi's entertained last night at the house and the American Legion hut with Tri Delts as their guests. They also plan a party for tonight.

Nurses get in on the partying tonight with an open house for all students from 7:30 - 10 and tomorrow an open house for all coeds from 2-4.

Kappa Sigs have decided the trustees are right. They're staying here this weekend in an effort to pull up their grades.

More lost pins . . . This time at the Lambda Chi house. Jim Pearson, Burlington to Sadie Foy, Mount Airy, a KD Dook, and Bob Morris, Brevard to Virginia Ellis also of Brevard.

It's even spread to the Phi Delta Chi house! Harry Patton of Hickory gave his pin to Mary June Bradley from Bailey.

The Tri Delts are holding a contest Saturday morning at eight to find the ten strongest men on the campus. Events will consist of lifting various and sundry household goods. Has something to do with their moving into a new house, loads of fun, be there.

ZBT's are planning quite a bit this weekend what with their 26th anniversary and all that . . . Tonight will find them tripping the light fantastic at the Inn, followed by a party at the house.

Happy pledge weekend to all the ATO's, SAE's, Chi Phi's, TEP's, and Sigma Chi's.

Add to the list of lost souls, ZBT Herb Cohn who pinned Sue Mandel of Chicago and ATO Pete Alexander, pinned to Patt Turnbull, a Chi O from Washington, D. C.

Theta Chi pledges refuse to remain dormant as they give an Apache party at Perry's cabin tomorrow night.

In a concentrated effort for better grades the AK Psi's are honoring the faculty with a banquet tomorrow night at the Inn.

The Sigma Nu's think they are going to have a party at Jake Roberts' cabin again. Tomorrow night if they think right.

Twin bill at the SPE houe with a party on Friday and Saturday nights.

Not to be outdone, the SAE's plan to have a party and combo at the Legion Hut tonight, a cocktail party and pledge skit at the house Saturday afternoon, and a dinner dance at the country club that night.

Direct from London & Broadway Triumphs
"Magnificent! Master of acting."—Atkinson, Times
S. HUROK presents
EMLYN WILLIAMS
AS
Charles Dickens
MEMORIAL HALL — Chapel Hill
SAT., Mar. 7, 8:30 p.m.
All Seats Reserved
$3.30 — $2.20 — $1.10
Mail Orders: The Carolina Playmakers, Box 1050—Tel. 9471

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

FRENCH IN 20 LESSONS—COMplete Cortina set of 12-inch records with lesson book, reading manual and dictionary. A good way of learning French. $40. Write H. S. Milligan, Box 156, Windsor, N. C.
Charge 1 x 1

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

MEN: LOOKING FOR A GOOD Summer job, requiring lots of brain, not too much brawn? I'm going to the Army so somebody can have my place. See Dorman Cordell Thursday or Friday at 206 Vance St. or call 7871 before 9 p.m. NC—Staff

PiKA's Honor Pledges With Dinner, Party

Tau chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity will have its annual pledge dance at the Carolina Inn tomorrow night.

Herb Gupton's orchestra will furnish music for the dance. Pledges and their dates will be present in front of a black backdrop with a white and gold pledge pin on it. The figure, led by pledge officers, will form the traditional Greek letter "Pi". each girl will be presented with a miniature paddle favor and an orchid corsage. Decorations will consist of white glads, Japanese quincy and magnolia leaves.

Chaperones for the dance will be Mr. and Mrs. James Horton Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cleveland.

Other activities of the Pika weekend will include a party at the Saddle Club tonight after the game. Tomorrow there will be a cocktail party at the Pines and a banquet at the house before th edance.

Pledges and their dates are Jim Allen, Troy, with Marilyn Thayer, Louisburg; Joe Beamon, High Point with Cissie Whitted Arlington, Va.; Dean Bray, Mt. Airy, with Myra Bristel, Charleston, S. C.; John Comer, Greensboro, with Patty Vaughn Greensboro; John Dickson Wilmington, with Nancy Bruce, Wilmington;

Charlie Fowler, Pilot Mountain with Joan Smith, Kernersville; Campbell Haigh, Fayetteville, with Betsy Reinecke, Fayetteville ;Flynn Harris, Charlotte, with Gwynn Weant, College Park, Ga.; Bill Isenhour, Hickory, with Larue Huffman, Hickory; Jim Lane, Rich Square, with Casey Jones,? Paris, France?; Ed McCurry, Shelby, with Mimi Royster, Shelby.

DANZIGER'S
TODAY'S MENU
HOMEMADE VEGETABLE SOUP ..... $.20
SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES
Mexican Chili Con Carni with spaghetti ..... $.50
Knockwurst and Pastrame on toasted rye bread, potato salad, hard boiled egg, pickle ..... $.85
Fried Shrimps with tartarsauce, vegetable, potato au gratin $.85
Deviled Crab with tartarsauce, vegetable, potato au gratin $.85
Minutesteak on toast with vegetables $1.25
Chicken A La King on toast with vegetable ..... $.75
Hungarian Chopped Steak with hashed potatoes, vegetable $.90
A-1 Sirloin Steak with French Fries $1.75
Extra Large $2.50
. . . your choice served with bread, butter and salad

BUDDY KLEIN
and the
Statesman Orchestra
Write Box 5533—Tel. 21873
Raleigh, N. C.

The New
UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT
IS THE PLACE TO BRING YOUR DATE
FOR A COOL ONE
MUSIC by J. DUKE and his COMBO on Tuesday and Thursday nights and Saturday afternoons
BEER 25c 'til 5 . . . Rupert 20c 'til 5
25c to go at all times and $5.50 by the case

In Durham —
HARVEY'S CAFETERIA
AND
BANQUET SERVICE
Breakfast 6:30 - 9:15
Lunch 11 - 2:30
Supper 5 - 8:05
Special Facilities For All Fraternity & Sorority Funcitions
103 E. MAIN STREET, DURHAM

INDIANAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
Fabien Sevitzky
Conductor
Page Auditorium Duke University
Thursday Evening, March 5, at 8:15 P.M.
Tickets: $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 (incl. tax)
On sale: 201 Men's Union . . . Duke University
For reservations phone Durham 9011, ext. 6225
or write to
J. Foster Barnes, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina
Program: Franck, Liszt, and Berlioz

Honors

(Continued from page 1)

mond Fletcher Snipes, Reidsville; Elliott Solomon, Greensboro; Peter Hale Sprague, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; James Edward Stephens, Barnardsville; George Thomas Strickland Jr., Raleigh; Jon Keyser T'ce, High Point; James Richard Tickle, Burlington; James R. Turner, Winston-Salem.

Clyde Gilbert Tweed, Asheville; Thomas Morton Watts, Bryson City; Richard Beverly Raney Webb, Greensboro; Grady Lee Wells, Charlotte; David Louis Whitaker, Williamston; Thomas Ewing Wilgus, Old Greenwich, Conn.; Leo Carl Wilkerson, Mebane; Billy Rayford Wilkinson, Newton; Charles Hill Yarborough Jr., Louisburg; Frank Ogburn Yates Jr., Asheboro; Edwin Milton Yoder, Mebane, and Jay Zimmerman Jr., New Paltz, N. Y.

There are now 80 chapters of the fraternity, founded at the University of Illinois in 1923.

Books of Faith
for Lenten Reading . . .
Lenten reading need not be a gloomy chore. Here are some books from our religious section which we think you'll actually enjoy reading again when Lent has passed!
Our English Bible in the Making Dr. Herbert Gordon May, of the interdenominational committee which prepared the new Revised Standard Bible, gives us the fascinating story behind that great book. $2.75
The Silver Chalice—a deeply religious book and a current best seller, we think Thomas Costain's novel will prove worth-while reading. $3.85
Mere Christianity—C. S. Lewis has revised his earlier "Case for Christianity," "Christian Behavior," and "Beyond Personality," to produce a well-rounded statement of his faith. $2.75
You Can Believe—Dr. Frank Hanft, of the U. N. C. Law School, presents a book of faith which grew out of his popular lectures to young people. $2.75
Knight of the Burning Heart—In this new biography of John Wesley, the reader will meet a man of great faith and a burning desire for higher Christian achievement. $1.75
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Yes, Bring Your Car To Us For Those Pre-Weekend Check-Ups!
WE CHECK YOUR TIRES, OIL, WINDSHIELD, BATTERY and RADIATOR.
DROP BY BEFORE YOUR WEEK-END TRIP
POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. FRANKLIN
DeSoto Plymouth

From A Snack To A Feast
WHETHER YOU COME IN FOR "COFFEE-AND" OR A COMPLETE DINNER, YOU'LL ENJOY EVERY MINUTE, EVERY SWALLOW, EVERY BITE!
Our steadiest patrons are those who know and appreciate good food . . . properly prepared, Served in a relaxing atmosphere.
THE PINES
Raleigh Road

The Greatest Indian Fighter Of Them All in our frontier's most savage story!
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
THE PATHFINDER
COLOR BY Technicolor
At last—James Fenimore Cooper's immortal plainsman!
starring
GEORGE MONTGOMERY
T-O-D-A-Y
Saturday
Varsity

LATE SHOW SATURDAY NITE
SUNDAY — MONDAY
FASTER! FASTER! FASTER!
They lived, loved, plunged into a trap baited with murder!
HOWARD HUGHES presents
ROBERT MITCHUM
JEAN SIMMONS
in
ANGEL FACE
co-starring
MONA FREEMAN • HERBERT MARSHALL
with LEON AMES • BARBARA O'NEIL

SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

Blue Devils Win First Indoor Games Title Since 1936

SEE STORY IN COLUMN 6

WEATHER
Fair and mild.
Tomorrow's high, 60.
Yesterday's high, 64.
Today's low, 40.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 105 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, MARCH 1, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

AWARDS
The editor commends Mr. Morehead on a grand occasion.
Page 2.

Chest Fund First Drive Is Monday

The Campus Chest campaign opens tomorrow as exhibits go up, solicitors go out and money comes in. This international phase of the Chest will continue throughout the remainder of this week.

A variety show in Memorial Hall, Wednesday night at 8:30 will be the highlight of the Chest drive.

All members of the show Wednesday night are asked to meet at 3 p.m. today in Memorial Hall.

The show is under the direction of John Taylor who has assembled a large cast to be in "the best show ever," according to Taylor.

The theme of the show this year, said Taylor, will be girls. There will be songs by individual members of the cast, dances from different Broadway productions, take-offs especially on personalities on campus, and many other skits.

Taylor said, "Throughout the entire production there will be girls and more girls and more girls, and more girls, and these girls have sex appeal."

Admission to the show will be either by showing the stub of a contribution made or buying a ticket at the door.

People contributing in this drive will be giving for two areas of relief as chosen by the Chest Board. These areas include help to Korean universities and aid to flood victims in Holland. The money will be sent to these areas through the World Student Service Fund, CARE, and UNESCO.

During the drive dorm solictors will visit each dorm resident seeking a contribution. Kermit Phillips, chairman of men's dorm solicitations, has asked each dorm president to appoint these solictors.

Barbara Burgess has done the same thing for women's dorm and Fred Mewhinney has gotten solicitors in fraternities and sororities.

These solicitors, in a general meeting Thursday, were asked to return to each room until everyone is seen.

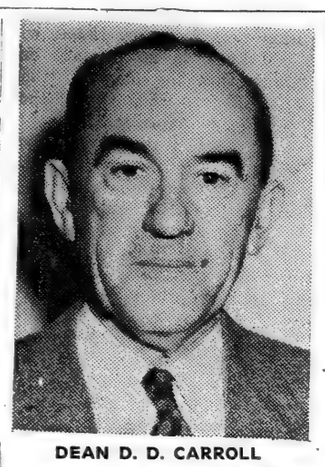
Exhibits will be set up in the library, YMCA, and Lenoir Hall where students can also contribute if they are missed by a solicitor. The exhibit in the Y lobby will show the contributions of the dorms and fraternities in a hugh scale graph.

The library exhibit, among other things, will include a satck of books that will grow as money comes in proportionately to what it can buy. Six dollars will buy a text book in Korea.

Letters to the faculty and town residents will go out tomorrow also seeking contributions. Working on faculty solicitations are Sue Fink and Howard Barton. Stuart Jones, chairman of the entire drive, has been working on the letters to the town residents.

Jones at the start of campaign issues an appeal to the students and faculty to "give and give generously. These people have desperate need. Don't pass the buck—give it."

Yack Says Urgent

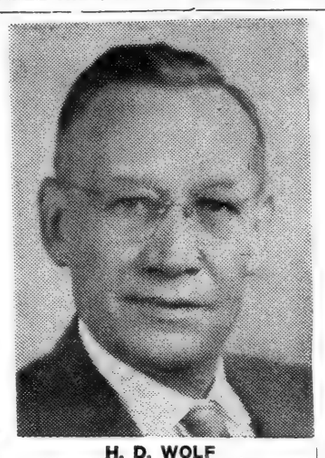


There will be an "urgent" meeting of the Yack staff tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. in the yearbook office, Editor Hugh Hale said yesterday.

Here's A Switch

Need a shoe shine?

The campus dignitaries will be open for business starting Tuesday between classes in the Y court. Ham Horton, Ken Penegar, and Walt Dear have pledged their efforts to the cleaning of all students' shoes. Other campus leaders are being contacted to further the causes of this effort to get all shoes on campus in tip-top shape. A schedule of favorite dignitaries will be released Tuesday.



All proceeds go to the Campus Chest.

DEAN D. D. CARROLL

CLARENCE HEER

H. D. WOLF

JOHN B. WOOSLEY

G. T. SCHWENNING

C. P. SPRUILL

EARLE E. PEACOCK

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles admits the State Department needs a shakeup and says he is just the man to do it. He rejected any idea that department policies are being "dictated" by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) or other congressional investigators. Dulles said, however, that he welcomed any disclosures from congressional inquiries which would make the department more "competent, loyal and secure." The new secretary thus dealt with published suggestions that the McCarthy investigation has damaged State Department morale and effectiveness and that the Eisenhower administration was becoming unhappy over the situation.

★

NEW YORK—Minot (Mickey) Jelke, the high-living heir to a socialite family's fortune, was convicted Friday night of compulsory prostitution in the cafe society circles he frequented. He will appeal his verdict. A sympathetic all-male jury acquitted the 23-year-old Jelke on one count—that of forcing call girl Pat Thompson into prostitution. Judge Francis L. Valente scheduled sentencing for March 20. Jelke could draw as much as 40 years in prison.

★

WASHINGTON — Congress this week speeded action on two resolutions blasting Soviet Russia for its outrages against Jews and other minorities and for its "enslavement" of people behind the Iron Curtain. Both resolutions were sponsored by the White House. Talk of phrasing one resolution in stiffer terms subsided in a show of bi-partisan harmony as the committee voted to send the resolution to the House floor without a single change.

★

RALEIGH — Douglas Grayson, who was convicted of first degree murder Friday by a Bladen County Court, was in Central Prison today awaiting review of his case by the State Supreme Court. Grayson was convicted by an all-male Robeson County jury of the murder of Mrs. Thay Lewis White last September 13. There was no recommendation for mercy. As Judge Hatch was halfway through the reading of the long legal sentence, Grayson mumbled, ". . . shot. I don't want to die by gas."

End Asked To Draft Dodging Via Paternity

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(Special)—James D. Zellerbach, chairman of the National Manpower Council, recently urged President Eisenhower to "close the escape hatch" through which college students convert military deferments into exemptions through immediate marriage.

The NMC chairman called on the President to draft young fathers and added, "It is grossly unfair for ablebodied young men to secure exemptions in this fashion. Military service should be shared generally by all men of military age."

He made these assertions in a report of the council's progress, delivered and recorded over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The National Manpower Council is a non-profit citizens' group set up by General Eisenhower at the Columbia University Graduate School in the Spring of 1951. It examines manpower problems facing the United States and submits recommendations to government agencies and public groups directly concerned.

"Deferment, which was supposed to mean postponement of military service, actually is being converted into exemption from military service, for many students," Zellerbach said. "This happens when young men originally deferred for their education get married and ultimately obtain additional deferment as fathers."

The manpower counsellor also urged long-term training programs for scientists and professional men to combat what may become "dangerous shortages at the frontiers of human knowledge."

Jones Flock Meets Today

The congregation of the Presbyterian Church will hold an open meeting at noon today after its second service to hear spokesmen for the church officers explain their ideas on the Rev. Charlie Jones case.

It is expected their talk will center around the idea of how to seek a review of the order which fired the church pastor. The officers met Thursday night but made no public comment.

Tomorrow night Mr. Jones will speak in Raleigh on "Some Problems of Religious Freedom." He will appear at United Church.

CAMPUS SEEN

ROTC students shielding one arm after going through annual innoculation orgy.

* * *

Eager males getting above floor peek into Tri Delt Houes as gals enlist their aid in Operation Move.

* * *

Solitary undergrad scholar doing his academic duty Saturday afternoon while rest of buddies head for Hogan's.

Three Judges To Decide On Putnam Prize

A distinguished list of judges for the writing contest for the Putnam Prize, open toall students of the Consolidated University, was realeased yesterday.

They are Pearl Buck, Nobel Prize winner; James Street, well known noveist of Chapel Hill, and Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, Pulitzer Prize winner.

According to Miss Jessie Rehder of the University English Department, towhom manuscripts shoud be submitted before June 1 of this year, authors who enter books in the Putnam Prize contest through the University "should find the willingness of these three established writers to serve as a jury a great incentive."

The award is a cash prize of $2,000, to be offered each year for thebest manuscript submitted by the judges. Entries may be either fiction or non-fiction books of general interest. To be eligible a manuscript must consist of at least 40,000 words with a synopsis of the unwritten parts of the book.

Mrs. Buck, the author of "The Good Earth" and other books, is known as one who has done much to promote international good will between the countries of the East and West.

Mrs. Rawlings, whose novel, "The Yearling," is already a classic in American literature, has recently published "The Sojourner," a novel of struggle and triumph, which has received critical acclaim everywhere.

Street is one of America's most successful novelists in the fields of popular and historical fiction. His recent book, "The Velvet Doublet," is at present on best seller lists throughout the country.

Eight BA Profs Are Honorees At Service Fete

Eight members of the School of Business Administration faculty were honored for long time service last night at the first Faculty Silver Benquet, held at the Carolina Inn.

The professors received awards for 25 or more years service. The recipients were D. D. Carroll, founder of the old School of Commerce and long-time dean, and E. F. Peacock, Milton Heath, Clarence Heer, Harry D. Wolf, G. T. Schwenning, C. P. Spruill and John B. Woosley.

Sponsors of the Faculty Silver Banquet were alumni and honorary members of Alpha Kappa Psi, national business administration fraternity here. A reception was held at the house on Rosemary St. following the banquet.

Among those planning to attend last night's fete were R. Hampton Davis, '26, Roanoke, Va., a founder of AKPsi; T. Elbert Clemmons, '27; M. K. Hearne, '24 and William H. Ruffin, '21.

Chancellor Robert B. House presented the awards.

Bank Charter Sought Here By 2 Groups

If either of two groups has its way the town is going to have a second bank.

Two groups, one from Durham and another one locally, have appied to the Comptroller of Currency in Washington to put in Chapel Hill's second banking establishment.

Judge William S. Stewart, acting chairman of the local group, said his group feels a second bank is needed "to serve adequately the ganking needs of the cmomunity."

eH said the application is based on "a feeling among many citizens of the community that, if a second bank is to come to Chapel Hill, they would prefer that it be locally owned and operated in the interests of the community.

In Durham, Charles S. Allen, president of the Durham bank, said he felt "there's a definite need for another bank"in Chapel Hill. He said that as far as heknew the Durham bank was the first to file an application.

A number of stockholders of the Bank of Chapel Hill this week voted to oppose both applications on the ground that Chapel Hill already has ample banking facilities. The bank here was established in 1899.

Several years ago Durham Bank and Trust Co. made an effort to set up in Chapel Hill but after several public hearings the State Banking Committee unanimously refused the appication. John Sanders, president of the student body, was among those speaking for bringing a second bank to the town.

Judge Stewart said a suitable site for the bank is available and that adequate operating personnel is assured until all local personnel can be trained. A total of $200,000 in stock would be offered for subscription, of which $100,000 would be in capital stock and the $100,000 in surplus and undivided profits.

Publications Head Nominating Slate For SP Tomorrow

Publications are the order of the night during Student Party nominations tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Posts to be filled are editor of The Daily Tar Heel and Yackety Yack and seats on the Publications Board. Other nominations will include senior and sophomore class officers and officers for the Carolina Athletic Association.

Rolfe Neill is expected to get the SP bid for Daily Tar Heel editor. He already holds the University Party nomination which he received without opposition. At present he is managing editor of the paper.

The Yackety Yack editorship is somewhat muddled. Last week the up nominated Rollie Tillman as its candidate. Tillman was an unknown in the Carolina publications field and his endorsement was a surprise. Bob Colbert, managing editor of this year's annual, tried for the UP nod but lost along with Lib Moore, another Yack staffer.

Colbert removed himself from the race saying he didn't want to see the Yack "in politics." Miss Moore probably will get the SP nomination.

Four of the five members of the Publications Board will be nominated. The fifth is appointed by the Legislature from among its members. Seats are open for two rising seniors, two rising juniors and a member at large. The PB is the organ exercising financial supervision over student publications and handling all contracts.

Carolina Takes Second Place At Meet Here

By Biff Roberts

Duke University, led by the brilliant performances of John Tate and Joel Shankle, beat off the challenge of 11 other conference schools to win the 18th annual Southern Conference Indoor Games at Woollen Gym last night with 34 and five sixth points.

Rated as tri-favorites with Carolina and the University of Maryland before trials started early yesterday morning, the Blue Devils, aided by four first places from Tate and Shankle, staved off the Tar Heels and the Terrapins to win their first game title since 1936.

Carolina gave a surprising performance to finish closely behind the Blue Devils. The Terps were never in contention but closed well to end up third.

The Tar Heels had 27 and two thirds points to Maryland's 18 and two thirds. Following them were VMI with 16; VPI with 13 and five sixths; N. C. State with eight and one half; Richmond with four and one half; West Virginia with four; Davidson with two; South Carolina with one and one half, and William and Mary with one half.

The University of Georgia won the non-conference division with 18 points, beating out Virginia with 16 and one half. Florida was third with 16 and Alabama, last year's champ, placed fourth with 15.

The rest trailed behind with Catholic University with 13½; Roanoke with 10; Kentucky with six; Bridgewater and Georgia Tech tied with five, and Sewanee and Wofford with two were tenth in the standings.

Two meet records were broken during the grueling day's events. Ben Lankford of VPI set a new mark in the conference division when he climbed six feet and five inches in the afternoon finals.

The previous mark of six feet four and one eighth inches was held by Wild Bill Albans of Carolina back in 1949.

Virginia's Davant Latham, who had tied the existing record of eight second in the afternoon trials of the non-conference 70-yard low hurdles, came back in last night's finals to set a new mark of :07.9. The old record was also set in 1949 by Buddy Fowlkes of Georgia Tech.

Latham was another of the meet's double winners, taking the 70-yard high hurdles in :09.0.

Carolina's only first place came in the 60-yard dash when footballer Jeff Newston beat a fast field in the good time of :06.4. The record for the conference division is :06.3.

Sonny Beall of the Tar Heels

(See FULL, page 3)

Morehead Sky Show Extended

Due to the unusually large attendance at showings of "The Birth and Death of the Earth," current Morehead Panetarium production, performances will be presented for another week, to run through Monday, March 9.

Nearly 5,000 visitors have witnessed the startling sky fantasy. Special demonstrations and accelerated school attendance in the past two weeks attest to its popularity.

Public presntations are given at 8:30 each night; in the afternoons on Saturday at 3 o'clock, and on Sundays at 3 and 4 p.m.

Films Tomorrow On Papers At Press Club

The Press Club will show three short movies tomorrow night at its weekly meeting, Buddy Northart, president, said yesterday.

Press Club members are asked to meet at 7:30 in 306 Bynum Hall for a business meeting, after which they will go to the projection room of the Communications Center.

Movies to be shown are "Newspaper Story", "Describing an Incident" and "How To Improve Your Reading." The public is invited.

A membership drive for this year is underway and all students interested in becoming a member of the Press Club are asked to attend.

Programs On WUNC Listed

Listed below are the schedules for WUNC programs today and tomorrow.

Today's schedule:
7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime.
7:30—Oliver Twist.
8—The University Hour.
8:30—University of Chicago Roundtable.
9—TOhe Musician Comments.
9:15—The symphony Hour.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Tomorrow's schedule:
7 p.m.—Stories 'n Stuff.
7:30—Adventures in Research.
7:45—Songs of France.
8—The People Act.
8:30—Voices of Europe.
9—British Concert Hall.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Korea Veterans

Monthly attendance certifications for Korean Veterans must be signed immediately or checks for February will be delayed. Veterans should sign the certifications in 315 South Building, Col. F. C. Shepard said yesterday.

Looking Ahead

Tomorrow the brightest of high school scholars will visit the University to compete for the John Motley Morehead scholarships. Tomorrow, scholars—who are well-rounded students as well—from junior colleges and from colleges throughout the state meet with the Central Committee of he Morehead Foundation.

These students who are selected will receive $1,500 awards per annum in graduate work and $1,250 in undergraduate work. The total Morehead gift for educational aid amounts to almost $3,000,000.

We welcome these outstanding students. There coming serves as a reminder to the University of the benefits derived from the man who "likes to do things for his University." Right now, there are men who are doing graduate study as Morehead here because of the Morehead scholars. In September there will be new undergraduates here because of the Morehead program. We look around us and see the Bell Tower and the Planetarium, landmarks now. But when the projects were first considered, a lively controversy arose as to the values of a bell-tower or an astronomical wonderland.

Some faculty members quipped, "Why, Mr. Morehead, do you give us a silk hat, when we need patches on the threadbare seats of our trousers?" Morehead chuckled, "Some day you will grow up and the silk hat will fit you. . . . In the meantime, the Legislature may cover your bare necessities; but the Legislature never will give you a 'silk hat'." And now that the educational program has been launched, few North Carolinians would wonder about the values of Morehead's continuous benevolence towards the University.

The planetarium, for instance, has provided the University community with a practical understanding of the stars and the universe. But its influence extends to far greater realms than Chapel Hill. The planetarium presents the astronomical story to thousands of North Carolina school children—one of whom may be another John Motley Morehead—and to visitors and friends of the University.

Just as his grandfather, whose name he proudly bears, contributed to the State as a leading governor-citizen, so has this 20th century Morehead contributed. He is a man ahead of his times. He has found new horizons to conquer, new dreams to realize. This kind of spirit, looking ahead, is the kind of spirit the University ought to engender and kindle. It is the kind of feeling that will continue to generate great things for this center of learning and for the people of the state.

Whose Business Is It?

"It's none of your business" is the general theme of Dorman Cordell's article, appearing in another column.

The column indicts the press, citizens of the State, students and faculty for being interested in the Presbyterian Church controversy.

Columnist Cordell shares the feelings of many others when he points out that this is a Presbyterian affair to be settled within the bounds of Presbyterianism and not through the press or public discussion.

The Judicial Commission, which has fired the Rev. Charlie Jones, agrees with Cordell. Commission members have reiterated that the whole matter had no business being a public affair. Many students have wondered why we have even mentioned the matter editorially, why our news columns carry the views of the commission and the church officials.

The Daily Tar Heel considers the Jones case to be a matter of student and public interest for several reasons:.

Jones, whether he had been a professor, businessman, or farmer, would have aroused interest in the community. As a minister, he ministers to students, faculty, and administration, some of whom are not Presbyterians.

If Jones goes, then many students will lose faith in organized religion. Jones has a pulling power which interests people in Christianity.

The Daily Tar Heel doubts that most members of the commission are really concerned with the theological aspects of the case. If there is any possibility that Jones' "liberal" views, and his interests in making Christianity a practical matter are the reasons for the firing, then we feel the matter is worthy of public attention.

Over 150 members of the congregation disagree with the commission.

Many observers of the Presbyterian hassle feel that if the Commission is finally successful in its efforts to rid the Orange Presbytery of Jones, then other Presbyteries, other denominations will take note and begin purges of a similar nature.

The fact that the individuals of he Minister's Association here have asked the Commission to state publicly its reasons for ousting Jones is "butting into the Presbyterians' business" but at the same time shows concern over the methods used by the Commission.

For the church's well-being, for the community's welfare, and as a matter of public interest, we hope the full case will be reviewed by a higher court in public.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. — Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Graham Jones

Somewhere In Korea

(Editor's Note: Graham Jones, former Daily Tar Heel editor is now serving in the Army in Korea.)

Hello Chapel Hill-

While the Four Deuces (4.2 Mortars) and the 75's are at parade rest, I'll try to keep my Puerto Rican buddies, my Polish buddies, and my Rok buddies off my ear long enough to tell you that all is quiet along the Kumwha Sector of the Central Front of Korea.

The communications from S-2 tell us the lull won't continue ong, so before the weather gets warm and the Chinese come out of their winter Chink Holes, I will do my letter writing.

Time is relative here. To be explicit, we know what day it is when we eat meat loaf (Sunday usually); we know what month it is because the Esquire Magazines are always two months old by the time we "read" them; and we know what year it is because the Chinese overran one of our Outposts on New Years Eve and left Happy New Year Greetings for us to read when we reoccupied the Hill the following day.

Seriously, mail from North Carolina not only keeps me up to date with the calendar but also reminds me that it's basketball season at Woollen Gym, that the University and Student Parties are beginning to prime their candidates for the spring elections, and that it's Campus Chest time in Chapel Hill.

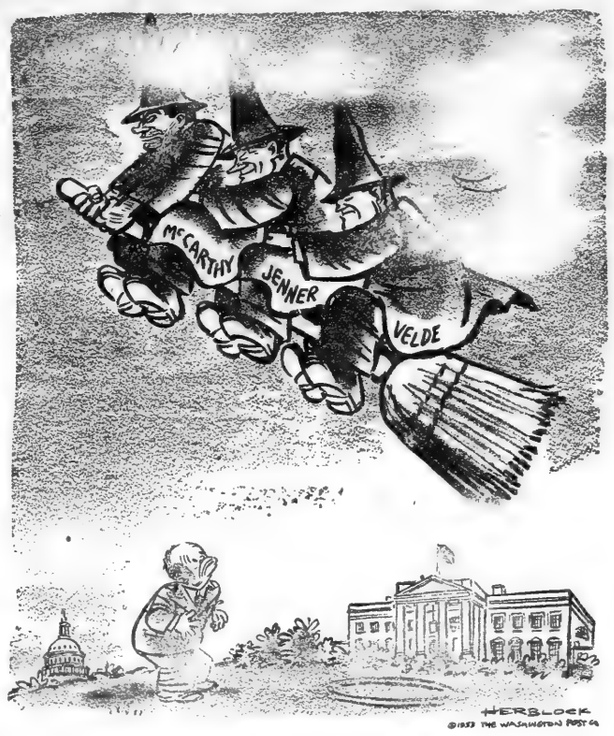
It was around this time of year in 1950 when under President Bill Mackie's administration and Dick Murphy's leadership, the Campus Chest was instituted at UNC. I remember because Murphy kept harassing us to help the Campus Chest when what we really wanted to do was to concentrate on basketball, student politics and Dr. Frank Graham's campaign.

Now I should like to put in a long distance plea for donations to WSSF, World Student Service Fund an integral part of your Campus Chest dollar.

The Koreans of your age were too busy fighting Chinese Communists on White Horse to enroll in colleges this year but we all hope that when students are returning to the Hill in September, 1953, our ROK buddies will be able to return to something better than a rice paddy.

Let there be no mistake, the Korean people are an intelligent, industrious and proud race. Their culture predates Genghis Khan's invasion of this peninsula. Like and GI, I don't enjoy sitting behind a heavy machine gun drinking C-Ration coffee on a hill in Korea as I enjoy sitting behind a cup of Mr. Danziger's Vienneset coffee in Chapel Hill. But ROK's in Dog Company have taught me things that four years' association with the intelligentsia of Mr. Danziger and the campus didn't teach me. The WSSF is helping to train the leaders for a free Korea. Any of the GI rotatees now enrolled at UNC will tell you of the vast needs of this land. You can help insure a free Korea, a prospering Korea, and a stable Korean government in Seoul by giving a little of your beer money, a little of your date money, and a little of your coffee money to Campus Chest for WSSF.

When I read Chancellor House's progress reports in the Alumni Magazine describing the new buildings at Chapel Hill, I think: If the ROK's in Dog Company had just one of those buildings to study in when they finally "rotate," what great strides they would make on these hills agriculturally, industrially and culturally.



Dr. Graham once said that the minds of the young are the "frontiers of democracy." Won't you invest a dollar or two in these frontiers?

In Dog Company we have a cliche: If you've got it, you break it down. It means that when I have a fruit cake from home I split it with everyone along my part of the Commo trench. It means that the Puerto Ricans give arroz con pollo, the Poles give me peconia koria, and the ROK's give me soo choo.

You Tar Heels have got it Won't you break it down?

Sincerely,
Graham Jones

The New Broom

Norman Jarrard

The Rio Kid

It has been over ten years since I have read any Western stories but I can still remember how much I once liked them. There is one in particular I remember that was given to me when I was about twelve years old. It was called Slim Evans and His Horse Lightning and I must have enjoyed it more than any other book I had read up to that time. Somehow or other I managed to keep it until this week when spousal pressure and lack of space caused me to get rid of it and a lot of other stuff. If anyone is curious to see what my taste in reading was he can probably pick up the book for nine cents at the Intimate before long.

So this week I read a Western called Rio Kid Justice, by Don Davis (Pocket Book). It is "A Triple-A Western Classic Selected and with an introduction by Erle Stanley Gardner." The introduction, I suppose, will catch the high-brow trade.. The story itself is about the Rio Kid's attempt to bring law and order to a law-and-orderless section of the West. Of course, that's what most Westerns are about. In fact, we find just about everything we might expect. "Shooting irons." "Jinging spurs." A villain with a knife up his sleeve. The leader of the outlaws turns out to be the most highly respected citizen in town. An ugly woman turns into a beautiful heroine. The hero gains valuable information about the outaws when onenight he is mistakenly taken to be a member of the gang.

I didn't object to any of this because it is all pretty funny. The author is writing in a tradition just as, you might say, an Elizabethan sonneteer did. Mr. Davis seems, at least, to know what he is doing. It is perfectly legitimate to laugh at the exaggerations, if you want to. Like this: The Kid has killed four men: "'Cactus and Bilious and Two-Finger . . . and Dawson back at the river. Four in one night.' Kitty counted them off on her fingers. 'I suppose you're proud of that.'" Later on Kitty is shot: "'It's just in my shoulder, I think,' she told him gaily." Then a character named Yost collapsed "against the wall beside the Kid, beeding from a dozen wounds, but laughing aloud joyously."

We even get something like literary influence when we read about "main-traveled" roads. At one place Homer's own "rosy fingers" of dawn wake up the heroine. The story has a nice circular action, ending as it was begun with the Kid writing a letter in a post office. We find a fourteener when we read about the Kid "shooting Bilious Allen through the belly as he went." To balance all this pedantic stuff we find a well-placed split infinitive when the heroine "whirled away swiftly from in front of the mirror to modestly avoid looking at the refection of a slim young body."

What I'm saying is that we can sometimes find something to enjoy in books like these even if we have to take the attitude of Thesus toward Bottom and his crew, and then "Our sport shall be to take what they mistake."

Somewhat the same can be said for this week's representatives in other "traditions." In fantasy theer is A. Merritt's Moon Pool (Avon), in science fiction, Murray Leinster's Space Platform (Pocket Book), and in the mystery, another Barney Forge story, The Other Body in Grant's Tomb, by Richard Starnes (Pocket Book)..

CUP Roundtable

By Fred Crawford

"The Significance of the Seperation of Church and State" will be the topic of discussion at the meeting tonight of the Carolina Political Union in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. Visitors are invited to attend the discussion which will get underway at 8.

This topic is a logical outgrowth of several recent discussions. These have touched upon moral aspects of the State as well as legal aspects of the Church.

One of the major problem areas which arises from the Separation is formal education—especially the education of children. Traditionally, both the State and many church groups have had vested interests in regards to education. This situation has led to conflicts of which many are still in exist ence today. One of these is whether or not public monies or facilities should be used for parochial schools.

The situation in this country shall serve as a point of departure for the discussion; however, the treatment may be broadened to other countries.

John Gibson

The Turned Worm

'Twas the evening of Germans, and all through the dorm,
Not a creature was stirring, though tempers were warm.
The stockings were Luxed with the greatest of care,
(It heightenes the sheen, and gives twice as much wear.)
The girls were all snuggled safe in their beds,
While visions of imports danced in their heads.
And I in my Tux, and my date all in white,
Had just settled down for an evening of spite.
When up from the gym there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the car to see what was the matter.
And what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a great horde of coeds, a sight to fear.
Their eyes how they shone, with maddness and hate,
I knew in an instance our visitors' fate.
"Down with the imports," the voices they came,
And they whistled and shouted and called them by name
"You cheap dashing dancers, you prance like a vixen,
"No comments on cupid, we'll give you a blitz'n.
"From the top of the dorm, from the top of the wall,
"We'll give you a beating, so fly away all."
The Chapel Hill men, all gentlemen fair,
Stood by and watched with an impartial air,
For protecting their dates was a rule they all knew,
But you can't hit a woman, so what could they do?
The struggle, how fierce; the prospect how jolly,
They were fight'n for us, by gosh and by golly.
They went straight to their task, and the imports took flight
Like the down of a thistle, (I think that is right.)
Then they laid down their clubs, and tried to look coy,
And said, "okey now chase us, it's your turn old boy."
But we men had wised up, though almost too late,
"We go fifty-fifty, or sorry, no date."
They knew they were beaten, and at least had the grace
To take defeat bravely, with a smile on each face.
They left their high horses, were soon acting nice,
We men, on the other hand, we're glad to de-ice.
I hope you can see the point to this fable,
Though the rhyme it is poor, for the poet's not able.
Just remember you coeds, you've oft heard us say-so,
Though greatly out-manned, you can't date a ratio.

Dorman Cordell

Leave 'Em Be

Returning after a brief absence due to tests, term papers, and attempts to get into the Coast Guard, we briefly pause to take note of the troubles of one Lee Edward Paul. Mr. Paul a couple of Sundays ago, indicated he does not hold a high opinion of this column. Well, now, to tell you the truth Mr. Paul, I agree with you personally, but who are we to argue with 6000 other readers.

Since everybody else has written or spoken about the probems of the Presbyterian Church of Chapel Hill, may we, in a rare moment of seriousness, add our view of the situation.

The Presbyterian Church is a private body which has always reserved the right to accept or reject for membership any applicant as it sees fit. It has also, so far as is generally known, called or dismissed ministers as the church itself sees fit.

No doubt Charles Jones is a fine man, and there seems to be little dissent to that. There has been no question raised as to Charles Jones' character. What has been questioned is whether Charlie Jones is a Presbyterian. Apparently, some members of the Presbyterian Church in the State of North Carolina and the County of Orange do not think Charlie Jones adheres in his ministry to the bounds prescribed by the Church. Therefore, this group has seen fit to fire Mr. Jones.

A great many people have seemed quite disturbed about the situation at the Presbyterian Church since it began, and since it was highly publicized. Most of these peope are not Presbyterians and many of them probably have never set foot inside the Presbyterian church. Yet they are disturbed.

If one were to check through the history of the Presbyterian Church, one would probably find that since its inception, the Presbyterians somehow take care of their affairs without help from outsiders. And Presbyterians have in the past generally taken the view that they are under no obligation to anyone but themselves and God and the Presbyterian Church.

If the Presbyterian Church of Chapel Hill chooses to fire Charlie Jones and call Father Divine to the pulpit, that is the business of the Presbyterian Church of Chapel Hill. If they choose to tear down the church building and erect a billiard parlor, that is the business of the Presbyterian Church of Chapel Hill—so long as it keeps within the laws of the political community, that it.

What the Presbyterian Church of Chapel Hill chooses to do is certainly no concern of mine, and one wonders if it is the concern of the local newspapers (including The Daily Tar Heel) or the local citizenry except those in the Presbyterian Church itself.

Personally, I do not expect the Presbyterian Church to tell me how to write this column, and I do not expect to tell the members of the Presbyterian Church how to run their church.

May we all therefore go forth and do likewise.

Carolina Captures 9 Of 14 Firsts In Swimming Meet

Baarcke And Evans Lead Tar Heels

By John Hussey

RALEIGH, Feb. 28—The Carolina swimming team took nine of 14 first places today in the Southern Conference championship swimming meet.

The Tar Heels established four new records while N. C. State took the other five first places and set two new records.

Donnie Evans and Buddy Baarcke took two individual first places and shared in the relay victory. There were no official point totals kept for the meet.

Evans' time of 2:20.9 in the 200-yard breaststroke also established a new University record and is one of the top times recorded in the nation this year.

The high board diving was held at Carolina's Bowman-Gray Memorial Pool this morning because State has no high diving facilities.

Both State and Carolina will be represented at the nationals to be held March 7.

Summaries

1,500 meter freestyle — 1. Nauss (State); 2. Ruppenphal (State); 3. Shannon (UNC); 4 Gill (UNC); 5. Roberts (Duke). Time—19:21.1. New SC record.

50-yd. freestyle—1. Sonia (State); 2. Churn (State); 3. Heins (UNC); 4. Walske (Duke). Time—23.9.

200-yd. backstroke — 1. Baarcke (UNC); 2. Dunlap (State); 3. Heeman (UNC); 4. Jewell (UNC); 5. Johnson (VMI). Time—2:13.7.

220-yd. freestyle — 1. Mattson (State); 2. Ruppenpahl (State); 3. Shannon (UNC); 4. James (State); 5. Mellin (Duke). Time—2:15.4.

200-yd. breaststroke — 1. Evans (UNC); 2. Nauss (State); 3. Lynes (State); 4. Arata (State); 5. Deyton (State). Time — 2:20.9. New SC record.

One meter diving — 1. Stenberg (State); 2. Kelso (UNC); 3. Clement (USC); 4 Sikes (State); Pottenberg (Duke). Score: 138.9.

400-yd. freestyle relay — 1. UNC (Edwards, Tinkham, Evans and Heins); 2. State; 3. Duke; 4. VPI: 5. VMI. Time—3:38.9. New SC record.

100-yd. backstroke — 1. Baarcke (UNC); 2. Dunlap (State); 3. Heeman (UNC); 4. Johnson (VMI); 5. Hoyt (VMI). Time—59:8. (New SC record of 59.2 set by Baarcke in trials.)

100-yd breaststroke — 1. Wall (UNC); 2. Mattson (State); 3. Arata (State); 4. Jones (VPI); 5. Lynes (State). Time—1:03.9.

100-yd freestyle — 1. Edwards (UNC); 2. Churn (State); 3. Tinkham (UNC); 4. Sonia (State); 5. Heins (UNC). Time—52.7. New SC record.

440-yd. freestyle — 1. Nauss (State) 2. Ruppenpahl (State) 3. Shannon (UNC) 4. Mellin (Duke) 5. Gill (UNC). Time—4:41.7. New SC record.

150-yd. individual medley — 1. Evans (UNC) 2. Mattson (State) 3. Heeman (UNC) 4. Jones (VPI) 5. James (State). Time—1:32.8.

Three meter diving—1. Kelso (UNC) 2. Clement (USC) 3. Ridgely (VMI) 4. Stenberg (State) 5. Pottenberg (Duke). Score—417.5.

300-yd. medley relay—1. UNC (Baarcke, Wall and Tinkham) 2. State 3. VMI 4. Duke 5. VPI. Time—2.57.9.

CLYDE GARRISON
. . . Wins Weil Mile

Full Summaries From Yesterday Carried Below

(Continued from page 1)

got a second in the 70-yard high's and a third in the low's to collect five points for Carolina.

Tate gave one of the meet's finest showings when he won the 440-yard dash. Given an outside starting position and forced to run against three Maryland runners, he closed fast to win the race in a nice of :51.3.

The highly touted Jay (Poppa) Hall of Florida won the non-conference high jump, receiving his only trouble from teammate J. D. Hester. Hall, former AAU champ, cleared the bar at six feet, six inches with ease to win the title for the third straight year.

Conference Summaries

Shot Put — 1. Lawshe (Duke); 2. Hunt (West Virginia); 3. Morris (UNC); 4. Dyson (Maryland). Distance: 48 feet, 11 inches.

Broad Jump — 1. Shankle (Duke); 2. Mapp (VMI); 3. Yarborough (UNC). Distance: 22 feet, 6 inches.

High Jump — 1. Lankford (VPI); 2. Shankle (Duke); 3. Tie between Jordan (UNC), Bell (UNC), Risjord (W & M), Yoder (State), Kientz (Richmond) and Summers(USC). Height: 6 feet, 5 inches. New record: old record of 6 feet, 4 and one-eighth inches held by Bill Albans of UNC, 1949.

Mile run — 1. Garrison (State); 2. Bill Jordan (Richmond); 3. Morris Osborne (UNC); 4. McBride (USC). Time: 4:21.4.

60-yd.-dash — 1. Newton (UNC); 2. Mapp (VMI); 3. Matthews (Maryland); 4. Beane (Richmond). Time: :06.4.

MILE relay:—1. Maryland (Coss, Wilson, Hemler and Stroup) 2 Duke 3. VMI 4. VPI. Time—3:30.5.

Pole vault—1. Tie amonk Cates (Duke), Butler (Md.), Schwars (Md.), Jordan (UNC) Duke (UNC) and Roberts (VPI). Height—12 feet, 10 inches.

440-yd. dash—1. Tate (Duke) 2. Stroup (Md.) 3. Shipley (Davidson) 4. Hemler (Md.). Time—51:3.

70-yd. high hurdles—1. Shankle (Duke) 2. Beall (UNC) 3. Scott (UNC) 4. Murray (UNC). Time—:08.9.

Two-mile run—1. Shafer (VPI) 2. Swayer (State) 3. Barden (UNC) 4. Thoburn (West Va.). Time—9:37.5.

880-yd. run—1. Tate (Duke) 2. Angle (VMI) 3. Thonrton (Md.) 4. Miller (VPI). Time—1:59.1.

70-yd. lw hurdles—1. Mapp (VMI) 2.Scott (UNC) 3. Shankle (Duke) 4. Beall (UNC). Time—:07.9.

Non-Conference Sumaries

Shot Put — 1. Lund (Roanoke); 2. Davis (Georgia); 3. Walker (Wofford). Distance: 40 geet, 9 and three-fourths inches.

High Jump — 1. Hall (Florida); 2. Hester (Flroida); 3. Davis (Georgia); 4. Perry (Georgia). Height 6 feet, six inches.

Broad Jump — 1. Bullard (Alabama); 2. Jones (Kentucky); 3. Jankovich (Alabama); 4. Davis (Georgia Tech). Distance: 21 feet, 11 inches.

60-yd.-dash — 1. Spangler (Bridgewater); 2. Hooper (Georgia); 3. Dodd (Georgia); 4. Criddle(Sewannee). Time: :06.7.

Pole vault—1. Poucher (Fla.) 2. Tie among Brasfield (Va.), Gant (Catholic) and Yde (Ala.). Height—12 feet, 6 inches.

70-yd. low hurdles—1. Latham (Va.) 2. Bullard, (Ala.) 3. Carr (Roanoke 4. Criddle (Sewannee). Time—:07.9. New Record; old record set by Fowlkes of Ga. Tech. 1949, :08.0.

One-mile run—1. Schmid (Catholic) 2. Cagnon (Ala.) 3. Irving (Roanoke) 4. Noel (Roanoke). Time—4:33.0.

70-yd. high hurdles—1. Latham

(See SUMMARIES, page 4)

Newport News Cops Scholastic Division Of Games; W-L Second

Newport News, Va. won the scholastic division of the Southern Conference Indoor Games at Woollen Gym last night, scoring 10 and ¾ points to barely edge two other Virginia schools, Woodberry Forest and Washington-Lee of Arlington.

The Newport News team had but a single first place, that coming when Warren tied for a top spot in the pole vault, but depth down the line gave it the win.

Washington-Lee was second with six points with Woodberry Forrest a scant quarter of a point behind. Fourth place found a tie among Charlotte Central, Durham High and Woodrow Wilson of Portsmouth, Va., all with five points.

The rest of the teams were spread out, thinly behind. Next came Culpepper, Va. and Granby of Norfolk in a tie for seventh place with four points; Druid Hills, Emory, Ga., with three points; Hillsboro with two and one half; Jefferson of Roanoke and Lane of Charlottesville, one and one half points each and Reynolds of Winston-Salem with one.

Scholastic Summaries

High Jump — 1. Tie between Barber (Hillsboro) and Warren (Newport News). 3. Tie between Goode (Newport News), Keller (Lane), Low (Woodberry Forest) and Bently (Jefferson). Height: 5 feet, 9 inches.

1,000-yard. run — 1. Beatty (Charlotte); 2. Waymouth (Newort News); 3. Porter (Woodrow Wilson); 4. Chukinas (Culpepper). Time: 2:26.1.

60-yd. dash — 1. Honeycutt (Durham); 2. Riggs (Wilson); 3. Simpson (Granby); 4. Hawkins (Culpepper). Time: :06.7.

70-yd. high hurdles—1. McGill (Woodberry Forest) 2. Smith (Druid Hills) 3. Mitchell (Culpepper) 4. King (WL). Time—:09.4.

One-mile relay—1. W-L (Calhoun, Ingwalson, Walker and Jackson) 2. Newport News 3. Norfolk Granby 4. Winston-Salem Reynolds. Time—3:40.

Sigma Nu's Beat Phi Delt's For Intramural Swim Title

Sigma Nu fraternity, pacing a field that broke seven records, won the intramural swimming meet at BowmanGray pool Thursday night, topping the defending champs, Phi Delta Theta, 68-53.

In one of the fastest meets the department has seen, the Sigma Nu's took four first paces and then counted on team depth to beat the Phi Delt's.

Following the Sigma Nu's and Phi Delt's were 10 other teams. In order of their finish were SAE, 46; Beta, 20; Phi Gam, 16; PiKA, 12; Joyner, 10; DKE, 9;; Sigma Chi, 7; Phi Kappa Sig, 4; Kappa Sig, 3; and Mangum, 1.

Record breakers were Tommy McAllister of Sigma Chi who did the 25-yard freestyle in :11.1; John Colson of PiKA in the 50-yard breast stroke in :31.4; Bill Baker of Phi Delta Theta who swam the 50-yard back stroke in :29.7.

Baker came back in the 25-yard back stroke to set a new record of :13.6. Lyn Bond of the winning Sigma Nu's set a new mark in the 75-yard individual medley with a :47.8 effort.

Both relay records were also broken, the Sigma Nu's lowered the 150-yard medley mark to 1:32.5 and SAE set a new standard in the 200-yard free style of 1:47.2.

Bond and Baker gave probably the best individual performances of the night. Baker's time in the 50-yard back stroke lowered the old record by a little more than two seconds and Bond's individual medley record was a full four seconds better than the old record.

The summaries:

25-yard freestyle—1. McAllister (Sigma Chi); 2. McMillan (SAE); 3. Barwick (Phi Gam). Time—.11.1.

50-yard breast stroke—1. Colson (PiKA); 2. Allison (Phi Delt); 3. Merritt (Sigma Nu). Time—:31.4.

100-yard freestyle—1. Ragland (Sigma Nu); 2. Ray (Joyner); 3. Wettach (SAEO). Time—:59.5.

50-yard back stroke—1. Baker (Phi Delt); 2. Page (Phi Delt); 3. Hamrick (Sigma Nu). Time—:29.7.

50-yard freestyle — 1. Pless (DKE);; 2. McMillan (SAE); 3. Irvin (Beta). Time—:26.5.

Diving—1. Brumley (Sigma Nu) 149.7 points; 2. Ragland (Sigma Nu) 112.6 points; 3. Patterson (Joyner) 96.9 points.

25-yard back stroke—1. Baker (Phi Delt); 2. Page (Phi Delt); 3. Hamrick(Sigma Nu). Time—:13.6.

75-yard individual medley — 1. Bond (Sigma Nu); 2. Colson (PiKA); 3. Allison (Phi Delt). Time—:47.8.

150-yard medley relay—1. Sigma Nu (Kimzey, Merritt, Ragand); 2. Phi Delta Theta; 3. Beta. Time—1:32.5.

(Newcomb, Wettach, McMillan,

200-yard freestyle relay—1. SAE Pell) 2. Sigma Nu; 3. Beta. Time—1:47.2.

UNC Matmen Get 14-9 Win Over Cadets

The blue and white grapplers held a 14-9 lead with 290 pounder Lou Parham almost sure of a win in the heavyweight decision. By winning, Carolina wound up its dual meet season with a record of three wins against seven defeats. This gives them a seventh place standing in the Southhern Conference. In the most exciting match, UNC's Tyndall pinned VMI's Barclay in 6:58. The summaries are as follows:

123 lb. — Pawlik decisioned Moore, 6-0.

130 lb. — Tyndall pinned Barclay, 6:58.

137 lb. — Robertson, VMI, decisioned Haines, 6-0.

147 — Brown, VMI, decisioned McGehee, 10-0.

157 — A. Gregory UNC outpointed Berry, 3-2.

167 — Nowitsky, VMI, decisioned Bradshaw, 7-4.

177 — M. Gregory decisioned Anderson, 9-5.

The grapplers wind up their competition for this season next Friday and Saturday when they take part in the Southern Conference Tournament at Lexington, Va. This meet will not be on a team basis but instead, individuals in the various weight classes will be matched against each other with a champion being declared in each class.

MURALS

Tomorrow's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, PiKA 2 vs Sigma Nu 1; field 2, Chi Phi vs Phi Delt 1; field 3, Sigma Chi 1 vs Phi Gam 2.

5:00—Field 1, Med School 2 vs Graham; field 2, Med School 3 vs Joyner; field 3, Ruffin 1 vs Med School 1.

Tomorrow's Basketball

5:00—Court 3, ATO 3 vs Emerson 2 (Campus Championship).

Blue Devils Top Carolina, 83-58, To Capture Big Four Crown

The Carolina basketball team couldn't keep up with Duke in the second half Friday night and the Blue Devils became the third Big Four team in the last two weeks to score a lop-sided victory over the Tar Hees. The score of this one was 83-58.

The score was tied 30-30 at the half but the Tar Heel couldn't find the range on the basket after the intermission, while Duke was pouring in the points.

Richmond beat William and Mary, 76-70 last night. This puts UNC eighth in SC standings and places them against State in the opening tourney round.

Janicki, with 23 points, was the game's individual high scorer. Reigel was runner-up for scoring honors with 19 points. Decker, who scored 14. took 19 rebounds off the backboards, a high mark for any Duke player all season.

Jerry Vayda was the high scorer for Carolina with 14 points and he contributed to the losing cause with 15 rebounds. Al Lifson, whose average paces the Carolina team, was the big disappointment of the night for Tar Heel fans as he was unable to score a single field goal.

DANZIGER'S

TODAY'S MENU

Mr. "D's Onion Soup with croutons and grated cheese ..... $.30
Gardenfresh Mushroom Soup ..... $.20
French Wine Herring with hard boiled egg, lettuce, tomato and olives ..... $.75
Chicken Salad on shredded lettuce with tomato, hard boiled egg, and potato salad ..... $.85
Stuffed Bartlett Pear and Peach-salad, cream cheese, nuts, cherry, lettuce and finger sandwiches ..... $.65

SPECIAL

Spiced Lamb en casserole with pie-crust, lettuce, tomato and vegetable and salad ..... $.90

Western Prime Roastbeef, French Fries, two vegetables and salad $1.65
Roast of Pork with Mintsauce, creamed potatoes, two vegetables, salad $1.25
Czech Meatroulade with sour cream and two vegetables ..... $.85
Sauerbraten with special gravy, dumplings and two vegetables, saga $1.10
Wiener Schnitzel with potato salad, two vegetables $1.25
Hungarian Beef Goulash with potatoes and vegetable $1.10
Swiss Steak with eggnoodles, vegetable and salad ..... $.85
Roasted Spring Chicken with potatoes, vegetable and salad $.90

We Are Open Every Sunday Afternoon
(12 - 5 p.m.)

How many Sundays have you wanted to go on a picture-taking adventure and find yourself out of film or other camera supplies? Foister's Camera Store is open every Sunday afternoon especially for those "little forgetful camera supplies." Remember, it's never too late to buy camera supplies at Foister's!

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE
"Send A Snapshot With Every Letter"

WEDNESDAY
MARCH 11th, 8:30 p.m.
10th ANNIVERSARY TOUR

WITH A SUPERB B'WAY CAST—
COMPANY OF 75
plus
ORCHESTRA OF 20

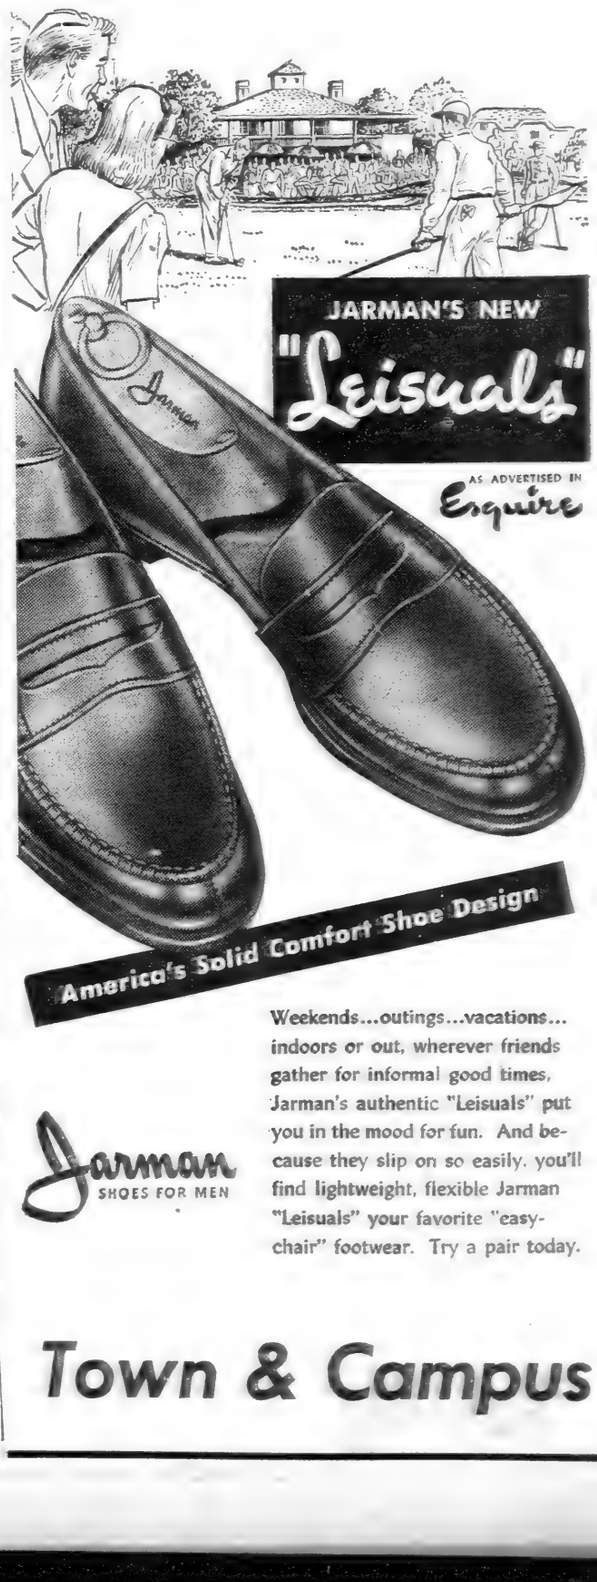
Mail Order Sale Now

Orch. & Mezz.	4.20
Rear Orch. & 1st Bal.	3.60
2nd Bal.	3.00
Col. Mezz.	1.80
Col. Bal.	1.20

PLEASE SEND SELF ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE

CAROLINA THEATRE
DURHAM, N. C.

Today It's . . .
COUNTRY
HAM
AND
HOT BUTTERMILK
BISCUITS



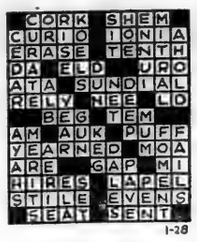
THE NEW UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT
AND OF COURSE, ALWAYS THE BEST IN STEAKS

Marilyn Monroe

hits with the power of Niagara itself . . . as the screen reaches a new high-water mark in suspense!

20th Century-Fox presents
"Niagara"
starring
MARILYN MONROE · JOSEPH COTTEN
JEAN PETERS
Technicolor
NOW PLAYING
Carolina

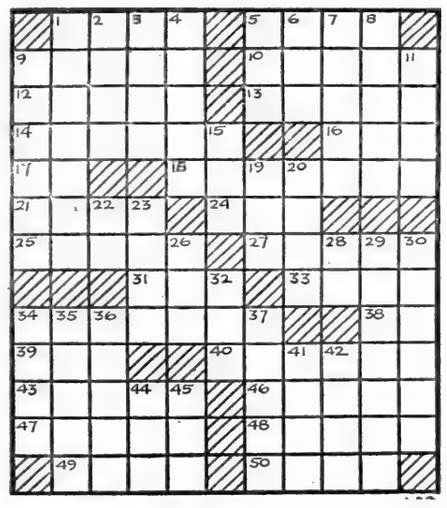
Jarman SHOES FOR MEN



Weekends...outings...vacations... indoors or out, wherever friends gather for informal good times, Jarman's authentic "Leisuals" put you in the mood for fun. And because they slip on so easily, you'll find lightweight, flexible Jarman "Leisuals" your favorite "easy-chair" footwear. Try a pair today.

Town & Campus

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Talon
5. Have (obs.)
9. Glow
10. Oil of rose petals
12. Tropical disease
13. Fry lightly
14. A group of eight
16. Pinch
17. All correct (slang)
18. Comes into view
21. A form of lotto
24. Shoshonean Indian
25. Breathe noisily in sleep
27. Custom
31. Fortify
33. Stir
34. Scoundrel
38. Ahead
39. Wine receptacle
40. Plentiful (colloq.)
43. Claws
46. Deserve
47. Wading bird
48. Borders
49. Whirlpool
50. Speaks

DOWN
1. Fowl
2. Fluff
3. A pilaster
4. Make cloth
5. Owns
6. Luzon native
7. Pricked painfully
8. Potato (dial.)
9. Specters
11. Twilled fabrics
15. Ostrich-like bird
19. Anglo-Saxon letter
20. Quantity of paper
22. Negative reply
23. Verbal
26. Epoch
28. Board of Ordnance (abbr.)
29. Piano keys (slang)
30. Doctrines
32. Foreign plane (Korean war)
34. Weather-cock
35. Semblance
36. Proprietor of a landed estate (Scot.)
37. Entitles
41. Mother of Castor and Pollux
42. Carousal
44. Guided
45. Pig pen

1-28

Yesterday's Answer

In Your Church

By Tom Neal Jr.

Baptist

A brief talk by Dr. Arnold Nash of the Religion Department will highlight tonight's Baptist Student Union Supper Forum. Dr. Nash will continue the topic of discussion for this quarter, "Origins of the Bible" by speaking on the creation, "contrasting the Biblical account with the scientific account. Ken Sanford, a junior in the Journalism School, will speak about the writer of the creation story.

A delegation of Carolina BSUers will go to Woman's College next Saturday for fellowship with WC BSU members. Those interested and anyone who can offer a car for the trip are asked to contact a member of the BSU. A skating rink party has been planned by the WC girls.

Need insight into the last 10 chapters of Isiah? Then Sunday School at the 10 a.m. class with Dr. Preston Epps, Greek professor, will help. Dr. S. T. Habel will preach this morning on "The Next Move Is Yours."

Christian Science

"Christ Jesus" is the topic of the lesson-sermon in Christian Science churches throughout the world today.

Golden text is from John: "God sent not his son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved."

Lesson-sermon read at the Sunday services consist of citations from the Bible and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," the denominational textbook, by Mary Baker Eddy.

Citations from the textbook include the following references: "Jesus established in the Christian era the precedent for all Christianity, theology, and healing. Christians are under as direct orders now, as they were then, to be Christlike, to possess the Christ-spirit, to follow the Christ-example, and to heal the sick as well as the sinning . . ." (p. 138: 17-22) Local Science services are in New West.

Congregational - Christian

The United Student Fellowship will meet for student discussion at 10 o'clock this morning.

The 11 a.m. sermon is entitled "My Brother's Keeper." USF supper is at 6 p.m. and will be followed by discussion and recreation.

Methodist

"What is the Bible About?" has been the question around which the lectures and discussions have been built at the Sunday morning "cocoa confab" by Wesley Foundation members. This morning the group continues its study of Moses and his relation to Judaism and Christianity. They will meet at 9:45 a.m. around the breakfast table in the basement of the church.

Members of the University Methodist Church are honoring the Wesley Foundation tonight at 6:00 p.m. with a covered dish supper. The program will feature a discussion of "Far Eastern Beliefs" and their relation to Christianity.

The Fellowship of the Concerned, a group of students interested in raising prayerfully some of the serious questions of life, begins Tuesday a new study of "Proclaiming Christ." The group meets in the church kitchen on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 7-7:50 a.m. and newcomers are cordially invited.

Fifteen minutes at the close of the day is given to a veser service in the chapel each Monday and Thursday at 5:45 p.m.

Presbyterian

Dr. Thomas Schaffer of Duke Divinity School will preach at both morning services today. Following the 11 a.m. service there will be an informal gathering of the congregation to hear from the officers on plans and to give any advice necessary to them concerning plans for action in the near future.

The Rev. Charles Jones will not preach at the church until such time as the action concerning him has been reviewed by a higher court of the Presbyterian Church.

The Sunday School class for students to meet at the Manse for breakfast at 9:30 and follows the meal with a session on the life of Christ.

Mrs. Carl Judy of Asheboro will meet with the student group tonight to tell them about the Korean people and the problems they are now facing. Mrs. Judy has lived in Korea for more than 15 years and her husband is now there as a Methodist missionary. All students who wish to give intelligently to the Campus Chest Drive are specially invited to meet with the group in the Church Annex at 6 p.m. for supper and at 7 p.m. to discover some of the needs that monetary gifts will help meet.

Episcopal

The New York Club will meet in the Episcopalian Parish tonight at 8:45 p.m. The discussion, to be led by Prof. S. Young Tyree Jr., of the Chemistry Department, will be on the topic "Christianity and the Natural Sciences." The York Club is an organization for graduate students and faculty sponsored by the Episcopal Church. All interested persons are welcome.

Chapel of the Cross:

8 a.m.—Holy Communion.

11—Holy Communion Sermon.

6 p.m.—Canterbury Club. Election of officers for the coming year.

9:15—Student Discussion Group.

8—Evening prayer address.

Unitarian

"The Impact of Science on Society" is the subject for discussion tonight at a meeting of the Unitarian Fellowship, with Dr. Everett Hall, chairman of the Department of Philosophy, as leader. The meeting is at 8:30 p.m. in the YWCA Lounge and is open to the public.

Catholic

The Newman Club will meet today with the Methodist group at their regular Sunday supper meeting. Members will meet at Smith Dorm at 5:45 p.m. Mass is celebrated daily in Gerrard Hall at 7:20 a.m., except Sunday. Confessions are heard every Saturday evening from 7 to 8 p.m. Mass is celebrated on Sunday at 8 o'clock and 9:30 a.m. in Gerrard Hall.

—Summaries—

(Continued from page 3)

(Va.) 2. Bullard (Ala.) 3. Perry (Ga.) 4. McMullins (Va.). Time—:09.0.

880-yd. run—1. Schmid (Catholic) 2. Wallace (Kentucky) 3. Tannehill (Ga. Tech) 4. Chione (Ala.). Time—2:03.8.

One-mile relay: 1. Georgia (Dodd, Harrison, Burton and Hooper) 2. Virginia 3. Ga. Tech 4. Catholic. Time—3:38.2.

Chi Phi's Hold Durham Dance In Pledge Honor

Alpha Alpha chapter of Chi Phi fraternity honored its pledges with a formal dance and banquet at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham Friday.

Tom Stewart and his orchestra of Durham furnished music for the dance. The ballroom was decorated with flowers and foliage in the background and placques bearing pledge names were on the wall. A large replica of the Chi Phi pin hung behind the bandstand.

Yesterday's activities included a cocktail party at the house and music provided by a combo in the afternoon and an Apache party at the house last night.

Pledges and their dates formed a figure at Friday night's dance. Each girl was presented with a small stuffed dog as a favor.

Taking part in the figure was J. B. Ashe, Charlotte, pledge president, with Norma Hockrider, Raleigh; Al Laughinghouse, New Bern, vice-president, with Pat Wheeler, Troy, N. Y.; Jim Wiles, Hampton Va., secretary, with Joyce Wunder, Hampton, Va.; Jack Little, East Point Va., treasurer, with Lois Collins, Nashville.

Joe Carter, Fayetteville, with Sheila Schwartz, Durham; Dan Duval, Charlotte, with Libby Underwood, Asheboro; Rufus Hackney, Durham, with Betty Duncan, Durham; John Hallett, Lake Wales, Fla., with Helen Beard, Hillsboro; Chuck Hastings, Burlington, with Charlene Woods, Greensboro; Roger Herbert, Portsmouth, O., with Nancy Zigler, Madison.

Al Hough, Charlotte, with Anna Hoyle, Charlotte; Blake Hunter, Charlotte, with Peggy Ballard, Charlotte; Jack McGinn, Charlotte, with Claudia Elliott, Raleigh; Bob Merritt, Greenville, S. C., with Noel Parker, Greenville, S. C.

John Norwood, Greenville, S. C., with Mary Drake, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mike Soper, Charlotte, with Paula Jones, Flat River, Mo.; Bill Sanders, Asheboro, with Elizabeth Sumner, Asheboro; Bill Ragsdale, Raleigh, with Edith Thompson, Raleigh; Bill Warwick, Wilmington, with Shirley Seagroves; Dick Valentine, Bronxville, N. Y., with Maria Rayner, Greensboro.

Direct from London & Broadway Triumphs
"Magnificent! Master of acting."—Atkinson, Times
S. HUROK presents
EMLYN WILLIAMS
AS
Charles Dickens

MEMORIAL HALL — Chapel Hill
SAT., Mar. 7, 8:30 p.m.
All Seats Reserved
$3.30 — $2.20 — $1.10
Mail Orders: The Carolina Playmakers, Box 1050—Tel. 9471

ZBT's Festive Weekend Marks 26th Birthday

Alpha Pi Chapter of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity, which was established at the University on February 26, 1927, is celebrating its twenty - sixth anniversary this weekend.

Festivities began with a buffet dinner at the chapter house Friday, followed by a "get - acquainted hour." A formal dance at the Carolina Inn was held Friday night 9 until 12. Music was provided by Buddy Klein and his Statesmen. Highlight of the evening was a presentation of a pin and a dozen roses to the chapter's 1953 Sweetheart, Miss Saralyn Bonowitz.

Following this dance, there was a late breakfast at the house. A skit was provided by the Fall pledge class last night.

Yesterday was devoted to sightseeing and picture-taking on the campus. An excursion to Hogan's Lake was held.

A semi-formal banqet was held last night at the Ranch House. Each date was presented with a party favor.

Rabbi E. M. Rosenzweig gave the invocation and Chapter President Gene Oberdorfer welcomed the guests. The main address of the evening was given by Dean of Students, Fred Weaver.

Immediately following the banquet, brothers and dates returned to the house where a party featured Willie Hargraves' combo. The theme of the evening was a "Condemned Party."

The weekend was planned and coordinated by Art Barbanell, Zeta Beta Tau Social Chairman.

Brothers, pledges and dates were President Gene Oberdorfer, Atlanta, Ga. with Saralyn Bonowitz, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Vice President Mitchell Novit, Walterboro, S. C. with Edna Knighten, Montgomery, Ala.; Secretary Al Heilig, Kinston with Freda Hobowsky, Scotland Neck; Treasurer Buddy Simon, Augusta, Ga. with Jeanette Gold, Greensboro; Art Barbanel, New York, N. Y. with Ann Falk, Greensboro; Barry Kalb, Maplewood, N. J. with Joan Bierman, Miami Beach, Fla.; Ted Frankel, Atlanta, Ga. with Sidell Simmons, Atlanta Ga.

Herb Cohn, Chattanooga, Tenn. with Sue Mandel, Highland Park, Ill.; Lou Wolfsheimer, Baltimore, Md. with Shirley Jules, Baltimore, Md.; Art Einstein, State College Pa., with Pris Price, Woodmere, N. Y.; A. Burnham, Atlanta, Ga.; Richie Adelsheim, Pittsburgh, Pa. with Etta Rose Mann, Whiteville; Pete Block, Pittsburgh, Pa. with Bootsie Lucas, Greensboro;

Jim Buyer, East Orange, N. J. with Joy Fishbach, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Ben Marks, Greensboro with Joy Fishbach, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Ben Marks, Greensboro with Jackie Shere, Towson, Md.; Seymour Bane, Raleigh with Janice Jurezak, Endicott, N. Y.; Mike Starr, Jersey City, N. J. with Sue Shuff, New York, N. Y.

Lew Sherman, New York, N. Y. with Sandi Brooks, New York, N. Y.; Jay Cohen, Atlanta Ga. with Sue Dryzer, Greensboro; Fred Rosenberg, Troy, Ala. with Judy Myers, Miami Beach Fla.; Al Resnick, Miami Beach, Fla. with Beverly Shapiro, Miami Beach, Fla.; Jim Goldenberg, Lawrence, N. Y. with Nan Richman, Woodmere, N. Y.

Skipper Nelson, Washington, D. C. with Pat Rudman, New Martinsville, Va.; Howie Reiss, Maplewood, N. J. with Gere Bensky, Towson, Md.

Shaw Journey Planned Today

Students have been invited by the YMCA to join a deputation to Shaw University this afternoon.

The first group, under the direction of Bennett Myers, will leave the Y Building at 2:30 p.m. The group will take part in a vesper service at 4 p.m. at the Bloodworth Street YMCA in Raleigh. Students from Shaw University will also participate.

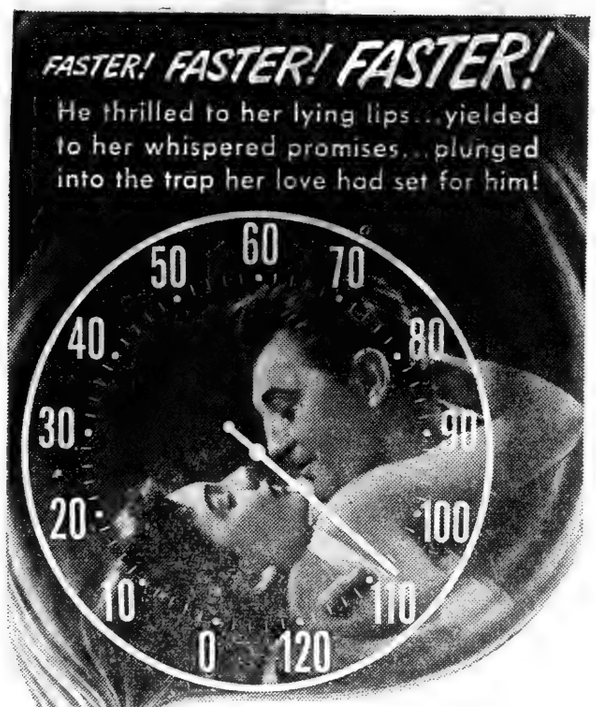
A second group will leave the Y at 5 o'clock and join in the supper forum at 6 p.m. at the Bloodworth Y. Topic for discussion will be "Segregation in Higher Education in North Carolina."

The deputation is being sponsored by the Race Relations Committee of the Pniversity YMCA.

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED FEMALE 8A

CARRBORO BEAUTY SHOP—Two full time operators. Plenty of parking space. Reasonable prices. (1-c3471-4)



March Is A Wonderful Month For Books — Keep Your Eye On

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

"... TILL MURDER DO US PART ..."

HOWARD HUGHES presents
ROBERT MITCHUM
JEAN SIMMONS
in
ANGEL FACE
Co-Starring
Mona Freeman — Herbert Marshall
Varsity
T-O-D-A-Y & MONDAY

SELECTED GROUP OF DENIM SUITS AND COTTON CORD SUITS
Smartly Tailored in Brooks Model
20% off
BILLS MAILED HOME
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

PEPSI-COLA
DURHAM PEPSI - COLA BOTTLING CO.
305 South St. Durham

INDIANAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
Fabien Sevitzky
Conductor
Page Auditorium Duke University
Thursday Evening, March 5, at 8:15 P.M.
Tickets: $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 (incl. tax)
On sale: 201 Men's Union . . . Duke University
For reservations phone Durham 9011, ext. 6225
or write to
J. Foster Barnes, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina
Program: Franck, Liszt, and Berlioz

There's a long, long trail of Chowhounds!

A MAN'S GOT TO EAT to do his best work! And when that work is fighting, eating well is even more important. So even on a snow-patched, Korean hillside, lines are kept clear for the food to go through . . . hot food—the best—for men who deserve the best.

You're a part of this picture, too—every time you invest in a U. S. Defense Bond. For only an economy like ours could produce the food and the thousand other things necessary to give our fighting men the very best.

And Bonds are a vital part of our economy. It's true that Bonds are first of all financial security for you. But they are also economic strength for America in a world where peace is only for the strong.

Ask at your company's payroll office about the Payroll Savings Plan that makes saving easier because it saves something out of your pay check before you have a chance to spend it. It's simple, it's convenient, and it really works!

Here's how E Bonds now earn more money for you!

Now safe, sure U. S. Series E Defense Bonds pay an even better return than ever before . . . thanks to 3 brand new money-earning features announced by the U. S. Treasury.

1. Now every Series E Bond you get begins earning interest after only 6 months. It earns 3%, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity. It reaches full maturity value earlier (9 years 8 months) and the interest it pays is now bigger at the start!

2. Every Series E Bond you own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date—without your lifting a finger!

3. During the 10 year extension period, every unmatured Bond earns at the new, higher interest (average 3% compounded semiannually). Your original $18.75 can now repay you $33.67. $37.50 pays back $67.34. And so on.

Start now! Invest more savings in better-paying Series E Bonds —through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank!

Peace is for the strong! For peace and prosperity, save with U.S. Defense Bonds!

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, the Advertising Council and

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Continued rainy and cold with 40 high. Yesterday's high, 37; low, 32.

The Daily Tar Heel

FRENCH
A language home this summer. See p. 4.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 106 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

SP ACTION GIVES NEILL 2-PARTY ENDORSEMENT

BA's Fair Goes Into Final Day

The third annual Business Fair, sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional fraternity in business administration, opened yesterday with "Personnel: Key to Business Success" as its theme.

Feature of Monday's program was an address by R. D. Warwick, general manager of the Statesville Chamber of Commerce and president of the North Carolina Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives. His subject was "Tar Heel Jobs for Tar Heel Graduates."

Tonight's program in Gerrard Hall will be a panel discussion on "Industry Reports to the Students." With Prof. Harry D. Wolf of the School of Business Administration faculty as moderator, the participants will be W. S. Lupo, Charlotte, general manager of Sears; Paul Kelly, Raleigh, member of the commerce and industry division of the State Department of Conservation and Development, and State Senator O. Arthur Kirkman, vice-president of the High Point, Thomasville and Denton Railroad Company and former mayor of High Point.

During the two - day fair, exhibits arranged by the student members of Alpha Kappa Psi in the lobby of the School of Business Administration building. Some 20 North Carolina industries and corporations have cooperated in contributing articles for exhibition.

On hand during the fair will be interviewers from several corporations and companies who will explain their exhibits and discuss employment possibilities with students.

The fair is being held in the School of Business Administration and will close tonight.

DR. W. S. NEWMAN

Newman To Give Piano Recital Tonight

Dr. William S. Newman, professor of music in the University will give a piano recital in Hill Hall tonight at 8:30. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

Head of the piano department and teacher of music history and appreciation courses, Dr. Newman is noted not only as a concert pianist and teacher, but is also well known as author of books in the field of piano literature and pedagogy. His latest book, a new approach to music appreciation, will appear this spring.

Following his program tonight, Dr. Newman will begin a series of recitals and lectures that will take him to a number of colleges and universities in near-by southern states.

His program here will include Beethoven's last piano sonata, Op. III in C minor, the Franck "Prelude, Choral and Fugue," and the Concerto in G major by Maurice Ravel. In the last selection, he will be accompanied at a second piano by Thomas Nicholas, also a member of the piano faculty.

Scholarship Nominees Here; Fetzer Steers Big Program

By Jim Wilkinson

Tomorrow the Morehead Scholarships for 1953-'54 will be announced.

It will be a climactic day for all those who during the past year have served on the various committees of the scholarship program.

For one man in particular it marks, simultaneously, the end of one phase and the beginning of another. Coach Bob Fetzer, executive secretary of the Morehead Foundation, has guided the program through each stage from the procurement of applications to their final judging by the foundation trustees.

Fetzer, however, likes to direct credit for the success of the program toward the men who have composed the interviewing, screening and selection bodies throughout the state. These committees include top business and professional men in North Carolina.

"They are busy folks," commented Fetzer in an interview, "and the kind of devotion they have shown from the standpoint of time, interest and enthusiasm . . . couldn't be bought."

He spoke of the numerous letters in which these men express the satisfaction that comes from being a part of this enterprise. One such letter comes from General Robert L. Eichelberger, former superintendent of West Point and famous wartime leader, who said that the experience had "raised my hopes in the future of America." General Eichelberger serves on the sixth district committee.

Fetzer is best known throughout the South and the nation for his impressive achievements as Director of Athletics at UNC for 20 years. Last year he was asked to head the scholarship foundation and accepted.

When asked if it wasn't difficult to give up his coaching, he replied that of course athletics had been his life. But he pointed out that his position as executive secretary of the foundation is a continuation of "what I have done all my life—work with boys.

"This opportunity was a great challenge. It is almost impossible to visualize the potential effects of a program of this kind."

The organization of the foundation is necessarily a broad one. There are committees in each of the six state districts that receive and review applications, 100 such County Committees, a Central Committee, and finally the scholarship trustee board. But there is no overlapping; each has a distinct and specific role.

Coach Bob's office in the Morehead building is the hub around which these activities revolve.

"It has to be a broad organization," maintains Fetzer. "While we are thinking about today, we are also aiming and planning for the future. As the endowment grows, so will the program."

The scholarship is relatively new, and one important aspect of Coach Fetzer's job has been presenting its operation and mission to the heads of the state's educational institutions. In October he began a tour which carried him to private schools, junior and senior colleges, and universities where he answered questions concerning the program.

This is the first year that undergraduate scholarships were considered. Therefore it was necessary to get this information to all the high schools. To accomplish this, a meeting of the committees from the 100 counties was held here in August. The representatives carried word of the proceedings back to the high schools in their counties.

"The idea," says Coach Fetzer, "is to have a boy start thinking about the scholarship early. It would encourage him to do his best in high school.

"There has been exceptionally good response (from applicants) and we have the cream of the crop." He explained that the very generous terms of the allowance

(See SCHOLARSHIPS, page 4)

COACH BOB FETZER
. . . a great challenge

Fifty-seven eager young men arrived in Chapel Hill yesterday to keep a vital appointment.

Theirs is a date with the final approving authority of the John Motley Morehead scholarships, which could mean $1,500 a year for a graduate student and $1,250 for an undergraduate.

The group comes from points scattered all over North Carolina. Fourteen are now attending a university or college, including three at UNC. Seven come from junior colleges and 36 from high schools.

The applicants appeared first before the Central Committee of the Morehead Foundation, which will make recommendations to the trustees of the foundation.

The trustees, with a complete background record of the student for reference, will interview each applicant recommended by the Central Committee. Their selections will be final and the nominee will know by tomorrow afternoon if his scholarship has been approved.

The number of scholarships to be awarded is not predetermined. For instance, if none of the applicants measures up to the qualifications considered necessary, the trustees are not bound to make any awards.

The requirements as laid down by Mr. Morehead are (1) scholastic ability and attainments, (2) qualities of manhood, truthfulness, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindliness, unselfishness and fellowship, (3) evidence of moral force of character and of capacities to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates, and (4) physical vigor, as shown by interest in competitive sports or in other ways.

The qualifications are very similar to those necessary for a Rhodes Scholarship.

The scholarship is awarded for only one year on the assumption, however, that it will be continued until the student reaches his scholastic goal. It will be continued as long as the student's performance warrants it.

The first Morehead Scholarship was awarded for the Fall quarter of 1951. Thirteen recipients are enrolled here now, with one on a year's leave of absence.

Key man in the administration of the fund is Coach Bob Fetzer, executive secretary of the Morehead Foundation. Fetzer, who was University Athletic Director from 1922 until he assumed his new duties last year, is in charge of organizing the procurement and processing of applications. He recently made a tour of the state explaining the policies and procedure which guide the foundation.

Applications receive careful study. They are first forwarded to Fetzer directly from the institution where the student is currently studying or from the county chairman of the Scholarship Committee

(See MOREHEAD, page 4)

Carolina Takes Ninth Place In National Talk

The University Debate Team talked its way into ninth place Saturday, as the Boston University National Intercollegiate Debate Tournament came to a close.

Ken Myers and Bill Zuckerman, representing Carolina, the only southern school, ranked ninth in the nation after two days of competition with Champlain, Tufts, West Point, Notre Dame, Princeton and 26 other northern and New England colleges.

Carolina compiled over 300 points in the six rounds of debate, in which they alternated between the affirmative and the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the Congress of the United States should enact a Compulsory Fair Employment Practices Law."

The team was accompanied by its coach, Norman Mattis of the Department of Speech. The debates took place at Boston University.

Original oratory and oral interpretation contests were also included in the tournament, but Carolina did not enter these events. A banquet was held Saturday evening, at which the winning teams received trophies. The top ranking colleges were George Washington, Dartmouth, Weslyan and Princeton. The top 10 teams received Certificates of Merit for outstanding debate.

Myers attended the Boston tournament last year, while this marked the first national contest for Zuckerman.

The Debate Council is planning two more trips this year, one to Atlanta for the All Southern Intercollegiate Tourney, and the other to Greenville, S. C. for a regional tournament. Try-outs, which are open to all undergraduates, will be announced.

President Griswold

Yale Head Will Talk At Confab

Yale University President A. Whitney Griswold will address some 200 Consolidated University faculty members at 1:00 here today in one of the highlights of a two-day "experiment in self-examination."

Other ranking educators scheduled to speak during the first annual "State of the University Conference" are President Gray at 10:15 this morning, and Chancellors E. K. Graham, J. W. Harrelson and R. B. House of the three branches of the University, tonight.

Dean James A. Hilton of the N. C. State School of Agriculture, soon to become president of Iowa State University, will lead tonight's discussion of "realistic attainments in the college ideal."

Charles Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will also address the conference tomorrow night.

The conference will continue through tomorrow night when the various work groups will submit reports on their conclusions. President Gray will accept the reports and reply with an appraisal of the total conference.

The conference, described as an unusual experiment in education, was called by Gray to deal with "such basic, concrete problems as the improvement of college teaching, the proper balance between research and teaching, student-faculty relationships, and the mission of the total University in the richer integration of the three institutions."

Gray said in a Feb. 13 letter to the Consolidated faculty, "To have in mind a clear and workable conception of the mission of the total University is a matter of continuing concern to all of us. My rather numerous references to the mission of the University during the past two years—in speeches, reports and in discussion with administrative and faculty people—reflect the need for such a clear conception of the University's mission in carrying on the day by day work of my office, to say nothing of making and executing plans for the future."

Di Meets Tonight

The Di Senate meets tonight to elect officers for the Spring Quarter. Elections will be held at 8 o'clock on the third floor of New West.

The Di passed a bill last week calling for President Eisenhower to use his clemency powers to commute the Rosenbergs' death sentence to life imprisonment. A motion to send a copy of the bill to President Eisenhower also passed.

At the meeting, Judge John W. Parker was nominated to receive the annual Di-Phi award. His nomination will be validated if the Phi agrees to accept.

Lib Moore Gets Nod For Yack Editor

By Louis Kraar

Rolfe Neill last night won the second half of a double endorsement for editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

Lib Moore gained the nomination for editor of the Yackety Yack by acclamation.

Gaining the Student Party endorsement by acclamation, Neill became the first man in four years to receive nods from both parties for editor. Chuck Hauser was doubly endorsed in the 1949 spring election, but was unable to run because of academic complications.

University Party nominations for vice-president and secretary-treasurer will be held tonight in Roland Parker Lounges.

Neill is present managing editor of The Daily Tar Heel. He started work on the paper his freshman year and became news editor later that same year. He assumed the post of managing editor during his sophomore year, and later served as executive editor. He reassumed the managing editor's job last spring with the election of Barry Farber.

Neill is a political science and history major, and a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Unless some independent candidate files for nomination for the editor's post, Neill will automatically step in. It is generally accepted that there will be no other candidates.

Miss Moore, a present Yack staffer holding the position of co-beauty editor, presented the SP with a detailed outline of her ideas for the annual. She said her idea called for a "simple, flexible theme" and promised all she could "to put out a really great annual."

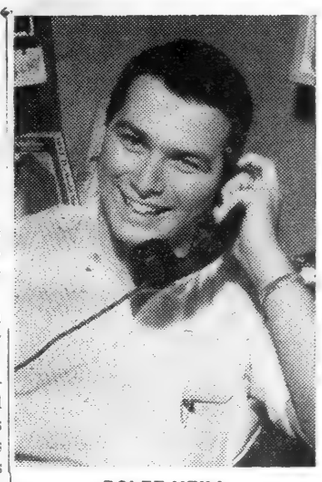
Hugh Gale, present Yack Editor, supported Miss Moore at the University Party nominations last week. Rollie Tillman, subscription manager for Tarnation, is the UP choice for Yack editor. Bob Colbert was another candidate in the three-way Yack race at the UP meeting last week, but dropped out, saying he wanted to keep the Yack "out of politics."

Publications Board choices were Russ Cowell, senior seat; Joe Raff, junior seat; and Louis Kraar, seat-at-large.

Cam Stubbs withdrew the name of a candidate for Publications Board that he had proposed as a previous meeting, saying, "He definitely seems to be a UP boy."

Bob Colbert then declared, "I don't think party lines should matter. We should nominate the most qualified candidate."

Harry Pawlik was nominated for president of the Carolina Athletic Association.



Before Pawlik's nomination, one party member inquired about the duties of the post. Lew Southern, SP chairman, answered, "The chairman does not know the duties of the job."

Joel Fleishman then took the floor to explain the post.

SP senior class officer choices were Ken Myers, president; Gerald Parker, vice-president; Betsy Clark, secretary; and Jet McFarland, social chairman.

Myers made an unsuccessful bid for the party's endorsement for president of the student body several weeks ago. He lost to Ken Penegar.

Hartwell Conklin, now president of the freshman class, was nominated for sophomore class president. Vice-presidential choice for the sophomore class was Pete Knight, and nominee for secretary was Donna Overholt.

ROLFE NEILL
. . . victory smile

Campus Chest Drive Begins To Help Needy

The Campus Chest drive swung into action yesterday as solicitors began making rounds of the dormitories, fraternities and sororities in the goal to send funds to war-stricken Korea and flood devastated Holland.

The campaign will continue until Friday at which time, says Chairman Stuart Jones, "everyone on campus should have been contacted and have contributed—we hope."

Town students and faculty members have been contacted by letter. "It is too soon to gauge the response," reports Jones, "but early returns look very favorable."

A graph in the YMCA and stacks of books in the library will record the progress of the campaign from day to day.

Benefits being sponsored by the Campus Chest include a Variety Show in Memorial Hall, Wednesday night, and the shining of shoes by campus dignitaries between classes in the Y Court.

Terry Chronaki, head of unusual stunts, promises "a full scale shoeshine job" in the Y by most of the campus leaders. "The status of today's politician could rise or fall according to the way he shines shoes," cracked Chronaki.

"WSSF together with CARE and UNESCO is, handling all funds collected. Some 30,000 students in Korea need food, clothing, medical suplies—and books and their only hope is the United States and especially the college students who understand their need," Jones said.

Opera Singer Will Present Concert Here

Nadine Conner, well-known Metropolitan Opera star, will give a performance here Thursday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Student Entertainment Committee.

A charming soprano, Miss Conner began her career training at the College of Music of the University of Southern California. Later she won a position as staff vocalist on Los Angeles radio station KHJ, and her professional career was officially launched.

From such a beginning a few years ago, Miss Conner has risen to become one of the leading stars at the Met, has starred in motion pictures, and during her concert season makes several national television and radio apearances every month.

Students will be admitted free upon presentation of ID card.

Shine Benefit

Campus dignitaries will be shining shoes in the Y Court today for the benefit of the Campus Chest Drive.

The schedule: 9 to 10 a.m.—Phin Horton and Gordon Forrester; 10 to 11—Walt Dear, and 11 to 12—Ken Penegar.

A Half Of Bed . . . Volunteers' Aid

Tri-Delts Make Mass Exodus Amid Confusion, Painting, Noise

By Sally Schindel

"Where do these tables go?" "Has anyone seen the other half of my bed?"

Amidst confusion, painting and hammering, the Tri-Delts moved into their new home Saturday on Pittsboro St. after almost a year of waiting.

The exodus from the "old" house began Friday afternoon when Tri-Delts, aided by "volunteers," moved over clothes, dishes, tables and chairs either by way of loaned cars, trucks or by foot. It ended Saturday with a flurry of waxing floors, scraping paint and unloading the remaining furniture.

Freshly painted sea gray, the clapboard house is patterned on the Williamsburg-type line with small colonial window panes framed by black-green shutters. Touches of white grill appear on the long front porch which is lighted by one of two coach lamps.

The first floor consists of an entrance hall and library, right inside the door, both done in Williamsburg Rose, and a pine green living room. Black rubber tile covers the entire first floor.

Toward the back of the house is the dining room in contrasting American Beauty Rose wall paper above a continuous chair-rail, which has a palm green color below. Adjoining the dining room is the kitchen in gray with a coral rubber tile floor. The downstairs also includes a little boys' room papered in a green and yellow calico pattern. Mrs. C. N. Carter's suite is decorated in shades of blue. She is the sorority housemother.

Upstairs, opening onto the hallway painted in Williamsburg Rose, are six bedrooms either in shades of gray, Normandie Blue or palm green and a gray colored bath.

The third floor takes in a white chapter room, a colonial cream hallway, three bedrooms and a bath in the same color schemes as those on second floor.

Air Force Photo Display Shows Combat In Korea

The Department of Air Science and Tactics has made available a collection of 16 combat photographs which will be displayed throughout the week in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

What's It All About

Today we are going to plunk the University down on a table, open it up, all three branches of it, and explore here and there to see what makes it tick.

President Gray has called a defining session of faculty and administration with a smattering of students to examine Greater UNC, find out what is its purpose, and provide some answers to problems. This session, incidentally, is being held despite the criticism of at least one faculty member who thinks it "a waste of time."

We would disagree with this professor because we always have wondered just what the purposes of the University are. Were we to seek the main thread that has been woven into Carolina's life through the years, we would be perplexed. We expect that the basic job—that of educating the youth of North Carolina above the elementary level without cost—as visualized by William Richardson Davie, would be a primary motive.

Yet the kind of education Davie talked about, the kind that Joseph Caldwell, our first president, brought with him from Princeton, is a different kind from the type provided nowadays. We have more courses, more subjects, more classes, than we know what to do with. We have professional educations, vocations. The great Humanities tradition with its emphasis on language, literature, social science, and the arts, has lost its heritage by default to practical business education with its emphasis on accounting (the language of business) and finance and statistics (the tool of business).

It is always interesting, therefore, to see why students come to college. There are general as well as specific reasons:

"I think I'll try college because I can get more money, with a better job."

"I am going to college to learn how to think."

"I'm going to college to have fun, meet people, and learn to get along with folks."

"I'm going to college because I'm curious and ignorant."

There are also the viewpoints of leading men throughout the country. College, they say, gives you the "right attitude," a "feeling for responsibility," an "appreciation of the American way of life." Educators think the purpose of a college education is to provide an understanding of the universe, of man, and a basis for self-improvement on moral, mental, and material grounds. We find a complexity of reasons for education, though we have hardly mentioned all of them. Thus, a definition of what's going on here in the Greater University will be helpful.

This conference hits at such things as why do students go home on weekends? (we wonder what august body inspired this one)? Should professors rather than graduate students teach freshman courses? Should we re-examine the ratio between electives and required courses? Is the problem of good teaching primarily one of methods and facilities or of teaching personnel and motivation? Can relations between faculty and students be improved?

One other item listed for discussion is the relationship between President Gray, students, and faculty. We hope this one is as thoroughly discussed as others. Criticism of the Consolidated office has reached a new high since the Saturday class fight. A meeting of minds here should prove valuable. If an adequate carry-through of the conference's studies is provided, the University stands to gain inestimably.

A Problem Of Finances

Vice-President Carmichael's statement that the fund request for North Carolina College at Durham "transcends in importance" the requests of any other state institution might have come as a surprise to those of us who want more funds for use here.

But Carmichael was speaking as an agent of the Board of Trustees. Two years ago we made a deal with NCC to support a move for better facilities on the graduate and undergraduate level. The problem stemmed from a fear that 300 Negroes, who were graduates in education, would "flood" the UNC campus because of an inadequate program at NCC. To prevent such a movement, NCC instituted a graduate program with the approval of the trustees of NCC and UNC.

To do this cost money. The Consolidated University was pledged to support the Negro school in their efforts to get that money from the Legislature. For that promise not to be upheld would have been a violation of honor on the University's part.

The graduate program in education illustrates the already noticeable financial effects of segregation. Duplication of effort results in a monetary strain. The idea of consolidation, we thought, was to cut out the duplication of effort, the luxeries, and the fringe costs. Evidently, no one considered such things back in 1932 when the consolidation philosophy was in full bloom. The "separate but equal" philosophy will extend right to the last textbook and pencil if the Supreme Court doesn't change its mind. And if the Court does change its mind (we will know probably before June), the state will have some more major problems.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. — Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Pete Adams, Bob Mason, Bob Wolfe, Eleanor Saunders, Buddy Harper, Dorman Cordell, Ned Whitmore.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Ron Levin

The Crystal Ball

This is Pete Schlumpf, the renowned sala . . .swami, mystic of the orient. Let us take a trip into the future. As I gaze into my crystal ball, I see many things. I see in particular a Friday night in September, 1953—the twenty-fifth. The streets of the tiny village of Chapel Hill are deserted and in the direction of the dormitories can be seen many small lights glowing in many small windows. The local beer barons can be seen on the sidewalk wringing their hands and bemoaning their fate. One is saying to the other.

"Too bad, huh Schultz. Well, come on over to my place and I'll buy you a beer."

The next day is Saturday and it is about eight o'clock in the morning, and we are near Old East dorm on our way to a class, but hark . . . a peculiar sound greets our ears. In a few seconds we recognize it as various, sundry, and assorted snores belonging to the occupants of this small hotel. The campus is deserted except for a forlorn collie pacing around hopelessly in search of a half-eaten doughnut or a friendly pat. A few students can be seen hurrying to their eight o'clocks; these are obviously freshmen and graduate students. We follow one student in particular and go with him into a classroom. Our student, Mike Misfit, hurriedly takes his seat as the last bell sounds. The prof picks up the roll cards and begins.

"Adams . . . Adams . . . Mr. Argo Adams."

A voice comes from the rear.

"Sir, Mr. Adams' grandmother died, and he went home to the funeral."

"Harrumpf, uh, oh yes . . . yes of course. Abbachus . . . Mr. Abbachus."

Another voice.

"Sir, Mr. Abbachus told me to inform you that he really wasn't well at all today."

"Abercrombie . . . Abercrombie . . . ABER. . . .

"Sir, Mr. Abercrombie's mother was taken ill, and he had to go home to see her."

"What's that? I thought Mr. Abercrombie went to his mother's funeral last Saturday."

"Oh, it's these new wonder drugs sir, they really work miracles."

"Oh yes, hmmm. Cotchabornyik . . . Mr. Cyrus Cotchabornyik."

"Sir, Mr. Cotchabornyik is on a debating trip."

"I thought that was last Saturday."

"Well, sir, you know how these rebuttals can go on and on."

"Misfit . . . Mr. Michael Misfit."

"Ulp, here sir!

Silence . . . more silence.

"Today we shall take up the . . .

But let us go forward in time to two that afternoon when a great cry goes up from some sort of oval amphitheater deep in the forest. We enter and take our seats and then notice a nasty smell. It is a Chemistry student who not wanting to miss the game, brought his equipment down here, and through the naseous green fog of smoke we can see that he is well into his synthesis of 6699—tetramethyl cola. He smiles at us and then says,

"Some reaction, huh . . . good game too. Those Sat. Chem. Labs are a bunch of losers."

Three stands lower a music student is running up and down scales on his cello, much to the discomfort of those seated around him, but he, oblivious, to all else, goes right on in sheer joy. Ah true, true knowledge . . . surely thou wilt last forever.

But our stay is nearly up, and we must leave. The crystal is growing dimmer, and the scene is becoming hazy; but before the vision is completely gone we hastily drop in on an emergency meeting of a group of elderly men called trustees (I think they receive this title after three years of being an honor prisoner, and now are eligible for parole, lucky dogs). They are in a heated discussion as to what to do about the complete apathy of the students. One is suggesting Sunday classes incorporated with Sunday school with a pop quiz on the late show, another mentions night school, and still another the use of a five-piece Salvation Army Band to parade through every dorm at seven-thirty on Saturday morning rendering appropriate selections to suit the mood. (Man, dig those crazy sounds.)

But now the vision is obscured completely, and our time is up. We really must go but a last bit of Oriental philosophy to you poor Westerners. Confucious says "He who studies on Saturday will be saturated on Sunday." Bye now. . . .

Spring Will Be A Little Late This Year

A. Z. F. Wood Jr.

The Big Chance

"Hey, Al, let's go to Hogan's."

I heard this Friday. It sounded familiar and it made me feel good, for it meant that Spring was close at hand. Winter Quarter at Carolina is a pretty dreary thing. Everybody seems as bogged down as the weather.

But the Spring! The warm, beautiful, love - inspiring, beer-drinking, lazy Spring!

When the sky is a hazy light blue and the clouds are fluffy and the sun is bright and the days are long.

When the matronly ladies "Ah" and "Ah" at the wild natural beauty of the Arboretum with all its multifarious colors and you really can't blame them and inside you are proud maybe a little bit.

When the French professor tries to get the students to notice and appreciate the pink blossoms of the peach trees between Murphy and Saunders and he doesn't go about it the right way so you wouldn't appreciate them if your life depended on it.

When the old buildings aren't covered any more with sticks and naked vines. They are green with ivy and you have the feeling that the buildings will last forever.

When the coeds are all dressed up in unbecoming white gym suits and they go outdoors and play tennis (?) and the males lean out of the dormitories to watch them and jeer them and there are many disillusioned Freshmen when they see that lots of the coeds can't look as good as they did in classroom attire.

When Emerson Stadium becomes more than just a parking lot and you hear the comfortable sound of balls hitting gloves and the inimitable infield chatter and pepper and you are a little wary of walking between Ruffin Dorm and the Stadium during batting practice even though nobody has been hit by a foul ball yet.

When Kenan Stadium belongs to the girls in the daytime when they shoot arrows and try very hard to throw baseballs and at night it's Devil take the hindermost.

When lots of the males wear T-shirts with the sleeves rolled up over their shoulders to show their biceps and they usually haven't got any biceps anyway and they look better in the winter with thick-padded overcoats.

When the grounds around the dormitories are littered with conscientious sun-bathers and in class you can always tell who the grinds are by their pallor and it always seems like the palest arms have the blackest hairs.

When the seniors are cussing because they aren't juniors and can't enjoy being lazy because they've got to get C's this quarter to graduate.

When you take the University of North Carolina more for granted than at any other time, and you are surprised when a visitor or your mother remarks how beautiful the place is and how much she'd like to live here.

Hogan's? Hell, yes! Let's go to Hogan's. It's Spring, ain't it?

SMOKE CLOUDS AT SMITH

The Sophian, Smith college (Mass.) student newspaper, has launched a crusade for more smoking privileges on campus, and supports a suggestion "for smoking downstairs in college houses until midnight . . ."

"Frequently study habits depend on an occasional cigarette," says the Sophian. ". . . We think that a convenient place to study and smoke would create an atmosphere conducive to learning."

In an ACP Student Opinion Poll last year it was learned that students are against smoking in the classroom by about two to one, with more women disapproving than men.

The Sophian took a survey of 16 colleges, similar to Smith, and found that only one—Mills college, Calif., permits smoking in the classroom. But Mills girls are not allowed to smoke while walking on campus.

NO BOOS, PLEASE . . .

Basketball fans at the University of West Virginia are being passed out "sportsmanship" sheets at the games, in a drive for more humane treatment of referees.

English Club

Thoughts in Brooklyn

(written after rereading Wolfe)

George sat at his desk; and outside he could hear the City, peopled with the faceless man-swarm, belching sooty smoke from its chimneys, throbbing with the poundings of the trains in subterranean depths, reeling from the shrill screams of police whistles and tug-boat blasts and screeching tires and drunken bum-mouthings and the million other noises of the fleshpot. His forehead contracted; and, rubbing his extended hand with its spatulate fingers over his face, he could feel the grease and the coal grit from the City collected in the wrinkles; and, as the day was hot and humid, the sticky City dirt ran in little oozing trickles down his stubbled cheek.

He reached out and touched his fingers to the dry unpainted wood of his desk and dug his fingernail into the grain, at the same time gritting his teeth as he felt the pitchy wood resist his nail. This wood was the product of the pungent earth, the pine-needle-covered earth, the spinning and twirling and gyrating and never-dying earth. The pine tree had stood on a slope, and the coarse lumberjacks with sweated armpits and tobacco-dripping chins had come up the slope, cursing and telling stories of nights between sheets with big-breasted, sensuous women. They gathered around the tall trees; and soon the axes rose and fell, glistening in the clear and yellow sunlight to bite into the living, tender cells of the pine, while the sap of life began to trickle from the wound and splatter on the cold, hard, unyielding steel of the razor-sharp axes as they rose and fell, rose and fell, rose and fell in the yellow sunlight, flashing and sparkling in the air the the aromatic, spicy thurriferous smell of pitch permeated the air around the men and mixed with the musty man-smell of fusty tobacco and empyreumatic sweat and redolent leather.

George closed his eyes and the tree picture was lost; but, instead, the pulsing manswarm of the City began to pass before him, licentious women with rolling buttocks, little Jewish tailors with harried faces, corpulent businessmen with fatty jowls and jelly bellies, Fifth Avenue matrons with frizzy hats and nervous Pekingeses, Fulton Street fish peddlers with scale-covered hands, red and chapped from the salt and the wind, all hurrying, rushing, aimlessly and without direction, on, on, into the black maw that gapes at the end of life and never, forever, never, closes.

Opening his eyes, George shook his head and gripped his hands until the knuckles showed flour-white and the nails bit into his palms. He picked up his pencil and put the sharp, hard lead to the slick surface of his paper.

Yr Mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt, Clio

John Jamison

Rich or Good

"The Good Woman of Setzuan" turned out to be the only good person in the world—and she was a prostitute.

The way the world is, it seems, you have to be poor to be good. And what's more, even the good ones, like the good woman of Setzuan, aren't good all the time. It's too much of a strain.

That is the perplexing theme, much simplified, of Bertoldt Brecht's allegorical "parable for the theater," presented by the Playmakers for four nights ending Sunday. Director Kai Jurgensen has led the young actors through their best piece of work in a long time, certainly this year's best.

Brecht's histrionic sermon is built on a plot for which no adequate adjective comes to mind but which goes something like this: Three oriental gods are wandering over the world searching for a good person. In the village of Setzuan they are introduced to Shen Te, a prostitute, whom they happily designate the object of their long quest. Shen Te is told the world depends on her remaining good.

Unfortunately Shen Te's good qualities do not extend to good judgment in matters of the heart, for she falls in love with Yang Sun, a scheming, dreaming pilot. Yang is broke and cannot get a job flying unless he has a bankroll. In order to make the necessary money for her lover, Shen Te impersonates a nonexistent cousin, Shui Ta, an aggressive and ruthless businessman. But Shen Te's pregnancy forces her ultimately to abandon the double role. By this time she has recognized the pilot's perfidy, and is persuaded by the gods to become wholly good once more. But there is left considerable doubt, which Wang the waterseller points out after the final curtain. He asks the audience itself to decide, is it possible to be both good and rich?

Jurgensen must be mentioned first because of the fine touch he exercised in a difficult job, not because of any great shortcoming in the other areas of production—acting, music, sets, costuming or lighting. He edited the play down to about half its original length, in order to render it suitable to the Playmakers' uses and in order to remove the more flagrant bits of Communist Party Line. Brecht is one of the writers of a couple of decades ago who were convinced Communism was the only way out for the world. "The Good Woman" was influenced by this feeling. "Brecht tends to preach too much," Jurgensen says.

The director was also responsible for the high effectiveness of the impressionistic nature of the play. Employing Chinese half-masks and relatively simple sets, he directed the audience's attention to the script—the complicated theme of the work—rather than to the distracting intricacies of the usual stage offering.

Anne Edwards is very evpressive in the important double role of Shen Te-Shui Ta. Credit for the success of the play should go to her, second to Jurgensen. Buck Roberts, as the pilot, acts well also but is too American in appearance and manner to maintain the oriental flavor of the play. Lloyd Borstelmann, as Wang, uses his good voice to convey the role of raisonneur to the digressions of the other characters.

The music, composed by Tom Nichols and performed by Mary Gray Clarke, Charles Hadley and Dick Epler, is suitably weird.

ATO's Win Basketball Crown

Winners Rally For Campus Championship

By Everette Parker

The determined ATO's, using a combination of the scoring punch of Dick Kocornik and Bill Kirkman plus a late rally, defeated Emerson-2, winners of the dormitory championship, for the 1953 Campus Basketball Championship, 52-43.

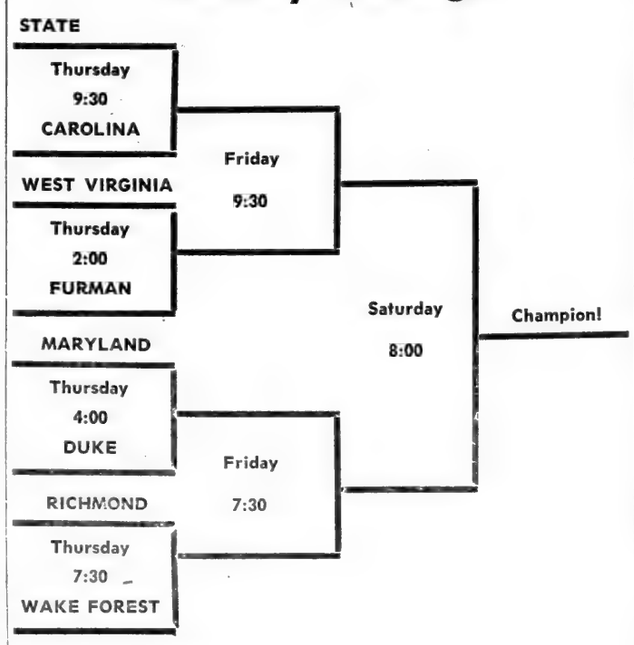
After trailing the strong Emerson team for the entire first half and most of the second half, the ATO's rallied late to win the game going away. Contributing to this drive was Roger Kingsbury, who scored 10 points in the last six minutes. The eager losers helped the ATO cause by committing six fouls in their eagerness to get possession of the ball in the waning minutes of the game.

Emerson, led by the outside shooting of Harry Lloyd who scored 12 points, got off to an early lead which it held to midway the third quarter. They were leading at halftime by a score of 23-16 in the contest which was rough all the way.

The winners used height to a good advantage with Dick Kocornik scoring points when needed most, controlling the backboards and dropping 20 points. Kirkman, runner-up in scoring with 17 points, and Renny Randough, playing a strong floor game, kept the ATO's in the game during the first half while Emerson was breaking through the winner's defense to run up their lead.

ATO led in the game for the first time when Kingsbury tapped in a follow shot and from this point never relented their lead. Kirkman, who played a steady game, then dropped in two foul shots, followed by another by Kingsbury to give the winners an unsurmountable lead. Emerson, behind 47-43, began to foul in their eagerness to get the ball, giving the ATO's five points in the last two minutes on foul shots.

The victory was the eleventh straight for the winners, seven during the regular season and four in the playoffs for the Fraternity and Campus championships. ATO defeated Sigma Chi for the frat crown, 53-36.



Members of the Alpha Tau Omega championship team are Dick Kocornik, Roger Kingsbury, Renny Randough, Kay Wilson, Pete Alexander, Bill Kirkman, Charlie Motta and Noel Sullivan.

Sports Carnival Scheduled Tonight

The annual co-recreation sports carnival sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association is scheduled for today at 7:30 p.m. All but two of the events will be run off on the main floor of Woollen Gym.

The sports carnival has become an annual affair and teams up members of fraternities and men's dorms with those of sororities and women's dorms in a mixed competition of relays and games.

Tourney Pairings

Carolina In Feature Spot

Tar Heels Face NC State In First Tournament Round

Carolina's Tar Heels, by virtue of their eighth place finish in the standings, will meet the defending champions from N. C. State in the opening round of the Southern Conference tournament beginning in Raleigh on Thursday.

Carolina and State have met twice this year and have split even. Carolina upset State at the Coliseum, 70-69, but took an 87-66 defeat when the Wolfpack came to Chapel Hill.

The rest of the teams which are playing each other in the first round have not met this year and so the outcome is anybody's guess.

Wake Forest and Maryland tied for second place, and the Deacons were awarded that spot for the purpose of seeding by virtue of the draw held in Raleigh on Sunday.

As a result of this, Wake Forest will play seventh place Richmond in the opening round, with Maryland playing sixth place Duke. The pairings were completed with the matching of fourth place West Virginia with fifth place Furman.

The Southern Conference is the only major circuit which decides its championship with a tourrnament, rather than on the basis of seasonal play.

ATO'S Win Frat Table Tennis Crown

The ATO table tennis team, led by Keith Grady, won the Fraternity championship last Thursday by defeating the Sigma Nu's, 3-0, maintaining their unbeaten record for the season.

Grady, number one singles, defeated John Watts in a close match 21-14 and 21-19. Tom Bradford scored over Gene Shaw 21-10 and 21-10. The doubles match was won 21-18 by Don Thompson and Hal Rollins over Hewitt and Porter.

In winning the fraternity championship, the ATO team defeated Chi Phi-1, Sigma Nu-2, Sigma Nu-1, PiKA-1, Zete-1, SPE-3 and the Kap Sig-1 teams. Other members of the winning team are Joe Kelso and Fletcher Green.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, DKE-1 vs. Phi Kap Sig-2; Field 2, Lamb Chi-1 vs. KA-1; Field 3, Delt Psi vs. Phi Delt-2.

5:00—Field 1, Phi Gam-3 vs. Sig Nu-2; Field 2, DKE-2 vs. Chi Psi-2; Field 3, ATO vs. Lamb Chi-3.

Today's Table Tennis

7:00—Med School-1 vs. Winston.

7:30—Med School-4 vs. Alexander.

CLASSIFIEDS

LOST 12

LOST: AROTC NOTEBOOK AND notes in the vicinity of the Y Court. If you find please call Charles Collins. Ph. 98702. They are valuable.

DUKE PLAYERS
PRESENT....
FERNEC MOLAR'S
THE GLASS SLIPPER
Branson Hall East Campus
TICKETS AT DANZIGER'S
March 11, 12, 13 14 8:15

. . . VAST
U. S. CITIES
VANISH
BEFORE YOUR VERY EYES!

"IT WILL SCARE THE PANTS OFF YOU!" Hedda Hopper

TODAY—WEDNESDAY
Varsity
Thursday . . .
Alec Guiness
In
"Kind Hearts and Coronets"

Attention
GRADUATING CLASS
NAVAL ROTC

ORDERS TAKEN NOW FOR (Authorized Regulation)
UNIFORMS, INSIGNIA AND SUPPLIES AT SUBSTANTIAL SAVINGS
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

When Grover talks to his dreamboat—something clicks

A call from Dreamboat always clicks with Grover. And an Automatic Message Accounting machine has been clicking too—down in the telephone office—busily punching impressions on a paper tape.

You may be interested in what this ingenious recorder does. It keeps track of what telephone number you called, how long you talked, and records this information in such a way that another machine can automatically prepare a monthly bill.

The development of this new automatic accounting machine is the result of teamwork by Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and the telephone companies. Telephone people working on this and other interesting and important projects were in college just a short time ago. Perhaps you'd like to join them.

Your Placement Officer can give you details about employment opportunities in the Bell System. Or write to American Telephone & Telegraph Company, College Relations Section, 195 Broadway, New York 7, N. Y., for a copy of the booklet, "Looking Ahead."

Bell Telephone System

NOW...10 Months Scientific Evidence For Chesterfield

A MEDICAL SPECIALIST is making regular bi-monthly examinations of a group of people from various walks of life. 45 percent of this group have smoked Chesterfield for an average of over ten years.

After ten months, the medical specialist reports that he observed...

no adverse effects on the nose, throat and sinuses of the group from smoking Chesterfield.

MUCH MILDER
CHESTERFIELD
IS BEST FOR YOU

Copyright 1953, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Carolina

TODAY

Plus

News—Cartoon

Indian Student To Give Talks On Philosophy

Ram Singh of Hoshiarpur, India, graduate student in sociology, will continue today a series of three lectures on "The Essentials of Indian Philosophy" in the Library's Assembly Room. Each lecture begins at 4:30 p.m.

The Philosophy Club of the University is sponsoring the lectures to which everyone is invited.

Topics of today's lecture is "Significance of Bhagavad-gita." Tomorrow's topic is "Gandhi in the Light of Gita."

Singh, who is working toward a doctor's degree in sociology here, was educated in India and was a teacher at Hilsop College in Nagpur, India. Since coming to this country in 1948 he has received two degrees from the Yale Divinity School. He plans to teach sociology and religion when he returns to India.

Annual French House Plans Announced For This Summer

The ninth annual French House, a six weeks concentrated program of the study of the French language and culture, will be conducted at the University during the first term of the Summer Session.

Operated in connection with the Extension Division and the Department of Romance Languages, the French House gives its members the opportunity to improve and perfect the use of the spoken language. No beginners of French are accepted.

A feature of the Summer Session, the program of the French House not only emphasizes the study of French culture, but also presents opportunities for students and teachers to participate in plays, musical events, and celebrations typical of France. Recreation activities follow the pattern of French living.

Women members will live in a campus house on Franklin Street and the men students will be assigned to near-by dormitories but will take their meals at the French House. The usual University regulations will be observed.

Courses of instruction will be offered in conversation, review grammar and French civilization by the French House staff members, and the following courses offered by the Department of Romance Languages will be available: French phonetics, French Romanticism, Old French, French literature of the Renaissance, and Provincal, the latter carrying graduate credit.

Several scholarships and awards are made annually to members of the French House. They include two $50 service scholarships offered by the French government, awarded to enrolled students, on application, who need help in meeting expenses.

Edward T. Draper-Savage, former member of the Department of Romance Languages, gives an annual award of $150 in memory of his mother, Mrs. Effie Draper-Savage, to the student who, has shown, at the completion of the course, "an outstanding interest in France, her culture and civilization, and a corresponding ability and promise in his, or her, mastery of the French spoken language, as well as French literature."

Draper-Savage also will present this year for the first time a $25 Defense Bond as second-place award.

The staff this summer will include Dr. Jacques Hardre, director; Prof. Rene Hardre of the French Department, Woman's College, instructor; Mrs. Charlotte V. Huse, Chapel Hill, hostess, and Miss Rita Mary Burke, Woman's College, assistant hostess.

WUNC Airing New Series On Anthropology

"Here I'm only tryin' to look at a pretty girl and you get me tangled up with invisible groups."

"But besides the people on this bus, there are other groups riding with her."

"Where?"

"In her thoughts, feelings, attitudes, relations . . ."

So runs an excerpt from "You Are Not Alone," a program to be broadcast tonight at 8:30 by WUNC, Carolina's educational FM radio station. One of a series on anthropology entitled "The Ways of Mankind," the program is produced by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters and is offered as a study in social groups.

WUNC's program director, Mike Healy, described the series as "showing how human beings live together in different times and places. The programs have attracted a great deal of attention, both on and off the air," he said.

He said the programs have been transferred to wire by the UNC anthropology department for use in class and had been "much listened to by students connected with the station — just for the pleasure of listening."

"The Ways of Mankind" is produced by the NAEB under the terms of a grant from the Fund for Adult Education, established by the Ford Foundation. Producer for the series is Andrew Allan of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

WUNC, operated by students, has an FM frequency of 91.5 megacycles.

Tar Heels And Toes

The Tar Heels and Toes will have an important meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Women's Gym.

Women's Glee Club

Women's Glee Club will meet today at 5 p.m. in Hill Hall.

French Supper Club

The French Supper Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock in the upper dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Senior Invitations

Senior invitations for the commencement program will be on sale in the Y court tomorrow through Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Wesley Foundation

The Methodist group on campus is entertaining a deputation from Winthrop College this weekend. Twelve girls will arrive here Saturday afternoon. A program followed by a party will begin at 7 p.m. Anyone interested in meeting these girls before the program, may do so by meeting at the Methodist Church at 4 p.m. Contact Gerald Parker in 4 Pettigrew. The girls will conduct the Methodist Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.

Young Adult Group

The Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Wesley Lounge.

WUNC

Program schedule for today:
7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—The Price of Liberty.
7:45—Vistas of Israel.
8—Ways of Mankind.
8:30—The Recital Hour.
9:30—To be announced.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An evening Masterwork.

Many Nations Still Unchosen For Model UN

Thirty-two nations have not yet been chosen by any organization or group for the Model UN Assembly slated for April 24-25 in Memorial Hall.

Included in this group are Bolivia, Burma, Greece, Iraq, Turkey, Luxembourg, Byelorussian SSR, Poland, Thailand, and Czechoslovakia. The remaining countries will be allocated to dorms, sororities, fraternities and other organizations on a first-come, first-served basis.

The only requirement for an organization wishing to represent one of the 60 member nations of the UN is that the group have four or more delegates. Spokesmen for any organization interested in representing a nation or individuals interested in participating in the Assembly are asked to see one of the following UN committee members: Henry Lowet, 2 Vance; Chal Schley, St. Anthony Hall; Mary Newton, 301 Carr, or Susan Fink, Y office.

Some of the 28 organizations which have already chosen a nation are the Phi, French Club, Inter-Dorm Council, SP, Aycock Dorm and the Nurses' Residence.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information concerning the Assembly is requested to attend the UN Committee meeting in the library Monday night at 7 o'clock.

Electrical Repairs

- Flourescent Lamps
- Desk Lamps
- Electric Razors
- And All Other Types of Electrical Repairs

Electric Construction Co.

169 East Franklin Street

DAILY CROSSWORD

Yesterday's Answer

ACROSS
1. Not fast
5. Bunch of feathers
9. A small chore
10. Of an area
12. Young sheep
13. A parish official (Eng.)
14. Eggs
15. Narrate
16. Music note
17. Ornamental dress items
19. Coal scuttle
20. Half an em
21. Feminine pronoun
22. Bovine animals
23. Masculine pronoun
24. Club
25. Rind
27. Medieval boat
28. Exclamation
30. Leap
31. Universal
33. Land-measure
34. Pay attention
35. Polynesian drink
36. Dared
38. Jewish month
39. Merits
40. Salty
41. Swelling
42. Portico (Gr. arch.)

DOWN
1. Shorn
2. Tibetan priests
3. Sphere
4. Plural pronoun
5. Units of weight (Orient.)
6. River (Russ.)
7. Nourished
8. Candle ingredient
9. Dried flower bud of a myrtaceous tree
11. Guides
13. Malt beverage
15. Abound
18. Lean
19. Torrid
22. Coffee shop
23. Ripe fruit of a rose
24. Flex
25. Darkness
26. Native of Korea
27. Require
28. Capital (Cuba)
29. Wing-shaped
31. Web-footed birds
32. Means of communication
34. Female red deer
37. Back
38. Skill
40. Bachelor of Science (abbr.)

Achaeology At A Standstill Until The Pointer Shows Up

The archaeology department, namely Dr. J. P. Harland, has lost one of its more valuable tools of education—the pointer.

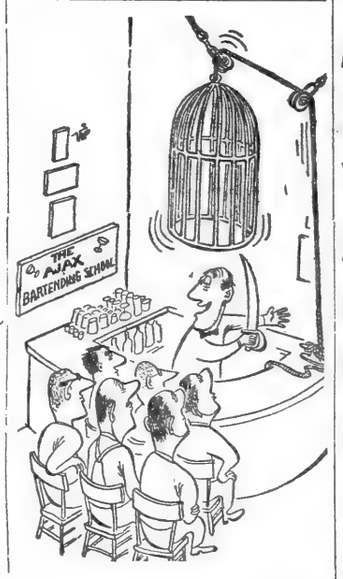
THE HUNGARIAN Reds have offered to exchange imprisoned British businessman Edgar Sanders, (above), sentenced with American Robert Vogeler as a spy, for Lee Meng, legendary girl leader of Red guerrillas now under sentence of death in Malaya. The Foreign Office said the offer was under consideration.—NEA Telephoto.

Dr. Harland was noticeably disconcerted yesterday as he sent out the alarm. The pointer, a converted golf club, has been in his possession for many years, and while it has little real value, it has "great sentimental value," he said.

"It was taken, accidentally I hope, or misplaced over the weekend," Dr. Harland said. "Maybe its present holder will return it. I don't want to make my class any more pointless than it already is."

Students of archaeology have become familiar with his use of the pointer to convey secretly to the slide operator his desire to have the next scene flashed upon the screen.

DANZIGER'S



TODAY'S MENU

Mr. "D"s FAMOUS ONION SOUP with croutons and grated cheese $ .30
GREEN PEASOUP .20
LOBSTER SALAD on lettuce and tomato .85
KNOCKWURST and PASTRAME on toasted rye-bread, potato salad, hard boiled egg, pickle .85

SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES

SPANISH RICE with mushroom sauce $ .50
MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with spaghetti .50
VIENNESE LOAF WITH mushroom sauce and two vegetables $ .75
PORK ROAST with mint sauce, hashed brown potatoes, vegetable .90
BARBECUED CHICKEN served with hashed brown potatoes, vegetable .90

. . . your choice served with bread, butter and salad.

". . . and this device protects you from patrons when you forget the Angostura* in their Manhattans!"

ANGOSTURA
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*Angostura sharpens your taste and adds zest to Manhattans. And the piquancy it adds to apple pies and baked hams is beyond belief!

WEDNESDAY
MARCH 11th, 8:30 p.m.
10th ANNIVERSARY TOUR

WITH A SUPERB B'WAY CAST—
COMPANY OF 75
plus
ORCHESTRA OF 20

Mail Order Sale Now

Orch. & Mezz. 4.20
Rear Orch. & 1st Bal. 3.60
2nd Bal. 3.00
Col. Mezz. 1.80
Col. Bal. 1.20

PLEASE SEND SELF ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE

CAROLINA THEATRE
DURHAM, N. C.

March Is A Wonderful Month For Books — Keep Your Eye On THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

The New University Restaurant wants to thank you for your kind patronage during our opening week. We are endeavoring to improve our service and maintain our present high standards in food.

Closed Wednesday Dean and Norma

—Scholarships—

(Continued from page 1)

and the lack of restrictions placed on it make the scholarship a high prize.

The coach summed up his job thusly: "Yes, tomorrow is sort of a climax, but only for one year. We must turn right around and begin laying plans for 1954. . . . Our course is uncharted . . . this is just the beginning."

Festival of Jewish Music

The third annual Festival of Jewish Music will be held March 8 at 3:30 p.m. in Hill Hall.

—Morehead—

(Continued from page 1)

in the case of high schools and preparatory schools.

The college applications are then referred directly to the Central Committee, while high school applications are routed through one of the six district committees of the state to the Central Committee.

That is the stage at which the applications for the 1953-54 year now stand.

Campus capers call for Coke

When grades are posted, get hold of yourself—maybe the news is good. Anyway, there'll always be problems ahead, so start now and face them refreshed. Have a Coke.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY DURHAM COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1952, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Direct from London & Broadway Triumphs
"Magnificent! Master of acting."—Atkinson, Times
S. HUROK presents
EMLYN WILLIAMS
AS
Charles Dickens

MEMORIAL HALL — Chapel Hill
SAT., Mar. 7, 8:30 p.m.
All Seats Reserved
$3.30 — $2.20 — $1.10
Mail Orders: The Carolina Playmakers, Box 1050—Tel. 9471

6 FOR 1 SPECIAL

Dial Durham 2-7872

Now you can learn 5 dances for the price of 1 at Arthur Murray's

FOX TROT
RUMBA
SAMBA
WALTZ
TANGO

Are you wondering how Arthur Murray can make this offer? It's because his Magic Step Method of teaching dancing is so basic that once you have mastered this key step (and you will in one lesson) all dances are easy to learn. But more than that, through these lessons and the Arthur Murray Student Party Plan you gain confidence and poise while you learn. Your dormant personality develops. You become more at ease with people, more attractive, more popular than ever. So come in now while the 5 for 1 offer is in effect . . . learn to dance this fun way.

Copr. 1952—Arthur Murray, Inc.

ARTHUR MURRAY School of Dancing

104½ MORRIS ST. AT 5 POINTS PHONE 2-7872 DURHAM

Ask About The Special Carolina Night, Including Sorority and Fraternity Parties

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Occasional rain and drizzle with 48 high. Yesterday's high, 38; low, 31.

The Daily Tar Heel

NADINE
A Met star is coming. See p. 4.

VOLUME LGI, NUMBER 107 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

DU's Given Charter

Local Chapter Gets Approval By National

The Board of Directors of Delta Upsilon, national social fraternity, has granted a charter to the Delta Fraternity at UNC.

The fraternity has been locally operated for the past three years. During that time it has been a colony, a group which has petitioned and is waiting for its charter.

In its 118 year history, Delta Upsilon has been conservative in the admission of new chapters requiring a local petitioning group to be of great strength. This policy has resulted in only four chapters going inactive over the 118 years. No other fraternity has a comparable record, according to Delta officials.

The 118th anual convention of the fraternity gave the power to grant a charter to the UNC petitioning society to the board of directors. H. Norris Harrison, national chairman of petitioning societies from Centreville, Md., conducted official inspections of the group last August and again in January.

Ex-U.S. President James A. Garfield, Vice-President Charles Dawes and Supreme Court Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes have all served as national presidents of Delta Upsilon. Other national leaders among the DU ranks include Dr. James Conant, Edgar Bergen, Herbert Brownell, Senator Paul H. Douglas, Harry Emerson Fosdick, Joyce Kilmer and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg.

When the Deltas are installed, they will become the 76th Chapter of Delta Upsilon and the first in North Carolina. Plans are now being completed for the installation which will take place on April 18th.

Officers of the local Delta Fraternity are Herman H. Husbands, president; Jim Finch, vice-president; James L. Rollins, recording secretary; Neal Harrington, corresponding secretary; Steve Moss, social chairman; Bob Barden, intramural manager, and Dan Rader, house manager.

A POTENTIAL BEAUTY WAR between France and England was settled amicably when British coed Sheila Bynd (right) of Reading University presented a bouquet to French showgirl Mini Gerrard in London. It all happened when males at Reading U. invited a trio of French girls to lead a carnival parade. Reading coeds protested and here's the final result—NEA Telephoto.

UP Nominates Stilwell In Close V-P Balloting

Ed Gross Edged Out, 26-22; McLeod, Yarborough Picked To Run For Class President Offices

By Louis Kraar

Jack Stilwell edged out Ed Gross last night for University Party Party vice-presidential nomination by four votes. The vote was 26 to 22.

Jerry Cook received immediate acclamation for secretary-treasurer nomination.

The Stilwell-Gross contest, which had been brewing in the political pot for many weeks now, came to a close after the balloting, as Gross pledged to support his opponent, Stilwell.

"No election is won easily," declared Stilwell in his bid for the nomination. "We'll have to campaign and campaign hard."

The UP vice-presidential pick commented on student apathy, citing as its cause the pettiness of party politics and campaigning. The solution to the problem of apathy, he said, is a platform "with meat in it." He added he thought the party had such a platform.

Gross, who had hinted some weeks ago that he was very much interested in the post, said he thought the vice-president was "more than just the speaker of legislature."

"I think we have an opportunity to do the campus a service," said Gross. "That service is to raise student government in the eyes of the students."

Stilwell has been a member of Legislature for six quarters. Now UP floor leader, he is a member of President Horton's cabinet and belongs to the Publications Board. He is from Charleston, S. C.

George McLeod was picked to run for senior class president. Other senior class nominees were Russ Cowell, vice-president; Ann Street, secretary; Gordon Battle, treasurer; and Claire Boone, social chairman.

Charles Yarborough was nominated for sophomore class president. Other UP sophomore class choices were Bill Sanders, vice-president; Bev Webb, secretary; Gaither Walser, treasurer; and Landon Lewis, social chairman.

Principal speaker for Stilwell was Sol Cherry. "He is willing to shake the hand of every student on campus, if necessary," declared Cherry.

Other speakers for Stilwell were Mary Helen Crain and George McLeod.

Speaking for Gross, Dan Perry said, "If he was good enough to beat Ken Penegar last spring for secretary-treasurer, he can beat any SP man running now."

When it appeared that there would be a virtual split of the University Party over the vice-presi-

(See STILWELL, page 4)

Wolfsheimer Will Direct Gorham Race

Bob Gorham, UP presidential candidate, yesterday appointed Lou Wolfsheimer to be his campaign coordinator.

Gorham said Wolfsheimer will coordinate the activities of a group of students interested in his candidacy.

Wolfsheimer is no newcomer to politics having managed Ted Frankel's independent campaign for vice president last Spring, and he is now serving as president of the Junior Class.

Gorham stated in appointing Wolfsheimer, "Lou is one of the most capable men I've met at Carolina. His sincere interest in and knowledge of student affairs has prompted me to call upon him to coordinate my campaign."

Gorham also said, "Student government is of immediate interest to every student. We must not cloud this interest with an avalanche of petty political issues. We shall go to the students and talk with them about their ideas. There are going to be no fancy political theories; instead we are going to emphasize the common sense approach to student government."

Jewish Music Will Highlight Hillel Festival

Sunday 3:30 p.m. at Hill Hall the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation will present its third annual festival of Jewish music.

A special feature of the program will be the synagacgal cantillation of Cantor Aaron Earl Miller. From most ancient times, worship services have been chanted, and many of the earliest musical forms have come down to modern times in pure form. Cantor Miller will illustrate how readings from the Pentateuch and from other writings are chanted today, and how the traditional tunes attempted to describe both the content of a book and the season during which it is read.

In addition he will sing a selection from the Sabbath prayerbook, with the assistance of a choral group of Jewish students from Duke.

As an example of a far different tradition, Ernest Bloch's "Three Nocturnes" will be played by a trio comprising Dorothy Alden, violin, Lydia Bernstein, piano, and Mary Gray Clarke, cello.

To complete the program, the Women's Glee Club under the direction of Joel Carter, will sing four numbers typical of various aspect of Jewish music, as the con- One is Israeli; a second interprets the 23rd Psalm; the third is a Hebrew poem put to music, while the last—"Lift Thine Eyes" (from the Oratorio Elijah by Mendelssohn) represents not so much an

(See HILLEL, page 4)

Reception Today

The Student-Faculty Committee of SUAB will sponsor a discussion this afternoon led by Dr. W. E. Caldwell, head of the History Department.

Dr. Caldwell will speak at 5 p.m. in the main lounge of Graham Memorial on "Making Your Choice." Everyone is invited and refreshments will be served.

NEWS IN BRIEF

RALEIGH — Dry force leaders who contended that legislative committees had "gagged democracy" by refusing to approve a state-wide liquor referendum yesterday compared North Carolina to Soviet Russia. More than 1,500 persons, most of whom backed a bill calling for a state-wide "all or nothing" liquor vote, turned out for a hearing before the House Committees on counties, cities and towns. Warnings of a possible return to prohibition era lawlessness were also heard as foes clashed angrily over a proposed vote on liquor sales.

★

TEHRAN, Iran — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh yesterday warned all Americans to stay off Tehran's riot-torn streets and called out tank-supported troops for a showdown battle with Communist mobs. Police broke up with clubs a demonstration by 2,000 Communists who marched on Parliament shouting "Yankee go home," and "Down with the American advisers." The Red high command had ordered mass demonstrations by all its followers against "imperialist plots." The shouts against "American advisers" were aimed at the American military mission.

★

WASHINGTON — Gen. James A. Van Fleet laid his Korean strategy views on the line yesterday in a private White House talk with President Eisenhower. The retired 8th Army Commander flew here through freezing rain to confer about Korea with the President and to receive a hero's welcome-home by the nation's civilian and military high commands. He is scheduled to answer congressional questions, in hearings starting today, on what can be done to break the Korean stalemate.

★

SEOUL — Late winter rains turned the Korean battlefield into slippery mud yesterday and light patrol actions were reported along the front. Rain and low clouds grounded most United Nations planes and only weather reconnaissance flights were reported. Two South Korean patrols slogged through ankle-deep mud to attack two Communist outposts under cover of artillery and mortar fire on the eastern front Monday night.

Gray Calls On Professors For Answers To Question Of Mission Of University

Results Appraisal Will End Meeting

By Rolfe Neill

President Gray asked the question of the mission of the university yesterday and called on a group of professors to "help in defining, isolating, meeting the problems . . . of higher education."

"I'm asking you . . . to help inventory . . . the university," Gray said as he addressed the opening assembly of the first Conference on the State of the University. Gray added that he hoped the conference would be an annual affair.

Speaking in Carroll Hall, handsome new central building of the Business Administration School, Gray concentrated his talk on a "point of departure" for the conference which has brought together here nearly 20 professors from Woman's College, State College as well as Chapel Hill. Gray defined this point as "asking the question of whether we cannot . . . find a common purpose and identify a common goal?"

Gray said he originally planned to talk on "The State of the University" but would entitle his talk "Some Observations on a University." Modesty, "not wholly false," laziness and insufficient knowledge of the subject for formal preparation made him switch topics, the Consolidated University president said.

"My spirit of participation with you is really one of asking rather than telling," he told his audience.

Gray said there must not be too much "breast beating" and pride in previous achievements but that we must "look to the heritage of the past for motivations, momentum and momentous challenge."

"I am prepared to acknowledge we live in an age of technology," he said with a grin, then added that his 12-year-old son reproached him for not knowing that flying saucers really exist because the magazine Boy's Life says so.

"Must not university help us to maintain social and moral purpose in this technical age?" the president asked. Indeed it must, according to Gray, who said the university must forge ahead forcefully and "guide from within its own change while adjusting to outside change."

Gray urged the professors go to into the conference seminars "without inhibition . . . each of you participating frankly, fully and critically where you are so motivated."

In conclusion he said that he did not expect the conference to "solve everything . . . There will be plenty of time in years to come to solve some of the problems we face . . . I have high hopes; I think we have accomplished much by simply getting together."

Dr. Logan Wilson, recent academic provost here and now president of the University of Texas, sent a letter which was read by Chairman Howard Odum.

Dr. Wilson said in part: "(The conference is) one which very profitably might be carried on throughout the country . . . In my opinion it is high time that universities, especially state universities, redefine their fundamental objectives."

Speaker Says Funds Needed For Education

The American nation ought to spend two or three times as much as it is spending on education, Yale President A. Whitney Griswold said here yesterday.

The educator lamented what he called "the great shortage of teachers in secondary education and the woefully inadequate salary standards."

"We are not supplying the essential resources and yet are expecting our schools to turn out first-rate raw material for citizenship," Griswold said. He spoke at a luncheon yesterday at the Carolina Inn where participants in the State of the University conference gathered to hear him.

Asserting that the nation would do well to return to the fundamental principles of its founders, President Griswold said "we are so distracted by other things that we have lost sight of the important role our schools and colleges can play in the souls and minds of men."

Dean James H. Hilton of State's School of Agriculture presided at last night's general session at which Consolidated University chancellors spoke. E. K. Graham of Woman's College, John W. Harrelson of State and Robert B. House of Chapel Hill conducted a question and answer session on "The College Ideal."

Camp Slated For Workers

The Weekend Work Camp group of UNC is participating in community projects at St. Helena, an island off the coast of South Carolina, between the winter and spring quarters.

The Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School on the island and the Friends Service Committee has invited the local group to work with the people of the community in areas for which they have great need.

The local group, which is sponsored by the Y, is the outgrowth of group work on various local activities last summer. A meeting to discuss all aspects of the trip will be held tonight at seven o'clock at the Y library. The group welcomes those interested in the project.

Jones Fails To Mention Probe In Speech To Raleigh Church

RALEIGH, March 3—(Special)—The Rev. Charles M. Jones, who last week was fired as pastor of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church, said here last night that "the church as an institution often becomes the denier of Christian freedom."

Mr. Jones addressed an audience of 700 persons at the closing session of the Institute of Religion at the United Church here, a Southern Presbyterian church. Purpose of the institute, which is sponsored and supported by the church, is to get open forum discussion of the vital religious, social and political issues in the light of Christian ethics.

After his talk Mr. Jones was asked whether he thought that his liberal views on race relations constituted the main reason for his dismissal.

"I don't think it was the main issue . . . Maybe some didn't like the way I part my hair."

The non-segregated audience heard Mr. Jones speak on "Some Problems of Religious Freedom". In his prepared speech he did not refer to the controversy in which a Judicial Commission of the Orange Presbytery separated him from his pastorate.

SECRETARY of State John Foster Dulles (right) huddles with Rep. John M. Vorys after he appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Dulles told the committee that Congress should rush approval of a presidential resolution assuring enslaved peoples that they have not been forgotten. This was one of the Eisenhower campaign promises.—NEA Telephoto.

Intermarriage Offensive To Solons

'South Pacific' Lyric Branded Race Propaganda In Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 3— (Special)—"South Pacific" is racial propaganda offensive and repugnant to people of the South, two Georgia legislators charged recently, promising to offer legislation in November to regulate theatrical presentations in the state.

In a signed statement, Rep. David C. Jones and Sen. John D. Shepard criticized the city of Atlanta for "permitting such propaganda to be foisted upon Southern men and women under the pretense of theatrical art."

The legislators, who said they viewed the show at the Tower Theater here, where it has played to capacity audiences for two weeks, apparently were aiming their blast at one of the songs in the show, rather than at the entire production.

In amplifying their statement, Rep. Jones said they were referring to the tune entitled "You've Got To Be Taught" which contains these lyrics:

"You've got to be taught to be afraid of people whose eyes are oddly made, of people whose skin is a different shade . . . You've got to be taught before it's too late . . . to hate all the people your relatives hate . . . "

Jones said this song made the point that intermarriage of different races should be justified. "To us that is very offensive. Intermarriage produces halfbreeds. And halfbreeds are not conducive to the higher type of society. We in the South are a proud and progressive people. Halfbreeds cannot be proud .

"In the South we have pure blood lines and we intend to keep it that way."

Oscar Hammerstein II, reach-

(See RACIAL, page 4)

Campus Seen

Melodious males harmonizing in rain outside of Kenan Dormitory.

*

Pink parking ticket peeking from pocket as prof lectures.

*

Secretary's face as red as her underthings when skirt drops off in lobby of South Building.

WUNC

The following is today's program schedule for WUNC, a non-commercial FM radio station operating on an assigned frequency of 91.5 mc. and 1450 watts:

7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The U.N. Story.
7:30—Anyone You Know.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8:30—Masterworks from France.
9—Concert Favorites.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Lecture Changed

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 in the Library's Assembly Room Ran Singh, graduate student in sociology from India, will give the third in a series of three lectures on "The Essentials of Indian Philosophy."

Tomorrow's topic will be "Gandhi in the Light of Gita" and is being sponsored by the Philosophy Club. The talk originally was selected for today.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. — Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Pete Adams, Bob Mason, Bob Wolfe, Eleanor Saunders, Buddy Harper, Dorman Cordell, Ned Whitmore.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Rice Paddy Education

We have acquired much of our education outside the classroom. There are certain values in learning via bull sessions, travel, conference, and camping.

But as a routine, comfortable classrooms can't be beat. On the other hand, a tent, or barracks with a dirt floor presents some problems. The dirt probably comes in handy to put out a cigaret, but we doubt whether many Korean students have cigarets, since they don't have much food, or even clothing.

Lunch for a Korean undergraduate consists of a bowl of rice, mixed with water. These students, over 30,000 of them need help desperately. Over 10,000 of them actually are refugees. The international phase of the Campus Chest campaign gives us an opportunity to provide some help.

President Eisenhower remarked recently, "I have returned from Korea with several strong impressions. One is the extraordinary courage and tenacity of her people in the face of the devastation on which war has brought upon that small country. Another is her need for developing a large number of leaders."

Students in the Far East, incidentally, provide that leadership quickly once out of school. Three former students, just out of school, became justices on the Supreme Court bench of the Indonesian Republic. Ike notes this place of importance that students hold when he says, "Of particular importance in this respect is the training to be provided in universities. As in America, the students of Korea will inherit the problems of tomorrow and it is to them that we must look for the virile leadership that will shape her destiny along democratic lines."

Our nation's president, along with others, urges us to support our fellow students throughout the world, in particular the Korean students who need to rebuild their schools, but primarily need "life-saving" aid, food, clothing, and basic equipment for academic work. Your contribution this week to WSSF will go a long way in putting the Koreans back into the classrroom, and out of the rice paddy.

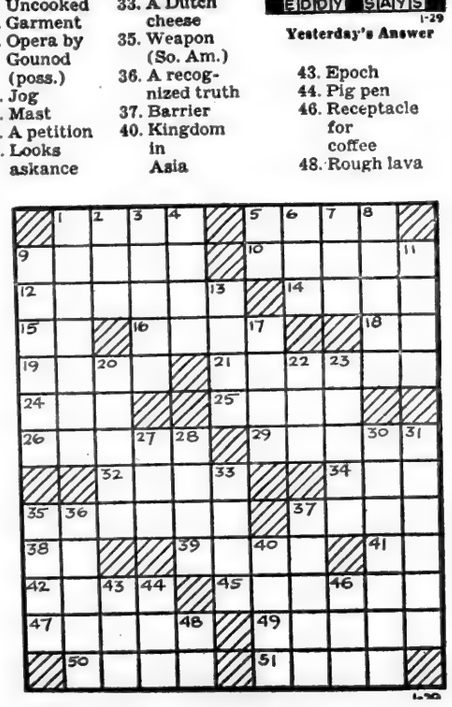
A Study Problem

A proposal to establish another bank in Chapel Hill merits serious consideration.

According to the Chapel Hill Weekly, the petition to have another bank has been subscribed by a number of townspeople because they want to make sure that if there is a new bank to be established, that it be locally owned. At least this is the feeling of some of the petitioners for the new bank.

However, there are other and more noteworthy reasons. Judge William Stewart says that Chapel Hill, a town of from 8 to 12,000 people needs more than one bank.

Students have occasionally griped of the services of the local bank now serving the community, and have asked that a new bank be established. We suggest that the U. S. Controller of the Currency study the local banking situation.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Remaining
5. A peer
9. Approbation
10. Aside
12. Beetles
14. Pitcher with a lid
15. Overhead
16. College servants (Eng.)
18. Thus
19. Fish
21. Summer month
24. Digit
25. Uprising
26. Lurk
29. Potato (dial.)
32. Teutonic character
34. Remnant
35. Laid in the sunshine
37. Man's name
38. Farm animal
39. Comfort
41. Smallest state (abbr.)
42. Reclines
45. Part of an hour
47. Large artery of heart
49. Irritating
50. Member of tribe of Indians (Yucatan)
51. Town in Arkansas

DOWN
1. Satire upon a person
2. Girl's name
3. A smithy
4. Shelf in a trunk
5. Music note
6. Open (poet.)
7. Uncooked
8. Garment
9. Opera by Gounod (poss.)
11. Jog
13. Mast
17. A petition
20. Looks askance
22. Tibetan gazelle
23. Speak
27. Three-toed diving bird
28. Leg joint
30. Inactivity
31. Whirled
33. A Dutch cheese
35. Weapon (So. Am.)
36. A recognized truth
37. Barrier
40. Kingdom in Asia
43. Epoch
44. Pig pen
46. Receptacle for coffee
48. Rough lava

Yesterday's Answer

—Alice Chapman—

Gradevinskog Odsieka

The annual thunderstorm of politics has hit the college world.

Verbal Lightning flashes between candidates. Thunder of party meetings echoes through the darkest classroom. A wave of blasting, praising, procastinating columns covers the pages of the press. Showers of mimeographed pages appear—floods of petitions—a deluge of "I promise to . . ."

This minor chaos reigns in student government, and some southern schools have apt headlines to describe the confusion.

From the LSU Daily Reveille, "Election: Merry-Go-Round of Mayhem." The Alabama University offers this, "Why run for office? or you can beat the machine."

The U. of Virginia describes its situation as "Collective Indifference."

A Woman's College editorial from Greensboro reads, "the day of reckoning is at hand." The WC wants leaders who "accent the positive," not relativists who "sway with the wind of public opinion."

To insure an honest election the University of Cincinnati set up a Student Council Elections Committee. The group curtailed the use of campaign posters to the Union but endorsed the nse of personal contact, sample ballots, arm bands, paper hats, sandwich boards, signs painted on coats, lapel tags, personal letters to voters, brass band parades, and speeches.

Last week's topic for editorial criticism was the student- — the freshman, the junior, the grad, none escaped tne eagle eye of the political reporter.

"Unorganized, ineffective, not worth time and patience, doesn't amount to anything"—this is a description of the University of Minnesota student government. The Daily paper wonders if the 18,000 people on campus can get any kind of "esprit de Corps." An all-University congress has been studying this very problem. It proposed giving resident groups representation instead of electing by popular vote from the entire population. The paper doubts that "where a student lives has much bearing on his opinions or what he wants his representatives on congress to do. It labels the MU elections "popularity contests."

The only European newspaper that passes through the offices of the DTH is a Yugoslavian journal. Its headlines have this to say about the current situation, "Gradevinskog Odsieka."

Student Drivers

Detroit—If an adult driver could look at himself through the eyes of the younger generation he'd see a person who is inconsiderate of others, who cheats a bit on speed laws and who believes he can solve traffic jams by getting mad.

At least this is the picture given by a Chevrolet Motor Division survey which asked 5,000 high school students what they thought of their elders. Here's the way the juveniles ranked adult driving faults:

No. 1—Recklessness. ("Lots of times we ride the bumper of the car ahead.") No. 2—Poor sportsmanship. ("He thinks the road belongs to him.") No. 3—Speeding. ("Dad goes just as fast when there's traffic as when there is not.") No. 4—Failure to signal properly. ("We got hit once when Pop stopped too quick for a hamburger.") No. 5 — Lmpatience. ("My father thinks ne can untangle traffic by just swearing.") No. 6 — Disregard of signs. ("Some speed by when they see 'Slow School Crossing'.") No. 7—Inattention. ("Mom talks too much when she's driving.") No. 8—Neglect of car's safety features. ("All of us cross our fingers when Dad steps on the brakes.") No. 9—Ignorance of laws. ("When two drivers meet at a corner they eye each other like in a duel. Neither of them knows who's supposed to stop.") No. 10—Lack of skill. ("She can't get out of skids.")

The Chavrolet survey gave a cross-section of national opinion. Cities covered included Baltimore, Los Angeles, Miami, St. Paul, Atlanta, Dallas, Denver and Pittsburgh among others.

North Carolina Motor Vehicle

'Looks As If Congress May Save Us Money, Anyhow'

Louis Kraar

Party Line

It only took about a minute, but it climaxed a week of waiting.

You couldn't help thinking that as Bob Gorham, University Party presidential pick, gave his acceptance speech. Gorham only the day before nominations had said that he was getting cold feet. But there was nothing cold about UP's support of him. They nominated him by acclamation.

". . . I firmly believe that the major factor in student apathy so prevalent here is the lack of respect that the average student has for student government," declared Gorham. This reporter agreed with him.

"This lack of respect," continued Gorham, "comes from the constant bickering, the political maneuvering by the campus politicians in an attempt to increase party fortunes. Politics has a place on campus, but this place must not be overemphasized."

Those were idealistic words for a man running for president at a school in which petty politics usually occupy most politicans' time. Bob Gorham said he meant them.

As the speech ended and the politicians and smoke cleared from the room, one thing was sure—the presidential race was going to be clean this year. That is if both candidates keep the promises made in their first speeches. Gorham promised "sincerity" and "common sense." Student Party presidential nominee, Ken Penegar, pledged a campaign based on issues, not slogans.

A race keyed to such a high level will surely produce a good president, an able leader. Either Penegar or Gorham would qualify as that leader, if they keep their promises.

YACK TRACK: The UP nomination of Rollie Tillman, a comparative unknown in Carolina publications, for Yack editor stirred up more than a few. Hugh Gale, present Yack editor, was one of them. He was supporting Lib Moore.

Jack Stilwell, UP floorleader, got up to speak for Tillman at the nominating session. Taking off his coat, Stilwell let loose with a shower of accolades a la Bill Stern about his candidate. The speech lasted about twenty minutes.

When Stilwell finished, Gale asked, "If Rollie Tillman was so interested in the Yack, why hasn't he ever come up to see us about working on it before?"

Party Chairman Walt McFall pounded the gavel and said that "negative comments" about candidates would have to cease. Stilwell, however, agreed to submit to questions.

Stilwell said that Tillman wasn't the "kind of boy that would jump into anything without thinking it over" and that he considered jobs carefully before undertaking them. "He thought this over a long time before deciding to run," concluded Stilwell.

"He hasn't been thinking about it very long though, has he," said Gale and sat down. He didn't expect an answer. And he wasn't disappointed.

POUNDING THE BEAT: Bob Colbert, Yack managing editor, dropping out of the race saying that he didn't want to see the Yack "in politics." . . . Ed Gross and Jack Stilwell high men for other UP posts . . . SP heads pressing heads together to draft a platform . . . and politicos starting to wear ties.

WEALTH AND POVERTY IN IN THE COLLEGE PRESS

While most college papers seem to be tightening their belts in efforts to meet one financial crisis after anather, the Connecticut Campus, University of Connecticut, has just announced its switchover from a three-times-a-week to a daily.

"The new publishing schedule," says the Campus, "will mark the culmination of a long - time dream." But the Campus didn't forget to call on the administration for a "re-evaluation of the University's arbitrary distribution of the Student Activities Fee."

A week before (Jan. 7) the Eastern State News, a weekly at Eastern Illinois State college, began publishing its "diminuitive economy size issue," a four-column affair.

Students were warned "to expect similar issues as the result of a reduced publications budget." Like the Campus, the Eastern State News gets most of its money from a student activity fee.

Challenge

Editor:

In his column, "For whom the Yells Scold", which appeared in the February 25th issue of The Daily Tar Heel, Dan Duke made several reckless statements concerning Senator Joseph McCarthy which I should like to answer.

Mr. Duke advised everyone to listen to the re-broadcast of Senator McCarthy's committee hearings on the Voice of America if he wished to experience "feelings of sheer horror". In anticipation of such false insinuations I have made it a point to hear all of these re-broadcasts, and the only horror that I have felt has been in the revelation of the gross incompetence and ignorance with which the personnel appointed by the Democratic Administration appear to be afflicted.

McCarthy has conducted the hearings in a completely fair and impersonal manner. Perhaps Mr. Duke objected to McCarthy's refusal to let the Soviet endorsed author, Howard Fast, lecture the committee on the historical background of the Fifth Amendment! Such an act, if permitted, would have turned the hearing into a Communist propaganda channel. Moreover, Senator McClellan, a Democrat from Arkansas, has been far sharper in his treatment of witnesses than has Senator McCarthy.

In his column Mr. Duke charged that McCarthy has branded "such people as Adlai Stevenson and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as un-American and Communist sympathizers". I challenge Mr. Duke to cite the time, place, and occasion of such charges by McCarthy. In reality he has merely stated that these two persons have demonstrated an amazing lack of discretion in lending their names to certain causes which are Communist inspired and in gathering about them certain people whose loyalty is highly questionable.

Mr. Duke implied that McCarthy's planned investigation of the colleges to weed out Communist teachers is similar to Communist methods employed behind the Iron Curtain. However, on February 24th, the United States House of Representatives voted by the overwhelming margin of 315 to 2 to appropriate funds for just such an investigation. On February 25th President Eisenhower gave his support to such an investigation. It would seem that the entire government is beginning to use "Communist methods".

Finally Mr. Duke claims that "extreme McCarthyism favors a strict censor by the American government of so-called 'pink' literature, drama, music, and art". Actually McCarthy only objects to the use of such material on the Voice of America broadcasts, which are intended to present our side of the world dispute with Russia to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain. Obviously we would be defeating our own purpose if we used Communist material to present the American side of the question.

Mr. Duke's whole column represents simply another example of a situation in which a person accuses Senator McCarthy of being un-American because of his "reckless and irresponsible" charges and yet this person in his accusation himself makes statements completely unsubstantiated by the facts.

William Kauffman Scarborough
Annapolis, Maryland

THOSE AMAZING TRUSTEES

"Why do citizens accept positions on boards of trustees?" asks Edgar C. Cummings, professor at Hiram college, Ohio. In an article titled "Some Observations on the Trustees," in School and Society, Mr. Cummings attempts an answer.

". . . One answer is that such a position is an honor." he declares. "The difficulty begins when the citizen who has accepted the position as an honor begins to see dimly that he has also accepted a responsibility. If he awakens to this responsibility in a sensible, mature fashion, he will make a good trustee.

Mr. Cummings says most trustees are wealthy businessmen with a businessman's viewpoint. "It is thus a curious development that boards of trustees are for the most part made up of people who come from fields completely unrelated to higher education. How would bankers receive the idea that their boards of directors should be composed of educators?"

Sit-Down Strike

Editor's Note: During the pre-Saturday class tussle and shuffle, we lost this letter. But now that we have found it, we are happy to print it.

Just idle speculation, but I wonder what would happen if, say 3,000 out of 5,000-odd students said, "We don't want Saturday classes," and to prove it, went on a sit-down strike and refused to attend class at all. Maybe the demi-gods, up on their lofty clouds could be shocked down from their senile stupor long enough to take notice.

I doubt it will ever happen because easygoing, amiable, UNC students could never be roused out of their lethargy long enough to do this. They just sigh resignedly and say, "The gods have decreed, so be it."

There are certain advantages to actively fighting Saturday classes by a sit-down strike. Think of all the sack time one could have that week. Business in Chapel Hill would increase (at least at the Goody Shop). It would be like a vacation between quarters. (There will be just one such vacation next year.) And maybe the doddering old fools who idly seem to parlay us like chessmen on a board would see beyond the tips of their noses for once.

Just think, no more big German weekends, no more parties and relaxation, no more weekends hitting the books to catch up with these profs who think one is as learned as they are. Leave Chapel Hill 2:00 on Saturday and leave your home at 2:00 on Sunday. Of course the people who, in order to eat regularly, have to work on Saturday, can either quit eating or go elsewhere.

I'd like to see a majority of the Student Body get off the back of their necks and go into action—do something. All this yammering at the trustees hasn't done too much. (Most of them are deaf anyway.)

I think it would be fun.

Mike Simpson

Indiana Is Nation's Finest In Both Basketball Polls

State Rated Eighth, 12th By Balloters

Indiana, winner in its last 17 games and No. 1 in the United Press Coaches Rating Board for the last four weeks, made it unanimous this week, by replacing Seton Hall as No. 1 in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Seton Hall dropped to third place in the AP poll, while it remained second in the UP ratings. Both Dayton and Louisville defeated Seton Hall this week, Dayton before the votes were counted and Louisville after the voting.

The Hoosiers topped Northwestern Monday night for their 18th victory of the season, and now have only a game away with Minnesota and one at home with Iowa to round out a perfect 18-victory Big Ten campaign.

LaSalle, leader of the polls early in the season moved up to second place in the AP ratings, after being in fourth last week. Washington fell from second to fourth.

Louisiana State advanced from sixth to fifth after winning the Southeastern Conference crown. Others in the AP top ten are Kansas, Oklahoma A & M, Kansas State, Western Kentucky, and Illinois.

In the UP top ten, following Indiana and Seton Hall, were Washington, LaSalle, Kansas, Louisiana State, Oklahoma A & M, North Carolina State, Kansas State and Illinois.

Indiana received 25 first place votes and a total of 639 points in the AP poll. Balloting was on the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc. The UP poll, tallied in the same way, gave the Hoosiers 21 firsts, 11 seconds and three thirds for a total of 333 out of a possible 350 points.

Fifteen first-place votes went to Seton Hall in the AP tally, while La Salle had six, Washington four, and LSU, A & M, and Western Kentucky four each.

Seton Hall Loses Twice To Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 3—A fist-swinging melee that sent two players to hospitals after Louisville's 73-67 basketball victory over Seton Hall last night was blamed today on "a mistake among a couple of players."

The "mistake," observers agreed came dangerously close to touching off a bad riot. This was averted when an alert University of Louisville band struck up the Star Spangled banner.

Several players already had been drawn into the fist-swinging at the end of a closely contested and roughly played game which saw Seton Hall absorb its second straight loss after a record string of 27 victories.

Harry Brooks, Seton Hall guard who needed several stitches to close a lacerated lip, said the mistake partly was his.

He said Chet Beam of Louisville came rushing at him after the game "with his hands outstretched and hit me on the shoulder."

"I thought he was trying to hit me so I swung," Brooks related later. "But then Beam said, 'Hell, I don't want to fight. I just want to shake hands'."

Brooks said he then suffered the stinging lick that tore open his lip and "it seemed everybody was fighting."

Also taken to the hospital was Lousiville's Billy Sullivan, who was knocked down and suffered a big bump on the head. Mike Hannon of Seton Hall was knocked unconscious but didn't require hospital care.

Players mixed with spectators out of the crowd of more than 8,000 that turned out for the game and fired-up tempers cooled off only when the strains of the national anthem broke through the din.

Police and ushers herded the fans back to their places and police escorted the Seton Hall team from the floor.

Coaches of both teams, Honey Russell of Seton Hall and Peck Hickman of Louisville, blamed "rough-housing" play on the part of each team for setting off the melee, but they expressed regrets and said relations between their schools would not suffer.

BARRY WALL (left) and Buddy Baarck, two of Carolina's top swimmers who helped the Tar Heels win nine of 14 first places in the Southern Conference meet last weekend, will be counted on to help the Carolina team in the NCAA meet to be held this weekend.

Deacon Baseball Team Works Hard As Season Opener Nears

WAKE FOREST, N. C., March 3—With only three weeks remaining before Wake Forest opens her 1953 baseball season against the Citadel on March 26, Coach Taylor Sanford has split his mammoth squad of 50 candidates into two groups which work out at 1:30 to 3:30 and 3:30 to 5:30 respectively each afternoon.

Going into his first week of concentrated split drills Coach Sanford was forced to cut 25 candidates from the group of 75 hopefuls who showed up for practice two weeks ago.

"Silent Sam," Wake Forest's mechanical pitching machine, is doing much of the work as the Deacon batsmen try to improve their eye for the ball. The Baptist hurlers have not taken off their wraps out doors yet. They are waiting for warmer days.

All positions are still wide open for the varsity squad and Coach Sanford will not divide the group between varsity and jayvee squads until every man has had a good chance to show his ability.

Best bets for the starting varsity fielding posts are: Catcher, Jack Liptak (letter third baseman) and Linwood Holt (freshman from Graham); First Base, Hugh Smith (letter first base), Tommy Howard, and Bob Waggoner (freshman from Salisbury); Second Base, Ben Tatum (reserve 1952 infielder), and Oscar Signore; Third Base, Jack Liptak (letter third baseman) and Junie Floyd (letter outfielder) along with Tommy Cole from the 1952 Jayvees.

Football star Larry Spencer is the chief challenger for sophomore Dickie Harris' claim to short stop. Spencer is fast and throws well, but Harris is the 1952 letterman at the pickup spot. Likely both boys will see plenty of short stop duty.

Three freshman outfielders have appeared to vie for positions with returning meadow men Junie Floyd, Ralph Brown, and Jack Rogers. The new men are Frank McRea, a power hitter from Salisbury, Bob Waggoner, also a first base candidate from Salisbury, and Luther McKeel, from Wilson.

With the availability of a number of good fielders, pitching will be the unknown quantity in 1953 Wake Forest baseball.

Town Women Win Annual Swim Meet

Town Women won the annual women's swimming meet Monday night with a total of 44 points, beating out Chi Omega with 37 and Tri Delt with 36.

Following the top three were Kappa Delta with 16, and AD Pi with 15.

Sue Ambler was director of the meet.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—field 1, PiKA 1 vs. Pi Kappa Phi 1; field 2, Sigma Chi 3 vs. SAE 1; field 3, Delta Psi vs. Phi Delt 2.

5:00—field 1, La School 1 vs. Med School 2; field 2, Med Schol 3 vs. Ruffin 2; field 3, Med School 1 vs. Law School 2.

CLASSIFIEDS

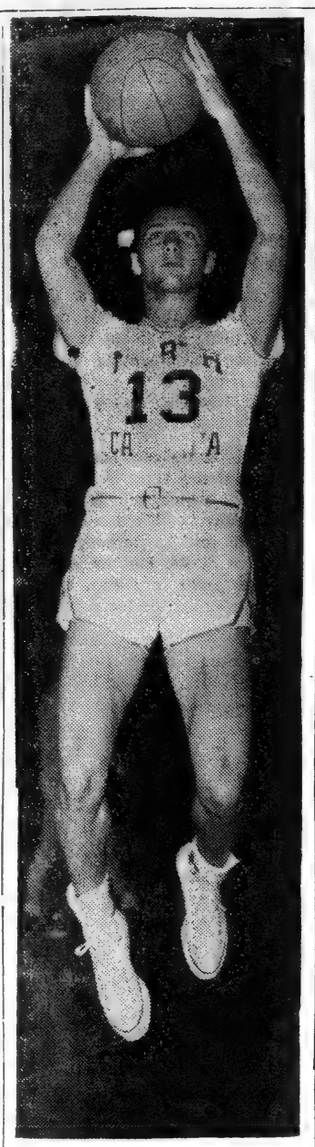
FOR SALE

FOR SALE: 1948 DELUXE 4-DOOR Chevrolet (black) Telephone 5392 between 5-6 P.M.

LOST

LOST—AROTC NOTEBOOK AND Notes in the vicinity of the Y court. If you find please call Charles Collins. Ph. 98702. They are valuable.

HELP WANTED



HELP WANTED FOR 3 HOURS work daily, Monday, Thursday and Friday, 2-5 o'clock. $.85 per hour. Call 2361 after 6 o'clock.

(chg. 1x1)

FOUND

THE MOST COMFORTABLE ATMOSPHERE IN TOWN.

THE NEW UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT

VINCE GRIMALDI

DANZIGER'S

TODAY'S MENU

HOMEMADE CHICKEN NOODLE SOUP ..... $ .20

SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES

MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with spaghetti and salad ..... $ .50

BAKED MACCARONI with ham and cheese ..... $ .65

HUNGARIAN GOULASH with potato and vegetable $1.10

WESTERN PRIME ROAST-BEEF, French Fries, two vegetables, salad $1.65

SWISS STEAK with eggnoodles, vegetable and salad ..... $ .85

STUFFED PEPPER with tomatosauce, boiled potato ..... $ .75

MUNICH SAUSAGE with sauerkraut, and roast potatoes ..... $ .85

BUTTERED SPANISH MACKEREL with tomatos and boiled potatoes ..... $ .80

CZECH MEATROULADE with sour cream and vegetable ..... $ .85

. . . your choice served with bread, butter and salad

Our Service Is THIS GOOD

We're not kidding when we say we really have top dry cleaning service. Your clothes are handled with the care that assures them longer life—neater looks. When your clothes get that "down-and-out" look, send them to us for new life.

NU-WAY CLEANERS

"WE MEAN — WE CLEAN"

N. Graham St. Phone 9-3498

INDIANAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Fabien Sevitzky
Conductor

Page Auditorium Duke University
Thursday Evening, March 5, at 8:15 P.M.

Tickets: $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 (incl. tax)
On sale: 201 Men's Union . . . Duke University

For reservations phone Durham 9011, ext. 6225
or write to
J. Foster Barnes, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina

Program: Franck, Liszt, and Berlioz

Grimaldi Named To Third Team Of Southern Conference Squad

Carolina co-captain Vince Grimaldi was honored Monday when he was chosen to a position on the Southern Conference third team.

The wiry little Tar Heel guard, top scorer for the team this past season, was given the honor in recognition of his work in leading the Carolina team to its first tournament bid in the past three years.

Given berths on the first team were Frank Selvy of Furman, the leading vote-getter in the poll, N. C. State's string-bean scorer, Bobby Speight, George Washington's freshman center, Joe Holup, Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest, and Jim Sotiile of West Virginia.

The players on the first team represent one of the highest scoring fives in the nation. The five players have shooting averages which when totaled would give the team an average of 112 points per game.

Sophomore Al Lifson, whose average per game is the best on the Carolina team was awarded honorable mention.

Chess Team Tops Virginia

The Carolina chess team defeated the University of Virginia Sunday afternoon by a score of 31.

Winning players for Carolina were Kit Crittenden, Doug Kahn, Bob Hubbard, and T. V. Ramachandran.

The Tar Heel team, which won the Southern Intercollegiate championship from Virginia last year, will defend the title in the upcoming tournament at Randolph Macon College.

Letter Meeting

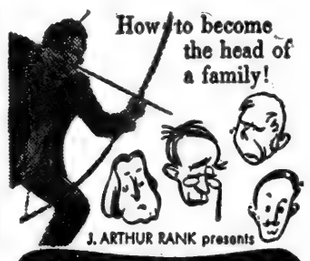
The Monogram Club will have its last meeting of the winter quarter tomorrow night at 7:15 in the club room.

President Harry Pawlik yesterday asked that all members attend in order to finish up the business for the quarter.

College Softball Meet Slated At Greensboro

Maybe it won't be listed on the records as an intercollegiate sport, but the colleges of the state will battle in a men's softball tournament at Memorial Stadium in Greensboro May 7-8.

The first annual North Carolina College Softball event, bringing together teams from all the colleges of the state by invitation, will be conducted by the City Recreation Department with Oka Hester as tournament director.



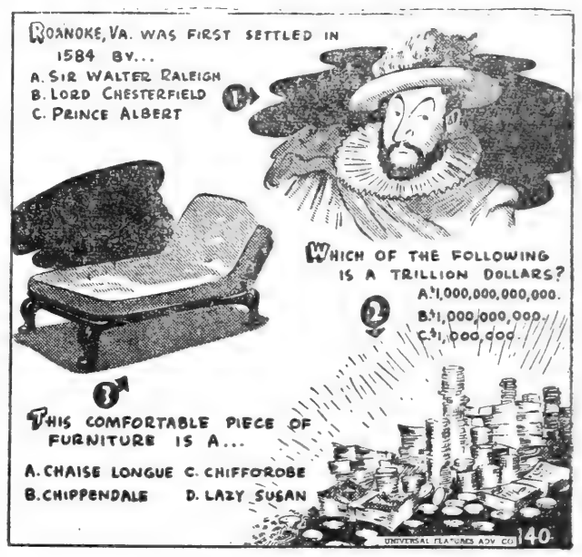
Invitations have already been mailed to the colleges who will individually decide on how to pick the teams, either intramural league champions or a campus all-star outfit. Play will be single elimination with first games Friday night, and play all day Saturday until a champion is named.

LAST TIMES TODAY

Varsity

TOMORROW

J. ARTHUR RANK presents
"KIND HEARTS AND CORONETS"
starring
ALEC GUINNESS · DENNIS PRICE
VALERIE HOBSON · JOAN GREENWOOD



WHAT'S THAT?
You Say
DALE FAIRLESS
Has The Best Records
In The South!

Yes sir, we really mean that Dale Fairless Shop in Glen-Lennox has all the classicals that have gained admiration over the years and a general run of all-time favorites. Drop by Dale Fairless for an earful of really good music.

OPEN FRIDAY 7-9 P.M.

DALE FAIRLESS SHOP
Glen-Lennox

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

You'll find the right answer to the quiz to be Sir Walter Raleigh, $1,000,000,000,000 and Chaise Longue. You'll find that SUTTON'S DRUG STORE carries a full line of baby supplies and medicines.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER
Sutton's DRUG STORE
Be SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS—MEN'S TOILETRIES — SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE—JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

RIGHT OUT OF OUR MAGIC KITCHEN

Yes, your favorite dish prepared just the way you like it, served to you in one of our private dining rooms.

For a Real Dinner Treat Drive Out To

THE PINES

Raleigh Highway Phone 9-5539

Play Cast For 'Ballad' Is Announced

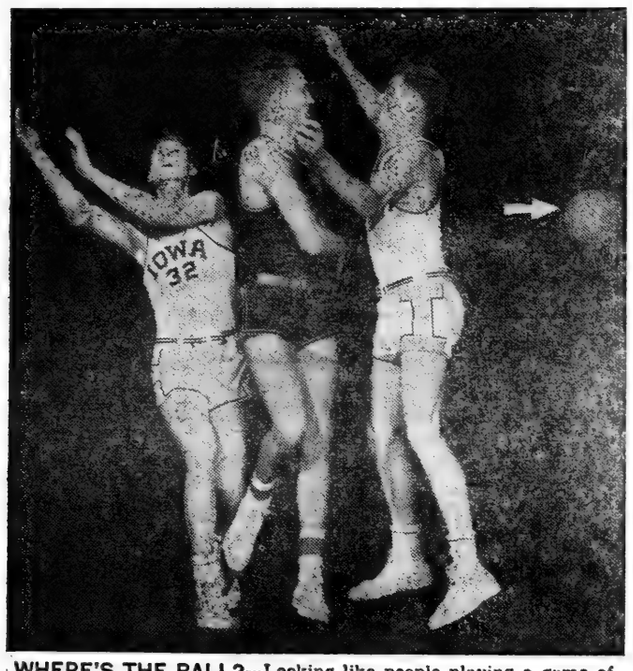
Betty Vickery, director of the 159th in the Playmakers series of new plays by student playwrights, "A Ballad for Jeannie," by Lyn Neill of Roanoke, Va., has announced her cast for the play, which is scheduled for production Thursday and Friday.

Students are asked to attend the Thursday performance, as members of the Southeastern Theater Conference have been invited to the Friday performance. There is no admission charge; Thursday's curtain will be at 7:30, Friday's at 8:30.

The cast: Jeannie, Barbara Lucas, Roanoke, Va.; Tim, John Bonitz, Greensboro; the preacher, Hal England, Kings Mountain; Jess Weldrund, Jim Leonard, Trappe Md.; Lorine, Peggy Caldwell, Chapel Hill; the church folks: Clint Lindley, Virginia Young and Martha Davis, all of Chapel Hill; Betty Johnson, Staunton, Va.

Jim Fouts, Lexington, N. C.; Elise Holmes, Fernadina, Fla.; Neta Whitty, New Bern; Franz Roberts, Hillsboro; Charles Billings, Dudley; Ig Heniford, Loris, S. C.; Sara Davis, Graham; Robert Casstevens, Yadkinville; Judith Taylor, Lawrenceville, N. J.

Billy Barnes, Wilson; John Stockard, Greensboro; Keen Oliver, Chatham, Va., and the children: Bob Sneed, Charlotte; Wade Williams, Savannah, Ga., and Tony Maurice, Mary Dee Casey, Elliott Caldwell and Priscilla Selden, all of Chapel Hill.



THIS PICTURE serves a variety of purposes. If you are Irish, this is a reminder that St. Patrick's Day is coming. If you are interested in botany, the shamrocks are instructive. But for us peasants, this is sex, brother—in the person of Martha Vickers.

—Hillel—

(Continued from page 1)

espect of Jewish music, as the continuity of creativity in a man who though he was converted to Christianity still showed the dynamic of home and family tradition.

WHERE'S THE BALL?—Looking like people playing a game of blind-man's buff, these three basketball players seek and reach in every direction for the ball which seems to be floating off at far right.

Photo Display Is Record Of Science Steps

The Displays Committee of SUAB has arranged a showing of Photographic Science, one of a series of photographic exhibitions, prepared by the editors of LIFE Magazine, and it begins today in the Horace Williams Lounge of Graham Memorial.

The exhibit will close March 15.

The exhibition consists of 18 photographs by Life's Fritz Goro. Enlarged and mounted on eighteen panels, each of the pictures records an important moment in the history of scientific achievement.

Goro, one of the pioneers in photographing science, has also pioneered in devising methods to photograph the illusive manifestations of science. As against the two dimensional effect of microphotography, he has developed what he calls "maco-photography," which takes tiny objects below the point of vision and photographs them in their environment.

Goro is credited with being the first to photograph much scientific phenomena, and his historic photograph of atom splitting made in 1939 is included in this exhibition of his work.

Many of the exhibition photographs were made with specially built equipment and often involved Goro in months of preparation. The drama of some subjects is increased owing to original photographic magnification and to subsequent enlargement of the panels to exhibition size. Microwaves, electronics, penicillin, lithium crystals, coated lenses, alternating current and atomic energy are among the subjects included.

Brief explanatory captions accompany each panel.

—Racial—

(Continued from page 1)

ed at his New York apartment, said: "I meant every word in that song. The play was not written as propaganda, but the propaganda, if they want to call it that, comes naturally.

"I doubt," said Hammerstein, "that these two men are true my side. People are not staying away from the theater."

An Atlanta writer and critic had this to say: "As Adlai Stevenson says, 'Some people have to be dragged kicking and screaming into the twentieth representatives of the pepole of Georgia. All the evidence is on century.'"

Hunger Pains Abroad

Campus Chesters Underscore Great Need In Korean Area

As the Campus Chest enters its third day of drive for funds on the Carolina campus, more and more stress is being placed on the work which WSSF, CARE and UNESCO are now doing in the Korean area.

In the land in which there are 2,000,000 people depending on the United Nations Civil Assistance Command for subsistence, there are rations available for only 10 days each month. The people living on this limited ration have managed to survive only by begging or stealing the additional food necessary in order to live.

The Ministry of Education in Korea has encouraged all colleges and universities to reopen and carry on their work—some have tried to hold classes under a merger plan. All suffer from the cold, from buildings without heat or glass in the windows, from generally inadequate facilities.

Even under these conditions, self-help projects for a few of the students have been made available.

RAGGED AND FILTHY, THEIR BODIES shivering in inadequate clothing, these Korean children exemplify the plight of the "case hardened" orphan of Korea. At left, the children are made bolder by hunger or fear an dopenly approach servicemen in a jeep to make a deal.—NEA Telephoto.

Nadine Conner Sings Here Tomorrow Night

Nadine Conner, petite and charming soprano, will appear here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall.

Auditorium doors will open at 7 p.m. Students will be admitted free upon presentation of ID cards. All remaining seats will go on sale to faculty and townspeople at 7:40 for one dollar.

California-born Nadine, a University of Southern California graduate, made her debut in "The Magic Flute." Commenting on that debut, a leading New York critic said, "An American star was born at the Met last night."

Since her initial Met appearance Miss Connor has sung many leading roles including "Traviata," "La Boheme," "Rigoletto" and "Don Giovanni." Recently she made news at the Met by singing two major roles in a day, an innovation even for the Metropolitan.

Miss Conner has appeared in many motion pictures, radio, television and recitals. She has sung with the San Francisco and Mexico City opera companies in addition to the Met.

NADINE CONNER

Direct from London & Broadway Triumphs
"Magnificent! Master of acting."—Atkinson, Times
S. HUROK presents
EMLYN WILLIAMS AS Charles Dickens
MEMORIAL HALL — Chapel Hill
SAT., Mar. 7, 8:30 p.m.
All Seats Reserved
$3.30 — $2.20 — $1.10
Mail Orders: The Carolina Playmakers, Box 1050—Tel. 9471

—Stillwell—

(Continued from page 1)

dential choice, UP presidential nominee Bob Gorham took the floor.

"I've never known circumstances like this, when we've had two men as equally qualified as these. I'm not going to express an opinion because I don't have an opinion," he said. He stated later that he had no preference for a running mate.

Cook, secretary - treasurer nominee, is a Regular student in the Naval ROTC. He is Election Board Chairman, and has worked in student government for a number of years.

A humorous touch was added to the otherwise tense race for the vice - presidential endorsement. George McLeod was praising Jack Stilwell, and at the close of his speech declared, "Jack could sell refrigerators to Eskimos—not that other candidates couldn't either." He added, "I guess Gross could probably sell ice boxes though."

The party members exploded with laughter.

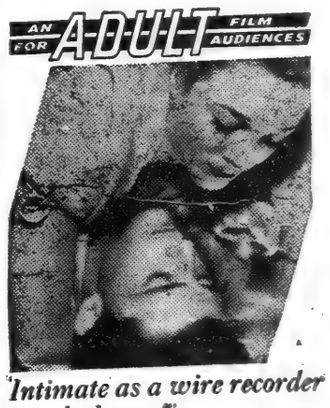
The University Party will nominate for Publications Board in Men's Dorm District V next week, according to Walt McFall, UP chairman.

Bible Study

Dr. Berand Boyd, head of the Religion Department, will lead the Bible Study Group at 5 p.m. today in the YWCA, speaking on the 13th chapter of Corinthians.

Golden Bear

The Order of the Golden Bear will meet at 5 p.m. today at The Shack.



FIT AS A FIDDLE!

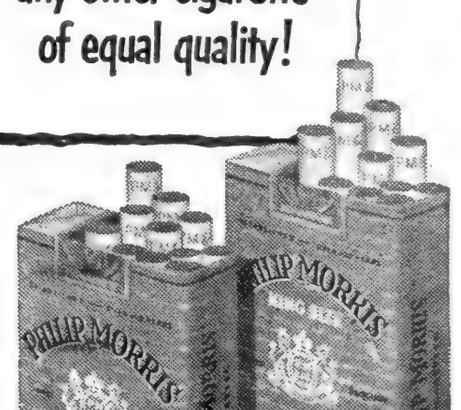
We mean that LITERALLY, because we adjust your engine the same way a musician tunes a violin. Each part is "tuned" INDIVIDUALLY and precisely 'til it's absolutely right! Then we check to see that everything works in perfect harmony. The result? Music to your ears. Drive up for this check-up today.

POE MOTOR CO.
112 W Franklin St.
DESOTO PLYMOUTH

Carolina
TODAY
AN ADULT FILM FOR ADULT AUDIENCES

"Intimate as a wire recorder in a bedroom!"—TIME MAGAZINE
Devil in the Flesh
T-O-D-A-Y

HERE IT IS!
PHILIP MORRIS
KING-SIZE



...the only leading King-Size cigarette made an exclusively different way to avoid the main cause of irritation!

NOW! PHILIP MORRIS is available in the new KING-SIZE for longer smoking enjoyment.

Remember, you'll feel better when you change to PHILIP MORRIS. In case after case, coughs due to smoking disappear . . . parched throat clears up . . . that stale, "smoked-out" feeling vanishes!

So take your choice, but make your choice PHILIP MORRIS—America's Most Enjoyable Cigarette!

KING-SIZE or REGULAR you cannot buy any other cigarette of equal quality!

KING-SIZE or REGULAR YOU'LL FEEL BETTER
smoking PHILIP MORRIS

CALL FOR PHILIP MORRIS

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Cloudy and cool with 50 high. Yesterday's high, 66; low, 44.

The Daily Tar Heel

AGAIN
M-M-Marilyn takes over page 2 today.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 108 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Gorham Opens Presidential Bid With Debate Challenge

University Party presidential pick Bob Gorham yesterday challenged Ken Penegar, Student Party presidential nominee, "to debate the issues of the campaign."

"I want to carry the issues of this campaign to the students," Gorham declared. "I am therefore issuing a challenge to Ken Penegar to debate the issues of the campaign. I want to hold these debates everywhere we can get a group together, no matter what the size."

Gorham said he thought the important thing in the election is "getting to the students and talking to them." "I know that these debates are the best way of accomplishing this," he added.

The practice of debates between the presidential candidates is traditional in campus political campaigns. Last year UP's Ham Horton and SP's Ken Barton held several of these verbal bouts.

"I realize that Ken (Penegar) is a more polished debater than I can ever hope to be, but I am confident that the things I believe in can be expressed in simple words," said Gorham.

The UP presidential candidate cited as one of the many issues he wanted to take to the students the "manner in which the Student Entertainment Series is being financed." He said, "Since every student pays a fee to this program, I feel he has an inside interest in its workings. I want to find out every student's opinion on this matter."

On the controversial question of fratesnity versus non-fraternity in politics, Gorham had this to say:

"In past years, certain political factions have insisted on dividing the students of this University into two segments: non-fraternity and fraternity. This is one of the most damaging things ever to occur in student government. These politicians have supposedly been acting in the best interests of the students.They claim to love and cherish Carolina, yet they would destroy the unity which is 'The Carolina Spirit.'

"This is the type of thing that must be done away with. It is a wrongdoing that must not and will not enter this campaign. We are all students of the same Univers-

(See GORHAM, page 3)

Gray Smooths Faculty-Trustee Bad Feelings

By Rolfe Neill

The University, after two days of probing into its vitals, prescribed some strong medicine for itself last night.

The occasion was the close of a two-day conference on the State of the University, an experiment in self-examination.

Chairmen of the four major panels read their groups' reports at a dinner meeting. Page after page gave detailed analyses and suggestions for (1) undergraduate instruction; (2) research and graduate teaching; (3) student-faculty relationships, and (4) the integrated mission of the total university in service to the state.

Some 688 faculty members—over half of the Consolidated University's instruction staff—sardined into Lenoir Hall for a big meal and a pair of big speeches, one by President Gray and the other by Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public schools.

Gray concentrated his remarks on a reassurance to the faculty that neither the Executive Committee nor the Board of Trustees was trying to usurp faculty prerogatives. His talk obviously referred to the stormy question of whose right it was to decide on Saturday classes. The Board of Trustees ultimately backed its Executive Committee but the Chapel Hill faculty adopted a strong report protesting any such future move which would indicate "a loss of confidence in the faculty."

Gray referred to it as the recent "rather loose-jointed affair." Out of it, he said, "came a feeling, a strong feeling . . . that somehow the Executive Committee had lost confidence in our faculty."

"I can say to you," the President continued, "that this is not the fact. . . . They have a growing confidence in you."

Later he said, "I think I can venture a prediction. . . . There will be a greater caution on the part of the Trustees in exercising control in faculty affairs."

He said he was instructed by the Trustees to make these remarks to the faculty. Victor Bryant Sr. and Tom Pearsall, both Executive Committee members, were present and introduced as guests at the dinner.

Gray said there "was a feeling by some that this (fight it out in trustee meetings) was a chance to be emancipated from the dictatorial Executive Committee. . . . I make this remark in all good humor.

"We cannot destroy (the Executive Committee). . . . We need it to get the business of this university done."

Superintendent Carroll, as the main speaker of the evening, talked on the topic, "Higher Education and the Public Schools." He traced the history of education and the impact of mass education.

Carroll lamented with the university that "you are having to spend a disproportionate amount of time in teaching the tool subjects." However, he said, the remedy was with the university. "Give us more

(See PANELS, page 4)

One Guilty

Judge W. S. Stewart heard a case involving two students this week when George P. Mull, senior from Vale, and freshman William E. Finnerty appeared before him, each charging the other with assault.

Mull was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon (a knife) and fined $25 and costs. Finnerty was found not guilty.

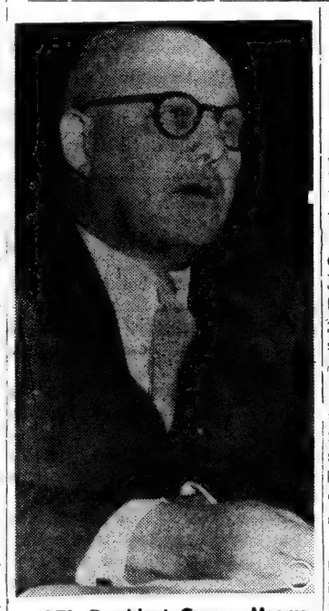
Brown Blasts SP, Files As Veep Independent

By Louis Kraar

Bill Brown, for two years one of the most ardent Student Party members, filed yesterday as an independent candidate for vice-president.

"I'm sick and tired of 'pretend' representation and 'supposed' representation," declared Brown yesterday. He went on to explain he felt the SP "hasn't lived up to the ideals of former years."

Brown was one of four candidates trying for the SP vice-presidential nomination last week. He was eliminated on the first ballot.



Asked yesterday if he would remain in the Student Party, Brown said, "I'm not bitter, but I hardly see how I could." Brown edits the party paper, Mr. Chairman.

Commenting on the party revolt, Party Chairman Lew Southern said, "I am a bit surprised. I believed Bill's labors in the party were motivated by more than self-interest. However, this move indicates the contrary."

Brown stated, "I think the students deserve something more for the $72,000 they spend on Student Government. It's high time some of our politicians and political parties realized the students deserve honest to goodness, real representation. They deserve $15 worth of good from student government—after all, that is what they are paying each year.

The independent candidate has served almost two years in Legisla-

(See SP WAVERS, page 4)

AFL President George Meany in testimony before the House Labor Committee, urged Congress to rewrite the "oppressive" Taft-Hartley law by adopting 10 sweeping amendments. Meany was the first union witness called to testify at the committee's public hearings on revision of the law.—NEA Telephoto.

'Ballad' Opens Tonight At 8:30

Mountain ballads and revival hymns highlight the Carolina Playmakers' production af "A Ballad for Jeannie," opening tonight at the Playmakers Theater.

Directed by Betty Vickery of Gadsden, Ala., the play was written by Lyn Neill and tells the story of the tragic love of a mountain girl for a young preacher.

An unusual feature of the production is the dream sequence, choreography for which was done by Virginia Young of Chapel Hill, who also serves as choral director.

"A Ballad for Jeannie" is entirely student produced, with Foster Fitz-Simons and Kai Jurgensen acting as faculty advisers. Tonight's curtain is at 7:30; tomorrow night's, with members of the Southeastern Theater Conference as guests, at 8:30. There is no admission charge.

Georgia For Putting Wraps On Art Nudes, Monroe Calendars

ATLANTA, Ga., March 4. (Special)—The state of Georgia has declared a clean-up war on obscene books, magazines and pictures with the appointment of a three-man board of censors consisting of a Baptist minister, a theater owner and a country editor.

The commission will first go after suggestive covers on the fronts of magazines and books, particularly pocket books. The three men report they have received mail from private citizens suggesting that particular items be cracked down on.

The censors promised that every such item will be investigated, and invited all Georgians to come to the scheduled public hearing and bring samples of printed matter which is "offensive to the chastity or modesty of the people."

The censorship commission differs from that established by the city of Boston in that the Georgia board has no actual powers of enforcement. It, however, does have tremendous powers of suggestion. It may brand any printed item circulated within the state, except newspapers and religious publications, as "obscene" and order that its circulation be ceased within 30 days.

If circulation does not cease, the board is authorized to recommend to the solicitor general of the judicial circuit in which the matter is circulated that the offenders be prosecuted.

Asked whether works of art, particularly reproductions of famous paintings, will come under the provisions of the act, a member of the commission said, "I don't discriminate between nude women whether or not they are art. It's all lustful to me."

Asked about the famous Marilyn Monroe calendar, he said, "Yes, there are some calendars that ought to be taken down."

To a reporter who asked whether the works of Geoffrey Chaucer, medieval English writer whose spicy works are considered classics, will be banned by the board, a member replied:

"If there is anything in Chaucer which shocks the decency of the public and violates the law, then I

(See OBSCENITY, page 4)

Semper Fidelis Clothes Drive To End Friday

Semper Fidelis Society's clothes-for-Korea collection grew by approrimately 1,000 pounds from a house-to-house pickup Tuesday.

The Society, an organization of Marine Corps officer candidates here, launched the drive on Feb. 23 in connection with the establishment of an orphanage in Pohang, Korea by the First Marine Air Wing of the First Marine Division. The collection will continue through Friday.

Publicity in the form of handbills were circulated throughout the residential sections and were placed in the Varsity and Carolina Theaters, Sutton's and Sloan's Drug Stores. Chairman of the project committee is Howard Tickle. Publicity chairman is Ned Beeker.

The Society's plans for the remainder of the year include a supper meeting at the Pines Restaurant tonight at 7 o'clock when the Marines will be shown instructive films and discuss intelligence in Korea and the use of the pistol. They will also elect officers for the coming year.

Later in the year they hold an inaugural dance. Also scheduled to address the Society is Dr. Bernard Boyd, professor of religion here and a former Marine Corps chaplain. He is an honorary member of Semper Fidelis here.

CAMPUS SEEN

Sign in coed's room: "Diet, you cow."

Outlandish hats that make their appearance every time it rains.

Enterprising male changing girl's dorm lamp bulb from white to red.

Church Paper Attacks Action Against Jones

The Presbyterian Outlook editorially objected to the firing of the Rev. Charles Jones and warned "of the far reaching effects which flow from such a radical decision."

Mr. Jones was dismissed last week by the Orange Presbytery. The magazine stated, however, that "no one questions the right of a commission to take the steps that have been taken."

"We cannot believe," the editorial continued, "that the greatest interest of the Kingdom have been served in the action of Orange Presbytery's commission in ousting the paster of the Chapel Hill Church."

"It is unfortunate for the Chapel Hill officers and congregation who have tried, at great cost, to provide dynamic church alongside one of our great universities," the editorial stated.

The magazine, one of three such independent publications that has wide circulation in the Southern area, concluded, "How to conserve the values and to avoid utter dissipation of the great opportunity at this strategic center is the problem resting these people. They deserve our prayers. They will need them."

Nadine Conner In Concert Tonight At 8 In Memorial

Metropolitan Opera Soprano Nadine Conner will appear in concert here at 8 o'clock tonight in Memorial Hall.

Students will be admitted free upon presentation of their ID cards, and tickets for seats left over will be available to faculty and townspeople at $1 from 7:40 p. m. on. Doors open at 7 o'clock.

Miss Conner is being brought here by the Student Entertainment Committee which schedules events during the year with funds paid by students through the block fee.

The attractive Met singer made her debut with the company several years ago and since then she has received excellent reviewer notices. She is considered as one of America's finest young opera singers. She has been in several motion pictures, appeared as soloist with leading symphony orchestras and made other appearances on radio and television shows.

Her program for tonight has not been announced.

Student members of the sponsoring SEC are Chairman Bob Simmons, Bill Brain, Walt Ernst, Al Neely and Bill Watt. Faculty advisers are Samuel Selden of the Dramatic Art Department, Dr. William S. Newman of the Music Department and Olin Mouzon of the School of Business Administration.

SOPRANO NADINE CONNER

NEWS IN BRIEF

LONDON — Moscow announced yesterday that Josef Stalin is gravely ill after suffering a brain stroke. Leaders of the Communist satelites in Europe were reported called to Moscow, adding speculation to rumors that the Russian prime minister may already be dead. There was immediate speculation in the diplomatic ranks here that Stalin already was dead, and that the Communists were leading up to the disclosure of that in easy stages. Western correspondents in Moscow were unable, because of censorship, to indulge in any sort of speculation. Meanwhile, it was believed yesterday that Russia's foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky who has presented the Soviet case in the U. N. debate on Korea, may return to Moscow as a result of Stalin's grave illness.

STALIN

★

WASHINGTON — Gen. James A. Van Fleet declared yesterday the United Nations forces can win a military victory in Korea without enlarging that war into a greater conflict. And, he said, he knows of no other way to break the deadlock over the prisoners-of-war issue, the great snag of armistice talks. With the four-star general in the witness chair of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. Patterson (R_Conn) asked: "Is there any solution to the problem of interchange of prisoners?" Van Fleet replied in one word: "Victory."

★

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower yesterday took note of Josef Stalin's illness by issuing a statement asserting his belief that the Russian people as a whole share the American desire "for a friendly and peaceful world." The President issued a statement while the National Security Council was in session which was directed to the Russian people, rather than expressing even formal solicitude over Stalin's condition. Mr. Eisenhower said that during a moment when many Russians were concerned because of Stalin's illness, the thoughts of America went out to the common people of the USSR.

Foundation Announces Scholarship Awards

Fourteen students were awarded Morehead Scholarships for the 1953-'54 yesterday, climaxing two and a half days of deliberation by the foundation trustees and the Central Committee.

One of the two students receiving graduate scholarships was Ham Horton, president of the student body. The other graduate winner was Andy Bell, outstanding UNC athlete.

The 47 nominees from colleges, junior colleges and high schools from all over North Carolina had been in Chapel Hill since Monday. During this time they were interviewed and carefully screened by the final reviewing authorities.

The trustees stated that the general excellence of all the students made selection extremely difficult.

With undergraduate scholarships being awarded for the first time this year, the total number of scholarships exceeded by six the number of others awarded in any one of the two previous years.

The awards will mean $1,500 a year for graduate students and $1,250 for undergraduates.

Ronald D. Current of Winston-Salem was the only winner in the junior college class. He is presently a sophomore at Lees-McRae.

The 11 high school students selected were as follows:

Joseph W. Best, Clinton; John G. Blount, Washington, N. C.; Norman A. Chamberlain, Matthews; James Gooden Exum Jr., Snow Hill; Robert Garner, Oxford Orphanage; William E. Gramley, Winston-Salem; Marion Wilson Griffin, Davidson; John Francis Monroe, Council; Mebane Moore Pritchett, Lenoir; Edward W. Sutton, Cullowhee, and Lawrence C. Walker, Mt. Airy.

The scholarships are awarded for one year on the assumption, however, that they will be continued until the student reaches his scholastic goal. It will be continued as long as the student's performance warrants it.

John Motley Morehead, who established the foundation, was present yesterday when the boys were given word of their awards.

Council Says Membership Law Is Legal

The Student Council has decided that a new law designed to take nomination of its own members out of the hands of political parties is legal.

The constitutionality of the law was questioned by Attorney-General Phin Horton.

The law provides for a Selections Board to choose the candidates for the highest student government court rather than the political parties. The board is to be composed of chairmen of other courts plus two members appointed by the president and vice-president.

The new selection plan will go into effect for the spring elections.

Large Number Dickens Books Displayed Here

In connection with the appearance here Saturday of Emlyn Williams, noted Welsh actor, who will give portrayals of characters from Charles Dickens, the Library has an exhibit on a collection of books by and about Dickens.

Housed in the Library's Rare Book Room, the collection was begun and enlarged through the generosity of William A. Whitaker of New York, an alumnus of the class of 1904; James S. Childers of Atlanta, and other friends of the University.

"Interest in Charles Dickens and his books and characters," says Librarian Charles E. Rush, "has never slackened, and now as Emlyn Williams lives his readings throughout the United States, renewed enthusiasm for Dickens and his places and people is evidenced."

The Dickens collection in the rare book room includes many first editions, both as first issued in serial pamphlet form and later in bound books, and a rare 60-volume set printed in England in 1881, finely illustrated and exquisitely bound.

One of only 10 such sets, it is

(See DICKENS, page 2)

Semper Fidelis

The Semper Fidelis Society will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the dining room of the Pines. All those planning to attend are asked to call Major Caldwell or T/Sgt. Quinn at the Naval Armory by noon today.

May Queen Vote

Primary elections for May Queen and her court will be held in house meetings in all sororities and coed dormitories today.

Town girls may vote at the Town Council Room in the Y between 11 and 12 this morning and from 3 to 4 this afternoon. Final elections will be held next Thursday.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

The Daily Tar Heel And Sex

Would the campus rather have us publish no pictures at all? Would the coed populace prefer Charles Atlas or Mr. America, instead?

We think first of all, that Miss Monroe is news. Today's communication represents the first complaint from the male element of the campus. We have heard other murmurs from coeds concerning prints of Miss Monroe published in The Daily Tar Heel.

Most of the prints have served a purpose. A movie in which Miss Monroe participated was in town. Ray Anthony's band was in town. Or Miss Monroe had recently made a statement that had been widely publicized.

The Daily Tar Heel believes in pictures as one form of communication in presenting the news. It will continue to present the news with pictures, with the objective of keeping students informed.

We suggest the following sonnet for our letter writers' consideration:

X C V I

Some say thy fault is youth, some wantonness;
Some say thy grace is youth and gentle sport.
Both grace and faults are lov'd of more and less;
Thou mak'st faults graces that to thee resort.
As on the finger of a throned queen
The basest jewel will be well esteem'd,
So are those errors that in thee are seen
To truths translated and for true things deem'd.
How many lambs might the stern wolf betray
If like a lamb he could his looks translate!
How many gazers mightst thou lead away
If thou wouldst use the strength of all thy state!
But do not so. I love thee in such sort
As thou being mine, mine is thy good report.

—William Shakespeare

A Hitch In The Weather

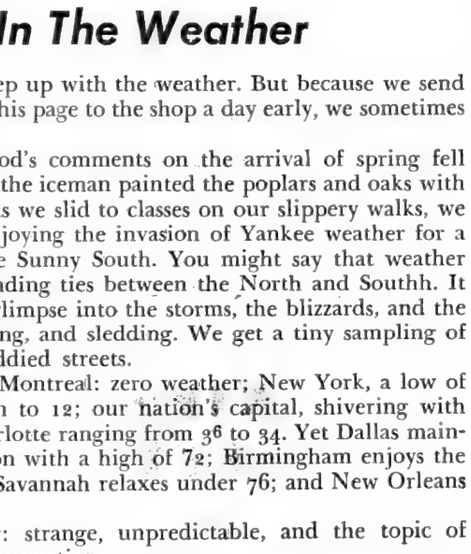
We try to keep up with the weather. But because we send the material on this page to the shop a day early, we sometimes fail.

A. Z. F. Wood's comments on the arrival of spring fell somewhat flat as the iceman painted the poplars and oaks with a silvery glaze. As we slid to classes on our slippery walks, we couldn't help enjoying the invasion of Yankee weather for a brief visit to the Sunny South. You might say that weather is one of the binding ties between the North and Southh. It gives us a brief glimpse into the storms, the blizzards, and the skiing, and skating, and sledding. We get a tiny sampling of sludge, and muddied streets.

Think of it. Montreal: zero weather; New York, a low of 21; Boston down to 12; our nation's capital, shivering with a low of 22; Charlotte ranging from 36 to 34. Yet Dallas maintains the tradition with a high of 72; Birmingham enjoys the spring with 81; Savannah relaxes under 76; and New Orleans hits 82.

The weather: strange, unpredictable, and the topic of thousands of conversations.

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. State of unconsciousness
5. Nail
9. Lid
10. Roman house gods
12. Foreboding
13. Snarl
14. Lair
15. Study
16. Over (poet.)
17. Public notice
18. Gloomy
20. River (Fr.)
22. Dutch cheese
26. Part of coat front
27. Hirsute
28. Stinging insect
29. Nuisances
30. Lance
32. From
34. Roman money
37. Emmet
38. Cuckoo
39. Watch out
41. Sacred bull (Egypt)
42. Mild
43. Stop! (naut.)
44. Remain
45. Flit

DOWN
1. Actor in comedy
2. Baking chamber
3. Male adults
4. Land-measure
5. Not filled out
6. Flowed
7. Constellation
8. Remove (print.)
9. Concluding passage (mus.)
11. Varying weight (India)
13. Ripped
15. Ringlet
18. Encounters
19. Leavening agent
21. Resort
23. Obstruct (dial.)
24. One who sets fires.
25. Belonging to me
26. Left guard (football)
27. Weight (colloq.)
29. Part of a window
31. Robust
33. Clenched hand
34. Warp-yarn
35. Lampreys
36. Strike (slang)
38. Armadillo
40. Miscellany
41. Polynesian drink.
43. Public notice

LEFT LORD
FAVOR APART
AMARAS EWER
UP GYPS SO
SOLE AUGUST
TOE RIOT
SNEAK TATIE
RUNE END
BASKED FRED
OX EASE RI
LIES MINUTE
AORTA ACRID
MAYA MENA

1-30

Yesterday's Answer

—Dorman Cordell—

Stewpot

Once upon a time was a group of professors at a fictional university.

One of the professors had been at the university for yea many years. He was a lousy teacher, it was agreed by all students and his lectures were an abomination to the soul of the studious. But the persons who hired him had been too tenderhearted to suggest that he fold his tents and make like the Arabs.

Another professor had also been around for many years. But he was an ear-banger and a boot-polisher, and none dared to raise a voice against him. For he sat high among the hallowed.

There was still another professor who father had had plenty of jack. The father, deciding he couldn't take it with him, left it to the fictional university—with the provision of course that his idiot son be made a profesor. And so it was done. For it is well-know that in the time of this fictional university, the love of money was the root of all iniquity.

And there was another professor who was also not among the higher ranks as a lecturer. But this professor had once written a book, and managed to have it published. So he rode on his reputation, and taught practically nothing. But everyone said, "He is a great professor. He once wrote a book."

Also among the professors was one who had studied abroad. In fact, he had a Ph. D degree from a foreign university (which, luckily, no one knew he had bought from a forger). And this professor was acclaimed by all, for when any topic of discussion came up, he would say. "Now when I studied abroad, we decided the answer was thus and so." And everyone agreed it must be true, for it had been decided abroad.

Now those who were not students especially acclaimed all these men, for they had not suffered under their tutelage. And those who graduated were generally ashamed to shatter the illusions of the others. So the illusion persisted.

And as time passed, and these professors lingered on and on like a summer cold, they gradually became the oldest in service in their departments, and thus were made department heads. And the unenlightened rejoiced, for they said, "Ah, now we have fine men as department heads."

And the students also rejoiced, and they said, "Ah, at last we have got the old buzzards as department heads, where they will be put out of the way."

Then one day, these professors all died, and being essentially romantic, everyone remembered only the few good things about them, like the way they fed peanuts to squirrels and so on. So the professors were eulogized by all and sundry.

And university buildings were named after them, as well as newborn sons.

This, my children, is how a myth originates.

A Pre-College Habit

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (I.P.) — Disclosing for the first time preliminary results of a five-year study into the drinking habits of American college youth, Robert Straus, research associate at Yale University's Laboratory of Applied Physiology, reports that four out of every five college men who drink began their drinking before entering college.

"We hope the study will help create a better understanding of student behavior on the part of persons affected by such activities, such as residents of the college town, alumni and parents," he declared.

Data was secured by the Yale survey at 27 colleges and universities in the country. A total of 17,000 students took part in a wide sampling of student drinking habits and attitudes toward drinking. "The probability that a young person will drink at all," Mr. Straus said, " is closely related to the practices of his or her parents. Of the men whose parents both drink, 90 per cent are themselves users. However, only half of the men (51 per cent) whose parents both abstain, drink. An even more striking relationship between parental use and own use is seen now for the women. "Where both parents are users, at least 83 per cent of the women drink on occasion. However, when both parents abstain, only 19 per cent of the women students drink." Of the American women students who drink, 65 per cent also started drinking before entering college, the survey disclosed.

—Dickens—

(Continued from page 1)

extra - illustrated with original watercolors, is signed by A. Tennyson Dickens, a son of Charles Dickens and it contains a signed letter written by Dickens and addressed to Walter Savage Landor, who was the Godfather of another of Dickens' sons.

To those already familiar with the Dickens stories, the part of the collection including "Dickens' Friends," "Dickens' Circle," "Dickens' Doctors," and "Dickens' Jewish Characters" is of special interest.

"We Got To Stop Reckless Spending"

—Chuck Hauser—

Tar Heel At Large

CROSSING THE INTERNATIONAL DATELINE — We're flying at 8,000 feet over the choppy Pacific, and no one on board quite knows what time it is or whether it's today, tomorrow, or yesterday.

We've been racing the sun for about 20 hours now. It's come up behind us, sped by, and dropped into the water miles ahead, as our DC-4 plods along toward the Far East.

Wake Island is the next stop. That tiny green dot in the vast ocean blue is invisible tonight, however, to everyone but the pilot and his radio.

The four throbbing motors outside in the dark fill the cabin with a feeling of security, and you know that wherever that green dot ahead is, the giant plane will seek it out and settle on it like a huge eagle returning to his aerie, after a night's hunting.

Hawaii and its summer weather are behind us. We flew in over the Islands just before noon with Wakiki, Diamond Head and Pearl Harbor sparkling beneath us in the midday brightness.

A three-hour stop at Honolulu's International Airport, and we were off again, chasing the sun which had gotten a healthy lead on us.

At sunset, the ocean was hidden beneath a carpet of thick cumulus clouds that stretched to the horizon on all sides.

It seemed that we were in a special new world of our own. There were valleys, and plains, and canyons, and enormous pink mountains that reached up hundreds of feet from their bed of fleece to catch the dying sunlight.

Behind us,Hawaii; ahead, Wake — and after that just 2,000 or so more miles of Pacific before we welcome home in Tokyo.

Express Yourself

Editor:

Sex has reared its ugly head in The Daily Tar Heel far too frequently in the past few weeks to escape an humbly pious protestation from the less-libidinous area of the student body. We, the self-appointed censors of the public morals, have viewed with increasing alarm the inexcusable lack of good taste shown by the editor of the "Daily Police Gazette" in trying to boost his circulation by flagrantly displaying the denuded carcasses of Mistress Marilyn Monroe and other damsels of delight in various obscene poses.

Succulent slices of cheesecake" featuring melon-breasted maids (the melons are usually over-ripe) in spicily suggestive postures, garnished with juicy portions of deviled derriere or heaping servings of rump roulade are being crammed down our throats despite our "retched" complaints of revulsion and extreme nausea.

Cease and desist, we beg you Mr. Dear, before the wrath of the clergy is directed from various pulpits against your shameful wickedness. If the imminence of springtime has stirred certain erotic desires in your breast, we would suggest that you channel your pent-up energies toward more constructive, rewarding and healthful activity, like taking long walks in the bracing air of the surrounding countryside.

Blue Laws Committee
(Names withheld by Request)

—John Gibson—

Oh Marilyn, My Marilyn

Last Sunday and Monday this Tar Heel town,
Had a chance to spend some of its dough,
For a truly great actress appeared here on film,
I refer to blond Marilyn Monroe.

The streets they were mobbed with delirious boys,
Who loudly cried "bravissimo,"
"At last we've a chance and we'll take a long glance,
At 'twentieth's' Marilyn Monroe."

A "high water mark for the screen," so they said,
She's not satisfied with one beau,
She "hit with the power of Niagara itself,"
Of course I mean Marilyn Monroe.

Oh, the falls are all right, there's no doubt about that,
Niagara puts on a great show,
But it doesn't compare with that lass, oh so fair,
Called Marilyn (the body) Monroe.

Her golden hair shines in the bright summer sun,
Her black eyebrows tilted just so,
We'd give our life just to have such a wife,
As innocent Marilyn Monroe.

She electrifies all with her grace and her charm,
Her intellect's something to know,
She relies on her mind almost all of the time,
Thank heaven for Marilyn Monroe.

Without benefit of those lace underthings,
(Her covering's never de trop)
She cries, "I don't believe in concealing what's me,
For my name is Marilyn Monroe."

She acts with the force of the Barrymore clan,
Her lines are the height of the show,
With impact, suspense, she eclipses the falls,
Here's an Oscar for Marilyn Monroe.

Oh! said is the town, for our sweetheart has gone,
Though Niagara continues to flow,
So the poor lonely men must just wait until when,
They again can see Marilyn Monroe.

If she comes around to this town any more,
I'll be quite glad to forego
Any movie she's in, for her acting's a sin,
So the devil with Marilyn Monroe!

The Happy Time

Tonight our basketball Tar Heels will meet their first Southern Conference tournament test under their new coach Frank McGuire.

When McGuire came here this season after a successful tenure at St. John's, he inherited a nondescript team of temperamental, individualistic players, along with some inexperienced youngsters. He has molded this group into the best cage team at Carolina in several years, and the first to finish above the .500 mark in three seasons.

The Tar Heels are still not world-beaters. They still have a long way to go. We doubt that they will advance far in the tournament this year. But we can only remember the old saying in sports circles, "There'll be other years."

Basketball at Carolina seems destined to become better and better in the next few years. And the influence of the schools of the Big Four is expected to cause an improvement in the caliber of high school teams in the state, making more North Carolina boys available for Big Four teams.

McGuire, when he came to Chapel Hill, said he liked Carolina. And after being here for a season, he may rest assured that the feeling is mutual.

Tar Heels Will Meet State Tonight In SC Tourney

West Virginia, Furman To Meet At Two O'clock; Pack Favored

By Biff Roberts

Carolina's basketball team, having overcome its frustration of missing the Southern Conference tournament for the past two years, finds itself in another frustrating position at 9:30 tonight when it meets tourney-favored N. C. State in the opening round at William Neal Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh.

Although the Tar Heels split with nationally-ranked State in two games this season, the Wolfpack will be highly favored to advance to the second round after tonight.

The Pack has won the annual tournament for the past six years and enters tonight's game rated as the team to beat for the Conference title.

Although Carolina licked the State team, 70-69, at Raleigh earlier in the season few observers give the Tar Heels much hope of pulling the trick again tonight.

Three Losses

Since their victory over the Pack the Tar Heels' fortunes have declined rapidly with the last three games of the season being decisive losses to Wake Forest, Duke, and State.

Coaches Frank McGuire and Buck Freeman have been experimenting freely to get a winning combination since the three-game losing streak started at Wake Forest and may come up with a somewhat altered lineup tnoight.

But for the most part they will have to depend on the players which carried the team to a 15-6 Southern Conference record and eighth place in the standings. Vince Grimaldi, Bud Maddie, Al Lifson, Jerry Vayda, and Paul Likins will probably be the starters with Jack Wallace, Tony Radovich, Ernie Schwarz, Jippy Carter, and Gene Glancey ranked as the top reserves.

West Virginia-Furman

For Grimaldi, Carter, Wallace, Schward and possibly Maddie the tournament will be a finis to their playing days for Carolina. All are seniors.

State will have three seniors in its lineup, too, high scoring Bobby Speight, forward Bill Kukoy, and guard Bernie Yurin. The other starters will probably be sophomore Dave Gotkin at guard and junior Mel Thompson at center.

West Virginia and Furman will open the tourney at 2:00 this afternoon and Duke and Maryland will follow at 4:00. Wake Forest and Richmond will meet at 7:30 in a game preceding the Carolina-State battle.

The winner of the West Virginia-Furman game will play the winner of the State-Carolina game tomorrow night at 9:30 and the winner of the Duke Maryland game will meet the winner of Richmond-Wake Forest at 7:30. The final game will be played at 8:00 Saturday night.

Lifson Leads Cage Scoring Second Year

Carolina's basketball record for the 1952-53 season is the best for the Tar Heels since 1949.

Coach Frank McGuire's Tar Heels, ready for N. C. State College in the first round of the Southern Conference tournament at Raleigh tonight, compiled a season's mark of 17 victories and only nine defeats. In '49 the Tar Heels had a mark of 19-6 and since that time have racked up records of 17-12, 12-15 and 12-15. In Southern Conference play the Tar Heels won more games than any other team in the league, setting the record at 15 wins against six defeats, finishing in eighth place, one-half game off the pace.

Vince Grimaldi was the highest scoring Tar Heel, getting 376 points in 26 games for a 14.5 average, while Al (Fuzzy) Lifson followed with 326 in 22 contests for a 14.7 average. Bud Maddie (292), Jerry Vayda (294), Paul Likins (157), Bob Phillips (104), Jack Wallace (105) and Tony Radovich (101) were the other leading point makers.

Maddie turned in the best rebounding job, getting 305 for a 11.7 average. The tough senior from the Bronx also led the Tar Heels in personal fouls with 108 and was relieved in 11 of 26 games because of personals.

The complete Carolina statistics:

	FGM	Pct.	Pts.	Avg.
Grimaldi	157	.376	376	14.5
Lifson	115	.358	326	14.7
Maddie	94	.362	292	11.4
Vayda	110	.423	294	11.3
Likins	52	.412	157	6.3
Wallace	35	.336	105	5.8
Radovich	34	.492	101	8.4
Phillips	28	.341	104	4.2
Schwarz	23	.291	63	2.7
Carter	14	.291	44	2.1
Winstead	9	.600	30	1.6
Glancy	12	.428	36	2.4
Long	4	.500	9	2.3
Anisko	3	.214	7	3.2
Powell	3	.090	12	1.7
Bowden	2	.666	4	2.0
Stephenson	2	.300	0	1.3
McCabe	2	.300	0	0.0
TOTALS	694	.384	1964	75.5

TRACK PRACTICE

Outdoor track practice will start this afternoon and all interested should contact Coaches Dale Ranson and Joe Hilton on Navy Field from 2:00 on.

SOCCER CANCELLED

All intramural soccer games for the rest of the quarter have been cancelled the Intramural Department announced yesterday.

The Department hopes to reschedule the games next quarter.

Tar Heel Swimmers End Dual Meet Season With 38th Straight Win

By John Hussey

With the close of dual and championship competition, the Tar Heel swimming team strengthened its hold on the claim to be the best in the South.

Looking over the '53 season we find that they set five and tied one dual meet record, established four new championship marks, and set five new University records. Their 10-0 dual meet total brought their present win streak to 38 consecutive victories over all opponents and 58 consecutive wins over SC adversaries.

The times turned in by Donnie Evans in the breaststroke and the individual medley, by Buddy Baarcke in the backstroke, by Jack Edwards in the freestyle, by Barry Wall, Baarcke, and Edwards in the medley relay, and by Buddy Heins, Baarcke, Evans, and Edwards in the freestyle relay not only set new records but rank with the top times performed in the nation this year.

The only black mark on their record is that NC State gained more points in the SC championship meet (on an unofficial tally, because the meet was for individual, not team honors.) However, the Tar Heels managed to set four new records and to take nine out of the fourteen first places. Bob Mattson, who won three individual first places for State last year and was generally considered to be the best swimmer in the conference, was defeated twice in the 1953 meet, once by Evans and the other time by Wall.

However, the Tar Heel supremacy seems to be in danger. The top six swimmers on the team are graduating and there will be only one senior on next year's team. State will be more powerful than ever and such teams as Duke, VMI, and VPI have shown a lot of improvement.

This season is not yet finished, however. The NCAA meet will be held at Ohio State this year and the Tar Heels stand a better chance than they ever have of placing high up on the list of nationally ranked teams. State will probably be there also, and this should be the final test for both teams.

Grapplers To Depart Today For Annual Wrestling Meet

By Benny Stewart

Carolina's grapplers leave here late this afternoon for Lexington, Va. where they will take part in the annual Southern Conference wrestling tournament opening tomorrow and running through Saturday.

The meet will be held in the V.M.I. Field House on the V.M.I. campus.

For the first time since 1947, all wrestlers on the squad will take part in competition at the tournament. Three of the eight boys making the trip were in the meet last year. These are Harry Pawlik, in the 123-lb. class who placed fourth in last year's meet, Eddie Haines, who also placed fourth, and Harvey Bradshaw, who failed to place in the tourney.

John Tyndall, at 130 lbs., and Miles Gregory in the 177 lb. class are the Tar Heels most likely to place high in the meet, according to Coach Barnes. However, the team should better its seventh-place finish of last year.

The meet will bring forth a team champion as well as champions in each weight class. A team winner will be adjudged on a point basis, which is as follows: 6 points for 1st place in each weight division, 4 points for second, 2 points for third-place, and 1 for fourth. The teams will also be awarded one point for each fall that its wrestlers get.

In order to be declared a division winner, a wrestler must win over three opponents.

The meet will get under way tomorrow afternoon with the preliminaries being held then. The semi finals will come off Friday night, with the finals scheduled for Saturday night.

—Gorham—

(Continued from page 1)

ity no matter what our extra-curricular connections may be. We must never again allow our campus to be divided merely for political expediency."

Defining the campaign, Gorham tagged it "a campaign in which we must strive to make each student feel proud of his student government and its officers." In his acceptance speech last week Gorham said he thought the "major factor in the student apathy so prevalent here is the lack of respect that the average student has for student government.

He attributed the "lack of respect" to "the constant bickering and political maneuvering by campus politicians."

"I want to re-emphasize my sincere desire to conduct this campaign with a common sense approach. My running-mates and the University Party are in complete agreement with this plan. We are going to express our opinions and attitudes in a down to earth manner," said Gorham.

Final Meeting Of Lettermen Is Called Off

Carolina's Monogram Club will not hald a meeting tonight as scheduled because three teams are away.

The next meeting will be held next month, at a time to be announced.

UNITED NATIONS — Diplomats here agreed yesterday that the death or incapacitation of Premier Josef Stalin would throw the United Nations into a twilight period of indecision—leaving scant hope for immediate progress in settling the cold war. But there was sharp disagreement on whether a change in leadership in Moscow would set the Kremlin on a more peaceful course or lead the world closer to a third world war. The announcement of Stalin's grave illness caught U. N. diplomats and their staffs totally offguard.

DANZIGER'S

TODAY'S MENU

HOMEMADE BOSTON BAKED BEAN SOUP ..... $ .20
Mr. "D's" FAMOUS ONION SOUP ..... .30

SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES

MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with spaghetti ..... .50
GROUND BEEF with hashed brown potatoes, vegetables ..... .55
ITALIAN RISOTTO with tomato sauce and grated cheese ..... .80
HAMSTEAK with potato and vegetable ..... .95
HUNGARIAN VEAL in cream sauce with eggnoodles ..... .85
SMOKED PORKIES with sauerkraut and potatoes ..... .85
SAUERBRATEN withdumplings and vegetable 1.25
MINUTE STEAK on toast with vegetables 1.25

. . . your choice served with bread, butter and salad

BUDDY KLEIN

and the

Statesman Orchestra

Write Box 5533—Tel. 21873

Raleigh, N. C.

Introducing Another LOSSLEADER

A THURSDAY SPECIAL:

All You Can Eat

All You Can Eat

YES, ALL YOU CAN EAT

Rathskeller's Famous Italian

SPAGHETTI W. MEATBALLS

Every Thursday—5-8 P.M.

plus one Free Beer—French Salad—Hot French Bread with Garlic Butter plus all the spaghetti and sauce you can eat for 99c

OTHER RATHSKELLER FEATURES:

- The only nickel nickelodeon in town
- This week's case beer special at cost (limit 1 per customer)
- Always just enough quiet smoke for an atmosphere you enjoy to drink in

RATHSKELLER

"Often Imitated—Never Equalled"

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

FOR SALE: NEW COLOR PRINTS and Old Engravings at the Unicorn Book Shop over Sutton's. Dial 9-6173.

SPECIAL

Genuine Imported Irish LINEN

Contour Tailored

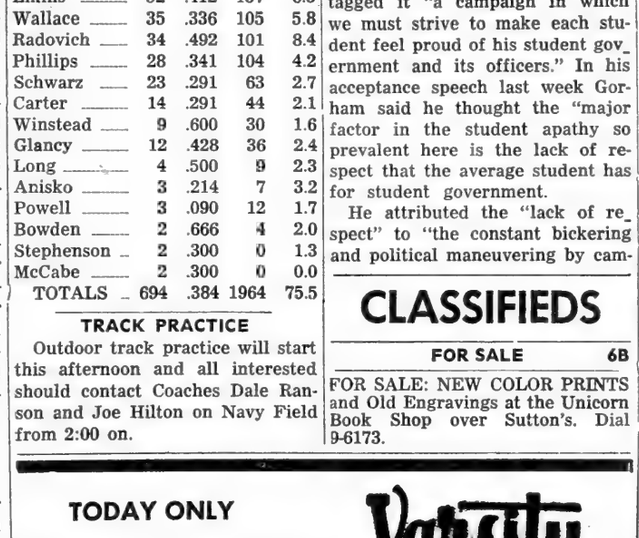
SLACKS

Especially Priced At

$11.95

Many new shades including charcoal grey.

Bills Mailed Home



THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

TODAY ONLY

Varsity

He chopped down the family tree...

"KIND HEARTS AND CORONETS"

starring ALEC GUINNESS

J. Arthur Rank presents

DENNIS PRICE • VALERIE HOBSON • JOAN GREENWOOD

ALEC GUINNESS in "KIND HEARTS AND CORONETS."

The taste that's in a cigarette
Is just what counts with me—
If you're the same, then look no more,
Try Lucky Strike and see!

Richard S. Bunnewith
Boston University

Nothing-no, nothing-beats better taste and LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!

Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette . . . for better taste—for the cleaner, fresher, smoother taste of Lucky Strike . . .

Be Happy-GO LUCKY!

Where's your jingle? It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles—and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N.Y.

I love to bowl, but seldom strike;
It takes good luck you see.
But Lucky Strike, the smoke delight,
Sure made a hit with me!

Rose G. Starr
Creighton University

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

© A. T. Co.

Panels Give Final Reports For Confab

(Continued from page 1)

good public school teachers."

"If I were making any one request," he concluded, ". . . it would be that we drop the modifier with which we speak of education." Educators should think of education inclusively instead of primary, secondary, and the like, he said.

Dr. Walter J. Peterson delivered the first panel report, that on undergraduate instruction. As introduction, the committee noted that "ours is a day of leveling off, of mediocrity . . . We have gone far afield of education . . . We like the shortcut. We are impatient at the time required for mastery of a subject"

Dr. Peterson said his group worked on the assumption that "to educate a human mind is not necessarily to add something to it, but to do something to it."

The second panel report was given by Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell. It was on research and graduate teaching. Dr. Albert S. Keister read the findings on student-faculty relationships, and the fourth and final report was handled by co-chairmen Drs. D. W. Colvard, Harry Wolf and Franklin H. McNutt.

All of the findings of the conference will be published and made available. Excerpts will be carried in The Daily Tar Heel. President Gray earlier this week expressed the desire that the conference be made an annual affair.

Last night's program opened with selections by the UNC Men's Glee Club under the direction of Joel Carter. The club sang several numbers and got a very large applause with two of them. A parody on "The Thing" substituted a football player as "The Thing" that cured an ailing Carolina team only to be yanked at the half by an NCAA ruling.

"Ain't It A Shame" tickled the faculty funnybone when a verse of it was adapted to "ain't it a shame to have Saturday classes." Gray quipped he wasn't sure that the conference "hadn't solved all our problems when we can be lyrical about football in Chapel Hill and sing about Saturday classes."

Dropped Modern Library Titles

FOUR GREEK PLAYS
STUDIES IN MURDER
DARING YOUNG MAN ON THE FLYING TRAPEZE
MY WAR WITH THE U. S.
ISLAND WITHIN
LOST WEEK-END

Now 68¢

at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

What Goes On Here

Pharmacy Wives

Miss Mary Gilson will be guest speaker at the meeting of Pharmacy Wives tonight at 8 o'clock at the Pharmacy Institute. She will present first hand views on Economic and Social changes that have taken place in England and Finland.

★

Elections Board

There will be a meeting of the Elections Board at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the vice-presidents office in Graham Memorial. All members are urged to attend as well as anyone who is interested in working on the board.

★

Deans of Women

The North Carolina Association of Deans of Women will have its annual meeting here on Saturday. On that date the office of the University Dean of Women will be open but only substitute staff will be in the office. Students who wish to see regular members of the office staff, are asked to come to the office either on March 6 or on March 9.

★

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hill Hall.

★

Korean Vets

Korean vets are reminded that they must fill out their monthly attendance form by today or they will not receive their checks until the last of April.

★

Dorm Solicitors

Campus Chest dormitory solicitors have been asked to turn in all money collected to the dormitory treasurer.

★

Phi Eta Sigma

Members of Phi Eta Sigma who ordered pictures may pick them up at 313 South Building.

★

Shine Boys

Ken Penegar and Ed Goss will shine shoes in the Y Lobby today from 11 to 12 o'clock. Proceeds go to the Campus Chest. Other campus wheels will operate the stand from 9 to 11 o'clock.

Frosh Camp Makes Plans For Next Fall

Plans are being laid for next fall's Freshman Camp by a committee of interested students.

New ideas and students interested in this camp are being sought by the members of this committee. Tonight at 7 o'clock in the Y Cabinet Room, they will meet to evaluate last fall's camp and to make plans for next fall's camp. Students are asked to attend.

Freshman Camp tries to help the incoming student by discussing his own interests and problems. The discussions with other new students, give him a chance to consider some of the basic aspects of "getting a good start," before he reaches the campus.

Leadership of the camp is in the hands of students. Discussion leaders are upper classmen who are interested in helping the new student, and who have been trained in leading group discussions. This training takes place under the sponsorship of the Freshman Camp Committee, through a series of leadership training sessions.

Here are imported fabrics at their best. Soft textured luxurious flannels as smooth as the flowing waters of Venice. Tough, rugged he-man tweeds that smack of the great English and Scottish Moorlands. Gorgeously hued . . . definitely different. Truly distinctive. Custom tailored to your individual measure.

From $65 Up

Satisfaction Guaranteed By

Julian's College Shop

SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER Andrei Y. Vishinsky varies his expressions, gestures and moods as he tells the United Nations General Assembly that President Eisenhower's order deneutralizing Formosa is evidence that the United States wants to expand the Korean War into a full-scale conflict. Later U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. threw the "warmonger" charges back at the Russians.—NEA Telephoto.

SP Wavers On Ideals, Brown Says; Party Answers Charges

(Continued from page 1)

ture under the SP banner. He was unanimously elected Speaker Pro Tem at the opening of the quarter. He served on the Rules and Elections committees. Among his other activities are Orientation Committee, work in summer school student government, YMCA Cabinet and secretary, editor of the Carolina Handbook for freshman and work on other student publications.

"Mine is not a campaign run by 'Graham Memorial politicians.' My campaign is run by just plain students, and that's the way I want it. If I win, they're the kind of folks I'm going to be working for. There will be no apron strings tied to Graham Memorialites," declared Brown.

Last year Brown wrote a pro Student Party column in The Daily Tar Heel. He did several columns this Fall, one of which drew unfavorable comment from key members of the SP. The column which drew caustic SP comment defined the University Party as a "fraternity party" and the SP as a "party of nonfraternity men."

"I'm not trying to fool anyone with my candidacy. I have been a party member for several years. But I have sickened of all this running around like the proverbial chicken with the proverbial head cut off trying to nominate so-and-so because he can win the Party so many votes. I may be old fashioned, but I think qualifications and capabilities should play a part too," Brown said.

He said he hoped to "set student government back several years—back to the time when the parties and candidates tried to represent the students, tried to give them what they wanted and needed—not merely what the politicos wanted and needed for themselves."

Brown filed the petition required of independent candidates with Jerry Cook, chairman of the Elections Board, late yesterday afternoon. His petition had 26 names on it, one more than required by the constitution for filing for office. Any student not nominated by one of the campus political parties may file as an independent.

Commenting on the petition, Brown said, "Twenty-six names were signed to the petition for my candidacy. Twenty-five are required—one was for good measure." He added, "I could have, as I understand the general practice is, solicited one or two thousand names. I'm not trying to fool you here, or in any other way. This is a simple campaign—a campaign offering representation and benefit for 5,000 students.

Last year Ted Frankel ran as an independent for vice-president. The race went into a runoff which Jim McLeod won.

Rt. Rev. Penick Comes Sunday For Services

The Rt. Rev. Edwin A. Penick D.D., LL.D., will visit the Chapel of the Cross Sunday at 11 a.m.

He will administer the apostolic rite of Confirmation and will also preach. At 8 a.m. he will celebrate the Holy Communion, and there will be a corporate communion of all in Chapel Hill, both students and townspeople, whom he has confirmed anywhere in the diocese.

Bishop Penick is a former vice-president of the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church and a former president of the North Carolina Council of Churches. He is now president of the Fourth Province of the Episcopal Church.

He attended the University of the South at Sewanee and the Virginia Theological Seminary, both of which conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. He received the degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of North Carolina. His home is in Raleigh.

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

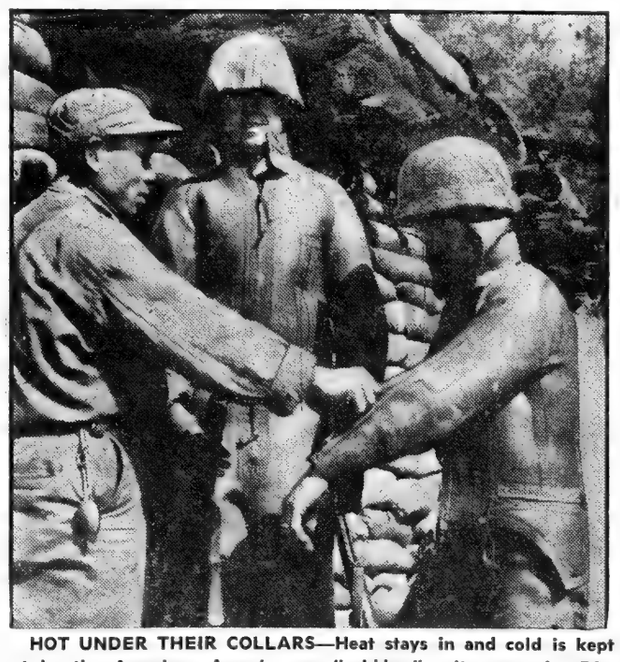
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Free TIME For Winners Of Contest

Prize-winning Daily Tar Heel writers in the Press Club journalism contest this quarter will receive a year's subscription to TIME along with award certificates, President Buddy Northart said yesterday.

A letter from John P. Sousa, Education Director of TIME, expressing interest in the Press Club and announcing the gift subscription plan was received by President Northart recently.

The magazine will go to the top winners in the four divisions set up under the contest rules. The divisions to be considered are feature, sports, editorial and news.



The awards committee, consisting of Fred McGee, Jack Booker and Buddy Northart, will make the awards presentations the first of Spring Quarter.

—Obscenity—

(Continued from page 1)

would say it would have to come under the provisions of the law. Of course, I will have to reread Chaucer before I could say about him specifically."

Many Georgians registered surprise that the literature commission, which Governor Herman Talmadge had said he regarded as merely an "advisory board," should take such a broad view of its powers.

HOT UNDER THEIR COLLARS—Heat stays in and cold is kept out by the American Army's new "cold-bar" suits worn by Pfc. Henry Kelly, of Watson, Ala., at right, and an unidentified G. I., center. The outfits are being examined by a curious Korean at a front-line bunker.

Sport Jackets!

Early response on our new spring sport jackets has been terrific!

Drop by today and look THEM over—BEAUTIFUL PASTEL Shades.

Town & Campus

Students Urged To Take Test On April 23 For Deferment

Col. F. C. Shepard, coordinator of military and veterans affairs, said yesterday that it would be advisable for all students who have not taken the Selective Service Qualification Test to do so in April.

He said it is important that students have test scores in their files when the local boards reconsider their cases to determine whether or not they meet the criteria for deferment.

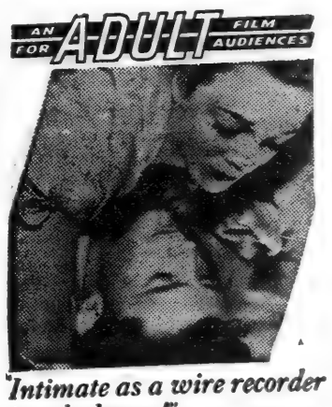
The last test of the current academic year will be given here April 23. Applications to take the test must be postmarked not later than midnight Monday.

Shepard said the location of the testing place here would be announced as soon as it has been selected.

Students may obtain applications from the nearest local board. They do not have to return home to the local board which has jurisdiction over them.

To be eligible to take the test an applicant must (1) be a selective service registrant who intends to request deferment as a student; (2) be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course—undergraduate or graduate—leading to a degree; (3) not previously have taken the test.

The present criteria for consideration for deferment as a student are either a score of 70 or better on the Selective Service Qualification Test or class stnding among the male members in the upper half of the freshman dlass, upper two-thirds of the sophomore class or upper three fourths of the junior class.



Also all seniors accepted for admission to graduate school satisfy the criteria if they are among the upper half of the male members of their senior class, or they make a score of 75 or better.

Students already enrolled in graduate schools may be considered for deferment as long as they remain in good standing.

Carolina

T-O-D-A-Y

AN ADULT FILM FOR AUDIENCES

"Intimate as a wire recorder in a bedroom!"—TIME MAGAZINE

Devil in the Flesh

Chest Show Cancelled

The Campus Chest Show, scheduled for last night, has been postponed until Sunday night.

The show will be given in Memorial Hall.

DUKE PLAYERS

PRESENT . . . .

FERNEC MOLAR'S

THE GLASS SLIPPER

Branson Hall East Campus

TICKETS AT DANZIGER'S

March 11, 12, 13 14 8:15

"Amazing variety and practical wisdom"

says DR. ANDREW W. BLACKWOOD

Temple University, Philadelphia, Penna.

"The Reader's Digest helps a busy man to understand life in these United States, in the United Nations, and even in Soviet lands. With amazing variety, and a world of practical wisdom, each monthly issue helps the reader to interpret life on earth today, with more than a few glimpses of tomorrow."

Each month, Reader's Digest editors comb through more publications than any one person could read in two years, and select whatever seems of outstanding interest.

Each article is carefully condensed to preserve both its content and flavor. The wide range of subjects stimulates new interests, encourages a further search for knowledge.

In a real way, Reader's Digest helps continue the education of millions of readers in America and all over the world.

★ ★ ★

In March Reader's Digest, you'll be interested in The Earth Is Born—latest scientific theories on how our earth began, how it will end; We CAN Win the War in Korea—William Bullitt's analysis of how we can end the bloody stalemate; Fred Waller's Amazing Cinerama—how a self-made scientist is bringing breath-taking realism to movies.

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and mild with 62 high. Yesterday's high, 58; low, 33.

The Daily Tar Heel

EYES
The society editor ranges the campus. For results see p. 4.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 109 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Consolidation Jam Resignation Cause

Carolina's Jim Adams Leaves CUSC Post; Horton Stands Behind Reasons For Quitting

Carolina's head man in the Consolidated University Student Council, Jim Adams, resigned yesterday saying that the group has "served only as a gag for student opinion."

Adams declared in his resignation to President Ham Horton," . . . I can no longer carry out the duties of such an office when I feel that this feature (the CUSC) of the program of consolidation has accomplished little, if anything at all. On the contrary, it has, in my opinion, served only as a gag for the expression of student opinion, especially on this campus."

President Horton accepted the resignation and said, "I don't intend to appoint any one to fill his seat at the present time. I'm inclined to agree with the things said in his resignation."

Asked if he was against the consolidation of the three schools (Carolina, Woman's College, and N. C. State), President Horton said his objection was aimed at the Consolidated University Student Council rather than the Consolidated University.

The CUSC is composed of delegates from each of the three schools in the Consolidated University. Tom Sully, also a Carolina student, is president. Purpose of the group is "to act as a liason between the student body of the Consolidated University and the administration of the Consolidated University" according to the group's constitution.

Adams also stated, "This program of consolidation is not working and by its very nature cannot work effectively when problems and opinions on the three campuses are entirely different and cannot be voiced in a consolidated manner."

He said this point was illustrated "when a delagation, or delegations, of the CUSC, though not directly concerned, will not venture forth to further the cause of consolidation by supporting the problems of the delegation directly concerned with situations affecting one group of the Consolidated University Student Body."

He said in the resignation, which became effective yesterday, that "there is no personal animosity on my part toward any member of the CUSU, but that I have reached this decision purely on the basis that I cannot work to any really profitable ends."

Bulletin

MOSCOW, March 5—Josef Stalin died yesterday afternoon and the Russian Sickle became a question mark.

The 73-year old premier died at 1:50 p.m. (E.S.T.). The death was announced by Radio Moscow at 8 o'clock last night. No successor was named, but the man marked as likely to step in as premier are Georgi Malenkov or V. M. Molotov, both deputy prime ministers. Former MVD chief L. P. Beria also was mentioned as a possible successor.

President Eisenhower sent "condolences from the people of the United States to the people of the U.S.S.R."

Jewish Appeal Speaker Here Tonight At 7:30

Mordecai Hacohen, former director of personnel and administration of the Israel Ministry for Foreign Affairs, will speak at Hillel House today at 7:30 p.m. in behalf of the Jewish Appeal.

The United Jewish Appeal, of which the Chapel Hill Appeal is a part, is the largest voluntary American agency for support of immigration, settlement, welfare and rehabilitation programs in Israel, Europe, North Africa, the Middle East and the United States.

Established in 1939, it has saved and helped a total of 2,240,000 victims of war, oppression, and destitution. The UJA's 1953 drive is its 15th successive nation-wide drive.

Hacohen has appeared on radio and television programs throughout the United States. He recently completed a survey of 36 states in the United States and Canada under the auspices of the Technical Assistance Administration of the United Nations.

SEOUL — Allied warplanes unleashed an orgy of fiery destruction over North Korea yesterday. It concluded a record 1,000-mile round trip fighter-bomber smash within 50 miles of Russia's Siberian border. Sabre jets tangled five times with Communist MIG-15's, but pilots made no claims of damaging any Red aircraft.

★

WASHINGTON — Gen. James A. Van Fleet declared yesterday that the U. S. must win a military victory in Korea to maintain the "prestige, honor, and influence" of this nation in world affairs. Van Fleet favors extension of the present draft period to 30 or 36 months because "the boys would be better prepared and would have a better chance of coming back alive from combat." But he added that the extra time would be spent in training and not on the front lines. However, President Eisenhower is not in favor of Van Fleet's proposal.

★

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said yesterday that if the investigations led by Sen. McCarthy get into the fields which might cause damage or misunderstanding, it would be up to the president to try to improve the situation. But Eisenhower told his news conference he will try to avoid a situation in which he might have to express his views.

Carolina Dance Groups To Visit Greensboro, Durham

The University Square Dance Club will give a demonstration tomorrow night in Greensboro at the N. C. Square Dance Festival.

Those participating will be Marion Smith, Joyce Gouge, Angus McCormick, Roberta Jones, Tom Greer, Dot Aeschleman, Annie Nicholson and Tommy Hopkins.

The modern dance group will present some original dances at the Workshop in Durham tomorrow. Members of that group will be Janet Green, Marion Smith, Claire Frank, Barbara Munnaw and Joan Mathos.

Student As Trustee Is Ken's Plea

The Student Party presidential hopeful yesterday said he would like to see students represented with a seat on the university's 100-man Board of Trustees.

Ken Penegar said he favored this "in order that student opinion might be consulted before board decisions are made."

Penegar also answered a challenge of opponent Bob Gorham (UP) "to debate the isues of the campaign." Penegar's complete statement:

"Well, as I said two weeks ago in a statement to The Daily Tar Heel, I want to discuss every problem common to all of us as students with the students themselves and my opponents. Rather than a formal debate in which the by-standing student has no part, I am re-challenging my opponents to a discussion of current problems in every University-owned living unit on campus and to any other house where we are invited.

"In such discussions I think the candidates should put forth their ideas on how best to meet current problems, so that the students might have some basis for comparison of the candidates, then if a student's point of view is not represented by either candidate, he could advance his own ideas.

"While we should listen to such suggestions, a candidate in my opinion should start out with some ideas of his own tempered with majority will after all, that is why we have our representative democracy.

"Two weeks ago I made three specific proposals on matters of importance to all of us (these dealt with a civil service system for appointments, a bond issue for a new student activities center and a proposal for a removal from politics of Student Council nominations — a proposal supported by my party in the Legislature).

"I think it is interesting to note that we have yet to hear from the opposition on these matters.

"Today I should like to add a fourth proposal—that student government attempt to secure a seat on the University Board of Trustees for students in order that student opinion might be consulted before board decisions are made.

Again I am suggesting that a positive type campaign based on problems of legitimate concern to students and our self-government would be best for the campus. Perhaps I am mistaken, but I believe the students want and certainly deserve a mature campaign.

"In the realm of the student entertainment series, I don't believe that the student is getting his money's worth there. Less than half of our student body is able to attend the presentations at a time. The students would have the final say of course, but one solution would be a partial subscription system something like the Community Concert series. I wonder if Mr. Gorham would commit himself on this issue.

"In a mature campaign there is no room for self-pitying sympathy

(See PENEGAR, page 2)

Objection Sustained

Razors And Ink Censor 'Fun' From Gopher Humor Magazine

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 5 —(Special) — The University of Minnesota's recent issue of Technolog, campus humor magazine, came out yesterday, but not in one piece.

The "objetionable" humor was sliced out with razor blades or covered over with penetrating ink. Altogether, four pages had sections cut out and one page had two jokes obliterated with ink. Editor Bob Bevensee and several staff members decided to "voluntarily" cut out the offending humor.

Bevensee told the local student senate committee on student affairs yesterday afternoon that "since the decision to remove certain objectionable material from the February issue would eventually be made by someone," he and the Technolog board decided they should do it themselves. In deleting the "objectionable" humor, Bevensee said the recommendations of the senate committee on student affairs sub-committee were followed.

The actual cutting of the 2,400 magazines was done Saturday and Monday afternoons by the Technolog staff, board and several coeds. Bevensee said future issues this spring will be reviewed before publication by the editor and a Technolog board committee.

Dean of Students E. G. Williamson said, "I'm very glad students have taken action although I'm sure the action was not wholly satisfactorily to all the students." Williamson also added, "The editor's effort to correct the situation is generably commendable."

Valkyries Honor Four

CARMAN NAHM

PEPPER STETSON

MARY ANNA GLOD

DOT SMITH

Smith, Nahm, Stetson, Glod Given Honor

The resonant gong of the Valkyries sounded early this morning and it meant initiation for four coeds into the campus' highest women's honorary society.

Tapped were Mary Anna Glod, Carman Nahm, Dot Smith and Pepper Stetson. For the quartet it meant recognition of qualities based on service, scholarship, leadership and character.

Miss Glod is a senior frim Castle Hayne, N. C. She has served as president of Smith Dormitory, been active in the Women's Glee Club, Women's Residence Council and the Inter-Faith Council. She also is president of the Newman Club and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority. Miss Glod is an education major.

Miss Nahm is a political science major from DeLand, Fla. Chairman of the Women's Honor Council, Miss Nahm also took part in coed orientation and the University Club. She has had high scholastic marks. The Florida miss also has served on the Pan-Hellenic Council, been a member of the Splash Club and last Spring was chosen Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. She is a Pi Beta Phi.

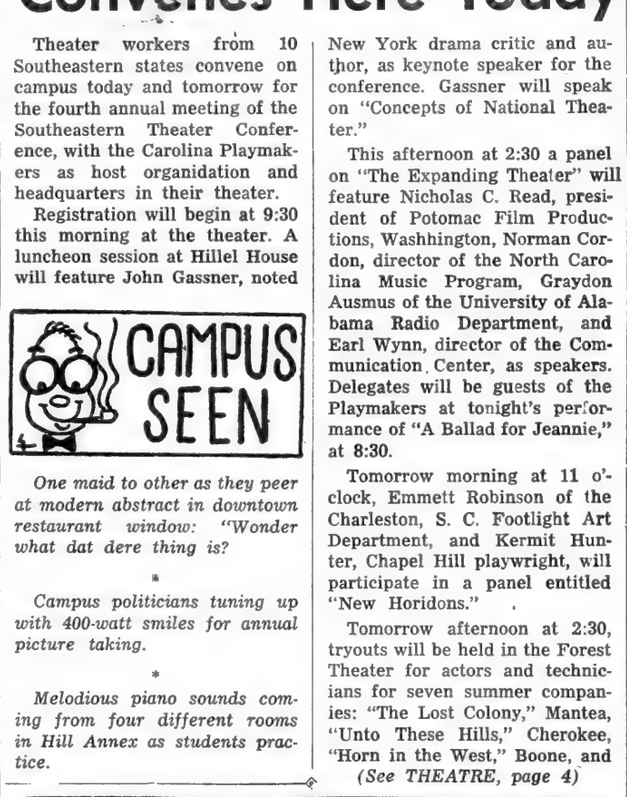
From Spencer, W. Va., Miss Smith has worked in varied fields at the University. She has been a member of the Student Legislature, secretary of the University Party and the Senior Class. As an art major she has done work for the Yackety Yack and the coed handbook. She is on the Pan-Hellenic Council, Cardboard and the YWCA Art and Publicity Committee. Miss Smith is a Delta Delta Delta. Last Spring she was awarded a scholarship honor.

Miss Stetson is president of Delta Delta Delta. This Spring she will head the Leadership Training Program for coed officers for the next school year. She is on the Women's Honor Council, the Pan-Hellenic Council and a member of the Splash and Hockey Clubs. She also is a sponsor for the AF ROTC. A senior from West Chester, Pa., she is majoring in recreation. Miss Stetson makes high grades.

The coeds will wear ribbons today to denote their initiation into the Valkyries.

10-State Theatre Meet Convenes Here Today

Theater workers from 10 Southeastern states convene on campus today and tomorrow for the fourth annual meeting of the Southeastern Theater Conference, with the Carolina Playmakers as host organidation and headquarters in their theater.



Registration will begin at 9:30 this morning at the theater. A luncheon session at Hillel House will feature John Gassner, noted New York drama critic and author, as keynote speaker for the conference. Gassner will speak on "Concepts of National Theater."

This afternoon at 2:30 a panel on "The Expanding Theater" will feature Nicholas C. Read, president of Potomac Film Productions, Washhington, Norman Cordon, director of the North Carolina Music Program, Graydon Ausmus of the University of Alabama Radio Department, and Earl Wynn, director of the Communication Center, as speakers. Delegates will be guests of the Playmakers at tonight's performance of "A Ballad for Jeannie," at 8:30.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, Emmett Robinson of the Charleston, S. C. Footlight Art Department, and Kermit Hunter, Chapel Hill playwright, will participate in a panel entitled "New Horidons."

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, tryouts will be held in the Forest Theater for actors and technicians for seven summer companies: "The Lost Colony," Mantea, "Unto These Hills," Cherokee, "Horn in the West," Boone, and

(See THEATRE, page 4)

KERMIT HUNTER

One maid to other as they peer at modern abstract in downtown restaurant window: "Wonder what dat dere thing is?

*

Campus politicians tuning up with 400-watt smiles for annual picture taking.

*

Melodious piano sounds coming from four different rooms in Hill Annex as students practice.

Variety Show Being Readied For Sunday

The Variety Show of the Campus Chest, previously scheduled for this past Wednesday, will be presented in Memorial Hall Sunday night at 8:30, concluding the international phase of the Campus Chest drive.

John Taylor, chairman of the production, has assembled the cast for the show using many Playmaker stars for leading parts. Costumes, stage setting and direction has also been done in connection with the Playmakers.

The show will include songs, dances, and straight comedy numbers with most of the material used coming from Broadway successes.

Among the lineup of numbers will be a beauty contest, a "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" dance, a take-off on the First Drama Quartette, "Love Is a Simple Thing" and "He Takes Me Off His Income Tax" from "New Faces of 1952."

"Bushel and a Pack" from "Guys and Dolls," "Make a Miracle," from "Where's Charlie?", a parody on foreign films and other attractions will be featured.

Ann Miller, Betty Vickery, Edgar Daniels and Billy Barnes along with Taylor are doing the planning and direction of the show. As set up, the Variety Show will be a musical comedy revue spotlighting, for the most part, girls.

Students and faculty members having contributed to the Campus Chest will be admitted free. Anyone missed by the campaign solicitors, who conclude their rounds tonight, will be able to contribute at the door at that time.

Mostest Hostess

'Awful Lot' Of Walking At Hospital

By Sally Schindel

This is another in a series of periodic articles on the Medical Center and its personnel.)

"I walk at least three miles every day."

But Mrs. Barbara Walser, hostess of the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, has a job which includes many other duties besides an "awful lot of walking."

According to this pert, blue-eyed graduate of Carolina, the primary work of the hostess is to acquaint the people of the state with the facilities of the hospital so they will know how the taxpayer's money is spent and also to help the avearge person overcome his fears and misgivings about hospitals in general.

These duties include such things as acting as guide to various clubs and interested groups which come to see the hospital. Doctors from throughout the state come to acquaint themselves with the facilities so they can send their local patients here for special treatment if necessary. These groups may vary in number from two to two hundred persons in one day.

An even more fascinating aspect of the hospital tours, reports the hostess, is the foreign public health officials and doctors who "want to know everything about the hospital inside and out." These professional men come from all over the world.

In connection with the tours, the hostess is in charge of training volunteer guides and of charting the routes for large tours so each of five groups could leave a given spot 10 minutes apart and not bump into each other—a pretty difficult undertaking unless well acquainted with the plan of the hospital.

When not busy with tours, Mrs. Walser "flits around doing different jobs kind of like a jack of all trades." This might entail helping in the administrative office with secretarial work, organizing schedules for reserving conference space in the hospital, keeping track of all movie equipment, blackboards, and other visual aid equipment or any other odd job that may arise as a result of her being number one on the "stand by" list for anything special that may come up.

Mrs. Walser began work on her public relations type job on July 1 although the hospital was then not quite completed. In order to learn about the setup of the building and the placement of the various departments she had to "poke around" with a flashlight in every cluttered nook and cranny. At that time names weren't even on doors and other identifying factors were just not there.

In spite of her early orientation period and thorough knowledge of the various departments, she still feels like "Miss Wide Eyed" because, "being unfamiliar with hospitals before coming here, I am still amazed at this tremendous new medical center."

In summarizing her job, the hostess says, "it's wonderful to know how many individuals are interested in the hospital and at the same time satisfying to feel you are helping them to know and understand their hospital."

Mrs. Walser is the former Barbara Merrill, Tri Delt and member of the class of '52; she was also a cheerleader and sorority house president.

YMCA Nominating Committee

The YMCA Nominating Committee will meet at noon tomorrow in the Y office.

Parent's Day

Parent's Day at the University will be held Sunday, May 3, Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity announced yesterday.

The sponsors of the anual event plan an open house at Morehead Planetarium, guided campus tours and a picnic among the events.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock | Adv. Mgrs. Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. Nina Gray, Jane Carter | Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT — Roger Williams, Richard O'Neal, George Harris, Veneta Zeller.

Night Editor for this issue: Louis Kraar

Helpful Opponents

It was a little over 10 years ago that a defeated Republican candidate for president set out to "see what I could of the world and the war, its battle fronts, its leaders and its people."

That was in 1942 and the man was the intense and dynamic Wendell Willkie. He left on a tour of the Middle East, China and Russia as a personal representative of the man who defeated him, F. D. Roosevelt.

This week it was the other way around. Adlai Stevenson, a Democrat, began a world tour with the same mission as Willkie. Stevenson does not go as a personal representative of the President, but he does have his official blessing to the extent of a pre-sailing conference and a special State Department briefing.

The President or the American people could hardly have a better emissary.

During the 1940 campaign the two contenders split bitterly over the domestic policies of the New Deal. On an international plane, however, they saw pretty much eye-to-eye.

Soon after he returned from his travels, Willkie wrote "One World"—a report of what he had seen and done and how he interpreted it. This report reads like a modern Book of Revelations. The author's keen insight and political sensitiviey enabled him to bring into sharp focus issues that were being muddled or passed over.

The account is not written in generalities. He named the people and pinpointed the places that deserved attention. And he predicted what would happen — the very things that are happening — if these people and places were ignored.

He saw, for instance, that the "magic of our Western political ideas has been sharply challenged in the minds of many Moslems, many Arabs, many Jews, many Iranians."

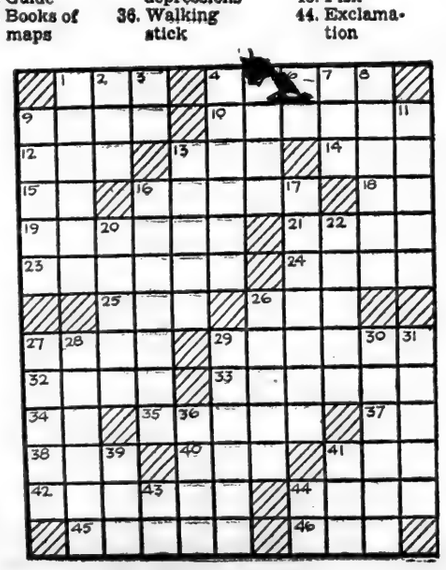
Again he said: "Our boasting and our big talk leave Asia cold. Men and women in Russia and China and in the Middle East are conscious now of their potential strength."

He detected sober undercurrents in the Middle East that "added up to the conviction that these newly awakened people will be followers of some extremist leader in this generation if their hunger for education and opportunity . . . is not met by their own rulers and their foreign overlords."

But now Willkie and many of the hopes for his precious "One World" are dead. He wrote hoping the world would listen and profit by what he had to say. It may have listened, but it profited little.

Stevenson has said he plans to chronicle his experiences when he returns. He may not produce another "One World." On the other hand he may surpass it. Like Willkie, he is articulate and uncompromising in stating his views. He has a searching mind and keen insight.

At best we can hope that the world will be in a more receptive mood for what Stevenson may have to say. Odds are he'll be worth listening to.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Animal's foot
4. Variety of beet
9. Rational
10. Quiets
12. Cover
13. Salt (chem.)
14. Sash (Jap.)
15. At home
16. Tilted (poetic)
18. Land-measure
19. Middle
21. Italian princely family
23. Roman magistrates
24. City in Iowa
25. Audience
26. For
27. Frontiers-man's shoes
29. Having implements
32. Fencing sword
33. Sound made by silk
34. Music note
35. Frighten
37. Indefinite article
38. Shield
40. Public notices
41. Likely
42. Place of worship
44. Sound of contempt
45. Concluded
46. Poem

DOWN
1. Hurt
2. Particle of addition
3. Plural pronoun
4. Seats
5. Husk
6. Roman pound
7. Greek letter
8. Argue
9. Cut
11. Fathers
13. Guide
16. Books of maps
17. Kind of rose
20. One's sister's daughter
22. Young salmon
26. Flows
27. Goddess of volcanoes (poss.)
28. American Indian
29. Exchanged
30. To slip by
31. Small depressions
36. Walking stick
39. Receptacle for coffee
41. Help
43. Fish
44. Exclamation

Yesterday's Answer

Dan Duke

Portrait

Just A Red-Smutted American Boy

Wednesday, Mr. William Kauffman Scarborough challenged the bases of my charges and general indictment against McCarthy.

As last week's column ("For Whom the Yells Scold") was a logical comparison of similar aspects between McCarthyism and Communism, I obviously did not have space for factual substantiation of each point. Mr. Scarborough was justified in pointing this out. But I think he was wrong in inferring that I could not give evidence to support my arguments. Thus today I shall attempt a factual indictment against McCarthy.

SOME CONCLUSIONS from a FACTUAL ANALYSIS ("McCarthy Versus the State Department," by Hornell Hart, Duke Sociological Professor, February 4, 1952):

1. Fifty instances are cited in which statements by Senator McCarthy have been in radical variance with verified facts.

2. McCarthy made two charges against Owen Lattimore: that he was "the top Soviet espionage agent" in the U.S., and that he was "the architect of the State Department's Far Eastern policy." Of these charges, McCarthy said: "I am willing to stand or fall on this one. If I am wrong on this I think the (Tydings) subcommittee would be justified in not taking the other cases too seriously." McCarthy was wrong on this case. Not even Budenz, the Communist accuser, was willing to testify that Lattimore was Russia's top spy. The rest of the evidence strongly contradicts the "top spy" accusation. And Lattimore was not the architect of our China policy.

3. McCarthy testified under oath that he had not said in his Wheeling speech that there were 205 Communists in the State Department. Later, he said: "If McCarthy is a liar in this, let's assume he's a liar in everything." Nevertheless, radio men have made sworn affidavits that, although McCarthy denied it, the passage in question did appear in his original transcript, and was delivered as typed.

4. When McCarthy's statements are disproven, he generally responds by refusing to examine the damaging facts, by disparaging the intelligence of his critics, and insisting that all such criticisms constitute "Communist party-line smears."

5. Senator McCarthy's activities have contributed little or nothing to discovering or weeding out Communists from our government. The notable eliminations of Communists from the State Department were all achieved before McCarthy started his campaign. McCarthy has offered no valid evidence for believing that any of the State Department employees whom he accused are Communists. John Stewart Service was the one State Department employee whose discharge resulted from the McCarthy campaign, and he was not found to be a Communist. In spite of a long list of "Communists" about whom McCarthy has made speeches he has never turned over a single case of prosecution to the Department of Justice.

The Wisconsin Citizen Committee on McCarthy's Record Findings (August, 1952. This is a carefully documented 134-page indictment of McCarthy prepared by a non-partisan group of Wisconsin citizens. Their chief charges are reviewed below):

1. Unethical conduct as a Wisconsin judge: McCarthy was rebuked by Wisconsin's Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for a 'highly improper 'abuse of judicial power.' McCarthy — for dubious political reasons — had ordered that a portion of the court record be destroyed.

2. Acceptance of $10,000 from Lustron: McCarthy, serving on Senate committees dealing with RFC and Lustron Corporation problems, wrote a pamphlet on housing for which he received a $10,000 fee from Lustron.

3. Filing income tax returns "that balance but mystify."

4. Alleged to have operated a Wisconsin divorce mill.

5. Making many charges against governmental officials which were based solely on stale gossip or discredited rumors.

6. Using "the big lie" technique in the disreputable campaign to unseat Senator Tydings.

7. Slandering George C. Marshall, Dean Acheson, etc.

Periodicals supporting the authenticity and validity of these findings and general indictment above include, among others: Time, Life, Fortune, Colliers, The Saturday Evening Post, Christian Century, Christian Science Monitor, America, Nation, Commonweal, The New York Times, Toledo Blade, Denver Post, St. Paul Dispatch, etc.

(Note: most of these periodicals supported Eisenhower, not Stevenson, in the recent campaign).

The Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections Findings (This committee released the following disclosures without recommendations January 2, 1953):

1. Re-aired the Lustron issue.

2. In 1945, McCarthy owed the Appleton (Wis.) State Bank $169,540.70. (The legal loan limit was $100,000.) Meanwhile, since beginning his so-called crusade against Communism, his accounts have greatly improved. During the last four years, McCarthy has deposited $172,623.18 in one account while Ray Kiermas, his administrative assistant, has deposited $96,921.26.

Implied Question: Where did all this money come from?

3. In 1947, a Pepsi-Cola official endorsed a $20,000 note for McCarthy. That year McCarthy with Pepsi-Cola fought against continuation of governmental sugar controls.

Implied Question: Did McCarthy lobby with Pepsi-Cola for financial gain?

4. In 1948, McCarthy, using his $10,000 Lustron fee, bought stock in the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, which owed RFC $15 million. The stock had not paid dividends in many years, but nevertheless the stock went up, McCarthy sold 1000 shares last September and netted a cool $35,614.75 profit.

Implied Question: Could there be any relationship between McCarthy's being a member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee and his receipt of confidential data relating to the Seaboard Air Line Railroad stock?

5. In 1950, a friend of McCarthy's used funds from McCarthy's anti-Communism account to buy 30,000 bushels of soybean futures—which investment rewarded said-friend with $17,354.50 in less than three months.

Implied Question: Had not McCarthy violated a trust fund? Did McCarthy possess a misuse confidential information about the soybean-futures market?

In spite of the subcommittee's report, no protest was made a few hours thereafter when Senator Joseph McCarthy was officially seated in the 83rd Congress. Said McCarthy: "They ought to know by now they can't put McCarthy aside!"

Random Episodes Cited:

1. McCarthy-Time Affair: Not too long ago Time magazine blasted McCarthy in an article entitled "Demagogue McCarthy". McCarthy bellowed that vicious lies had been printed against him. But rather than sue for libel, McCarthy instead chose to write to the individual advertisers, and he urged them to stop advertising in "Time". It's interesting to note that "Time" still comes out once a week, has plenty of advertisers, and still pours it on McCarthy.

"Trade", a publisher's magazine, said that McCarthy's action placed the freedom of the press in definite jeopardy.

2. Hoffman's Testimony: Paul Hoffman, a pre-trial witness for ex-senator Benton (who is being sued for $2,000,000 by McCarthy) declared that McCarthy's slanderous accusations against General Marshall were "fantastically false". Hoffman denied that the Marshall Plan and Marshall's policy rendered "massive helpfulness to the world ambitions of the Kremlin", as McCarthy had charged. Eisenhower also has vouched for Marshall.

3. Slander against Stevenson: In a TV assault at Stevenson, McCarthy said: "Tonight, I shall give you the history of the Democratic candidate for the presidency, who endorses and would continue the suicidal Kremlin-directed policies of this nation, etc . . . Alger, pardon me, I mean Adlai Stevenson . . . etc."

In a later comment about all the Democratic candidates, McCarthy said that he would be able to make "good Americans" out of them if he could but take a whip to them.

Etc. Ad Infinitum

One thing is certain about the McCarthy issue. Neither Mr. Scarborough nor I will settle it. We can just haggle back and forth about the truth and reliability of the other's position. History alone will pass the final human verdict on McCarthyism.

But in the meanwhile, I urge all to consider not only these factual charges against McCarthy, the man, but also to weigh the impact of McCarthyism, the methods and tendencies, upon our constitutional freedoms. We are against Communism, yes! But we are also against McCarthyism, whether it is a McCarthy (R) or a McCarren (D) or a Jenner (R) or a McClellan (D) or a Truman (D) who practices it. Mr. Scarborough is right — even we who oppose McCarthyism sometimes stoop to it. But at least we do not deny, or justify, the hypocrisy.

In conclusion, I should like to bring the following quote from the "New York Times":

"He (McCarthy) has been of no use whatever in enabling us to distinguish among sinner, fools, and patriots, except in the negative sense that many of us have begun to suspect that there must be some good, however small, in anybody who has aroused Senator McCarthy's ire."

—Penegar—

(Continued from page 1)

appeals or glittering generalities so recently evident in the campaign. I will continue to deplore this kind of approach to a democratic election.

"Finally I will deplore the use of trumped-up issues like independent versus fraternity splits as a deliberate attempt to distract attention from our real problems and promote false discord on the campus.

"In order to provide discussion on real problems of local concern, I am asking the editor of the Tar Heel and his editorial board to submit a question to each of the candidates several times during the campaign next quarter and have each of the candidates write his opinion on that topic, both to appear at the same time in the paper."

"Sit Down. Of Course You Know We're Not Settled Yet"

A.Z.F. Wood, Jr.

A Noble Profession

"So, you want to be a sports-writer?" said the sage old veteran

"Yessir," said the youthful aspirant.

"Well, my boy, let me give you a few hints that will help you in the pursuit of eminence in your chosen profession."

The veteran paused to run gnarled fingers through his hoary mane and to chain-light another cigarette.

"For example," he continued, "Suppose that Navy had beaten Pen in a football game and you had the job of affixing a headline to the story. What would your headline be?"

The youth shrugged uncomprehendingly. "Navy Beats Penn," he said simply.

"Ah," said the sage, "That's not what you would say if you wanted to keep your job. You would say something to the effect that Navy had 'swamped' Penn."

A light flickered in the youth's eye. "Oh, I see," said he, "And if Penn had beaten Navy, the headline would be Penn 'sinks' Navy."

"That's the idea," said the old man, "Only 'scuttles' would be better. And the same idea would hold true for the other colleges. The Princeton Tigers would 'claw' Yale, Furman would 'tame' the Davidson Wildcats, William and Mary would 'scalp' Virginia, and so on. And if the college hasn't a colorful nickname, you can use 'rout', 'drub', 'slaughter', 'run rough-shod', 'nip', 'smear', 'clobber'. But never 'beat'."

The youth was regarding the old sage intently and in his eyes was admiration.

"Now," said the old man, "Let me give you a sort of a quiz."

"Shoot," said the youth. He was confident now.

"What is a football player?"

"A gridder."

"What is a football?"

"A pigskin."

"What does the gridder do with the pigskin?"

"He carries the mail or lugs the leather."

"What is a touchdown?"

"That's when you hit pay dirt."

"What is a football coach?"

"A mentor."

"What do you do when you score a basket?"

"Ripple the nets."

"What is a pitcher?"

"A moundsman, a hurler, a chunker."

"What does he do?"

"He fires, spins, hurls, twirls, and throws aspirin tablets."

"What is a homerun?"

"A roundtripper, a fourmaster, a fourbagger, and a prodigious cleut."

"What are wrestlers?"

"Grapplers."

"What are swimmers?"

"Tankers."

"What are track stars?"

"Thinly clads."

"What are tennis players?"

"Netters."

"What is a team that has a good reputation?"

"Highly touted."

"What does a visiting team do?"

"It invades."

"What is a sports-writer?"

"A scribe."

"I think you'll be all right as a sports-writer," said the old man.

The youth beamed appreciatively.

101 Questions

"Is dreaded heart disease inherited?" "Is the death rate higher among males or females?" "Do emotional upsets have any effect on the heart?"

These and other questions most frequently asked about heart diseases are answered by specialists of the American Heart Association in a new booklet entitled "101 Questions About Your Child's Heart and Your Own," now available for distribution, according to Mrs. Betty Reina, educational director of the North Carolina Heart Association.

The questions and answers point up the advances made in cardiac research, in surgery, and in the prevention and treatment of rheumatic fever, she said.

As an indication of the value of this booklet, Mrs. Reina said that it clarifies many misconceptions about the symtoms of the heart diseases and explains the physiology of the heart and circulatory system.

Sections are devoted also to congenital heart defeats, high blood pressure, and hardening of the arteries.

Wolfpack Rolls Over Carolina, 86-54, In SC Tourney

Tar Heels Stay Within Reach During First Half

By Biff Roberts

Reynolds Coliseum, Raleigh, March 5—N. C. State's Butcher tenderized Carolina's lambs in the second period and then went on to slaughter the Tar Hels, 86-54, in this Wolf Packing house here tonight to advance to the second round of the Southern Conference basketball tournament.

Although the Tar Heels managed to hold on closely during the early part of the game, there was little doubt as to the final outcome. It was merely a question as to when the cleaving State offense would cut up the Tar Heels.

Carolina held even with State through the first quarter, trailing by only four points, 15-11 at the end of the period.

But in the second stanza big Bobby Speight came to life and the Pack, led by his 15 points, raced ahead at halftime, 43-24. State scored 28 times in the quarter while holding the Tar Heels to 13.

The Wolfpack had a feverish shooting average in the first half. They hit of 18 of 41 for a 43.8 average. Carolina could get only nine of 36 for 25 per cent.

The Tar Heels, after trailing 23-13 early in the second period, made a grab at the State lead and sparked by Tony Radovich, who came in at the start of the quarter, narrowed the gap to 23-20.

But then State started hitting again and scored 20 points to Carolina's four to take the overwhelming half-time lead.

The Tar Heels made a fight of it in the opening minutes of the third quarter, narrowing the edge to 44-31. But then the more capable Pack let loose again. They upped the lead to 52-36 and then Mel Thompson hit for nine straight points while Carolina got one, and State went into the final period ahead, 62-39.

State salted the wound in the final period, running over the outclassed Carolinians until the hometown crowd got its 32 point margin of victory.

Thompson led the State scoring with 18 points while the slim Speight added 15, all in the second period. Al Lifson had 12 for the Tar Heels and Radovich 10.

The victory for State matches it against West Virginia in the 9:30 game tomorrow night. Wake Forest and Maryland will meet in the opener at 7:30.

Mountaineers Defeat Furman In Tournament

REYNOLDS COLISEUM, Raleigh, March 7 — (Special)—Furman's one-two punch of Frann Selvy and Neild Gordon combined for 71 points here this afternoon but wasn't enough to stop West Virginia, and the Mountaineers, themselves sparked by some fine shooting, dropped the Paladins, 91-87, in the opening game of the Southern Conference tournament.

Gordon in fact, scored 37 points to set a new single game record for the tourney. The old mark of 36 was held by Chet Giermack of William and Mary.

Furman took an early lead in the game, getting out front at the end of the first quarter, 21-15, but the Mountaineers, led by Jim Sottile and Eddie Becker, took control in the second period and raced out front at the half, 47-41.

It was Selvy who kept the Paladins in the game during the first half, scoring 24 of his points before the rest period. He hit on 9 out of 13 shots from the floor and made six of six free throws the first 20 minutes.

The Mountaineers threatened to run away with the game early in the third quarter, running the margin up to 64-53 at one time. But then Gordon began to get off his feet, rebounding and working well in the slot, until Furman was only behind 70-64 going into the last standa.

It was all Gordon in the final period as he scored 20 of his 37 points. Furman pulled back to within one point several times in the final period but each time West Virginia, although hindered by personal fouls on key players, would pull away.

The Mountaineers started freeding the ball with 1:50 to go and an 85-84 lead, and fouls committed by Furman increased the score from there on out.

The combined scores of 178 points also set a new tourney record, surpassing the 170 mark of the Duke-West Virginia game last year.

Sottile paced West Virginia with 29 points while Becker had 18.

Gym Team Gets Second In Big Meet

The Carolina Gymnastic Team concluded its season by placing second in the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastic Championships at Hattiesburg, Mississippi, Tuesday night.

Florida State won the tight team meet with a total of 102 points. Coach Meade's Tar Heels followed with 38 points, Texas was third with 19, Northwestern State of Louisiana placed fourth with 12, and host team Mississippi Southern tallied 6 points for fifth place.

Carolina captured second in two events. Otis Hartsell was narrowly defeated in the flying rings, and Bill Rivera was edged out of the rope-climb by .05 sec.

The Championships climaxed Carolina's most successful season in four year's participation in the sport. The Tar Heels were victorious in three of five dual meets and also won a three-way meet.

Wake Forest Triumphs

Wake Forest advanced to the second round in the night's opening game, pulling away from Richmond in the last half to win 85-70.

The two teams had battled on even terms throughout the first half with the difference more than three points at only one time, that early in the game when Wake led, 10-5.

The Deacons led most of the first half, relinquishing the lead only twice, and held a 35-34 margin at half time.

The Spiders, using a tight zone defense to stop the scoring of Dickie Hemric who had 13 points the first the half, threatened to take control of the game in the third period.

They went ahead 42-38 with 7:00 to go in the quarter and had the Deacs throttled by the tight zone.

But then they unaccountly went into a full court press and Wake Forest broke Hemrick and Williams loose to pull ahead 52-44 at the end of the third period.

It was more of the same in the final period with Wake Forest boosting its lead steadily. The Deacs started a freeze after the three minute rule came into effect, leading 73-63 at the time, and capitalized on fowls by the overeager Spiders to coast home from there.

Lacrosse

Anyone interested in playing Lacrosse is requested to report to Woollen Gym between 1 and 3:30 p.m. Monday to draw equipment and be assigned lockers. No experience in playing is needed.

Coach Moore has also requested that anyone interested in being a manager report at the same time.

Gene Shue Leads Maryland To Upset Victory Over Duke

Reynolds Coliseum, Raleigh, March 5 — (Special) — Maryland's stingy, possessive type ball brought about the Southern Conference tourney's first upset in the second game here this afternoon when the Terps, led by the steady play of Gene Shue and his 33 points, ousted Duke's heretofore hot Blue Devils, 74-65.

The Terrapins led from the first quarter on and held the Dukes to their second lowest score of the year in advancing to the second round.

Shue was short of phenomenal in the first half, collecting 23 points on 9 field goals and five free throws. His steadying influence sent Maryland ahead at the half, 38-27.

Duke narrowed the margin to within five points with three minutes left in the third period but that was as close as the Blue Devils could get.

Maryland rallied to kick the lead back up. The Devils tried again midway the final period, too, coming within six of the Terps, but Shue who had been given a rest came back in. Maryland held the ball until the three minute rule went in and then skipped home.

Duke had trouble buying a basket during the whole game, especially in the first half. Even when the Blue Devils slipped through the tight Maryland defense, the ball just wouldn't go in the basket.

Duke put up a frantic effort in the final minutes but only succeeded in collecting more fouls. Maryland's tight control of the ball and sharp foul shooting kept the ball game in the Terps' hands.

DANZIGER'S

TODAY'S MENU

HOMEMADE VEGETABLE SOUP ____ $ .20

SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES

MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with spaghetti and salad ____ $ .50

CREOLE WIENER with baked beans, lettuce and tomato ____ $ .60

FRIED SHRIMPS with tartar-sauce, vegetable, potato au gratin ____ $ .85

DEVILED CRAB with tartar-sauce, vegetable, potato au gratin ____ $ .85

BLUEBERRY or CHERRY BLINTZES with sour cream, apple sauce or jelly ____ $ .75

CHOPPED STEAK with vegetables and potatoes ____ $ .95

SPANISH OMELET with vegetable ____ $ .65

KNOCKWURST and PASTRAME on toasted rye bread with potato salad ____ $ .85

WIENER SCHNITBEL with potato salad and vegetable ____ $1.25

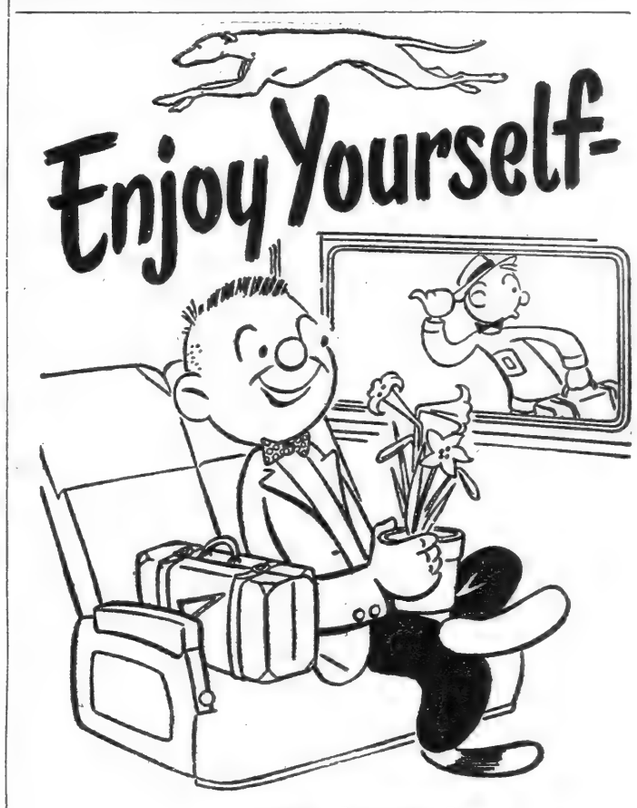
. . . your choice served with bread, butter and salad

Dropped Modern Library Titles

FOUR GREEK PLAYS
STUDIES IN MURDER
DARING YOUNG MAN ON THE FLYING TRAPEZE
MY WAR WITH THE U. S.
ISLAND WITHIN
LOST WEEK-END

Now 68¢

at



THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

T-O-D-A-Y and SATURDAY

Varsity

RATHSKELLER FEATURES:

- THE ONLY NICKEL NICKELODEON IN TOWN
- CASE BEER AT COST SPECIAL FOR THIS WEEK:

BUDWEISER 4.17 plus tax in cans
(Limit 1 per customer)

- Always just enough quiet smoke for an atmosphere you enjoy to drink in

RATHSKELLER
"Often Imitated—Never Equalled"

I Go, You Go, We All Go For P-U-R-E

Whether you fill up with PURE PEP or PREMIUM, you'll enjoy extra pickup at low speeds and less motor strain at high speeds.
Drop in today and let us fill 'er up, check your oil and tires.

POE MOTOR CO.
112 W Franklin St.
DESOTO Ph. 6581 PLYMOUTH

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

This is your weekly "hour of dirt" (I read Pogo too). Stories of interest from all parts of the campus.

Such as the pinning of Chi O Anna Beeson, Greensboro. She and "Red" Cowper, ATO from Tampa, Fla., got pinned last Saturday. But I reckon everybody knows that one.

Phi Delt Pat Samonds has also lost his pin. Don't get upset; he just plain lost it.

Then there was another Phi Delt who mistook a waste basket for a swimming pool and dived in.

From Cobb Dorm comes the news that WC has invited all of them to a dance tomorrow night in Jamison Hall. For more information see Cobb social chairman Charlie Hyatt.

Pika's report they are turning over a new leaf. They are now reading on page 2 of their textbooks in preparation for exams.

Over in that same direction, Sigma Chi Renny Biggers, Charlotte, is engaged to Ann Bradley, Tri Delt of Orangeburg, S. C.

SPE's will challenge their Wake Forest chapter to two basketball games Friday nite in the gym. They'll celebrate somebody's victory with a beer party at the house afterwards.

Sigma Nu's and Pi Phi's ended up co-rec nite with a coffee at the Sigma Nu house. They were also celebrating somebody's victory.

Alpha Gam Pat Noah, Chapel Hill, just got pinned. To Ernie Bumgarner, Phi Kappa Sig from Kannapolis.

Turnage's is getting to be quite the popular place. The ADPi's and dates will journey there for a party tonight.

The Order of the Golden Bear has a sensational idea. They're giving a "party of the week award" They base their decision on originality, successfulness of the party, etc. Award of the wek goes to the ATO's for their Hawaiian party last Saturday. One of the evening's near casualties was Fletcher Green who got locked in the ice box. Other than that, the party seems to have been real frantic.

SPE Bill Littlejohn, Morganton, is engaged to nursing student Janet Merritt, Chapel Hill.

Lambda Chi's are having a barbeque tomorrow night. Everybody bring your own pig.

Phi Gams even have pinnings. Two. Jimmy Prescott and Faye Ellen Coppersmith, both of Elizabeth City got pined, as did Joe Lamb and Ann Rochelle, also of Elizabeth City.

Ed Hatch, Chi Phi from Pittsboro, pinned me, Pi Phi from St. Petersburg, Fla. There sneaked that in quietly, didn't I? (Lucky guy.—Ed.).

Phi Kappa Sigs Len Capel and Dick Hart have deserted the coeds for some ice capade stars. Hear the Phi Kaps did some pretty serenading for pin-ups this week.

Here's proof that anything comes if you wait long enough. Jack Stoughton got initiated into Kappa Sig.

Sigma Chi's will have their annual "reverse" day tomorrow. The pledges and actives will celebrate with a beer party at you-know-who's lake.

Delta Sigma Pi Wilbur Bland, Charlotte, has gotten himself pinned to Iris Walters, also Charlotte. Same for Delta Sigma Pi Ken Neese and Ann McCollum, both of Monroe.

TEP graduating seniors will be honored with a party Monday.

ZBT grad Don Mandel of Atlanta will be married this weekend to Dot Stewart of Birmingham, Ala.

AKPsi's will have a wedding in the chapter too. Taylor Teague of Mooresville will marry Doris Best, Charlotte.

Twenty four French cadets from Kinston Air Force Base seem to have made quite an impression this past week. Pi Delta Phi, the French club, sponsored a party for them.

Phi Kapp Sig Has Houseparty, Formal Dance

Lambda chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity combined its annual Winter Houseparty and pledge dance this past weekend.

Saturday night's formal dance was held at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham with music provided by Russ Olsen and his orchestra. Pledges and their dates were presented under decorations of black and gold, the fraternity's colors. They formed a skull and crossmones, the traditional figure. Each girl was given a small mug bearing the fraternity crest as a favor.

A barbecue dinner at Turnage's Friday night in Durham began the weekend's activities. A combo furnished music and the Phi Kappa Sigma flag and black and gold crepe paper decorated the room. A cocktail party was held at the house Saturday afternoon, and a steak dinner at the house Sunday ended festivities.

Pledges and their dates were Hartwell Conklin, Durham, with Mary Duncan, Raleigh; Jimmy Smith, Durham, with Helen Morgan, Durham; Jerry Reece, Andrews, with Alice Jones, Warrenton; Frank Harris, Lincolnton, with Peggy Hall, Salyersville, Ky.; Robert Byrum, Elizabeth Citf, with Lorna Staples, Elizabeth City; Kick Hoyle, Lincolnton, with Tish House, Beaufort; Myron Conklin, Durham, with Betty Lou Wanamaker, Pickens, S. C.; Bill Fetzer, Cleveland, O., with Kathryn Loucks, Cleveland, I.; Jimmy Sykes, Philadelphia, Pa., with Marianne Jacobs, Jacksonville, Fla.; Clinton Rogers, Durham, with Melissa Morse, Raeigh; Jack Heard, Charotte, with Joy Mayhue, Charlotte.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Has Anniversary Celebration

North Carolina Delta of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity celebrated the thirty-second anniversary of its founding at UNC last week.

The local chapter was founded Feb. 26, 1921. About 100 alumni and their families attended Founder's Day activities which included a luncheon and a program in their honor at which time Chancellor R. B. House spoke.

Theater

(Continued from page 1)

"Thunderland," Asheville, all outdoor dramas, and for the Barter Theater, Abingdon, Va., the Bliss Repertory, Richmond, Va., and the Vagabond Players, Hendersonville, N. C.

All sessions of the conference are open to the public, including today's luncheon. Registration fee is $1 and luncheon reservations are $2.

A&P's Low Price Policy Helps Keep Your Budget in Line!..

Packer's Label Red Sour Pitted Pie Cherries - - - - - - 19-Oz. Can 21c

Ann Page Elbow or Regular Macaroni - - - - - - 2 1-Lb. Pkgs. 33c

A&P Fancy Tuna Fish - - - - - - - 7-Oz. Can 29c

Puffin—Easy To Fix Biscuits - - - - - - 2 Pkgs. 23c

Ann Page Creamy MAYONNAISE Qt. Jar 49c

Ann Page Pure Ground Black PEPPER - - - - 2-Oz. Can 25c

Golden Maid MARGARINE 1-Lb. Pkg. 21c

Iona Sliced or Halves PEACHES 28-Oz. Can 27c

with Lettuce & Cottage Cheese — a Tempting Salad!

Dromedary Mix White Cake - - - - - - 16-Oz. Pkg. 33c

Walker's Austex Beef Stew - - - - - - - 15-Oz. Can 35c

Walker's Austex CHILI WITH BEANS - - - No. 300 Can 35c

White House Dry Milk Solids - - - - - - 7-Oz. Pkg. 15c

For Wide Variety, High Quality and Lowest Possible Prices, Pick A&P's Fresh Fruits & Vegetables

Red Bliss Potatoes 5 Pounds 30c

Fresh Florida Corn 3 Ears 29c

Golden Crisp Carrots - - - 1-Lb. Cello Bag 10c

Crisp Green Pascal—Size 3's Celery - - - Stalk 8c

Juicy Florida Oranges - - - 8-Lb. Bag 45c

Fresh Nuts Cashews - - 6-Oz. Pkg. 29c

Juicy Florida—Size 54's-64's Grapefruit 4 For 23c

Planter's Cocktail Peanuts 8-Oz. Can 35c

Top Grade Only! Dependable Quality Always! A&P's "Super-Right" Meats

Super Right Heavy Western Beef—Club or Sirloin Steak - - - Lb. 85c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef—Chuck Blade Pot Roast - - - - - Lb. 49c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef—Lean Boneless Stew - - Lb. 55c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef—Freshly Ground Beef - - - Lb. 45c

Short Shank Smoked—4 to 6 Lb. Avg.—Pork Shoulder Picnics - Lb. 39c

Swift's All Meat Premium Franks - 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c

Wilson's Corn King Sliced Bacon - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c

Fillet of Small Haddock Lb. 29c

Headless and Dressed Whiting Lb. 15c

MILD AND MELLOW 8 O'CLOCK COFFEE 1-Lb. Bag 77c 3-Lb. Bag $2.25

Gerber's Strained Foods 3 4½-Oz. Jars 29c

Gerber's Junior Foods 8-Oz. Jar 14c

Chocolate Hershey's Baking - - - - ½-Lb. Pkg. 39c

Cocoa Hershey's Breakfast - - - - - ½-Lb. Pkg. 25c

Tissue Northern Toilet - - - - 3 Rolls 25c

Dromedary Devil's Food Mix - - - 14-Oz. Pkg. 27c

Sunbrite Cleanser - - - - 12-Oz. Can 8c

Boraxo - - - - - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 20c

Borax 20 MULE TEAM - - - - - 16-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Ivory Soap - - - - - 3 Med. Bars 23c

Ivory Flakes - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c

Camay Soap - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Oxydol - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c

P&G Soap - - - - - 3 Lge. Bars 22c

Ivory Snow - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c

Linit Starch - - - - - 12-Oz. Pkg. 13c

Argo Starch - - - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 6c

Swift'ning - - 1-Lb. Tin 29c 3-Lb. Tin 83c

Jewel Oil - - Pt. Bot. 30c Qt. Bot. 59c

Octagon Laundry Soap - - - - 2 Lge. Bars 15c

These Prices Effective Thru Sat. March 7th.

A&P Super Markets THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

In Durham —

HARVEY'S CAFTETERIA AND BANQUET SERVICE

Breakfast 6:30 - 9:15
Lunch 11 - 2:30
Supper 5 - 8:05
Special Facilities For All Fraternity & Sorority Funcitions
103 E. MAIN STREET, DURHAM

Carolina Today Only

THE LOVIN'EST MUSICAL IN MANY A MOON!

"On Moonlight Bay"

starring DORIS DAY GORDON MacRAE!

Bay-eautiful babes! Bay-eautiful tunes!!

FROM WARNER BROS. IN COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

SATURDAY

HIGH ADVENTURE! PERILOUS INTRIGUE! FORBIDDEN LOVE!

M-G-M's ROGUE'S MARCH

STARRING PETER LAWFORD · RICHARD GREENE · JANICE RULE

LATE SHOW SATURDAY—SUNDAY—MONDAY

M-G-M's GREAT DRAMA OF DESIRE UNDER FIRE!

Together for the first time HUMPHREY BOGART JUNE ALLYSON

BATTLE CIRCUS

THIS WEEKEND—

Bring your date to

THE NEW UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT

The most comfortable atmosphere in town—imported and domestic beer—unusual snacks after 8:00.

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

FOR SALE: 1948 DELUXE 4-DOOR Chevrolet (black) Telephone 5392 between 5-6 P.M.

WANTED 24

WOULD LIKE TO RENT OR BORrow baby crib for month of March. Call 9-8508. (1-3480 1)

LOST 12

LOST—PINK LADIES BILLFOLD on campus. Contains Valuable papers. REWARD, Call Ann Underwood, Ph. 9-7061. (1 3482 1)

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and mild with 62 high. Yesterday's high, 58; low, 33.

The Daily Tar Heel

RELIGION
Is religion iron-bound? See page two's editorial for the answer.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 110 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, MARCH 8, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

PREMIER MALENKOV, FORMER BOSS STALIN

Stalin Funeral Set; Malenkov Is Chief

MOSCOW—Georgi M. Malenkov took over Premier Josef Stalin's position yesterday and the world awaited action by the man who will set the Red pace in the cold war.

Malenkov's long-time friend and boss will be buried Monday at noontime (4 a.m. EST). The Prime minister's body will be placed beside that of Lenin in Red Square until a great new pantheon — a temple of the gods—can be erected to house them and other Soviet greats. The pantheon will be open to public.

The funeral probably will be the most solemn and extensive ever given a Russian leader. There is no hint what role, if any, religious leaders might play in the ceremonies. All churches have offered public prayer for the deceased Russian leader.

Muscovites and mourning Russians from the surrounding area are expected to fill most of the time from now until the funeral with a 10-mile lineup to see Stalin's body. The funeral will be ended by placing the sarcophagus with Stalin's embalmed body in Lenin's mausoleum. Lenin's preserved body, exposed in a glass casket, has been the shrine of world communism.

Malenkov's promotion left the State Department in the U.S. confused. Not that it wasn't expected, but his ascension confronted State Secretary John Foster Dulles with a major international crisis less than two months after taking office. No one knows Malenkov's views and U.S. observers say that to their knowledge the new Russian premier has never been out of his homeland.

One of the things harped on in Voice of America broadcasts now being beamed into this country and to Red allies, is that the satellite nations won't know for sometime how they stand with the new regime.

Among major changes announced in the Russian hierarchy: V. M. Molotov named as foreign minister. He replaces Andrei Vishinsky who becomes permanent representative to the United Nations.

L. P. Beria, long head of the Soviet political police, was chosen interior minister and head of the Ministry of State Security. (He presumably will head the secret police and Russia's atomic energy program.)

Writer's Meet Scheduled For UNC In May

The tentative program of the three-day North Carolina Editorial Writers' Conference to be held at here May 15-17 was announced yesterday.

H. T. Polk of the Greensboro Daily News and Reed Sarratt of the Hinston-Salem Journal-Sentinel are Conference chairman and program chairman, respectively.

The Conference will open with an informal get together at the Carolina Inn Friday night, May 15. and regular sessions will get underway at 9:30 Saturday morning, May 16, with critique sessions.

At a luncheon on Saturday Alan Barth of the Washington (D.C.) Post staff will speak on "The Contemporary Threat to Intellectual Freedom."

Louis Dey of the Louisville, Ky. Courier-Journal will conduct a clinic on editorial page make-up Saturday afternoon, after which there will be a continuation of the critique sessions.

Harry Golden of the Carolina Israelite will be principal speaker at a dinner session at 7 p.m. Saturday, taking "The Conscience of the Editorial Page" as his subject.

Sunday morning, May 17, will be reserved for summaries of the critiques and conducting necessary business.

The Conference is expected to be divided into four critique groups. Leader will be Pete Ivey of Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel, Pete McKnight of the Charlotte News, Al Resch of the Chatham News, Siler City, and Don Shoemaker of the Asheville Citizen. They will serve as chairmen of their respective groups for discussion of page content, quality of writing and make-up.

Prof Will Talk On Vienna Art

Professor Herbert W. Reichert, of the University German department, will present a paper on "The Nestryo Renaissance: A Current Chapter in the History of the Viennese Theater" at the meeting of the Philological Club Tuesday evening.

The Club meets in the Faculty Lounge of the Morehead Building at 7:30.

Professor Reichert spent the year 1951-52 in Austria doing research on the theater and on the satirist and critic Karl Kraus. He believes that music and the theater in Vienna are making a superb comeback.

Library

Library hours between quarters were announced yesterday. The library will be open during the following hours from Wednesday, March 18, to Wednesday, March 25.

Wednesday: 7:45 a.m. to 5 o'clock p.m. Thursday and Friday: 9 o'clock a.m. to 1 o'clock p.m. Sunday: closed. Monday and Tuesday: 9 o'clock a.m. to 5 o'clock p.m. Wednesday regular hours will be resumed.

NEWS IN BRIEF

RALEIGH—A Senate Judiciary Committee adjourned abruptly yesterday without acting on a motor vehicles inspection bill when a group of newspaper reporters declined a request of the committee chairman that they leave the meeting. The newsmen kept their seats when asked to leave James A. P. Bailey, committee chairman, emphasized that he was asking the serret meeting on his own responsibility. In the meantime, the committee adjourned.

★

DURHAM—Action of the Air Force in suspending plans for the construction of the Air Base at the Raleigh - Durham Airport was announced yesterday. This doesn't, however, mean the project has been cancelled. The $14,838,000 project is one of a number of similar proposed Air Force installations that are being held up by the directive of Defense Secretary Wilson.

★

SEOUL, KOREA—An outnumbered American patrol withstood a withering Communist artillery barrage and fought off a 200-man Chinese attack force on the western front yesterday. The U. S. soldiers, backed up by Allied artillery rushed in at the last minute, smashed the Red attack before it had a chance to get started.

Dedication Of Student Voice To Be Friday

Next Friday night the University contributes another to the already long list of state radio stations when WUNC, the University's student voice, will be formally dedicated.

The dedication will be in the form of a broadcast featuring a 30-minute documentary now being prepared by John Clayton, radio writer - director, for the Communication Center.

A number of prominent guests from the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, including Graydon Ausmus from the University of Alabama, president of the National Association, and Cecil Hoskins, Asheville, president of the North Carolina Association; Chancellor Robert B. House, along with other officials and representatives from 10 southeastern states and the territory of Puerto Rico will be present.

North Carolina's 120th radio station, WUNC is a non-commercial FM outlet which can be received within a radius of 40-50 miles of Chapel Hill at 91.5 on FM dials.

Prose Writing To Be Offered This Summer

The University English Department will offer "Creative Writing in Prose" at the first summer session this year. There will be two hours of class work each day with guest speakers who are professional writers.

Visiting speakers for the course will be Jonathan Daniels, author of "Man of Independence"; Inglis Fletcher, author of "Raleigh's Eden" and the Carolina series; James Street, author of "The Velvet Doublet"; the Mingo Dabney series, and other popular novels.

Miss Jessie Rehder, instructor for the course, is not only a regular member of the English staff but also an author and editorial assistant.

Lazy Days Take Over

Spring came to Chapel Hill yesterday.

Sneaking up on tiptoes tike a coy coed, the season of beach jaunts and laziness whispered its arrival with soft winds. Students relaxing under trees and loafing on campus lawns acknowledged the announcement.

The arrival was a little early this year, so early that many wondered whether it was permanent. Spring is officially to begin March 20.

Beaches in the Carolinas were not so spring-like, though, with temperatures around the high sixties. Meantime in Miami, sunbathers enjoyed temperatures in the near eighties.

Elsewhere things weren't so hot. Snow flurries were expected in the Great Lakes region while the upper Mississippi valley braced itself for snows and icy rains.

But cloud interpretors had kinder words for Carolina—more spring weather. Officially the report for today was "continued cloudy and mild."

Louis Graves Will Speak Tuesday At Faculty Club

Louis Graves, for 30 years editor of the Chapel Hill Weekly and a long time local resident, will speak to the Men's Faculty Club Tuesday.

Graves will speak on "Chapel Hill Review — 1893-1953." The club meets at 1 p.m. at the Carolina Inn every Tuesday.

Jefferson Standard To Award $5,000 In Radio Scholarships

The Jefferons Standard Foundation has established a $5,000 scholarship award to be made available to radio and television students at the University and at State College.

The announcement was made yesterday by Joseph M. Bryan, first vice-president of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company and president of the Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Co.

To be known as the WBT-WBTV Scholarships of the Jefferson Standard Foundation, the awards are valued at $1,250 each. They will be awarded annually with a four-year period of tenure, subject to normal academic progress by the recipient. Should any scholarship be vacated it will be re-awarded to the best qualified applicant in the same academic class as the replaced scholar.

At least one scholarship will be awarded each year.

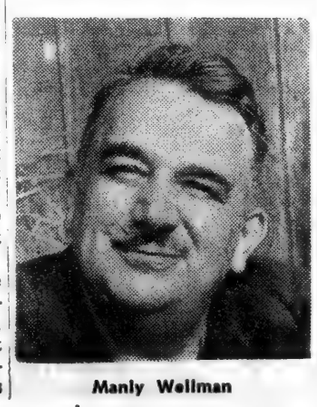
Both men and women, between the ages of 16 and 21, graduates of high schools or preparatory schools in North and South Carolina, and residents of either of the two states who may be graduates of high schools or preparatory schools elsewhere are eligible for the awards.

Scholarship holders will be chosen on the basis of their scholastic record, character and interest in later occupational entry into the fields of radio or television. Relative financial need of candidates will not be considered, except that among those of equal merit in other respects favor will be shown to those having greatest need.

Helps Young Aspirants

Writing Is Very Lonely Job, Says Village Author Manly Wellman

(Manly Wellman, one of the more recent additions to the growing group of writers here, gives his views on writing and Chapel Hill as the place in which to do it.—Ed.)



By Manly Wade Wellman

A good half of my life has been spent here and there, abroad and in a dozen states on the union. The other half of what I hope will be a long, long existence is going to be spent in Chapel Hill; for when I came here, I knew I was home at last.

I am a professional writer. For more than two decades I have made my living by writing and selling stories. Recently I computed that I have finished something like eighteen million words—enough to make a pile of typed sheets 20 feet high.

This has been a lonely job. The profession of writing, whether pursued greatly or pursued modestly, must be done alone. You must shut yourself up with a lot of white paper, and nothing on it, and that's how you write.

Your help and refuge is in yourself. You must make good to yourself, in every paritcular. You must set your own standards, you must decide what your success is to be. Above all, you must remain sanely critical about what you write. That holds true twice as much, after you have arrived anywhere above the lower rungs of the Ladder.

Manly Wellman

Naturally, the environment in which one writes is important, but I think the best place to write is at home. When I was a young man, all the hopeful beginners wanted to go to Paris. Now they want to go to Italy. Many of them went, and those who became writers would have becomewriters anywhere, in spite of the myriad obstacle and dangers besetting the way of such a career .

One does not achieve creative talent by infection, by sitting near a great writerin a sidewalk cafe or at a cocktail party. His talent is within himself, along with a burning wish and will to write, and he must find strength within as well as without to make it work and succeed.

Nothing I have said here is new or brilliant, yet it is amazing how much effort is needed to convince many young hopefuls of its truth.

As for me, I never had a real home before I came to North Caro-

(See WELLMAN, page 4)

Music, Gals Feature Tonight's Big Show

LIZ AND SON — Michael Howard Wilding, born January 6, has made his first public appearance in the arms of his mother, Screen Star Elizabeth Taylor. The proud father is British actor Michael Wilding.—NEA Telephoto.

The Campus Chest, filled with contributions and production pride, will present a musical Variety Show tonight in Memorial Hall at 8:30.

Fourteen numbers and skits have been designed for the show, which is free to Campus Chest donors. Those who have not contributed to the chest fund may do so at the door tonight.

Director Edgar Daniels had some happy words yesterday for tonight's show. He characterized the performers as "doing a great job. Students from almost every residence on campus are being featured throughout the revue. I am extremely pleased with the cooperation."

One of the main dance numbers has Dan Reed dancing the part played by screen star Gene Kelly in "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." Reed is a writer for the Carolina Quarterly.

Reed's dancing girls include Joan Marthis, Diana Whittinghill, Mardi Boyle (featured in "The Inspector General") and a crowd of other girls to help in the interpretation of this slum dance of lust and violence.

"Designed to be a surprise," according to Producer John Taylor, is the First Drama Quartette.

Twelve girls will compete for "Miss Campus Chest" in a beauty contest based on figure. Kathy Dover, a Yack beauty queen; Deenie Schoeppe, Joyce Doughty and Mary Helen Crain are a few of the girls in the contest.

All time hits such as "With a Song in My Heart" and "Bill" put reminiscent appeal to the production. Kris Boldin will sing "Bill" as well as "I Don't Know Why" with special accompaniment by Bob Chenous. Phi Delt Bill Cook will be general accompanist for the show.

Song skit of "Love Is a Simple Thing" will feature Nancy Murray, star of "Princess Ida," Don Carmichael, "Boaty" Boatwright and Jackie Brooks.

The opening and closing scenes, with the entire chorus featured, will use "Another Opening, Another Show" as the intro and "There's No Business Like Show Business" to close.

New Sky Show Goes Into Past

Morehead Planetarium plans to take audiences "12,000 years into the future" with its show by that name beginning Tuesday night at 8:30.

The show will deal chiefly with "the most intriguing of all the earth's motions, 'Precession'." Performances will be given each evening at 8:30, Saturday afternoons at 3 o'clock and Sundays at 3 and 4 o'clock through March 23.

Final showings of "Birth and Death of the Earth" will be given through Monday evening. To date, almost 8,000 visitors have seen this show.

CAMPUS SEEN

Carolina miss to Y Court friend: "And I wrote Daddy and told him exams have been postponed. . . ."

*

Grinning pickaninnies peddling daffodils in front of bank during early morning.

*

Coed, mistaking lipstick for solid cologne and smearing face, arms and neck.

Communications Director Attends TV Conferences

Earl Wynn, Director, University Communication Center who is a member of the national Joint Committee on Educational Television and is Director of Region Two of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, has just returned after attending three conferences as a television consultant.

He served as a consultant at the meeting of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City, N. J,., and the Governor's Conference on Educational Television in Montgomery, Ala., and he addressed a program on "Education Through Television," sponsored by the Junior League of Richmond, Va., in cooperation with the Richmond Area University Center.

At the conferences Wynn represented the Joint Committee on Educational Television which is supported by funds for adult education of the Ford Foundation.

BULLETIN

Carl Snavely, who resigned under pressure in January as Carolina's football coach, has accepted a job as head coach of Washington University in St. Louis, it was announced last night.

No details were available.

German Visitor Has Full Slate While At UNC

Dr. H. H. Walz, a young German lawyer in this country for several weeks to observe American life, particularly in the churches, will speak to several University gathertings the next few days.

Dr. Walz is chairman of the Layman's Work Commission of the World Council of Churches and associate director of the Ecumenical Institute in Switzerland. For the last four years he has lived in Switzerland. His visit here is sponsored by the Inter-Faith Council.

Dr. Walz will spend more time on the Carolina campus than any of the other schools he will visit. While here, his schedule includes:

Tonight at 6 o'clock he will have supper with the student group of the new Presbyterian church, Trinity. At 8 p.m. he will speak to a faculty seminar in the faculty lounge of Morehead Building. His topic will be "Lay Work of Physicians, Lawyers and College Professors in Germany."

Tomorrow he will visit with Chancellor House and at 11 a.m. meet in the YMCA with student chaplains of the local churches. Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall he will give a public address on "Christianity—a Layman's Approach."

Tuesday, Dr. Walz will speak to the religion 45 classes of Dr. Arnold Nash at 10 and 11 a.m. in Caldwell Hall. He will finish his campus tour that night at 7:30 when he speaks to the Law School faculty and students on "The Relations between Christianity and Legal Systems." A question and answer period on German law may follow his talk, to be given in the Law School auditorium.

Educational TV Meeting Slated

Raleigh, March 7—(Special)—A meeting to discuss educational television will be held in the ballroom of the Sir Walter Hotel here Tuesday at 6:30 o'clock with the Jefferson Standard Foundation serving as host.

Invitations to the dinner meeting have been extended members of the General Assembly and their wives, members and wives or husbands of the North Carolina Educational Radio and Television Commission, chairmen of local educational television committees in Asheville, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Wilmington, and present and potential commercial television operators in the State.

Kay Kyser of Chapel Hill will be master of ceremonies for the program following the dinner when kinescopic recordings will be shown and a brief report will be made by the State Educational Radio and Television Commission.

SP Nominations

The Student Party will meet nominations and consider its platter lounges at 8 o'clock to finish nominations and consider its ulatform.

Nominations will include vice-president of the Carolina Athletic Association and men's and women's town legislature seats.

The platform will be submitted to the party for approval, according to Lew Southern, party chairman.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Religion And Change

.. (Editor's Note: Pebley Barrow, former Religion Editor of The Daily Tar Heel, contributes today's editorial.)

When Genesis and geology disagree, nothing is lost save error. Dr. Lightfoot's pronouncement that the creation of the world and man, on the basis of Biblical cchronology, occurred 4004 B.C., October 23, at 9:00 A.M., has been superseded by geology's evidence that the age of the earth is not less than two billion years. Intelligence is grateful for this new truth, which in no way invalidates religion.

Darwinism has had many effects upon men's outlook on life and the world, in addition to the exclusion of purpose. The absence of any sharp line between men and apes is very awkward for theology. When did men get souls? Was the missing link capable of sin and therefore worthy of hell? Did Pithecanthropus erectus have moral responsibility? Was Homo pekingensis damned? Did Piltdown man go to heaven? Any answer to these questions must be arbitrary.

Science, however vaunted its claims, is not wholly neutral on moral issues and questions. One is reminded of certain so-called neutral nations during World War II who although claiming neutrality, when questioned replied "Yes, I know we're neutral—but tell me, which side are we neutral on?" When medical science gives life on one hand and atomic science destroys it, we cannot regard these as wholly neutral acts also the myth of science's neutrality is further exploded by the realization that the individual man is a once scientist and moral being. He may be a father and a scientist, but as one organic whole he cannot escape concern for the welfare of the next genration, nor the consequences of his individual "scientific" acts contributing thereto.

The root of the matter, according to Russell, is a very simple and old fashioned thing—love, Christian love, or compassion.

If you feel this you have a motive for existence, a guide in action, a reason for courage, an imperative necessity for intellectual honesty. If you feel this you will never know the deep despair of those whose life aimless and void of purpose; for there is always something that you can do to diminish the awful sum of human misery.

There are several different attitudes that may be adopted towards the spectacle of intolerable human suffering. If you are a sadist, you may find pleasure in it; if you are completely detached, you may ignore it; if you are a sentimentalist, you may persuade yourself that it is not as bad as it seems; but if you will try to apprehend the evil truly in order to cure it. The sentimentalist will say that you are coldly intellecual and that, if you really minded the sufferings of others, you could not be so scientific about them. The sentimentalist will claim to have a tenderer heart than yours and will show it by letting the suffering continue rather than suffer himself.

That this generation possesses religious values there can be no doubt. At times in high school and college these values become overlaid by the pressure of social conventions. Under the thrill of adventure and new areas and wider ranges of knowledge the older values sometimes, to say the least, became obscured. Newer insights, difficult and sometimes impossible to harmonize with earlier views, yield inattention or indifference to traditional values. Occasionally the newfound freedom rejects the past. When we are young it is easy to take the pendulum swing, especially in religion. Yet in the face of all this, on sympathetic acquaintance and understanding one finds almost invariably deeper currents and concepts essentially religious. There is much truth in Bacon's observation that "a little philosophy inclineth man's mind to atheism, but depth in philosophy bringeth men's minds about to religion."

In such circumstances the student frequently feels himself irreligious. Not necessarily so. Th difficulty is that he has identified his religious life with a set of beliefs, a content of doctrine. He has not yet learned that the content of belief may change while the spirit of religion remains, indeed may deepen. Growth in knowledge means outgrowth, reshaping, renewal, as well as acquisition. Religion is an attitude, a spirit pervasive of outlook and action. The scientist in his laboratory seeking facts; the teacher before his class acknowldging frankly when he does not know, that he does not know; the pupil and teacher alike faithful in the preparation of their work; each is at the same time fundamentally religious.

Religion is not a vague somewhat hovering about or an addendum to normal life; it is a way of living, a spirit sympathetic, understanding, inquiring, devoted, reverent, joyful, and buoyant. We must learn that while values change, value remains. To outgrow religious concepts does not mean irreligion. Once religion was an insurance enterprise against the possibility of future high temperatures. In the change of its character from fire insurance to life assurance, religion has not lost; it has gained ennoblement and life significance.

Sober Thoughts So Early!

From Ken Penegar: "I believe the student body has a right to expect more from its potential leaders than mere name calling, mud slinging, and backbiting. . . . The platforms of the candidates then should be specific, concrete, positive proposals of how the problems should be met. . . . . Since election time is the only time that most of the students come into direct contact with student government and its leaders, it should be a time of intelligent discussion of problems common to all of us as students. . . ."

From Bob Gorham: "We must not cloud this interest (in student government) with an avalance of petty political issues. We shall go to the students and talk with them about their ideas. There are going to be no fancy political theories, instead we are going to emphasize the common sense approach to student government."

These are high-calibre words from both party candidates for the student presidency. It is hard to believe that we could start off a campaign with such statements of policy. We commend Penegar and Gorham. Just one bit of advice: hold to it, men.

The candidates are following the idea emphasized by Adlai Stevenson who "talked sense" to the American people. Stevenson lost the political round, but won the admiration of millions. We feel that both campus presidential aspirants can't lose with this philosophy.

Norman Jarrard

'The Kingdom of the Flesh"

The chief idea underlying the work of Jules Romains (real name Louis Farigoule) is called by him unanimisme; that is, basically, a belief in the actual unity of all forms of life. On the scientific side he has supported this belief with a work call La Vision Extra-retinienne in which he recounted his experiments in creating a visual sense in body cell which are distant from the eyes.

On the fictional side he has supported this belief with that long novel — which must have reached twelve volumes by this time—that has the general title Men of Good Will. Before this, however, he had begun a trilogy which was ultimately published in this country as The Body's Rapture. It is a kind of tour de force which surprises not so much by its success as by its avoidance of failure. It attempts to present the story of a marriage as told alternately by the woman and the man. The middle volume, giving the man's story, is the one I want to talk about today. It has just been published separately as The Lord God of the Flesh (Pocket Book, 145 pp.), translated by John Rodker and with a bad introduction by Lester G. Crocker.

This middle volume is narrated by Pierre Febvre. He takes great pains to show that he wants to give a scientific report of his background, the events leading to his marriage with Lucienne, and, more particularly, of his and Lucienne's recognition of a "kingdom of the flesh" (translated thus). Such a description, especially of a honeymoon, is apt to appear too intellectualized to be convincing. However, the narrator—or should I say Romains—adequately forestalls any such criticism. It is a hard thing he is trying to do and I am willing to allow him the device he chooses, that of having the characters analyse by putting into writing just what is happening to them.

There are some interesting side attractions which come out in the telling of the story. Pierre theorides on women in these Ovidian lines: "Not to ask diminishes one's chance of getting. Even women who from the first have contemplated a possible liaison with no sort of repugnance quickly resign themselves to nothing happening." Of selecting a girl: "My instinct proceeds on the lines of a medical board, the object of which is, as everyone knows, hot the picking out of the finest man in France, but the roping in of every recruit who is not frankly impossible".

The main object of the book seems to be the presentation of what an ideal marriage should be. Both Pierre and Lucienne have greater than ordinary potentialities. Both of them have an intense love of music. It is in this I think we can see the clue to the complete sexual realization of the two, since music appeals to something in us that is basically sexual. The sexual side of the marriage does not represent mere pleasure. What it does represent causes it to fit into the philosophy of unanimisme. It rather belongs to what Pierre calls "a sort of sexual religion, perhaps inherited from the remotest ages, perhaps always being reinvented and reconstructed anew, by such souls as are capable of enduring their ardour and fanning their flame. This religion rests on two main ideas: that the idea of the fusion of bodies constitutes an immense mystery, which far surpasses the ordinary mechanisms of life and borders on the supernatural; and the idea that the adoration of the flesh of the opposite sex, when that has the freshness and magnificence implies in the terms of youth and beauty, is the medium by which men can adore an obscure but real Godhead, hidden in that living flesh, and that the difference in the sexes is employed by that Godhead to offer to each of us a close and material idol."

Congratulations

Editor:

I have read with interest in the Rocky Mount paper of the 60th birthday of The Daily Tar Heel. I wish to congratulate you and other members and the staff for the good job you are doing.

If this office can be of service to any of you at any time, please do not hesitate to call upon us.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely,

L. H. Fountain
Congress of the United States
House of Representatives

"I Can't Help It—It's A Reflex Action"

A.Z.F. Wood, Jr.

Education?

There are two qualities which separate Man from the other beasts, which make him a little something more than an animal: imagination and logic. You put these two together and you have know-how, ingenuity, and conscience.

And both qualities are indispensable. Imagination without logic is desultory like a pitcher with a fast ball and no control. Logic without imagination is unable to see beyond its own nose. It is in a rut, and all that can be done is to reprove the proven, read old tomes, take notes, listen to lectures, and absorb facts and more facts.

Thus for Man to"rise above" the other animals (which he assumes he does by virtue of being born), imagination and logic must be cultured, must be encouraged, must be stimulated.

So it would seem that colleges (and high schools) would try to develop imagination and logic in the students. And the professors steadfastly maintain that they do. Each individual professor asserts that, with a few exceptions, professors are very broadminded, and the thought that he himself is not interested or broadminded or stimulating never entered his head.

Well, what about it?

Do the majority of college professors encourage originality and imagination or do they quash it out and browbeat the student into conformity and conventionality?

Are the majority of college professors open-minded and lively or do they preach sanctification of the past and utter contentment of the status quo?

Do the majority of college professors encourage class participation and originality of thought or do they lecture for fifty minutes in a dull monotone while the students take notes like machines, not thinking about what is being said, and then rewrite their notes on quizzes like parrots?

Do the majority of college professors combine imagination and logic and come up with something new or do they merely reiterate what textbooks have said and convey (if they're good) the ideas of people long since dead who had different problems to consider?)

Do the majority of college professors consider the 'why' of things and try to use old ideas for contemporary problems or do they study and teach the old ideas and historical facts for their own sake?

The American people are bored to death. They are bored with schools. They are bored with their jobs. They are bored with their wives and their children. They are just bored period.

Americans have a reputation for being a scientific and technologically-minded people. We've got more telephones, more automobiles, more radios, more trains, more refrigerators, more airplanes, more telegraph poles than anybody else in the world.

So the American people, in an attempt to assuage their boredom, are going to put their gadget-happy minds to work. They split the atom and make it into a bomb to kill people. They invent T.V. They make high-powered automobiles and jet planes and record players that turn the records and three-dimensional movies and radar. And this is scientific ingenuity. This is imagination. But it is frustrated imagination, distorted imagination, disproportionate imagination, and there is no logic.

In the field of human relations, we have sociology and economics and political science and statistics and cross sections and diverse religions and the proven is reproved and there is no imagination and thus no progress.

So, on the one hand, we have imagination running off in all directions and logic running in place. The two must be united and integrated for real progress. This integration, the encouragement and smtiulation of both, is the job of the schools and teachers. Itis their most important job and, so far, I think they have failed miserably.

There is only one way to drive a car—the right way, all others lead to—death, disaster and large repair bills.

English Club

Freedom vs. Utility, No. 1

In the introductory paper of this series by the English Club, we stated that the motive for our presenting the series and the DTH editor's motive in accepting the series was a belief in the ability of the humanities to contribute something of value to the university community. Perhaps we have been at times too facetious, and at others too satiric. No one of us or group of us can be held in account for the doings of another.

But from time to time we would like to say a little more about this ability of the humanities (a vague term more than once bandied about) to contribute something of value to civilization. In the second article of this series one of us approached this subject by way of a discussion of A. Z. F. Wood's dissatisfaction with Herman Melville. "The Function of the study of the humanities is not to teach a man to solve a contemporary problem, but to equip him to lead a rich contemporary life." This is a generalization and serves its function well, although like all generalizations it can be made to appear pompous.

Soon after, an editorial appeared in The Daily Tar Heel (Feb. 8) which helped to make specific part of what "Clio" said. "If the present trend away from simple understanding of history, English, sciences, and languages is continued, this university will produce chemists, teachers, bankers, doctors, and personnel managers who do not know nor see the reason for knowing the meaning of treason, voting, history of Western Civilization, international communication, or John Milton . . . the kind of knowledge each of us so desperately needs in order to defend without force of arms all that we hold dear. In brief, we will be lacking in the technically useless but democratically necessary qualities required to have a critical mind and be an enlightened citizen."

This is only part of a clarification of the phrase "a rich contemporary life," the more concrete, practical part. Many of us would probably agree that this kind of knowledge is necessary to fulfill the responsibilities of the society we live in today. All of us would agree that there is more to living than treason, voting, Western Civilization, communication, or Milton, as vital as they may be. These are only the bare necessities, and the list might be extended. But a great deal more, I feel, is significant about languages and literatures than this list. We would like to speak of the humanities, especially literary expression and the higher studies of it, in other terms than practical citizenship in our next appearance.

Yr Mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,

PANDARUS

Alice Chapman

We Think We Got Troubles?

And we think we've got troubles. . . .

Never, even under a six-day system could we face the situation that exists at Mississippi University.Last fall the University adopted the five-day week amid no tears from faculty, students, or rusty trustees.

The resulting class schedule has turned even Phi Betes into raging idiots. To squeeze in enough hours some classes meet two consecutive days at a certain hour, then skip a day and meet at a different hour. Other popular and necessary courses are taught at one hour only. Once in the class of their choice, students aren't sure that it will meet in the same place it did the last time.

Pleas have been issued by frantic students to the "schedule arrangers" to devise a less taxing system.

Now we turn to the sad case of the students who didn't want a bigger stadium. They passed petitions in the field house, the halls of the dorms, the fraternity houses, the union, and other happy hangouts. They wanted the Board of Supervisors to reject all bids for enlargement of the stadium. Who are these peculiar students? The LSU student body. And why all the fuss? Well, its just too expensive and an unnecessary extravagance.

From the pages of the Cavalier Daily, voice of the Virginia campus, comes a solution to our UP vs SP controversy. This school has but one party—the University Party. Instead of being satisfied that their campus is free of two-party campaigning, the Virginians cry that there is no opposition—no controversy.

Northwestern deans and administration officials cast their votes for or against sin.

The group is to decide whether the Technolog, department humor magazine, will be left on earth or sent to hell. The purity and sweet wholesomeness of the engineers hangs in the balance. The student newspaper wonders if the deans areactually going to treat sin as a controversial question. Maybe Northwestern should send this question to the student body to spice up spring elections.

Thanks to Mr. Umstead

Editor's note: At the request of Ham Horton were print his letter to Representative John Umstead, a member of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees.

Dear Mr. Umstead:

On behalf of Student Govern- please allow me to express our ment and the entire student body, thanks to you for your excellent help in the fight against Saturday classes.

Your advice, suggestions, and work in contacting others contributed more than any other factors to the strength of our vote in the Board of Trustees meeting. I think that the closeness of the vote was clearly indicative of your fine work.

The other members of Student Government here join me in expressing again our appreciation of your work, both present and past, on behalf of the entire student body of Carolina.

Hamilton C. Horton, Jr.
Student President

A light head behind the wheel, and a heavy foot on the accelerator, are God's gift to the undertaker.

Deacons Dethrone State, 71-70, After Six Years

Down In Front

by Biff Roberts

Good For What Ails You

WHAT WOULD HAVE BEEN one of the best prescriptions for the health of Southern Conference basketball got poured down the drain Friday night at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh when N. C. State rallied to beat West Virginia in the semi-finals of the annual Conference tournament. It seemed for 35 minutes of the game that the Mountaineers might be just what the doctor ordered. For the past six years teams had tried to keep the Wolfpack from winning the tourney, but for the past six years the Wolfpack had done just that. The Mountaineers came the closest to accomplishing the objective but the terrific power, the luck, and the setting were too much for West Virginia. Like so many teams have done in the past, the Mountaineers finally bowed to the overpowering forces of a good team and its home floor.

It was, to say the least, a heart-breaking game for the Mountaineers to lose. It marked the second straight year that they had suffered a close loss. Last year Duke edged them in the semi-finals on a basket as the buzzer sounded and after an apparent foul against the Blue Devils had not been called. They were a disappointed crew when they left the floor, some of the players hiding their faces in towels. They had every reason to feel disappointed—but certainly not humiliated.

An Obsession For Possession

It looked for awhile in the night's first game that Maryland's theory that possession is nine tenths of the ball game would pay off again. The Terps had Wake Forest all but sent to the showers when the three minute rule went into effect. Maryland is usually the kind of team, when it has a lead with only three minutes to go and two shots awarded for every foul thereafter, that can hold on and win. But the Deacons grabbed up two quick mistakes and made the advancement to the finals.

It seemed that Maryland might win it in the last eight seconds. Calling time out after the final Deacon basket, the Terps got the ball on the out-of-bounds play at mid court. The ball was passed around twice and then sent to Gene Shue, whose 40 points for the night set a new record, on the left side. He dribbled slowly to his right, then switched his field, and drove in for a crip. His shot had too much angle, however, and big Dickie Hemric came down with it as the buzzer sounded.

A Shue In

TOURNAMENT NOTES — This Shue is as good a ball player as you'll see. Only a junior, he hit for 33 against Duke and then 40 against Wake Forest. Many fans were pulling for Maryland against he missed getting the all-Southern Conference team is amazing to me except that North and South Carolina writers carry so much weight in the voting and Carolina was the only team to play Maryland down this way. It was pleasing to see Shue get a berth on the tourney team last night . . . Richmond Coach Les Hooker, whose young Spiders lost in the first round to the Deacs, says the best three players in the Conference are Shue, Frank Selvy of Furman, and Bill Chambers of William and Mary—he might have a point . . . Bud Millikan, coach of Maryland, was sitting press side after his team's loss and explained the difficulty of scheduling the other three members of the Big Four. Seems some of them don't want to come to Maryland and as he put it, "One of them won't play us because of the way we play." I don't imgaine either Duke or Wake Forest will be too anxious to play the Terps again . . . I liked West Virginia's Coach Red Brown's comment when asked of his chances before the semi-final game. In reply to a query as to whether he thought his team could win the tournament or not he answered slyly, "Let's say that if we were playing the tournament at Morgantown (the Mountaineers' home grounds) we'd have a good chance of winning it."—which just about answers for all of the visiting coaches. The home floor means a lot.

Wake Forest Leads Pack Most Of Game

By Biff Roberts

REYNOLDS COLISEUM, Raleigh, March 7 — North Carolina State's monotonous monopoly of Southern Conference backetball came to an end here tonight as Wake Forest's indefatiguable trust busters broke the Wolfpack down to win this 32nd annual conference tournament, 71-70.

Given little chance before the game started because of their shortage of reserves, the Deacons held a slight lead through most of the game, lost it for a few moments early in the fourth quarter, and then came back to end a State-dominated eourney which went back for the past six years.

The Deacons led at every rest period, but with 8:30 to go in the final quarter, State's reserve guard Eddie Morris hit on a set and it looked as if that State jinx was on again.

That made it 60-59 in State's favor and in the next three minutes the Wolfpack ran the margin to 65-60.

But then little Bill Lyles, who had not made a field goal the entire game, started hitting on his deadly set shots and Wake Forest tied it back up at 65-65.

Blackjack Williams added a free throw and the Deacs were out front by one. They again got the ball when Bill Kukoy of State was called for walking and went into a freeze with only 2:30 to go.

It was free throw for free throw from there out with the Deacons always able to hold that one point edge. They kicked the lead to 68-65 at one time in fact, but then State dropped it back to 68-67 on two free throws.

Williams dropped a charity with a minute and a half to go but Yurin matched him to keep it at 69-68. Lyles hit another and Williams got one more as State fouled in its desperate fight for the ball.

The Pack seemed completely out of the game now with only 33 seconds to go and the Deacs ahead 71-68, but Yurin hit two more free throws with 26 seconds left.

Then Wake's John DeVos missed two tosses and State came up with the ball with only 10 seconds to go. But a wild throw put the ball in Dickie Hemric's hands. He passed off, but again the ball was fumbled.

Big Bobby Speight grabbed the loose ball and dashed down the floor only to be thwarted as the buzzer sounded before he reached the basket.

That was the ball game. For the Deacons it was their first Southern Conference championship and one well won. They had hard tilts with Richmond and Maryland before reaching the finals. It was definitely a team victory for the Deacs.

Wake Forest	fg	ft	pf	tp
Lyles, g	2	4	0	8
Williams, f	4	9	4	17
George, f	2	2	5	6
DeVos, g	0	0	1	0
Davis, f	0	2	0	2
Hemric, c	5	6	3	16
Deporter, g	5	4	5	14
Lipstas, g	2	4	5	8
TOTALS	20	31	23	71
State	fg	ft	pf	tp
Tyler, f	2	6	4	10
Gotkin, g	0	0	0	0
Scheffel, g	2	1	5	5
Kukoy, f	1	0	2	2
Speight, f	3	6	4	12
Applebaum, g	1	1	5	3
Yurin, g	0	3	0	3
Thompson, c	9	8	4	26
Goss, c	0	3	0	3
Morris, g	1	0	3	2
Knapp, f	1	2	3	4
TOTAL	20	30	30	70

Tar Heel Baseball Team Opens 22 Game Schedule In Winter Park, Fla.

Director of Athletics C. P. (Chuck) Erickson has released a 22 - game baseball schedule for the University of North Carolina.

The Tar Heels open the slate at Winter Park, Fla., March 20 facing Rollins College. The first home game of the season is slated for Emerson Field on April 3 with Clemson College coming here.

Big Four activity for the Tar Heels starts April 7 with N. C. State invading Emerson Field.

Coach Bunn Hearn has several of last year's stars returning, including Co-Captains Chal Port and Wayne White. Other returnees include Bob Henning, Joe Pazdan, Bill Lore, Bruce Holt, Harry Lloyd, Albert Long, Connie Gravitte, Edgar Hooks, John Stowe, Don Marbry and Joe Morgan.

The schedule:

March 20, 21, 23—Rollins at Winter Park, Fla.

March 27 — Michigan State at Camp Lejeune.

March 28 — Michigan State at Camp Lejeune.

April 3—Clemson at Chapel Hill.

April 4—Furman at Chapel Hill.

April 7—N. C. State at Chapel Hill.

Aril 10—South Carolina at Columbia, S. C.

April 11—Citadel at Charleston, S. C.

April 13—Davidson at Davidson.

April 15—Wake Forest at Wake Forest.

April 18—Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.

April 21—Duke at Chapel Hill.

April 23 — Davidson at Chapel Hill.

April 25—Wake Forest at Wake Forest.

April 28—N. C. State at Chapel Hill.

April 30—Duke at Chapel Hill.

May 2—N. C. State at Raleigh.

May 5—Wake Forest at Chapel Hill.

May 9—Duke at Durham.

Coaches Want Revision Of Tourney Plans

RALEI GH, March 7—(Special)—Southern Conference basketball coaches want the pretournament regulations further defined so that the four seeded teams will know in advance when their first round games will be playel.

The Coaches' Association today recommended to the Conference Basketball Committee that it set up the following schedule of play: 2 p.m.—Team No. 3 vs No. 6; 4 p.m.—No. 2 vs No. 7; 7:30—No. 1 vs No. 8; 9:30—No. 4 vs No. 5.

As it is now outlined, only the actual first round pairings follow a prescribed pattern. The team finished first over the regular conference season plays No. 8; No. 2 meets No. 7, No. 3 plays No. 6, and No. 4 faces No. 5.

The coaches do not want to disturb that formula. All they want is to advance the rule an additional step and assign permanent starting times to the games, rather than leave them to chance or to the discretion of the Basketball Committee.

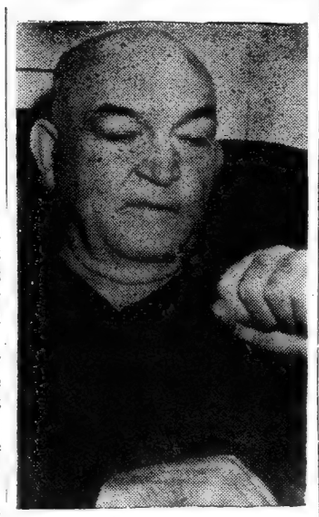
Everett Case, North Carolina State coach, asked, "What's the advantage of finishing first if you get no particular benefit? Last year we finished second and this year we finished second and this year we finished first, but each time we played the 9:30 first round game. By the time my boys had dressed and eaten and bedded down it was 1:30 a.m."

West Virginia's Red Brown agreed. "We've fiinshed second, first and fourth in our three years in the Conference but we've opened the tournament with a 2 o'clock game every year."

Bill Rhinhart, George Washington coach and a member of the Basketball Committee, said that he was in agreement that a permanent regulation was in order. The recommendation will be passed on to the committee for further action.

Eddie Cameron, Duke athletic director and long-time head of the Basketball Committee, said earlier it was the feeling of his group that the top-seeded teams had gained any needed edge by virtue of its automatic pairing, but that his committee was open to suggestions.

The coaches voted to continue housing the tournament basketball teams in the N. C. State College dormitories with the opinion that a school desiring to quarter its squad in a hotel make its own arrangement and receive only the usual expense reimbursement.



Maryland's Bub Millikan and West Virginia's Red Brown had previously expressed the opinion that the teams should be put up in hotels to give the boys a "big week," since it was the two coaches' feeling that the players were responsible for the success of the tournament.

The coaches voted to recommend to the committee that the Conference be divided for basketball purposes into Northern and Southern divisions and follow the baseball patterns.

The nine North and South Carolina schools would form the Southern group, with the eight others making up the Northern end.

Each team would be required to play a home and home series with every other member of the division. The four top clubs of each division would qualify for the tournament. The coaches made the identical recommendation two years ago but nothing ever came of the suggestion.

Case had recommended a plan dating the teams based on their standings the previous year, with 17 points being awarded to a team playing last year's winner, etc. The coaches will probably discuss this plan further.

FORMER CHAMPION SUCCumbs—James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion of the world, died at his Burbank, Cal., home or a heart attack. He is shown here on his 72nd birthday, showing the fist that carried him to the title in 1899.

Lacrosse Team

The Lacrosse team will begin formal practice tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. All persons interested in playing are requested to check out equipment from the supply room between 1 and 3:30. No experience is necessary.

The first game is with Williams here on the 2nd of April. Co-captains of this year's team are Lew Floyd and Walt Ernst.

DANZIGER'S

TODAY'S MENU

Mr. "D's" Famous Onionsoup with crouton and grated cheese .. $.30
Homemade Cream of Mushroom-soup ..... $.20
French wine herring on lettuce, with hard boiled egg, onions, potato salad, olives, pickles and tomato ..... $.75
Chicken Salad Eclair on shredded lettuce with tomato, hard boiled egg, olives, potato chips ..... $.85
Shrimp Creole en casserole with steamed rice, gravy, lettuce, tomato and vegetable ..... $.85
German Sauerbrauten with gravy, dumplings and vegetable ... $1.10
Westren Prime Roastbeef, French Fries, two vegetables, salad $1.65
Wiener Schnitzel with potato salad, two vegetables, lettuce and tomato $1.25
Swiss Steak with eggnoodles, vegetables and salad ..... $.85
Hungarian Beef Goulash with potatoes and vegetable $1.10
Gardenfresh Mushrooms in meatbasket with two vegetbles, salad $.85
Czech Meatroulade with sour cream and two vegetables ..... $.85
Baked Ham with candied yams, pineapple, vegetable and salad $1.25
Roasted Chicken with potatoes and vegetable ..... $.90

. . . Your choice served with bread, butter and salad

There are no Clothes Dryers in Korea!

HASTILY strung telephone wires serve the additional purpose of supporting this American soldier's rudely washed clothes as they "freeze dry" on a snowy Korean hillside. It all looks like a rugged life, doesn't it? And soldiering is.

But it's something that some of us have to do to keep America militarily strong and safe. It's true, we don't all have to serve in uniform. But there is something important every one of us can do. That's to help keep our country economically secure—by investing in United States Defense Bonds. For by Bonds and other forms of saving, we are building up not only our own personal security, but the security and the strong economy of America. And we all know, now, that peace is only for the strong.

Why don't you join the millions who invest in Bonds regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work? It's one sure way to save—because it saves something out of every check before you have a chance to spend it.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan today where you work. Or invest through the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank. Help your country and yourself to a secure future—by saving your money through Bonds.

HERE'S HOW E BONDS NOW EARN MORE MONEY FOR YOU!

Now safe, sure U. S. Series E Defense Bonds pay an even better return than ever before . . . thanks to 3 brand new money-earning features announced by the U. S. Treasury.

1 Now every Series E Bond you get earns 3% compounded semiannually, when held to maturity.

2 Every Series E Bond you own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date—without your lifting a finger!

3 During the 10-year extension period, every unmatured Bond earns at the new, higher interest (average 3% compounded semiannually).

Start now! Invest more savings in better-paying Series E Bonds—through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Peace is for the strong. For peace and prosperity save with U. S. Defense Bonds!

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, the Adv ising Council and

The Daily Tar Heel

Wilmington Features Golf, Azaleas On Annual Weekend

People coming to see the Fifth Annual Azalea Open Golf Tournament, which will be held in Wilmington April 2 through 5, needn't think that "all" they will get to see will be serious "for blood and money" golfing although there will be plenty of that.

The duffer will be able to get some consolation from happenings like Milton Marusic five-putting the tenth green as he did last year. Yet that same duffer will be able to marvel at this same golfer the next eight holes in seven under par. Yes, that's exactly what Marusic did. After being one over par on the front nine with a 37, he turned in a fine sub-par 32 on the back to remain in contention for the top money-winning spot.

The spectators sometimes can get into the act like the time Cary Middlecoff lost his ball and could not find it despite the fact that he and his gallery were searching for it.

The thrills at an event like this come often and usually unexpected like Eddie Johnson's hole-in-one on the par three 157 yard tenth hole. Eddie was playing in his tourney since turning pro. Stepping up to the tenth tee, he hit a crisp seven iron shot which hit a short distance in front of the cup, bounced past and was pulled back into the hole by the backspin.

This hole-in-one is the one and only one ever fired in the Azalea Open, but don't be surprised if it happens again, Anything can happen when you get so many top-flight golfers together on one golf course.

Just Received

Shipment OF NEW

Palm Beach SUITS & SLACKS FOR "53"

Many new shades to choose from including charcoal Grey. Come early for best selections.

THE Sport SHOP

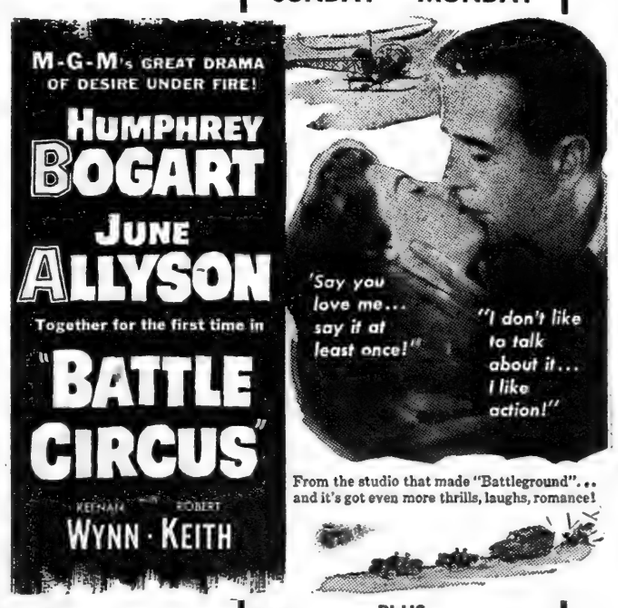
N. COLUMBIA ST.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

PROUDLY INVITES YOU

TO LISTEN TO

GILBERT HIGHET



Critic and Author of "The Classical Tradition"

Each Monday At 4:30

ON STATION WCHL

Carolina

SUNDAY — MONDAY

PLUS

CARTOON — NEWS

Civil Service Lists Exams For Two Jobs

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced a new examination for patrol inspector (trainee) in the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

These positions, which pay $3,795 a year, are located in various cities and towns in the vicinity of the land borders and certain coastal areas of the southwestern part of the United States.

To qualify for these positions applicants must pass a written test and may be required to report for an oral interview. They must be in good physical condition and must be between the ages of 21 and 35 (45 for persons entitled to veteran preference).

Another examination for counseling psychologist (vocational rehabilitation and education) for filling positions paying from $5,940 to $7,040 a year in Veterans Administration regional offices which are located throughout the United States and in Puerto Rico will be given. Applications are available at the post office.

CARROLL TO ATTEND

Thomas H. Carroll, Dean of the School of Business Administration of the University, will take part in a two-day meeting of insurance officials and business administration school heads tomorrow and Tuesday at Hartford, Conn.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Life Insurance Agency Management Association, a research organization supported by 237 life insurance companies in the U. S., Canada and thirteen foreign countries. This is the third annual Deans' meeting to be held by the LIAMA.

Specials For MONDAY

RAYON

LIN EN SLACKS

$5.95

Bills Mailed Home

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

In Your Church

By Tom Neal Jr.

Baptist

Dr. Samuel Tilden Habel, pastor will preach at 11 o'clock this morning on "Stand on Something and Reach Up!" at the Baptist Church.

Directed by Miss Lena Mae Williams, the Chancel Choir will sing the anthem, "Go Not Far from Me, O God." Tonight at 6 o'clock, John Colson, Baptist Student Union president, will lead a discussion on the authorship and chronology of the New Testament at the BSU supper. Meals cost 50 cents.

This morning at Sunday School, Dr. Preston Epps will answer questions concerning Isiah II.

Episcopal

The schedule at the Episcopal Chapel of the Cross for today: 8 a.m.—Holy Communion with Bishop Edwin A. Penick officiating. There will be corporate communion of all those whom the bishop has confirmed.

9:45—Student discussion group at Lenoir Hall.

11 — Confirmation service and sermon by Bishop Penick.

6 p.b.—Canterbury Club will meet with the Rev. Peter C. Robinson of Sanford speaking on "Christian Obligations."

8:30 — Thirty-minute evening prayer service and brief address.

Bishop Penick is a former vice-president of the North Carolina Council of Churches and is now president of the Fourth Province of the Episcopal Church.

Catholic

The Newman Club will meet this afternoon at 5:30 in Lenoir Hall, second floor. The series of lectures on courtship and marriage will be resumed. Father Weidinger will lead the discussion.

Mass is celebrated daily in Gerrard Hall at 7:20 a.m. Confessions are heard there on Saturday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Mass on Sunday is also in Gerrard, at 8 and 9:30 a.m.

Jewish

This afternoon at 3:30 in Hill Hall the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation will present its third annual festival of Jewish music.

A special feature of the program will be the synagogical cantailation of Cantor Aaron Earl Miller. He will illustrate how readings from the Pentateuch and from other writings are chanted today, and how the traditional tunes attempted to describe both the contest of a book and the season during which it is read.

The Women's Glee Club under the direction of Joel Carter will sing four numbers typical of various aspects of Jewish Music. The public is invited.

Wellman Finds Honest, Sane Atmosphere Of Chapel Hill Is The Best Place For Writing Books

(Continued from page 1)

lina. I was born abroad, of American ancestry going all the way back to colonial Virginia. I came to America as a boy, I spent years here and years there. I began to write and sell as a university student, and during the depression I geban to give all my time to writing. I lived in big towns and small, never wholly at peace.

This First Real Home

One day I came to North Carolina. I was on my way through, pursuing some research material. But I stopped off. Then I came back. And here I am, and here I stay.

Long before that, I had wondered about where I would decide to live and write. I don't think I knew what I wanted, but I knew what I didn't want, and that was what they call a writers' colony. There are many such. Almost none of them is really honest and good, despite the presence of some real reputations. The communit yalways lacks a real intellectual honesty and kindness. The great mass of writers' colony doesn't care about writing or the arts or the mind and the spirit.

I submit that such is not the case in Chapel Hill. It isn't the sort of town where you have only what you brought with you, as an artic explorer freights in his own food and clothing and fuel. Great men and women, of established reputation and performance in the arts, are glad to live in Chapel Hill; but other great men and women can find their greatness here. It is the town that wakens and teaches and sends out the Thomas Wolfes and Paul Greens and Max Steeles. And that is because of the town itself, and the people of the town.

Finds Chapel Hill Neighborly

Nobody producing in the arts should need a little local audience to tickle his ego, or to form a worshipping half-dozen to prop him up. but there must be neighborly approval and understanding. One can get recognition abroad for the excellence of his work; but it is his own community, his own friends and neighbors, who must love him and know and approve his humanity.

I have said that a writer works as the most lonely of men; but the loneliness must stop when he has finished what he has written. It must be read by throngs. Books are not for writers or critics, but for readers, and the best of them are immortal because they have been accepted by the human race.

Honest, Sane Atmosphere

Because a writer, being an outlaw and living by his wits, so to speak, must have shelter. He finds it in a place like Chapel Hill. He can exist here with his guard down. He isn't expected to be something superhuman or inhuman or subhuman. There is a kindly tolerance of his hungry search for the great values and stimuli. It is beautiful in Chapel Hill. Man's works have not oppressed nature too much .It is quiet when you want it quiet, it can be lively when you want that. Best of all, it is honest and sane.

There is inspiration for the young thinker and dreamer, who has reached out beyond his fingertips and touches the tools of a creative craft. I doubt if anyone but another writer knows how glad writers are, and how proud and hopeful, when they see a young potential talent begin to go to work.

Young Writers Helped

There is no anxiety in my profession about a possible new competitor. There's too much joy in that young writer coming along, meeting the same adventures and solving the same problems as the rest of us. It is one of the supreme joys of a writer's life to help someone who needs and wants help. That is one of the thousand wonders of Chapel Hill, the spectacle of youngsters who want to write. Some of them will write, and make us proud that we helped by advice or faith or just good humor.

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop

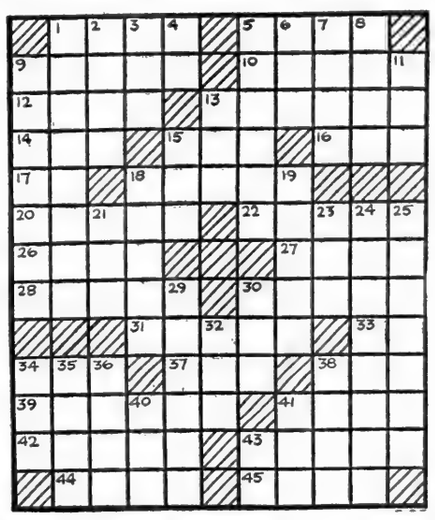
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

OPEN EVENINGS

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Exclamation
5. Missile weapon
9. Runs together, as words
10. Mountains (Russ.)
12. Story
13. Projecting rim
14. Shield
15. Paper sack
16. Man's nickname
17. Sun god
18. Of hearing
20. European country
22. Cook, as meat, in an oven
26. For fear that
27. Make cake
28. Literary composition
30. Disclosed
31. Stream
33. Man's nickname
34. Distress signal
37. Wooden pin
38. Shoshonean Indian
39. Elude
41. Always
42. Slant
43. People of the nobility
44. Was obligated
45. Exclamation of sorrow



DOWN

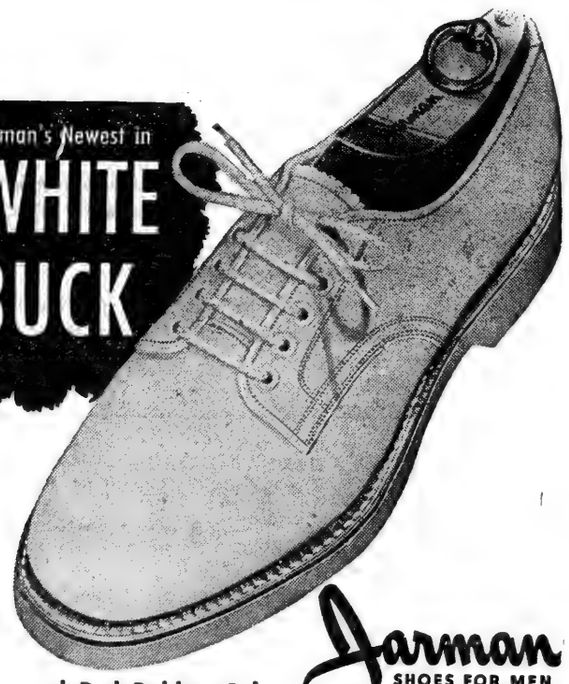
1. Appeases
2. Feathers from a Hawaiian bird
3. Before
4. Weather station (abbr.)
5. A Bulgarian
6. Openings (anat.)
7. Disembark
8. Seaweed
9. Not contaminated
11. Coin (Jap.)
13. Distant
15. Purchase
18. Place of worship
19. Of lobes
21. Beast of burden
23. Swiss river
24. Mosquitoes (colloq.)
25. Grass spreading machines
29. Barked
30. Beseech
32. Letter of the alphabet
34. Southeast by south (abbr.)
35. Capital (Nor.)
36. Boat
38. Layer of the iris
40. Mimic
41. Lamprey
43. Father

2-20

Yesterday's Answer

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE • 6B



FOR SALE: 1948 DELUXE 4-DOOR Chevrolet (black Telephone 5392 between 5-6 P.M. (P3479-4)

FOR SALE—GOLF CLUBS. HAVE new set (4) of Walter Hagen Woods all-weather grips. Must sell—will sacrifice. Call 96217—lunch time or supper time.

PONY 828 CAMERA WITH FLASH Bulbs, tripod, sunshade, $55 value —will sell for $30. 1936 Ford Tudor, Hydraulic brakes, 1940 motor, twin carburators, and electric fuel pumps. Call Bob Suttle, 9-9011. (1-13483-1)

★ ★ ★ ★

Jarman's Newest in WHITE BUCK

...and Red Rubber Soles for Smart Style and Extra Comfort

Jarman SHOES FOR MEN

Frosty white buck upper leather, underscored by a soft, deep-yielding red rubber sole, gives you comfort spelled out in smart style. It's the national campus favorite. Come by today and discover for yourself the superb comfort of Jarman "friendliness of fit."

Town & Campus

Miss Carmichael Talks

Dean of Women Katherine Carmichael spoke last week in Hillsboro at a dinner meeting of county principals. She spoke on the opportunities of the Fulbright program which she studied under in the Philippines last year. She illustrated her talk with some colored slides.

Call For John Thorp

John Thorp, a senior from Rocky Mount, has been appointed campus representative for Philip Morris cigarrets. Campus organizations interested in obtaining sample cigarrets should contact Johnny at the Zeta Psi house.

Travel Agency To Close

The Travel Agency will close Thursday at 3 p.m. and will not reopen until Spring Quarter begins. Anyone needing the agency's services, which are free, are asked to contact the agency, located in Graham Memorial, before Thursday.

World Relatedness Commission

The YMCA World Relatedness Commission will meet at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the Y office. Chairman Les Eason said "important plans regarding the Spring Quarter program" will be discussed.

Interested in Europe?

Taylor H. Sanford Jr., a junior at Wake Forest, is planning a summer trip to Europe and wants other college students to accompany him. He plans to leave about May 28. Interested students may contact him by writing to Drawer 31, Wake Forest.

WUNC Today, Tomorrow

Today's and tomorrow's schedule for WUNC, a noncommercial FM radio station operated by the University with a frequency of 91.5 mc. and a power of 1450 watts:

Sunday:

7 p.m.—Sunday Show Time.
7:30—The Musicians' Comments.
7:45—Let There Be Light.
8—The University Hour.
8:30—University of Chicago Roundtable.
9—The Symphony Hour.
9:45—News and coming events.
10—An evening masterwork.

Tomorrow's schedule:

7 p.m.—Stories 'n Stuff.
7:30—Adventures in Research.
7:45—Songs of France.
8—The People Act.
8:30—Voices of Europe.
9—British Concert Hall.
10—News and coming events.
10:45—An evening masterwork.

The Perfect Honeymoon doesn't "just happen"

YOU must plan it. You'll want privacy, in beautiful surroundings, enticing meals (breakfast until 11:00), varied recreation of your own choosing, and companions you like: other collegians, starting life together, like yourselves. Write to America's unique haven for newlyweds only. Mention dates, and we'll include our helpful "THREE HONEYMOON PLANS."

THE FARM ON THE HILL

Swiftwater 86, Pa.

Better Bone Up With A College Outline From THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

PEPSI-COLA

DURHAM PEPSI - COLA BOTTLING CO.

305 South St. Durham

Relationship Of Christianity To Politics To Be Conference Topic

What is the relation of Christian faith to political life? This is the question college students will consider at the Meet-your-Government seminar March 22-24 in Washington.

Students who attend the seminar, sponsored by the National Student Council of the YMCA, will be informed on the problems confronting federal department, Congress, and the Supreme Court. Participants in the seminar will talk with top-policy makers in the State and Labor Departments and Federal Security Agency, observe congressional hearings and interview Supreme Court justices.

The total cost of the seminar, which begins Sunday, March 22, at 9 a.m. and ends March 24 at 5 p.m., will approximate $20. Housing will be provided.

Anyone interested in attending the seminar is asked to see John Riebel in the YMCA office or Alva Stewart in 117 Cobb Dorm.

An exhibition by the Art Department faculty of Woman's College opened yesterday and will run through March 29.

Included in the show are watercolors, oil paintings, fabrics, silk screen prints and sculpture.

Henry Issacson was elected president of Hillel Foundation in elections held this past week. Issacson, who succeeds Saralyn Bonowitz, is a sophomore from Greensboro.

Other officers elected were Gary Levinson, Gastonia, vice-president; Art Barbabell, New York, treasurer and Howard Zerdon, treasurer.

without advertising

you wouldn't know about the many improvements in products!

The Daily Tar Heel

THEY WANT TO GIVE EVERYTHING THEY'VE GOT ...TO THEIR COUNTRY!

(but their country wants to give it right back!)

A romantic riot that'll win all the medals...for hilarity...it's Roz and Paul and Marie in laugh-loaded spree!

FREDERICK BRISSON presents

Rosalind Russell
Paul Douglas
Marie Wilson

in

"NEVER WAVE AT A WAC"

RKO RADIO

with WILLIAM CHING • ARLEEN WHELAN • LEIF ERICKSON • HILLARY BROOKE

Produced by FREDERICK BRISSON • Directed by NORMAN Z. McLEOD • Screenplay by KEN ENGLUND

Varsity

TODAY and MONDAY

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and mild with 62 high. Yesterday's high, 58; low, 33.

The Daily Tar Heel

PLENTY
Yes, there's a lot of it, that report on p. 2. But there's a lot to be learned

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 111 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

A UNIVERSITY STUDENT WAS KILLED and a coed injured early Sunday morning when the 1950 Buick (above) in which they were riding left the highway as they were returning from Hogan's Lake. The car overturned several times. Jerry Galanides of Norfolk died at the hospital here several hours after the accident. His companion, Jessemine Gant of Burlington, received no injuries. State Highway Pfc. E. S. Robinson estimated the car traveled 177 feet after it left the Hillsboro highway (N.C. 86) and hit a pile of stones.—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

Two Taken In Fleece This A.M.

Ed Stevens and Tom Carroll were tapped early this morning by the Order of the Golden Fleece, highest honorary society for men at Carolina.

Both of the men are seniors who finish this quarter.

The Fleece released these citations on their initiates. "Thomas Lawrence Carroll: An outstanding student of creative imagination, forceful personality and vigorous initiative who planned, executed and worked with radio station WUNC, an institution which does honor to the University."

Edward Amos Stevens: A student of splendid promise, integrity, insight and religious understanding; an effective and increasingly dynamic participant in the life of the University community."

Stevens is a member of the Student Legislature, University Club, Inter-Faith Council and Amphoterathen. He has served as an orientation counselor. He is a member of Chi Psi social fraternity and from Chapel Hill. He is a member of the Wesley Foundation and has been active in the YMCA.

Carroll has served on the Inter-Fraternity Court and been in the YMCA and Choral and Glee Clubs. He has been student manager of WUNC since it began. He is from Charlotte and a member of Delta Psi social fraternity.

These two new members increased the Fleece list to over 500 men whom the group has tapped since its founding in 1903. The organization taps publicly every Spring in ceremonies in Memorial Hall. This year the Fleece will tap April 27 with special festivities celebrating its 50th anniversary.

Consolidated Council Prexy Attacks Adams' Resignation

Sully Tags Quitting And Horton's Approval 'Attempted Suicide' By Carolina Delegation

By Louis Kraar

Tom Sully, president of the Consolidated University Student Council, yesterday took a swing at the recent resignation of Carolina's head man in the group, Jim Adams, and then stepped back to explain his ideas about the three-school voice.

"I'm ashamed to be a party to this attempted suicide by the delegation," declared Sully referring to both Adams' resignation and Horton's approval. He went on to explain CUSC's purpose. Sully is also a Carolina student.

The row over the three school council started Friday when Adams, chairman of the Carolina delegation, resigned saying that the group has "served only as a gag for student opinion." President Horton accepted his resignation and said he was in agreement with Adams. He said he didn't plan to appoint anyone to take Adams' place.

The CUSC consists of delegates from Carolina, State and Woman's College who meet once a quarter "to act as a liaison between the student body of the Consolidated University and the administration of the Consolidated University," according to the group's constitution.

Although the CUSC is the official bridge between Consolidated University administration and students, local problems can be voiced by students directly to the administration through the Student Legislature.

"There are, of course, limitations to the extent to which the council can reflect opinions of all three delegations (Carolina, State and W.C.)," said Sully. He explained that he thought the views voiced by the group were "not generally of one delegation, but rather a sort of compromise opinion.

"I don't think this is justification for throwing in the towel and quitting the whole thing though," added Sully.

Adams declared in his resignation, "This program of consolidation is not working and by its very nature cannot work effectively when problems and opinions on the three campuses are entirely different and cannot be voiced in a consolidated manner."

Sully disagreed with the statement. He said the difficulty of operating effectively resulted from a conflict between two duties — the main liaison duty between Consolidated University students and faculty and the duty to represent student opinion. He said the two duties could be reconciled.

The split between Adams and the group came just a few days after the quarterly meeting of the CUSC in Raleigh. At the meeting, Carolina was the only school to offer resolutions. (The CUSC only has the power to pass resolutions and they must have unanimous acceptance by the group to pass) Carolina's resolutions were tabled.

"This action is a myopic attempt by the delegation to solve with a sledge hammer some genuinely difficult problems which do require a great deal of patience and com-

(See ATTACK, page 2)

THIS FANCY LOOKING PAIR took part in the Campus Chest musical Variety Show Sunday night in Memorial Hall. At right John Taylor prances behind an unidentified coed in one of the show's 14 acts. The musical was presented free to an audience made up of Chest donors. The second half of the Chest drive will be held in April.—Daily Tar Heel photo by R. B. Henley.

CAMPUS SEEN

Elderly lady in furs, feeding then making friends with squirrel underneath Davie Poplar.

*

Economics instructor bringing canine to class "to show up the not so bright students."

*

Increasing signs of Spring as robins alight on gun barrel of Confederate musketeer.

Charlotte Davis Third Coed As President Of Di

Charlotte Davis, a junior from Chapel Hill, will be inaugurated next quarter as the third coed president in the 158 year history of the Dialectic Senate.

Miss Davis was elected recently along wtih Joel Fleishman, president pro-tem, Fayetteville; Henry Lowet, Winston-Salem; Wayne Thompson, clerk, Mooresville; Charles Wolf, sergeant-at-arms, Chapel Hill, and Gerald Parker, chaplain, Silverdale.

Judge John W. Parker, federal circuit judge for western N.C., now has been approved by both the Di and the Philanthropic Assembly for their annual joint award and will be principal speaker at the banquet this Spring.

CHARLOTTE DAVIS

Visiting Day Set April 18

The 10th annual High School Day will be held at the University April 18 when high school students are invited to participate in a day-long program highlighted by the Blue - White varsity football game in Kenan Stadium.

This will be the first time Carolina's football players will appear under the tutelage of Coach George Barclay. He and his staff have arranged a regular football game for that afternoon, and the teachers, chaperones and drivers, as well as the high school students from throughout the state will be guests of the University and the Monogram Club.

Student Dies, Coed Escapes In Wreck

Jerry Galanides, senior from Norfolk, died at Memorial Hospital early Sunday morning from injuries received when his convertible rolled twice end over end a few miles from Chapel Hill.

Galanides was 22 years old. Jessemine Gant, coed from Burlington, was riding with Galanides but received no injuries. She was treated at the hospital for shock.

A quantity of beer and whiskey was found in the wrecked automobile, according to Patrolman E. S. Robinson, who investigated the accident.

Funeral for the Carolina student will be held at 3:30 p.m. today in Norfolk. Members of his social fraternity, Phi Kappa Sigma, will attend the service.

Galanides and Miss Gant were returning to town from Hogan's Lake about 12:45 a.m. Sunday when the 1950 Buick struck a pile of rocks to the right of Highway 86.

Deputy Sheriff Albert Pendergrass said the car flipped over twice and came to rest on its wheels about 175 feet from the point of collision. Galanides was thrown clear but incurred fatal internal injuries.

The accident report estimated the automobile was traveling about 65 miles an hour when it left the highway. Police said it was demolished.

Pendergrass said the couple presumably was trying to get back to town before the coed curfew at 1 a.m.

Galanides was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma social fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa national scholastic fraternity. He was living here in the Phi Kap house.

Miss Gant is a junior and a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She lives in Alderman Dormitory.

2 Fellowships For Y Career Being Offered

Two graduate Wright Fellowships at Yale University are available for college seniors and graduates who are looking for professional careers in the general movement of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America.

Applications must be filed on or before March 15, at the Yale University Divinity School, 409 Prospect Street, New Haven, Conn.

Qualifications which the committee of selection stresses are (1) intellectual ability and promise; (2) interest in an educational approach to individuals and communities; (3) interest in the Christian faith and the scientific and intellectual disciplines as well as the total life of a community; (4) open-mindedness and ability to work with other persons who differ on matters of theology, and social and economic theories and (5) personal qualities, in addition to the above, that characterize the superior secretary in the YMCA.

Wright Fellows receive a cash fellowship grant of $400. As a part of the program of professional preparation they serve as training internes in the New Haven YMCA and receive remuneration in the amount of $300. In addition, Wright Fellows are eligible for consideration for additional aid of up to $300 from regular Yale Divinity School scholarship funds in keeping with financial need. Each fellowship therefore has a total value of from $700 to $1,000, depending upon the need of the recipient.

Exam Schedule

The final examination schedule for Winter Quarter as released by Edwin S. Lanier, director of the Office of Central Records:

No student may be excused from a scheduled exam, Lanier noted, except by the Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his General College adviser or his dean.

The schedule:

Common Examination (All French, German, and Spanish Courses numbered 1, 2, 3, & 4)	Friday, March 13, 8:30 a.m.
All 11 a.m. classes	Friday, March 13, 2 p.m.
All 1 p.m. classes	Saturday, March 14, 8:30 a.m.
All 12 Noon Classes	Saturday, March 14, 2 p.m.
All 2 p.m. classes and Zoology 103	Monday, March 16, 8:30 a.m.
All 8 a.m. classes	Monday, March 16, 2 p.m.
All 9 a.m. classes	Tuesday, March 17, 8:30 a.m.
All 3 p.m. classes and Bus. Adm. 71 & 72, Chemistry 2, and all classes not otherwise provided for in this schedule	Tuesday, March 17, 2 p.m.
All 10 a.m. classes	Wednesday, March 18, 8:30 a.m.

Choose A Teacher, Not A Course

Days Are Gone, Caldwell Says, When Prof Drops In On Student

By Jennie Lynn

"The impact a teacher makes upon a student is more remembered than what he teaches," Dr. Wallace E. Caldwell, head of the History Department, told a recent student-faculty reception.

"Knowledge of a subject goes along with the point of view and personality of the instructor," Dr. Caldwell said. "These are the things that will stay with you. Students, for this reason, should choose their courses for the teacher who teaches them."

DR. W. E. CALDWELL

The professor said to him there are three types of people who come to college:

Those who have a definite plan for a future job—these know what to take.

Those who are here chiefly to have a good time—Dr. Caldwell recommends crip courses for them.

Those who want a general education—Dr. Caldwell is interested in these.

"If I were to help those who want a general education plan their courses, I would get a list of outstanding personalities on campus: teachers noted as scholars, not teachers. Then I'd say to the student, 'Take courses under these people.' From them you will get an appreciation and admiration for scholars."

He also advised students to get experience in courses away from their majors, here especially, with the teacher in mind.

Dr. Caldwell continued, "Don't be so interested in merely passing a course. You can pass with good grades and never learn anything." He said that particularly in graduate work is the class just one means of mastery of a field.

Turning to the six-day week, instituted "to promote closer student-faculty relationship," Dr. Caldwell recalled how he once dropped into fraternity houses and dorms to talk to the students. The feeling is gone that he would be welcome to do this now, he said.

Dr. Caldwell stated that he thought the students were largely at fault. In many instances the faculty invited them to their homes for informal get-togethers and no one would show up. Finally, the invitations ceased.

The professor said the school was much smaller when the relationship was more intimate, but a closer tie between teachers and students "is certainly possible."

Course Repeat At Toledo Now Harder On Students

TOLEDO, O., March 9 —(Special) — University of Toledo students who wish to raise a grade by repeating a course will find it more difficult to do so from now on.

Formerly a student could repeat any course at any time without having extra hours counted in his record, but with the improved grade helping bring up his point average. Under a new regulation passed by the faculty, this semester is the last chance for those under the old system.

Undergraduate Highlighted In Lengthy Study Made By Profs

Five areas of undergraduate instruction get a thorough examination in a Mission of the University report released for publication today.

The report has scores of recommendations to make on (1) the problem of preparation of entering students; (2) improvement and achievement of undergraduate instruction; (3) teaching load; (4) curriculum, and (5) financial support.

Nearly all of the text of the undergraduate instruction report is carried on page 2.

Undergraduates were one of four broad areas chosen by President Gray for last week's conference to delve into. Undergraduate morale, as well as instruction occupied a great part of the recent Trustee Visiting Committee report on Chapel Hill.

This new report, compiled by seven professors from the Consolidated University faculty, begins pessimistically. "If judgment can be based on the performance of freshmen in the colleges and universities, serious remediable shortcomings persist, with some crude evidence of a continuing trend toward further deterioration."

The report continues, "It is the opinion of the panel members that a state university can be selective, that it is not contrary to our ideas of public education to require excellence on the part of the student."

The report goes on to list methods for remedying the situation.

In conclusion, the 12-page document recommends that a committee with representatives from the humanities, social studies and natural sciences be established on each campus to "provide continuing study and follow-up with respect to instruction at the college level."

Excerpts from others of the reports will be published later by The Daily Tar Heel.

Fireworks Net Male Search For New Home

A firecracker shooter has been suspended from residence in his dorrmitory by the Interdormitory Court, Court Clerk Gene Cain announced yesterday.

The student already had been placed on probation by the court earlier in the year for violation of dorm social rules. The firecracker case involved four students, two of whom received official reprimands, one was found not guilty, and the other suspended.

All of the men were from the same dormitory.

The usual penalty dealt out by the dorm court has been suspension. The court has suspended other students for their firecracker efforts during this quarter.

Graveley Dies; Hospital Here Named For Him

L. Lee Gravely, for whom the new TB hospital here is named, died Friday at his home in Rocky Mount. He was buried in Rocky Mount Sunday afternoon.

A wealthy tobacconist, he was prominent in state politics and active in the work to secure better facilities for the treatment of tuberculosis. While chairman of the State Board for TB Sanitoriums, the group honored Mr. Gravely by naming the new hospital here after him.

The building is almost complete.

(See GRAVELEY, page 2)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. — Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT — Roger Williams, Richard O'Neal, George Harris, Veneta Zeller.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Faculty Accepts Challenge

Bravo-

We waited two years to find something significantly tangible about the work of Gordon Gray. We now have it, at least half of it, coming from the faculties of UNC, State, and WC, to answer some questions: Just what is the University doing, where is it going, and what can we do to improve it.

Gray didn't ask the Trustees. He didn't ask the financial strongboys. Nor did he ask the Legislature. He posed his question to the Faculty and got enough answers worthy of investigation to last him for the next five years.

The conference was literally a self-examination. Faculty members cussed themselves out. The administration, department heads, even students, got a thorough going over. Concrete ideas, such as revamping entirely the outdated, inadequate General College advisory setup, completely changing the student housing policies of the University, securing better faculty-student relationships, and other ideas were proposed.

To illustrate the frank, uninhibited nature of the conference we quote from the Student-faculty Relations report: "Special notice . . . might be given the President of the Consolidated University, although in his case the necessity for an equitable distribution of time between three institutions presents special problems. But, in his case particularly it should be remembered that the chief benefits accruing from some direct and regular contact with students would be those flowing to him, in terms of a clearer understanding of student views and aspirations than can be obtained through multiple filters." While this was read, Gray listened intently.

While a two day conference can't solve all of the problems of the University, it can provide some of the answers. If Gray needs more information, more study, more time, then students and the rest of the University will gladly stand by and await decisions. But now our president has material to starrt with.

The challenge has been answered and another has been offered in its place. To keep the ball rolling, there must be positive action on the President's part. Gray's duty is clear. He called the conference in humility and earnestness, not to declare what the mission of the University was, but rather to find out from those who best know. This reliance on the faculty is an important note.

Earlier we said Gray had presented some tangible work—at least half of it. His job that remains is to clear the University of its deadwood approach, clear out the clutter of duplication, provide "the revitalization of the University," and demonstrate that kind of leadership which is inherent but which has not been thoroughly shown before.

Bootblack Purge

Should Jacob Malik have walked in the Carolina YMCA last week he might have interpreted the eye-catching scene to be an indication that the recent Republican rise to power and Senator McCarthy's revitalized investigations meant awesome fears of a forthcoming depression and purge.

For there was what appeared to be the practicing lab in a course "Making a living without expressing opinions."

What he would have seen, and what many coffee-gulping Carolina students did see, was Chancellor Bob House, the man who hands out hundreds of those coveted sheepskins every year, resting his learned knees while shining the gloss back into the worn cowskins on the feet of a number of his intellectual aspirants.

Not only would Malik have seen the head of a university, for there were other enrolles. Past and present politicos, including Ed Gross, Ken Penegar, Bob Gorham, and Ken Barton, were there. Also a practicing bootblack was Morehead scholar Ham Horton.

Had the loquacious Russian diplomat construed the obvious opinion, however, he would have been as in the wrong as is the general Communistic view that the West is not the defender but the agressor in the Korean War. For all the people there were down on their knees to help in gathering funds for the deprived students in that faraway Oriental nation.

—Graveley—

(Continued from page 1)

Mr. Gravely campaigned in 1949 unsuccessfully for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He was a native of Danville Va. and attended the university of that state where he starred as a baseball pitcher. He took his law degree at the University of North Carolina.

Mr. Graveley, while in the state Senate in 1935, was instrumental in the appropriation of $250,000 for the Western North Carolina TB Association.

He was 65 at his death and had been ill for some time.

—Attack—

(Continued from page 1)

mon sense," Sully declared.

Borrowing characters from "Pogo," the CUSC president said the delegation 'reminds me a lot of "Honorable Mole" who indiscriminately wields his spray gun without considering the unpleasant effect it has on the other anima's."

When Adams quit, Horton said he wasn't going to appoint anyone right away to replace him. Horton said his objection was directed towards the Consolidated University Student Council rather than the Consolidated University.

What's Wrong with the University

(Editor's Note: We reprint the following faculty report on undergraduate teaching with a certain amount of timidity. The report is bulky and takes up much of the page. But it deals with so many general complaints that students have made over a period of time that we think it worthhy of publication. We urge students to read it carefully and mull over it. A report on student-faculty relationships will be published tomorrow.

A university has two main reasons for existence: The discovery and the sharing of truth. In our university, as in most universities of high quality, the primary end of conscious striving and the chief measure of distinction are properly in the advancement of learning. Similarly, here and in comparable institutions, the exactions, excitement, and rewards of the primary endeavor contribute to neglect of the other vital purpose, the communication of the love and appreciation of learning which are the fruits of teaching.

This statement of the dichotomy in the mission of the university is in a sense an overstatement. Research can be a means of teaching and good teaching necessarily comprehends research. Yet, there are decisive differences in emphasis. The emphasis in the world of scholarship is upon pure research. This is what distinguishes the university from the school or college. The emphasis in a good undergraduate college is upon teaching.

The Problem of the Preparation of Entering Students

The Greater University is in a unique position to exercise leadership in dealing with a great many types of educational problems in North Carolina. One problem apparently not receiving much direct attention from leaders in higher education is the quality of students being graduated from the high schools. If judgment can be based on the performance of freshmen in the colleges and universities, serious remediable shortcomings persist, with some crude evidence of a continuing trend toward further deterioration. It is the opinion of the panel members that a State University can be selective, that it is not contrary to our ideas of public education to require excellence on the part of the student.

Several possible explanations might be offered for the situation as it is believed to exist; these are not mutually exclusive. Each carries some implications as to what remedies might lead to improvement. Some of these are:

1. Capacity and training of teachers.
2. Motivation of teachers.
3. Motivation of students.
4. High school curricula.

It is argued here that "motivation of teachers" and "motivation of students" are primarily matters of group relations, involving especially society-school and family relations. University leadership could aid appreciably in bringing about a broader understanding of the goals of public schools, and lead the way toward more enlightened support of the schools and better understanding of purposes on the part of the public. Social integration of this nature would inevitably improve teacher and student motivation. The University might also wish to consider an administrative organization to provide speakers for teacher and community meetings (especially parent-teacher groups) meetings interested in the improvement of education along all fronts.

Some departments already have established contact with teachers and principals in the high schools of the State, by means of visiting teams from those departments which are helping the high schools to improve on the pre-college preparation they offer the student. In some cases departments of the University have reported grades of students back to the high schools from which the students came; this has proven of genuine value in helping the secondary schools to estimate their deficiencies. Such methods of liaison are heartily endorsed by the panel members on undergraduate teaching, and a general recommendation is made that closer personal liason be established between the subject-matter departments in all branches of the University with the corresponding departments in the high schools of the State. It was thought that workshops in the various basic subjects might be set up either on the campuses or at central points throughout the State. It was recommended that a committee be appointed from the Consolidated University to work in cooperation with the State Dept. of Public Instruction and to plan work-shops which would carry teacher certification. The whole general problem of high school preparation for college certainly needs more serious attention; although for the time being we must take our students as they are, and do the best we can for them, still as a long-range program, the University cannot remain content with doing a job which can be done and ought to be done by secondary education.

With regard to "capacity and training of teachers" and "high school curricula," it is suggested that it is time to re-examine the whole gamut of educational efforts in the training of teachers, and in the training of high school students. Are we perhaps making our curricula in these areas too specialized? Have we turned too much attention to vocational subjects, and too little to more basic subjects? Is it not possible that such subjects as English and mathematics contribute more toward the success of an individual as an income-earner, a citizen, as a pursuer of happiness than do subjects designed for vocational training? Can we teach techniques of lasting value without regard for the principles that underlie the techniques?

Improvement of the Undergraduate Program Is Needed

In describing our work with undergraduates, any one generalization of praise or reproach is too simple. There is much fine achievement but it is uneven and there is clearly room for improvement.

Faculty, students, and trustees have presented formal expressions of the need for improvement:

(1) The Chairman of the Faculty Committee on General College Instruction, in his last report, referred to a poll of student opinion on the quality of teaching which showed that "46% rated instruction as below good."

(2) The Students' Committee on Education in 1949, the Student-Faculty Committee on Educational Evaluation in 1950, and a committee of students before the Faculty Council in 1952 requested improvement.

(3) The Visiting Committee of the Trustees has repeatedly recommended improvements. (Reports, 1949, pages 4-13; 1953, pages 13 and 17.)

The policy and practice of our University, and of others, reflect an imbalance: We concentrate our best thought and disposable resources upon productive scholarship, research contracts, and administration and usually give only routine attention to the improvement of teaching. The inherent conditions of scholarly achievements promote the comparative neglect of the undergraduate. Forceful, possibly exaggerated, reference to these conditions appears in the report of the Committee on Improvement of Instruction to the Southern University Conference in 1947:

". . . The main obstacle to improve(ment of) teaching seems . . . very clear. We are really not sufficiently interested in it. Consequently a person who would like to concentrate on teaching cannot count on promotion and pay. At the beginning of his career a young instructor faces a condition in which institutions employ him as a teacher, expect faithful performance of his duties but usually advance him upon the basis of other activities. . . . On most campuses the elder scholars make a point of warning the young teacher not to waste time on classes because only publication assures promotion. . . ."

Improvement Can Be Achieved

To achieve improvement we must, first, take to heart the elementary truth that the University can attain results of high quality, both in research and in the teaching of undergraduates. North Carolina has an appreciation of both of these essential activities of a university. In the end the State will hold us responsible for excellence in both of them.

Second, assuming sensitive awareness of the multiple functions of the University and a strong desire to attain completeness, the Administration should take the lead in improving the work with undergraduates. It would do this not by any dramatic, publicity-charged action threatening the distinctive activity of the University, but by quietly and systematically searching out the good teachers whom we have and who may develop and acknowledging their distinction by official expression of appreciation and by advancements in rank and pay.

Finding the good teacher is not easy. Being a poor scholar does not make a good teacher. Popularity with students is not a dependable criterion of the quality of teaching. Teaching is a highly individual process and individuals are proverbially diverse. This real difficulty too often leads harrassed presidents and burdened faculties to give up the attempt before it is made. They have not succeeded because they have not really tried. As soon as we have a real concern for the improvement of teaching we shall begin to achieve it. Over the years the considered judgment of colleagues and the testimony of serious students will supply a guide to the recognition of high achievement. Thus, if there is general agreement with the statement of a former Dean of our College of Arts and Sciences regarding one of his colleagues that "He habitually interprets mathematical processes with greater clarity and appeal than I have observed in the class of any other teacher anywhere," the Administration then has solid grounds for action.

By clear thinking, sustained effort, and use of a modest portion of disposable resources for the improvement of services of undergraduates, we can make a notable advance toward realization of the whole mission of the University.

Qualifications

In order that teachers of high qualifications be identified, it is recommended that instructors be judged according to:

(a) His interest in his students

(b) His mastery of the subject and his enthusiasm for it

(c) His presentation of the subject in its larger implications

(d) His interests and activities in the academic community besides teaching

(e) The comments made about him by students, the ability of the student to judge being considered

(f) The comments make by colleagues nad department chairman.

Teaching Load

Closely related is the teaching load assigned to instructors in undergraduate courses. Loads are such that, when considered with the direct or indirect pressures on the faculty member to produce some published research of whatever quality, they often leave too little time for preparation of stimulating classroom material, and no time for instructor-student contact. A usual result is that the faculty member has insufficient time for keeping himself abreast of developments in his field.

Two solutions that are not mutually exclusive may be tentatively suggested:

1. Lower the teaching load considered to be maximum, and reduce the teaching load below maximum for at least one quarter.

2. Institute sabbatical leave for all teaching and research faculty. This procedure would allow the faculty member time for keeping abreast, and for reflection and writing. A sabbatical system would gradually enhance the quality of the present faculty and make easier the recruitment of even high-quality faculty members in the future.

Curriculum

Once the student reaches the University there is the problem of providing appropriate education for the widely differing types of students making up the student body of the state university. How to extend education to a greater percentage of the student population and at the same time provide a challenging program for the superior student. What should be done for students who are admitted but clearly cannot profit by our regular college courses? Can this problem best be solved within individual departments or should differentiated programs of study be considered? The General College at the University of Minnesota and the Directed Studies Program at Yale are examples of programs of study which differ from the normal, the first to take care of poor students and the second designed for superior students. It is the consensus of the panel members that such deficiencies, due to the fact that the different levels of students are frequently the result of improper and poor high school education, can best be measured and handled by the separate departments. The panel also recommends strongly that every effort to make to recognize early the superior students and to provide a broad and substantial course of study for them. It is recommended that an Honors Program be further developed in each unit of the University, and that funds be provided to give strong support to the program.

Further study of the goals of undergraduate instruction might be very profitable. In some areas, it appears that we are pursuing two sets of objectives that may not be consistent with each other. There seems to be a tendency to devise a curriculum such that the student goes out with a certain body of techniques, whenever he terminates. This results in putting applied courses ahead of courses in "basic principles," without regard for the need for applications to be based on principles, and without adequate concern for the effect on the student who takes the full four-year course.

Is it not probable that, even for the student whose termination point will be before the end of four years, emphasis on "basic principles" would be of the greatest ultimate value? Should we avoid courses in principles during the first two years, simply because these courses result in the "elimination" of students?

It is probably not so much a matter of what we, as educators do for students as it is the way we do it. Young people cannot be prepared for service in the modern world unless they are introduced to more than vocational training. "They must know not only how to work, but also how to live, how to think, how to feel."

There appeared to be some feeling on the part of panel members that we, as teachers, either cannot or do not fully test the student's comprehension of principles or his ability to reason logically about these principles from the beginning to the end of a complex problem. Indeed, it was suggested that should there be that rare student who would presume to crowd his mind with interrelationship, speculations, interpretation, or inner meanings, he would have no time left for the information that our examinations call for. Is it any wonder, therefore, that the student, even the good student, avoids, such abstruse matters and concentrates on memorizing the facts and data—particularly those facts and data which are closest to the professor's heart?

It is also suggested that a re-examination of freshman and sophomore courses be made to see how many courses have a substantive content of sufficient importance to warrant allocation of the scarcest resource around the greater University, namely the students' classroom time. It is argued here that some courses have as a principal purpos the recruitment of students for that department, and could be eliminated without detrimental effects on the quality of education, if any reasonably saisfactory way could be discovered for providing students with sufficient information on which to base the choice of a department.

There was a strong consensus among panel members that throughout the University there should be adequate opportunity for all students to broaden the scope of their education and extend it beyond the confines of their specialized interests. The students who are enrolled in technical curricula or are preparing for professional training must be able to take a substantial number of courses in the humanities and social sciences; similarly, it is generally recognized that the "liberal arts" student cannot be considered to be generally educated unless he has some familiarity with the natural sciences. Perhaps there should be University-wide requirements in keeping with this principle.

Attention is called, however, to the fact that very considerable pressures are operating to prevent or limit the accomplishment of this goal. In some schools giving specialized training so many courses must be offered in order to turn out graduates properly qualified in that specialty that very little time is available for course-work in other fields. There are the pressures created by (1) prespecialization courses designed to meet professional requirements, (2) requirements for the certification of teachers, and (3) the requirements of various accrediting agencies. It is felt that in many cases these requirements are unnecessarily burdensome and oblescent.

Frequently they operate to prevent a student from taking course-work outside his special field, since he must take two, or perhaps three, units of work in that subject in order to receive any course credit.

In any case, it seems advisable that the University Administration study the effect of such pressures on the curriculum, the means by which these requirements are determined, and the sanctions by which they are enforced. It is further recommended that some means be established by which the University faculty can express its judgment on these matters, and exert some degree of control over the qualifications required of the students they are called upon to teach.

In particular, it is recommended that President Gray appoint a committee consisting of members of the faculties of the three units of the University and charged with the task of studying in cooperation with the State Department of Education the problem of teacher education and certification.

In a large university it is highly desirable to have close cooperation between departments in each unit, and a closer relationship among the departments and schools of the three divisions, with a view to coming to an understanding of our mutual problems. It was noted in panel discussions that in some cases where parts of a curriculum are taught by different departments or schools in the same branch of the University, there is almost complete lack of cooperative faculty thinking and planning in connection with curricular problems. There should be satisfactory machinery set up so that when, for example, faculty members from the division of humanities and social sciences are called upon to teach part of a technical or professional curriculum, the members of the "general education" faculty and the technical or professional faculty may pool and integrate their thinking on the curriculum as a whole.

It was further noted that in some cases very similar "general education" courses are being taught in different branches of the University, but no effort is being made to exchange experience and advice on the conduct of such courses. It would seem highly advisable to exploit the possibilities of liaison along these lines also.

Written and Spoken English

One of the fundamental objective of all undergraduate programs leading to the Bachelor's degree must be the attainment of effective and accurate expression of ideas in standard English, oral and written. It is unfortunately obvious that this objective is not being accomplished. It is equally true that this ideal can be achieved only by an enthusiastic and rigid insistence upon two procedures: first, an adequate prescribed program for each student in the specific disciplines of language and composition; and, second, a determined effort on the part of the University to increase the poportunity of students in all academic and professional departments for the organization and the logical expression of ideas in oral and written form. The effort must thus be a cooperative one in every sense. Though only the English Departments of the three units need actually be chargd with the teaching of the disciplines, every department in the University must assume a definite responsibility to bolster and to perpetuate these disciplines by constant stress and insistence upon logical, clear, and efficient communication of ideas.

Financial Support for Undergraduates

A pressing need for some units of the greater University is to have more funds available for undergraduate scholarships. Scholarships paying in full for four years of education (contingent upon some measures of academic success) for able and deserving high school graduates

(See WHAT'S WRONG, page 4)

Down In Front

by Biff Roberts

Never Have So Few . . .

WAKE FOREST'S BASKETBALL team, a prime example of a good team of the old days, can certainly be proud of its Southern Conference championship. In these days of the fast break and numerous fouls it is almost a necessity to have a deep bench in order to win most games, much less a championship tourney. But the Deacs, who used only seven players in their games against Richmond and Maryland and eight in dethroning N. C. State, showed that a starting team can still last through a ball game and still win it.

Although the Deacons were rated second before the tournament because of their season's record (and the flip of the coin which sent Maryland from a tie for second down to the third spot), there were few that would give them much chance of winning the whole tourney. The team with the bench is usually the best bet for something like that. Wake Forest was acknowledged to have six good players, Dickie Hemric, Billy Lyles, Jack Williams, Al DePorter, Maurice George, and Ray Lipstas. After that came a pretty fair sub, Lowell Davis. After that came a pot-pouri of subs, willing, no doubt, but little help as far as ability and experience counted.

Hustling Along

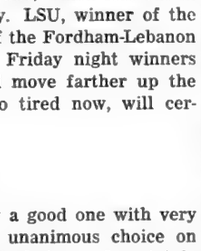
THE DEACONS, realizing the possibility of losing men on fouls, used the zone defense, thus keeping the number of violations down. Not until the final game did they lose a man on fouls and then George and DePorter both were sent to the bench. It was purely a question of out-hustling everybody they played. And the Deacons did just that, especially agianst the Wolfpack. Richmond gave them trouble for a half but after that Wake Forest pulled away and won by 15 points. In the Maryland game it looked as if they were going no further than the semifinals. The Terps had a three-point lead with the three minute rule in effect and Maryland usually is lethal in a situation like that. But Wake caused the Terps to make two mistakes, converted them into baskets, and edged into the final round. In the final it was more of that extra hustle which brought the victory. The Deacons outplayed Satte and didn't fold when the Pack got a 65-60 lead on them—that's what makes a championship club.

A Nod For DePorter

YOU HEAR ALL THE TALK about Hemric, Williams, and Lyles when people discuss Wake Forest, but DePorter is the boss of the team, and the most under-rated on the squad in my opinion. Everytime Assistant Coach Bones McKinney wanted to tell the team something it was DePorter whom he called aside. Besides being the quarterback, DePorter kept the Wake offense going in the first half against State. His driving down the middle for lay-ups broke up the tight State offense for the rest of the players. It hurt the Deacs when he was lost on fouls with almost the entire fourth quarter to go. It hurt even more because it was a questionable call by Arnie Heft, to say the least, and I imagine Dickie Tyler, who got a free shot for being charged by DePorter was as surprised as anybody in the Coliseum to find himself sent to the free-throw line.

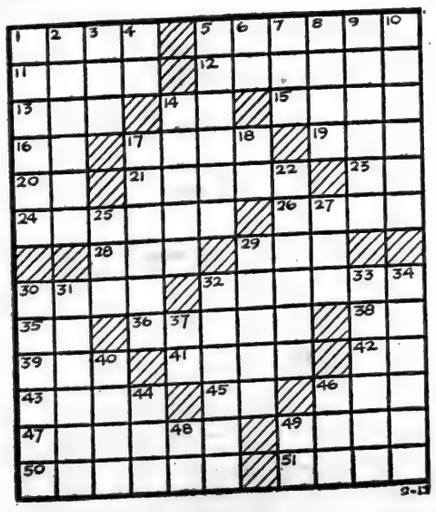
The Deacons move into the regional of the NCAA now, playing in Raleigh this Friday night. Don't be too surprised if they win the regional, too. The Deacs will meet the winner of the Holy Cross-Navy game to be played tonight at Philadelphia. They beat the Crusaders, 91-69, in December's Dixie Classic and Duke, which lost out in the first round of the tourney, has beaten Navy. LSU, winner of the Southeastern Conference, will play the winner of the Fordham-Lebanon Valley game, also set for Philly tonight. The Friday night winners will then meet Saturday night to see who will move farther up the NCAA ladder. The Deacons, if they aren't too tired now, will certainly have a good chance at the Coliseum.

The Teams' Team



THE ALL-TOURNAMENT TEAM is certainly a good one with very few surprises. Gene Shue of Maryland was a unanimous choice on the 51 writers' ballots. Hemric was the second choice and certainly deserved it. He didn't play any phenomenal games but he was an important factor in each of the Deacon victories. Mel Thompson, was the only one of the three State stars, Bobby Speight and Dave Gotkin being the others, to play up to par. He deserved the nod for carrying the Pack through most of the tournament. The two Furman stars, Frank Selvy and Nield Gordon, although they played only one game, looked terrific enough that one time to get on the top five. If Selvy had played in one more game I believe his choice would have been near unanimous. He and Shue would make an amazing pair of forwards for any team.

It was undoubtedly one of the best Conference tournaments of all time and a great thing for basketball in this area. State had dominated the field six years too long and it was only fitting that another team should win the tourney. There certainly weren't many tears in Reynolds Coliseum when the Deacs took the final game, 71-70.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Stuff
5. Cooks meat in an oven
11. Abode of dead (var.)
12. Badge
13. Contend
14. Doctor of Science (abbr.)
15. Piece of skeleton
16. Hypothetical force
17. Conceited
19. Greek letter
20. Music note
21. Concluded
23. Erbium (sym.)
24. A half-conscious state
26. Poles
28. Charge for services
29. Female fowl
30. Quote
32. Assemble, as troops
35. Half an em
36. Chambers
38. Greek letter
39. Hail!
41. Ravel
42. Part of "to be"
43. Observes
45. Indefinite article
46. Mexican rubber tree
47. Mistakes
49. One who uses things
50. Fashions
51. Shades of a primary color

DOWN
1. Caper (colloq.)
2. Invader
3. Malt beverage
4. Greek letter
5. Dwell
6. Order of Merit (abbr.)
7. Warp-yarn
8. Astringent fruit
9. Encamped
10. Daubs
14. A ball
17. Superficial show
18. Neon (sym.)
22. Stylish
25. Astern
27. Canadian province (abbr.)
29. Characteristic of man
30. Stops
31. Turn upside down
32. Bog
33. Banished
34. Parts of steps
37. From
40. Weird (var.)
44. Coin (Peru)
46. Employ
48. Music note
49. Biblical city

Yesterday's Answer

Carolina's Big Four Chances Look Brighter; N.C. State Seems Strongest Team On Paper

By Tom Peacock

Baseball coaches Bunn Hearn and Walter Rabb see a closer than ever Big Four race this year, with the N. C. State Wolfpack looking strongest on paper.

Carolina's Tar Heels should improve their standing this year, according to Rabb and Hearn, and position-by position the Tar Heels do look like a better contender for the crown than last year.

Carolina has some standout pitching, with just about the whole staff returning. The three big right handers, co-captain Chal Port, Joe Pazdan, and Bill Lore, will all be ready for the opening game two scant weeks away in Winter Park, Florida.

Don Marbry and Joe Morgan, both steady performers last year, are slated to do the heavy left-handed work on the mound. The Carolina coaches, including the new assistant Frank House, all think that the Tar Heels have an improved pitching staff.

Hitting is the question mark right now in the Carolina camp, but some returnees plus a couple of good freshmen that are being counted on heavily should supply the power at bat. Connie Gravitte and co-captain Wayne White have fairly sure starting berths in the outfield, and John Stowe, John Mottsinger, and a couple of newcomers are out to unseat them and take the third spot.

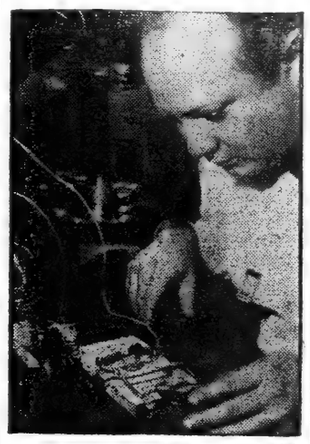
Carolina's infield probably has not suffered from last season. Third baseman Bruce Coats has graduated, but Bruce Holt can take over easily; second baseman Mark Herring won't be back, but Rabb thinks he has a good replacement in Harry Lee Lloyd; and Bob Henning steps right into the first base spot vacated by Bill Smith. Fred Dale was outstanding at short stop as a sophomore last year.

Catching looked like a big problem last year when Dick Weiss graduated, but Rabb now has three good men, two of them freshmen. The job right now is a toss up between returnee Ed Hooks and freshman Will Frye.

Leonard Bullock, Ken Keller, Frye and a couple more freshmen are expected to help the team considerably. Bullock will have to leave the team to take part in spring football practice, but football coach George Barclay will probably allow Keller, Frye and Gravitte to stay out for the team.

Jerry Vayda, freshman standout on the basketball team, turned out for practice yesterday with a first baseman's glove, the first possible day he could after the end of the basketball season.

Big Four teams are meeting only three times this year instead of four, a bad sign for Coach Rabb. He figures State, Duke and Wake Forest will always have their best pitcher ready for Carolina since the break between games is longer.



Duke, considered by many as the best college team in the country last year and winners of the SC crown, isn't expected to be near the power it was last year. The Blue Devils have lost such standouts as Dick Groat, Billy Werber, and Red Smith, their three best hitters. Duke's number one pitcher, Jim Lewis, returns, but without a batting order that averages .300 or better.

State looks good on paper being team returning. The Wolfpack, led by shortstop Johnny Ivars, lost one heartbreaker to Carolina in 14 innings, but came back to beat the Tar Heels.

Wake Forest is probably further ahead in practice than any other Big Four team. The Deacons always start early, and Coach Taylor Sanford has cut about 60 men and whipped his squad down to working size.

Hearn and Rabb will cut six or eight boys this morning, and then Carolina will be down to a good size to work with.

"We're thankful for this Florida trip," said Hearn, "because the pressure isn't too high like it is up here, and we can experiment around with the squad without worrying too much about a loss. We get a line on the boys down there, and the hitters start catching up with the pitchers, too."

AMP TRAP—Dr. Harry Sharbaugh of Schenectady, N. Y., sets his electronic rat trap to catch some "a m p s." Once sprung, the trap operates so as to sweep across a series of contacts seen at left. Amperes of current are thus measured by the scientist in General Electric's laboratory to study effects on certain insulating materials.

Sports In Brief

Kramer Assumes Big Lead Over Sedgman On Pro Tour

JACKSON, Miss.—Jack Kramer took a 26-19 lead in his series with Frank Sedgman following a 2-6, 7-5, 6-4 win over the Australian here Sunday night. Sedgman had match point in the second set, but Kramer won three straight games for that set and won the third set easily.

Ken McGregor of Australia upset Segura, 6-1, 6-2, in the other match, but still trails far behind the little Ecuadorean.

* * *

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J. — A cheerfully confident Jersey Joe Walcott promised today that his last fight would be his best.

"I won't be careless this time and I'll win back the title," Walcott said determinedly. "Then I'm going to retire."

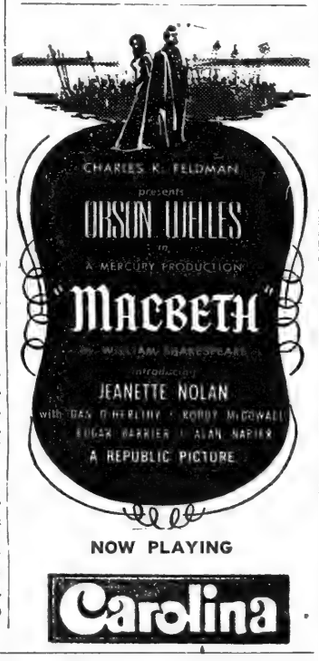
Those are the 39-year-old Joe's plans as he starts heavy training for his April 10 Chicago meeting with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

If Walcott regains the title which he lost to Marciano last September he will be the first man in boxing history to make a successful comeback for the big title.

* * *

WAKE FOREST — Wake Forest football coach Tom Rogers had a lot of praise today for halfbacks Billy Churm and John Parham.

The two walked off with ball-carrying honors Saturday as the Gold squad defeated the Black team, 19-0, in their annual intra-squad game ending four weeks of off-season drills.



A crowd of 1,500 saw Parham, a sophomore of Oxford, make his varsity debut by returning the opening kickoff 33 yards. The Gold squad drove to the six where Parham went over. In the second period, Churm returned a punt 56 yards for a touchdown. Sophomore Dick Marshall scored in the final period from the five. Quarterback Sonny George then kicked the only extra point.

* * *

RALEIGH—Gene Shue has been named the top basketball player in the Southern Conference tournament just completed, by the conference sports writers.

Coach Bud Milliken of Maryland revealed that Shue, not on scholarship, helps pay his way by sweeping the field house and locker room floors.

His amazing tournament performance saw him hit on 59.5 per cent of his basket attempts, 25 of 42 and 23 of 31 foul attempts. He won the ballot by taking 51 votes. The next closest man in the poll was Mel Thompson of State who had five.

NOW PLAYING
Carolina

won't wrinkle! resists stains!
ORLON* summer formals
After Six BY RUDOFKER
*DuPont's famous acrylic fibre, blended with rayon, is "Stain-Shy" processed to hold its press (even in the rain), repel water, and resist staining! Choice of single or double breasted shawl collar models in frosty white. All sizes.
24.95 & 29.50
MIDNITE BLUE DRESS TROUSERS . . . 12.95

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

"Dear old Mother! She always put plenty of Angostura* in the Old Fashioneds."
ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS
*An Old Fashioned is just one of the things that gets extra bounce from extra Angostura. Try tangy Angostura in gravies or on fish!

STUDENT HELP WANTED
To Work Part Time In Clothing Store
Apply Mgr.
THE SPORT SHOP
North Columbia Street

TRAILWAYS the route of the THRU-LINERS
is "Southern Hospitality on wheels!"

The little extra courtesies, the genuine friendly consideration that are part of the South's art of pleasing guests are "routine" with Trailways employees. To many travelers this gracious environment means as much as Trailways' unsurpassed modern equipment and unmatched safety record!
SAVE UP TO 25% THRU TRAILWAYS LOW FARES

Chapel Hill to GREENSBORO 14 round trips daily	1-way $ 1.25
NEW YORK 7 trips, 2 express	10.50
WILMINGTON, N. C. 4 round trips daily	3.75
ASHEVILLE 7 thru-liners. Exp. service	6.15
NORFOLK 8 trips, 3 thru, 2 express	5.00 (plus tax)

UNION BUS TERMINAL
314 W. Franklin St.—Phone 4281
TRAILWAYS THE ROUTE OF THE THRU-LINERS

Your Honeymoon MUST BE PERFECT
The privacy of a secluded cottage all your own, deep in wooded hills. The friendly companionship of other newly married college folk. Jolly, satisfying meals at an oldtime guest house. Easy-going leisure (breakfast until 11:00) or vigorous outdoor life. We'll send our helpful THREE HONEYMOON PLANS to those who mention dates.
THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 86, Pa.

Need Pocket Money?
Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!
The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.
OPEN EVENINGS

Starring ROBERT RYAN · MALA POWERS · ANTHONY QUINN · SUZAN BALL
TODAY and WEDNESDAY
Varsity

THURSDAY

Dental Dames

The Dental Dames will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Williams-Wolfe lounge of Graham Memorial to nominate officers. Bridge and canasta will follow the meeting.

When the Grind Gets Too heavy Treat Yourself to a Half Hour's Browse In the friendly

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

India Program Slated Tonight In Gerrard Hall

An hour's program of movies on India will be shown tonight at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

Dr. B. A. S. Iyengar of Mysore State, India and a graduate student in the University School of Public Health, has arranged for the showing of three films dealing with various parts of Indian life.

The three films are: "The Coconut Tree," which depicts the home industries of India, "Heritage of India," which shows the cultural aspects of India, and "Musical Instruments of India," which deals with some aspects of Indian music.

The YMCA World Relatedness Commission is joining with other groups concerned with greater world understanding in sponsoring this program. The public is invited.

TIME TO LOOK IT OVER!

YES, It's time for that Spring Check-Up and Change-Over. Come in and let us inspect your car NOW!

TYLER'S ESSO SERVICE

W. Franklin St. Ph. 2221

HURRY!

To DALE FAIRLESS GLEN LENNOX

Best Bargains In

RECORDS

All 33-45's

30% OFF!

78's—2 for the price of one

What Goes On Here

French Club

The French Supper Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock on second floor Lenoir Hall.

WUNC

Today's schedule for WUNC, non-commercial FM radio station operated by the University on a frequency of 91.5 mc at a power of 1450 watts:

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—The Price of Liberty.
7:45—Vistas of Israel.
8—Ways of Mankind.
8:30—The Opera.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Faculty Club

Louis Graves, editor of the Chapel Hill Weekly, will speak to the Men's Faculty Club at 1 p.m. today at the Carolina Inn on "Chapel Hill Review—1893-1953."

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet at 5 p.m. today in Hill Hall.

APO

Alpha Phi Omega will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Grail Room, Graham Memorial, to elect officers and discuss plans for future projects.

Phi Elections

The Phi Assembly will elect officers tonight at 8 o'clock in executive session. There will be no regular debate. A special session has been called for tomorrow night to hear Harley Cope speak.

Pittsburgh Has Highest Profit On Book Swap

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 9. (Special)—The Men's Council Bookstore at the University of Pittsburgh showed the highest profit in its 20 years of existence for the first semester of 1952-53, according to a report released here by Joe Shuler, bookstore manager.

"The reason for this record profit" for the Men's Council said Shuler, "was the increased efficiency due to the centralization of the bookstore." In this manner, no books were lost or misplaced because they were all kept in one room.

Expenditures were kept down to a minimum by eliminating hired help and using volunteers to help in the store. Profits were boosted by the sale of freshmen ties and Pitt license plates.

The bookstore is open only two weeks each semester.

State TV Group To Meet In Raleigh Today, Tonight

A dinner meeting to discuss educational television will be held in Raleigh at 6:30 p.m. today with the Jefferson Standard Foundation as host.

A brief report is to be made by the State Educational Radio and Television Commission after supper. The commission itself will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The University is one of those considering television but is seeking to initiate its program with private funds.

Quarter's Final SUAB Movie Changed To Tomorrow Night

The Film Division of the Student Union Activities Board will present its finale film in the Winter Series tomorrow evening at 8:30 in Gerrard Hall.

The committee has changed its schedule from Thursday due to the proximity of exams.

"Carnival in Flanders" will be the presentation tomorrow night. This French comedy has landed three international film awards and, as written in the New York Times, "It speaks a universal Language."

Final plans for the Spring Film Series are now being wrapped up and will be revealed tomorrow evening. Spring series tickets also will be available.

Only Winter Series ticket holders will be admitted to tomorrow night's showing.

Wisconsin Theater Meet To Hear Selden In April

Sam Selden, head of the Dramatic Art Department here and director of the Playmakers, will speak at the eighth annual Wisconsin Idea Theater Conference to be held April 10-12 at the University of Wisconsin.

Selden will talk on "The Theater and Its Influence on Community Life."

Temple Sets Up Group For Spirit Problems

PHILADELPHIA, March 9. (Special)—A committee of students, faculty and administration recently was formed to deal with Temple University problems in community spirit.

The joint council will have no legislative powers. It will, however, submit recommendations for legislation to the Student Senate, Faculty Senate and administration.

Dr. Kattsoff Will Attend August Belgium Confab

Dr. L. O. Kattsoff of the Department of Philosophy has received an invitation to attend special sessions of International Congress of Philosophy when the Congress convenes in Brussels, Belgium, next August.

The invitation came from the president of the congress. The special sessions will be on logic and will be held two days prior and two days subsequent to the convening of the congress.

Dr. Kattsoff said he probably would be on the progrma of the congress in the section on metaphysics.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

FOR SALE: 1948 DELUXE 4-DOOR Chevrolet (black Telephone 5392 between 5-6 P.M. (P3479-4)

FOR SALE—GOLF CLUBS. HAVE new set (4) of Walter Hagen Woods all-weather grips. Must sell—will sacrifice. Call 96217—lunch time or supper time.

HAVE MATCHING RED LEATHERETTE Couch and over-stuffed chair—Practically new—Must sell, make me an offer—Ed Stevens, Chi Psi Lodge; Phone 9-2061 between 11 and 2.

27 FOOT STREAM-LITE TRAILER —Room attached—8x15 feet. Large Tires. Ready for pulling. $775. Interested in selling by end of Quarter.

USED THAYER HIGH-CHAIR practically new. Contact Caswell Edmundson. U. N. C. Trailer Court. Ct No. 62.

HELP WANTED FEMALE 8A

CARRBORO BEAUTY SHOP—TWO fulltime operators. Plenty of parking space. Reasonable prices. (1-c3471-4)

Better Bone Up With A College Outline From

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

—What's Wrong—

(Continued from page 2)

would work miracles in attracting the potential leaders of the future to the greater University.

The direct powers of the greater University may be somewhat limited, but two sources of funds apparently lie within its jurisdiction. These are profits from UNIVERSITY ENTERPRISES (book stores, e.g.) and escheats funds. In addition, emphasis on the importance of scholarships by University leaders would influence Development Councils of the respective branches to consider a continued sponsorship of fund-raising campaigns for this purpose.

A Recommendation

This panel recommends that a standing committee of the faculty on under-graduate teaching, with representatives from each major area (the humanities, the social studies, the natural sciences, and the professional schools) should be established on each campus to provide continuing study and follow-up with respect to commitments that have come out of this conference with respect to instruction at the college level.

Respectfully submitted,

Walter J. Peterson, Chairman
Helen Ingraham
Jane Summerell
Sterling Stoudemire
Jerry Markham
Howard M. Nahikian
Paul A. Bredenberg

6 Grads Commissioned In R. I. Navy Ceremony

Six Carolina graduates swapped their enlisted men white hats for goll trimmed caps of commissioned ensigns at recent ceremonies at the Navy's officer candidate school in Newport, R. I.

It was the Navy school's ninth and largest line officer class yet.

Those commissioned were Albert H. Barth, 1950, Hewlett, N. Y.; Raymond H. Holland Jr., 1952, Wilmington; John T. Allred, 1951, Dunn; Erwin B. Benge, 1952, Statesville, and Horace D. (Skip) Mann Jr., 1952, Portsmouth, Va.

George S. Sheesborough, 1951, Asheville, was commissioned in the Supply Corps.

DANZIGER'S

Mr. "D"s FAMOUS ONION SOUP with croutons and grated cheese	.30
Homemade Boston baked bean soup	.20
SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES
MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with spaghetti and salad	.50
SPANISH RICE with mushroom sauce	.50
ROAST OF BEEF served with mushroom sauce, potatoes, vegetable	.90
ALL BEEF FRANKS served with sauerkraut, or Boston baked beans, potatoes	.85
SMOTHERED CHICKEN served with eggnoodles and vegetable	.90
IRISH BEEF STEW served with vegetable	.75
CHEESE OMELET served with vegetable	.65

DUKE PLAYERS

PRESENT . . . .

FERNEC MOLAR'S

THE GLASS SLIPPER

Branson Hall East Campus

TICKETS AT DANZIGER'S

March 11, 12, 13 14 8:15

6 FOR 1 SPECIAL

Dial Durham 2-7872

Now you can learn 5 dances for the price of 1 at Arthur Murray's

FOX TROT
RUMBA
SAMBA
WALTZ
TANGO

Are you wondering how Arthur Murray can make this offer? It's because his Magic Step Method of teaching dancing is so basic that once you have mastered this key step (and you will in one lesson) all dances are easy to learn. But more than that, through these lessons and the Arthur Murray Student Party Plan you gain confidence and poise while you learn. Your dormant personality develops. You become more at ease with people, more attractive, more popular than ever. So come in now while the 5 for 1 offer is in effect ...learn to dance this fun way.

Copr. 1952—Arthur Murray, Inc.

ARTHUR MURRAY School of Dancing

104½ MORRIS ST. AT 5 POINTS PHONE 2-7872 DURHAM

Ask About The Special Carolina Night, Including Sorority and Fraternity Parties

Campus capers call for Coke

Win the race, bag the trophy, and dunk the coxswain . . . then ease up and enjoy the pause that refreshes with delicious, ice-cold Coca-Cola.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Continued warm and clear with 58 high. Yesterday's high, 60; low, 36.

The Daily Tar Heel

MORE
The editors have additional material on the University's mission. It's on p. 2.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 112 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

MATTHEWS FILES FOR PRESIDENCY

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Admiral Cope Speaks Tonight

AFTER A CONFERENCE with President Eisenhower, speaker of the House Joseph Martin (left), and Senate Majority Leader Robert Taft announce to newsmen the Administration's decision to abandon efforts to recommend changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law until after congressional hearings are held on the subject.—NEA Telephoto.

Talk Slated For 8 O'clock In Phi Hall

Rear Admiral Harley F. Cope (Ret.) will address the Phi Assembly tonight at 8 o'clock on the topic 'World Government Would Destroy Us As A Nation."

The address, sponsored by the Phi Assembly, will be in the Phi Hall in New West. A question-answer period will follow the address and a brief reception will be held following the address.

As an author and newspaperman, Cope wrote naval and other material for the Newspaper Enterprise Association between 1928 and 1939. His published books include "Serpents of the Seas," "Command at Sea," "Our Navy—A Fighting Team," and "Battle Submerged," a work on submarines. In addition he also wrote a naval officers' manual.

Since April, 1950, he has been in charge of the American Soverignty Campaign for the National VFW organization. During this time he has made public speeches in support of the concept that the United States should limit its global coordination to such agencies as the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Admiral Cope's 33 years of Navy service covered both World Wars and included World War II commands of the USS Salinas, the USS Tennessee and several submarine commands, as well as two years as head of the Department of Foreign Languages at Annapolis.

He is well-known in educational circles due to his activities in combating propaganda of the Atlantic Union, the World Federalists and other "one-world" groups among grammar, high school and college students.

Admiral Cope was officially commended by Admiral Harold R. Stack for "the excellent degree of judgment, effort and seamanship displayed" by him during the torpedo attack on the Salinas, a Navy tanker, shortly before U. S. entry in World War II and was awarded the Navy Cross for "extraordinary heroism" in bringing his ship to port.

HARLEY COPE

Says Parties Have Failed Responsibility

By Louis Kraar

Wade Matthews, former member of both campus political parties, filed yesterday as an independent candidate for president saying that parties "have failed in their responsibility to the students."

Matthews is a junior from Winston-Salem and has served in Legislature since last Spring under the banner of both parties. He was one of four prospective Student Party vice-presidential candidates, but lost to Baxter Miller.

He censured the two political parties declaring that "the unwise policies of some of the self-styled leaders of the two parties on campus have caused them to degenerate into self-centered political machines, requiring strict obedience to the dictates of the party bosses on the part of potential candidates for office."

The independent candidate's entry into the presidential race widened the field to three, indicating that a runoff is likely. The last time an independent ran for president was in the spring of 1951 when Ben James entered the race. A runoff resulted and James lost to Henry Bowers (SP).

Matthews is a member of the Phi Assembly. He has served on the Elections Board, Debate Council, Budget Committee and the president's cabinet. He attended the State Student Legislature.

"A party-backed candidate is assured of having a corps of workers striving to secure his election regardless of whether or not they personally consider him to be the best candidate for the job," said Matthews.

"An independent candidate," he added, "must draw his support from the rank and file of the student body and from individuals interested in seeing all the segments of student opinion represented, rather than only that of one particular party."

Lew Southern, SP chairman, commented, "Wade has a right to run for president as does any student who meets the requirements. . . . But to claim degeneration of the political parties as a grounds is evidence of his own degeneration. That is, if he has ever truly had any principles to degenerate."

"He calls a party degenerated only after his own selfish interest doesn't happen to be the will of the majority of that party. Wade's opinion of the parties is not because of an awakening to truth but of sour grapes."

Matthews has attended some legislative caucuses. He supported Horton (UP) in the last presidential race. He is generally known as an independent who jumps the barrier of party lines with great frequency.

Matthews concluded, "I pledge my efforts toward bringing student government back to the students and helping to make it a more respected and vital part of the Carolina way of life. I would like to join the other candidates in expressing a sincere desire to focus the forthcoming campaign on issues rather than personalities, and in volunteering to discuss or debate the issues with the other candidates during the campaign."

Another independent, Bill Brown, filed last week for the vice-presidency. Brown was a long-time SP supporter and edited the SP paper, Mr. Chairman.

Matthews explained that his campaign was independent of Brown's.

World's Top Hypnotist

'Miracle Man' Polgar Will Be Here April 2

Dr. Franz Polgar, the man who has taken a lot of the mumbo jumbo out of hypnosis, will present a show in Memorial Hall next month.

The show will be presented April 2 under sponsorship of the Special Services Committee of SUAB and will be free to students upon presentation of ID cards.

Dr. Polgar is one of the world's leading hypnotists. He does not claim to have supernatural powers and he does not have a side-show type of act, according to SUAB officials.

The Hungarian born Polgar holds degrees in psychology and economics acquired in his native country. He has stated that hypnosis has many excellent uses in medical science and he is campaigning for its wider application in psychiatry and surgery.

DR. FRANZ POLGAR

Deacons Vote Unanimously To Drop NSA

WAKE FOREST, March 10—(Special)—The Wake Forest Student Legislature voted unanimously to drop out of the National Student Association.

The Legislature considered the move on the suggestion of the Executive Cabinet, which stated that Wake Forest should withdraw "because of the fact that for the money spent we can not derive tangible benefits."

The speaker of Legislature and the cabinet checked on other regions and found that NSA has accomplished little. He said NSA has received so far this year $213 of the $350 allotted for student government.

NSA'ers argued that Wake Forest would benefit from ideas from the other schools. Local NSA chairman, Carwile LeRoy, reported on the regional meeting at Chapel Hill last month citing the clinics on various student interest subjects.

Opponents said that the National Inter-Fraternity Conference is opposed to schools joining NSA because NSA is opposed to discrimination in the choice of members by fraternities.

The Old Gold and Black, campus weekly, ran side by side editorials. One was entitled "NSA Should Stay" and the other, "NSA Should Go."

The national group of student governments recently has been under fire at several southern schools including the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Emory University in Atlanta.

Chief purpose of the group, its proponents say, is to exchange ideas on student government. Scholarship and travel programs, conferences and other activities are carried on by NSA on a national, regional and local basis.

Dick Murphy, former UNC student, is national president of NSA. Murphy was the principal speaker at the regional held in Chapel Hill.

Professor Sees No Shift In Red Foreign Policy

(Dr. Carl H. Pegg, professor of Russian history at Carolina, has written the following article concerning the recent rearrangement of power in the Red regime.—Ed.)

By Dr. Carl Pegg

The official designation of Georgi Malenkov as chairman of the Council of Ministers and as chief party leader did not come as a surprise to many people inside or outside the Soviet Union. For a period of months it had been clear that Stalin, whose health was rapidly declining, had given Malenkov the nod, and that the top party leaders had concurred, doubtless with varying degrees of sincerity. Indeed, one of the principal reason for the calling of the Nineteenth Congress of the Communist party, the first party congress in thirteen years, was to impress upon the rank and file of the party the fact that Stalin had made his choice and to try to prepare an orderly transition of power.

But what the middle-aged, round-faced, heavy-set Malenkov will do with his new position is yet to be seen. It is quite misleading to say, as so many people have done in the last few days, that Malenkov has succeeded to Stalin's power. Malenkov, despite his long and close association with Stalin, cannot fill the vacuum left by the "man of steel." For Stalin's power was a highly personal thing, resting on a massive structure of myth and fact, and skillfully divorced in the popular mind from the secret policeman's knock at the door in the dead of night. It is true that in Stalin myth the Soviet dictator was greatly magnified, but it is also true that behind the myth was a shrewd and able man of sizeable stature. A man who has not only destroyed such Bolshevik giants as Trotsky and Kamenev in his climb to power, but who had matched skills in war and peace with Hitler, Roosevelt, and Churchill.

On the basis of the factual information available, it must be said that Malenkov has not as yet been thoroughly tested in the fiery furnace. While he has proved himself to be an able strategist and tactician in party matters, he has had little to do with the formulation of over-all domestic and foreign policies. This is a great weakness in his position, and unless he is a man of real strength, sound judgment, and great resourcefulness, he will never possess Stalin's powers. It should be remembered that upon the death of Lenin in 1924 a desperate and lengthy struggle for power ensued. Four years passed before the crafty and ruthless Sta-

(See RUSSIA, page 4)

NEWS IN BRIEF

MUNICH, Germany—A group of Soviet army officers who recently deserted and sought political asylum in the West warned yesterday that Russia's new premier Georgi M. Malenkov may start a hot war to unite divergent factions within the USSR. The Russian officers told a press conference here that Malenkov has inherited a "powder keg" of unrest within the Soviet Union. Meanwhile, Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-Tung said yesterday in Moscow, that Soviet Russia and Communist China were bound together in a "front of solidarity," which was "not afraid of any imperialist aggression."

★

WILMINGTON — The FBI and high-ranking Coast Guard investigators began separate investigations yesterday of a Monday harbor fire here. FBI officials refused to comment on whether they were investigating the possibility of sabotage. Firemen continued to pour tons of water into the smouldering ruins of the quarter-mile stretch of Wilmington waterfront where a wind-swept blaze caused damage estimated in the millions of dollars. Fire chief J. Ludie Croom said the smoking rubble of warehouses, freight cars, and large stores of nitrates, tobacco and sugar, probably would smoulder for several days.

★

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson said yesterday enough ammunition will be available soon to give the 8th Army command in Korea "considerable latitude" in determining whether there should be "a more active type of operations." His statement, carrying a hint of possible early stepped up blows, or even a limited offensive against the Communists, was made to Senators inquiring into the ammunition supply situation. Wilson said ammunition production has been expanded rapidly in recent months. He declared supplies in Korea are adequate to meet present needs.

★

WASHINGTON — The United States intensified its cold war psychological offensive yesterday with broadcasts suggesting that "a bloody and vicious" fight for power could develop in Russia as a result of Josef Stalin's death. The broadcasts were beamed behind the Iron Curtain by the Voice of America and played on the theme that Stalin's death contains a hope that his system of rule "may be entering upon a period of decay and breakup" and raised doubts "whether the Communist tyranny without Stalin will be able to hold the outer areas of the Communist empire."

★

SEOUL—United Nations soldiers killed at least 61 Reds yesterday in two lightning raids on the central front, bringing to neraly 500 the number of Communists killed or wounded in battle actions since Monday night. Yesterday's attacks were aimed at Chinese Communists holding hill positions near Old Baldy and White Horse Mountain.

Student Fined In Local Court

William G. Whaley Jr., a physics major from Elizabeth City, appeared before Judge William S. Stewart as the only student on the Chapel Hill Recorder's Court docket this week.

Whaley said he turned his automobile over just outside the Chapel

Whaley said he turned his autoroad Friday night about 11 o'clock when returning alone from a Durham theater.

State Highway Patrolman, who investigated the accident after arriving at the scene by chance withing a few minutes after the student's car left the road, charged Whaley with reckless driving.

CAMPUS SEEN

Paper-bound copy of "I Go Pogo" resting among learned tomes on political science professor's bookshelf.

★

Chancellor Bob House strolling along Cameron Ave. wearing a pleased grandfather's smile as he carries little girl.

★

Geography instructor announcing to early morning class that he won't be able to teach because he has to go home and rescue kids from bathroom where they've locked themselves in.

UCLA Profs Win Battle Over Wages

LOS ANGELES, March 10. (Special)—UCLA's Board of Regents recently voted five percent salary increases for all academic personnel and agreed to help 37 professors emeriti whose average monthly retirement pay is less than $109.

The salary increase is retroactive to Sept. 1 and is expected to cost $1.3 million annually.

With the new pay increases, teaching assistants will get $1,500 a year, instructors will receive a minimum of $4,926 and full professors teaching on a nine-month basis will get a maximum of $9,852.

For those teaching in summer sessions, the regents' action sets a yearly minimum of $4,980 for instructors and a maximum of $11,400 for full prfoessors.

Regarding the retirement pay for emeriti professors, Dr. Constantine Panunzio, formerly of the UCLA Sociology Department, said: "We are grateful for your unanimity of concern. We want to be put on a par with janitors, mechanics and sweepers. . . . We do not seek more despite the length of our training."

Dr. Frank Klingberg, a historian, contended that the board wasn't making a free gift of monies but a worthwhile investment. He called the years between 70 and 80 "a decade of scholarship in which we can write our summary volumes" and put the final touches on a life's work. (Dr. Klingberg is the father of Dr. Frank Klingberg of the University of North Carolina History Department.)

Fifteen Cadets Received Into Air Society

The Jesse J. Moorhead chapter of the Arnold Air Society yesterday tapped 15 outstanding Air Force Cadets in a ceremony on Navy Field.

Those tapped were R. W. Ackerman, Wallace; John Boushall, Tampa, Fla.; Charles Motta, Fairlawn, N. J.; James Whitton, Larchmont, N. Y.; R. B. Moorhead, Gastonia; Elijah T. Kirk, Maysville, Ky.; Charles Alridge, Macon, Ga.; Robert Hames, Elkin;

Henry Lowett, Winston-Salem; W. R. Bullock, Bethel; Bruce Holt, Durham; G. B. Ebert, Kernersville; Roland Burnstan, Paris, France; Charles Howard, Charlotte, and Michael K. Davis, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

With Blanks

Student Marines Take To War At 2:30 Today On Navy Field

The Marines will attempt to capture Navy Field today, but don't be alarmed at the battle noises. They are going to use blanks.

The 16 members of the Marine Corps platoon leaders' course here will perform a tactical exercise in the Bell Tower-Kenan Stadium-Navy Field vicinity beginning at 2:30 p.m. Their problem is to capture a fortified position, a machine gun, which will be located on the southeast side of the football practice field.

The Marines will be outfitted with full combat equipment, including Browning Automatic rifles and other weapons—loaded with blanks. They will approach the emplacement through the woods blazing away at strategically placed snipers. When they reach Navy Field they will be fired upon—with blanks—by the machine gun.

Spectators are invited to watch the mock battle. Major F. C. Caldwell, USMC, said observers should assemble on Navy Field to get the best view of the exercise, which will last about an hour.

DR. FRED WEST, pastor of Hillyer Memorial Christian Church, Raleigh, will speak tonight at 8 o'clock in the United Congregational Church here. He is one of a series of speakers during Lent and his topic will be "Strengthening Our Spiritual Foundations Through Prayer."

2 From Here Talk Tonight

Ken Myers and Bill Zuckerman will represent the UNC Debate Team tonight in an exhibition debate at A and T College in Greensboro.

The two teams will debate the subject "Resolved: That the Congress of the United States Should Adopt a Compulsory Fair Employment Practices Law." A and T will argue the negative side and Carolina, the affirmative.

West Point debators will be here on March 26 for a round table discussion with UNC. They will discuss the United States' change in the Far Eastern Policy.

Dormers Reminded

Dorm residents not planning to retain their rooms are reminded to officially cancel with the Housing Office before Spring Quarter or face a $6 penalty.

Housing Director J. E. Wadsworth also reminded that room changes can be made only with the permission of his office, 22 New East annex.

Last Issue Tomorrow

Tomorrow morning's Daily Tar Heel will be the last one published during the Winter Quarter. The regular deadline of 3 p.m. Wednesday will be observed for the final issue.

Publication will be resumed Wednesday morning, March 25.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... WALT DEAR
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. ..... Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. ..... Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. ..... Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hagg
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. ..... Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. ..... Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Pete Adams, Bob Mason, Bob Wolfe, Eleanor Saunders, Buddy Harper, Dorman Cordell, Ned Whitmore.

CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT — Roger Williams, Richard O'Neal, George Harris, Veneta Zeller.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

No Lack Of Confidence

In a move for harmony and better relations, the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees has told the faculties of UNC, State ,and WC that the Trustees have not lost faith in the faculties.

This information was relayed to the faculties at the consolidated conference held here last week by President Gordon Gray. Gray predicted, "There will be a greater caution on the part of the Trustees in exercising control in faculty affairs." Gray observed that "we cannot destroy the Executive Committee . . . We need it to get the business of this university done."

Thus, in one short speech, Gray made an effort to let the faculties know that their voice in the government of the University was not weakened. The very fact that a faculty conference had been called to open the academic and administrative heart of the University is a clear indication that Gray is depending on the faculties for advice and effective leadership in academic affairs.

Even more important to students, we finally get the answer to Gray's almost intolerable support of Saturday classes in the full board's meeting on February 23. Many principles were involved, yes, but to Gray's mind the most important principle was the continuance of the Executive Committee as a working organization to carry out the business of the University. Gray obviously felt that if the Executive Committee lost out on he Saturday class issue, then they would become a greatly weakened body. Then, too, the Saturday class question had been on the trustee's minds since 1948.

The other principle involved—that of trustees meddling with matters that are traditionally handled by educators—professors and administrators—must have been weighed by the Consolidated President. He will be dealing with the trustees and the faculties in the future. He thinks no damage has been done, that the trend towards dictation of academic matters will be cut short.

This is heartening news, now, but it's like feeling better after a long sickness. If this indication of trustees non interference in academic matters holds true, then the Saturday class issue will not have been a disaster.

A Penetrating Warning

The tragic death of Jerry Galanides is a warning to all of us students who drive.

It is a sign to young people that the heavy foot on the accelerator leads to heavy consequences. It is a warning to use common sense once we are sitting behind the wheel.

Jerry Galanides was a likable person. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He was known to be a speedy driver, a carefree man at the wheel. He had been in wrecks before.

We are cognizant of the enjoyment of smooth, quick transportation. We enjoy the fast pace on the open road, the pick-up on a new car. But, more than ever, we realize the dangers of speed. If we, as studnts, and as young pople don't put some kind of governor on our feet as we press down on the accelerator, the law, eventually, will. Insurance rates on those under 25 are extremely high already. Each time such an accident occurs, the public becomes more aroused.

To continue to enjoy our care and the pleasures derived from the use of them, students must lead in a program of safe driving.

The Grey Fox Goes West

The Grey Fox is moving westward after an energetic coaching career in the North and South.

We know him best for his work here and for his teams from 1947 to 1949. But Carl Snavely compiled excellent records at Cornell and at Bucknell.

His new job at Washington University in St. Louis should be a refreshing challenge, and an enjoyable task. Life at a smaller college should be somwhat freer from the pressures of alumni and the "Win them all or get out" philosophy.

Snavely's 1948 team was undefeated in regular season play. In 1947, he compiled an 8-2 record and in 1949, seven wins and four losses including a loss to Rice in the Sugar Bowl.

In his next years, Snavely teams reversed the numbers in the won and lost columns with 3 wins and seven losses, then two wins, etc. It has been said that Snavely's success depended on the athletic abilities of Charlie Justice and one or two other top stars. Yet there was no greater praise for Snavely in the plush years for his outstanding capabilities as a coach, nor no greater demands for a resignation by the same people because of "poor coaching" towards the end.

As Carl Snavely leaves for St. Louis, we feel that the whole University community bids him well on another football adventure.

Revise, Change, Improve, Enlarge

Editor's Note: We conclude publication of the Faculty Conference's findings with this report on Student-Faculty relations. Because of space limitations, we are unable to print the remaining reports on Graduate Work and Research and The Integrated Mission of the University.

President Gray, colleagues of the faculty, and distinguished guests: If the learning process—the academic work of a college or university—is the main reason for existence of the institution, then the relationships of faculty and students are at the very center of institutional activities. Our panel feels, therefore, that no defense needs to be made for the importance of student-faculty relationships in a conference like this. We are dealing here with the very heart of a university.

Before the conference convened, the chairman and the six co-chairmen responsible for this study met and decided that some preliminary work should be done on each of the three campuses before the discussion sessions convened. It was agreed that it would be helpful to bring before the discussion groups two main questions with very tentative answers to each. This procedure was not to exclude consideration of other questions, but to insure the facing of what we deemed to be two basic issues. The two questions were:

1. What do the students on each campus say is wrong with student-faculty relationships?

2. What does the faculty on each campus say is definitely helpful or constructive in respect of student-faculty relationships?

Obviously, not all students nor all faculty members could be polled on these questions, but sincere efforts were made to get a fair sampling of both student and faculty groups. It was felt especially necessary that a cross-section of the student body be interviewed, not just student leaders.

The results of the campus survey were brought to the various discussion groups and naturally evoked lively and sometimes diverse reactions. Especially was it made clear that the main "gripes" of students on one campus were not the main ones on another. Similarly, what the faculty representatives from one institution believed worked well on their campus was frequently thought impracticable or of slight value on another campus.

Student Complaints

In general, however, fairly substantial agreement was found that the following student complaints were pretty widespread and rather deeply rooted:

1. Many, though not all, faculty members take an indifferent attitude toward their students. They do not seem to care whether a student passes or not. Some teachers will not go out of their way to help a floundering student over the rough places.

2. Many faculty members do not want to be bothered by students coming to them and taking up their time. This discourages students from taking the initiative in seeking counsel from such faculty members, some of whom they would like to know better.

3. Freshmen and sophomores have different problems of student-faculty relationships from those of juniors, seniors, and graduate students. Not only are the underclassmen younger in age and more recently thrown into a different world from home and high school, but also more of their work is required and taken under conditions less conducive to close and inspiring contacts with faculty than is true of upper classmen. Underclassmen are more often the forgotten people and feel the need of a friend more than the upperclassmen. The heavy mortality in the first two years may be due in considerable measure to the lack of more helpful student-faculty relationships.

4. Student-faculty relationships could be put on a more human and friendly basis if a teacher in the early days of a course announced to his students that while his office door was not always open, it was open at certain definite times and that entrance was not to be restricted to those seeking counsel on academic matters only.

5. Student-faculty relationships could be improved if the parties could meet informally more often. Places suggested were in the Student Union, in recreation activities, in departmental or professional clubs, in homes and in residence halls, though it was recognized that many such affairs are a distinct bore to many of those attending.

6. The advisory system especially at State and Chapel Hill needs complete re-vamping. In general, it was felt that mass production of advice has no place in so human a problem. More will be said later on this point.

Several students at one institution, where they had experienced something of a riot, told one of our chairmen that the real trouble-makers, the agitators, were all northerners. Fortunately the word "subversives" was not brought in.

What Works Best?

On the issue "What do the faculty think works best on their respective campuses in student-faculty relationships?", wider divergencies appeared than in discussion on students complaints. Doubtless this should be expected in view of the diverse nature of the student bodies and of the functions of the three institutions.

In this field several activities on the Woman's College campus elicted favorable comment and even formal approval from the discussion groups.

One of these is their joint committee system. At the Woman's College there are 10 or 12 functioning committees composed jointly of students and faculty members. One of these is a Finance Board which administers the funds paid by students under the so-called Student Activities fee. This Board is composed of four students and three faculty members with a student chairman, and allocates the student fee money among the various college-wide student activities deemed to be properly supported by student fees, such as the student publications, religious activities, Recreation Association, and Student Government.

Another joint committee that received general approval by the discussion groups is the Studen-Faculty Reviewing Committee at the Woman's College, composed of an equal number of students and faculty and set up to hear any complaints or grievances of any student or group of students on the campus. The committee has no administrative authority but can often explain to complaining students why things are as they are and if changes are deemed advisable, take up such needed changes with the proper authorities. In any event, a "safety valve" is provided whereby students can blow off steam.

Another helpful experience on the Woman's College campus is their Pre-School Conference. Three or four days before college opens in the fall the Student Government officers invite some 100 students and about 50 faculty members to discuss problems facing the campus that year. Such problems as those of social affairs, of better student government, of honor policy, of maintaining a high standard of work and behavior on the campus. Twice during the year a check-up conference is held to review progress or lack of it on the items of objectives laid down in September. The Orientation program at both Carolina and State does much the same thing.

Advisory Setup Inadequate

In the six discussion groups, more time was given to a discussion of the advisory system than to any other single topic. It was felt that this was the very heart of student-faculty relations, second only to effective classroom work. The representatives from State College stated that a Chapel Hill student's report reflected generally their views of the situation and needs in Raleigh. Excerpts from the memorandum read as follows:

"1. The present faculty adviser system in the General College at Chapel Hill is gravely inadequate, even to minimum student needs.

"2. There is a real need for closer and more informal personal contatct between students and faculty and students and administration members, for their mutual benefit.

"3. The most expeditious means of making available to freshmen and sophomore students an opportunity for personal contact with at least one faculty member lies in the establishment of a system of faculty advisers for those classes which will provide for (a) a very small advisory load for each adviser, and (b) emphasis on the student-adviser relationship as an opportunity for contact and consultation on matters beyond the minimum concerns of schedule and curriculum planning.

Abolish It!

"1. The present system of General College advisers should be abolished entirely. What is needed is not simply a renovation or patching-up, but an entire reorientation of the whole program, and of attitudes toward it.

"2. The freshman and sophomore advisory load should be distributed as widely as is feasible among faculty and administrative personnel, so that each adviser will have a workable ratio of advisees to adviser.

"3. It should be possible for any student to change advisers with a minimum of difficulty, should he feel it advisable to do so, although care should be taken to avoid overloading the more popular advisers. The initial assignment of men to their advisers should not always be made on the basis of anticipated major. While certain policy objectives and suggested modes for their attainment should be set forth by the General College administration, implementation should be left very largely with the individual adviser.

"Some students have problems and know what they are; some have problems and have only a vague awareness, at best, that something is wrong. Those in the former category have at least some advantage: they can go to a person whose known specialization or experience might hold out a prospect of assistance—if they know such a person, and if personal timidity or embarrassment do not discourage such an approach. But those students in the latter category—those who have undefined or unapprehended difficulties—are at a double disadvantage, for they must first find out what their problem is. In either case, knowing a faculty or administrative person with whom they have a sufficiently intimate and cordial relationship that the student feels he may approach him in confidence and with a feeling of mutual respect is of the greatest value. Of course, no faculty member or administrator would attempt to give authoritative advice on a matter on which he feels a colleague might better be consulted, but he can at least aid the troubled student in defining his difficulties, and in determining what form his problems seem to take, before referring him elsewhere.

Not Everyone Has Problems

"But not all students have problems—at least perpetually. Yet there is much that even the untroubled student might gain from some close personal relationship with an older person: a more balanced view of life and of some of its value; a greater thirst for learning; a higher concept of service to others; some objective orientation in the matter of spiritual needs and values—perhaps the most universal need among men freshly broken from home's moorings. Often such help can be more easily sought and more readily gained from persons other than parents or old friends, who tend still to think of a boy of eighteen as the child they have known, rather than the rapidly developing and at times perplexed person he really is.

"Note that the issue is not merely one of student-faculty relationships, but of student relationships with administration members as well. In this area, it is not only the student who can draw much from the type of contact suggested. To the teacher, maintaining daily contact with students, in and out of the classroom, there is at least an opportunity to see something of the "normal" student; to learn about his concerns; to hear his viewpoint expressed on matters beyond the course topic. But for the non-teaching administrator, it is all too easy for the students to become either an endless line of trouble-bearers (or makers), or mere columns of statistics for which there is never quite enough housing space, or classroom facilities, or instructors, or gymnasium seats, or money. It is entirely understandable that, lacking the natural and direct contact with students which the teacher has every day, the administrator should come to have a detached, cold, impersonal, and even distorted view of the student-person and his real needs and feelings. Thus it is believed that the emphasis on student contact with University personnel should expend with particular force towards the cultivation of such relations between student and administrator. In this way, the administrator might in part compensate for his lack of classroom contact with students. Participation in the proposed advisory program should include all administration members charged with policy-making responsibilities.

"Special notice in this regard might be given the President of the Consolidated University, although in his case the necessity for an equitable distribution of time between three institutions presents special problems. But in his case particularly it should be remembered that the chief benefits accruing from some direct and regular contact with students would be those flowing to him, in terms of a clearer understanding of student views and aspirations than can be obtained through multiple filters.

"Emphasis here has been largely concentrated on the freshman and sophomore groups, and their relationships with advisors and faculty members. This is done in the belief that the attitudes of students during their initial years here are especially plastic, but that early impressions are likely to last. If a student can form a satisfying relationship with one faculty or administration member, that experience will stimulate the cultivation of other such relationships in later years. A certain amount of direct encouragement—even a gentle but disgusted push—is necessary to break through the reserve and timidity which most students feel, even in their later school years, towards the average teacher or administrator. The barrier which this reservedness constitutes is easily underestimated.

"It is natural that as a student moves into a major field of study and acquires an advisor in that field, he should tend to rely more heavily for counsel and guidance on such an adviser, or perhaps on a favorite instructor in his major field. Here too there should be emphasis on a student-adviser relationship which extends beyond mere schedule-arranging. Given the earlier experiences of a fruitful relationship with a General College adviser, the development of such a relationship here would seem to be greatly facilitated.

"Extent of Participation by Students—Accessability to Faculty:

"It would be overly sanguine to expect that all students would take full advantage of such a program as that outlined here, however great its merits. It would be equally optimistic to expect that teachers and administrators, for whom no day has quite enough hours, would greet with universal applause a program of this sort. But the important thing for the students is that, for those who will avail themselves of it, there be an opportunity for them to establish some reasonably close contact with a member of the administration or faculty. And for the advisors, the time to be consumed in this manner should not be as great as the above commentary might suggest, and certainly advisory duties should not be carried to the point of being a positive burden on the time of any adviser."

Our discussion groups faced a few other issues and took positive stands on most of them.

The housing of students at State and Chapel Hill received severe criticism. It was felt that no real constructive housing policy was being carried out, that some dormitory heads were not trained for nor really interested in their work, and that true housing should mean much more than room assignments and that true living should mean much more than mere housing.

One group passed a motion approving the principle that rating sheets on the faculty to be filled out by the students during a single class period on a voluntary basis and for the sole benefit of the individual faculty member were valuable.

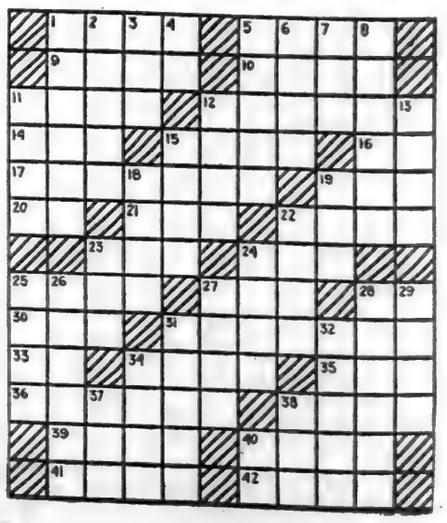
Another group wanted a constant re-emphasis to be made of the academic obligation of students—their first duty is good class work—and the same for the faculty.

Another resolved that a university-wide study should be made on our methods of determining size and teaching load for freshman and sophomore work to see what the three institutions have in common.

Some divergence of views was expressed on whether the main attitude of faculty toward students should be much concern over their individual welfare, going out of our way to help them, or should it be a minimum of coddling or counselling, treating them as adults and expecting them to act as adults. The outcome of this discussion was a general consensus that freshmen, especially, and sophomores to some degree need a good deal of sympathetic attention, such per-

(See REVISE, CHANGE, page 4)

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Cry, as a calf
5. Handle of a knife
9. Ascend
10. Ireland
11. Wet thoroughly
12. Rewards for merit
14. Wayside hotel
15. Rod
16. Music note
17. Showy flowers
19. Edge of a garment
20. Personal pronoun
21. Sphere
22. Weary
23. Often (poet.)
24. Apex
25. Agreement
27. Obscure
28. Thus
30. Wine receptacle
31. Wealthy
33. Measure (Chin.)
34. Citrus fruit
35. Poem
36. Legislative assembly
38. Norwegian snow shoes
39. City in Alaska
40. Remove the skin
41. Prominent actor
42. Voided escutcheon

DOWN
1. Alloy of copper and tin
2. Any climbing vine
3. Question
4. Tellurium (sym.)
5. Backs of feet
6. Assistant
7. Friar's title
8. Bank employe
11. Kingdom in Asia
12. Ancient kingdom
13. Identical
15. Saucy
18. Attic
19. Ripe fruit of the rose
22. Large volume
23. Tuber (So. Am.)
24. Prong
25. Chums
26. City in France
27. Vaulted roof
28. Seat in the chancel (Eccl.)
29. Poems
31. Bishop's headdress
32. English plowboy

Yesterday's Answer

34. Tibetan priest
37. Word of negation
38. Varying weight (Ind.)
40. Italian river

Entire Net Team Returns For 1953; Outstanding Freshmen Add Depth

By Vardy Buckalew

The entire Carolina tennis team, which won all but two matches last year, is back for another season and with the addition of several outstanding freshmen, should have its most successful season in recent years.

Coach John Kenfield has put his boys to work now that the spring weather has arrived, and hopes to have them rounded into shape when they open the season on March 26 against Springfield College.

The list of returning players includes the Southern Conference singles champion and also the title holders in the doubles division.

Del Sylvia, the conference singles champ and captain of last year's team, is returning for his third and last year of play in the number one spot for coach Kenfield. Sylvia pulled a muscle in his leg last spring and then again in the fall, but he has had no more trouble from it and expects to be in top form for the beginning of the season.

Last year's number two and three men, Herb Browne and Bobby Payne, who beat teammates Sylvia and Sam Handel in the finals of the conference doubles championships, were only freshmen last year and are looking forward to three more years of varsity competition.

Others returning from last year's team include Handel, last year's fourth man, Bill Izlar, who held down the fifth position, Ronnie Kerdasha, who performed in the sixth spot, and Dick Sapp, a doubles player.

However, last year's lineup is certain to be shaken up quite a bit this season due to the addition to the squad of several outstanding freshmen. The main weakness of the team last year was the lack of depth and these new boys are expected to remedy that situation for this year's team.

The best of the freshmen appears to be Tommy Bradford of Washington, D. C., a left-hander. As a matter of fact, three of the freshmen are left-handers, the first southpaws the team has had since the war, according to Coach Kenfield.

Other outstanding freshmen who will probably see a lot of action are Don Thompson of Jackson Heights, N. Y., Bruce Gustafson, also from Washington, and Pete Green from West Palm Beach, Fla. Thompson and Gustafson are lefties.

The schedule opens with Springfield on March 26, the day after spring quarter classes start, and includes 25 dual matches, ending with Princeton in Princeton on May 9.

The conference tournament is scheduled for Davidson on May 14-16. Princeton and Yale are the only new teams to be added to the 1953 schedule and there will be eighteen home matches.

The schedule:

March 26, Springfield College, here; March 30 and 31, Harvard, here.

April 1 and 2, Williams, here; April 3, Amherst, here; April 4, Michigan State, here; April 6, Presbyterian College, here; April 7, Univ. of the South, here; April 8, Dartmouth College, here; April 9, Dartmouth College, here; April 10, Kalamazoo College, here; April 16, Wake Forest, here; April 21, N. C. State, here; April 23, Duke, here; April 27, William and Mary, here; April 30, Rollins College, here.

May 2, Virginia, Charlottesville; May 4, Williams, Williamstown; May 5, Amherst, Amherst; May 6, Harvard, Cambridge; May 7, Brown, Providence; May 8, Yale, New Haven; May 9, Princeton, Princeton.

Golf Team Opens Card Here With The Citadel

Carolina's Southern Conference champion golf team will open its 1933 season at the University's Finley Golf Course against The Citadel on March 25.

The match will be the first of 10 dual meets. Also included on the schedule for the golfers is the Southern Intercollegiate tournament at Athens, Ga., April 30-May 2 and the Southern Conference tournament at Winston-Salem's Old Town Country Club May 15-16.

The team lost last year's individual Conference champ Tommy Langley, to the Navy but will have five lettermen returning. Senior lettermen are Bob Black, Bill Williamson and Jimmy Ferree. Bill Thornton and Pete Parker won letters last year.

A host of freshman have been trying out for the squad and should help fill the openings. Showing good promise have been Billy Ford and John Frazier.

Further trials for the varsity and freshman teams will continue on March 25-27.

Gregory Boys Lead Matmen To Sixth Place In Tourney

Coach Sam Barnes' Carolina mat men wound up their competition for the 1952-53 season this past week-end by gaining a sixth-place finish in the Southern Conference tournament held at Lexington, Va.

The Tar Heels scored a total of eight points at the tourney, placing ahead of Duke, V. M. I. and Citadel.

The season record for the matmen in dual meet competition was three wins and seven losses.

Outstanding in the tournament for the blue and white grapplers were Arthur and Miles Gregory. Arthur, in the 157-pound division, placed third in the tournament in that division, losing to the defending champion in his first match, but winning two matches in the consolation finals.

Miles, at 177 pounds, placed second in the annual meet, losing only to defending champion Shanahan of Maryland. The remainder of the Tar Heel grapplers failed to place in the tourney.

In dual meet competition, Harry Pawlik and the two Gregory boys had the best records. Each had five wins in the ten dual meets. Among the other wrestlers, Eddie Haines had four wins to his credit, with Harvey Bradshaw and Andy Holt winning three matches apiece.

Wake Forest Ranked 12th In AP Voting

Wake Forest's newly-acclaimed Southern Conference champions moved up to twelfth place in this week's Associated Press poll, dropping N. C. State down to eighteenth.

The Deacons, who will play in the regional of the NCAA at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh Friday night, had 63 points in the voting with one first place vote.

Indiana, despite an upset loss to Minnesota earlier in the week, remained as the top team in the country but found Washington's Pacific Coast champions pulling up closer as the season nears an end.

Indiana had 392 votes, the Huskies 370, and LaSalle 351 in what has turned out to be three way race for the championship. LaSalle lost to St. Johns in the National Invitational, 71-70, on Monday night, however, and will probably lose some of its support.

DANZIGER'S

HOMEMADE VEGETABLE SOUP .20

SPECIAL STUDENT PLATES

MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with Spaghetti .50

GROUND BEEF on toast with hashed brown potatoes vegetables .55

HUNGARIAN VEAL in cream sauce with egg noodles .85

MUNICH SAUSAGE with sauerkraut and roast potatoes .85

STUFFED GREEN PEPPER with tomato sauce and potatoes .75

BREADED PORK CHOP with potato and vegetable .90

CZECH MEAT ROULADE with sour cream and vegetable .85

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

OPEN EVENINGS

HEADQUARTERS FOR Palm Beach® WOVEN BY GOODALL-SANFORD, INC. ONLY

SUITS SLACKS SPORT JACKETS

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

One good thing about modern cars. They very rarely succumb to major breakdowns without giving plenty of warning first. Have your engine, brakes, transmission and other car systems checked regularly and BE SURE that you can depend on your car. Drive up here for a complete Spring check-up, today!

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH-6581 PLYMOUTH

Better Bone Up With A College Outline From

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

NOW PLAYING Carolina

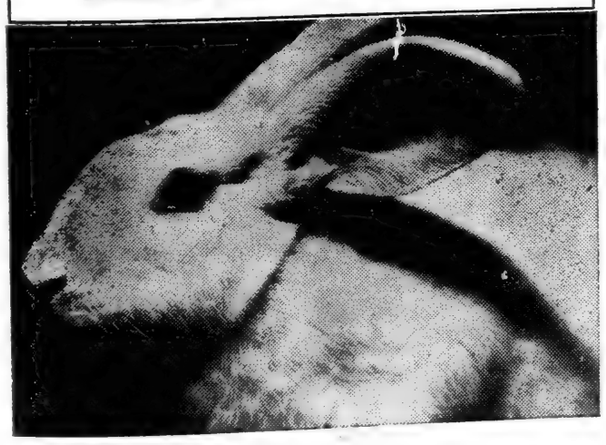
Through the "Help Wanted" columns with Gun and Camera... or

Maybe the Low Man on that Totem Pole Started at the Bottom

Once there was a Senior who was Engaged. Very happily. One day, however, he realized that while Being Engaged, before graduation, was one thing, Being Engaged (A.D.) (after diploma) involved such complications as Getting Married and Supporting Dependents. In a word, Work.

So he began sending job letters to Personnel Directors of Large Corporations, outlining his qualifications. Some answered, sending him Application Forms to fill out. Some didn't. Eventually he wound up with a grim Common Denominator: they would let him know If Anything Came up.

Disenchanted but Willing, he outlined the problem to his Betrothed, a girl of Superior Intelligence. She regarded him sternly. "No wonder," she said, "letters, yet! Listen," and she unfurled a Stratagem.



First thing next morning, he jetted down to the Western Union office, in one hand a list of the 10 companies he'd most like to work for, and in the other a compelling message making clear that here was The Man, awaiting only the opportunity to Prove It. Sent it as a Telegram to all 10 companies.

Results? Within a week he had 6 Interviews, 4 Job Offers. Today, when he brags about being a Self-Made Man, his wife just Smiles Indulgently.

When you're jockeying for a job, use Telegrams to Get the Jump on the Competition. Telegrams get In, get Read, get the Reaction you want. Wonder-workers in other ventures, too . . . whether you're Dickering for a Date, a Hotel Reservation, or Power from Pop. Just call Western Union.

North Columbia Ave.
Telephone: 2681

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

Here's a sad cotton tale: poor Paul was in a stew about his hare until his paw wrote: "I ear you got a bun on because your girl left you. Now, lettuce look at the bre'r facts. To get in on the bunny huggin', smart rabbits foot it down to any toilet goods counter for Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's biggest-selling hare tonic. So fuzz thing tomorrow, invest 29¢ in a bottle or handy tube. Contains soothing Lanolin. Non-alcholic. Grooms the hare. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Sheedy tried Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's a jump ahead of every Tom, Dick and Harvey. So what're you waiting fur? Get Wildroot Cream-Oil today, and ask for Wildroot at your barber's. You're bound to like it!

*of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N.Y.

Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N.Y.

—Russia—

(Continued from page 1)

lin was able to force Trotsky into exile, and another decade passed, marked by mass purges, before he was able to consolidate his power. It is far from certain that Malenkov can survive unless he is able to weigh and calculate the chances of alternate courses, even in world affairs, with some of the skill of his master.

Bearing a struggle for power in the Soviet Union which might encourage recklessness the writer anticipates no significant shift in Russian foreign policy in the immediate future. Malenkov has been close to Stalin and is known to be a nationalist and isolationist of the Molotov stamp. Molotov's return to the foreign office is a natural move. Not only did he occupy this office during the crucial decade from 1939 to 1949, but it appears that he has had much more to do with the shaping of foreign policies since 1949 than has Vishinsky. The new Premier needs the experienced and cautious Molotov, whose career runs back to the Revolution of 1917, at his side.

Key to the future— Gibbs Training

Gibbs secretarial training opens doors for college women to career opportunities in their chosen field. Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."

KATHARINE GIBBS

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth Street

We've Got The Hottest Records This Side Of The Mason-Dixon

Dale Fairless in Glen-Lennox offers you the perfect selection of favorite classicals by world-reknown artists and the best-known "all time" favorites. For real musical enjoyment, drive out to Dale Fairless Shop and hear these outstanding records.

OPEN FRIDAY—7-9 P.M.

DALE FAIRLESS SHOP

Glen-Lennox

Remember This Number!

9-3498

This number, 9-3498, is your ticket to better, faster dry cleaning service. Nu-Way Cleaners have rightfully earned the reputation of Chapel Hill's quickest and best dry cleaners thru their Fast Pick-up and Delivery Service and, if desired, 24 hour service. For unexcelled dry cleaning and quality service, call Nu-Way today.

NU-WAY CLEANERS

"WE MEAN—WE CLEAN"

N. Graham St. Phone 9-3498

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

SUTTON'S DRUG STORE gives you the quiz answers . . . Tennis, Charlie Chan and Australia . . . just as we give you the finest selection of gifts in town. Don't delay . . . shop here, today. Today is someone's birthday? or anniversary?

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS—MEN'S TOILETRIES—SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531—COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE—JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

Red Geranium Too!

Actor Emlyn Williams, His Readings Observed As 'Very Embodiment' Of Dickens Himself

From the moment that Emlyn Williams made his first entrance on Memorial Hall stage Saturday evening to perform selections from the works of Charles Dickens he was the very embodiment of Dickens himself.

The man with the flowing hair, the beard that had not made up its mind in which direction it was going to grow, and the traditional red geranium in his button-hole was Dickens steeped straight from the lecture halls of the 19th century.

With his striking resemblance to the writer Williams combined a remarkable intelligence and insight as to exactly how to perform the classics. "Perform" is used here rather than "read" because in the course of the evening there were dance steps, imitations of candelabra that put Reginald Gardiner's interpretations of inanimate objects to shame, and any number of florid, but highly effective, gestures.

Vocal, as well as physical, showmanship abounded in deft delineations of a large number of motley Dickens characters. Hilarious as a rasping, scolding landlady from the "Pickwick Papers," touching as an ill, sensitive little boy in the "Dombey and Son" section, and frightening as a terrified, superstitious signal man from the "Signal Man," Williams brought forth each personage from the books and made them vivid, living people.

If he has succeeded only in reawakening interest in Dickens by his fascinating and colorful performance, Williams has done a great service. For as many individuals apparently discovered for the first time the charm and effectiveness of Dickens has not dimmed with age. The six works chosen for the program covered a wide field and clearly illustrated that the author was a master in a great many styles of writing.

Possibly the most effective of the selections was "The Fancy Ball," an episode from "A Tale of Two Cities." This was a slightly vague, but powerful, allegory of the decadent French aristocracy of the late eighteenth century sweeping toward the guillotine of the Revolution. Phrase repetitions and brilliant word painting made this a deeply moving section.

In a completely different mood was the hilarious account of the superficial British nouveau riches described in the scenes from "Our Mutual Friends." Fine etching of detail was the highlight of this section. Williams was at his best in his interpretation of the heavy dinnerware on the Podsnaps' table cajoling the guests with "Wouldn't you like to melt me down?" Though one or two of the scenes dragged in places, there were masterful bits sprinkled through each of them. Typical was the description of a brutal teach, from "Dombey and Son," who felt that rather than let the intelligence of a child "Blossom forth like a flower," it was much better to "pry it open like an oyster shell."

Through canny showmanship and sheer mastery of and true devotion to the subject, Emlyn Williams provided a thoroughly stimulating evening in the theatre.

In an interview after the performance the eminent Welsh actor and author of "The Corn in Green" said that Dickens provided a perfect vehicle for dramatic interpretations, because his writings are intensely dramatic. Asked if American audiences are as appreciative as the British of this form of drama, he replied that once they can be persuaded to enter the theatre they are as fully entertained as their brothers across the sea.

After a limited engagement in New York in the latter part of April reading his own adaptation of "Bleak House," Williams plans to return to England in May and later in the year to travel to Africa for a series of performances. If the reaction there is anything like it was here Williams is assured of a great success.—John Taylor.

Theta Chi, Beta, Pi Lamb, DKE Name Officers

Beta Theta Pi, Theta Chi, Delta Kappa Epsilon and Pi Lambda Phi fraternities have announced their newly elected officers.

Stan Sturn, Greensboro, has been elected new president of Eta chapter of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

John McLendon, Greensboro will serve as chapter vice-president and Thatcher Townsend, Greensboro, as house manager. Other officers include Buck Barkley, New Orleans, La., secretary; Dick Patterson, Greensboro, recorder; Dick Guthrie, Winston-Salem, rush chairman; Bill Phillips, Rocky Mount, alumni secretary; Dick Patterson, intra-murals manager; Thad Eure, Raleigh, and John McCollum, Houma, La., co-social chairman; Dick Guthrie, Winston-Salem, Germans representative; Toby Haynesworth, Sumter, S. C., IFC representative; John McCollum, sergeant-at-arms; Pete McMichael, Reidsville, chaplain; John McLendon, Greensboro, historian; Dick Patterson, librarian.

James Rufus Warren of N. Charleston, S. C., as president, will head the slate of 1953-54 officers for Alpha Eta chapter of Theta Chi fraternity. Other officers elected this week are the following:

Clinton T. Andrews Jr., Hickory, vice-president; William D. Beck, Statesville, secretary; Jack L. Scism, Danville, Va., pledge marshall; W. Robert Pollard, Farmville, first guard; Robert Curtis, Marion, second guard; Alan R. Perry, Charlotte, historian; Ronald B. Goodman, Charlotte, librarian; and Steve Marcinko, Johnstown, Pa., chaplain.

Frank Lee Hood, Asheville, has been elected president of Beta chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Other new officers include Dick Pillsbury, Salisbury, Md., vice-president; Jim Lindley, Greensboro, secretary; and Frank Daniels, Raleigh, new executive committee member.

Omega Beta chapter of Pi Lambda Phi fraternity has elected Joe Raff, Charlotte, as president for the coming year.

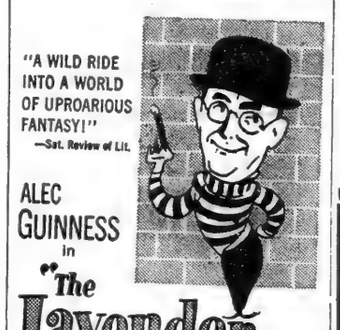
The rest of the slate includes Howard Silvers, Baltimore, Md., vice-president; Al J. Goodman Jr., Asheville, secretary; Louis Bates, Greensboro, treasurer; Howard Zerden, Hickory, house manager; Sam Lerner, Lincolnton, parliamentarian; Burton Bershaw, Asheville, intramurals manager; Herbert Wainer, Winston-Salem, social chairman; Max H. Crohn Jr., Asheville, kitchen steward.

Pi Lambda Phi Benson Slosman, Asheville, was presented an award for being the outstanding brother of the year.

When the Grind Gets Too heavy Treat Yourself to a Half Hour's Browse In the friendly

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.



Open Evenings

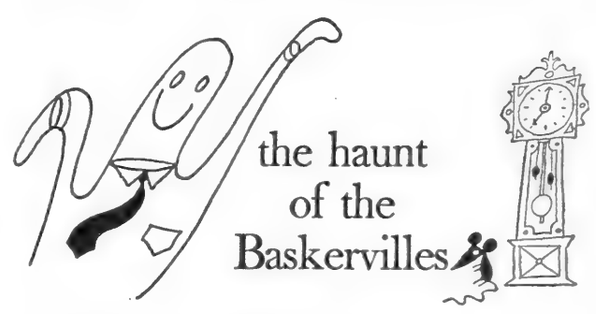
Last Times Today

Varsity

TOMORROW

—Revise, Change—

(Continued from page 2)



sonal attention to progressively diminish as the student approaches graduation.

The chief items of unfinished business we have to suggest are (a) the actual re-vamping of the advisory system at Chapel Hill and State; (b) the improvement of housing in respect of trained head resident counsellors, and a better and (c) the whole problem of student-administration relationships.

In conclusion may I with humility and sincerity pay grateful tribute to the six co-chairmen and to the more than 100 faculty members who contributed to this report. The interchange of view was always frank and friendly, never acrimonious. We have learned to know each other better. Whether as a result of this conference student-faculty relationships will be improved we cannot be certain. But we are certain that inter-faculty relationships have been improved.

Submitted by,

State College: W. N. Hicks, Banks Talley
Chapel Hill: S. B. Knight, Frank Klingberg
Greensboro: Bernice Draper, James W. Painter, Albert Keistler
Chairman

ONCE there was a ghost named Leroy, who lived in a haunted cottage near a large Eastern university. Every Friday night, at exactly seven o'clock, he'd slide under the door of Baskerville Hall (the main dorm), and give the students all the answers to next week's quizzes.

This was quite a set up. No studying, no cramming . . . and straight A's all term long. But then, one Friday, the hour came and went. No Leroy! And the following week, all the Baskerville Boys got an F on every quiz!

The Friday after that, all of Baskerville Hall waited . . . and waited. But still no Leroy! In high dudgeon, they set out to find him. Creeping into Leroy's haunted cottage . . . the Baskerville Boys found him moaning and groaning. "What's the matter, Leroy?" they asked.

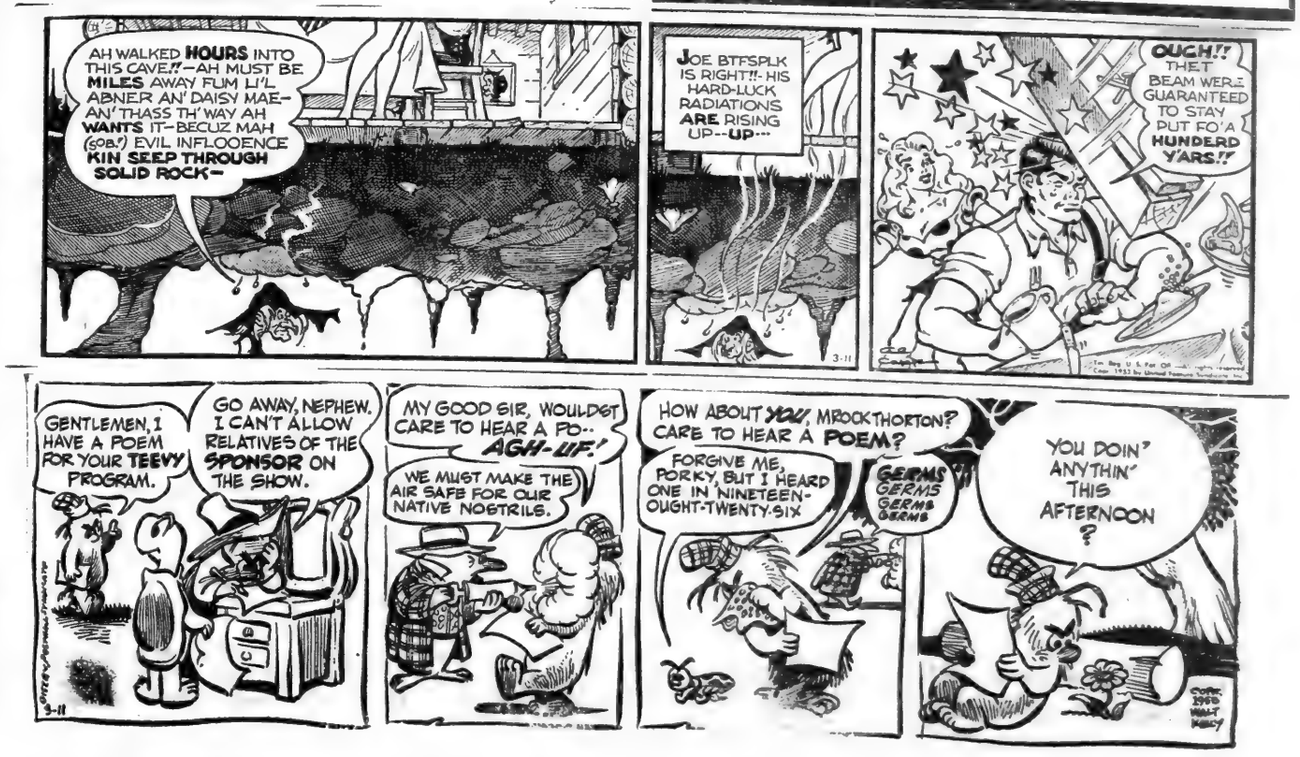
Leroy wiped a ghostly tear from his ghostly eye. "The weather's so hot, every time I put on a shirt the collar curls and wilts. I haven't been out for two weeks!"

In high glee, the Baskerville Boys hurried to the local Van Heusen dealer and bought a dozen Van Heusen Century Shirts with the revolutionary soft collar that won't wrinkle ever. 6 whites, 2 grays, 2 blue and 2 tan . . . some with regular collars, some with spread collars. At only $3.95 apiece, they thought it was a very good investment.

Leroy was delighted. He rewarded the boys with all the answers to the following week's quizzes. Two months later, all the boys from Baskerville Hall had flunked out. Leroy's good-looking Van Heusen Century Shirts made him so popular with the co-eds, that he didn't have time for quizzes or answers.

Complete Line of Van Heusen Men's Wear

TOWN AND CAMPUS



CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

HAVE MATCHING RED LEATHERETTE Couch and over-stuffed chair—Practically new—Must sell, make me an offer—Ed Stevens, Chi Psi Lodge; Phone 9-2061 between 11 and 2.

27 FOOT STREAM-LITE TRAILER—Room attached—8x15 feet. Large Tires. Ready for pulling. $775. Interested in selling by end of Quarter.

USED THAYER HIGH-CHAIR practically new. Contact Caswell Edmundson. U. N. C. Trailer Court. Ct No. 62.

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Mostly cloudy with rain with 60 high. Yesterday's high, 54; low, 44.

The Daily Tar Heel

BEAUTY
P. 4 has got it in two pictures.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 113 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

European Flood Aid Helped U.S.

By Elizabeth Aleander

The money and supplies that the United States sent to England and Holland as relief following the gigantic floods on the North Sea coasts this winter did much to boost America's prestige, says Dr. John P. Gillin, University sociologist and anthropologist.

Just back from the flood areas, Dr. Gillin, who was a member of a seven man U. S. team of experts appointed by the National Research Council to determine the impact of such disaster on the population of the two countries, reported on his work this week before a group of University officials and faculty members. The study will be made from a sociological and psychological standpoint.

In the disaster area for three weeks, Dr. Gillin flew home last week after the United States team, in cooperation with a British team of experts from the Ministry of Health, turned over their follow-up work to a group of young British scientists.

A group of three from this country is still working in England —a psychiatrist, an expert in community organization, and an expert on medical administration. Dr. Gillin pointed out that the National Research Council wanted Dr. Gordon Blackwell, Director of the University's Institute for Research in Social Science, to take the job on community organization, but he was unable to do so due to pressing duties here.

In the Netherlands a team of two Americans remained to work with the group of social scientists and psychologists from the Royal Academy of Sciences and the Dutch government team on a series of studies of catastrophes. The American pair are Dorothy Keur, Hunter College, N. Y., anthropologist, and Bert Hudson of Rice Institute, Texas.

Dr. Gillin said that the tremendous help that the various European countries gave to the flood areas served to promote European unity more than a lot of "pacts and treaties" would have done.

Russia, he said, missed the boat as far as propaganda goes by about three weeks. The Soviet contributed more than $300,000 to the stricken areas, but it was after all the other European countries and the United States had rushed to the aid of the hapless people.

Dr. Gillin said he was impressed with the way in which the British

(See EUROPEAN, page 3)

Coeds To Pick May Day Court During Meeting

Final elections for May Queen and her court will be made today in all coed dormitories and sorority houses during house meetings.

Town girls can vote in the town girls' room at the Y between 11 and 12. They are requested to vote as the turnout was very poor for the primary elections last week.

Candidates are Jane Adams, Katherine Armistead, Isabel Barksdale, Katherine Barton, Anna Beeson, Saralyn Bonowitz, Diane Breslow, Beverly Chalk, Grace Doar, Jacqueline Fox, Dolores Funai, Grace Gordon, Mary Lindeman, Beth Lloyd, Joan McCuthchen, Margaret Mathews, Carman Nahm.

Carmen Oastler, Thalia Pappas, Ann Phillips, Betty Jean Schoeppe, Dot Smith, Jane Sneed, Ann Sory, Elizabeth Stetson, Virginia Wilson, Ross Young, Barbara Cox, Ruth Ledford, Martha Smith and Roberta Jones.

Last Grail Sale

Seniors are reminded by the Grail "to start making up their minds about graduation invitations.

Graduation invitations will be on sale for the last time this year from March 30 to April 3 in the Y Court from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Calling cards also may be ordered then.

UNC Takes The Lead In Visual Education

TV Films Made At Carolina Are Shown To Legislators

RALEIGH, March 11 — (Special)—With Kay Ksyer as master of ceremonies, state legislators were given a demonstration of educational television this week by the State Radio and Television Commission.

They saw films described as kinescopic recordings which were made by UNC for use on the University's proposed TV network.

The Radio and Television Commission, created by the General Assembly early in January, is looking into the feasibility of setting up an eight station television network in the state for non-commercial education purposes. A June 2 deadline was set by the Federal Communications Commission for use of the channels, but it was agreed to ask for an extension until June 30, 1955.

UNC, however, has made a study of the field and already has plans for stations at Chapel Hill, State College and Woman's College. The commission was advised that once the University programs are put to use, the commission and the Legislature would be able to see bettter what TV teaching methods would work on a larger scale.

The University expects to finance its TV operations with private funds. President Gordon Gray explained that the Ford Foundation has offered $100,000 for the work on conditions that UNC raise matching funds, that UNC is able to show its TV work can be financed for two years, and that the University complete its plans by March 31.

Gray indicated that the University may meet the conditions.

The eight channels have been offered to Raleigh, Asheville, Greensboro, Chapel Hill, Charlotte, Durham, Wilmington and Winston-Salem. Under the present plan they must be accepted by June 2 or be released for allocation to possible commercial users.

With the University's TV project as a guide, the state and the communities to which the education channels are offered would be able to get details which school boards, town boards and the Legislature would ask before funds would be allocated.

The University's three-campus arrangement would enable telecasts to be transmitted over channel 4 from studios at State College, Woman's College and Chapel Hill. University officials estimate the facilities would cost slightly over $500,000 and the operating expenses for two years would run slightly under $400,000. All the funds, it was stressed, would come from private donors and foundations.

The University will make use of Channel 4, the one very high frequency station allocated. The seven other channels will be ultra high frequency. At least two other commercial stations, WPTF in Raleigh and WDNC in Durham have offered to permit the University to hang its antenna on their towers.

The Bitter End

The final examination schedule for Winter Quarter as released by Edwin S. Lanier, director of the Office of Central Records:

No student may be excused from a scheduled exam, Lanier noted, except by the Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his General College adviser or his dean.

The schedule:

Common Examination (All French, German, and Spanish Courses numbered 1, 2, 3, & 4)	Friday, March 13, 8:30 a.m.
All 11 a.m. classes	Friday, March 13, 2 p.m.
All 1 p.m. classes	Saturday, March 14, 8:30 a.m.
All 12 Noon Classes	Saturday, March 14, 2 p.m.
All 2 p.m. classes and Zoology 103	Monday, March 16, 8:30 a.m.
All 8 a.m. classes	Monday, March 16, 2 p.m.
All 9 a.m. classes	Tuesday, March 17, 8:30 a.m.
All 3 p.m. classes and Bus. Adm. 71 & 72, Chemistry 2, and all classes not otherwise provided for in this schedule	Tuesday, March 17, 2 p.m.
All 10 a.m. classes	Wednesday, March 18, 8:30 a.m.

Library Currently Exhibiting Two Displays By English Club

The Library is currently exhibiting two displays prepared and sponsored by the English Club.

In the basement hall, at the west end, is a collection of books, programs, and illustrations dealing with Charles Dickens as an actor and playwright. From the Rare Book Room there are first editions of five of Dickens' six plays, as well as many theatrical mementoes from a local collection of Dickensiama.

Those who attended the recent rendition given by Emlyn Williams will be interested in the copy of "Dombey and Son" which illustrates Dickens' manuscript corrections for stage presentation. The display was arranged by Bill Morris, a graduate student in English.

At the west end of the main hall is an exhibition of books and pictures dealing with the controversy over Shakespeare's real and conjectured identity. In the case, which was prepared by John Schnorrenberg, are books favoring both the Earl of Oxford and Sir Francis Bacon, along with interesting illustrations of the ingenious devices used by both factions to prove their arguments. On the end paper of one such study, the eminent bibliographer and collector of Shakespeare, the late Dr. Samuel A. Tannenbaum, has written the comment: "A lunatic book."

Folk Festival Planned Here On June 11-13

The sixth annual Carolina Folk Festival, sponsored by the University's Folklore Council and operated under the direction of Bascom Lamar Lunsford, widely known Turkey Creek folklorist, will be held in Kenan Stadium June 11-13.

Following a session with members of the council this week, Lunsford began a tour of the state for the purpose of rounding up another all-star cast of performers.

"We expect a large participation again this year," Lunsford said. He pointed out that in the past there have been as many as 700 performers at a Carolina Folk Festival, some of them coming from as far away as Texas and Kentucky.

There will be three evening performances again this year, with many old favorite performers participating, including George Pegram, the banjo-strumming, ballad-singing Lenoir county farmer.

"In fact, most of those who have performed in the past will be on hand again this year," Lunsford said. "There will be a variety program, including balladry, string bands, folklore songs, early English and Scottish tunes still sung in the Carolina mountains, and traditional folk and square dancing known to various regions."

Some of the well known performers expected to be here, in addition to Pegram, are the Scottish Highlanders from Fayetteville; the Indian dancers from Lenoir county; an all-girl dance team from Watts Hospital, Durham; the Wildcat Square Dance team from Orange county; the Bowes Brothers' string band from Woodsdale and Ruby Lovingood's string band from Buncombe county.

GRIM AND tight-lipped, Andrei A. Gromyko, the original Soviet "No" man, arrives in New York to assume command of Russia's United Nation's team. Gromyko (center) is flanked by members of his "official" family.—NEA Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

VIENNA—Czechoslovakia charged that the two American Thunderjets attacked by MIG planes were caught by Czech fighters 25 miles inside the Czech border. The U. S. Air Force declared that American pilots will fight back the next time Communist planes invade Western Germany and attack U. S. aircraft.

★

RALEIGH — Federal narcotics agents say the arrest of two Mt. Olive youths on narcotics charges may result in the smashing of a marijuana ring suspected of operting between Mexico and the U. S. The youths, Rupert Dail, 14, and Dulan Powell, 20, are awaiting trial in federal court on charges of conspiracy to violate the narcotics laws and transfer of marijuana on which federal tax has not been paid.

★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told Russia yesterday that the American Army it claims committed "atrocities" in Korea is "the same army which helped the Soviet Army defeat Hitler." Lodge was speaking in answer to Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko who had charged that "atrocities and crimes have been systematically carried out by soldiers of the U. S. against the North Koreans and Chinese Communists."

★

SEOUL—South Korean raiders struck suddenly through a driving snow storm yesterday to wipe out a North Korean outpost on the eastern front in more than an hour of vicious hand-to-hand fighting. Plowing through snow 10 inches deep, the ROK infantrymen slammed into the surprised Communist position. The North Koreans were huddled in deep trenches. The raiders cleaned out the position with bayonets, rifles, submachine-guns and hand grenades.

★

RALEIGH—A Senate committee reported favorably on a compulsory motor vehicles inspection bill yesterday without a formal vote in open committee session. Irked by refusal of reporters to let the committee vote in private, Chairman James Bailey of Raleigh announced that the "sentiments" of members had been determined by the chairman. He said the vote was 6-4.

McCarthy Won't Back Velde In His Search Of The Clergy

WASHINGTON — Any suggestion that Congress look for Communists among the clergy is a very hot potato. But, while Sen. McCarthy knows a hot potato when he sees it, Congressman Velde juggles it.

That's one difference between these two Republicans—McCarthy of Wisconsin and Velde of Illinois —who nevertheless have some points in common:

McCarthy, 44, and Velde, 43, are both lawyers. Both were judges in their home states. And both are busy beating the bushes for Communists.

Two days ago Velde, chairman but apparently not boss of the House Un - American Activities Committee which has been searching for Communists in education, made a statement about the possibility of looking for them among clergymen.

The roof fell in. All members of his committee who could be reached were against the idea. And some, but not all clergymen, made statements giving him the icy stare.

Confronted with this reaction, Velde said he may have been misinterpreted. McCarthy, watching Velde could have any investigation of the clergy all to himself.

"I wasn't aware," said McCarthy, "of his plans to make such an investigation. He has my complete, wholehearted assurance that there is not even the remotest possibility of our overlapping."

McCarthy, who began his rise to national attention in 1950 with charges of Communists in the State Department, is still working on the same project. He's chairman of a Senate Committee investigating the department's "Voice of America."

But there is another difference between these two. McCarthy can walk into a brier patch and come out acting like a man who landed in a rose-bed. Velde sometimes gets scratched up.

"I have been called," said McCarthy recently, "probably every name in the world and it has not been effective against McCarthy. I have been accused of everything except murdering my grandmother."

Velde tangled recently with Mrs. Agnes Meyer, wife of Eugene Meyer, board chairman of the Washington Post. In a talk to a group of school administrators she criticized Velde and plans for investigating schools and colleges.

Velde tried to hit back by saying Mrs. Meyer had been mentioned by Pravda as writing to a Russian journal a letter expressing profound admiration for the people of the Soviet Union.

The Post investigated and found that the writer not only was not Mrs. Meyer but had a different name and lived in Canada. The Post said when Velde was told he had made a serious error, he refused to retract unless Mrs. Meyer retracted what she had said.

The Post story which told all this mentioned the word "libel." The next day Velde retracted. He blamed the error on an employee of his committee. He said later the employee was fired.

He did sue a fellow Senator for libel—Benton, Democrat of Connecticutt—for statements connected with Benton's plea to Congress to bounce McCarthy. Benton called him a man of "corruptibility and mendacity."

The attitude McCarthy adopted toward Benton was one of contempt. "That mental midget," he said. Benton was defeated for reelection in 1952 just as another Democrat, Sen. Tydings of Maryland who also called McCarthy a liar, was defeated in 1950.

Formal Dedication Of Station WUNC Slated Tomorrow

Carolina's educational radio station, WUNC, will be formally dedicated tomorrow night, after over 4 months of successful operation.

The dedication will feature a 30-minute documentary program entitled "The History and Significance of Radio in North Carolina." Prepared by John Clayton, an instructor in the Radio Department, the program will be broadcast at 9:30 p.m. over a special statewide network. It will be re-broadcast Sunday night for the eastern and western parts of the state.

WUNC will be operating from its new studios in the basement of Swain Hall for the first time.

Among the special guests expected for the dedication are Graydon Ausmus, president of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, and Cecil Hoskins, president of the North Carolina association. Chancellor R. B. House of UNC and representatives from 10 southeastern states and the territory of Puerto Rico will also be present.

Two former WUNC station managers, Buddy Vaden and Tom Maness, both with Raleigh's WPTF now, have been invited to take part.

Last November Chancellor House said, "This is the first time we have been able to present directly to the people, through our own radio facilities, the vast resources of the University. This is a big stride toward President Gray's goal of making the University "become the heart, the will, the brain, and the conscience of the state of North Carolina."

Tomorrow's dedication of the student-operated, University controlled FM station marks a formal culmination of this part of Gray's vision for the Consolidated University.

CAMPUS SEEN

Harland the professor waxing witty, then bounding out of class three steps at a time like Harland the Princeton sprinter of four decades ago.

*

Students heading from church service to drug store to browse in sex book section.

*

Coed crying as she surveys her scattered broken packages on rainy Franklin St. sidewalk.

Degree Added By Education For Graduates

Newest star on the horizon in the field of graduate studies in professional education is the addition of the degree of doctor of education to the program of graduate studies at the University.

In announcing the establishment of this degree, Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education pointed out that it represents "an extension and unification of the entire graduate program and will be of particular interest to administrative and supervisory personnel in educational careers."

"The program of graduate studies at the University now," said Dean Phillips, 'has been adequately rounded out to include four advanced degrees in the School of Education. The other three are master of arts, master of education and doctor of philosophy.

The master of arts degree and the doctor of philosophy degree have been established for many years and are of particular interest to those who may wish to prepare for research activities or certain types of college teaching.

The M.E. degree, he said, has been designed especially for teachers and administrators who may need a different distribution of courses to allow for more subject matter or professional activities.

The new doctor of education degree has been organized "to meet the peculiar professional requirements of administrative and supervisory personnel in all phases of public school and teacher education work," Dean Phillips said. "It is the culmination of a professional program in education based upon an undergraduate degree, the graduate master's degree and successful experience. Functional research will be an essential phase of the program. In some cases a well-planned internship will be arranged."

Candidates now have the opportunity and the choice of two well-balanced programs which can be pursued through to a doctdorate, depending upon their future plans, he explained.

In adopting the new doctor of education degree, which was recently authorized by the Administrative Board of the Graduate School, the University "broadens its service to the people of the state and places the School of Education in a position of greater scope in educational training," Dean Phillips said. "The four degrees now offered place the School's graduate program on a par with the leading universities in the nation."

At present the D.E. degree is limited to the area of administration and supervision. Additional information regarding the new program may be obtained from the School of Education.

'Unidentified,' But Not Long

The writer of the letter had some information he wanted to pass on.

John Taylor, a member of the Daily Tar Heel reviewing staff and who helped produce the recent Campus Chest musical Variety Show, set the rerord straight yesterday. Said John:

"Many thanks for the picture in Tuesday's Daily Tar Heel. For your information and satisfaction the 'unidentified coed' in the photo is Joan Mathis, and she walked off with the entire show. Old boy, you must be losing your eyesight, hearing and mind, if you leave a gorgeous gal like Joan unidentified for long."

Book Swap Shop Closed This Quarter; Date Told

The Alpha Phi Omega book trading post will not be open at the end of this quarter, but will open instead at the beginning of the next quarter.

The book swap shop, located in Graham Memorial, sells books for students at higher prices than usually are obtainable elsewhere. The shop will be open Wednesday, March 25, the first day of classes.

Hawaiian Statehood Stalled By Tidelands

WASHINGTON—The House-approved Hawaiian statehood bill appeared yesterday to be temporarily stalled in the Senate behind tidelands legislation. Statehood for the mid-Pacific territory is No. 2 on the "must" legislative list of GOP Senate Leader Robert A. Taft. But No. 1 is submerged oil lands legislation, still hung up in the same Interior and Insular Affairs Committee which must handle the Hawaii bill.

Final Issue Today

This is the last issue of The Daily Tar Heel for this quarter.

The next issue will appear Wednesday morning, March 25, first day of the Spring Quarter.

The staff wishes pleasant Spring holidays to all.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

Thirty For Awhile

We affix 30 to this edition while we take off for exams and vacation. We will be back to greet you on Wednesday, March 25 with more of the same, plus some new items of editorial interest.

Ups And Downs

We enjoy this community of hills and valleys. But when the hills are in parking lots, like the one behind Lenoir Hall or the tiny valley dip on Raleigh and West Franklin streets next to Spencer Dorm, they become a nuisance.

We haven't seen any axles break as a result of cars trying to get over these humps, but we don't doubt that they will eventually. The Lenoir Hall parking lot not only has hills, but it has holes as well. We suggest that the Buildings and Grounds Department get some dirt and patch up the lot, while the town government finds some gravel to level the street on Raleigh street.

Let Us Have Peace

There's a song in the air . . .

Rather, it's called a song, but we doubt that it is worthy of being called a song. Oddly enough, the "thing" is known by the name of "Oh, Happy Day." There are probably other words to it, but all we have been able to get out of it was—Oh—ee—ah—ee Hap hap yee Dayee.

The man who sings it either has an ulcer, or is getting over a bad cold. He sings it as if it were a dirge. The happy Happiness represented in this song must be the kind that a poor man must have, content with one crust of bread per week instead of no crusts.

The song and the style of singing is representative of a new kind of, we hate to say it, music. Instead of singing, people gargle. Out of the multi-colored noiseboxes in the coffee shops come the weird, eerie discords. The happy day is a cheerless, joyless, depressing, gloomy, funeral day.

We yearn for the old time music, with the recognizable melody. We yearn for the voice, not the gargling, cacophonous noises.

Greensboro Daily News

Thirty Years Of Good Writing

Editor Louis Graves's Chapel Hill Weekly was 30 years old yesterday.

He says that if he had known how much trouble it was to get out a weekly newspaper, he might never have started it and that he should have known better than to "cherish the familiar notion that a village editor spends most of his time in leisurely contemplation, interrupting his repose now and then to dash off a few profound or whimsical comments on passing events." Fourteen years ago he wrote: "I have been getting out the Weekly 16 years and I am very tired of it."

Well, you don't do the really good sort of writing that Louis Graves has done so consistently in his Chapel Hill column and editorials without getting sick and tired of it; lots of times, the easier it reads, the harder it writes. On the other hand, you don't quit it. Surely to write as Louis Graves does is one of the durable satisfactions of life, not only for the readers, but also for the writer.

Some of the best and most delightful writing in the country is being done in weekly newspapers, notably the Chapel Hill Weekly, the Vineyard Gazette of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., the Rocky Mountain Herald under Thomas Hornsby Ferrill, the Southern Pines Pilot with Katherine Boyd doing the piloting, and the Danbury Reporter when the spirit moves Mr. Pepper.

We wish that the University Press would publish a collection of Louis Graves' writings, even if it had to assign somebody to make Louis sit down, go over them and do the selecting. Those words ought to be in book form.

LATE SHOW SATURDAY—SUNDAY—MONDAY

Plus
Cartoon—News

English Club

Freedom Vs. Utility, No. 2

In the paper of March 6th, we spoke of those qualities in the humanities which are necessary for becoming a complete citizen. And on this practical level one may say that languages, literatures, history, and philosophy have a right and a requirement to be understood by those who would be responsible men. The proof of practicality in this country, in fact, has always been especially appealing. Show us its direct utility in terms of a gain which can be measured, and that thing will be defended to the death.

However, towards those activities which do not exhibit usefulness, Americans have traditionally been suspicious. The neighborhood grocer is useful because he is concerned with the distribution of food, an activity by which he gains himself. But what of the man who is concerned with the development of Deism in 18th century poetry? There is some truth to the saying that Americans have not got over being a frontier country in spirit. The purely American concept of the dignity of man seems in part still based on his ability to fell a tree, skin a deer, fight Indians, discover trails, be silently strong, courageous, unexpressive, tobacco-chewing, and sneering toward the frilled man from the East. The living imitation of Robert Mitchum, Clark Gable, and John Wayne is recognizable throughout the country. He is dubious of desks, books, or long conversations, because they have no function in killing a bear. We have succeeded in quieting a few of this hero's doubts about foreign objects, but not his motives in doing so. T. C. Mits still wonders why man who studies Beowulf has a right to exist. And if he cannot be answered in terms of his definition of utility, he turns his face away.

The humanities can pass the standard of utility by contributing necessary qualities toward the forming of the enlightened citizen. But the humanities do not propose this passage when they propose their studies, nor can they be truly measured by that criterion. The functional standard is passed on the road to other ends. It is not possible to make usable to the public a life's work on the analogues of "Gawayne and the Green Knight" (c. 1360). But such a life spent is not without meaning. And to question this, even in these painful times, is to destroy man's freedom of inquiry. Freedom of thought is a necessity, but necessity is not the dictator of freedom. Man hai a right not only to the transmission of knowledge to his children, but a right to the advancement of knowledge.

Yr Mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
PANDARUS

Dan Duke

Overview

Which Path To Truth

One of the constants of history has been man's inhumanity to man.

The whole history of mankind reflects an unending struggle by man against the irrational aspects of civilization. Often it has been a fight against greater oppression, greater injustice, etc. of man's relations to man.

The rise of Science in the 18th century gave man (Western man, i. e.) new hope. Here at last, man thought, was a means to solve man's problems. But two devastating world wars crushed somewhat man's hysterical optimism and faith in Science. Man learned that tanks as well as cars were built, that mass destruction as well as mass production was a dividend of science. It was a depressing letdown, indeed. Man, after all, did appear to be nothing but a razor-shaven ape with clothes on.

Two attitudes arose:

One was a general outlook of pessimism and disillusionment, of indifference and don't-give-a-damnism. To holders of this attitude, the world was meaningless and injust. But they just didn't care anymore. The fight had been burned out of them.

And so this group of would-be liberals defaulted and surrendered themselves completely to the whims of a "meaningless and injust" world. Their oppressors met no resistance from them.

The second attitude—one sometimes held by the best intentioned of people—was that these people should take matters into their own hands. Thus, they thought that revolution and means to achieve what they regarded the "true ends of mankind" were justified.

Thus, this group oppressed under the illusion that this was the way to end oppression.

Neither view is healthy, especially when dealing with the mammoth problems which a mechanized 20th century posed. One group defaults and the other assaults.

This isn't the way we want to deal with problems in America, is it?

"Baby, It's Cold Outside"

Ron Levin

The Menace

Once again we approach that time of year when the wicks on the lamps must be carefully trimmed and a sufficient supply of nodoze pills acquired for the coming ordeal. I refer to the combination medieval-murder-mayhem method for making college students mental misfits, commonly referred to by the cliche of "exams." I think it only fair that since I have good friends in the Tin Can and access to restricted info, I should give you lucky readers a scoop on what's coming this Friday. Following is a partial list of study questions you might expect when you enter these six grueling days ahead.

English 3 . . . In your own words write a short 3,000 word discourse (be brief) on the relationship of Shakespeare's tragedy "Romeo and Juliet" to Spillane's "One Lonely Night." (Be specific and give concrete examples) . . . time, 10 minutes.

Philosophy 41 . . . Choice of two: (1) explain in 25 words or less the meaning, origin, and significance of existensialism as related to man's positive position in his modern environment. (2) Give three reasons why you like the professor in this course. (Be original in your argument.)

Archaeology 95 . . . Comment briefly on one of the following: (1) Rome wasn't built in a day. (2) Rome was built in a day. (3) Rome wasn't built. (4) Who is Rome? (5) Emor is what spelled backward?

Economics 31 . . . Five minutes. Compare the financial conditions of the U. S. today with those of Afghanistan from the period 1770 to 1800, and tell why you think I should be head of the department.

Philosophy 21 (Logic) . . . Choose three of the following: (1) Prove you turned off the water in the bathroom this morning. (2) How many sheep in a flock? 13 . . . 72 . . . or 124. Give reasons for your choice and be specific. (3) If John married Mary and Mary's father was John's father's uncle (twice removed by marriage,) then what relation is John to the guy down the block?

Chemistry 61 (Organic). (1) Given butane, dilute Budweiser, and Fleischman's Yeast, show how you would proceed to synthesize Royal Crown Cola. NOTE . . . Marilyn Monroe may be used as a catalyst in this reaction.

Political Science 41 . . . (1) Give three good reasons why you think you should pass this course. (2) Give three good reasons why you think the instructor in this course would make a good president. (3) What is the name of the textbook? Who wrote it? When and where was it published?

Astronomy 31 . . . Comment briefly on one of the following: (1) There are people living on Mars. (2) There are no people living on Mars. (3) I like Mars better than Milky Ways because. . . . (finish this statement in 25 words or less). (4) Where is the sun? (Note to student . . . Be specific in your answer.)

Physics 25 . . . (ten minutes) If you have a board ten feet long suspended on a fulcrum three feet from one end, and on one end you have a thirty - pound weight and on the other a fifty-pound weight (the weight of the board is twenty-five pounds) how long will it be before the board rots and breaks in two?

Well, perhaps this short preview of things to come will aid you in surviving the onslaught which you're about to face. Good luck to all and remember . . . a little BULL goes a long way. bye now . . .

George

Express Yourself

Editor:

The gang and I want to say thanks to the kind and thoughtful man who was responsible for putting up the new lamp posts around campus.

Louis Kraar

Party Line

Writing is not unlike serving in the army. You hate it while you're doing it, but you're glad you did it after it's done.

No one has been able to understand exactly why writing is such an exhausting job. Other arts, such as music and painting, tend to be relaxing, but writing is always a difficult task.

One analyst in "The English Journal" explained the grind of composition by saying that anybody would get nervous if when writing a sentence he had to pick out the best nineteen words out of the other 600,000 crowding him for selection.

Each writer has his own pet method for priming his talents. The late Sinclair Lewis always wrote with wooden pencils in an unheated room. William Faulkner likes to write in the early morning hours. Ernest Hemingway prefers to work standing up at the typewriter, stripped to the waist.

In spite of the drudgery involved in putting thoughts and ideas on paper, about 70,000 peaple in this country are professional writers. And there are about a million more Americans who want to write.

Everyone is a writer in one sense: Every person has a story to tell, his own life story. Professional writers are simply the persons who put their stories on paper in an effective manner. And the best of these tell the stories because they feel they have to be told.

Somerset Maugham, one of the most skilled modern story-tellers, explained his reasons for writing in "The Summing Up": . . . there seems no reason for my having become one except an irresistible inclination and I do not see why such an inclination should have risen in me."

Maugham's statement epitomizes the feelings of most good writers. They write because they have to write.

On the other hand, many mediocre writers of today don't write because they feel they have to write. Mickey Spillane, who grinds out novels about "sex and violence," as he himself says, admitted recently that he wrote for another reason—to make money.

Spillane always quotes a popular writer of another century, Samuel Johnson. Dr. Johnson, whose wit graced literary circles in the coffee houses of eighteenth century England, once wrote:

"No man but a blockhead ever wrote except for money."

Fortunately, there are still some writers who don't agree with old Dr. Johnson.

Drew Pearson

The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

There is little likelihood of revolution inside Russia as a result of the crisis over Josef Stalin, Central Intelligence reported to the White House and the Pentagon shortly after the aged dictator was taken sick.

Allen Dulles, brother of the Secretary of State and head of the Central Intelligence Agency, delivered the report to President Eisenhower personally. His associates made a similar report to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Naturally they made reservations on what would happen inside Russia, but here are the possibilities that might occur following Stalin's death:

1. Continuation of the present situation.

2. An outbreak of war with the West.

3. Internal tensions; possibly revolution.

Of these three, CIA concluded that the most likely result would be a continuation of the status quo. While reporting that there would be flare-ups inside Russia from certain dissident groups, CIA expressed the view that they wouldn't get anywhere. The iron curtain was too tight, the intelligence chiefs said, for revolting groups to get any aid. Little could be done from the outside to help sow the seeds of revolt. Therefore, Moscow could be able to keep its far-flung area in line. Futhermore, part of the dissident elements already have been removed and whole populations transplanted.

All this, however, including the possibility of war with the outside world, will depend on who steps into Stalin's shoes. And on this CIA made the following evaluation:

1. Georgi Malenkov, secretary of the Communist Party, is Stalin's successor. He is unfriendly to the west but not belligerent. He would be willing to follow Stalin's technique of letting satellite nations do the clashing with the west.

2. Deputy Prime Minister Vyacheslav Molotov is now rated as second man. Previously he was Stalin's favorite. Molotov hates the West, despises minority races. He suffered a recent heart attack, has been seriously ill.

3. Marshal Lavrenti Beria, head of the secret police, was given an outside chance of being Stalin's successor. He is now in disfavor because his secret police failed to uncover the poisoning of Zhdanov in 1948. Three of the nine doctors recently purged were supposed to hhave poisoned Zhdanov. CIA describes Beria as ruthless, reports that major purges would occur if he took power in Russia. Under him revolution would be likely.

Vassily Stalin, according to the CIA evaluation, is unpopular because he pushed himself forward with the help of his father's name. Also he was injured in a jet accident.

Central Intelligence figures that under Malenkov the present policies will continue. Under Molotov the chances of war would increase. Under Beria there would be possible revolution.

On the whole a smooth transfer of power in Russia would be safest for world peace. If there is internal trouble, the new leader of Russia might try to consolidate his power by starting war. If internal trouble reaches proportions of a major civil war, the effect would be helpful to the west, but a minor outbreak would not be.

Track, Lacrosse Teams Announce Spring Schedules

UNC Runners Open Season Against W.-M.

Eight dual meets, the Penn Relays and the annual Southern Conference meet have been scheduled for Carolina's track team this spring.

The slate opens here March 25 when William and Mary competes against the Tar Heels on Fetzer Field. Other teams on the schedule include V.M.I., Maryland, N. C. State, Duke, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Last year the Tar Heels won four of seven dual meets. Several of last season's stars return, including Bill Walker, Roger Morris, Bob Barden, Sonny Beall, Charlie Scott, Sam Jordan, Bob Bell, Morris Osborne, Bob Webb and Tom Higgins. Billy Duke, Charlie Yarborough, Jeff Newton and Vince Murray are expected to bolster Coach Dale Ranson's team.

The schedule:

March 25—William and Mary at Chapel Hill.

April 4—Princeton University at Chapel Hill; April 11 — Virginia Military Institute at Chapel Hill; April 18 — Maryland at College Park, Md.; April 21 — N. C. State at Chapel Hill; April 25—Penn Relays at Philadelphia.

May 2—Duke at Chapel Hill; May 6—Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.; May 9 — Pennsylvania at Chapel Hill; May 15-16—Southern Conference Meet at Durham, N. C.

Stickmen Play Eight Games; Six At Home

Carolina's lacrosse team will open an eight-game schedule on Navy Field here against Williams College on April 2. It will be the first of six home matches.

The Tar Heels' offensive and defensive stars from last year return. Dick Harrall, sophomore from Towson, Md., set a new University scoring record with 28 points last season, ranking him in the top 10 nationally. Lew Floyd, a senior from University Park, Md., was the nation's number one goalie, making 210 saves in 10 contests.

Other stars from last year's team which compiled a 5-6-1 record are Walt Ernst, Tommy Stokes, Paul Hursh, Buck Barkley, Dick Pillsbury and Ted Dawes.

The schedule:

April 2 — Williams College at Chapel Hill; April 4 — Cornell University at Chapel Hill; April 7 — Dartmouth College at Chapel Hill; April 27—Augusta Military Academy at Chapel Hill.

May 8 — Washington and Lee University at Chapel Hill; May 11 —Duke University at Chapel Hill; May 16—Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.; May 18 — Augusta Military Academy at Fort Defiance, Va.

The doubles team of Herbie Browne and Bobby Payne, sophomores at Carolina, are defending champions in doubles in Southern Conference play. They were the first freshman team in history to cop the title when they won at Davidson last year.

Better Bone Up With A College Outline From

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Tar Heel Swimmers Given Chance Of Fourth In NCAA

The local sports scene has shifted to the outdoors here in the past few weeks, but the water is still being ruffled in Bowman Gray swimming pool these afternoons.

Coach Ralph Casey has a handful of his best Carolina swimmers working overtime for the N.C.A.A. championship meet at Ohio State University March 26-27-28 and is looking for the Tar Heels' best performance in history in this event.

The way the meet shapes up locally it ought to be a three-way scramble for fourth place with the Tar Heels, Stanford and Michigan State waging the battle. Yale, host Ohio State and Michigan have the edge on the top three spots, but Casey figures his Tar Heels may be in contention for as high a finish as fourth.

Sophomore Jack Edwards, the finest young sprinter in the school's history, Donnie Evans, Buddy Baarcke, Buddy Heins, Barry Wall, Stan Tinkham and Joe Kelso have visions of cracking into big time collegiate swimming. None are figured to break into the winner's circle against the former Olympic and collegiate champions representing the swimming powers, but seconds, thirds and fourths could pile up the points for the strong Tar Heels.

Edwards is slated for duty in the 100-yard freestyle, the 400 freestyle relay and the 300 medley relay. The Brookline, Mass., sophomore, not an exceptional high school swimmer and never a winner, has been the scourge of the conference this year. The lanky youngster holds the loop's dual meet, championship meet and all-time 100-yard record, his best time at :51.2 seconds.

Casey, who says he is "intelligent, strong and hard working," calls him the best sprinter the Tar Heels have ever had. In the 100 the pace may be too fast, but in the relays Casey expects him to keep up with the big boys.

"It will take a first class swimmer to beat him," Casey says, "and what more can you ask of a sophomore?"

The Tar Heels' "Mr. Clutch," Buddy Baarcke, a senior from Lakeland, Fla., is a good bet in the 100-yard backstroke and will be a key man in both relays which figure to score in the top five. Baarcke's performance in the Southern Conference championship meet in winning the 200 and 100 backstroke events was outstanding. He set a new 100 record in :59.2 seconds, while he has actually done :58.7 in a dual meet.

Barry Wall will swim the breaststroke leg in the 300 relay, while tough Buddy Heins will anchor the 400 relay. Kelso will compete in the diving and Evans will be in the individual medley and 200-yard breaststroke. Tinkham is slated for duty in the relays.

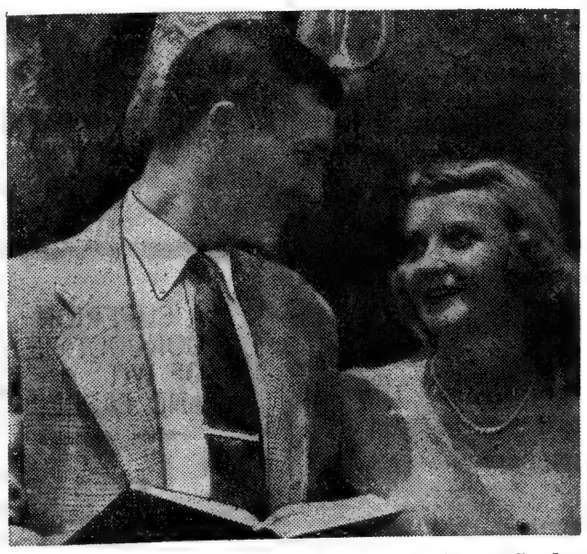
Evans, a senior from Charlotte, turned in the best time ever recorded in the conference in the breaststroke this season when he won the championship meet event in 2:20.9 and has done 1:32.8 in the individual medley. The versatile Tar Heel ace should score in both of his individual events and could turn in the best show of any Southerner.

—European—

(Continued from page 1)

and the Dutch reacted under catastrophe. "Altogether, I suppose there were about 100 who had mental crack-ups as a result, but, all in all, there was no panic. Maybe it was because there was no warning and no time to build up fears. Maybe it was characteristic of the people themselves. There was no panic during the bombings of World War II in England."

WILSON IN TEJAS



Dr. Logan Wilson, president of the University of Texas, has appointed a student-faculty committee to investigate the student wage problem there.

This is the second committee that has studied the problem. The first committee, made up of students, decided some wages should be raised. But Dr. Logan felt that problem needed further investigation, and added five faculty members to the group.

ARROW SOLD AT
VARLEY'S MEN SHOP

Arrow Gordon Dover Seen As Campus Favorite For '53

Button-Down Oxford Classic Overwhelming Favorite Of College Crowd

All signs point to a big year on campus for Arrow Gordon Dover—the neat, button-down Oxford so many young men prefer. Available at all Arrow dealers.

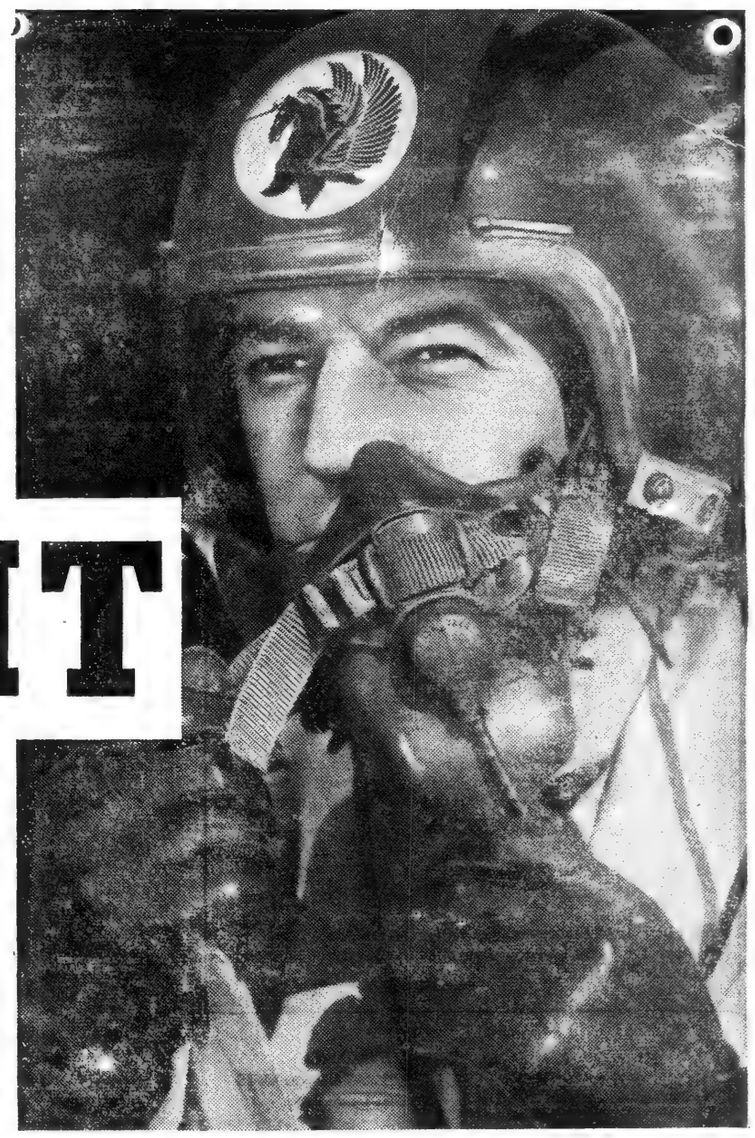
ARROW SHIRTS

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

HEADQUARTERS FOR Palm Beach®
WOVEN BY GOODALL-SANFORD, INC. ONLY
SUITS SLACKS SPORT JACKETS

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.



Make Money With Your Hobby

Ranchero Miniature Golf Course for Lease To Two Responsible Business-Minded Students. Located Next To Ranch House On Airport Road.

See Ted Danziger At The Rathskeller

In Durham.....
HARVEY'S CAFETERIA
AND
BANQUET SERVICE
Breakfast 6:30 - 9:15
Lunch 11 - 2.30
Supper 5 - 8:05
Special Facilities For All Fraternity & Sorority Functions
103 E. MAIN STREET, DURHAM

It's the size of the FIGHT in the man!

That's right! In the U. S. Air Force, it's not the size of the man in the fight—it's the size of the FIGHT IN THE MAN! And Aviation Cadets must have plenty of it. For Cadet training is rugged. If you're good enough . . . tough enough . . . smart enough . . . if you can take it while you're learning to dish it out, you can have one of the most fascinating careers in the world. You'll be equipped to fly the latest, hottest planes. You'll be prepared to take your position as an executive, both in military and commercial aviation as well as in industry. And while you're helping yourself you'll be helping your country.

WIN YOUR WINGS! It takes little over a year to win your wings as a Pilot or Aircraft Observer (Navigator, Bombardier, Radar Operator or Aircraft Performance Engineer). But at the end of your training you graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE? To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will give you a physical examination.
3. Next, you take a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS:
Visit your nearest Air Force Base, Air Force Recruiting Officer, or your nearest Air Force ROTC unit. Or write to: Aviation Cadet, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

U.S. AIR FORCE

SOLDIERS THREE

HERE ARE THREE champions of defense . . . two marines and their mascot, "Head Space"! And don't say the puppy doesn't count. He does. For little "Head Space" takes the place of the beloved pets these boys have left at home. He's a morale builder —doing a first-class job for defense!

And you're doing a defense job every day by your purchase of United States Defense Bonds. For you know that by Bonds and other forms of saving you are making yourself and your family financially secure. And when you are strong financially our country has the strong economy that must go hand in hand with military strength to make us all safe. In these restless times remember—Peace is only for the strong!

So today, where you work, sign up to buy Bonds through Payroll Savings—the easy plan that saves for you before you even draw your pay. Thousands have found it one sure way to save.

HERE'S HOW E BONDS NOW EARN MORE MONEY FOR YOU!

Now safe, sure U. S. Series E Defense Bonds pay an even better return than ever before...thanks to 3 brand-new money-earning features announced by the U. S. Treasury.

1. Now every Series E Bond you buy begins earning interest after only 6 months. It earns 3%, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity. It reaches full maturity value earlier (9 years 8 months) and the interest it pays is now bigger at the start!

2. Every Series E Bond you own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date—without your lifting a finger!

3. During the 10-year extension period, every unmatured bond earns at the new, higher interest (average 3% compounded semiannually). Your original $18.75 can now repay you $33.67. $37.50 pays back $67.34. And so on.

Start now! Invest more savings in better-paying Series E Bonds—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank!

PEACE IS FOR THE STRONG... FOR PEACE AND PROSPERITY, SAVE WITH U. S. DEFENSE BONDS!

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, The Advertising Council and

DAILY TAR HEEL

EVERY THURSDAY IS

All You Can Eat Day

AT THE

RATHSKELLER

THIS WEEKS SPECIAL:

ITALIAN RAVIOLE W. MEAT AND CHEESE
Free Beer or Wine—Salad—Toasted French Bread
With Garlic Butter

ALL YOU CAN EAT FOR 97c

Sell Us Your Old Texts!

- Our Prices are better.
- We'll often have a market for books the monopoly won't touch.
- You're among friends when you trade at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

SPONSORS FOR the annual Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity pledge dance, held recently at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham were Peg Hall (left), Salyersville, Ky., with Frank Harris, Lincolnton, pledge class president, and Mary Duncan of Durham with vice-president Hartwell Conklin, also of Durham.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

27 FOOT STREAM-LITE TRAILER —Room attached—8x15 feet. Large Tires. Ready for pulling. $775. Interested in selling by end of Quarter.

USED THAYER HIGH-CHAIR practically new. Contact Caswell Edmundson. U. N. C. Trailer Court. Ct No. 62.

Tuesday Was Late

Tuesday morning's Daily Tar Heel was late due to a mechanical failure at our printing plant.

We regret that most of the papers were not able to be delivered until that afternoon.

LOST 12

ROUND DAISY-CLUSTER PEARL and Rhinestone pin in vicinity of Carolina Inn Parking Lot or Campus—Sentimental Value. Finder please call 9-1306, Mrs. Singer.

"That's why I made a date to give blood!"

Russell B. Wells
Civil Defense Worker, Tells About a Visit to His Blood Donor Center

"I'm sitting there, waiting to give the nurse my age and all that when the fellow next to me speaks up. Everybody's very friendly. This fellow says, 'Every drop of this blood ought to go to combat areas.'

"I tell him—'That's right—the least we can do is make sure they're taken care of. But we can't stop with that. See—I'm in Civil Defense. Now, supposing all of a sudden there are enemy planes over this city, dropping atom bombs on our heads? Wouldn't we be in the front lines, too?'

"Then a lady behind us puts in a word. 'How about our hospitals right now?' she asks. 'Isn't it just as important to save a child's life, for example?'

"Before we can agree, an older man chimes in, quietlike and relaxed. 'I seem to be the only one,' he says, 'Without a special reason for being here—outside of wanting to do unto others as I hope they would do unto me. But I'd say every reason for giving blood is a special reason . . . just as every American life that can be saved at any time and any place is special. That being the case, it doesn't so much matter where the blood is needed. What matters is it's always needed . . . urgently. That's why I made a date to give blood.'

"The old man's right. Right?"

★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★

GIVE BLOOD NOW
Call Your Red Cross Today!

Sponsored By
OGMI

THIS SMILING COED took the roses and the admiring glances at the recent celebration of the 26th anniversary of Zeta Beta Tau social fraternity. Saralyn Bonowitz was named chapter sweetheart, and here President Gene Oberdorfer does the honors for his brothers.

3 Sororities Elect Officers For New Year

Kappa Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta and Delta Delta sororities have elected officers for the coming year.

Beta Chi chapter of Kappa Delta sorority has named Mary Jane Harrison, Montgomery, Ala., president. Other officers include Joan Russell, Kenmore, N. Y., vice-president; Edith Rogers, Wilmington, secretary; Janet Cornwall, Southern Pines, treasurer; Peggy Pierpont, Chapel Hill, editor; Betsy Clarke, Goldsboro, house manager; Carolyn Little, Concord, rush chairman; Peg Hall, Salyersville, Ky., social chairman.

Two new Kappa Delta pledges are Lynn Thorpe, Miami, Fla. and Janet Green, Chapel Hill.

Harriet Maynard, Fredericksburg, Va., will preside over the Gamma Epsilon chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority for the coming year. Patricia Noah, Chapel Hill, is first vice-president; Mary Lou Mercer, Baltimore, Md., second vice-president; Kathleen Dover, Shelby, social chairman; Nancy Horne, Norton, Va., activities chairman; Joanne Jackson, Wallace, N. C., secretary; Paulette Tutski, Washington, D. C., rush chairman; Ann Fleming, Raleigh, Pan-Hellenic representative; Nancy Perryman, High Point, altruistic chairman; and Mary Bryan, Nutley, N. J., house manager.

Mary Helen Crain, Durham, is the new president of Alpha Sigma chapter of Delta Delta Delta. Ann Street, Chapel Hill, will serve as vice president; Eleanor Wrenn, Greensboro, recording secretary; Mary Kit Myers, Greensboro, treasurer; Judy King, Savannah, Ga., Pan-Hellenic representative; Ann Harczog, Raleigh, social chairman; Kit Wallace, Goshen, N. Y., house president; Jean Williamson, Asheville, rush chairman; Sally Schindel, Hagerstown, Md., corresponding secretary.

Annoyed? Goodhearted?

If a stray animal annoys you or you are goodhearted, take it to Dr. L. L. Vine, veterinarian on the Durham road, or call Mrs. Jordan: 5486. Animals are held for five days by Dr. Vine to give owners of lost pets a chance to reclaim them. Then homes are found for the strays or they are painlessly destroyed.

GIVE THEM A CHANCE— SUPPORT THE HUMANE SOCIETY
(Contributed for the Humane Society by interested residents of Chapel Hill.)

NOW PLAYING

For Good Food and Low Prices, Come To MICHAEL'S (beside the Post Office).

Our 60c Student Lunch can't be beat.

Come in and Try It. Meet your Friends at MICHAEL'S. We have the thing that is against the law to advertise—25c

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.
OPEN EVENINGS

DANZIGER'S

HOMEMADE CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP ..... .20
SPECIAL STUDENT PLATE
MEXICAN CHILI CON CARNE with spaghetti ..... .50
ITALIAN RISOTTO with tomato sauce and grated cheese ..... .80
SPICED LAMB en casserole served with creamed potatoes, vegetable, tomato ..... .90
HUNGARIAN PORK CHOP served with eggnoodles and vegetable ..... .90
PINEAPPLE or POTATO BLINTZES with sour cream, apple sauce or jelly ..... .75
SMOKED PORKIES served with sauer-kraut and potatoes ..... .85
BARBECUED CHICKEN served with potatoes and vegetable ..... .90
. . . your choice served with bread, butter and salad.

Are you Engaged?

Graduates from 321 American colleges and universities have spent their honeymoon at America's unique haven exclusively for newlyweds, and found the perfect start for married life. Beautiful cottages in complete seclusion . . . wonderful meals . . . leisurely atmosphere, and the company of gay young people with similar tastes and backgrounds. Mention dates and we'll send our helpful THREE HONEYMOON PLANS.

THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 86, Pa.

BUDDY KLEIN
and the
Statesman Orchestra
Write Box 5533—Tel. 21873
Raleigh, N. C.

"He simply goes to pieces when I forget the Angostura* in his Manhattans!"

ANGOSTURA®
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*You know what zest and tang Angostura adds to Manhattans. But do you know the piquant difference Angostura makes in soups, salads?

"A SUPERIOR CONCOCTION OF WIT AND FARCE!"
—Time Magazine

ALEC GUINNESS
versatile star of "Kind Hearts and Coronets" in

"The Lavender Hill Mob"

with STANLEY HOLLOWAY

TODAY ONLY Varsity

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and warm with 70 high. Yesterday's high, 72; low, 45.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 114 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

PREVIEW
John Taylor gets earnest on p. 2 today.

SUMNER FILES INDEPENDENTLY

THE DEATH OF RUSSIAN Premier Josef Stalin brought abrupt changes to the Soviet Union—and to the Korean War front. Here a 7th Division G.I. brings a road sign up to date. The sign, which formerly read "Joe Sees You," and now reads, "Georgi Sees You," lies in an area which is under the constant observation of Communist troops.—NEA Telephoto.

Not Pace Setter

UNC Follows Salary Lead For Nurses

The University's new hospital isn't driving nursing salaries up with its own pay scale, merely following the rates of comparable hospitals, Dr. Robert Cadmus, director of Memorial Hospital, said yesterday.

Furthermore, the director added, he hoped the Chapel Hill hospital could increase its salaries from $220 to $240 a month if the General Assembly appropriates the institution's budget requests.

So far, every hospital request has gone through committee uncut. This includes $823,190 recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission and an additional $713,765 recommended by the appropriations subcommittee in the legislature.

However, the hospital's $716,765 emergency request was sharply questioned in committee this week. Rep. Ed. O'Herron of Mecklenburg said the Chapel Hill hospital is working nurses shorter hours at higher wages. University hospital nurses get $220 a month compared to $210 at Charlotte Memorial, he asserted.

(See NURSES, page 4)

Phi Delts Withhold Aryanism Stand

The local chapter fo Phi Delta Theta will not take any formal action on the stand of the Williams College house which has pledged a Jew despite a "white Aryan" clause in the national constitution.

Phi Delt President Bert E. Harrell of Morganton said yesterday his group here would not vote because "we fell like it'd be a lost cause a year and a half ahead of convention time." Phi Delta Theta will hold its biennial national convention in 1954 and at that time the constitution could be changed.

"Right now," Harrell added, "we're standing by the constitution as written."

A Phi Delt spokesman at Oxford, Ohio, the fraternity's national headquarters and founding place, said there is a feeling among many members that the constitution should be amended. However, any suspensions incurred by local chapters—Williams was suspended—will have to remain in force until the 1954 convention.

Meanwhile, at Brown University in Providence, R. I., Phi Delt President Robert Jacobsen said his chapter plans to pledge several Jewish students. Several other chapters already have given the Williams branch their moral support.

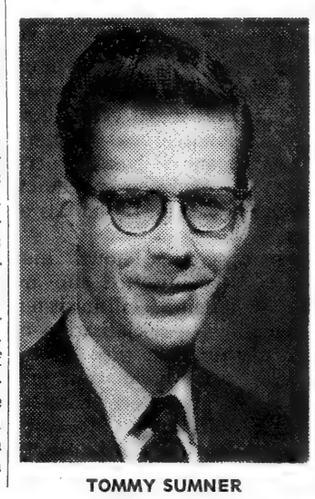
Phi Delta Theta, one of the largest social fraternities in existance, has 115 chapters in 43 states and six Canadian provinces.

Offers Platform With 9 Planks, Attacks Parties

By Louis Kraar

Tommy Sumner, a senior and former Student Party treasurer, announced his candidacy for president yesterday making the field four strong in the race for the campus' top post.

Sumner is the second independent candidate to file for the post. He is from Asheville and a chemistry and mathematics major. Wade Matthews is the other independent in the race. The two party candidates are Bob Gorham (UP) and Ken Penegar (SP).



"As the campus political parties are constituted, they actually represent no one but themselves," said Sumner. "Their opinions are not made subject to the scrutiny of the student body as a whole unless the matter is at issue during an election," he added.

He cited President Horton's handling of the Saturday class fight as an example of a job well done "despite the uncalled for, adverse comments of one of his political enemies." He did not mention who the enemy was.

The 23-year-old independent opened his campaign with a nine point platform. The platform promised:

1. To reflect student opinion.
2. To find a nation wide student voice, NSA or another.
3. To revise the system of paying for Student Entertainment programs by establishing a subscription plan or presenting more than one performance of a given program.
4. To establish a more liberal class cut policy.
5. To submit to the students the present plan of voting districts "so that it may be written into the constitution and removed from the constant partisan juggling of the past."
6. To take action to "stop abuse by students of the privilege of keeping automobiles at the University" in order to prevent Trustee action which would prohibit student cars.

(See SUMNER, page 4)

TOMMY SUMNER

In Fifth Week

Survey Job Of University Is Continuing

A Northern firm of management engineers is entering its fifth week of surveying the administrative organization and financial operations of the three institutions of the Consolidated University.

"The overall purpose of the survey," President Gordon explained recently, "is to assist the Woman's College, State College and the University in Chapel Hill in insuring the most productive and beneficial use of all its resources. The survey is not being made with any idea of retrenchment."

"The adequacy of its staff, buildings and equipment and other factors involved inits ability to perform its mission will be considered." Gray said, "and it will include consideration of the long-range plans of the University, as well as its current operations."

The study will not be concerned with classroom instruction or content of courses offered at the three institutions.

Gray, Controller W. D. Carmichael Jr. and Chancellors Harrelson, Graham and House of the three branches recommended the study last September to the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, which approved it.

The survey is being financed partially by the Fund for the Advancement of Education, established by the Ford Foundation in conjunction with a program to assist colleges and universities in many sections of the country in strengthening their administrative structures and organizational procedures.

The survey is being made by Cresap, McCormick and Paget, management engineers, with officers in New York and Chicago. Eldon C. Shoup, a partner in the firm, and two associates, Walter Vieh and Paul Gillen, arrived four weeks ago to begin work on the project.

Shoup, who has returned to the North, said the firm in recent years has made similar studies in a number of colleges and universities, preparatory schools and hospitals, lege of Columbia University, Vasincluding Davidson, Barnard Colsar, Wellesley, Oberlin, Vanderbilt, Yale, Rutgers, Syracuse and Colgate.

Dr. Odum Receives Gardner Award

Dr. Howard Washington Odum of Carolina has been recognized by the UNC Trustees as the consolidated faculty member making the "greatest contribution to the welfare of the human race" during the current scholastic year.

Dr. Odum is a Kenan professor here and head of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology.

He was given the O. Max Gardner award at the fifth annual dinner held Sunday at Woman's College in Greensboro. Albert Coates, director of the Institute of Government here, won the award last year.

The award was set up by former Gov. Gardner in his will and carries an engraved citation and a check for annual income from a $25,000 trust fund set up by the governor. Gov. Gardner considered the creation of the Consolidated University the outstanding achievement of his administration.

DR. HOWARD ODUM

Part of the award citation described Dr. Odum as ". . . the inspiring teacher of generations of undergraduate and graduate students, devoted and efficient servant of the state and nation in numerous official and unofficial assignments, founder and builder of outstanding research programs, objective and realistic worker for better race relations.

". . . As scholar and author, Dr. Odum has been amazingly and significantly productive. Much of his writing ranks with the best of contemporary creative literature. . . ."

The Carolina professor is well known among farmers for his breeding activities in dairy cattle. He is one of the master breeders of registered Jersey cattle.

Recently he served as chairman of President Gray's State of the University conference.

Dr. Odum responded after the award stressing the theme that "O. Max Gardner was the symbol and reality of the all-State University, moving surely toward the fruition of achievements for North Carolina even beyond the Gardner Dream."

Dr. Odum was a pioneer in the field of rural social work and public welfare. In Chapel Hill he established the first school of public welfare in the country and served as its director for 12 years.

The Gardner award winner has long been interested and productive in the field of race relations. Part of his citation pointed out how he "(approaches) the problem in his quiet objective manner; he is perhaps more intimately acquainted with the many facets of race relations in the South and in the nation than any other individual."

SUAB Begins New Film Series Next Tuesday With Comedies

Comedy is the keynote for the first of five programs of the Student Union Activities Board film series of the spring.

The program begins next Tuesday with a triple feature highlighting the Marx Brothers in "Duck Soup," W. C. Fields in "The Barber Shop," and "Brotherhood of Man."

"All Quiet On The Western Front" will be featured April 16, "The Gaucho" on April 30, "Torment" on May 14 and "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington," an Academy Award winner, on May 21.

Price of the whole series, including five features and four shorts, is $1.50.

Purpose of the programs, which were successful last quarter, is to "provide a form of film entertainment not otherwise available ot the viewing public in this area," according to Bill Roth, Graham Memorial Director. This is a non-profit division of SUAB and operates on funds obtained from series membership.

"This organization was created in response to repeated requests for this type entertainment," added Roth. He urged students to obtain their tickets now at Graham Memorial "for the low series price of $1.50."

Public Invited To 2 Lectures By Englishman

Dr. Eric Rust, a British mathematical and atomic physicist who became a Baptist theologian, will give two public lectures here tomorrow.

He will speak at 4 p.m. to the Lazy Literates at the YWCA lounge on "Science and Religion—Fact or Legend." Tomorrow night at 6:30 he will address a family night audience at the Baptist Church. The public is invited to both lectures.

Dr. Rust is a native of Gravesend, Kent, England. He received his scientific education at the Royal College of Science, London University, attaining first class honors in mathematics and receiving two degrees in science. After being awarded his master's degree, he did advance work in mathematical and atomic physics. He holds an A. R. C. S. in mathematics and physics from the Royal College of Science and a D.I.C. from Imperial College.

When Dr. Rust turned from science to theology, he entered Oxford University from which he was awarded three degrees in Christian theology. He later entered the Baptist ministry and served churches in Bath, Birmingham, and Huddersfield, England.

In 1946 he was invited to become professor of Biblical and historical theology and philosophy of religion in Rawdon College, University of Leeds, which post he now holds. He is author of several books and is in wide demand as a lecturer in the field of Christian Apologetics.

DR. ERIC C. RUST

Josephina Niggli To Talk At Tea Today At 3:45

Josephina Niggli, author who makes her home in Chapel Hill, will speak at the Bull's Head Book Shop tea at 3:45 p.m. today in the Assembly Room of the Library.

Her topic will be "Life in Hollywood." She recently returned from the film capital after being a consultant for her new screen play, "Mexican Holiday."

NEWS IN BRIEF

LONDON — The queen mother who spent a life of tragedy guarding her millions of royal subjects, died in her sleep yesterday at the age of 85. Queen Mary, grandmother of the present Queen Elizabeth, lived through two world wars and the heartache of banishing the wife of her favorite son after he refused the English throne to marry a divorcee. Court officials said the queen's death will not delay the June 2 coronation of Elizabeth.

★

MT. CHARLESTON, Nev.—A top secret atomic device, believed to be the warhead of this country's new atomic artillery shell, was exploded early yesterday while some 1,300 troops huddled in trenches two and a half miles from "ground zero." There were no casualties, according to the Atomic Energy Commission after the blast.

★

FRANKFORT, Germany — Four anti-Communist Czech brought a freedom plane out of their homeland after slugging the operator and grabbing the controls at gunpoint. First details of the daring dash for freedom came from U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant yesterday. He said the pilot and three fellow conspirators refused to land the craft with 29 persons aboard at Rhine-Main airport in West Germany until American authorities had assured the four they would be granted asylum.

★

WASHINGTON—Congress' elder statesman Bernard Baruch suggested yesterday that Congress quit having so many secret committee meetings and "tell the American people what's going on." He continued, "All this talk about government secrets is a lot of hokum." Baruch told the Senate Banking Committee, "Foreign agents know more about military matters than our own people. They went to the heart and center of the atomic bomb before I knew one was being made."

CAMPUS SEEN

Good natured Air Force sergeant obligingly changing step as B-V-P males count cadence from their second story perch.

■

Coed proudly exhibiting diamond engagement ring to ex-flame.

■

Prof's wife to fellow shopper in local supermarket, "Well, we're about over our Spring holidays except for Linda; she's got a bad dose of pink eye."

Ken Anderson Up For Award

Kenneth G. Anderson is the UNC representative who will be interviewed for one of three scholarship awards to recognize the most outstanding cadet ROTC officers in the United States.

Selection for the awards will be based on college or university achievement in air, army or naval science, general academic record and demonstrated qualities of leadership in all activities.

Candidates are limited to active members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary ROTC military fraternity. First place award is $300; second and third places are $200 and $100 respectively.

The three national winners will be chosen by a three-man committee appointed by the national officers of Scabbard and Blade.

Lowet Knocks Independents Who Left SP

Henry Lowet, unsuccessful candidate for the Student Party vice-presidential nomination, took a swing at independent candidates Wade Matthews and Bill Brown yesterday.

"The two independent candidates who have tossed their hats into the political ring sought refuge in the 'rank and file,' as they state, 'of the student body.' Wade Matthews and Bill Brown are persons well-versed in student politics who lost in the race for the vice-presidential nomination in the Student Party.

"Upon learning of their defeats, both Matthews and Brown vowed their continued support of the Party's program and candidates. Within ten days both had filed as independent candidates for top posts, denouncing the party which they had pledged to support. Yet Brown and Matthews had fought hard to win a party nomination and were exceptionally willing to accept an endorsement.

"This sort of action seems peculiar to juniors who have an appetite for becoming 'campus dignitaries' in their senior year. They are willing to sacrifice everything to fulfill their desires, even if it means attacking their former associates to provide meat for an 'independent' campaign."

Lowet, Matthews and Brown were defeated in their bids for the SP vice-presidential backing. A runoff between Lowet and Baxter Miller gave Miller a 27-22 victory.

MEMBERS OF A TURKISH FAMILY shiver in the bitter cold in front of the rubble which was their Istanbul home after a series of severe earthquakes rocked northwest Turkey. The recurring quakes, accompanied by rain, snow, and sub-zero temperatures, have brought death to more than 1,000 persons in the area.—NEA Radio Photo.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Pete Adams, Bob Mason, Bob Wolfe, Eleanor Saunders, Buddy Harper, Dorman Cordell, Ned Whitmore.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

New Type Socialists

In a progressive school we know about, the teachers instruct the children to take their paint brushes and splash at will on the easel just what ever comes into their minds.

Alleged adults are doing the same thing only they have two or three things in mind. Their chief purposes are to gain power in the government, to gain publicity, to insure that power, and finally, to utilize that power for selfish aims. We refer to Senators McCarthy and Jenner, and Representatives Jackson and Velde. Over a period of time, for instance, Sen. McCarthy has investigated Communism in the State Department, though not one Communist was dismissed because of his charges.

The Senator launched an inquiry of malice when he investigated the Voice of America as Stalin was dying. When the Voice could have furthered the cause of freedom, McCarthy, who claims to be fighting for America, actually helped the Russians in the war of propaganda. McCarthy has smeared our next Ambassador to Russia with such vituperation that Mr. Bohlen, who is backed by President Eisenhower, could have refused to serve our country in the face of such abuse. McCarthy wants Bohlen to use a lie detector. We feel the senator, not the diplomat, should utilize that truth establishment instrument.

Harold Velde, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, has launched a careless investigation of alleged communism in colleges. Velde automatically showed his incompetence when he attacked Mrs. Eugene Meyer as a Communist pamphleteer. Velde has backed out of possible investigation of the American clergy because of a loud protest, but not before he lambasted several prominent ministers for attacking him.

Senator Jenner is the man who characterized General George Marshall as a "living lie." He is also heading a committee to investigate schools.

Representative Jackson from California has characterized Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam as a man who "served God on Sunday and the Communist front for the balance of the week."

These men are the politicians eagerly flexing their investigative muscles; they are power hungry, publicity hungry men who are ready for a slamming, name-calling session with anyone, any time. Their leader is McCarthy who moves so fast that it takes exhaustive researches for the truth to catch up with him.

If the country only had to suffer with these men as burdensome office holders who eventually would pass on to other callings, so many people wouldn't be concerned. But these men, together with the American Legion textbook hunters, the Indiana politicans who seek to castigate all New Dealers, and the half-truth equipped witchhunters, make an impression upon the public, enact legislation, and terrorize the minds of thousands.

These men are making strange progress. Though they would be the last to admit it, they have invented and are giving push to a new type of Socialism. Their Socialisms is not of an economic nature. It is a mental type—Socialization of the Mind. The philosophy goes something like this: "Don't disagree with us or we will slam you right out of your job, your position in the community, and your former character and high integrity. You can't be an individualist. Revenge and retaliation are the bywords for those who wish to dissent from our line. Our line is what we think at the moment. There will be no deviations."

Except for the fact that we have an elecion every two years for representatives, and every six for senaors, we would become very pessimistic for the future of freedom in America. The New York Times has characterized these "Socialists" as "the little men intoxicated wih a bit of power and a splash of publicity."

Two Americans, one an educator and the other a great judge, have noted the value of the rights and freedoms that these men would seek to take away. Dr. James Conant, also smeared by McCarthy, said in his final report to Harvard, "It would be a sad day for the United States if the tradition of dissent were driven out of the universities. For it is the freedom to disagree, to quarrel with authority on intellectual matters, to think otherwise, that has made this nation what it is. . . ." These words apply o all of the people, not just professors. Justice Robert H. Jackson has said, "If there is any fixed star in our constitutional constellation, it is that no official, high or petty, can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion, or other matters of opinion, or force citizens to confess by word of their faith therein."

We urge more freedom lovers to speak out for America in a positive way; we urge more people, particularly students to note the disservices that McCarthy and his cohorts are offering us. When Bishop Oxnam, Mrs. Meyer, Alan Barth of the Washington Post and others begin to point to the folly and error of McCarthyism, and people begin to hear them, then this vicious tribe of power warriors will be quelled, and in their place will come people who really understand freedom.

"I Can't Stand It, I Tell You. It's Driving Me Batty"

"Maybe We're Losing Our Touch"

Plea To The Editor

Editor's Note:
Two members of the University community have the same name, a fact that is not unusual. John Charles Gibson, a graduate student and instructor of anthropology, is The Daily Tar Heel columnist referred to. The author of this poem is John Livingston Gibson of Jackson Circle. We would like to enlist the writing abilities of the Jackson Circle Gibson as we have done with our anthropologist.

Please Mr. Editor give me some space
To clear up a matter that threatens my disgrace.
I refer to the doggerel about "Marilyn Monroe"
And "imports for dates" versus the "ratio",
Written by one whose name is John Gibson
And cleverly done with the proper diction.
My dilemma is mild, not anything tragic,
But a condition exists that smacks of z'magic;
For when introduced to people, Trustees forsaken,
I am quickly praised for works undertaken
To kill Saturday classes or even promote cholrophyll,
Using your daily as a vehicle for (my) skill.
I've told those who lavish such praise
'Tis another John Gibson among the maze
Of people who struggle in the field of English Lit,
And whose name appears above articles well writ.
They refuse to believe that I'm not the lad in you paper,
But I couldn't write of Monroe unless you undraped her.
You recall the man, a Methody,
Who because of George Elliot's famous lethargy
About clearing up the question of her actual name,
Became the recipient of her rightful fame.
I shan't do this but I'm tempted you hear,
For my character is weakening too much I fear.
Please Mr. Editor, print in bold type
There are two John Gibsons of the English stripe.
One, your writer, who has proven his literacy,
Another, myself, more concerned with the immediacy
Of telling those who to your daily are subscribing
That my character can't stand much more of this bribing.

John Gibson II
121 Jackson Circle

John Taylor

"The Importance Of Being Earnest"

Never let it be said that a classic done with taste and relish is not as enjoyable and pleasant as a brand new dish, hot off the griddle. A case in point is the J. Arthur Rank faithful adaptation of "The Importance of Being Earnest," which will bubble along at the Varsity today and tomorrow.

The plot of the well-known Oscar Wilde satire is ridiculous and incidental. Briefly it is this: Jack and Gwendolen love each other. Algernon and Cecily are also in love. Both girls believe their loves to be named Ernest, a fact of extreme importance to them. Because the only knowledge that Jack has of his ancestry is that he was found at an early age in a beaten-up handbag in the Victoria train station, Lady Bracknell, Gwendolen's mother, will not permit her daughter to marry him. In return Jack, as Cecily's guardian, will not permit her marriage to Algernon, Lady Bracknell's nephew. The problem is solved by a skeleton in the closet of the learned Miss Prism, Cecily's tutor. Also mixed into this melage of nothing are several cases of mistaken identities.

Obviously an inconsequential and artificial story, but one which has given Wilde an excellent framework on which to hang a constant stream of witty, pungent observations on the manners and morals of late nineteenth century society. As did his great contemporary, George Bernard Shaw, Wilde has given his sometimes one-dimensional characters brilliant truths and half-truths to speak and has made them in consequence scintillating and observant personnages.

An insight into the eternal, though superficial, wit of the text can be realized only by a few quotations from the script, and so there follows some characteristic epigrams. Wilde on man's behavior toward woman: "The only way to behave to a woman is to make love to her if she is pretty, and to someone else if she isn't." On bachelorhood: "By remaining single a man converts himself into a permanent public temptation." On diaries: "I never travel without my diary; one should always have something sensational to read on the train." On the state of being an orphan: "To lose one parent may be regarded as unfortunate; to lose both looks like carelessness." And on engagements:: "I am not in favor of long engagements; they give people the opportunity of finding out each other's character before marriage, which I think is never advisable."

Under Anthony Asquith's admirable direction an all-star British cast has tackled this labor of love with an almost incredible amount of verve and enthusiasm. Michael Redgrave makes Jack Worthing an engaging and polished fop. Joan Greenwood's Gwendolyn Fairfax is in turn elegant and adoring, with always just the right amount of feminine wile poking its pretty head above her decorous parasol. Margaret Rutherford, Michael Denison, Miles Malleson, and newcomer Dorothy Tutin contribute expert performances. But it is Dame Edith Evans who dominates the film. As the forbiding, glowering Lady Bracknell, she rules over the proceedings with her clipped, biting, and flamboyant portrayal.

As one of the characters says of her day, "We live in an age of surfaces." This more than adequately sums up the film. But it is a glossy, smoothe, and colorful surface, across which one can see Wilde's face laughing at man and his foibles.

New TAP BEER New

12 Oz's. of cold PABST BLUE RIBON draught served in a chilled glass ——— 20c

The New University Restaurant

The Most Comfortable Atmosphere In Town

In Durham It's

OLSON'S MUSIC STORE

For Complete Lines of

Woodwinds, Recorders, Brass, Accessories, Accordions, Guitars, Music, Reeds

Our Specialty

Band Instrument Repair

105 W. Parrish St.—Phone 3-4541

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY Sutton's

At SUTTON'S DRUG STORE you'll get skilled prescription service at all times . . . and you'll get to the head of the class if Will Rogers, Alamo and Saturn were your answers to the quiz.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES

5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

WE'LL CURE THAT HEADACHE!

If it's motor trouble that's giving you the headache, you don't need an aspirin . . . you need one of our MASTER MECHANICS! These super-technicians will find the trouble fast, and make prompt, dependable repairs and adjustments. Let us cure YOUR car headache!

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

University's Golf Team Opens 1953 Schedule Against The Citadel On Finley Course Today

Carolina's Southern Conference champion golf team opens its 1953 season at Finley Golf course this afternoon at 1:30 by meeting a strong team from The Citadel.

Although last year's individual SC champion Tommy Langley, has been lost to the service, the Tar Heels still have four returning lettermen who will play this afternoon.

Tryouts for the varsity and junior varsity golf teams will be held today, tomorrow, and Friday. Those who would like to qualify for either team must see pro Ed Kenney at the golf shop and then turn in cards for two 18-hole rounds.

Bob Black, Bill Williamson, Jimmy Ferree, and Billy Thornton all wil see action this afternoon. Black, Williamson, and Ferree have won letters the past two years while Thornton got his last year as a freshman.

Two new players will round out the starting six. Billy Ford, freshman from Charleston, S. C., and John Frazier, who returned to school this year after seeing service in Korea, will probably be Coach Chuck Erickson's other choices.

The Citadel last year ranked as one of the best teams in the Conference, but is somewhat weakened by the loss of Charlie Smith, who was runnerup to Langley in the tournament last spring at Winston-Salem.

This will be the Bulldog's third match of the season, however. They beat Wake Forest, 15½-11½, at Raleigh Monday afternoon.

Track Team Opens Season This Afternoon

This afternoon at 3:30 marks the opening of Carolina's outdoor track season. William and Mary College comes here for a dual track meet on Fetzer Field.

The Tar Heels, with several of their great stars of past years graduated, may be somewhat weaker than in previous years but will be favored to take the Indians. However, the Tar Heels have come along well in the past few weeks.

Coach Dale Ransom, veteran Tar

(See TRACK, page 4)

UNC Gridders Start Spring Preps Today

Head Coach George Barclay has issued a call for sixty six Carolina football players to report to Navy Field here this afternoon for the Tar Heels' spring football practice sessions.

The Tar Heels will conduct 20 days of work in the next thirty with 37 lettermen among those expected to answer the call. Missing will be Connie Gravitte, Albert Long, Will Frye and Ken Keller, all performing on the varsity baseball squad, and eight veterans who will graduate in June.

Among those returning are backs Marshall Newman, Larry Parker, Harold (Bull) Davidson, Bob White, and Flo Worrell, Linemen Ken Yarborough, Ed Patterson, Bill Kirkman, Jimmy Neville, Miles Gregor, Thad Eure, Ralph Weaver, Dan Mainer Dave Mullens and Junior Seawell.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, PiKA 1 vs. Pi Kap Phi 1 field 2, Sigma Chi 3 vs. SAE 1; field 3 Delt Psi vs. Phi Delt 2; field 4, SAE 2 vs. Phi Gam 1.

5:00—Field 1, Law School 1 vs. Med School 2; field 2, Med School 3 vs. Ruffin 2; field 3, Med School 1 vs. Law School 2; field 4, DKE 1 vs. Lambda Chi 1.

From out of the "Hermitage" of his beloved Southland . . . and the fierce conflict of the great Indian wars . . . came Andrew Jackson, hero of the battle of New Orleans . . .

To Wage His Greatest Battle . . . For The Honor Of The Woman He Loved!

Plus

Latest News

Carolina

NOW PLAYING

Our Spring & Summer

Stock Of Men's Clothing Is Rapidly Nearing Completion

SPORT COATS

SPORT SHIRTS

SUITS—All Fabrics Including DACRON

SUMMER SHOES

Drop By Now For Best Selections

Town & Campus

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

OPEN EVENINGS

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

USED TEXTS

At Prices You Can Afford

In A Friendly Atmosphere

Plus Free Ice Cream Cones On

Textbook Day.

It's Actually Fun to Buy Your Texts at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

WE BUY TEXTBOOKS WHETHER USED OR NOT

THE BOOK EXCHANGE

Five Points—Durham, N. C.

TEXTBOOKS • OUTLINES • TRANSLATIONS

TO GRADUATES IN

ENGINEERING
PHYSICAL SCIENCES
ARTS, SOCIAL SCIENCES
BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

All units of the Bell Telephone System play parts in the satisfying and rewarding job of making this country a nation of neighbors.

The telephone operating companies and Long Lines provide local and Long Distance telephone service that makes it possible to reach most everyone in this country and many people in foreign countries. Bell Telephone Laboratories invents and designs and Western Electric manufactures and distributes the equipment that makes service better year after year.

The Sandia Corporation, a subsidiary of Western Electric, is concerned with the military application of atomic energy.

The chart below may help you in considering how your education has prepared you for a starting job with one of the Bell Companies.

COLLEGE MAJOR	TELEPHONE COMPANIES & LONG LINES	WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY	BELL TELEPHONE LABORATORIES	SANDIA CORPORATION
Engineering
Aeronautical				X
Chemical		X
Civil	X	X
Electrical	X	X	X	X
Industrial	X	X
Mechanical	X	X	X	X
Metallurgical		X
Other degrees	X	X
Physical Sciences
Chemistry		X	X
Mathematics	X		X	X
Metallurgy		X	X
Physics	X	X	X	X
Arts and Social Sciences
Economics	X	X	X
Humanities	X	X
Other degrees	X	X
Business Administration
Accounting	X	X		X
Industrial Management	X	X
Marketing	X
Statistics	X	X

If you would like to know more about Bell System employment, your Placement Officer will be glad to help you.

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

Cloth Sheeting, toweling, print drapery—

39¢

3 yards for

$1.00

Chintz, Print, Denim Drapery—

59¢

2 yards for

$1.00

Dan River—

69¢ a yd.

One Table Picolay, Bates Print up to $1.50 a yd. Sale price—

98¢

$1.00

Off on any Bates bedspread

Bates Chambray, rayon prints, suiting—

$1.39

Sale—

$1.00 per yd.

Playtex Dryper, 100 Pads for—

$1.00

Playtex Pants, Dryper panties, Playtex Sheets, Any Playtex item over $1.00—

10% off

Ladies Coats, Suits, Toppers, and all dresses—

$8.95 and up

$1.00 off

Ladies Cotton panties, fine cotton, 2 for—

$1.00

Blankets, Chatham and Fieldcrest

$1.00 off

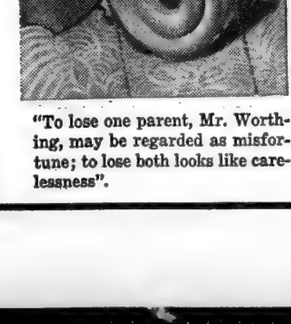
Extra large and Extra heavy white Navy Towels. Special—

$1.00

White Duck pants, Sanforized, Special—

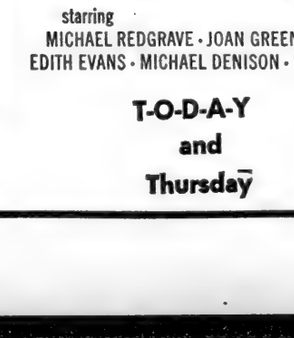
$3.50

Men's Fruit-of-the-Loom Underwear, Regular and Boxer Shorts, and Tee Shirts—



69¢ each

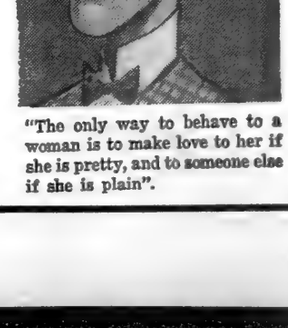
Athletic Shirts—



49¢ each

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

BERMAN'S Dept. Store



"I never travel without my diary. One should always have something sensational to read on the train".

"It is a terrible thing for a man to find out suddenly that all his life he has been speaking nothing but the truth".

EVERYBODY'S WILDE about Oscar Wilde's classic comedy of manners morals and matrimony!

"My sermon on the meaning of man in the wilderness can be adapted to almost any occasion, joyful, or, as in the present case, distressing".

"To lose one parent, Mr. Worthing, may be regarded as misfortune; to lose both looks like carelessness".

Color by TECHNICOLOR

The IMPORTANCE of BEING EARNEST

starring

MICHAEL REDGRAVE · JOAN GREENWOOD · MARGARET RUTHERFORD

EDITH EVANS · MICHAEL DENISON · DOROTHY TUTIN · MILES MALLESON

T-O-D-A-Y and Thursday

Varsity

"The only way to behave to a woman is to make love to her if she is pretty, and to someone else if she is plain".

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Scheeppe
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull | Adv. Mgrs. Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter | Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Pete Adams, Bob Mason, Bob Wolfe, Eleanor Saunders, Buddy Harper, Dorman Cordell, Ned Whitmore.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

New Type Socialists

In a progressive school we know about, the teachers instruct the children to take their paint brushes and splash at will on the easel just what ever comes into their minds.

Alleged adults are doing the same thing only they have two or three things in mind. Their chief purposes are to gain power in the government, to gain publicity, to insure that power, and finally, to utilize that power for selfish aims. We refer to Senators McCarthy and Jenner, and Representatives Jackson and Velde. Over a period of time, for instance, Sen. McCarthy has investigated Communism in the State Department, though not one Communist was dismissed because of his charges.

The Senator launched an inquiry of malice when he investigated the Voice of America as Stalin was dying. When the Voice could have furthered the cause of freedom, McCarthy, who claims to be fighting for America, actually helped the Russians in the war of propaganda. McCarthy has smeared our next Ambassador to Russia with such vituperation that Mr. Bohlen, who is backed by President Eisenhower, could have refused to serve our country in the face of such abuse. McCarthy wants Bohlen to use a lie detector. We feel the senator, not the diplomat, should utilize that truth establishment instrument.

Harold Velde, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, has launched a careless investigation of alleged communism in colleges. Velde automatically showed his incompetence when he attacked Mrs. Eugene Meyer as a Communist pamphleteer. Velde has backed out of possible investigation of the American clergy because of a loud protest, but not before he lambasted several prominent ministers for attacking him.

Senator Jenner is the man who characterized General George Marshall as a "living lie." He is also heading a committee to investigate schools.

Representative Jackson from California has characterized Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam as a man who "served God on Sunday and the Communist front for the balance of the week."

These men are the politicians eagerly flexing their investigative muscles; they are power hungry, publicity hungry men who are ready for a slamming, name-calling session with anyone, any time. Their leader is McCarthy who moves so fast that it takes exhaustive researches for the truth to catch up with him.

If the country only had to suffer with these men as burdensome office holders who eventually would pass on to other callings, so many people wouldn't be concerned. But these men, together with the American Legion textbook hunters, the Indiana politicans who seek to castigate all New Dealers, and the half-truth equipped witchhunters, make an impression upon the public, enact legislation, and terrorize the minds of thousands.

These men are making strange progress. Though they would be the last to admit it, they have invented and are giving push to a new type of Socialism. Their Socialisms is not of an economic nature. It is a mental type—Socialization of the Mind. The philosophy goes something like this: "Don't disagree with us or we will slam you right out of your job, your position in the community, and your former character and high integrity. You can't be an individualist. Revenge and retaliation are the bywords for those who wish to dissent from our line. Our line is what we think at the moment. There will be no deviations."

Except for the fact that we have an elecion every two years for representatives, and every six for senaors, we would become very pessimistic for the future of freedom in America. The New York Times has characterized these "Socialists" as "the little men intoxicated wih a bit of power and a splash of publicity."

Two Americans, one an educator and the other a great judge, have noted the value of the rights and freedoms that these men would seek to take away. Dr. James Conant, also smeared by McCarthy, said in his final report to Harvard, "It would be a sad day for the United States if the tradition of dissent were driven out of the universities. For it is the freedom to disagree, to quarrel with authority on intellectual matters, to think otherwise, that has made this nation what it is. . . ." These words apply o all of the people, not just professors. Justice Robert H. Jackson has said, "If there is any fixed star in our constitutional constellation, it is that no official, high or petty, can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion, or other matters of opinion, or force citizens to confess by word of their faith therein."

We urge more freedom lovers to speak out for America in a positive way; we urge more people, particularly students to note the disservices that McCarthy and his cohorts are offering us. When Bishop Oxnam, Mrs. Meyer, Alan Barth of the Washington Post and others begin to point to the folly and error of McCarthyism, and people begin to hear them, then this vicious tribe of power warriors will be quelled, and in their place will come people who really understand freedom.

"I Can't Stand It, I Tell You. It's Driving Me Batty"

"Maybe We're Losing Our Touch"

Plea To The Editor

Editor's Note:
Two members of the University community have the same name, a fact that is not unusual. John Charles Gibson, a graduate student and instructor of anthropology, is The Daily Tar Heel columnist referred to. The author of this poem is John Livingston Gibson of Jackson Circle. We would like to enlist the writing abilities of the Jackson Circle Gibson as we have done with our anthropologist.

Please Mr. Editor give me some space
To clear up a matter that threatens my disgrace.
I refer to the doggerel about "Marilyn Monroe"
And "imports for dates" versus the "ratio",
Written by one whose name is John Gibson
And cleverly done with the proper diction.
My dilemma is mild, not anything tragic,
But a condition exists that smacks of z'magic;
For when introduced to people, Trustees forsaken,
I am quickly praised for works undertaken
To kill Saturday classes or even promote cholrophyll,
Using your daily as a vehicle for (my) skill.
I've told those who lavish such praise
'Tis another John Gibson among the maze
Of people who struggle in the field of English Lit,
And whose name appears above articles well writ.
They refuse to believe that I'm not the lad in you paper,
But I couldn't write of Monroe unless you undraped her.
You recall the man, a Methody,
Who because of George Elliot's famous lethargy
About clearing up the question of her actual name,
Became the recipient of her rightful fame.
I shan't do this but I'm tempted you hear,
For my character is weakening too much I fear.
Please Mr. Editor, print in bold type
There are two John Gibsons of the English stripe.
One, your writer, who has proven his literacy,
Another, myself, more concerned with the immediacy
Of telling those who to your daily are subscribing
That my character can't stand much more of this bribing.

John Gibson II
121 Jackson Circle

John Taylor

"The Importance Of Being Earnest"

Never let it be said that a classic done with taste and relish is not as enjoyable and pleasant as a brand new dish, hot off the griddle. A case in point is the J. Arthur Rank faithful adaptation of "The Importance of Being Earnest," which will bubble along at the Varsity today and tomorrow.

The plot of the well-known Oscar Wilde satire is ridiculous and incidental. Briefly it is this: Jack and Gwendolen love each other. Algernon and Cecily are also in love. Both girls believe their loves to be named Ernest, a fact of extreme importance to them. Because the only knowledge that Jack has of his ancestry is that he was found at an early age in a beaten-up handbag in the Victoria train station, Lady Bracknell, Gwendolen's mother, will not permit her daughter to marry him. In return Jack, as Cecily's guardian, will not permit her marriage to Algernon, Lady Bracknell's nephew. The problem is solved by a skeleton in the closet of the learned Miss Prism, Cecily's tutor. Also mixed into this melage of nothing are several cases of mistaken identities.

Obviously an inconsequential and artificial story, but one which has given Wilde an excellent framework on which to hang a constant stream of witty, pungent observations on the manners and morals of late nineteenth century society. As did his great contemporary, George Bernard Shaw, Wilde has given his sometimes one-dimensional characters brilliant truths and half-truths to speak and has made them in consequence scintillating and observant personnages.

An insight into the eternal, though superficial, wit of the text can be realized only by a few quotations from the script, and so there follows some characteristic epigrams. Wilde on man's behavior toward woman: "The only way to behave to a woman is to make love to her if she is pretty, and to someone else if she isn't." On bachelorhood: "By remaining single a man converts himself into a permanent public temptation." On diaries: "I never travel without my diary; one should always have something sensational to read on the train." On the state of being an orphan: "To lose one parent may be regarded as unfortunate; to lose both looks like carelessness." And on engagements:: "I am not in favor of long engagements; they give people the opportunity of finding out each other's character before marriage, which I think is never advisable."

Under Anthony Asquith's admirable direction an all-star British cast has tackled this labor of love with an almost incredible amount of verve and enthusiasm. Michael Redgrave makes Jack Worthing an engaging and polished fop. Joan Greenwood's Gwendolyn Fairfax is in turn elegant and adoring, with always just the right amount of feminine wiles poking its pretty head above her decorous parasol. Margaret Rutherford, Michael Denison, Miles Malleson, and newcomer Dorothy Tutin contribute expert performances. But it is Dame Edith Evans who dominates the film. As the forbiding, glowering Lady Bracknell, she rules over the proceedings with her clipped, biting, and flamboyant portrayal.

As one of the characters says of her day, "We live in an age of surfaces." This more than adequately sums up the film. But it is a glossy, smoothe, and colorful surface, across which one can see Wilde's face laughing at man and his foibles.

New TAP BEER New

12 Oz's. of cold PABST BLUE RIBON draught served in a chilled glass ——— 20c

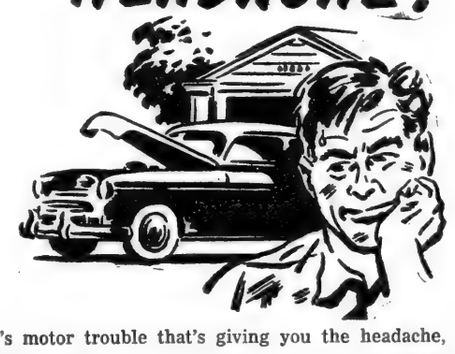
The New University Restaurant

The Most Comfortable Atmosphere In Town

In Durham It's

OLSON'S MUSIC STORE

For Complete Lines of



Woodwinds, Recorders, Brass, Accessories — Accordions, Guitars, Music, Reeds

Our Specialty

Band Instrument Repair

105 W. Parrish St.—Phone 3-4541

WE'LL CURE THAT HEADACHE!

If it's motor trouble that's giving you the headache, you don't need an aspirin . . . you need one of our MASTER MECHANICS! These super-technicians will find the trouble fast, and make prompt, dependable repairs and adjustments. Let us cure YOUR car headache!

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

At SUTTON'S DRUG STORE you'll get skilled prescription service at all times . . . and you'll get to the head of the class if Will Rogers, Alamo and Saturn were your answers to the quiz.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES

5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

University's Golf Team Opens 1953 Schedule Against The Citadel On Finley Course Today

Carolina's Southern Conference champion golf team opens its 1953 season at Finley Golf course this afternoon at 1:30 by meeting a strong team from The Citadel.

Although last year's individual SC champion Tommy Langley, has been lost to the service, the Tar Heels still have four returning lettermen who will play this afternoon.

Tryouts for the varsity and junior varsity golf teams will be held today, tomorrow, and Friday. Those who would like to qualify for either team must see pro Ed Kenney at the golf shop and then turn in cards for two 18-hole rounds.

Bob Black, Bill Williamson, Jimmy Ferree, and Billy Thornton all wil see action this afternoon. Black, Williamson, and Ferree have won letters the past two years while Thornton got his last year as a freshman.

Two new players will round out the starting six. Billy Ford, freshman from Charleston, S. C., and John Frazier, who returned to school this year after seeing service in Korea, will probably be Coach Chuck Erickson's other choices.

The Citadel last year ranked as one of the best teams in the Conference, but is somewhat weakened by the loss of Charlie Smith, who was runnerup to Langley in the tournament last spring at Winston-Salem.

This will be the Bulldog's third match of the season, however. They beat Wake Forest, 15½-11½, at Raleigh Monday afternoon.

UNC Gridders Start Spring Preps Today

Head Coach George Barclay has issued a call for sixty six Carolina football players to report to Navy Field here this afternoon for the Tar Heels' spring football practice sessions.

The Tar Heels will conduct 20 days of work in the next thirty with 37 lettermen among those expected to answer the call. Missing will be Connie Gravitte, Albert Long, Will Frye and Ken Keller, all performing on the varsity baseball squad, and eight veterans who will graduate in June.

Among those returning are backs Marshall Newman, Larry Parker, Harold (Bull) Davidson, Bob White, and Flo Worrell, Linemen Ken Yarborough, Ed Patterson, Bill Kirkman, Jimmy Neville, Miles Gregor, Thad Eure, Ralph Weaver, Dan Mainer Dave Mullens and Junior Seawell.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, PiKA 1 vs. Pi Kap Phi 1 field 2, Sigma Chi 3 vs. SAE 1; field 3 Delt Psi vs. Phi Delt 2; field 4, SAE 2 vs. Phi Gam 1.

5:00—Field 1, Law School 1 vs. Med School 2; field 2, Med School 3 vs. Ruffin 2; field 3, Med School 1 vs. Law School 2; field 4, DKE 1 vs. Lambda Chi 1.

From out of the "Hermitage" of his beloved Southland . . . and the fierce conflict of the great Indian wars . . . came Andrew Jackson, hero of the battle of New Orleans . . .

To Wage His Greatest Battle . . . For The Honor Of The Woman He Loved!

Plus Latest News

Carolina NOW PLAYING

Our Spring & Summer

Stock Of Men's Clothing Is Rapidly Nearing Completion

SPORT COATS

SPORT SHIRTS

SUITS—All Fabrics Including DACRON

SUMMER SHOES

Drop By Now For Best Selections

Town & Campus

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

OPEN EVENINGS

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

USED TEXTS

At Prices You Can Afford

In A Friendly Atmosphere

Plus Free Ice Cream Cones On

Textbook Day.

It's Actually Fun to Buy Your Texts at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

Track Team Opens Season This Afternoon

This afternoon at 3:30 marks the opening of Carolina's outdoor track season. William and Mary College comes here for a dual track meet on Fetzer Field.

The Tar Heels, with several of their great stars of past years graduated, may be somewhat weaker than in previous years but will be favored to take the Indians. However, the Tar Heels have come along well in the past few weeks.

Coach Dale Ransom, veteran Tar

(See TRACK, page 4)

WE BUY TEXTBOOKS WHETHER USED OR NOT

THE BOOK EXCHANGE

Five Points—Durham, N. C.

TEXTBOOKS • OUTLINES • TRANSLATIONS

TO GRADUATES IN

ENGINEERING
PHYSICAL SCIENCES
ARTS, SOCIAL SCIENCES
BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

All units of the Bell Telephone System play parts in the satisfying and rewarding job of making this country a nation of neighbors.

The telephone operating companies and Long Lines provide local and Long Distance telephone service that makes it possible to reach most everyone in this country and many people in foreign countries. Bell Telephone Laboratories invents and designs and Western Electric manufactures and distributes the equipment that makes service better year after year.

The Sandia Corporation, a subsidiary of Western Electric, is concerned with the military application of atomic energy.

The chart below may help you in considering how your education has prepared you for a starting job with one of the Bell Companies.

COLLEGE MAJOR	TELEPHONE COMPANIES & LONG LINES	WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY	BELL TELEPHONE LABORATORIES	SANDIA CORPORATION
Engineering
Aeronautical				X
Chemical		X
Civil	X	X
Electrical	X	X	X	X
Industrial	X	X
Mechanical	X	X	X	X
Metallurgical		X
Other degrees	X	X
Physical Sciences
Chemistry		X	X
Mathematics	X		X	X
Metallurgy		X	X
Physics	X	X	X	X
Arts and Social Sciences
Economics	X	X	X
Humanities	X	X
Other degrees	X	X
Business Administration
Accounting	X	X		X
Industrial Management	X	X
Marketing	X
Statistics	X	X

If you would like to know more about Bell System employment, your Placement Officer will be glad to help you.

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

Cloth Sheeting, toweling, print drapery—

39¢

3 yards for

$1.00

Chintz, Print, Denim Drapery—

59¢

2 yards for

$1.00

Dan River—

69¢ a yd.

One Table Picolay, Bates Print up to $1.50 a yd. Sale price—

98¢

$1.00

Off on any Bates bedspread

Bates Chambray, rayon prints, suiting—

$1.39

Sale—

$1.00 per yd.

Playtex Dryper, 100 Pads for—

$1.00

Playtex Pants, Dryper panties, Playtex Sheets, Any Playtex item over $1.00—

10% off

Ladies Coats, Suits, Toppers, and all dresses—

$8.95 and up

$1.00 off

Ladies Cotton panties, fine cotton, 2 for—

$1.00

Blankets, Chatham and Fieldcrest

$1.00 off

Extra large and Extra heavy white Navy Towels. Special—

$1.00

White Duck pants, Sanforized, Special—

$3.50

Men's Fruit-of-the-Loom Underwear, Regular and Boxer Shorts, and Tee Shirts—

69¢ each

Athletic Shirts—

49¢ each

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

BERMAN'S Dept. Store

"I never travel without my diary. One should always have something sensational to read on the train".

"It is a terrible thing for a man to find out suddenly that all his life he has been speaking nothing but the truth".

EVERYBODY'S WILDE about Oscar Wilde's classic comedy of manners morals and matrimony!

"My sermon on the meaning of man in the wilderness can be adapted to almost any occasion, joyful, or, as in the present case, distressing".

"To lose one parent, Mr. Worthing, may be regarded as misfortune; to lose both looks like carelessness".

Color by TECHNICOLOR

The IMPORTANCE of BEING EARNEST

starring

MICHAEL REDGRAVE · JOAN GREENWOOD · MARGARET RUTHERFORD

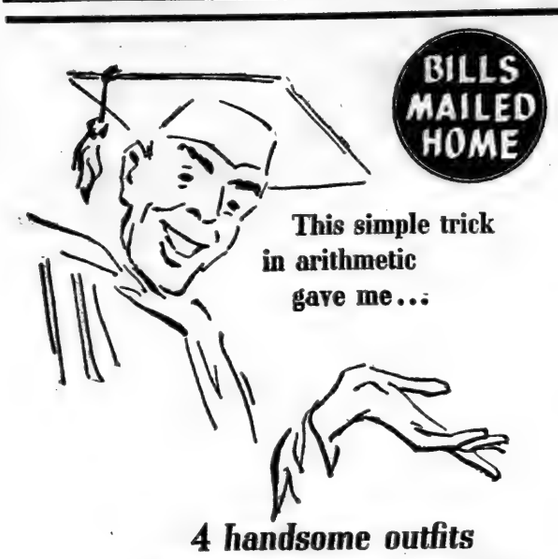
EDITH EVANS · MICHAEL DENISON · DOROTHY TUTIN · MILES MALLESON

T-O-D-A-Y and Thursday

Varsity

"The only way to behave to a woman is to make love to her if she is pretty, and to someone else if she is plain".

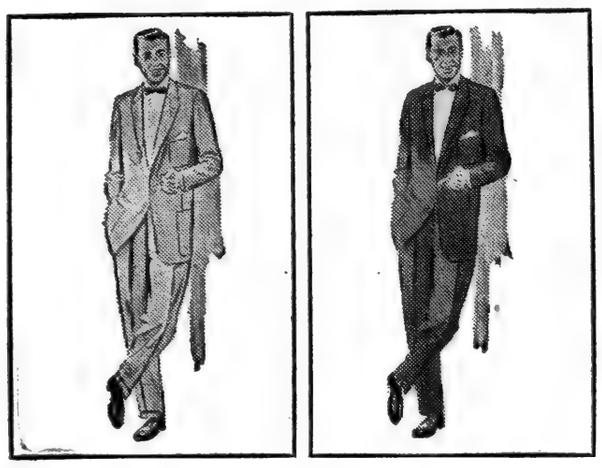
—Sumner—



(Continued from page 1)

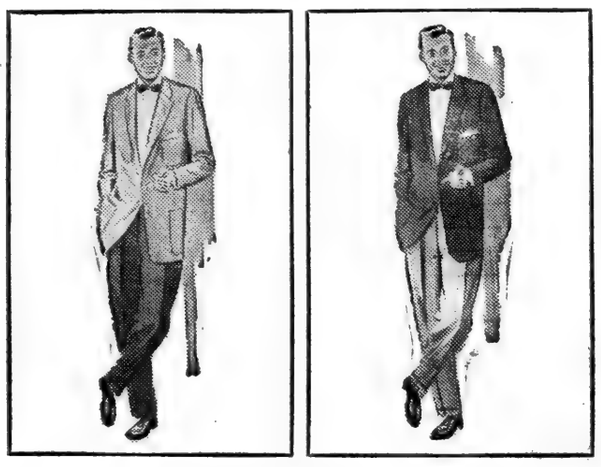
7. To advocate awarding of scholarships on an equal basis for athletes and others.

8 .To have student government, particularly the executive branch, cooperate "in implementing the recent joint faculty recommendations regarding the state of the University." This includes establishment of the faculty rating system, complete revsiion of the advisory system, improvement of dormitory counselor setup and other housing problems, necessary adjustment of faculty work load to improve quality of instruction and establishment of academic liaison with high schools.



9. To study student courts' methods of handling cases because of "real and or apparent miscarriages of justice."

Last time two independents ran was in Spring of 1950, and a run-off yielded a victory for John Sanders (SP).



This simple trick in arithmetic gave me...

4 handsome outfits for the price of only TWO!

Get 2 Cool, Smart, Wrinkle-Resistant PALM BEACH* Suits for Only $29.95 each

Wear them Mixed or Matched... Have 4 Smart Outfits

Get 2 Palm Beach suits, each in a contrasting color. Switch coats and trousers. Have 4 handsome outfits.

In cool, wrinkle-resistant Palm Beach suits you get patented 3-way control tailoring for better fit at collar, shoulders and back.

Come in for a try on. See what these better-fitting suits do for your appearance ... how the 4 outfits these 2 suits give you really stretch your clothing dollar.

Two Suits $59.90
Single Suit $29.95

Palm Beach® WOVEN BY GOODALL-SANFORD, INC. ONLY

*Reg. T. M. Goodall-Sanford, Inc. Mohair, rayon, acetate and 5% nylon, in most styles.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

What Goes On Here

Off To UN

About a half dozen Carolina students, all members of the campus United Nations committee, leave for New York today for a three-day UN student symposium.

Criminology Text Needed

The Extension Division needs copies of the text book "New Horizons in Criminology" by Barnes and Teeters. Students having copies are asked to loan them for prisoner groups at Central Prison in Raleigh who are using the book as a study text.

WUNC Today

Today's schedule for WUNC, non-commercial FM radio station operated by the University on a frequency of 91.5 mc.:

7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The UN Story.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—Old Books, Old Friends.
8:30—Masterworks from France.
9—Concert Favorites.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—Evening masterwork.

Gloves Found

A pair of black suede gloves were found in Gerrard Hall following the SUAB film "Carnival of Flanders" shown March 11. The owner may claim the gloves at the Graham Memorial main office.

—Track—

(Continued from page 3)

Heel head cross country and assistant track coach, will be heading the Tar Heels for the first time. He took over head duties from Coach R. A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer last year when Fetzer resigned as track coach and athletic director. Ransom has been with the Tar Heels for a quarter of a century and is one of the nation's best known mentors.

Opposing Ransom will be one of his finest students, Billy Joyner. The Indian coach was one of the conference's leading high jumpers a few years back and worked under Ransom and assistant Joe Hilton.

The Tar Heels will be counting on speedsters Harry Brown and Jeff Newton, hurdlers Charlie Scott and Sonny Beall, weightmen Roger Morris and Tom McAllister, distance stars Bobby Barden and Morris Osborne and middle distance aces Mac Ray and John Bennett.

Bobby Bell, Bill Cornell, Charlie Yarborough, Sam Jordan, Billy Duke and Tom Higgins are also expected to give the Tar Heels points against the Tar Heels.

JAYVEE BASEBALL

There will be a meeting of the junior varsity baseball team at 3:30 this afternoon in the Emerson dressing room. All candidates are asked to be on time and any freshman who have not had an opportunity to try out for the team are invited to the meeting.

—Nurses—

(Continued from page 1)

Then Rep. C. K. Bryant of Gaston said, "If this money is granted it should be on the understanding they cease trying to set standards for pay and hours worked. If they don't, we ought to take every damn thing away from them."

Dr. Cadmus said the rate of $220 a month was set for Chapel Hill after consultation with the state nurses association. He said this rate was identical with Duke and Watts at the time it began last Fall. Now the two Durham institutions have gone up to $240 and Dr. Cadmus wants to pay his nurses the same thing.

"We have rough nursing," he said. Dr. Cadmus explained "rough nursing" to mean that a hospital the size fo Memorial gets "acute cases" that require more of a nurse. Stiffer work brings a higher price, and he concluded, "we are in line with nursing salaries."

UNC Baseball Team Splits Even In Four-Game Florida Series

The Carolina baseball team, rated as one of the strongest in the Southern Conference, split even in four games played in Florida over spring vacation.

The Tar Heels opened their season against Georgia Teachers last Thursday and lost, 2-1, despite the fine pitching of Chal Port. They came back to win the next day, however, handling Rollins College easily, 7-1.

After rain had postponed games Saturday and Sunday, Carolina and Rollins split in a double-header Monday afternoon, the Tar Heels bowing, 6-3, in the opener and then lacing Rollins, 11-1, in the second game. Port allowed only four hits in winning the second game.

Connie Gravitte paced the Tar Heel hitting in the final two games with Rollins.

Milton Has Exactly What You're Looking for This Spring

Haspel sanforized cotton cord suits; also denim suits	24.50
Summer weight charcoal tropical worsted suits, lowest price in the State	55.00
Moyagshel Irish linen suits	49.95
Charcoal tropical worsted suit pants, pleated or plain front—lowest price anywhere	14.95
Full length mercerized cotton 6x3 rib socks	.75
Acetate linen slacks that really hold a crease	8.95
Sanforized cotton cord slacks	6.95
Summer weight 100% shetland sport coats in perfect Brooks cut	39.95
Black handsewn loafers with stout leather soles—only	9.95
Genuine white bucksin shoes with Pre-stitched welt and red Duflee Gum-Sar sole	12.95
Custom Original Cordovan shoes with full leather linings—lowest prices anywhere	14.95

You Can't Beat Milton's for Quality, Style and Price.

Bills Mailed Home.

MILTON'S Clothing Cupboard

Are you Engaged?

Then prepare for your honeymoon now. Most resorts will be full if you wait. Thousands of collegians from all over the United States have happy memories of a little cottage all their own, terrific meals and friendly folk met here. Mention dates, and we'll send our helpful Three Honeymoon Plans.

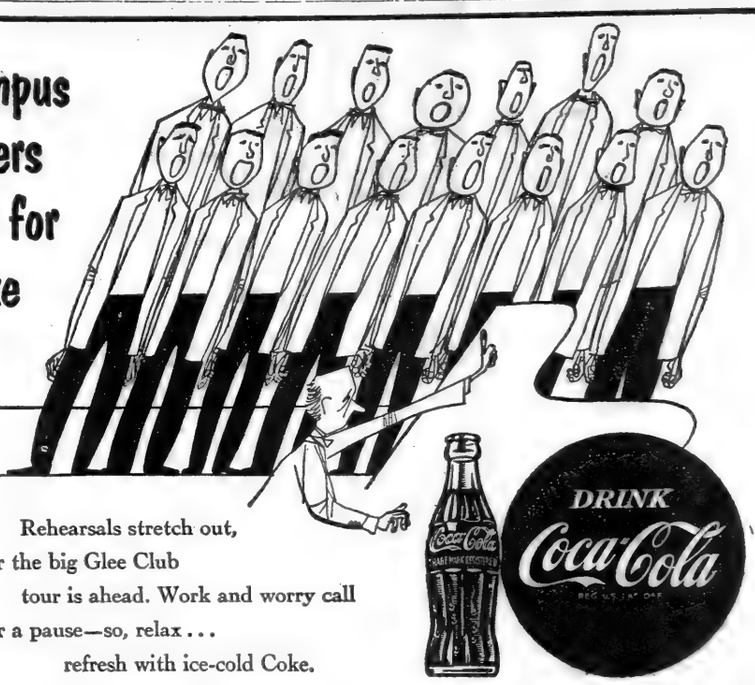
THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 86, Pa.

Learning To Dance

Is More Fun Than A Night at the Theatre

!

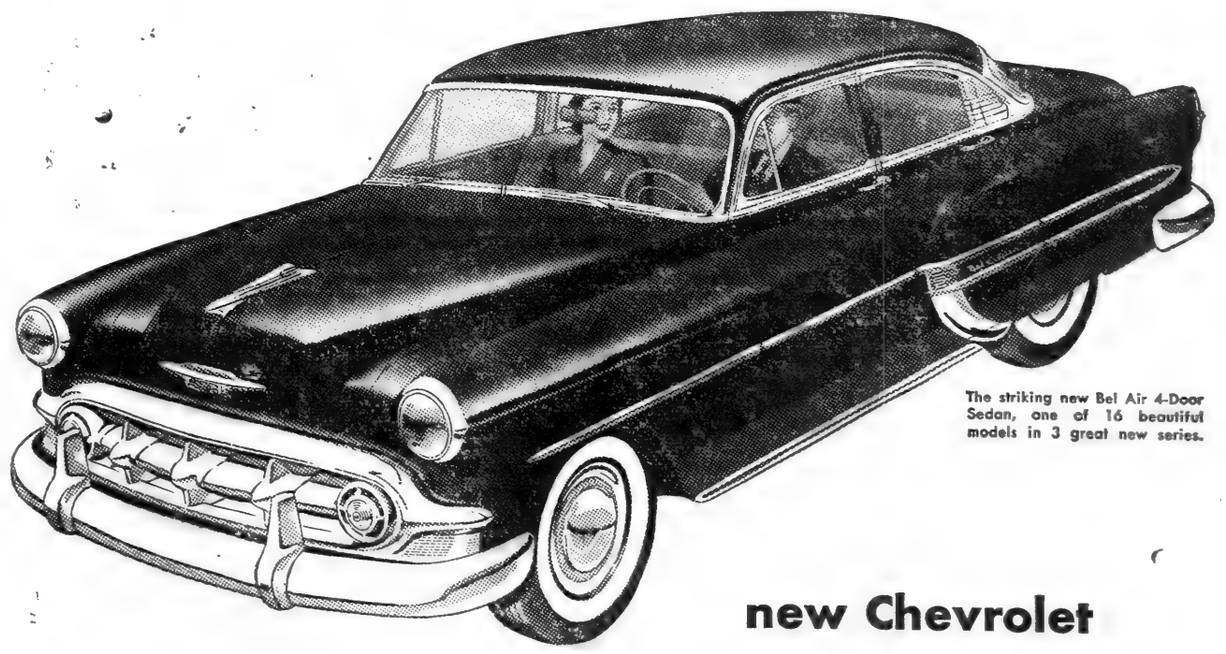
Studios Air Conditioned



Yes, a night at the theatre is over when the curtain falls, a football game is over when the final whistle blows, but your fun is just beginning when you learn to dance at Arthur Murray's. Win new friends and popularity with your dancing skill at proms, parties, and campus activities.

Arthur Murray
104½ Morris St., at 5 Pts., 2-7872

Campus capers call for Coke



Rehearsals stretch out,
for the big Glee Club tour is ahead. Work and worry call for a pause—so, relax ...
refresh with ice-cold Coke.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

A new class of American cars...

The striking new Bel Air 4-Door Sedan, one of 16 beautiful models in 3 great new series.

Only the world's largest producer could build a car like this at such low cost to you!

This is an entirely new kind of car—a car so luxurious, so richly finished in every detail that it stands out, above and beyond all others in the low-price field.

In the new Bel Air Series you will find four wonderful models—the 2-door and 4-door sedans, the sport coupe, the convertible. Every one of these new 1953 Chevrolets brings you new high-compression power, new and greater performance plus amazing new gasoline economy!

Here is a wonderful choice. Wouldn't you like to stop in and see the great new Chevrolet for '53 today?

(Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.)

new Chevrolet Bel Air Series

CHEVROLET

MORE PEOPLE BUY CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

SEE YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!
Conveniently listed under "Automobiles" in your local classified telephone directory

Buy Now!

EASTER CARDS
—Now On Display—
LEDBETTER-PICKARD

Sunday April 5th Is The Day

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Fair and cool with 60 high. Yesterday's high, 62; low, 39.

The Daily Tar Heel

ODUM
The editors talk about an award and the man who won it. See p. 2.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 115 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

UNC Gifts Hit High Of $ Million

A new high in monetary grants and gifts to the University was reached in the calendar year 1952.

A total of $1,147,155 from four main sources, namely, national foundations, Health Affairs Division grants, state foundations and individuals, and other restricted funds, came to the University last year, it was revealed at a quarterly meeting of the University Development Council held here during the weekend.

Harold Lineberger, Belmont, chairman of the Council's Evaluation Committee, released the figure after receiving reports from President Gray and Chancellor Robert B. House.

The totals are Health Affairs grants, $601,146; state foundations, $247,569; national foundations, $108,162; and other restricted funds, $190,276.

Spencer Love, Greensboro, acting chairman of the council, commenting on the report, said "these figures are encouraging, but they should be even higher for alumni and other friends of the University will undoubtedly respond more generously with a little more urging."

The Legislature should be encouraged to do its utmost to meet the University's minimum budget requests when its members note that the institution is doing everything possible to help itself through appeals for gifts and grants such as these, Chairman Love said.

The recently activated Alumni Annual Giving Program, which made its first general appeal only a month ago, reported contributions to date of $12,627. R. Mayne Albright, Raleigh, chairman of the Program, which is seeking funds for unrestricted emergencies and opportunities, said that the contributions have ranged from $2 to $500. "The early reports are distinctly encouraging," he said.

The Legislature fails to see the benefit of using state funds for alumni giving. This week the appropriatinos sub committee refused the request of the University for funds to finance giving at the three institutions of the Consolidated University.

Sen. Fred S. Royster of Vance said he thought some of the donations should be used to finance the giving campaigns.

R. Arthur Spaught Jr., Winston-Salem, president, General Alumni Association, said that "constant support of this program is one of the most important phases of the University's development."

President Gray told the Council that the University's revised budget request had left many of the University's essential needs unprovided for. "But we are not figuring on having to close up," he added.

Reports were also presented by Robert M. Hanes, Winston-Salem; George Watts Hill, Durham; Holt

(See GIFTS, page 2)

EIGHT MATCHED GREYS DRAW THE GOLD coach of state in which Queen Elizabeth II will ride to her Coronation. The four-ton coach, which was completed in 1761, is shown here during a London rehearsal for the event.—NEA Radiophoto.

Winter Intrudes With Rain, Wind

Old Man Winter took a curtain call yesterday during Spring's act.

The official wind, rain and temperature readings didn't show the weather severity felt by students as they took in the first day of the Spring Quarter. Rain plagued them yesterday morning and most of the day. Strong winds whipped raincoats and hats about and chapped cheeks.

Early Spring flowers suffered from the inch and a half rain in two days as petals were beaten to the ground and stems bent or broken.

Yesterday's high temperature was 60 with a low in the upper 30's. The wind velocity recorded by the Raleigh-Durham Airport weather bureau was 20 miles an hour.

The forecaster promised cool and fair for today but said some showers can be expected tomorrow or Saturday.

Spring officially began last Friday and since that time the weather has been pleasant and of the shirt-sleeve variety—pleasant, that is, until yesterday.

Meeting Slated Tonight For Talk On Fulfilling Fire Requirements

With but nine days left before they become liable to penalty, presidents of 36 condemned Greek letter housese meet tonight to discuss plans to bring their homes within the state fire law.

The meeting will be held at 7 o'clock in the Faculty Lounge of the Morehead Building.

Every fraternity and sorority house on campus—except one, Chi Psi—was condemned by fire inspectors in December just as the Fall Quarter ended. Effective January 6, the houses had 90 days in which to comply with the specifications. However, the state law prvoides that houses starting their work before the 90 days are up may get an extension.

Fire escape companies will make bids Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week and work should begin soon after, according to Jule Rousseau who heads the fraternity-sorority planning group.

Rousseau asked Greek presidents not able to attend tonight's meeting to send representatives.

Independents Must Declare

Deadline for independents to file with the Elections Board is midnight, April 3, Chairman Dusty Lamson said yesterday.

Any student may become a candidate for office provided he or she submits a petition signed by 25 qualified voters and by himself. Petitions may be turned in to Dusty Lamson at St. Anthony Hall or at the student government office. The petitioner must turn in his grade qualifications as certified by the Dean of Students office with the petition.

The Elections Board will meet today at 4 o'clock in the vice-president's office in Graham Memorial, said Lamson.

Dayton Estes, Frank Warren, Bob Pace and Don Kurtz were appointed to the board this quarter.

Doctor Here Helping Out In Japan

Dr. Sidney S. Chipman, professor and head of the Department of Maternal and Child Health, School of Public Health has gone to Japan where he will serve as a short term World Health Organization consultant to the Japanese government on the question of care of prematurely born infants.

The Japanese government asked the World Health Organization to send a consultant in this field and Dr. Chipman was selected for the job. He will spend four to six weeks in Japan.

Dr. Chipman will stop for five days at WHO's regional office for the Western Pacific in Manila where he will be briefed. He will also stop there to make a report on his way back to the United States.

Dr. Chipman came to the University in 1950 when the Department of Maternal and Child Health was created. He was formerly associate professor of pediatrics at Louisiana State Medical School.

DR. SIDNEY S. CHIPMAN

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL—Counterattacking American infantrymen failed yesterday for the second time to dislodge Chinese Reds who after three days of fighting held three-fourths of Old Baldy Mountain. American casualties were believed to have been heavy, but there was no immediate official report. At one point, hard fighting U. S. infantrymen closed to hand-to-hand fighting with hundreds of Chinese entrenched in the mud on the northern part of the hill.

★

OSLO, Norway—The name of former President Harry S. Truman leads this year's secret list of nominations for the coveted Nobel peace prize, authoritative sources said yesterday. The peace prize was not awarded last year.

★

WASHINGTON—The Army prodded by President Eisenhower, moved yesterday to end racial segregation at schools on Army posts. The White House said that by the fall term all schools operated by the Army would be on a "completely integrated basis." A spokesman said the only ones now segregated which are financed entirely by federal funds are at Fort Benning, Ga. and Fort Campbell, Ky.

★

WASHINGTON — Some Democrats sat on the Senate floor and laughed openly yesterday as the Republican fight to confirm Charles E. Bohlen turned into a bitter intra-party squabble. Approval for the Russian ambassador was postponed until Friday at Senator Taft's request. Bohlen is assured of approval. Taft said he and one other colleague examined the FBI security files on Bohlen and found nothing to cause doubt about his loyalty. This amounted to a slap at Senator McCarthy, who said the files would prove Bohlen unfit if their contents were revealed. A side issue developed when McCarthy challenged a statement read by fellow Republican Knowland. Knowland flared and said it was "the first time my veracity has ever been questioned." McCarthy then acknowledged Knowland probably was right in what he said. Knowland refused to give the document to McCarthy for his personal inspection.

Theatre Horses

Sherman's Stay Over Described

By Ken Myers

The Playmakers Theatre, a familiar landmark in Chapel Hill, has been everything from a stable for General Sherman's horses to a library and a ballroom for commencement dances.

Probably no other building on campus has had such a diversified history. Built in 1852, it was originally named Smith Hall, in honor of Governor Benjamin Smith, who made the first private gift to the University of North Carolina.

In April, 1865, General Sherman marched into Chapel Hill with the 4,000-strong Michigan Cavalry, and encamped here for two weeks. Some of the officers were quartered in University buildings. Their mounts were stabled in several of the buildings, including Smith Hall, which was then serving as the University library, comprising only about 150 volumes of outdated books.

General Sherman is reported to have remarked that his cavalry officers' mounts were "the best educated horses in the Union Army."

After about 20 years, the students and faculty realized that Smith Hall would have to serve a better purpose than that of a library for a mere handful of books. The building, it was believed, was going to waste. It was being used as a ballroom only once a year for commencement dances, and students rarely visited the building to use the small collection of novels and texts there.

Some 3,600 books, therefore, were transferred from the dusty shelves of President Swain's lecture room in South Building to Smith Hall, and the one-time stable became a full-fledged library.

In 1924, the Trustees of the University gave the building to the Carolina Playmakers and appropriated from the bequest of Robert K. Smith of Caswell County the necessary funds for remodeling it.

In an address of dedication on November 23, 1925, University President H. W. Chase made the following statement:

"We dedicate this building tonight in the confidence that it may make possible about our common life a little more of the stuff that dreams are made of; that its existence here shall mean a little less monotony, a little more glamour about our days; that the horizons of imagination shall by its presence here be enlarged so that we shall come more steadily and wholly to see the place of beauty and of its handmaiden, art, in a civilization not too much given to its encouragement."

AKPsi Elects Officers

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in business administration, has elected officers for the coming year.

They are A. Wilford Redmon, Leaksville, president, who succeeds L. R. Jordan, Smithfield; John W. Austin, Charlotte, vice-president; Bobby G. Skidmore, Charlotte, secretary; Don Williams, Asheville, treasurer; Tom H. Hoover, Charlotte, master of rituals, and Don J. Little, Charlotte, house manager.

Book Barter Shop Does Much Trade On Opening Day

APO's book barterers were doing a booming business yesterday in the Graham Memorial book trading post.

The trading post offers students the opportunity to put books on sale and name their own prices. It is sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, campus service fraternity.

THE GRAND old lady of the British Empire, Queen Mary, still looks like a queen at 85. She died in her sleep Tuesday of a gastric ailment. Her death will not delay the June 2 coronation of Queen Elizabeth II who said it was her grandmother's wish that the event be on schedule. Funeral will be held Tuesday.

Over 150 texts were put on the trading block yesterday and about $70 was collected. The exchange will remain open today, tomorrow and Monday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Students who wish to sell or buy will find it easy to deal with the non-profit book trading post, APO officials said. They explained the operation like this: Students set their own prices. When the books are sold, students will be notified and will receive their money. There will be 10 cents charge for handling and selling the books.

Cards with three sections have been provided. One section for the file, one for the book and the other for the book's owner. Books are available on many subjects and are filed according to subject in APO's double book case.

Establishment of the book exchange project on campus resulted from student desires for better prices for their used texts.

The swap shop idea worked with success last quarter and it was apparent by the surge of business yesterday that the project will prove successful again.

Over 25 colleges and universities throughout the country have similar trading posts operated by their APO chapters. Georgia Tech, Uni-

(See BOOKS, page 4)

22 Presbyterian Officers Here Lose Jobs; McMullen Selected

Orange County Presbytery's judicial commission Sunday dissolved the boards of deacons and elders of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church as of April 1.

The commission notified the officers that all 22 of them would cease to function as members of their respective boards next Wednesday, although they were not stripped of their individual offices, where they had been properly ordained.

The judicial group also gave evangelical powers to the church's acting pastor, the Rev. Robert J. McMullen, effective the same date. An "evangelist," in technical terminology, has full power to conduct a church's affairs, with the exception of calling for an election of new officers or the selection of a pastor.

The Rev. Charles M. Jones, for 12 years pastor of the church, was discharged by the commission earlier this year. A complaint (a form of appeal) against the commission's action in firing Mr. Jones is presently being prepared by individual members of the church to the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina.

In a sense the commission did not fire the officers. In a 200-word explanatory motion notifying them of the action, the commission pointed out that the terms of 12 of them would expire April 1. And the other 10 had never been ordained as officers—"according to their own testimony"—and thus had not been and were not then officers of the church.

The "dissolved" church officers unanimously approved Dr. McMullen's acceptance of the evangelical powers.

The annual supper for church members will be held Monday night at 6:30 in the church parlors, followed by a business meeting of the congregation. Dr. McMullen will explain recent developments in the controversy and his status as evangelist. The church budget and other matters will be taken up.

Brown Parries Lowet Thrust With Charge

Bill Brown, independent vice-presidential candidate, pointed an accusing finger at Henry Lowet yesterday and declared, "He blamed Matthews and myself for the exact thing he (Lowet) is guilty of, corruption of principles."

Brown's statement came as an answer to one by Lowet yesterday. The political rhubarb started when SP members Wade Matthews and Brown filed independently for executive posts. The two independents and Lowet were defeated in bids for SP vice-presidential backing. Baxter Miller is the SP vice-presidential choice.

"I was certainly shocked to find that Henry Lowet had allowed the Student Party to talk him into making such an asinine and cuning statement," said Brown.

"It was Henry Lowet who suggested that I join in a conspiracy to have Baxter Miller defeated for the SP nomination for vice-president," continued Brown. He said Lowet suggested the conspiracy because he didn't think Miller was "qualified, capable or deserving of nomination."

"There is certainly no change of principles here then. I never pledged my support to Miller. I do wonder who Lowet supports, though. He has already declared to me that Miller wasn't qualified. Now, though he is apparently satisfied to support Miller and blast me.

"It is just such a corruption of ideals as this that made me withdraw from the party," concluded Brown.

Veterans

Veterans entering school for the first time this quarter are asked to report by the veterans affairs office at 315 South Building.

Questions concerning the GI Bill can be straightened out through the South Building office. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

CAMPUS SEEN

Dr. Woodhouse telling poly sci class how he once defeated Calvin Coolidge for mayor of Northhampton, Mass.

•

Disappointed class as prof who traditionally doesn't call roll announces new policy this quarter.

•

Wife polishing car in Franklin Street shade as husband sits on running board, reading comic book.

No Saturday Class

There will be no Saturday class held this week because the quarter began in time to get in the required 50 days of academic instruction.

Sometimes, because of university schedule conflicts, Saturday classes are held to regain an extra day.

New Polio Preventive To Be Disclosed Tonight

NEW YORK—"The newest developments in polio vaccines"—which could mean an even more effective polio preventive than the vaccine sensationally revealed in January—will be disclosed by a leading scientific authority tonight.

'Her Original Pose'

California Post Office Vexed; Is Monroe Nude Art Or Sex?

BERKELEY, Calif., March 25. (Special)—Art or not, 50 California students found that the Marilyn Monroe nude calendars they had ordered were impounded by Post Office officials.

Meantime the Post Office division of classification wrinkled its official brows trying to decide whether the salesman is advertising the calendar as a nude instead of art, and whether or not college students know the difference.

The calendar salesman isn't worried though. "I will see that all orders are filled if I have to personally deliver every calendar." Anyway, he added, no matter what the Post Office officials decide, the Railway Express agency will handle the nude calendars.

University of California leads the country's colleges in requests for the naked Monroe poses, according to the Monroe pose huckster. He named Pennsylvania State college as second.

The salesman ended his statement with the plug, "My calendars show Miss Monroe in her original pose." How original can you get?

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Dr. Odum Recognized

Dr. Howard Washington Odum has served as a Kenan Professor here for 32 years. In recognition of this long and continuing service he has received the O. Max Gardner Award as the member of the faculty of the Consolidated University who has made the greatest contribution of the human race, during the current scholastic year.

For a sociologist whose chief job is to study the origin and evolution of society and its institutions, the award is particularly significant.

The honor comes at the right time because the University has seen Dr. Odum's abilities in action at the huge Faculty Conference held here a few weeks ago for the Consolidated faculties. Appointed by President Gray, Dr. Odum organized the conference and made known his effective leadership as a coordinator and developer.

A few of Dr. Odum's firsts in his past carer give an indication of his service to the University and to the South. He established the department of sociology in 1920, founded the Institute for Research in Social Science in 1924 and directed it for 20 years. This agency has gotten the University more than a million dollars from non-state sources in research funds. From the Trustee's committee report, we learn that Dr. Odum served as chairman of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation and as president of the Southern Regional Council. The report comments, "Dr. Odum has always placed emphasis upon opportunities rather than problems, upon the 'the South at its best,' as he wont to say. He was one of the early students of the place of the Negro in the life of the South and the place of the South in the life of the Negro.

The report concludes, "It is fitting that the Award should go to a modest and humane man, who through a long, distinguished and phenomenally productive career, has had as his touchstone the improvement of the lot of his fellow men."

Such awards as the Gardner honor are of great and lasting value to the University and State. This award is a means of recognition that is not provided by the state or other agencies. Dr. Odum has attracted world-wide attention for his work. He has brought to the University much credit and the recognition of his efforts is a commendatory move by the Trustees and the University.

Value Or No?

Country Wood's column today sums up an opinion held by at least 2,500 students, probably 3,500.

What can the students do and why bother anyway?? It may not make any difference to you how someone spends $70,000 (your student fees for a year), but at least, it may be interesting.

The best current interest of the value of student government that we know of is the fight against Saturday classes. Student government single handly mustered 28 Trustee votes to continue the five day system. It is true that we didn't win the battle, because of President Gray's and other administrators' insistence that the Board go along with the recommendations of the Executive Committee, but we did make an impression upon many trustees, and if we had had a few more breaks, the tide might have been turned the other way.

In 1948 a student committee started a long study of the curriculum in the General College. In 1949 the committee made its report and in 1952 most of the report became University law.

At State College and as a follow through here, student government and the student newspaper broke open the Book Exchange profits story and the subsidy to ahletes. The student protests were so effective that the Trustees made a thorough investigation, changed the policy of the whole Consolidated University, and launched a scholarship program.

More recently, this newspaper and student government made an effective protest to combat a plan to give 25 per cent of the Book X profits to athletes. It is true the plan now has a loophole for subsidation of athletes, but there are definite limits.

Who cares whether the honor council is political or not? Columnist Wood reasons that you won't have anything to do with the council because no one plans to get caught cheating. However, it is possible that you can be turned in by mistake; if you want an eager politician guiding your fortunes in the direction of the draft, then you can have him.

It is true that student government "counts for nought" as far as the policies and pratices of the University are concerned," moreso than in the past, but certainly not to the extent that Columnist Wood portrays it.

The University does listen to students. It has to. Whether it follows student suggestions depends mainly on the pressure applied and the value of the suggestions plus the particular administrator concerned. Only 400 students turned out to protest against Saturday classes. Yet recently a plan to seat student wives and dates in the student section of Kenan Stadium was inaugurated.

We can't count or recall all the times that student government has proved itself. We don't think student government has fallen down. Rather, student support has fallen off. Mr. Wood's pessimism about the lack of power certainly won't get us any more power. If such pessimism is completely in the forefront, we will lose the control we now have.

We have a batch of people running for student government. The Daily Tar Heel requests all four presidential candidates to give students some more practical values of student government.

Express Yourself

Editor:

Congratulations to Mr. Duke in his handling of the McCarthy matter, which was both intelligent and reasonable; two virtues most mandatory in this battle against McCarthyism and Communism, if I may equate them. Fighting Communism with McCarthyism is indeed an example of fighting fire with fire, and getting one hot, controversial issue of name calling after another.

Mr. McCarthy's former record, even the bit cited in The Daily Tar Heel, via Mr. Duke, certainly does not fit him to conduct an investigation into the private lives of many superior persons. It could be said that the Wisconsin senator is suffering from a complex beginning in early childhood, namely, not receiving the attention or elevation he thought due him. And just to be trite, it might be projected that he has an inordinate love of money! Whatever be his basic motives, it cannot be that his actions are those of a sincere, honest, thorough thinking servant of the State. If he can be characterized by these traits, then our evaluation of the individual has dropped dismally.

But we are not concerned with Joe McCarthy as an individual, but his effect upon this land of ours, and what his vitriolic verbiage has produced. He has not come up with positive cases, handed over to the Department of Justice, and handled in the way becoming to that hallowed hall. His policy has been destructive, not constructive. He lacks positivism in that he does not come forth with clear cut evidence and justification. This is not Americanism, surely. He has created and crusaded for fear; fear that perverts one's judgment, menaces our free, democratic rights, and inhibits our natural individualistic power.

We must not let ourselves be caught up in this holocaust blindly, but think, people, think! See the facts, delineate carefully, and then draw your conclusions. It is our country that is at stake. Do not help the enemy, but defeat him on the grounds of truth, decency, and honor. Aligning ourselves with tactics tolerable to the Kremlin is not the answer. Let us hush this haranguer with clear thinking, guided intellect and a refusal to fall heir to his strategem. Cut the power of his broomstick by withdrawing the straws.

Ginger Smith

Darkness At Noon

A. Z. F. Wood Jr.

Let's Go Out And Vote

Well, Spring Quarter is here, and, among other things, it means that the campus politicos will commence to spew forth their vitricle, villification, and vituperation. And near the end of the campaign, there will be much exhortation about student representation, democratic principles, the proving ground of democracy, and every student should go out and vote for the guys who sling mud with the most accuracy and effectiveness.

The student reaction to all this balderdash is, of course, "Why?" and "So what?" and three-fourths of them have not the slightest intention of voting. Most of these students never have voted and never will vote. My own record is nearly clean. (I was forced to vote as a fraternity pledge my freshman year and I was told in no uncertain terms to vote a particular way, and that's one of the reasons I quit the fraternity.) The students regard the campaigns with humor, with annoyance, or not at all, and I can see no reason why they should do otherwise.

In the first place, the issues (?) are inconsequential, general, intangible, and meaningless. If elected, the candidates will strive for more student representation, for the removal of the honor council from politics, for dormitory social rooms, for a new student union building, a revamped entertainment program, more class cuts, more harmonious student-faculty relations, a student seat on the Board of Trustees, etc., ad infinitum.

There is not any issue that vitally, tangibly concerns the students. There may, perchance, be five or six guys in a dormitory who want a social room for some reason or another, but the other two-hundred residents don't give a flying ding-dong either way. As for class cuts, the professor who conscientiously grinds out the roll every day is an exception, and the professor who does anything about over-cutting is even more the exception. And who cares whether the honor council is political or not? The only people who have had anything to do with it are the ones who have been caught cheating, and they're home now, and the people who are going to have something to do with it are the ones who are going to get caught cheating, and who's planning to get caught? And what good is a student on the Board of Trustees going to do?

Very early in the campaign, the politicos realize that the issues are inconsequential and are the same for both parties in different words; so, then comes the mud. And the students have the choice of a mud-slinger with a striped necktie or a mud-slinger with a polka-dot necktie, and the best-looking female with the most teeth invariably wins 547 votes to 439.

Then, too, I think the students realize (certainly by sophomore year anyhow) that student government counts for nought so far as the policies and practices of the University are concerned, that not-withstanding the fact that without the students there would be no University, the students are last on the totem pole, and that the government of UNC is of the students, by the Trustees, and for the Alumni, and God bless the status quo and reactionary conservatism.

The campus politicos are very much like a five-year-old boy and girl playing house. They're having fun, getting some good experience, and are completely innocuous. But the five-year-olds know they're only playing and they don't expect anybody else to take them too seriously. They're not going to bother anybody else, and they don't expect anyone else to bother them. And they don't call each other such nasty names.

I don't like stripes or polka dots. I'm partial to plaids. Were I to vote, I'd vote for the plaid neckties and the gap-toothed females.

A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

Chuck Hauser

Tar Heel At Large

TOKYO—Every song writer takes a crack at Paris taxicabs now and then, but I think that is because they have never ridden in a Tokyo hack.

The cabbies here apparently have not been told that such things as brakes have been invented. They drive with the accelerator jammed firmly to the floor, one hand controlling the steering wheel, and the other hand initiating a continuous and raucous squawk with the horn.

To a Japanese pedestrian or bicyclist—there are literally hundreds on each block—the horn only means, "I see you and I'll try not to hit you." Nobody makes the slightest gesture of moving out of the way, and it constantly amazes foreigners that people aren't killed by the score.

One of my evenings here I spent with Carolina alumnus Bob McNeil, a '49 graduate who is now an Air Force staff sergeant working for Pacific Stars and Stripes, the daily GI publication here in the Far East.

Bob, better known to his whiskey-drinking friends as "Whiskey" McNeil, took me on a round-robin tour of Tokyo bars. Most of the evening we drank sake, which is a Japanese rice wine with an unusual taste and a wallop like a hydrogen blast. It is served hot, in half-pint vases with tiny jigger-sized, handleless tea cups to drink it from.

John Gibson

But Never Say Die

A couple of weeks ago I heard a radio broadcast of a reporter's interview with Gordon Gray concerning the recent look-see at Carolina. Among other things, he mentioned the difficulty the University often has in attracting qualified graduate students. It is comforting to know that the University values such students, since once engaged in the infernal rat-race for an advanced degree one often wonders if anybody cares. The University's chief methods of attracting good grad students are financial stipends and a good faculty. Both involve a considerable expenditure of money. It seems to me, however, that we Carolina grad students could do a little to help this situation, if we wanted to. Which brings us around (ever so subtly) to the graduate club.

Last year (1951) a number of well-meaning, hard-working graduate students got behind the graduate club and pushed. There resulted a few rather well-attended meetings, and a program of Wednesday afternoon teas was set up. These too proved quite the rage, for about three weeks. Then exams, papers, etc. seemed to catch up with the graduate population all at once, and the club more or less went inactive. Repeated attempts to solicit ideas and help went pretty much ignored. Things have remained in that state ever since.

Last fall an appeal was made to obtain some help in presenting an appeal to the visiting committee of the board of trustees regarding graduate assistantships, fellowships, and stipends. A few students submitted some really useful information, and with the help of a few faculty members, deans, and other students, an appeal was made. The fact remains, however, that it would have had a great deal more punch if it could have been made by a committee which actually represented most of the 1,000 odd graduate students on campus.

There are a number of reasons why attempts to form a truly effective all-University graduate club have failed. A real or imagined lack of time on the part of the students is one. There already exist a number of departmental organizations, and students in these don't seem to want to take part in a larger organization. The graduate students living in the dorms direct most of their extra-curricular energies toward those establishments, and apparently have little interest in a larger group. This is not meant to take anything away from the dorm groups. They have done some fine things, with perhaps Connor's open house arrangement being the most notable. Finally, the graduate population represents one of the most heterogeneous group of people ever assembled in one place. Ages, interests, personalities, all vary over a wide range.

Even taking all these factors into consideration, however, there still exists on the part of many a belief that a well organized graduate club would be good for the University. By being of service to students, it would help to attract new ones and encourage the old ones to remain. A cooperative living establishment might help reduce the cost of living for some. A cooperative typing service has been advocated by many, as hundreds and perhaps thousands of dollars are shelled out each year to get theses and dissertations in final form.

If you are one of the persons who has been thinking along these lines, even remotely, I would appreciate your letting me know your ideas. Take a few seconds off in the next week, and drop me a card or letter (care Box 711, Chapel Hill). I will report on the results, and if there seems reason will see that a meeting of all the graduate students is called. However, it's up to you.

—Gifts—

(Continued from page 1)

McPherson, High Point; Reid Maynard, Burlington; C. M. Vanstory Jr. and Ben Cone, Greensboro; Dr. William Wells, Chapel Hill; Knox Massey, Durham; Dr. R. E. Coker, Chapel Hill; Dr. Paul E. Jones, Farmville; Maj. L. P. McLendon, Greensboro; Dean Thomas H. Carroll, Chapel Hill; C. T. Council, Durham, and Charles Shaffer, Chapel Hill.

English Club

A Mechanic

A mechanic is an ill-humored dissembler. He has power enough to wrench his world apart, but wants the ability to reconstruct it. His unctuous manner with patrons he learns from no teacher, but from the parts of machines only. He seems to worship the god machine and therefrom to derive his own machinations, for his art is black and mysterious. Nor is the machine his sole God, but time also. His industry is governed by a clock; the higher his regard of the clock, the greater his reward, as if by abject contemplation thereof his supplications are bountifully rewarded. He professes hatred for the clamor of machines, yet give him leave on Sunday and his talk is wholly confined to problems of the shop, and he spends his sabbath debating the merits of torque converters. His place of work, like himself, is a dim cavern of noise and smoke, but distinguished from him because it is not empty. None is ever so lordly as he when he stalks away from an inquisitive customer, nor so humble as when he arouses the wrath of his foreman. He is a follower of no politics but those of his union, and thinks the government the greatest calamity that ever was, not because it destroys unions, but allows management. Yet he is a good citizen to his power, that is, curses the President on every occasion, and votes against the re-election of every officeholder. He is a man much accustomed to life's knocks and prefers rather to increase than to mend them, for the products of his work go out on the street and rattle from town to town.

Yr Mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
THEOPHRASTUS.

Golf, Track Teams Win Easily In Season Openers

Bill Thornton Paces Carolina Win With 67

By Biff Roberts

Carolina's golf team opened its season auspiciously yesterday afternoon at the Finley Golf Course as the Tar Heels overcame both The Citadel and foul weather to win, 26-1.

Little Bill Thornton bulldozed around the sloppy University course in five-under par 67 to pace the Carolina team, whose total for the day was three strokes under par.

The Tar Heels, in a surprisingly strong showing for this early in the season and despite adverse playing conditions, had a total of 429 strokes for the six players.

Freshman Billy Ford was next low with a 70 on the par 72 course. Following him were Jimmy Ferree at 72, Bob Black and Bill Williamson at 73, and John Frazier at 74.

It was Thornton, though, who provided the excitement. He was three under on the front nine with a 33 and then came home with a 34 for his top performance.

The course was muddy and spotted by puddles all over but it didn't seem to bother the Tar Heels. They handed the Bulldogs their first loss in three matches. The Citadel had won over Wake Forest Monday afternoon and N. C. State Tuesday.

Low for the Bulldogs was Bob Lowry with a 75. Billy Pickard had a 78 but the rest of the visitors' scores ranged near 80.

The summaries:

Bob Black (UNC) def. Billy Picard, 3-0; Bill Williamson (UNC) def. Bob Lowry, 2½-½. Black and Williamson def. Picard and Lowry, 2½-½.

Bill Thornton (UNC) def. Harry McCrary, 3-0; Jim Ferree (UNC) def. Hugh Marriott, 3-0. Thornton and Ferree def. McCrary and Marriott, 3-0.

John Frazier (UNC) def. Kip Layton, 3-0; Billy Ford (UNC) def. Harry Devine, 3-0. Ford and Frazier def. Layton and Devine, 3-0.

Four Top Golfers To Give Exhibition On Carolina Links

Four of the nation's top golf stars will give Chapel Hill fans a chance to see expert golf and also support a worthy cause here Monday afternoon when they play an exhibition match on the University's Finley Golf Course.

Heading the list of experts is Carolina's own Harvie Ward, a 1950 graduate who last June won the British Amateur championship and just recently was awarded the Teague Award as the outstanding amateur athlete in the Carolinas.

Ward will team with pro Johnny Palmer, himself a native Tar Heel from Badin, and like Ward a former North Carolina junior champ.

The Tar Heel duo will take on two of the best pros in the game today, Julius Boros and Dr. Cary Middlecoff. Both Boros and Midrlecoff are former National Open winners, Boros winning his title last year when he paced all professional golfers in money winnings.

The match is being sponsored by the State Jaycees and the proceeds will go to the organization's annual junior golf tourney. The Jaycees each year sponsor the tourney for junior players in the state and then send the top qualifiers to the national junior. This spring they hope to send four or five boys to the tournament at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Part of the proceeds will go to the PGA Releif Fund. The four golfers are donating their services free of charge.

Tickets are priced at $1.50 and $1.00 for students showing ID cards.

JOHNNY PALMER
. . . to appear here

Chess Team Retains Southern Intercollegiate Championship

Carolina's chess team successfully defended its Southern Intercollegiate championship at Randolph Macon College over spring vacation.

The Tar Heels defeated William and Mary, Randolph Macon, and the University of Richmond by 4-0 scores and the University of Virginia, 3-1, to retain the title without too much trouble.

The Carolina team also defeated the Naval Academy and William and Mary in dual meets.

Carolina team members are Kit Crittenden, Doug Kahn, T. V. Narayama, and Bob Hubbard. Hubbard and Narayama won all of their games while Crittenden and Kahn drew once each while winning all of the others. In all the team won 22 and tied two on the trip.

Lettermen Meet

There will be a meeting of the Monogram Club at 7:15 in the club room tonight, President Harry Pawlik announced yesterday.

Plans for the annual Blue-White football game will be discussed. The members will also plan an easter egg hunt party for orphans.

UNC Runners Trounce W&M On Navy Field

Coach Dale Ranson's track team sloshed to an easy 112 1/6-18 5/6 victory over William and Mary yesterday afternoon at Navy Field to open its 1953 season.

The Tar Heels dominated the meet from the start and allowed the Indians only one first place the entire meet. That came in the high jump where Bill Risjord cleared the bar at six feet, a good effort considering the condition of the ground.

Footballer Jeff Newton turned in two of the day's best performances in the dashes. He won the 100-yard dash in 10.1 and then whipped through the 220 in 22.5. He was the meet's only double winner.

Roger Morris heaved the shot 46' 10" to take first place easily in that event and Steve Marcinko showed well in winning the javelin with a toss of 181' 9".

The meet served as a warm-up for the up-coming tangle with Princeton here on Saturday, April 4. Princeton won last year, 81-50, but the Tar Heels seemed much improved over that performance.

The summaries:

One-mile run—1. Osborne (UNC); 2. Bostian (UNC); 3. Schuette (WM). Time: 4:41.

440-yard run—1. Ray (UNC); 2. Munger (WM); 3. Reimer (UNC). Time: :52.0.

100-yard dash—1, Newton (UNC); 2. Brown (UNC); 3. Hale (UNC). Time: :10.1.

220-yard dash—1. Newton (UNC); 2. Brown (UNC); 3. Mitchell (UNC). Time: :22.5.

880-yard run—1. Higgins (UNC); 2. Bennett (UNC); 3. Newman (UNC). Time: 2:01.

120-yard high hurdles—1. Bell (UNC); 2. Murray (UNC); 3. Ferreday (WM). Time: :15.9.

High jump—1. Risjord (WM); 2. Haire (UNC); 3. Tie between Mahoney (WM), Bell (UNC), and Cornell (UNC). Height: 6'.

One-mile relay—1. North Carolina (Flowers, Wright, Vogel, Welch); 2. William and Mary. Time: 3:41.

Two-mile run—1. Barden (UNC); 2. Glatz (UNC); 3. Fischer (WM). Time: 10:17.8.

Pole Vault—1. Tie between Jordan (UNC) and Yarborough (UNC); 3. Tie between Ferriday (WM) and Keiger, (UNC). Height: 10' 6".

220-yard low hurdles—1. Correll (UNC); 2. Jordan (UNC); 3. Ferriday (WM). Time: 25.5.

Shot put—1. Morris (UNC); 2. Karchner (WM); 3. Hines (WM). Distance: 46' 10".

(See TENNIS, page 4)

UNC Tennis Team Is Strong For 1953 Season Opener

Carolina's tennis team launches its 1953 season here today against Springfield College of Massachusetts on the varsity courts at 2 o'clock.

The Tar Heels, winners by 8-1 and 9-0 over Springfield last year, are favored to win the match and successfully start one of their best seasons.

Coach John Kenfield has his first six men from last year that had a record of 24-2 including the Southern Conference singles champion and Conference doubles champs and runners-up.

Kenfield's lineup should be even stronger this year as two or three freshmen have unseated last year's starters from their jobs.

Senior Del Sylvia, Conference singles champion, will captain and lead the team from the number one spot, and Herb Browne and Bobby Payne probably will be back at their old places of two and three. Browne and Payne were doubles champs as freshmen last year.

Four, five and six are still undecided. Sam Handel, Bill Izlar, and Ronnie Kerdasha filled those spots last year and are returning this season, but freshmen Tommy Bradford, Don Thompson, Pete Green, and Bruce Gustafson all are in contention for the last three places. Some of the frosh have played well enough to put the top three spots in jeopardy.

The freshmen have given Coach Kenfield the added depth that he needed, and the 1953 season should be one of Carolina's best.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, Graham vs. Law School 1; field 2, Chi Psi 3 vs. Phi Gam 3; field 3, Kappa Sig vs. Phi Delt 2; field 4, Pi KA 2 vs. Sigma Nu 1.

5:00—Field 1, Zete 1 vs. Sigma Nu 2; field 2 PiKA 3 vs. Delta Psi; field 3, Phi Kappa Sig 1 vs. Pi Kappa Phi 2; field 4, ATO 2 vs. Lambda Chi 3.

A New Book By
TOYNBEE
The World and the West
$2.00
at
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

CLASSIFIEDS

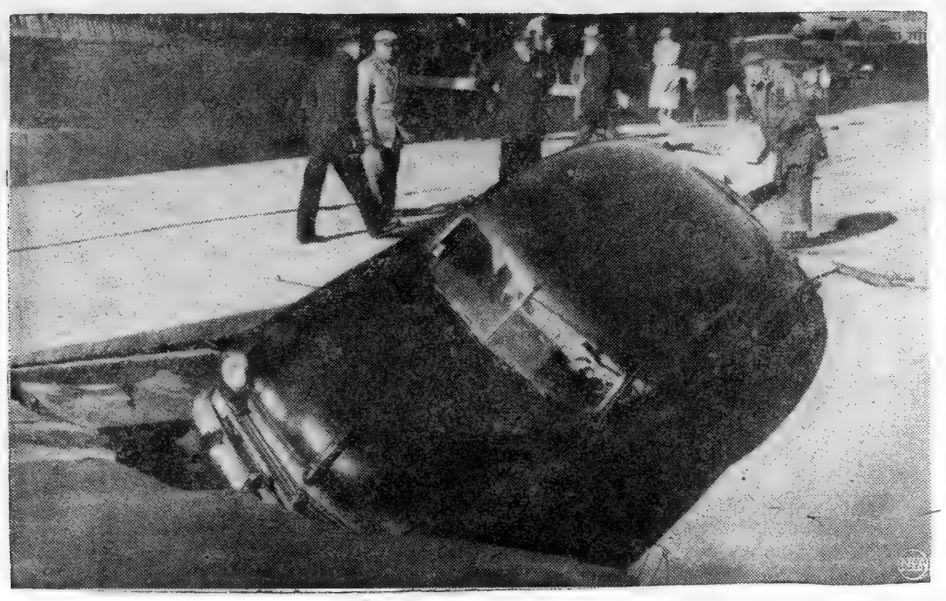
LOST: SHIPMATE WATCH WITH WMD II initials on back. Abercrombie and Fitch make. Watch is valued gift from friend. Call Walt Dear, Ph. 9-7096.

HELP WANTED: STUDENT EXperienced in building and flying model airplanes to supervise and instruct boys, nine years and older, second and fourth Fridays from 7-8:30 p.m. Call Dale Fairless, 9-3156.

FOR SALE: ONE TREDDLE SEWing machine. Good condition. $20 cash. Phone 9-5708. (1-c3487-1)

JUST RECEIVED
Braided Elastic Belts
In new deep-tone solids and 2-color effects
$2.95
Here's wonderful new comfort for a man's middle! These accommodating belts stretch as you stretch, give gently to your movement, yet remain firmly in place. Made of smartly braided elastic, with genuine calf-trimmed and calf-covered buckle.
THE Sport-SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

KING CHEESE—Male cheesecake was crowned this year when Pat Moore reigned as "King" of New Jersey's Palisade's Amusement Park. He was awarded an electric merry-go-round "Oscar." In other years queens were selected but park authorities decided to give the girls a thrill this year and have a king instead. Obviously impressed subjects: Robin Stewart, at left, and Pamela Reid, feel his muscles. Seated are: Ruda Michelle, at left, and Sindy Moore.



From out of the "Hermitage" of his beloved Southland . . . and the fierce conflict of the great Indian wars . . . came Andrew Jackson, hero of the battle of New Orleans . . .
To Wage His Greatest Battle . . . For The Honor Of The Woman He Loved!

Plus
Latest News
Carolina
NOW PLAYING

WE BUY TEXTBOOKS WHETHER USED OR NOT
THE BOOK EXCHANGE
Five Points—Durham, N. C.
TEXTBOOKS • OUTLINES • TRANSLATIONS

In Durham It's
OLSON'S MUSIC STORE
For Complete Lines of
Woodwinds, Recorders, Brass, Accessories, Accordions, Guitars, Music, Reeds
Our Specialty
Band Instrument Repair
105 W. Parrish St.—Phone 3-4541

WHEN A NEW YORK CITY MOTORIST parked his car and walked away, a glance over his shoulder showed his auto slowly sinking into the pavement. A call for help brought police, who helped the motorist watch the unusual event. The cause behind it all? Simply a broken water main, which undermined the street.—NEA Telephoto.

New University Report Gives News Of UNC Every 2 Months; Capsules Top Happenings

A sign well know to everyone familiar with Chapel Hill is reproduced as the identifying eye-catcher for the first issue of The University Report, a bi-monthly newsletter being mailed to some 50,000 friends of the University.

The sign, located on the Pittsboro Road, reads "Chapel Hill, Site of the University of North Carolina which first opened its doors in January, 1795." The editors placed a reproduction of the sign in the upper left hand corner of page one, above the name of the publication, feeling it would draw forth a considerable amount of nostalgia.

The University Report will capsule for its readers the latest developments on the Chapel Hill campus, giving special attention to physical improvements and new scholarship grants.

The March issue, number one, carries a summary story on the Health Center here with plans for its dedication April 23 and 24. Other articles concern the University's progress in obtaining educational television facilities, some conclusions from the recent State of the University Conference, and a few suggestions in the area of alumni giving.

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.
OPEN EVENINGS

Start the Spring Quarter Off Right
At the New

University Restaurant

Two NEW Services:
(1) Breakfast Served From 7 A.M.
(2) Blue Ribbon On Tap

The Coolest Atmosphere
ALL DAY

USED TEXTS

At Prices You Can Afford

In A Friendly Atmosphere

Plus Free Ice Cream Cones On

Textbook Day.

It's Actually Fun to Buy Your Texts at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

Honor Grad Tells Of Life In England

A 1952 honor graduate of the University now studying law at the University of Leeds in England on a Fulbright scholarship, Edgar Love, III, of Lincolnton, is finding life there "not so very different" from his alma mater.

In a Leeds publication called "Union News," Love writes of his impressions at the English university under the heading of "Innocents Abroad." He is one of 11 Americans enrolled at Leeds this year.

Love wrote that he had found English students are a little better prepared scholastically for university work, but pointed out that the British system is "to create an intellectual elite, whereas Americans believe that a college education should be within the reach of everyone."

He admitted, too, that Carolinians "probably keep their eyes glued a little more on the social calendar."

Three other differences Love considered 'fairly significant"—the bar in the student union, the visiting back and forth in boys' and girl rooms, and professors reading out marks made on examination.

"It does seem unnecessarily brutal for a professor to read out a list of the marks made on an examination. . . .Call me a 'scholastic sissy, if you like, but I maintain that how well I may or may not have done is nobody's business but my own."

One British institution to which Love said he rebels is tea. He qualified that by saying he has no objections to the "institution"' but that he "just couldn't fight the principal ingredient. Perhaps that's only a thin excuse not to buy tea cups as my friends expect. . . .

"I've learned that the British are a subtle people. . . they're hard to get to know because there's so much reward in knowing them after you make the initial effort," he said.

At the University here, where he was last year awarded one of the coveted Morehead graduate scholarships, Love was president of Phi Beta Kappa; a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece, the Order of the Grail, the Order of the Old Well, all honorary student organizations; Beta Gamma Sigma, national scholastic fraternity in business administration; Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary fraternity; the debate squad; the Dialectic Senate, a student debate society; the Student Council, Glee Club and Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

Altrusa Club Holds Dinner For Students

The Altrusa Club of Chapel Hill entertained all foreign women students of the University and a group of foreign men students, at a recent dinner at the Carolina Inn.

Guests were Misses Joyce Marie Dunn of Australia, Maria Louisa Fernandez of Brazil, Taeko Fujita of Japan, Purabi Bose of India, Ilse Garbsch of Germany, Kathleen Goldie-Smith of England, Molly Sexton of England, Dina Salvatori of Brazil, Alayamma George of India, Mary Josephine Culin of England and Iran.

Messrs. Mohamed Towfik Ibrahim Abel-Aziz of Egypt, Fang-wen Wang of China, Stello Christides of Finland, Jirawoot Viruchagool of Thialand, Alvaro Mendoza of Venezuela, Frank Richard Harman of Burma, Concordio C. Mandac of the Philippines (from State College).

Hostesses were Misses Elizabeth Branson, Katherine Carmichael, Grace Cordon, Ruth Hay, Maude Lee, Dorothy McCuskey, Josephine Niggli, Katherine Ormston; Dr. Mabel Goudge; Mesdames Mabel Brittain, Edith Brocker, Frances Davis, Frances Garvin, Jean Heer, Irene Lee, Lucy Sutton and Evelyn Smith.

The program was sponsored by the International Relations Committee of the Altrusa Club.

—Books—

(Continued from page 1)

versity of South Carolina, Brooklyn University, University of New York and University of Missouri are among those using the system.

—Tennis—

(Continued from page 3)

Javelin—1. Marcinko (UNC); 2. Bell (UNC); 3. Mahoney (WM). Distance: 181' 9".

Discus—1. Perdue (UNC); 2. Morris (UNC); 3. Rizzo (UNC). Distance: 122' 9".

Broad jump—1. Long (UNC); 2. Yarborough (UNC); 3. Brown (UNC). Distance: 20' 6".

BUDDY KLEIN
and the
Statesman Orchestra
Write Box 5533—Tel. 21873

Tryouts Start Tomorrow At 4

Open tryouts will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Playmakers Theatre at 4 o'clock for a bill of three new one act plays by student playwrights, scheduled for production April 8 and 9.

Student directors are Anne Edwards of New Bern, Cyril Lang of East Orange, N. J. and Mary Virginia Morgan of Byhalia, Miss., with Foster Fitz-Simons of the Playmakers staff as general supervisor of the production.

The plays to be cast are "Hi, Sir" by James Leonard, Trappe, Md., requiring five men;; "The Mute" by Cyril Lang and "Little Wonder" by Donald Deagon of Chapel Hill, requiring 6 men and 2 women. Scripts will be available late today and Friday at the Playmakers office in 113 Murphey.

JOSEPH BRYANT, 8, POINTS out spot where he "saw" two youths choke a boy and bury him—or so he told New York police. Lewis Brener Newman, 8, who also said he viewed the crime, stands with Rev. Joseph M. Walsh. After police dug fruitlessly in three different spots, the boys confessed there was no bdoy. "Too much television," grumbled one perspiring cop as the boys were returned to their praents.—NEA Telephoto.

Mrs. Thurstone Teaching Here During First Summer Session

Dr. Thelma Gwinn Thurstone, who came to the University last September directly from the public school system of Chicago, where she was director of Special Services for that city, will serve on the staff during the first term of the Summer Session here.

Dr. Thurstone, who along with her husband has worked on a number of new types of testing for young children, will offer programs of work dealing with some of the most significant practices in modern education. She is associated during the regular year with her husband, Dr. L. L. Thurstone, in the Psychometric Laboratory now being operated in Chapel Hill.

This year Dr. Thurstone has been working with supervisors within the vicinity of Chapel Hill and has each quarter taught a Saturday class composed of teachers and administrators.

Easter Is Just Around the Corner And Pal, We've got Easter Cards Like You've Never Seen Before

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

What Goes On Here

Deans Meet

Dean Katherine Carmichael will represent the University in Chicago, March 29 through April 2, at the annual meeting of the National Association of Deans of Women.

Valkyrie Sing

Chairmen of the Valkyrie Sing will meet tomorrow in the Womens Council room in Graham Memorial.

Semper Fidelis

The Semper Fidelis Society will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Naval Armory. The speaker for the evening will be Capt. Bruce Sigmon, USMC Executive officer for the 41st Special Infantry Company of the reserve. He will speak on "Intelligence in Korea."

Freshman Camp

The YMCA freshman camp Planning Committee meets tonight in the Y at 7 o'clock. Co-chairmen Bennett Myers and Charles Wolf are issuing a call for all upperclassmen who wish to take leadership in the Freshman Camp.

YWCA

The annual general association of YWCA will meet today at 4 p.m. in Gerrard Hall to present report of nominating committee to general membership. Further nominations will be made for all officers.

Speaks Tomorrow

M. S. Sundaram, educational adviser to the Indian Embassy in Washington, will speak at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Gerrard Hall on "India since Her Independence." The lecture will be open to the public.

2 NEW BARBERS

On Duty 9-5:30

Economical

GRAHAM MEMORIAL BARBER SHOP

ARROW SOLD AT

VARLEY'S MEN SHOP

Lively Arrow Sports Shirts Add "Local Color" To Campus

Look for a highly-colored style picture this season — thanks to the new crop of Arrow sports shirts. Smart solids in rayon gabardine, checks and plaids in "Sanforized" cotton and other fabrics, will be seen on campus from coast to coast. Available at all Arrow dealers.

ARROW

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Fair and warmer with 62 high. Yesterday's high, 50; low, 36.

The Daily Tar Heel

SMART
The latest in coed dress looks out snappily at you today on p. 4.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 116 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1953 SIX PAGES TODAY

AMERICAN FIGHTER-BOMBERS dumped 200,000 pounds of bombs on Chinese troops defending Old Baldy yesterday. The Reds were paying heavily for their newly won position but managed to hang on and attack four more UN-held hills on the western front. This map shows where the Reds concentrated their preliminary attacks prior to sweeping off the Old Baldy UN defenders.—NEA Newsmap.

NEWS IN BRIEF

RALEIGH—The General Assembly yesterday amended state law so that an appropriations subcommittee can hold secret meetings while considering the state's budget. A bill amending the law which required that the budget be considered in open sessions was rushed to passage in both Senate and House. There was a sprinkling of "no" votes in the Senate. The House voted 87 to 14. The bill resulted from a two-day deadlock with newsmen who have insisted that the subcommittee meet in public sessions.

★

SEOUL, Friday—More than 1,000 Chinese Communists slammed into four United Nations hills on the western front last night after forcing American and Colombian troops off Old Baldy. The Reds, attacking under cover of heavy artillery and mortar fire, sent a full battalion of more than 800 men against Bunker Hill while some 200 charged nearby posts. Allied troops were reported standing fast on Bunker Hill but Chinese swept into Allied trenches in at least one of the outpost battles.

★

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower said yesterday the ammunition situation in Korea now is perfectly sound as compared with the type of operations going on there. Eisenhower's remarks about the ammunition situation in Korea were touched off by questions about the differences between the Pentagon and Gen. James A. Van Fleet. Van Fleet retiring commander of the Eighth Army in Korea, has declared there were serious, sometimes critical, shortages of ammunition during his 22 months in Korea.

★

LONDON—As Britain prepared to bury its beloved Queen Mary, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said yesterday the death of the regal matriarch is a cue for her eldest son, the Duke of Windsor, to return to England to live. "Let the mourning end his exile," declared the heading over an Express editorial. The newspaper did not mention the duke's American born duchess the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, but presumably it favors her returning with her husband.

★

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower yesterday made another strong defense of Charles E. Bohlen as the best qualified man to be ambassador to Russia, and told reporters he was saddened by dissension within his own party over the nomination.

YMCA Nominating Group

The Nominating Committee of the YMCA yesterday named the candidates for the election to be held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock on the second floor of the Y.

Candidates nominated by the committee include president, Ned Harbin; vice - president, Robert Hyatt; secretary, Susan Fink; and treasurer, Stuart Jones.

Current Draft Calls May Be Reduced Soon

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(Special)—Draft calls may ta- or less after June, a Pentagon per off to 37,000 men a month spokesman said yesterday. The current monthly rate is 53,000.

Prospects of a reduced draft call, he explained, were based on estimates that only 450,000 men will be required in the fiscal year starting July 1 to replace soldiers whose two years of service are now ending.

Another factor, he said, is Secretary of Defense Wilson's statement last week that the current military manpower force of 3½ million will be reduced in the next fiscal year by cutting the strength of units stationed in the United States.

Any drastic change in the international situation, of course, could push manpower requirements up or down.

The Defense Department also indicated it will ask Congress to extend the law providing for the drafting of doctors, dentists and medical specialists.

CAMPUS SEEN

Notices being passed out in new BA buildings to the effect there will be no smoking by students in class rooms; all instructors' desks have ash trays.

•

Signs tacked on all dormitory room walls saying you can't tack signs on the walls.

•

Coed trio pushing stalled auto along Raleigh Street.

Push-Button Class Fare

Introvert Tennessee Students Now Control Extrovert Profs

KNOXVILLE, March 26—(Special)—Students at the University of Tennessee who are unable to grasp the subject matter of a lecture can now push a button and let the professor know of his failure to get his point across.

An electronic device, now being used experimentally by the College of Engineering enables the student to register an immediate protest without interrupting his professor if he fails to understand a point in the lecture.

Called the "student reaction meter," the push button learning aid has a meter which faces the lecturer and shows him how many students are not understanding the presentation. If the number is large, the professor repeats and clarifies his material.

Termed simple and practical for almost any classroom, the meter is calibrated by the teacher according to the number of students in the class.

Each student has his individual push button on his desk and can set the meter needle quivering. The professor, in turn, can determine the percentage of his class understanding his lecture.

Prof. C. Albro Newton is handling the experiment for the engineering drawing department. He says the meter is at its best when used consistently by the same professor and class. It takes time, he says, for a class to get over the novelty of the idea and use the system conservatively.

IDC Inks Top Band For Dance

The Pied Pipers along with Gene Williams and his "band of tomorrow" will come to Carolina campus Saturday April 18 for the annual IDC dance and concert.

This free dance is open to the general student body. It is semi-formal and will be from 8:30 to midnight.

The concert will follow the Blue-White football game. It is from 4:30 to 6 o'clock and the admission charge is 50 cents.

Williams is rated by many of the music critics as one of the most promising young band leaders in the country. Gene formed his band in 1948 and since then has appeared on five major New York television stations. He has made a number of recordings for King and Mercury records.

The Pied Pipers, popular vocal quartet, have been signed by the IDC Dance Committee as an added attraction. The vocal group consists of three men and a girl. They have recorded for the Capitol banner for a number of years.

Job Placement Gets New Spot In Gardner Hall

The University's Placement Service burst its bulging seams this week and moved into expansive new offices in one of the three Business Administration buildings.

The Service is now located on the second floor of Gardner Hall with added reception space, 2 interview rooms, 1 reading room, and private offices for the director and assistant director. It formerly occupied 2 offices on the second floor of South Building.

Director Joe Galloway said the change affords "much better office facilities in which to serve business firms, students and alumni." He pointed out that the Placement Service benefits all schools on the campus, not just the School of Business Administration.

Galloway said graduating seniors should be certain to register with the placement office to take advantage of interviews scheduled for the future.

AEC Denies Risks Taken In Latest A-Bomb Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said a published report that two unidentified atomic scientists said the lives of troops were risked in "guinea pig" atomic explosion tests was "absolutely not true." Richard Elliott, information director of the AEC, said all plans for troop participation in atomic tests held at the Nevada proving ground were cleared for safety by scientists conducting the explosion.

Hiroshima At Large

Atomic Monument In Japan Is Grim Sign For Tar Heel

(Lt. Chuck Hauser's next stop is Korea and we expect columns from there any mail, now. Today's column was written at the site where the first atom bomb was dropped in mid-summer 1945, killing 78,000 and injuring half as many. Hauser is a former Daily Tar Heel staffer.—Ed.)

By Lt. Chuck Hauser

HIROSHIMA—A stark monument sits in the center of the postwar rebuilding of this one-time A-bomb target to remind native and visitor alike that this was once the scene of the most dreadful release of power man has ever harnessed for use in warfare.

The monument was not constructed: it was left. It is the shell-like hulk of a once beautiful building which sat 150 meters away from ground zero—the point directly under the 2,000-foot high atomic detonation.

The building—or what is left of it—was the Industrial Exposition Museum. Its construction was completed in 1914 when the finishing touches were placed on its steep dome, a dome which is now an iron agony of twisted steel arches supported by sagging, broken walls hanging over a rubble of brick and plaster.

The dome, incidentally, was apparently what saved the structure from complete flattening, in spite of its proximity to the center of the blast. Buildings of similar size much farther from ground zero were squashed as if an immense piledriver had crashed down upon them.

Just a few miles from Hiroshima is a place that seems to be in another world—the calm, beautiful shrine island of Miya Jima.

Allan S. Clifton, an Australian Army officer who was stationed here in 1945 and 1946, wrote of Miya Jima. "This island is one of the 'Sankei,' the three famous beauty spots of ancient times . . . Rising out of the sea is the famous torii, the most perfect gateway in all the world."

The torii is indeed something to see. It is the familiar sign of the Shinto religion, two verticle legs, with a concave "roof" beam suspended between them and extending on either side beyond the leg tops. It is painted a brilliant red, and it is fully 200 feet tall, rising out of the bay on legs make from enormous tree trunks, its lofty cross beam carved and decorated to complete the picture.

Several hundred yards behind the torii sits the "floating" temple, the shrine of Itsukushima, the "rice-spoon" goddess. A sprawling structure built out over the water, it is also painted with crimson that marks the torii.

Carrying out the color scheme at the base of Mount Misen, 500 yards further back, is five-tiered pagoda which stretches its 15th century head into the sky to overlook a number of smaller temples and shrines scattered about at its feet.

It was from the island of Miya Jima, according to Japanese writers, that midshipmen from the Imperial Naval Academy had to swim the 10 miles to the apanese "Annapolis" at Eta Jima, a green, to the Japanese "Annapolis" at Eta Jima, a green, shima, to prove they were worthy of graduating into the officer corps of the Imperial Navy.

The Naval Academy is now the site of an American Army post, and its classical buildings and numerous trees give it the look of an American college campus. It is hemmed between a wooded mountain and the bay formed by the island's horseshoe shape its natural beauty shaming drab military installations the world over.

WORLD'S LATEST ATOMIC BLAST, YUCA FLAT, NEV.

Students Get Reminder On Auto Parking

Students are reminded by the Dean of Students office of the University's regulations on campus parking:

"There shall be no parking on the campus proper between the hours of 7 to 3, Monday through Friday, except by authorized members of the University staff, the faculty, physically handicapped students and visitors. Parking permits are issued by the Dean of Students office, 206 South Building.

"The campus proper is defined as that area bounded on the north by Franklin St., on the south by Raleigh Road (Highway 54), on the east by Raleigh St., and on the west by Columbia St. and the Pittsboro Road. The area adjacent to the Morehead Planetarium is restricted 24 hours each day to the same groups and visitors to the Planetarium and Morehead Art Galleries."

The same regulations apply to the area behind Memorial Hall and beside the new Business Administration School.

Elections Board Choices

The Elections Board will meet Monday from 3 to 6 p.m. and Tuesday from 4 to 6 p.m. in Graham Memorial to choose people to run for the Student Council.

There are three women's seats open, one graduate seat, one men's seat, and two at-large seats. All intrested parties are asked to attend these meetings.

Bi-Partisan Board To Select Head Cheerleader Next Week

Prospective head cheerleaders will show their vocal prowess to a Bi-Partisan Selection Board next week instead of competing for political party nominations.

Tryouts for the top cheerleader spot will be Monday night at 7:30 in Memorial Hall.

The bi-partisan group is headed by Johnny Poindexter, present head cheerleader. Selections will be made on the basis of ability, leadership, personality and experience, according to Poindexter.

The new system of choosing head cheerleader candidates provides an opportunity for anyone who is qualified and interested to get the chance to run, said Poindexter.

Selections were previously made by campus political parties. The new system of choosing head cheerleader candidates was set up late last quarter by the Legislature at the suggestion of President Ham Horton.

Members of the bi-partisan board are Poindexter, Howard Tickle, University Club; Pete Adams, University Party; Coot Hooper, Monogram Club and Judd Novins, Student Party.

ALAMANCE SUPERINTENDENT SET FOR NCEA PRESIDENCY

Dr. M. E. Yount, superintendent of Alamance County Schools is scheduled to be elected president of the North Carolina Education Association at a meeting of the organization now in session at Asheville.

Dr. Yount, who is now serving as vice president is unopposed for the president's office.

Inspection Due For AFROTC

The annual federal inspection of the Air Force ROTC will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday.

The inspection team, officers from Air University Command, is composed of Col. Adolf M. Wright, Lt. Col. Edmund J. Bodine and Maj. Russell M. Southall.

Tuesday morning, following the arrival of the inspection team at the University, the officers are scheduled to meet with Chancellor Robert B. House and University officials at 10 o'clock.

Beginning at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the team will inspect the 800 man corps of cadets assembled on Carolina's Navy Field. The inspection will be followed by a formal review, during which the entire Corps will march past the reviewing officers.

Inspection of administrative procedures and training activities will be conducted Wednesday, when members of the inspecting team will go over administrative records with Detachment personnel, and will visit Air Force ROTC classes while they are in progress.

Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will meet at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

4 Students Suspended By Council

Four students were suspended last quarter for violations of the campus and honor codes, Steve Perrow, clerk of the council, said yesterday.

One student was suspended for stealing money from a dormitory resident, one for a campus code violation consisting of assault with a deadly weapon, one for an English 59 plagiarism violation, and one for cheating on a Social Science I quiz.

Other action by the honor council included four suspensions lifted, four students removed from probation, two students found not guilty on charges of cheating on a Latin I quiz.

One other student was found not guilty of a campus code violation and another was refused probation removal on the grounds that he had not served out his probationary period.

The council is presently handling the violations of the Honor Code reported to have taken place during the Winter examination period.

More Books Sought By Barter Shop

Book traders at the APO text trading post yesterday moved more text books and asked for more books.

The "name your own" price set up is providing students with texts at lower prices and a place to sell their used books, said APO barterers.

A special request for political science, history and hygiene books was made yesterday also.

The APO book exchange works like this: Students bring in their old books and set their own prices. When the books are sold, students will be notified and will receive their money. A service charge of 10 cents is made for handling the books.

Over 25 colleges and universities in the country are operating similar trading posts, headed by Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity. Most other schools are charging a 10 per cent charge rather than just 10 cents.

The book swap shop will be open today and Monday.

Gould To Read To Music Club

The North Carolina Chapter of the American Musicological Society will meet on Monday at 9 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the Choral Room of Hill Hall. Robert Gould will read a paper on "Musical Expresssion in an Isolated Society." Everyone is invited, whether a member of the society or not.

The paper should be of interest, as it is to be illustrated with tape recordings made by the author himself in an isolated North Carolina community.

$16,000 Fire Engine To Arrive Here Soon

Chapel Hill's new $16,000 fire truck will arrive here about a month from now, according to Town Manager Thomas D. Rose.

The contract signed last fall calls for delivery by May 4. The fire station has already been prepared for the new truck, which will be longer than the old ones.

Carolina Quarterly Taking

Applications for editorship of the Carolina Quarterly, campus literary magazine, are being taken.

Anyone who wants to apply may do so by submitting written application to Quarterly office by 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Applicants will appear before the advisory board of the publication in 209 Saunders Tuesday at 2:30.

Editorship is for the Spring quarter.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgrs. Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

'Movies Are Better . . .'

The series of movies presented by SUAB (pronounced soo-ab, swabbie, sob, etc, and meaning Student Union Activities Board) is a good example of what student government can do to improve the entertainment and cultural program at Carolina.

Initiated the fall quarter by Bill Roth and his staffers, the series is again being offered this quarter at a whole series price of $1.50. Included on the program are W. C. Fields in "The Barber Shop, and "All Quiet On The Western Front," the story of a German soldier in World War 1 portrayed by Lew Ayres who gets disgusted with the ruin and waste of war.

The five films to be presented can be seen for a bargain. The program is worthy of your attendance.

You And Korea

We are printing this letter en toto in this column because it is one of those bits of writing that wake you up. The position of college undergraduates in regard to the draft is in doubt at the present moment. In this state as well as others 19-years olds will be called up soon.

With the advent of the new administration in Washington the whole draft policy got a thorough going-over. Your position now is being debated. What the outcome will be, is hard to determine, except for the fact that there will be changes made, less favorable to college students than before.

We get an indication of the draft nearness as a student drops out of school occasionally to serve his two years. We know that service with the Armed Forces is inevitable for many of us after graduation; We see an increasing number of high school graduates applying for the ROTC programs.

Read this letter and pause a minute to think how fortunate we are, then realize that we are here to do a job, to get an education so that we can be better equipped as citizens and as soldiers.

From the Purdue Exponent

Dear Editor:

His prediction to his parents was simple, "I'll be drafted and I'll be killed" — and he was. So another hero, Pvt. Donoghue, was brought back in a box.

He was a stranger to us, and so most of his buddies. But these "strangers" are vital to you and to me. I don't care what your deferment is: whether physical, financial, intelligence, service, or sex — you are here because he was there.

Why? Why can you sleep on sheets, instead of snow; eat in dining rooms instead of ditches; listen to music instead of gunfire; go to a movie instead of a massacre; lose a basketball game instead of your blood; or have a date — with your girl, instead of death.

The reason is that fate gave you the means and ability to learn well; just as she gave Donoghue the ability to die well. Our country and those ideals for which she stands need knowledge, cultivated and complete, to survice. You are expected to contribute to this knowledge. Every lesson learned, every law understood, every method perfected adds to this contribution just as every "cut" class, "dry" lab and "cribbed" test detracts from it.

Pvt. Donoghue and his compatriots were asked to give us time to learn. Are you going to be worth the price your substitutes are paying.?

Respectfully,
P. C. McMahan

Georgia, Georgia . . .

While vacationing, we had the pleasure of driving through the great state of Georgia. We had heard both good and evil about this large state, the state of Herman and Gene Talmadge, the state of Richard Russell and Elis Arnall, the state of a large cities with a rural state government, the state with peaches extraordinary, dogwood blossoms, and good Southern hot weather.

Even while we passed through Savannah, a lovely town with flowery squares interspersing crowded streets, we couldn't forget that Georgia State Legislature had given the go ahead sign to a committee to examine literature being sold on the state's news stands. The censorship board has the powers to crack down on good art such as Thomas Benton, or sculpture such as Venus, besids the more recent Monroe calendars.

Censorship of any type always creats a problem. A little means a lot, and if these Georgians are like any other kind of censors we may reasonably expct that the Song of Solomon in the Bible will come under close scrutiny.

We hope that thhe Georgia Legislature and Governor Talmadge will reconsider this grant of power which has such serious implications on the freedoms of the press.

We hope too that the action of the legislature is not another indication of the backwardness of this state government. We recently learned that two state senators had vigorously complained of the song in South Pacific called "You've got to be taught to hate." The song deals with the training of youngsters to hold up to suspicion other races than the white. These men would probably ban the song. They have already branded it as anti-southern propaganda.

We hope to go back to Georgia someday not long from now, to learn more about its government and its people, because while we can' resist the beauty of a Savannah, the frightening whispers of these legislators are making us leary of the goodness of Georgia.

Ron Levin

The Type

Spring is here and with it a new quarter. With the coming of this beautiful time of year personalities bloom and develop rapidly, being nurtured by bright sunny days and balmy fragrant nights. Thus I think it only fair to give you . . . the body (being that of the students) a partial run down on the many types of personalities we have on our campus.

The Individualist is the lesser of the species in interest and difference. He still rooms in a dorm, but has taken to pipe smoking, English bikes, or black umbrellas to distinguish him from Joe Dorm. He is either Phi Beta Kappa or barely passing, or addicted to the bottle. He is the type whom we look at and say "Oh him . . . well, he's been away!"

The Non-conformist is a little farther advanced than the former. He invariably takes simple courses and purposely flunks them, but studies diligently on the hard ones so he can say when in a crowd, "Oh, I never could pass English 3, but I made an A on B.A. 71" and people will admire him greatly with a sort of awe struck look in their eyes. He sometimes has a dorm room, but more than likely rooms out in town. He avoids words such as great, tremendous, loser, etc, and abhors the late show with a passion. He never goes to football games.

Next is an interesting character, the Bohemian. He (or she as the case may be in all of these) always has a private room. They either wear tennis shoes or ballet slippers with no socks . . . all year round. They wish they could wear socks when it's cold like the rest of us but to do so wouldn't be Bohemian so they shiver and envy the peasants who do wear socks. They walk in the rain without a hat or raincoat, so other people will look and wonder, and this tickles them to death. They thrive on strange glances and long stares. They would like to go to Paris, but don't know how to avoid the draft. This is the most fascinating of the species, yet existing in smaller numbers . . . oh, I almost forgot. They either smoke Parliament, Roll your own's, or hash hish.

The last type, the intellect, is divided into two categories, these being the pseudo and the true intellect.

The pseudo-intellect browses for hours in the Book Shop but never buys the deep and serious classical literature that he peruses mainly because he couldn't stand to read it . . . it's so dull. He has however, read "Moby Dick" and "A Tale of Two Cities" (classic comics version, of course). He carries a black umbrella but only when it's raining. He likes to discuss Van Gogh, El Greco, Shostakovitch, Wilde, and the theatre, but knows very little if anything about any of these. He has a English bike, but he bought it from Sears and Roebuck.

The true intellect carries the black umbrella only when it is perfectly clear with not a cloud in sight. He has an English bike also, but never rides it. Instead he walks beside it like a good friend. He has a little of the Bohemian's taste in dress, and the actions of the non-comformist. He slings hash up town, so he can get his PhD in Comparative Literature. He is oblivious to all save his work and for that reason is the happiest of all five types.

Well, the ominous, omnipotent, ogre of classes is rearing its ugly head, so back to the Siberian Salt Cellars . . . bye now . . .

Express Yourself

Editor:

Saturday, February 14th, I was in Chapel Hill and had dinner at the University Restaurant beside the Post Office. I found a change purse which contained two one-dollar bills, 38 pennies, 2 dimes, and one nickel; also a key on a tiny gold chain.

Please run an ad in your paper, have owner to identify contents as described above, and pay for ad. I, in turn, will forward the purse to you upon receipt of a letter telling me you have found the owner. Thank you.

Mrs. Virginia Jurney Swaim
140 Gwyn Avenue
Elkin, N. C.

"We Have Doeumentary Evidence That This Man Is Planning A Trip To Moscow"

Drew Pearson

The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower confessed to visiting congressmen the other day that he was having trouble cutting the budget.

"I guess it's a lot easier to balance the budget on the stump," blurted Ohio's brash congressman Wayne Hays, referring to Eisenhower's campaign speeches on government economy.

The President's friendly grin suddenly froze.

"I never promised either to balance the budget or reduce taxes during the campaign," he said gravely. "I campaigned against waste in government, and I told my associates throughout the campaign that the issue was waste, not necessarily lower taxes."

President Eisenhower, like everybody else last week, was complaining about high taxes. Only he was more private about it. He told an aide that the high taxes made it almost impossible for him to make both ends meet. Ike was especially unhappy because Congress now makes him pay taxes on his $50,000 expense money while President Truman got his expense money tax-free. Because of this change, Ike claimed he's paying an additional $39,000 a year in taxes. Despite all this, however, he's still against cutting taxes until the budget is balanced.

Incidentally, Harry Truman was able to save most all of his fifty-thousand tax-free expense money because he lived at Blair House, which is too small for big, expensive, White House receptions. When Truman left the White House, he had saved almost $200,000—most of it from his tax-free expense account.

President Eisenhower was not surprised when two recent guests seemed very much at home in the White House. One was Democratic Congressman Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, whose father lived there longer than any other President in history. The other was GOP Congressman William Harrison of Wyoming, grandson of President William Henry Harrison.

Both, however, got a big thrill attending a "get-acquainted" luncheon with Ike and 18 House colleagues. When Ike modestly began asking young Roosevelt some questions about the White House interior, remarking that the New Yorker was a long-time occupant in his youth, Roosevelt hastened to explain:

"Actually, I wasn't here too much when father was president. I was away at school and then went into the Navy."

Another guest at the luncheon, Democratic Congressman Harley Staggers of West Virginia, couldn't resist getting in a friendly rib about the way Capitol Hill Republicans have been opposing some of Eisenhower's legislative proposals.

"Mr. President, we're all having a grand time at these luncheons you have been giving members of Congress," said Staggers, impishly. "I'm sure the luncheons are contributing to bipartisan understanding. If you keep it up, you'll probably get the support of your own party in congress."

Ike started to reply, thought better of it, then broke into a hearty laugh.

Secretary of State Dulles has issued a new order to his Diplomats that has the State Department in a furor. The order is that all letters must be personally answered.

Since the State Department receives more than 10,000 letters a week in normal times, and up to around 100,000 letters when it's engaged in a controversy with McCarthy, this order means that State Department officials are do-nothing much but answer mail.

Dan Duke

We, Courageous Defenders

Children expres bluntly the prejudices their parents express with tact. Below, for example, is a rehash of an argument on the Negro question which occurred when I was in the eighth grade.

We were not arguing on any particular aspect or well-defined question about race relations — just on what we called the "Negro Problem" in general. The debate was spontaneous. We didn't have to do any research into the problem. Not us. We already knew beyond all doubt what the facts were.

We split up into two sides: those who were against Negro rights (about 95 per cent of the class) and those who were for Negro rights. I was on the popular side.

What particular "facts" my side advanced I don't remember. All I know is that in effect we concluded that Negroes were 1) inferior, 2) ignorant, 3) backward, 4) shiftless, 5) criminally inclined, 6) no good, and 7) in dire need of Lifebuoy. Consequently we proposed that the U.S. Government "ship them back to where they come from." (We were under the impression that the government could do anything.)

This was our solution to the problem of race relations.

The other side only had three or four defenders. They—like many naive radicals—though that Negroes were people, citizens yet. They contended that Negroes were entitled to the full rights and privileges supposedly guaranteed to them under the Constitution.

Naturally, we'd have none of this. A Negro is a Negro is a Negro is not a White, we countered with a dab of fresh logic. Therefore—back to Africa.

Our strong points finally carried. The class voted overwhelmingly for the government to undertake a little naval project. But Uncle Sam missed his cue, fortunately.

Race prejudice is indeed a hard nut to crack. The biases of one generation are passed on to the children of the next, modified only slightly. Here above was a classic example: the majority of us had passed a sweeping judgment upon a whole race without qualification, clarification, or reservation. We knew what we knew, and we pronounced sentence accordingly. We made no exceptions.

With adults it is the same. The judgment is hasty, but universal. The sentence is harsh, but real. There is no questioning doubt, no margin for error.

When dealing with problems involving human lives and freedoms, this seems to me to be a rather unhealthy attitude to take. I don't doubt that the prejudiced are really sincere in their beliefs, most of them, but I do think there is a sounder approach to the question of segregation and race relations.

I don't think that someone is right merely because he tells me he's right. I don't think that someone telling me that Negroes are inferior proves therefore that they are.

Louis Kraar

Party Line

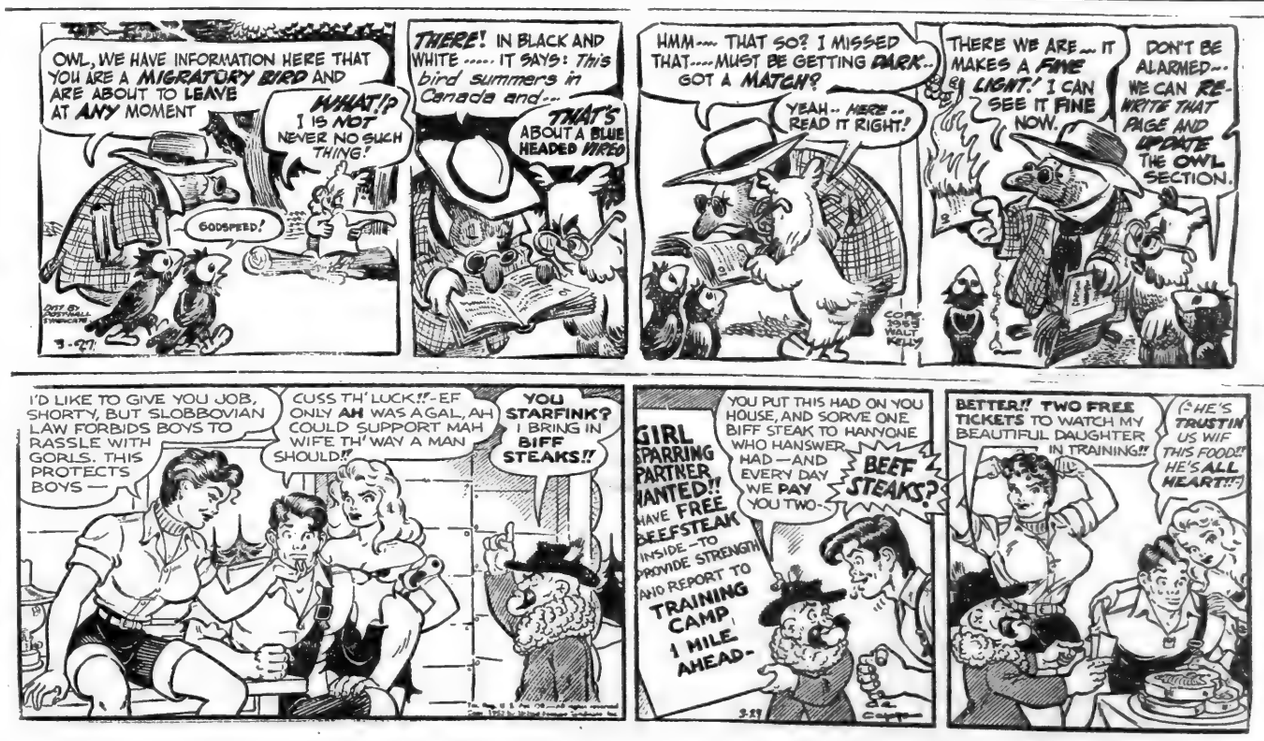
"Mr. President, I'm one American who doesn't want a Government job," said author John Steinbeck upon first meeting the late President Roosevelt.

The urbane leader of almost four presidential terms smiled his famous smile and answered Steinbeck, "In my experience, you're the only one."

This reporter, while hardly a Steinbeck, feels the same way about this Spring's campus elections.

Objectivity and fairness have always been the aims of this paper. They are also this reporter's aims.

The field of candidates is crowded, four in all for the presidency. Ken Penegar, Bob Gorham, Tommy Sumner, and Wade Matthews all say they want the top student government post. They all say they are in favor of improvements that will benefit the student. And, not too strangely, they all have different ideas about just how to make those improvements.



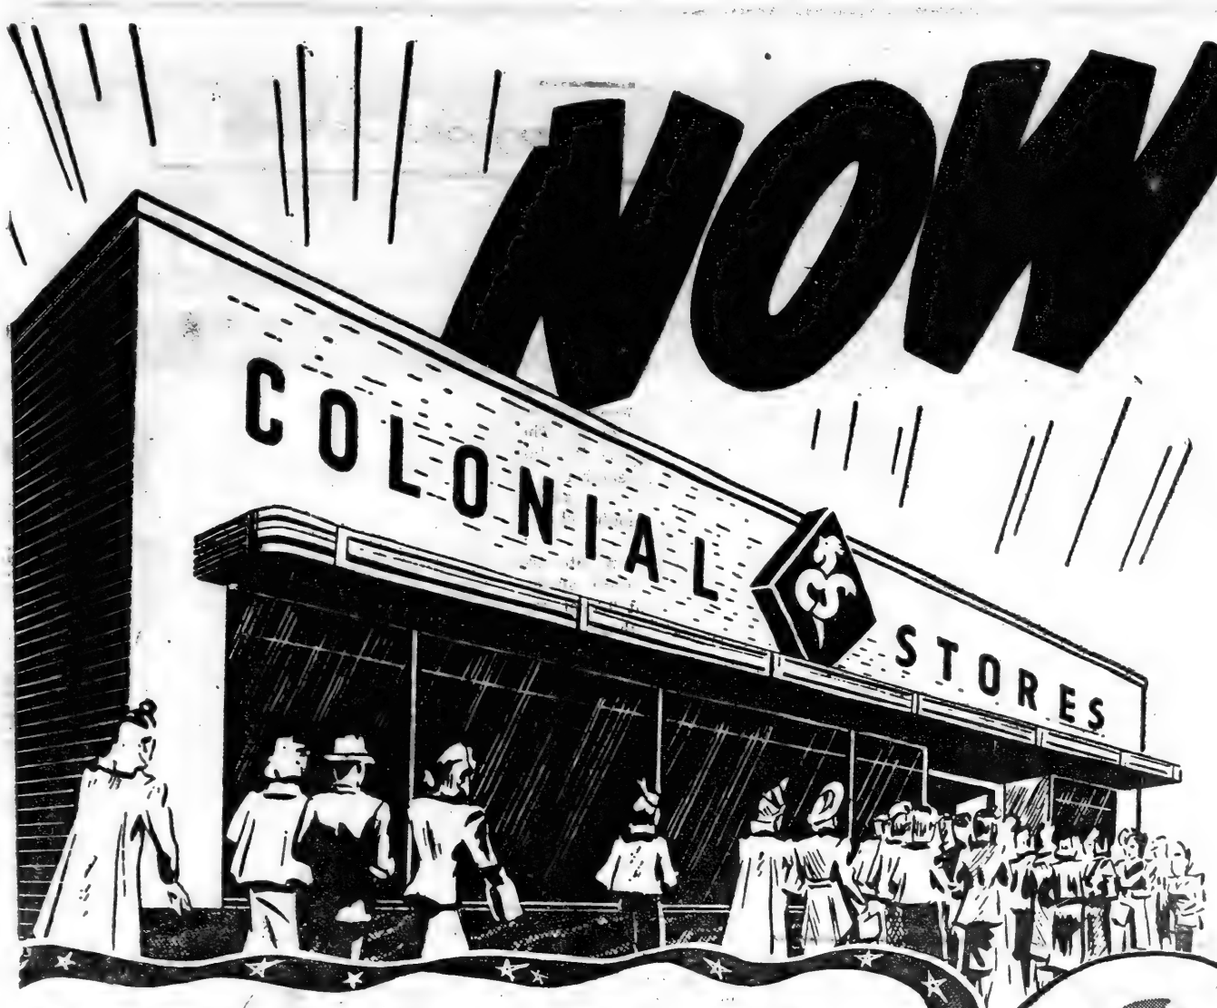
Campaigning on this campus has always been rugged, even before the establishment of political parties. This year will probably be no different. With four candidates it's bound to be vigorous.

The answer to the Carolina politicians' answer to their big question—Why don't students respect their government on campus?—lies in the politico's themselves. And the time when students really get to see them is during campaigns.

Respect cannot be demanded. It must be earned. And campus wheels in political parties are no exception. Many politicians would do well to remember that. Most don't bother though.

We're just as interested as anyone else in improvements in student government, even when they come from politicians. And, as Henrik Ibsen wrote, "Politics are the most important thing in life —for a newspaper."

Leave Your Laundry
— AT —
THE GLEN LENNOX LAUNDROMAT
WHILE YOU SHOP COLONIAL STORE



NOW OPEN

Your Sparkling New, Completely Modern

COLONIAL SUPERMARKET

GLEN LENNOX SHOPPING CENTER

Plenty of Free Parking Space For Colonial Visitors

NOW - - - TWO GREAT COLONIAL STORES TO SERVE THRIFTY CHAPEL HILL HOMEMAKERS

This new store joins with your friendly Colonial Store at the corner of Franklin and Graham Streets to bring greater savings and convenience to even more people!

FREE GIFTS!

There's no obligation . . . nothing to buy . . . and each visit to either of the two Chapel Hill Colonial Stores is another opportunity for you to receive one of these food baskets absolutely free. For Consistent Savings—Courteous Service—Complete Satisfaction—Shop Colonial!

10 $5.00 VALUE FOOD BASKETS

● TO BE AWARDED AT EACH STORE ON SATURDAY, MARCH 28

Plus Dozens of Other Shopping Surprises

Friday Night Is "Family Night" At Colonial
OPEN 'TIL 8:30 P. M. EVERY FRIDAY

YOUR TOTAL FOOD BILL IS LESS WHEN YOU SHOP AT C S!

GRAND AWARD
Beautiful Motorola
17-INCH SCREEN
CONSOLE MODEL
TV SET

2 SETS TO BE GIVEN — ONE AT EACH STORE!

Here's your chance to own a beautiful 17-inch screen, console model Motorola television set. There's no obligation . . . nothing to buy . . . and each visit to either of the two Colonial Stores in Chapel Hill, now through Saturday, April 11, gives you another opportunity to receive one of the television sets. Remember . . . a television set will be awarded at EACH store. Get complete details today at either of the two Colonial Stores here!

BIG TIME BRAND — ALL HORSE MEAT
DOG FOOD 16 OZ. CAN 18c

SUPERFINE BRAND TRIPLE
SUCCOTASH No. 303 CAN 23c

SUPERFINE BRAND MIXED
VEGETABLES No. 303 CAN 19c

KITCHEN KRAFT PEAS
BLACKEYES No. 2 CAN 18c

ENRICHED EVAPORATED
CS MILK 3 TALL CANS 40c

Colonial Guaranteed Meats

MILK - FED VEAL VALUES!

U.S. CHOICE—COLONIAL PRIDE VEAL
RIB CHOPS ---- LB. 79c

U.S. CHOICE—COLONIAL PRIDE VEAL
LOIN CHOPS ---- LB. 89c

U.S. CHOICE—COLONIAL PRIDE VEAL
SIRLOIN ---- LB. 89c

U.S. CHOICE—COLONIAL PRIDE
VEAL CUTLETS ---- LB. 89c

U.S. CHOICE—COLONIAL PRIDE
JIFFY VEAL ---- LB. 89c

U.S. CHOICE—COLONIAL PRIDE VEAL SHOULDER
BLADE CHOPS ---- LB. 49c

U.S. CHOICE—COLONIAL PRIDE SHOULDER
VEAL ROAST ---- LB. 47c

TENDER BONELESS
VEAL STEW ---- LB. 39c

TENDER BONELESS
VEAL PATTIES ---- LB. 39c

CHEF'S PRIDE
SAUSAGE MILD OR HOT LB. 49c

FRESH GROUND
BEEF LB. 45c

CHEF'S PRIDE
HAM SALAD 8oz. 43c

FLYING JIB BREADED
SHRIMP 6 oz. 43c

Cello-Wrapped FILLET OF RED PERCH Lb. 35c

PINEAPPLE

C S CRUSHED HAWAIIAN — No. 2 CAN 27c

C S SLICED HAWAIIAN — No. 2 CAN 29c

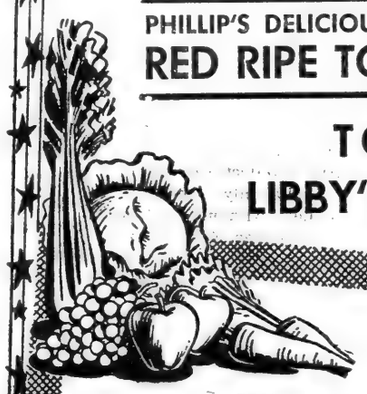
RUSTIC BRAND RED
SOUR PITTED PIE CHERRIES NO. 2 CAN 19c



BAKE A CHERRY PIE TONIGHT —
JIFFY PIE CRUST 9 OZ. PKG. 16c

C S TENDER TEMPTING —
BARDEN SWEET PEAS NO. 303 CAN 21c

C S HALVED OR SLICED
YELLOW CLING PEACHES NO. 2½ CAN 31c

PHILLIP'S DELICIOUS
RED RIPE TOMATOES NO. 303 CAN 17c

TOMATO JUICE
LIBBY'S 46 OZ. CAN 29c

Farm-Fresh Produce

POTATOES

U.S. NO. 1 IDAHO BAKING 5 LBS. 35c

EXTRA FANCY
VIRGINIA WINESAP APPLES 2 LBS. 29c

FANCY FIRM
RIPE SLICING TOMATOES ---- CTN. 27c

EXTRA FANCY
CRISP PASCAL CELERY ---- 2 STALKS 15c

EXTRA LARGE — ICEBERG
FIRM CRISP LETTUCE ---- 2 HEADS 33c

NOW TWO GREAT COLONIAL STORES

● GLEN LENNOX SHOPPING CENTER
● CORNER OF FRANKLIN & GRAHAM STS.

From Big City To Village, From Football To Flowers

Hard-Working Weekly Editor Looks Back After 30 Years Of Deadlines; Human Interest Genius

By Robert W. Madry

One of the most interesting characters in Chapel Hill is Louis Graves, editor of the Chapel Hill weekly, who let the 30th birthday of his well known paper pass the other day without so much as getting out a special edition, as is the custom of many journals observing such important milestones.

In fact, he limited the observance of the event to less than a column of reminiscences about the history of the Weekly, and that was on page two.

But that's about what one who knows this editor could expect, for he has never gotten out a special edition, usually considered a good opportunity to let the advertisers pay tribute.

This fellow Graves gets out a paper that's quite different from the run-of-mill in weeklies.

He pays no attention to arrests and trials in the local Recorder's Court, except on rare occasions, for which some citizens are truly grateful, prints nothing about marriages except the fact that so-and-so were married on such-and-such a date, and devotes little space to lectures.

Genius At 'Human Interest'

But give him a story about an unusual dog or beautiful flowers or an amusing incident involving some villager, and he will go to town. He is a genius at collecting "human interest" items.

He used to write practically everything that went into the Weekly—back when there were only four pages. But the paper now sometimes runs to 16 pages, and he had to call for assistance. His two chief writing associates are Joe Jones and Roland Giduz. And his best tipster and gatherer of personals, to which he gives much space, is Mrs. Graves, who keeps up with the goings and comings of villagers far better than her husband.

Mr. Graves will be 70 years old next August, and, while he's in good health, he doesn't look forward to the event. It's plain he abhors the idea of growing old, even gracefully, and takes pains to keep himself fit. Every morning, no matter how cold, he takes setting up exercises on his back porch.

A Chapel Hill Native

Louis Graves is a Chapel Hill native—his forbears have lived here since the early days and his great, great grandfather, William Hooper, was a signer of the Declaration of Independence—but soon after graduation from the University in 1902 Louis went to work on the New York Times. He spent the next 19 years in New York except for two during World War I, doing newspaper work and miscellaneous writing.

In 1921 became back to Chapel Hill as journalism professor and director of the University News Bureau. He didn't like either job too well. He didn't enjoy being a professor because he found too many papers to correct every week. And, as for being a publicity man (he handled both sports and general news) the ideas of sending out a report on football practice every day seemed to him ridiculous, since often he considered the report merely a repetition of what happened the day before.

Weekly Started In 1923

He wanted to start his weekly after he had been back 12 months, but President Harry Chase persuaded him to try the University for one more year. In 1923 Mr. Graves started the Weekly. The first issue came out March 1, and the first eight or 10 issues were printed in Durham. The paper was a success from the start.

Graves likes to tell people he's lazy. Nothing is further from the truth. He works every day, including Sunday and often at night. You can always find him at his typewriter until late the night before press day on Thursday, but he seldom fails to celebrate the end of the weekly grind by going to the movies Thursday night.

The other day the University Faculty Club asked Graves to talk about his last 50 years in Chapel Hill. The editor told his listeners it was the first time he had been called a patriarch—a term used in the advance announcements—and he didn't relish the title.

The really great changes in Chapel Hill have come in the last quarter of a century, he said. He recalled that great, great grandfather Hooper delivered here in 1854 a lecture reviewing what had taken place during the preceding half century.

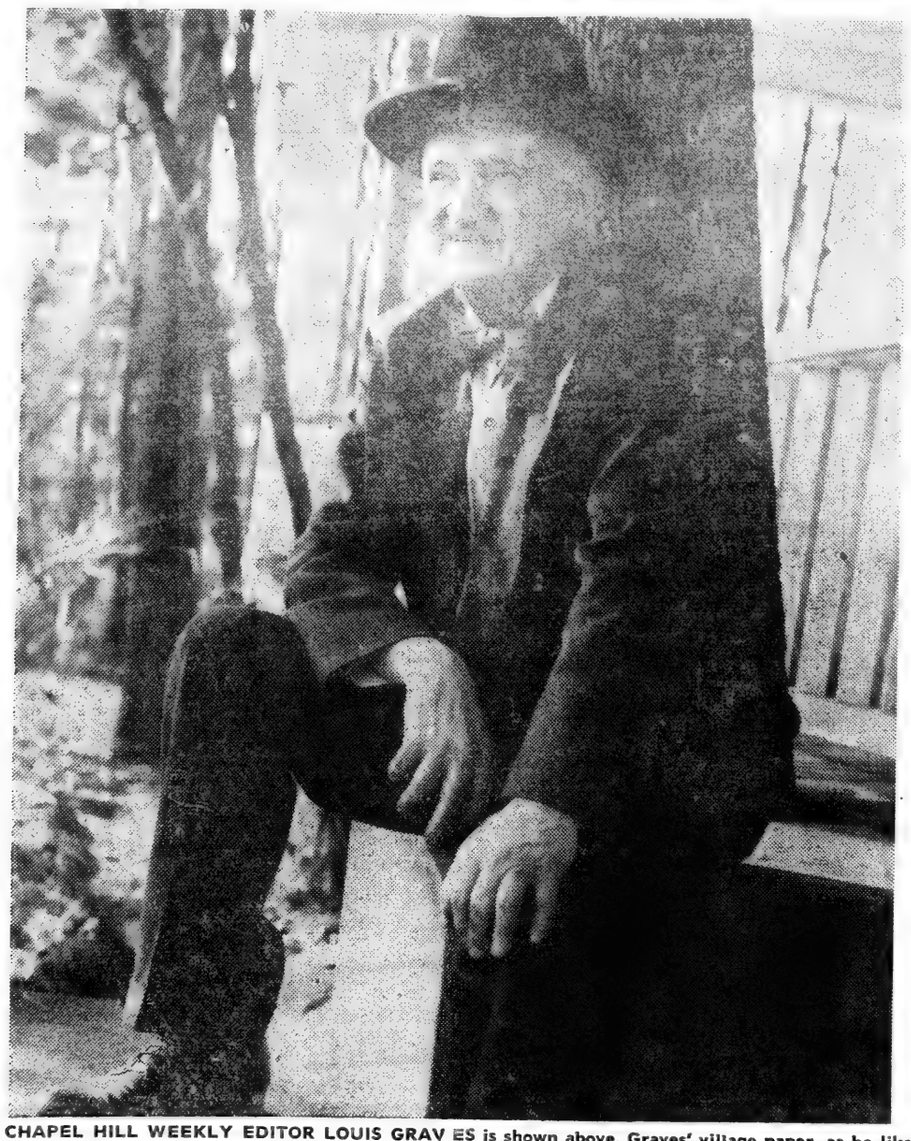
Student Body Was 500

The student body before the turn of the century numbered less than 500, but President George T. Winston and his successor, Dr. Edwin A. Alderman in 1896, considered that a big student body.

Graves remembered when William R. Kenan, donor of Kenan Stadium, installed the first electric light plant in 1890. It cost a dollar an hour to have lights on for a ballroom dance.

There was no central heating back in the 90's. The citizens and students had to depend on fireplaces, and it is a wonder that many of the buildings were not burned down, Editor Graves said. Each student had to buy and cut his own wood and get it to his room before somebody else filched it.

People who think that appropriations come hard these days might get some comfort by recalling that, he pointed out. President George T. Winston was met at the University station by the entire student body and paraded through the village when he returned from the State Legislature with the announcement that the appropriations for maintenance had been increased from $20,000 to $25,000. There was a public ceremony, and President Winston was presented a gold watch.



Virginia Rival in Sports

In those days, he recalled, it was quite a feat to defeat the University of Virginia in any sport. In 1891, for instance, the student body almost went wild when the University scored one run in baseball against the Cavaliers although the Tar Heels lost 6-1.

Several members of the Faculty Club paid tributes to Editor Graves after he had finished his talk. Leon Wiley said Graves was the greatest tennis player Chapel Hill has ever produced.

Phillips Russell and J. B. Bullitt recalled the editor's prowess on the football field at quarterback. They also said that he was the first Chapel Hillian to get an article—a short story—printed in the Saturday Evening Post.

And then the club's president, Dr. J. C. Lyons, chimed in with the statement that the Faculty Club was organized at the suggestion of Graves.

CHAPEL HILL WEEKLY EDITOR LOUIS GRAVES is shown above. Graves' village paper, as he likes to refer to it, recently completed 30 years of reporting the local scene, with emphasis on the human side. Photo by Roland Giduz Courtesy of Durham Herald.

GET RESULTS BY USING THE CLASSIFIED ADS OF THE TAR HEEL

A&P

Lower Your Food Bills with A&P's Grand Buys!

Pack Your Pantry with These Grand Grocery Buys!

Libby's Tomato Juice 46-Oz. Can 29c

Libby's Peas 17-Oz. Can 23c

Blue Label Karo Syrup Pt. Bot. 21c 5-Lb. Can 59c

Swift's Prem 12-Oz. Can 45c

Swift's Pork Sausage 10-Oz. Can 47c

Ann Page Fancy Tomato KETCHUP - - - - 14-Oz. Bot. 19c

Golden Whole Kernel or Cream Style A & P CORN - - 16-Oz. Can 15c

White House Apple Jelly ------ 12-Oz. Glass 15c
Van Camp's Beans & Pork ---- 16-Oz. Can 14c
Short Grain Comet Rice ------ 2-Lb. Pkg. 37c
Sunnyfield Corn Flakes ----- 18-Oz. Pkg. 23c
Ann Page Sparkle Lemon Pie Filling -----3 4-Oz. Pkgs. 20c
A&P Fancy Tuna Fish ------- 7-Oz. Can 29c
Staley's Waffle Syrup ---- 12-Oz. Bot. 21c
Ann Page Regular or Elbow Macaroni -- 8-Oz. Pkg. 10c
Packers Label—Red Sour Pitted Pie Cherries ----- 19-Oz. Can 21c
Ann Page Prepared Spaghetti ------2 15-Oz. Cans 25c
Sultana Imitation Vanilla Extract --- 8-Oz. Bot. 11c
Plain or Self-Rising Flour Red Band ------ 10-Lb. Bag $1.01

Northern Toilet TISSUE - - - - 3 Rolls 25c

Save with A&P's Lower Produce Prices!

Crisp 4-Doz. Size Lettuce - 2 Heads 23c

Nice Juicy Lemons - 2 Lbs. 25c

Fresh Florida Corn - - - - - - -4 Ears 35c
U. S. No. 1 Red Bliss Potatoes - - - -5 Lbs. 25c
Crisp Golden Carrots - - - - - - 1-Lb. Cello Bag 10c
Crisp Pascal — 3-Doz. Size Celery - - - - - - - - Stalk 8c
Juicy Florida — 54's 64's Grapefruit - - - - 4 For 25c

Krey's Meat Products

Krey's In Gravy Sliced Beef - - - - 16-Oz. Can 53c
Krey's In Gravy Chopped Beef - - - 10-Oz. Can 22c
Krey's With Gravy Sliced Pork - - - - 16-Oz. Can 49c

GRAND BUY! Sultana Small Stuffed OLIVES 3¼ oz. Packed In Re-usable Fruit Juice Glass 19c

Ann Page Salad DRESSING Qt. Jar 47c

GRAND BUY! Jane Parker Golden or Marble POUND CAKE 12 oz. Choice 25c

Jane Parker Caramel PECAN ROLLS Pkg. 29c

EASTER CANDIES

Worthmore Jelly Eggs - - - - - - 1-Lb. Bag 19c
Worthmore Novelty Creams Easter Mix - - - - - - 14-Oz. Pkg. 25c
Worthmore Chocolate-Cocoanut Cream Eggs - - - - - - 1-Lb. Box 29c

PAAS EASTER EGG DYE Pkg. 15c Complete Kit 39c

Save with A&P's Lower Meat Prices!

"SUPER-RIGHT" HEAVY WESTERN BEEF CHUCK BLADE POT ROAST lb. 43c

Short Shank HAMS — 12 to 14-Lb. Avg. — Skinned
Whole or Half ---------- Lb. 63c
Butt Portion ---------- Lb. 57c
Shank Portion ---------- Lb. 53c

"Super-Right" — Heavy Western Beef Sirloin Steak - - - - - - - Lb. 75c
"Super-Right" — Heavy Western Beef — Boneless Round Steak Top or Bottom - - - - - Lb. 75c
Swift's Premium Sliced Bacon - - - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 69c
"Super-Right" — Freshly Ground Beef - - - - - - Lb. 45c

Pickles Pick of Carolina - - - Sweet Mixed - - 16-Oz. Jar 19c
Camay Bath Soap - - - - - - - 2 Bars 23c
Fab - - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c
Dreft - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c
Hamburger Swift's - - - - - - 10-Oz. Can 45c
Duz - - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c

A&P Super Markets THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Through Saturday, March 28th

Carolina Defeats Springfield College In Tennis, 9-0

Down In Front

by Biff Roberts

The Return Of A Native

THE LOCAL BOY WHO MADE good comes home Monday afternoon to show his stuff in front of the old folks. Harvie Ward, who played a large part in Carolina's golf success until his graduation in 1950, will be back in town to put on an exhibition with three of the nation's top pros. It will be a great show to watch. For those of us who knew Harvie while he was here as a student it will be even more pleasing just to talk to the little Tarboro belter who has ranked himself as one of the top amateur players in the world.

Back when he played as a Tar Heel most people knew it wouldn't be long before Harvie put himself right at the top. As a matter of fact, he went to the quarter-finals of the 1947 National Amateur. Then while still a student he beat Frank Stranahan in the 1948 North-South. The two, who have met in the finals of many tournaments, matched up again in the last round of the same tourney the next year but this time Stranahan won, 2 and 1. In 1949 Harvie topped his college career by winning the NCAA championship and also won the annual Tournament of Golf Club Champions at St. Augustine, Fla. for the first of three times. He retired that trophy just a month ago by winning it for the third time. You can add a lot of other titles to the list, too, including the Southern Conference championship. Harvie was a contender, if not a winner, in every match he was in.

The Little Man and Stranahan

But the accomplishment of his playing career came last May when he whipped the same nemesis, Stranahan, to win the British Amateur. This time it wasn't even close. Li'l Harvie walloped the Toledo muscleman 6 and 5 to take the British crown. The victory marked a great climax to a spring which found him shooting some of the best golf of his life.

Harvie, who now lives in Georgia, was awarded the Teague Award last weekend, being recognized as the top amateur athlete in the Carolinas. He has long been a contender for the honor and this year there was no keeping him from it. His brilliant victory in the British Am in addition to his outstanding play in every tournament he entered brought him the trophy hands down. The selection committee couldn't have picked a finer athlete—certainly not a more deserving person.

Of course, for most Carolina fans it would be enough just to have Harvie put on an exhibition. But the State Jaycees and Bob Cox, former Carolina football star and now a Chapel Hill merchant, who is in charge of the exhibition, have gone further than that. In addition to Ward three of the country's best pros will be on the Finley Golf course at two o'clock Monday. Julius Boros, Cary Middlecoff, and Johnny Palmer will join Ward in the foursome with Palmer teaming with Harvie against the other two. Boros was the leading money winner last year and won the National Open. Middlecoff is a former Open winner and ranks continuously as one of the top contenders on the golf for gold circuit. Palmer, like Ward, is a former North Carolina junior champ, coming from Badin. He ranks number 10 in the Ryder Cup race and is tied for second in the Varden trophy quest, a ranking which is based on the lowest average for rounds on the circuit.

A Worthy Cause

COX HAS DONE A GREAT JOB in arranging such a fine exhibition and the four golfers, all of whom are donating their time and services gratis, couldn't be playing for a finer cause. The proceeds of the show will go to support the junior golf tournament held every year by the State Jaycees. Last year the organization went in the hole on the tourney. They plan to go on with it again this year, however, and hope to send four or five of the best boys to the National Junior tournament at Ann Arbor, Michigan. Part of Monday's proceeds will also go to the PGA Relief Fund.

For those who won't be able to attend the Greater Grensboro Open which starts today at the Sedgfield Golf Club in Greensboro or for those who want to see more golf after the GGO this exhibition is a Godsend. It will be the only one by the top golfers staged in this area for a good while and comes for a pretty reasonable price. Tickets for students are $1.00 with ID cards and $1.50 for general admission. It's something Carolina sport fans can little afford to miss.

Netters Take All Matches In Easy Win

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina tennis team opened a 25 match schedule yesterday afternoon by completely outclassing Springfield College, 9-0.

The brand of tennis was not too good since neither team had had too much practice and since the match was played on courts swept by a cold wind.

However, even under the adverse conditions, no member of the Carolina team was pushed to win a match all afternoon. The only close set was the first one between Del Sylvia and Ed Newton.

Coach Kenfield started the same lineup which he used in the fall match against Virginia — the one which will probably carry him through the season.

Only two positions in this lineup are filled by the same boys as last year. Sylvia is again captain of the team and is still playing in the number one position. He won his match over Newton 7-5, 6-3.

The number two position remains the same with Herb Browne holding it down. He won yesterday over John Conors 6-1, 6-3.

The rest of the lineup is considerably different. Tom Bradford, a left-handed freshman, played number three and looked very good in defeating Jack Viele 6-0, 6-0.

Bob Payne, last year's number three man, moved down to the number four position yesterday and had an easy time beating Walter Cushman 6-1, 6-1.

In the number five position Kenfield used Don Thompson, another lefthanded freshman, who defeated Dave Seamans 6-0, 6-0.

Still another left-handed freshman played yesterday as Bruce Gustafson rounded out the lineup in the number six position. He was the only freshman to lose a single game and he defeated John Hopkins 6-1, 6-2.

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Newton (S), 7-5, 6-3; Browne (UNC) defeated Conors (S); Bradford (UNC) defeated Viele (S), 6-0, 6-0; Payne (UNC) defeated Cushman (S), 6-1, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) defeated Seamans (S), 6-0, 6-0; Gustafson (UNC) defeated Hopkins (S), 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles—Sylvia and Green (UNC) defeated Newton and Viele (S), 6-0, 6-0; Izlar and Gordon (UNC) defeated Connor and Seamans (S), 6-2, 6-3; Kerdasha and Lynch (UNC) defeated Hopkins and Cushman (S), 6-2, 6-4.

Baseballers Meet Michigan State, Marines On Three Game Journey

By Tom Peacock

Carolina's baseball team, owners of a 2-2 record after a trip through Florida, play a double header today and a single game tomorrow at Camp Lejeune.

The Tar Heels meet Michigan State in their first game today, and then Lejeune in the nightcap. They play the Trojans again tomorrow on the Camp Lejeune field.

Coach Walt Rabb will probably start his ace righthander, Chal Port, in the State game, and Billy Lore is slated to work against Lejeune, with tomorrow's starter undecided.

Port pitched two four-hit ball games on the Florida trip, winning one from Rollins and dropping the other to Georgia Teachers. Lore beat Rollins on six hits, and Joe Pazdan lost to Rollins, 6-3.

Rabb was pleased with the showing his team made on the Southern trip, and expects to complete his lineup at Lejeune and be ready for the home opener April 3 against Clemson.

Michigan State beat Carolina twice last year in a round robin tournament played here with Yale, and has a large part of last year's team returning. Coach John Kobs has Capt. Bob Dilday and Jack Risch, two hard hitting outfielders, returning, and Gus Carlson and Bob Dangl, last year's winning pitchers are also back. Risch was voted the most valuable player in the tournament.

Lejeune has a powerful squad, comprised principally of ex-college and professional players, and is rated as one of the stronger service teams.

Coach Rabb has filled the worst holes made by graduation last year. His two catchers, Will Frye and Ed Hooks, both batted .375 in two games apiece in Florida, with the freshman Frye getting the nod on defense. The pitching staff is much the same, and his infield of Bobby Hening (1b), Harry Lee Lylod (2b), Fred Dale (ss), and Bruce Holt (3b) appears solid.

Five outfielders all turned in impressive performances in Florida and will be used by Rabb today and tomorrow. They are Connie Gravitte, Ken Keller, Billy Hawks, John Motsinger, and co-captain Wayne White.

SOFTBALL OFFICIALS

There will be a meeting of all intramural softball officials Monday and Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 with Bob Issacs at the Intramural office.

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

STUDENT EXPERIENCED IN RETAIL Selling for part time work in clothing store. Apply Manager of The Sport Shop, N. Columbia St. Charge 1x1

HELP WANTED

MAN OR WOMAN WITH CAR. Greensboro Daily News — Record for Chapel Hill and vicinity. Good proposition. Car expenses. Write News-Record, Greensboro, N. C. (1-c3488-5)

JUST RECEIVED

Officer's Style

KHAKI SLACKS

$4.95

- Durable—Washable
- Made of Sturdy, Long Wearing Chino Twill
- Slotted Waistband

Get Your Summer Supply of these Popular Slacks Now, While We Have All Sizes.

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

How to bring on Spring Fervor

Actually, you slip it on, because the weaker sex has a strong yen for the man in a Manhattan GABSHIRE sportshirt. This good-looking gabardine is deftly tailored—styled as only Manhattan can style it with pick-stitching on collar and pockets. Available in a wide range of smart colors, equally handsome with or without a tie.

Manhattan®

Need Pocket Money?

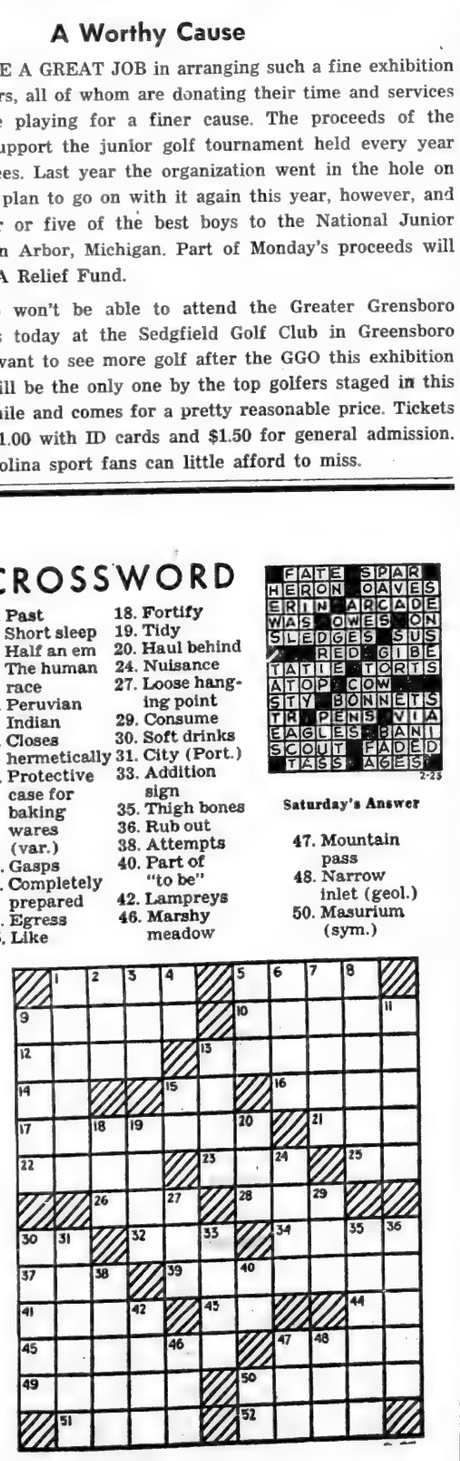
Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

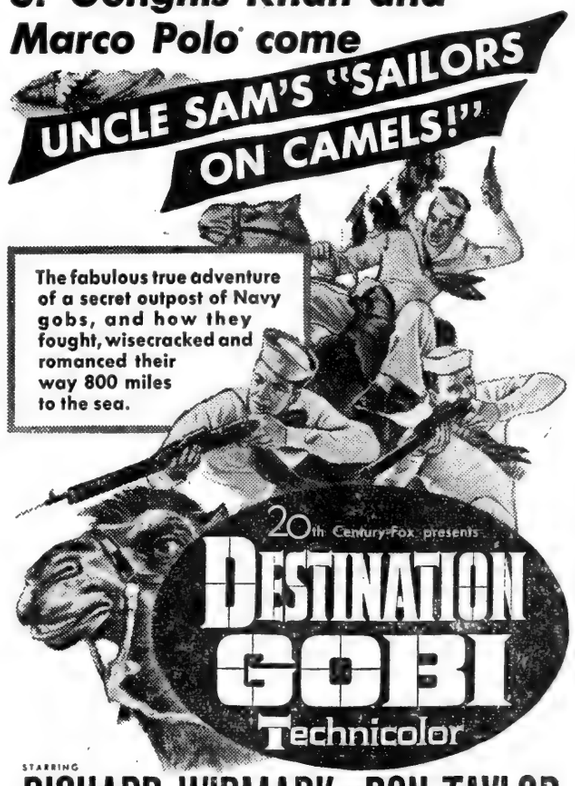
OPEN EVENINGS

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS

1. Rational
5. Fail to hit
9. Heathen
10. Near (poet.)
12. On top
13. Enclose in a cage
14. Nickel (sym.)
15. Hewing tool
16. Sea weed
17. Passage through or over
21. Unhappy
22. Wither
23. Apex
25. Railway (abbr.)
26. Insane
28. Tiny
30. Thus
32. Spigot
34. Secure
37. Make choice
39. Glisten
41. French illustrator and artist
43. Pronoun
44. Mother (diminutive form)
45. Sprites (Shakespeare)
47. The shank (anat.)
49. Pillar of stone
50. Watered silk
51. Bones (anat.)
52. Expression of sorrow



DOWN

1. Irony
2. Past
3. Short sleep
4. Half an em
5. The human race
6. Peruvian Indian
7. Closes hermetically
8. Protective case for baking wares (var.)
9. Gasps
11. Completely prepared
13. Egress
15. Like
18. Fortify
19. Tidy
20. Haul behind
24. Nuisance
27. Loose hanging point
29. Consume
30. Soft drinks
31. City (Port.)
33. Addition sign
35. Thigh bones
36. Rub out
38. Attempts
40. Part of "to be"
42. Lampreys
46. Marshy meadow
47. Mountain pass
48. Narrow inlet (geol.)
50. Masurium (sym.)

Saturday's Answer

Roaring across the land of Genghis Khan and Marco Polo come UNCLE SAM'S "SAILORS ON CAMELS!"

STARRING

RICHARD WIDMARK · DON TAYLOR

Carolina

T-O-D-A-Y AND SATURDAY

TEE SHIRTS
Will Not Shrink or Stretch
Reg. 98c—Now 38c

White Tennis Sneakers
Brand New Navy Surplus
Reg. $4.00—Now 80c pr

KHAKI PANTS
8.2 Chino Army Weight—Double Hem Stitched-Sanforized
Reg. 4.25—Now $2.44

GRAY PANTS
$2.87

FATIGUE PANT
FOUR POCKETS
$2.66

Plastic Rain Coats
Reg. 2.00—Now 96c

Canvas Zipper Bags
14 in. ___ $1.88

FOOTLOCKERS
Were $12.95
$7.73

SOCKS
ONE GROUP
17c PR.

FATIGUE CAPS
ONLY 200 LEFT
ONLY 37c

ARMY and NAVY
Black or Brown — Calf Skin DRESS SLIPPERS
Reg. $7.95—Now $5.93

BOXER SHORTS
Reg. 98c—Now 63c

UNDERSHIRTS
Reg. 79c — Now 44c

WEBB BELTS
With Brass Buckel
49c

DURHAM SURPLUS STORE

320 N. MANGUM ST. DURHAM, N. C.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Names

Delta Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon has elected Rueben Leonard of Greensboro as its president for the coming year.

Other officers are Fred Mattox, vice-president, Smithfield; Tom Torgersen, treasurer, Hickory; John Hawes, secretary, Morganton; Tom Lindsey, historian, Great Neck, N. Y.; Herman Bunch, pledge master Clinton; Don Hamilton, social chairman, Fairfield, Conn.

A New Book By
TOYNBEE
The World and the West
$2.00
at
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

'Priceless Look' Comes From Selective Shopping

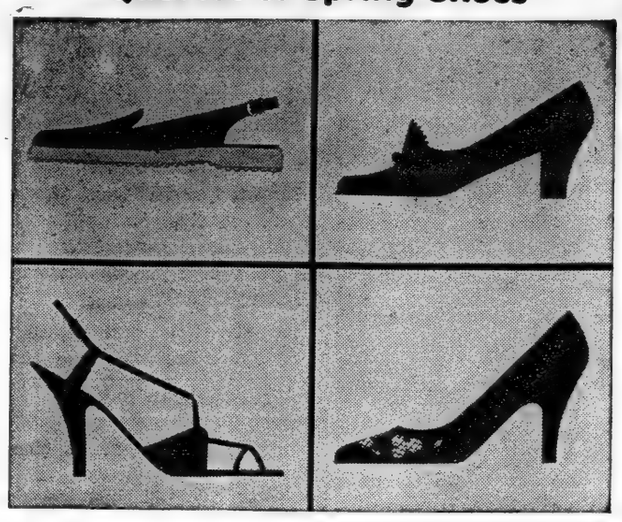
Above is a 50 per cent Dacron-50 per cent rayon suit featuring the "just pressed" look. Excellent for that trip abroad.

For today's college women, Mademoiselle advocates the "priceless look".

"When you have the 'priceless look', men materialize for you, jobs walk up to you, taxis stop for you, kids show off for you". That's what the word is, and the fashion editors say the coed may achieve this "priceless look" by "shopping more and buying less, getting rid of fixed ideas about yourself and about fashion."

Ideas stressed in this spring's fashions are the shirtdresses in separates that can be made into many ensembles. Blouses worn outside and belted are becoming popular. A big favorite among Carolina coeds is the man-tailored shirt which can be worn with a scarf, a turtleneck shirt or some of the bright new beads.

In the way of accessories, the brightly-jewelled look took over in sweaters this winter and will make a hit with all summer costumes. Vivid beads are worn at the neck, jewelled shoes are new and beautiful, beaded cottons are more elaborate than ever. Navy patent is a brand new in the accessory line.



Sleeveless dresses are still in and the halter dress is more of a favorite. Fabrics will take the lead with promises of skirts and coats that stay dry in the rain, skirts that will keep the "just pressed" look and "sun-proof" play clothes. Orlon and cotton combinations or dacron and worsted will be found in summer fashions. Also there are Tebilized cotton or nylon and cotton "uncrushables" that come out of a suitcase with a wrinkle for that trip to Europe.

Other highlights of fashion featured in April's Mademoiselle are cotton plisses and knitted dresses and separates of wool and nylon.

Cabinet Meeting

President Ham Horton will hold a cabinet meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock in his lair.

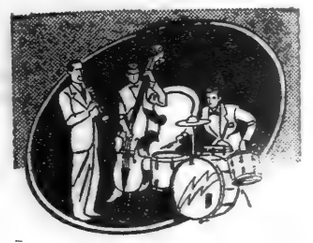
Quartet of Spring Shoes

The wide-open silhouette and touches of white highlight the news in spring shoes. Good Housekeeping magazine's fashion editors illustrate the trend with these styles in their March issue. Starting at upper right in clockwise order they are: a wonderfully pliable walking shoe of maple-color llama calf with soft toe and elasticized gore in top of vamp. About $20. British Walkers; the dressed-up black suede pump with a cut-out design and overlay of mesh on the vamp, and a medium slender heel. About $12. Air Step; a patent-leather stripping sandal with a high Louis heel, a sling back, and a very open toe. About $11. Grace Walker; a comfortable sling-back moccasin with sole of resilient cork crepe and top of charcoal denim. About $5. U. S. Kedettes.

Claude Thornhill's Orchestra Will Play For Military Ball

Naval ROTC Midshipmen and Air Force ROTC cadets will dance to the music of Claude Thornhill and his orchestra tomorrow night at the annual Military Ball in Woollen Gymnasium from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Colonel Jesse J. Moorhead will crown a queen to be selected from dance sponsors who are dates of the Naval Battalion staff and the Air Force ROTC Wing Staff. The queen and two attendants will be presented after formation of the figure at intermission. Three dozen red roses will be presented to the queen and 18 white roses to each attendant.



AFROTC sponsors will form an aisle down which the dance sponsors will walk to form the figure.

Scabbard and Blade and Arnold Air Society pledges will also be presented at the dance.

Varsity

Learning To Dance
Is More Fun Than A Night at the Theatre
!
Studios Air Conditioned

Yes, a night at the theatre is over when the curtain falls, a football game is over when the final whistle blows, but your fun is just beginning when you learn to dance at Arthur Murray's. Win new friends and popularity with your dancing skill at proms, parties, and campus activities.

Arthur Murray
104½ Morris St., at 5 Pts., 2-7872

WELCOME PHYSICISTS
- Special Display of Physics Books
- Bushels of books for your more human moments
- Free Maps of the Campus

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

And so from the four corners of the country, UNC comes back to Chapel Hill, all sunburned and peeling, but headed back to the beach for more this weekend.

The Deke's had a huge houseparty at Myrtle last week, and will go to Wilmington and Wrightsville this weekend for the Azalea Festival.

SPE's also helped take over Myrtle and will be in Wrightsville for the big doin's.

Big news of the holidays is the pinning of Tri Delt Pepper Stetson, West Chester, Pa., to Sigma Chi Roddy Dowd, Charlotte.

'Nother new pinning is that of ADPi Anne Jacobs, Chapel Hill, and KA Don Cheek of Shelby.

Sigma Chi's did their housepartying at Daytona over the holidays, as did the other half of the campus that wasn't at the Carolina beaches.

Then there were the Pika's who went to Miami.

St. A's will go in for these beach parties seriously when they get their new beach house.

Kappa Psi Rowe Campbell, Taylorsville, has recently become engaged to Ann Sherrill, ADPi of Queens College. Another Kappa Psi who recently gave his pin away is Lewis Ferguson of Gastonia. The lucky gal is Charlene Warren, also at Queens College.

Kappa Psi actives and pledges had their annual beer party Wednesday night at the house.

Kappa Sigs gonna have li'l house party at Wilmington, Wrightsville and thereabouts for the weekend.

SAE's are also deserting the campus for the Azalea Festival.

Biff Roberts is going to the beach too.

ATO's and Zeta Psi's are making the trip to Wrightsville.

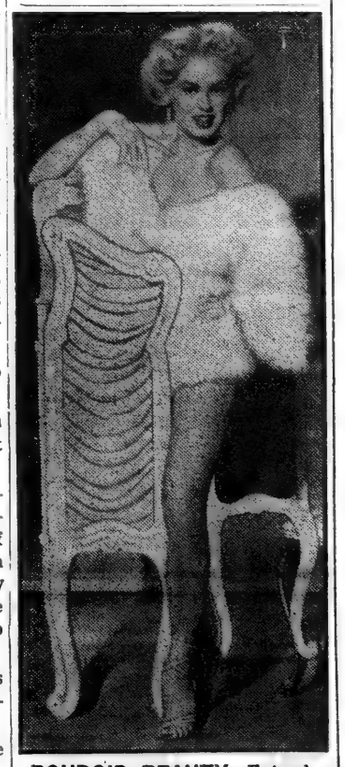
Oh yes, and the KA's and the Theta Chi's are going to Wrgihtsville and the Delta Sigma Pi's had a "sort of spontaneous" houseparty at Myrtle last week.

Phi Delts serenaded ADPi Ann Phillips, recently pinned to Ted McLaughlin, last week.

Alpha Gam Bev Lively of Hinton, W. Va. is now Mrs. Sonny Meadows. Sonny was a Deke at U. Va. and is also from Hinton.

More wedding bells at the Alpha Gam house. Ellen Downs, Winston, married Lt. John Barnes, now stationed at Washington, D. C. Ann Steward, Sewannee, Tenn., will marry Rodge Harris, also of Sewannee where he is a Kappa Sig. The wedding wil take place tomorrow.

Tri Delt Ross Young, Greenwood, S. C., is now wearing a beautiful diamond given to her by Pika Bill Jenkins, Ayden.



TEP's are not going to the beach. They're having a party in honor of one of the brothers at the Plantation club in Greensboro tomorrow night.

ZBT's will have one of their parties at the house after the Military Ball tomorrow night. The civilians in the fraternity will go to an alum's house in Greensboro for a party.

Phi Delts are sporting Florida tans straight from a week at Daytona. They'll go back for more at Wrightsville this weekend.

Sigma Chi's Vernon Farrell, Bill Williamson and Billy Hawks aren't pinned.

A word from the Military Ball tomorrow night . . . going to be great with Claude Thornhill and his orchestra . . . a queen will be chosen and the dance will be held at the gym.

BOUDOIR BEAUTY—Extending one slim leg for our inspection is lovely blonde Mamie Van Doren, Hollywood actress. She was found by filmland experts singing in a Nevada night club. Now she sings in the movies and lives in Los Angeles.

In Durham It's
OLSON'S MUSIC STORE
For Complete Lines of
Woodwinds, Recorders, Brass, Accessories
Accordions, Guitars, Music, Reeds
Our Specialty
Band Instrument Repair
105 W. Parrish St.—Phone 3-4541

A Cordial Invitation
To Visit Us As So Many Other Students Are Doing
Two Specials This Week
From Our Many Fountain Specialties
Fresh Strawberry Sundae
29¢
Giant Ice Cream Soda
25¢
Delicious Freshly Made Sandwiches
Premium Ice Cream Made In Our Own Plant
Dairyland Farms
GLEN LENNOX SHOPPING CENTER

Easter Is Just Around the Corner And Pal, We've got Easter Cards Like You've Never Seen Before
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

WE'LL CURE THAT HEADACHE!

If it's motor trouble that's giving you the headache, you don't need an aspirin . . . you need one of our MASTER MECHANICS! These super-technicians will find the trouble fast, and make prompt, dependable repairs and adjustments. Let us cure YOUR car headache!

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR
POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

BREAKFAST
NOW SERVED FROM 7 A.M.
—AT—
THE NEW UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT
AND REMEMBER
PABST BLUE RIBBON ON TAP
20c A GLASS
The Coolest, Friendliest Atmosphere In Town

T-O-D-A-Y
SATURDAY
Varsity

LATE SHOW SATURDAY—SUNDAY—MONDAY

GRIPPING... DARING... REVEALING!
GOBBIE WITHERS · JAMES DONALD · GODFREY TEARLE · PETULA CLARK
WHITE CORRIDORS
MOIRA LISTER · JACK WATLING · BARRY JONES

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and mild. Today's high, 65. Yesterday's high and low, 62 and 33.

The Daily Tar Heel

ARYAN
The editor discusses aryanism and the Phi Delts. Page 2.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 117 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, MARCH 29, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

SPONSORS FOR MILITARY BALL last night were (left to right) Miss Connie Moore of Norfolk with Midshipman Capatin James E. Eagan, Miss Dot Smith of Spencer, West Virginia with Cadet Colonel Charles M. Winston; Miss Diane Breslow of Rahway, New Jersey with Randolph Watson (not in picture); Miss Imogene Walker of Concord with Cadet Lt. Colonel Kenneth G. Anderson; Miss Nancy McCoy of Westfield, New Jersey with Midshipman Commander Bruce A. Bauer; Miss Jessie Smith of Kinston with Cadet Lyman B. McLawhorn; Miss Pat Boesser of Winston-Salem with Cadet Lt. Colonel Andrew J. Bell; Miss Jeanne Johnson of Atlanta, Georgia with Cadet Major Eugene Shaw; Miss Jane Ellen Brown of Clarkton with Midshipman Lt. Commander W. Travis Porter; Miss Pat Bohnenkamp of St. Louis with Cadet Major Alvin V. Samuel; Miss Luanne Thornton of West Palm Beach with Cadet Major Robert B. Jackson; Miss Martha Irvin of Hendersonville with Cadet Major Eugene D. Foushee; Mrs. Alan R. Perry with Cadet Major Alan R. Perry; Miss Margaret Cheatam of Henderson with Midshipman Lt. William D. Smith; and Mrs. Charles A. Collins with Cadet Major Charles A. Collins.

Segregation Ban

Ike Draws Criticism For Policy

ATLANTA, March 28—(Special)—Georgia Gov. Herman Talmadge said yesterday President Eisenhower made a "great mistake" in banning segregation in federally-operated schools on Army posts.

"Truman's advocacy of such measures contributed greatly to Eisenhower's victory," Talmadge said in an interview at his Lovejoy, Ga. Farm. "Now it looks like Eisenhower is trying to go Truman one better.

"Nonsegregation won't work in the South. The white people don"t want it and the Negroes don't either."

In Atlanta, Rep. John Greer of Lanier County said he hoped Southern Democrats who "deserted their party to support Eisenhower on the theory that he would uphold segregation are satisfied."

The president's order will effect Ft. Benning, Ga. which has four white elementary schools with 1,063 students and 45 teachers. There is one Negro school with 31 pupils and two teachers. The Negro children attend school in nearby Columbus and the Army pays their tuition. Their segregation policy will not be changed according to the head of the Columbus schools.

Later this week, the governor told a Jacksonville, Fla. television audience he would take steps to abolish the public schools setup in Georgia if the U. S. Supreme Court fails to uphold segregation.

The Georgia chief executive said he would call an extraordinary session of the Legislature and recommend such action.

SINGER JANE FROMAN leaves New York Supreme Court after she testified about the crash of a Yankee Clipper plane near Lisbon, Portugal, ten years ago. Miss Froman, who was seeking $2,500,000 damages from Pan American Airways, was awarded $3,300 for her crippled leg and $750 for lost baggage—NEA Telephoto.

Unclaimed Racing Loot May Be Handed UNC

The University is after the dog track winnings the bettors never claim.

A bill was introduced in the General Assembly Friday which would permit the winnings "on any horse or dog races at any race track in this state where the placing of such bets is legal" to be paid into the University's escheats fund if they were not claimed within 60 days.

Escheats is the system whereby property reverts to the state because of the failure of persons legally entitled to hold it.

However, the future of legalized racing itself is in doubt in the state. The General Assembly now has before it a bill which would outlaw the races which began in the mid 1940's. Racing now is legal at Morehead City and Moyock.

The bill came from Sen. Edwin Pate, who introduced it at the request of Kemp Cate, escheats officers for the Consolidated University. Cate's office is in Chapel Hill.

Another escheats provision similar to the one contained in Sen. Pate's bill was considered two years ago but the General Assembly failed to pass it.

Besides providing for escheats of dog track funds, Sen. Pate's proposal also would escheat to the University the wages or salaries owed by any corporation in the state which were not claimed within two years of the end of the calendar year in which they were earned. At present, only corporations engaged in construction work are required to pay such unclaimed wages into the fund. At present, the unclaimed funds go the escheats fund after one year.

Still another provision would enable stocks and bonds whose owners cannot be located to be transferred to the escheats fund.

The Consolidated University gets a nice hunk of income annually from the escheats money. The money is taken and invested by the University and the interest from the principal is used to provide scholarships. The scholarships are divided among the three consolidated institutions according to their student enrollment.

George Bentley Memorial Rites Set For Today

A memorial for George F. Bentley, assistant to the University librarian who died in an automobile accident Thursday, will be held at 3 p.m. today at the Episcopal Chapel of the Cross.

Mr. Bentley's body was shipped to Nashville, Tenn. yesterday for burial Monday. Mass was held for him yesterday morning in Gerrard Hall.

Dr. Pierce Butler, Chicago educator who is visiting lecturer in the School of Library Science this quarter, is in critical condition as a result of the accident. He is in the Alamance Hospital still unconscious.

The mishap occurred just north of Burlington Thursday when the car, driven by Bentley, smashed into the rear of a tractor-trailor. The driver of the tractor testified he saw the automobile approaching fast behind him and he stood on the running board of his slow-moving vehicle in an attempt to flag the car.

Two other passengers in the car, Sarah Reed and Dorothy Long, both of the University staff, are in Memorial Hospital here with fractures and lacerations. Their conditions are termed satisfactory.

Mr. Bentley was 37 years old and the father of five small children. He came here in 1947 as head of the Library's Circulation Department and two years ago was promoted to assistant to the librarian.

He was a native of Nashville, Tenn. and took his A.B. degree at Vanderbilt University.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—C. Wesley Roberts quit his $32,500 a year post as Republican national chairman Friday after a Kansas legislative investigating committee held that he violated the spirit of the state's lobbying law. President Eisenhower called the resignation a "wise decision." Roberts says he is the victim of a "carefully contrived" political plot in Kansas.

★

WASHINGTON—The Senate has approved Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow in a smashing 74 to 13 vote of confidence in President Eisenhower. The approval was also a slap in the face to Senator McCarthy who opposed the nomination on the grounds that Bohlen was an advocate of the Truman-Acheson foreign policies.

★

RALEIGH—The North Carolina Joint Appropriations subcommittee retreated behind closed doors Friday to work out the disposition of the State's tax funds. The committee is under heated attack by the press for its enactment of a law which allows it to bar the public from its meetings. The law has been labeled a "dangerous precedent."

★

NEW YORK—Mickey Jelke has been sentenced to three to six years in prison as an unrepentant Cafe Society procurer. He is already serving eight months on another charge. Pat Ward, sipping martinis in a nearby restaurant when she heard of the sentence commented it was only "a fraction of what he deserves."

Russia Expert To Talk Here

Dr. Clyde Kluckhohn, director of the Russian Research Center and professor of anthropology at Harvard University, will deliver a lecture in Gerrard Hall Wednesday night at 8:30.

Dr. Kluckhohn is being sponsored by the Institute for Research in Social Science and the Anthropology Club. He will speak on "The Problems of Values in Contemporary Civilization."

Author of a number of books and with extensive field work experience, he is one of the top ranking anthropologists.

Dr. Kluckhohn will serve, during his two-day visit here, as consultant on a Veterans Administration project being conducted by the University's Institute fro Research in Social Science.

Student Injured In Car Accident

John Peebles Watts, 22-year-old University student from Williamston, is undergoing treatment at Memorial Hospital as a result of an automobile accident near Durham this week.

Watts suffered a fractured right arm, fractured rib and multiple lacerations. He was taken to Watts Hospital in Durham but was moved to the Chapel Hill hospital after receiving emergency treatment.

The accident occured on the paved road leading from Nelson to the Raleigh-Durham Airport when the car Watts was driving left the road.

State Highway Patrolman Tom Moore, who investigated the mishap, said that Watts' car failed to make the curve at Iron Creek Bridge, skidded 102 feet, jumped the creek and went on for about 30 feet after striking the creek bank.

Science Must Recognize God, Says Teacher

By Jennie Lynn

Today's science is leaving out simple faith in God, said Dr. Eric C. Rust at a YWCA lecture last week.

"How can we as Christians respond to this scientific world?" was the question the doctor tried to answer. Dr. Rust is a British mathematical and atom physicist who became a Baptist theologian.

He said that scientific materialists assume that the only way to know reality is through "studying measurement—the weight of things and the way they are maneuvered."

"Scientists are concerned with generalizations," continued Dr. Rust. "They want to find what things have in common, the universality of things. How can universal truth be found by looking everywhere?" He said God and truth must be searched for "by going deep down into one person's experience of redemption at one point."

He pointed out that scientific materialism had its origin in religious faith. Aristotle's world was one of mind and matter. An acorn became an oak tree because an acorn was potentially an oak tree. There was a sort of "mental component within the acorn,' he said figuratively.

To Aristotle, said Dr. Rust, everything had an end and purpose and "moved in an attempt to satisfy its true nature.' He never troubled with experiment. He thought of nature as semi-divine, man to him had within himself all the thoughts of God, Dr. Rust continued.

He went on to explain how experimentation came with the Reformation. Dr. Rust said the first scientists were devout Christians.

A fundamental error occurred when Decartes began to separate mind and matter, he said. Matter has extension and can weighd. Mind cannot, he added. This, according to the doctor, began the long period of struggle between religion and scientisfs.

Fire At Inn

Burning grease on a stove in the kitchen of the Carolina Inn caused little damage yesterday morning according to the Chapel Hill Fire Department.

The blaze broke out at about 9:15 a.m. when grease on the stove became too hot. Fireman said it took only five minutes to extinguish the blaze.

New Easter Production Opening At Morehead

A beautiful presentation, "Easter, the Awakening," opened at Morehead Planetarium this week, explaining the Spring season in life-like reproductions.

A 45-minute production, the result of weeks of preparation, the presentation will run through April 20, with shows daily at 8:30 p.m. and in the afternoons on Saturdays at 3 and 4 o'clock and on Sundays at 2, 3, and 4 o'clock. Students get tickets at reduced rates.

The demonstration includes a 20-minute narration on the significance of Easter and the rebirth of Spring, utilizing science for determination of the exact dates of the events surrounding the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ.

"Having originated from the name of the Saxon goddess Eastre of Spring and fertility, the word Easter symbolizes the awakening of life from apparent death, manifest in both nature and mankind," manager A. Jenzano explained.

"We have tried to capture this glory of the season and combine it with the gripping story of Christ and the cross for our program," he said.

In accordance with its policy of inviting one campus group to every new show, Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority will be guests of the Planetarium tomorrow night.

Dorm Janitor Stole Letters; Goes To Jail

DURHAM March 28—(Special)—A 19-year-old former Negro janitor at Everett Dormitory at the University of North Carolina was sentenced this week in Federal Court here to 18 months in the reformatory for stealing mail.

Ernest E. Wilson pleaded guilty to charges after a postal inspector testified that Wilson stole two "test letters" at the dormitory. The letters, both containing $5 bills, were sent special delivery to the dormitory last December and left intwo students' rooms.

The postal inspector testified that the Chapel Hill Post Office had received many complaints about letters not being received by the students in the dormitory.

He said Wilson was arrested a few hours after the letters had been left in the dormitory rooms and that the two bills were found in his wallet. Wilson denied any knowledge of the other thefts, the postal inspector testified.

Miracle Man Franz Polgar Here Thursday

Dr. Franz Polgar will thrill students with mind miracles in a Memorial Hall program next Thursday night.

"Miracles of the Mind" is the name of the hypotic hocus pocus to be presented by SUAB. There is no admission charge.

Polgar is a leading hypnotist. Since coming to the United States more than 16 years ago, Polgar figures he has put more than a million people to sleep, usually with their willing assistance.

The Hungarian born hypnotist claims no supernatural powers and refuses to garnish his demonstrations with side show mumbo jumbo. However, every year he appears before 300 audiences in the U. S. leaving them happily befuddled by his implausible feats.

His act is right for television, admirers say, and he expects to have his own TV program soon. "I must be very careful though," says Polgar gravely "not to put the ten million people to sleep who watch me."

Polgar has been a frequent visitor to the campus, and SUAB officials said that they feel sure everyone will enjoy this show.

Vote 2nd Time For May Queen

Because one of the would-be May queens was ineligible, a second vote will be taken tomorrow to elect the coed to preside over the traditional ceremonies.

Voting will beheld for town students in the Dean of Women's office from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. tomorrow. University buildings residents will vote tomorrow night.

Sorority and dorm presidents are reminded theballots must be in to the dean's office by Tuesday at 2 p.m. Voters must vote for 10 coeds—no more, no less—or the ballots will be thrown out.

Criminology

A member of the University Extension Division said yesterday there is an immediate need for copies of Barnes and Tetters "New Horizons in Criminology".

The books, he said, will be used by North Carolina convict study groups. The study groups are being formed from among the most desperate convicts to study certain aspects of crimin ology and crime prevention.

Those students who will loan the book to the Extension Division are asked to call Richard McCleery, Ph. 9471.

Council Board To Name Seven To Seek Posts

The Student Council selection board will meet Monday from 3 until 6 o'clock and Tuesday from 4 to 6 o'clock in Roland Parker 3 to select candidates for the council.

Seven seats are to be filled in the spring election. Three are women's, one is to be filled by a man and three are at large seats, one of which is to be filled by a graduate student.

There are no specific requirements for Student Council except that each student must be at least a junior. The selection board wants thinking students capable of making decisions to serve on the stuent council, said Ted Frankel, chairman of the council and selections board.

Frankel explained that the board will give each candidate an equal opportunity to be endorsed. He urged all interested students to appear before the selections board.

Selection of Student Councils by a board rather than having them nominated by political parties as before, is result of a bill passed last quarter in Legislature.

The selection board is composed of the chairman of the Women's Residence Council, chairman of the IFC Court, chairman of the Law School honor court, chairman of the Medical School honor court, chairman of the Student Council as a non-vating member except in case of tie, one member appointed by the president and one appointed by the speaker of Legislature.

'I Can Afford It'

Repentant Realtor Advertises Good Life In Full-Page Ads

WASHINGTON, March 28 — (Special)—An anonymous realtor who "sinned" by "going to bars, overeating, overswearing and oversmoking" has been running full-page newspaper advertisements to help other people keep straight.

"If you have sinned and over done, there ought to be some way to tell other folks how to avoid the pitfalls," said Leon Ackerman. "The only way to do it, if you can afford it, is to advertise.

"I can afford it."

When Ackerman, a wealthy realtor, started buying full page ads in Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston and New York, he left out his name.

The ads first consisted of a single verse in the middle of a full page, at cost from $300 to $600 and up. The Biblical verses preached such doctrine as "Love Thy Neighbor" and "Love, the Greatest Gift."

Readers began telephoning the newspapers to learn the identity of the advertiser. So many persons called that the papers finally asked the man to sign his name.

Ackerman agreed, under protest. He now signs his name in small type at the bottom of the ads. He never mentions his real estate business or makes any identification of himself.

"I came to this country as a poor lad," Ackerman said. "I made a lot of money. I made it all honest. But I sinned . . .

"I think that it is only right that in my advertising I should carry the theme forward that he who understands love, understands love, understands God and God is love."

Three From Here Attend Seminar In Washington

John Nicholson and Alve and Benny Stewart recently attended the Meet Your Government Seminar held in Washington.

Purpose of the seminar, sponsored by the national student YM and YWCA, wasto observe the process of federal government and to show the relevance of the Christian faith to political life.

Spaghetti

Eat spaghetti and send a gal to school, advises Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

Tonight the Tri Delts are holding an "all you can eat" spaghetti supper from 6 to 8 o'clock for the price of $1 a guest. Purpose of the benefit is to raise money for the local Tri Delt scholarship fund which awards a coed scholarship.

Tickets at the door (210 Pittsboro St.); come early; eat all you want, the coed sponsors say.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull | Adv. Mgrs. Charles Collins, Charles Haskett
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter | Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Pete Adams, Bob Mason, Bob Wolfe, Eleanor Saunders, Buddy Harper, Dorman Cordell, Ned Whitmore.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night editor for this issue: Louis Kraar

Not Wanted

White Arayan clauses in fraternity constitutions are outmoded relics. For young men, especially, who are supposed to be freer from prejudices than older folk, the "No Jews" stipulations are archaic.

Phi Delta Theta at Williams College has pledged a Jew, probably because the brothers like the man for what he is. For this liking, the chapter has violated the law and has been kicked out of national affiliation. At Brown, Phi Dels are planning to pledge "several" Jews, also because they happen to think that they will make a good brother.

The comment, "Isn't he a Jew" that pops up during rush week is as important a qualification as whether a man has a good personality or not for some fraternities. Action at these two Northern chapters however, is indicative of progress.

Phi Delts here like the status quo. They won't be thinking about the problem until 1954 when he national convention will be held. Probably, if the members took a vote now, they would continue to uphold the "No Jews" qualification. While we think men have a right to get togeher with the people they like, we also think it is morally indefensible to count men out because of a national background. The Phi Delt constitution, incidentally, excludes Chinese, Negroes, and Japanese, among others.

We like the policy of choosing an associate as an individual rather than as a representative of some nationality, race, or creed.

Freedom From Fear

"Many college campuses today are suffering from excess fear and caution," Benjamin Fine recently reported in the New York Times.

A panel discussing academic freedom convention found that professors won't talk about controversial issues. They are afraid of being called Communist fronters. This fear even extends to the discussion of social and economic problems.

The "fear philosophy" has implications. Colleges seeking outstanding professorial talent won't be able to get it. Fine reports that Dr. Carter Davidson, president of Union College, has said that colleges will have difficulty in attracting the brilliant minds; that brilliant minds just won't go into an academic career.

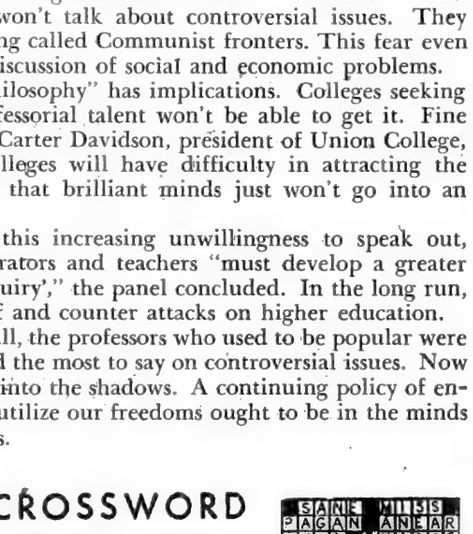
To counter this increasing unwillingness to speak out, college administrators and teachers "must develop a greater faith in 'free inquiry'," the panel concluded. In the long run, freedom pays off and counter attacks on higher education.

At Chapel Hill, the professors who used to be popular were the ones who had the most to say on controversial issues. Now they are pushed into the shadows. A continuing policy of encouragement to utilize our freedoms ought to be in the minds of all our leaders.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Present
5. A colt or filly
9. Medley
10. Contest of speed
11. Level
12. Leader of Protestant Reformation
14. King (L.)
15. Raised platform
16. Sun god
17. Gold (her.)
18. Courage (slang)
19. Through
20. Trapped
22. Impolite
23. Benchlike seat in church
24. Gain
25. Arab coasting vessel
27. Stabbed
30. Help
31. District of a city
32. Greek letter
33. Part of "to be"
34. Weird (var.)
35. Open (poet.)
36. Frying pan
38. God of war (Gr.)
39. Frosted
40. Persia
41. A Hebrew tribe (poss.)
42. French novelist



DOWN

1. Rule
2. The holm oak
3. Paddle-like process
4. Toward
5. A food
6. Food for horses
7. Indian tree
8. Looked slyly
11. God of love
12. Placed
13. Unusual
15. Hauled
18. Flourished
19. Decayed wood used as tinder
21. Footless
22. Skin
24. Lean and sinewy
25. Raised platform
26. Rough with bristles
27. Young salmon
28. Disburse
29. Perishes
31. Obnoxious plants
34. Paradise
35. Seaport (Algeria)
37. River (So. Am.)
38. Constellation
40. Part of "to be"

2-24

Yesterday's Answer

A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

More Types

Ron Levin left out some very important types of people on campus in his column last Friday. He talked about individualists, nonconformists, Bohemians, pseudo-intellectuals, and intellectuals. But these people, with the exception of the pseudo-intellectuals, all belong to one general class and they are decidedly in the minority on this campus, and, in fact, on every campus.

One type Ron Levin left out and which epitomizes a very large percentage of the individuals at UNC is the white buck (or Cordovan) wearing Cashmere sweater wearing, gray flannel (searsucker in Spring) wearing, striped tie wearing guy who loves to ride around in convertibles, drink gallons of beer, buy more clothes, date beautiful girls with "personality", play poker (but never check and raise), and send the bills home to Pop. This guy likes Ray Anthony, Marilyn Monroe, Archaeology courses, Dean Martin, Archaeology courses, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, and very little else. He reads Esquire, The Saturday Evening Post, Mickey Spillane, Sport, Look and the sports page of the daily newspapers, and he has seen Hollywood's version of The Snows of Kilimanjaro and if his date one night is partially bookish, he can talk about Ernest Hemingway with facility. He is especially (or exclusively) partial to white Anglo-Saxons and is impressed with clean cutness and an all-American boy. He would like nothing better than to revert back to the days of King Arthur and feudalism, and when he leaves college, he will still have piles of dough.

Another Carolina type is the sun bathing, T shirt rolled over the shoulder, pegged pants wearing, squirrel tail, side burn, key chain wearing guy who thinks that anybody that doesn't like Dixieland is a square, and he doesn't want to go to Paris, in fact, he doesn't want to go anywhere, for the grand old state of North Carolina is good enough for him any old time. This guy reads pulp magazines and he saw Snows of Kilimanjaro too (just as he has every other movie that has come to Chapel Hill except the J. Arthur Rank ones), but he doesn't care who wrote the original story. For all he knows, it was written by Gregory Peck. This guy never speaks to a professor except in class because he doesn't want peaple to say that he's sucking around. And when he graduates, he will very likely join the Ku Klux Klan.

The two types have much in common. They are very careful in their dress, whether it's pegged purple pants or gray flannel, and their interests are limited to sex, football, contemporary music, Hollywood, beer, fast cars, and crip courses. Both types laugh or sneer at anything different: people carrying their books under their arms instead of on their hips, people who don't go to football games, people who like to read, foreigners, liberals, people on the fencing team, people who button all the buttons on their sport cotas, and agnostics. And neither type would get within ten yards of Danziger's. Both types will do anything that's a fad at the time: cut their pants off at the knees, go barefoot on Senior Day, wear little blue hats with "Beat Notre Dame" on them up to New York, or grow beards during the spring, but neither would do any such thing as an individual for a hundred million dollars.

The Board of Trustees and the Alumni seem to me to be mere reflections of the present student body. Most of them were students once themselves. They are the same as the students except they ar older. With such a prevailing atmosphere of stagnant, reactionary defeatism, is there any wonder that there are Saturday classes and Book Exchange profits?

Norman Jarrard

Across The River

Ernest Hemingway's Across the River and Into the Trees is now available in pocketbook form (Dell, 320 pp.). When the book was first published in 1950 it was Hemingway's first book since For Whom the Bell Tolls (1940), The book reviewers attacked it with more violence than any other book has ben subjected to that I know about. There are a number of reasons besides the merit of the book which would explain why that was so, but this is no place to talk about that. It can probably be taken as a maxim that any book so violently handled will turn out to be not such a bad book at all. Some of the reviewers must have been shocked by their concerted display of ferocity because later criticism has ben more temperate and some what apologetic.

The Old Man and the Sea, two years later, afforded some more insight into the psychology of reviewers. It was received with almost unbelievable praise. True to form, subsequent criticism has tended to belittle the book. It's as true as it ever was that you have to read the books yourself in order to find out if they were worth reading. That's why in this column I am not primarily interested in rating a book as a whole. I try to find something interesting or praiseworthy in everything I read, and since I am not forced to review anything I don't want to, I usually find that something. If I can get across the flavor of the book that will be enough.

Across the River is the story of a demoted general, Colonel Cantwell, who is spending his last days in and around Venice. The Colonel goes on his last hunting trip, eats and drinks in the familiar Hemingway manner, makes love to the beautiful Countess Renata, and manages to purge himself of the effects of a long line of past troubles.

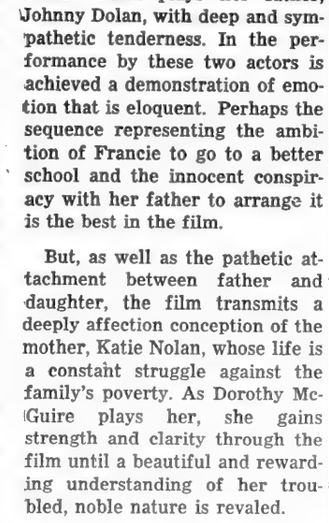
The story is framed with the duck shooting episode, then the events of the two or three previous days are filled in by flashback. In that respect the book hangs together very well. The duck shoot, by the way, is about found worth praising. But there are other things. Something that amuses me in retrospect is the Colonel as political prophet. He didn't like General Eisenhower and says as much. Of Eisenhower he says, "Strictly the Epworth League. . . . An excellent politician. Political General. Very able at it." Later, he alludes to Eisenhower when he refers to "some politician in uniform who has never killed in his life, except with his mouth over the telephone, or on paper, nor ever has been hit. Figure him as our next President if you want him. Figure him and his people, the whole great establishment, so far back that the best way to communicate with them rapidly would be by racing carrier pigeons. Except, with the amount of security they maintained for their proper persons, they would probably have their anti-aircraft shoot the pigeons down. If they could hit them."

Food and dring is often an important part of a Hemingway story. In this one, one of the parts I liked best describes the Colonel's visit alone to the market. The chapter begins, "He loved the market, A great part of it was close packed and crowded into several side streets, and it was so concentrated that it was difficult not to jostle people unintentionally, and each time you stopped to look, to buy, or to ad-

(See ACROSS, page 3)

Herb Cohn

Reviews and Previews



Tomorrow night at 7:30 P.M. in Garrard Hall, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" will be shown, sponsored by Hillel Foundation and the Y.M.C.A. Dr. Lee Brooks of the Sociology Department will lead the discussion that follows.

"A Tree Grows in Brooklyn", by Chapel Hill's Betty Smith, is the rare and tender story of a valient and sensitive little girl reaching hopefully for spiritual fulfillment in a wretchedly meager home. It is the story of the love she gathered from a father who was a cheerful ne'er-do-well and of the painful peace she made with her mother after the adored father had died.

Peggy Ann Garner, with her plain face and lank hair, is Miss Smith's Francie Nolan to the life. James Dunn plays her father, Johnny Dolan, with deep and sympathetic tenderness. In the performance by these two actors is achieved a demonstration of emotion that is eloquent. Perhaps the sequence representing the ambition of Francie to go to a better school and the innocent conspiracy with her father to arrange it is the best in the film.

But, as well as the pathetic attachment between father and daughter, the film transmits a deeply affection conception of the mother, Katie Nolan, whose life is a constant struggle against the family's poverty. As Dorothy McGuire plays her, she gains strength and clarity through the film until a beautiful and rewarding understanding of her troubled, noble nature is revaled.

Joan Blondell gives a sketchy conception of a warm character as Aunt Sissy. Ted Donaldson is enjoyable as the healthy, little lad of the brood. Lloyd Nolan ably portrays the policeman. James Gleason makes a vivid pub owner, and Ferike Boros is fine as the grandmother in a generally excellent cast.

"Well, he's not the perfect butler . . . but at least he never forgets the Angostura* in a Manhattan!"

ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. You shouldn't forget either—that besides adding zest and tang to a Manhattan, just a dash or two of Angostura brings out the full flavor of soups and sauces.

A story of a woman who thought she was a star so high in the sky no man could touch her!

co-starring STERLING HAYDEN with NATALIE WOOD • WARNER ANDERSON
MINOR WATSON • JUNE TRAVIS
Original Story and Screenplay by KATHERINE ALBERT and DALE EUNSON
Music Composed and Conducted by VICTOR YOUNG
Directed by STUART HEISLER • A 20th Century-Fox Release

Carolina — TODAY AND MONDAY

IMPORTED

Irish Moygashel Linen

SPORTCOATS BY Cricketeer

In every man's collection of clothes, there's bound to be one special favorite. Well, make room for your new favorite . . . Cricketeer's imported Moygashel Linen sportcoat. It's smartly styled, crisp and clean-looking. A loose knit, porous fabric that literally breathes refreshing, cool air IN . . . as it exhales body warmth. Tastefully correct in any company, your Moygashel Linen sportcoat will see plenty of action during the scorching days ahead.

LIGHTWEIGHT SLACKS TO BLEND WITH — 29.50

We've a fine selection of lightweight slacks to go with your new Moygashel Linen Sportcoat. 5.95 to 16.95

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Duke Program This Week Is Ultra-Heavy

With the baseball team facing Pennsylvania in Ace Parker's home coaching debut tomorrow, Duke University's spring sports will have their heaviest program of the year this week.

There are 15 events on the week's slate and all of them are at Duke with the baseball club leading the way with a game daily.

Parker's crew meets Penn again tomorrow at 3:30 and at the same time the tennis outfit will make its home debut against Michigan State at three o'clock.

On Wednesday it will be baseball versus Lehigh and the lacrosse outfit opens its card against Williams.

Thursday the baseballers go against Michigan State, the tennis team meets New England champion Amherst and the golfers make their home start against Ohio University.

Friday the baseball team continues against Michigan State, the lacrosse team faces Cornell and the golfers meet Florida.

Saturday is the biggest day of the week. The Blue Devil nine faces Williams, the track team opens at home against Navy, the netters face Precbyterian and all day long in the Duke swimming pool will be staged the annual Invitational Interscholastic Swimming Meet.

Thus, the students, who resumed classes today after spring holidays, and the fans will be given a full variety of athletic events.

In baseball, Coach Parker has many holes to plug in the team that last year won Southern Conference and District Three NCAA titles. Several of the "big guns" at bat are gone and some of the better defensive performers from last year are also missing. In all, not available from the great 1952 outfit are two pitchers, two catchers, an infielder and four outfielders.

Tennis Match

The Carolina tennis team, winners of its first match by 9-0, meet Harvard tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock on the varsity courts.

There will be 15 individual matches played instead of the usual nine to allow the coaches to see more of their team in competition.

Carolina Wins, 11-9

Camp Lejeune, March 28 — (Special)—Carolina scored three runs in the top of the ninth inning to beat Michigan State, 11-9.

This win was the second Tar Heel victory in two days over Michigan.

Bill Lore was the winning pitcher.

—Across—

(Continued from page 2)

mire, you formed an ilot de resistance against the flow of the morning attack of the purchasers.

"The Colonel liked to study the spread and high piled cheeses and the great sausages. People at home think mortadella is a sausage he thought.

"Then he said to the woman in the booth, 'Let me try a little of that sausage, please. Only a sliver.'

"She cut a thin, paper thin slice for him, ferociously, and lovingly, and when the Colonel tasted it, there was the half smokey, black pepper-corned, true flavor of the meat from the hogs that ate acorns in the mountains.

"'I will take a quarter of a kilo.'"

Golf Exhibition Is Tomorrow; Swimmers Score In NCAA

Tomorrow three of North Carolina's golfing greats will display thei talents on Finley Course here so that a future star might get a start.

Julius Boros, Harvie Ward and Johnny Palmer, with Tennessee's great Cary Middlecoff, will play an 18 hole engagement at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Proceeds from the match will send a Tar Heel star, the N. C. Jaycee Junior champion, to Ann Arbor, Mich. for the National Jaycee championship meet this summer. A portion of the proceeds will also go into the P.G.A. Relief Fund.

The match will pit Ward against Middlecoff and Boros over the tough par 72 Finley Course just off the Raleigh Road near the University of North Carolina campus.

Ward and Palmer are former Carolinas Junior champions. Ward is from Tarboro, and now lives in Atlanta, while the colorful Palmer is aBadin native. Boros registers out of Mid Pines and Middlecoff hails from Memphis.

COLUMBUS, O., March 28—(Special)—A third in the 400 yd. free style relay and a sixth in the 200 yd. backstroke by Warren Heeman gave Carolina's swimming team nine points in the finals of the NCAA meet here yesterday.

Favored Yale was far in advance of the field, followed by host school Ohio State, but Carolina's showing was one of the best ever made by a Southern school in the NCAA's.

The Carolina relay team of Jack Edwards, Don Evans, Stan Tinkham, and Buddy Baarcke finished in 3:31.7 just six seconds of the record time. Heeman swam his event in 2:17.1.

Carolina could pick up some more points today, depending on its qualifying heats for the rest of the finals. Edwards is swimming in the 100-yd freestyle heat, Baarcke in the 100-yd. backstroke, Evans in the medley, and the Carolina medley relay team can qualify.

Yoshi Oyakawa Ohio State's Olympic and NCAA champion, won the 200 yd. backstroke in the record time of 2:05.1. His time is two seconds less than the old record, and is the fastest time recorded for this event in the world.

Michigan's 400-yd. freestyle relay team set a new record while successfully defending its championship in 3:24. Yale also shaded the old record, taking second in 3:25.4.

COME TO THE END OF THE MONTH SALE

Unicorn Book Shop
DIAL 9-6173

COTTON CORD SUITS!

3-BUTTON, FLAP POCKETS IN BABY CORD—TROUSERS WITH AND WITHOUT PLEATS—LIGHT BLUE, TAN, AND DARK BLUE

COTTON CORD SLACKS

LIGHT BLUE AND TAN

6.95

THE TOWN & CAMPUS

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR PAUL felt down under when his girl said, "Your sloppy hair kangaruins our friendship. Never pouch your arms around me again until you high tail it to a toilet goods counter for some Wildroot Cream-Oil. Contains Lanolin. Non-alcholic. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms the hair. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Get it or you'll kangaroo the day!" Sheedy tried Wildroot Cream-Oil and now all the girls are hopped up about him. Better reach in your pocket for 29¢ and buy Wildroot Cream-Oil in either bottle or tube. You kangarong cause it puts real punch into your social life. Ask for it on your hair at any barber shop too, and get a jump ahead of all the other guys!

*of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N.Y.

Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.

out-of-this world EASTER CARDS

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

YOU'RE INVITED!

For real convenience plus safety, handle your expenses and pay your bills by check. All accounts are welcome regardless of size. Open your account today. The cost is so very small. Make our bank your "banking home away from home."

FOR THAT NEXT TIP CARRY SAFE, SPENDABLE TRAVELERS CHECKS—ONLY 75c PER $100

The Bank of Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL CARRBORO

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

UNLOCKING THE DOOR

IT WILL GRIP YOU... IT MAY SHOCK YOU... BUT YOU CANNOT FAIL TO BE MOVED BY ITS COURAGE — DARING — REALITY!

The J. ARTHUR RANK ORGANISATION presents

WHITE CORRIDORS

GOOGIE WITHERS • JAMES DONALD

GODFREY TEARLE • PETULA CLARK

with

MOIRA LISTER • JACK WATLING • BARRY JONES

Adapted from the novel "Yeoman's Hospital" by Helen Ashton • Screenplay by Jan Read and Pat Jackson
Produced by Joseph Janni and John Croydon • Directed by Pat Jackson A FINE ARTS FILMS RELEASE

T-O-D-A-Y—Monday

Varsity

BREAKFAST

Served

ALL DAY

AT

THE NEW UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT

SUNDAY DINNER SPECIAL

Country Ham Steak

and

Buttermilk Biscuits

THE COOLEST, FRIENDLIEST ATMOSPHERE IN TOWN

FORGET?

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO PLACE THAT

EASTER FLOWER ORDER

NOW

LOCALLY OR BY WIRE

We're Well Equipped To Help You

at

UNIVERSITY FLORIST

Robbins Bldg.

Only time will tell about an idea! And only time will tell about a cigarette! Take your time...

Test CAMELS for 30 days for MILDNESS and FLAVOR

THERE MUST BE A REASON WHY

Camel is America's most popular cigarette—leading all other brands by billions! Camels have the two things smokers want most—rich, full flavor and cool, cool mildness... pack after pack! Try Camels for 30 days and see how mild, how flavorful, how thoroughly enjoyable they are as your steady smoke!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

More People Smoke CAMELS than any other cigarette

Student Party

The Student Party will meet tomorrow night at 8:30 in Roland Parker Lounges. Remaining nominations will be made.

Summer Jobs In ISRAEL

for

Advanced Professional and Technical Students

JULY THROUGH SEPTEMBER

For Details Write to:
PATWA SUMMER WORK PROGRAM
Department C
The Jewish Agency for Palestine
16 East 66th Street
New York 21, New York

see ISRAEL

JULY-AUGUST

A Non-Profit Educational Project

TRAVEL throughout Israel.

LIVE 2 weeks in agricultural settlements.

LEARN about Israel in Jerusalem from faculty of Hebrew University and leading personalities. 7 weeks in Israel—Stopover in Europe.

APPLICANTS BETWEEN 18-35

Write now for information to:

ISRAEL SUMMER INSTITUTE
Jewish Agency for Palestine
16 E. 66 ST. NEW YORK 21, NEW YORK

What Goes On Here

Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will meet tomorrow at 4:30 in Hill Hall.

★

Cosmopolitan Club

The University's Japanese students will present a program entitled "Nippon Afternoon" this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Rendezvous Room. It will include a technicolor film on Japanese scenery, Japanese music and refreshments.

★

IDC

The IDC will meet tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the Alumni Building.

★

Sketch Class

The Wednesday night sketch class which has been offered for the last three months will begin again April 1 at 7 o'clock. The class will be taught by Mr. George Kachergis of the Art Department. Anyone interested in modeling for this class is requested to contact Lynette Warren at Person Art Gallery.

★

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional fraternity in business administration, held a formal pledge ceremony last week. Pledged were Don G. Angell, Winston-Salem; Lacy G. Baynes, Greensboro; Thomas H. Bridges, Shelby; William C. Casper, China Grove; Marvin L. Green, Durham; Samuel T. Ingram, Sanford; Lamont D. Krimminger, Kannapolis; Jafes I. Miller, West Jefferson; Herman A. Sampson, Greensboro; Al G. Stanley, Whiteville; John M. Stuart, Shelby and Arthur M. Winstead, Roxboro.

IN YOUR CHURCH

Lutheran

Palm Sunday will be observed with special music and sermon by the Lutheran Church at 11 o'clock today. The choir is under direction of Billy Chance, soprano soloist Marthan Heygel will sing and Charol Bernasek will be organist. The sermon will be entitled "The King Almighty Has Come".

Episcopal

The Chapel of the Cross will hold communion at 8 o'clock and morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock today.

The Caunterbury Club will meet at 6 o'clock tonight with Rev. James A. Carpenter from Pittsboro as speaker. Evening prayer will be at 8 o'clock tonight.

Unitarian

The Unitarian fellowship meeting will be at 8:30 tonight at the YWCA lounge. Discussion will be led by Charles N. Vickery on "the Pros and Cons of Proposed Federation Plan of Unitarians and Universalists."

Catholic

The Newman Club will meet this afternoon at 5:30 on the second floor of the Lenoir Hall. Father Weidinger will continue lectures on Catholic courtship and marriages.

Mass is held daily in Gerrard Hall at 7:20 a.m. Confessions are heard before daily mass and on Saturday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Mass on Sunday is at 8 and 9:30 a.m. in Gerrard Hall.

Baptist

The BSU supper forum will meet at 6 o'clock tonight. A panel discussion on "How would I spend a half million dollars for my church?" will be the program. Douglas Isaacs, Gray Dixon, Alice Page and Frances Lee Taylor will participate in the discussion. Rev. John Ensign, pastor of the New Hope and Efland Presbyterian churches, will be a special guest. Supper will be served for 50 cents.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR RENT

2 BEDROOMS TO LADIES OR COUPLE with or without kitchen privileges. Very reasonable. Phone 9-6841. (1—c3490-2)

HELP WANTED

MAN OR WOMAN WITH CAR—Greensboro Daily News-Record for Chapel Hill and vicinity. Good Proposition. Car expenses. Write News-Record, Greensboro, N. C. (1—c3488-5)

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.
OPEN EVENINGS

Prayer Books

Red, Black or White
$2.25 to $15.00

Bibles

King James, Revised Standard and Goodspeed Translations
$2.50 to $19.00

Easter Books For Children

Religious Books

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

In Durham It's

OLSON'S MUSIC STORE

For Complete Lines of

Woodwinds, Recorders, Brass, Accessories
Accordions, Guitars, Music, Reeds

Our Specialty

Band Instrument Repair

105 W. Parrish St.—Phone 3-4541

PREPARE FOR AN EXECUTIVE CAREER IN RETAILING — IN JUST ONE YEAR!

From New York to New Zealand, college graduates converge on "The Retailing Center" to train for an exciting, rewarding career—in just one year! Retailers need you—and look to our graduate school—for future advertising managers, buyers, merchandise managers, fashion executives, store managers, personnel administrators, researchers. Prominent retailers send their sons and daughters to the N.Y.U. School of Retailing to help carry on the family business successfully. Our one-year Master's Degree program includes courses in all branches of retail-store management, under well-known specialists, plus 10 full weeks of supervised executive training, with pay, in leading New York stores, plus valuable store and market contacts.

For details, write for BULLETIN CJ

New York University School of Retailing
100 Washington Equare East, New York 3, New York

IF YOU CAN WIN THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer—in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to take Aviation Cadet Training?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instructions and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws. Veterans who have completed a tour of military service will be discharged upon request if they fail to complete the course.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instructions. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches (navigation, bombardment, etc.). The basic and advanced phases of training vary, depending on the specific course you pursue.

What kind of airplanes will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instructions in a light, civilian-type plane of approximately 100 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-29 Convair, and the TB-50 Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers, get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and become eligible to apply for a regular Air Force Commission when they have completed 18 months of active duty.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation from the Aviation Cadet Program, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially for the first few weeks. However, it is not all work. You'll find swimming pools, handball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot or navigator rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS

Visit your nearest Air Force Base, Air Force Recruiting Officer, or your nearest Air Force ROTC Unit. Or write to:
AVIATION CADET, HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AIR FORCE
Washington 25, D. C.

U.S. AIR FORCE

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave _____ 25.00 Value 9.95

DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave 15.00 Value 6.95

Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave 12.50 Value 5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT _____ $10 up

Each Wave Includes

- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

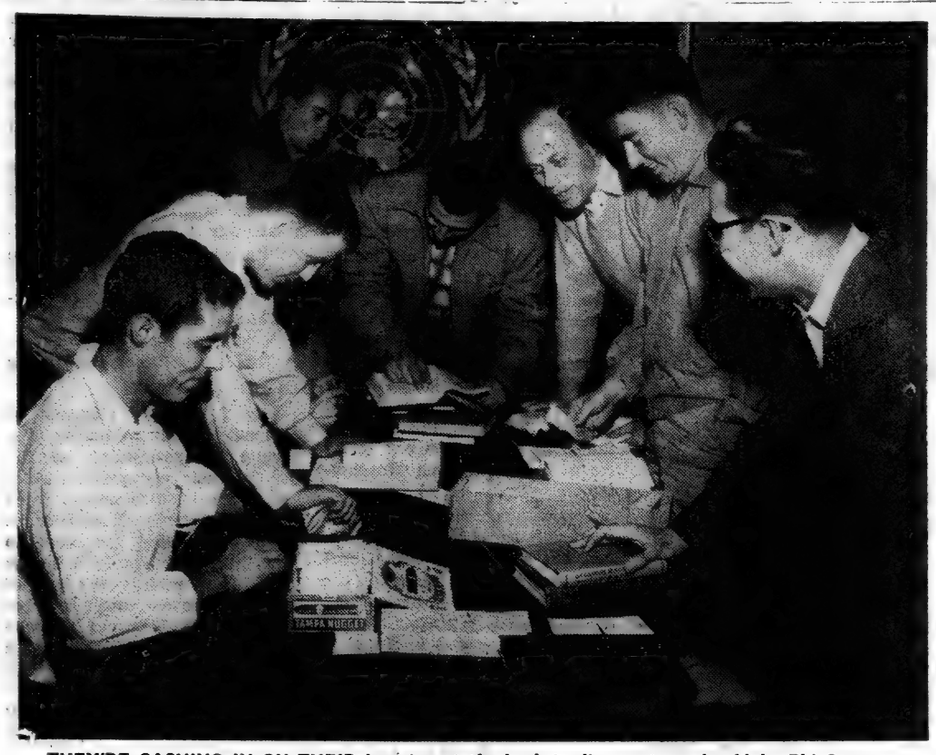
HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

Buy Now!

EASTER CARDS

—Now On Display—
LEDBETTER-PICKARD

Sunday April 5th Is The Day



U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Cloudy and warmer with 70 high. Yesterday's high, 60; low, 40.

The Daily Tar Heel

SLAM
Horton, Adams get a lecture from the editors today. Their admonition on p. 2.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 118 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

THEY'RE CASHING IN ON THEIR learning at the book trading post run by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity. The APO-operated post takes students' books and resells them at the prices set by the students. From left to right are Harold Austin, Ruffin Woody, Jerry Cook (background), Bruce Marger, unidentified student, John Earnhardt Jr. and Bill Sessoms. The post will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. tomorrow and Thursday from 2 until 6 p.m. for students to get their money. The post will close for the quarter after that.—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

Pratelli On Coldcuts & Colleges

Italian Scholar Wins Struggle With New World Foods, Talk

By Walt Dear

"My home town is famous for its food and its university. But when you think of the name of Bologna, you Americans can only thing of the meat used for coldcuts," said Dr. Jino Pratelli, Italian Fullbright scholar visiting here last week.

Since coming to America eight months ago, Dr. Pratelli has visited Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Chicago, and more recently, Georgia Tech and Carolina. He is a civil engineer chiefly interested in regional planning. As guest speaker to the Planner's Forum, a graduate club for students in city and regional planning, he outlined some of the problems of regional planning in Italy.

Dr. Pratelli spent much of his time here talking with students, reading in the library, and enjoying the cmapus. Though Bologna does have rich food ("I need to take a long rest after dinner") it also has the oldest university in Europe, according to the engineer.

Eating in Chapel Hill Friday night, Dr. Pratelli had his first experience with a deviled crab, a delicacy which he enjoyed. One needed a dictionary with an illustration to define the crab adequately. The doctor was disappointed when the half shell crab appeared on the plate. "This is not the same as in the picture," he commented.

While visiting libraries in this country, Dr. Pratelli noted that most of them lack copies of foreign periodicals. "In Italy, we have the United States Information Service (a State Department agency which supplies pamphlets and books about America), while here Americans don't get a good picture of European countries," he said.

Dr. Pratelli's Italian accent is strong, but his vocabulary is excellent and he has a nicety of definition that enriches his conversation. He explained that he had had three years of English in high school, but didn't use the language much until he boarded the steamer for America. "I talked my way into understanding by conversing with as many Americans on board as possible." Former Daily Tar Heel editor and linguist Barry Farber, on liberty from the Army, exchanged greetings in Italian during the dinner.

YMCA To Elect New Officers Tonight; 4 Already Nominated

The YMCA picks its officers for the coming year tonight at 7 o'clock in the Y building, second floor.

A slate has been provided by the Nominating Committee and additional nominations may be made from the floor. Nominated by the committee are President Ned Harbin, Vice-President Robert Hyatt, Secretary Susan Fink and Treasurer Stuart Jones.

Harvin, a rising senior from Winston-Salem, has been chairman of the Committee on Work With International Students. He directed the deputations of foreign students to Mount Airy and Pittsboro. He has also been active in the YMCA World Relatedness Commission, the World Understanding Supper Forums and various YMCA weekend conferences at Camp New Hope.

Hyatt is a rising junior from Cherokee. He is chairman of the Christian Faith and Heritage Commission. He has been active in the YMCA since his freshman year, and has directed several weekend conferences. He was one of the representatives to the Southern Area Student YMCA Council meetings.

Miss Fink is a rising sophomore from Chapel Hill and has been active in the Freshman Friendship Council, the YMCA UN Committee and the Weekend Work Camp Committee.

Jones is a rising senior from Winston-Salem and has been active in the World Relatedness Commission, the World Understanding Supper Forum and the World Student Service Fund Committee. He

(See YMCA, page 2)

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—Sen. McCarthy and his Senate investigations subcommittee are "undermining" the work of executive agencies seeking to cut off trade between the West to Iron Curtain areas. Speaking face to face Harold E. Stassen told the senator on a televised subcommittee hearing, you are in effect undermining and are harmful to our objective." Stassen is mutual security director. "I frankly feel we are helping you," McCarthy answered. McCarthy announced over the weekend his Senate group has negotiated on its own an agreement with Greek owners of 242 ships to break off trade with North Korea and Red China.

Stassen asked if McCarthy, in making the agreement, agreed to call off an investigation of the Greek owners. "That is no concern of yours," the senator tartly answered.

★

LONDON—The Chinese Reds yesterday broadcast a new offer to end the Korean war. They proposed that all war prisoners be returned home immediately. The others would be turned over to a "neutral state." The Reds, however, said they did not "acknowledge the assertion of the UN that there are among the prisoners of war individuals who allegedly refuse repatriation."

★

CHICAGO—At least 54 persons were dead from two weekend tragedies, the National Safety Council said yesterday. Twenty-one were dead from a New York Central Railroad crash of two passenger trains and a freight. Property damage alone is expected to exceed a million dollars. In Largo, Fla., 32 patients and a nurse died in a fire which destroyed a one-story nursing home.

CAMPUS SEEN

Campus visitor asking, "Which way to the Coliseum?"

Franklin St. audience cheering as B-V-P males extract kite from tree, then get frail craft wind-borne in cantankerous March breeze.

Ferocious looking boxer canine trotting across campus with cow bell in mouth ringing merrily.

Men Can Make Deposits For Summer, Fall Rooms

Men students may now make deposits to reserve rooms for summer sessions and the Fall semester.

Males wishing to reserve rooms for summer sessions must pay a $15 deposit to the University Cashier by April 20. Those reserving rooms for the fall semester may make the regular $6 deposit also at the Cashier's desk.

All dorms will be open for the summer sessions except Whitehead, Everett, Alexander, Lewis and Cobb.

Matthews For Clean Campaign

Wade Matthews, independent presidential candidate, yesterday pledged a "clean and constructive campaign" and outlined an 11-poin' platform.

Matthews is a former member of both political parties. He is from Winston-Salem and served in Legislature since last Spring under the banner of both parties. He was one of the four prospective Student Party vice-presidential candidates, but lost to Baxter Miller.

"The platform represents what I believe to be some of the most important needs of the student body and student government. It is, however, far from complete since the suggestions made to me during the course of the campaign will compose a large part of the final program," the independent candidate said.

His platform promised to:

1. Work for installment of telephones on each floor of every dormitory.

2. Publish a weekly information sheet on events in the executive branch of student government.

3. Work for regular Infirmary visiting hours.

4. Establish more recreational opportunities on weekends.

5. Centralize voting places.

6. Work with the administration to establish a more liberal class cut policy, higher pay scale for self-help students, coed visiting in all men's dormitory social rooms and better administration-student relations.

7. Put more emphasis on graduate students' needs.

8. Oppose any plan to restrict students from keeping automobiles on campus.

9. Urge closer contact and more co-operation between student bodies of Carolina, WC and State.

10. Conduct all business in a non-partisan manner, letting majority student opinion prevail on important issues, including NSA.

11. Appoint students to all student government positions entirely on the basis of qualifications rather than political affiliation.

Sumner Won't 'Pound Doors'

Newest independent Tommy Sumner said yesterday that he plans to "go where the students can hear what I have to offer" and give a series of dormitory discussion programs.

"Students have complained for years about having their studies interrupted by politicos coming around and pounding on their doors throughout the evenings preceding elections. For this reason I am not going to conduct a 'door-pounding' campaign," declared Sumner.

"I will appear at announced times and dates in the social rooms of the various dormitories to present my views and to answer questions," he added.

Butler Dies Of Injuries; Services Held Yesterday

Services were held yesterday for Dr. Pierce Butler of Chicago who died Saturday night in a Burlington hospital of injuries suffered in an auto-truck collision Thursday.

Dr. Butler who was 66, was visiting professor in the University School of Library Science. He was an author, an authority on the history of books and libraries and an ordained Episcopal minister in Chicago.

He was a passenger in the car in which George Bentley, assistant to the librarian of the University, was killed in a collision Thursday night near Burlington.

Dr. Butler was taken to the Burlington Hospital. Two other passengers in the car were injured.

Young Adults

There will be a meeting of the Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Wesley Lounge of the church.

An Editorial

Revival Needed

Dead for a quarter, the Carolina Quarterly seeks a financial revival Thursday night when a bill asking for help will be introduced.

Subscribers to the campus literary magazine got no issue during the Winter berm but will get two issues this quarter—One, an all campus affair, according to the editors.

The Quarterly in the last few years has sagged financially and, in the eyes of many students, also in the literary realm. The charges are: 1. The Quarterly does not carry on the traditions of good writing that the University of North Carolina is known for. 2. The magazine is too aloof from students. 3. It does not contribute to the fulfillment of the needs of students with literary minds.

Such charges, true or not are grave. They are worthy of the best consideration for they represent the feelings of many students. We feel that the Quarterly is making an attempt to vaporize his discontent. From what we can learn, they have sought financial help from everywhere possible and are getting it; they have made an earnest endeavor to secure more student material, and they have tried to make the magazine more appealing.

As the Faculty Advisory Board meets to choose an editor today, they should also seek some long range plans for putting the Quarterly on a sound footing. The need for a good literary magazine has not diminished. The potentialities of a tradition established in 1844 and continued by outstanding Carolinians including Thomas Wolfe are everpresent.

Valkyrie Sing Tomorrow Night; Outstanding Coed To Be Named

The annual Valkyrie Sing will fill the air at Memorial Hall tomorrow night, with 13 campus organizations offering long-practiced song and costume acts.

Competition will be judged by Edgar Alden, Foster Fitz-Simons, William Poteat, Mrs. Fred McCall and Wallace E. Caldwell.

Also on the program will be the presentation of the Senior Girl Cup, given annually to the campus' outstanding senior coed.

Sororities who have prepared programs for the Sing are Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Delta and Pi Beta Phi. Participating fraternities are Chi Psi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Sigma, Pi Kappa Phi and Sigma Chi.

Two women's dormitories, Carr and McIver, will participate. No men's dorms are entered this year.

Last year's Sing was won by Sigma Chi, Pi Phi, Old East and Carr Dorm.

SUAB Offers Extra Movie; First Tonight

Two successful comedy features and a serious film make up tonight's movie program at Gerrard Hall.

The Student Union Activities Board will present "Duck Soup," with the Marx Brothers, "The Barber Shop," starring the late W. C. Fields, and "Brotherhood of Man," as its first film program of the Spring Quarter. Tonight's show begins at 8, doors open at 7:30.

Only advance series ticket holders will be able to see this program or the remaining four programs. Tickets for the entire series are $1.50 and may be obtained at Graham Memorial.

Bill Roth, Graham Memorial director, said yesterday a further inducement has been added to promote the sale of series tickets. W. D. Griffiths' immortal "Birth of a Nation" has been ordered by SUAB for showing at one of the programs.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" will be featured April 16, "The Gaucho" on April 30, "Torment" on May 14 and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," an academy award winner, on May 21.

(See SUAB, page 2)

Plan Worships For Holy Week

Special services are being held every day this week at the Episcopal Church in observance of Holy Week. From today through Thursday, there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7 o'clock and at 10a.m. in the morning.

On Tuesday and Thursday, the final services in the Lenten series of afternoon services will be held. There will be a brief service of prayer and meditation on Tuesday and Wednesday, beginning at 8 o'clock in the evening and lasting for 15 minutes.

(See HOLY WEEK, page 2)

TWO FIREMEN WERE INJURED at this $100,000 blaze which destroyed a two-story commercial building in Kansas City, Mo. Firemen, partially obscured by smoke, climb ladders to battle the spectacular blaze.—NEA Telephoto.

T. Dorsey Signed For Germans

Tommy Dorsey, "The Sentimental Gentleman of Swing" has been signed by the German Club to play for the Spring concert and dance. The concert is set for Saturday afternoon, April 25 and the dance for the same night.

Dorsey, who is currently observing his 17th anniversary as one of the nation's foremost bandleaders, has turned out some of the top bandleaders and vocalists. Frank Sinatra, Dick Haymes, Jo Stafford, Connie Haines and the Pied Pipers were some of them to serve their apprenticeship with him in the vocal department.

Famous bandleaders, at one time, with Dorsey are the late Glenn Miller, the late Bunny Berigan, Bob Crosby, Ray McKinley and Gene Krupa.

The trombone-playing Dorsey has made over 300 recordings which sold over 70,000,000 records. The most famous disc is his theme, "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You". Dorsey is now a Decca recording artist.

TOMMY DORSEY

Last Chance To Purchase Invitations

The Order of the Grail will place senior invitations on sale this week. It will be the last time before graduation that seniors will be able to buy the invitations.

Invitations will be sold from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. today through Friday. Calling cards may be ordered at the same time the invitations are ordered, but the full amount must be paid when the order is taken.

Four types of announcements are available this year. Three of these have as their contents, an entire listing of the senior class, senior class officers and committees, university scenes and officials and a commencement schedule.

The difference in the prices of the three invitations depends upon

(See INVITATIONS, page 2)

Yack Business Manager Asks Payment For Pages

All campus organizations that still have not paid for their pages in the Yackety Yack have been asked to do so immediately.

Russ Cowell, business manager, asked that checks be mailed to The Yackety Yack, Box 987, Chapel Hill or left in the main office of Graham Memorial.

Council Candidates

The Student Council nonpartisan Selections Board will interview prospective candidates this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 3.

There are no specific requirements for Student Council except that each student must be at least a junior.

Selection of council candidates by a board rather than having them nominated by political parties as before, is result of a bill passed last quarter in Legislature.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe, Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Charles Haskett, Syd Shuford, Eleanor Saunders, Charles Collins.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

The Cause Of It All

The good representative from Watauga County had received many letters. Students were peddling the stuff, Outsiders were getting good profits. The thing was getting out of hand.

Let's outlaw it and tax it out of existence," he said.

William Winkler, whose home county has Appalachian State Teachers College situated in it, was worried about liquor and colleges. He submitted a bill covering students, faculty, administrators, and employees, which would make the possession of liquor illegal on campus. A student caught with a glass of beer in hand would get the bum's rush, including a $50 fine, a 30-day jail sentence and suspension from school for a while.

Some legislators wondered whethher the state could tell a private college to fire an official or suspend a student. The bill will probably be pigeonholed as it should be. Legal control, upbringing, and education are factors which best lead to a mature use of alcoholic beverages. If Winkler's bill were made law, we wonder if it would apply to people visiting the campus, like alumni, for instance, on weekends.

One aspect that the Winkler bill brings to mind is the fact that other colleges besides ours are under fire for not being dry, water-drinking academicians. Legislators could well inspect some of the other aspects of University and College life with a view of improving it by adopting the financial recommendations of the administration and Trustees.

'Chin Up' Poster Snatchers

In another column, psychologist Professor Dashiell reminds political candidates that stapled posters are a "nuisance." He suggests that instead of staples, thumb tacks would be much better because they can be removed easily.

We suggest that the candidates and their supporters take heed of the recommendaion. Then we suggest that every student take heed of a law which prohibits the mutilation or removal of posters.

Believe it or no, such removal is an Honor Code offense.

Maybe you can't stand the faces of the smiling potentials. Perhaps there is too much clutter. Electioneering will be over in three weeks though, so "Chin up" for a while.

Quitters And Crybabies

A quitter's attitude generally doesn't work especially when the attitude may be created to stir up an issue.

Ham Horton and Jim Adams are both quitters. They have gotten out of the Consolidated University Council, an outfit which tries to act as a go-between for students and President Gray's office, and also tries to work up some broad policy directives to further the cause of Consolidation.

Adams was chairman of the Carolina delegation. He resigned and Prexy Horton won't reappoint anybody. Their action represents to State and Women's College the idea that people in Chapel Hill start crying when they don't get their own way. Or the folks at State and W.C. can look upon the students' action as just anoher way of stirring up a political issue here.

Consolidation is here to stay. For Horton and his cohorts to adopt a "States Rights" policy in 1953 is backward thinking. The way to solve problems—basic problems— is not to withdraw, but rather to stick together and reexamine, find out what's the matter, and then seek a solution, with a willingness to compromise The Daily Tar Heel agrees with Tom Sully, UNC student who chairs the council, that Horton and Adams' action is an attempt to "solve with a sledge hammer some genuinely difficult problems which do require a great deal of patience and common sense."

As president of the student body, Horton's duty is not to throw away the policies set up by students for several years. His efforts are a backhanded attempt to get at the heart of the problem. A more thoughtful approach would be to call for another session of the Council to rediscover the purposes and functions of the Council and resolve present difficulties.

John Gibson

The Last Quarter

I used to get three quarters,
Each academic year.
These the total ration
For making knowledge clear.
(There was, of course, a summer term,
To make the quarters four,
But I was here in August once,
And then, friend, never more.)
Three times each year fresh classes came,
Three times professors new,
Three times exams and papers too,
Three times enough for you?
Five times a week the classes met
Five times the same old faces,
Five times the same old tired profs
Five times the same old places.
Three classes each, my quarters brought,
(Though sometimes stretched to four)
Three profs for me to take in hand,
Three profs, and sometimes more.
Five times a week, in order too,
These sad old men faced me.
Looking to the weekends,
When they, too, would be free.
Saturdays and Sundays,
Those glorious two days,
When books and school were left behind
And I took to the Tar Heel Clays.
Two whole days in travel spent,
(To study was taboo.)
Two whole days of dates and things,
And draft exempted too.
Each Friday in the afternoon,
Like a real college guy,
I'd take my place along the road,
And watch the cars go by.
Head erect, thumb raised high,
I could always bum a ride,
And then to home, or just to roam,
Taking travel in my stride.
All this my precious quarters brought,
All this, and even more,
So sad am I, for one remains,
My heart is oh so sore.
And when that final quarter's gone,
We'll see no more next year,
One quarter left, and then no more,
We all must shed a tear.
Semesters now; the word has come,
Semester: (from the Latin)
Semester; meaning half a year,
The Board I'd like to flatten.
Gone my carefree weekend trips,
It is the worst of crimes.
Gone the weekly visits home,
Gone exams three times.
Gone the same old daily classes,
Gone the same old faces,
Gone the same old daily profs,
Gone the same old places.
Five classes now I'll have each week,
Five, and sometimes more,
Five rooms to learn to sleep in,
Five profs that I must bore.
Twice a year; five exams
Twice a year; five papers,
Twice a year a week to cram,
Twice a year the midnight tapers.
Gone the three new quarters,
The sore, oh how it festers!
Gone my three fine friends of old,
And in their place: semesters!

—SUAB—

(Continued from page 1)

Purpose of the programs, which were highly successful last quarter, is to "provide a form of film entertainment not otherwise available to the viewing public in this area," Roth said. This is a non-profit project of SUAB and operates on funds obtained from series membership.

—Holy Week—

(Continued from page 1)

On Thursday night, there will be a celebration of the Lord's Supper at 8 o'clock. On Good Friday, the three-hour service will be held. This service begins at noon. Worshippers may enter and leave this service during the singing of the hymns.

The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8 and 11 o'clock on Easter Day. The Canterbury Club will meet as usual that night at 6 o'clock.

SAFETY SAM SAYS:

High fliers belong in the sky, let's hope they stay, too many trying it on our highways—today.

Roses are beautiful, but not as a wreath, take it easy and—smell 'em.

"Anything Shaken Loose Here In Washington?"

English Club

Dear Ma

Dear Ma,

Well, I'm almost a full-fledged Tarheel. Orientation was over today and I register tomorrow.

Have I had a busy week! Tests! tests! tests! I think I did all right in the educational aptitude exams especially in Viewing. You know I always could see TV perfectly from anywhere in the living room, even when we had that little old 40-inch screen.

What really has me worried are my scores on the business aptitude tests. My grade on Counting was high, but they don't pay much attention to that any more and are thinking of dropping it because it isn't Practical. As the Dean of Commercial Culture told us, a Business Exec doesn't need to count if he has Money Sense. He can always hire somebody to count for him. The Money Sense exam was the big one, and I'm afraid I messed up on some of the most important parts. I couldn't get my deductions past the Tax Collector; I didn't get the dime away from the Blind Boy in the acuteness test; and I couldn't persuade the Model Customer to buy a thing it didn't need. Of course, the Tax Collector, the Blind Boy, and the Model Customer are machines but they behave just like they were common ordinary human beings.

My worst scores were on Stock Readings. I'm afraid I never will be able to read a ticker tape as fast as some of these fellows. They really know what those symbols mean. Take my roommate Motors O'Toole. He knows what ConC and AmAt and all the rest of those things mean without a second glance. Sometimes I think if I hadn't learned to read writing, I'd be able to handle all these symbols like the rest of the fellows. As it is, my mind is all cluttered up with those useless old words. But I don't hold it against you and Dad. I know you meant it for the best.

Of course, I have to keep quiet here about being able to read writing and write reading. Those sorts of things just aren't done any more in the Best Circles, except by a few odd Drips and Subversives around the campus. A real Business Exec today is like those old courtiers Grandad told me about once: if they knew how to read and write, it was a sign they were clerks or poets or something worse and not True Gentlemen. So they didn't learn, but hired scriveners.

But I almost gave myself away yesterday when we were going through the Museum on our Orientation tour. The Museum is a queer old building opposite the Bell Tower, and it's just filled with books! Honest! You'd never believe it unless you saw them with your own eyes—thousands of books and some of them without a single picture! Ask Dad if remembers it when he was here. Anyway, I picked up one of those old books—it was something by that fellow Shakespur that Super-Soap used to put on TV before the New Administration limited telecasts to Practical American Programs. Well, Motors saw me, and right away he was suspicious. "What you doin' with that crap?" he asks. "I'm lookin' at the pictures" I says. "Yeah?" he says, "I seen your lips movin'." I was so embarrassed I dropped that book on the floor like it was a hot coal. Motors must have seen how I felt because he didn't say anything else right then. But last night before we went to sleep, he gave me some good advice. He said it I wanted to Get Ahead I'd have to learn to do the Right Thing. He didn't accuse me right out of knowing how to read writing, but he just dropped a general hint that people who did that sort of thing never Amounted to Anything. I really appreciated his advice. He's a mighty fine fellow, one of the Winston-Salem O'Tooles, an old original McCarthy for President family, and very proud.

Well, Ma, it's late and I'm tired. I sure miss you and Dad and my little old rocket jet. Give it a kiss for me.

Your affectionate son,
Joe

Yr Mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
DISCIPULUS

Express Yourself

Editor:

Re your editorial of 25 March concerning Senator McCarthy, may I say that while a very able criticism was written, you have overlooked a very important consideration of the Senator. While most thinking people disagree most heartily with his methods of investigation (wild charges of disloyalty, name calling, etc.), the fact remains that it was McCarthy who made this country awake to the fact that Communists and fellow travelers were and are infiltrating our government.

It may well be that such tactics as the Senator uses are the only way to arouse interest in a democracy about a danger as hidden and yet as real as subversives in government. It is most unfortunate and tragic to have the names of innocent men dragged through the mud; this may be the price we have to pay to remove the Hisses from Washington.

Let me again say that I do not personally agree with these methods, but we must give the devil his due—McCarthy has made the country aware of a danger—let us hope that a greater danger does not arise from his efforts.

Tom McMillan

Editor's Note: No member of the State Department has been dismissed from the State Department because of Senator McCarthy's "Communist" charges.

Editor:

Our student paper, the Gustavian Weekly, is attempting to instigate an honor system at Gustavus Adolphus College. We are asking many colleges for their own systems.

Would you please send us the details which have made your honor system so well known and highly spoken of.

A professor who is now the head of the English Department at GA, and formerly a member of the faculty of North Carolina University, suggested that, of all the known honor systems, your's has shown the best chance for succeeding at our school.

Carl K. Towley
Editor, GA Weekly

Editor:

May I call the attention of campus political candidates to a certain thoughtlessness on the part of their supporters. I refer to the use of wire staples when posting their advertisements. Staples become a nuisance to others using the bulletin boards later. They require the use of staple removers tweezers, or knife blades. Will not all who post please use thumb tacks which are much more easily removed?

John F. Dashiell
Professor

John Taylor

Previews and Reviews

The SUAB Film Series will launch its Spring campaign tonight in Gerrard Hall with the presentation of a three-in-one program consisting of the Marx Brothers in "Duck Soup", W. C. Fields in a Mack Sennett comedy, "The Barber Shop", and a U.P.A. Cartoon "The Brotherhood of Man".

By far the most rewarding of the three films—and it is a shame that it is the shortest—is the cartoon. The first production of U.P.A., the company which did the memorable "Gerald McBoing-Boing" and "Mr. Magoo" series, has garnered all sorts of awards and with good reason. "The Brotherhood of Man" is difficult to classify because its theme is not conventional cartoon material. It might best be listed as a moralistic story told in animated pictures. Dealing with race prejudice, it tells of a dream of a typical American in which the world is literally in "his own backyard" and of the resulting discord among the peoples of the world, caused by their individual spirits of race discrimination. The point against bigotry is made in an entertaining manner, not by preaching, but by graphs and historical references. This cartoon alone will make it well worth the time to go to Gerrard Hall tonight.

Reaction to the two other features will be strictly personal. Many will want to see them simply to be able to witness the four Marx Brothers and W. C. Fields in their prime again. But as far as this reviewer is concerned there is not much more to recommend them as entertainment. "Duck Soup," which deals with what happens to international politics, when Groucho Harpo, Chico, and eppo get mixed up in it is truly amusing only in the hilarious war scenes towards the end of the film and in its Gilbert and Sullivan device of having the chorus break into glorious song with no particular provocation. But on the whole the Marxes in retrospect seem somewhat similar in their humor to Max Shulman in that they are so obvious that they cease to be funny. This opinion, however, may be very much in the minority. As for the Fields movie, it may be dismissed with three words—a complete washout.

For the purposes of nostalgia and for a few genuinely comic scenes it is suggested that students visit Gerrard Hall tonight. Season tickets, which consist of five feature films and four selected subjects for the low price of $1.50, will be on sale at the door for those who have not already purchased them.

—Scholar—

(Continued from page 1)

is chairman of the Campus Chest Board which recently conducted the first part of its campus drive.

The nominating Committee members were Gil Marsh, Jack Becker, Raeford Pugh, Norman Bowles and Jim E. Turner from the cabinet, and Dr. Virgil Mann and Dr. William E. Noland from the Advisory Board.

—YMCA—

(Continued from page 1)

the cover. A genuine leather bound invitation sells for 75 cents while the imitation leather bound invitation costs 65 cents.

An invitation with a card board binding sells for 35 cents. The plain single sheet announcements are 20 cents each or three for 50 cents and six for $1.

Netters Beat Harvard, 12-1

New Lineup Puts Bradford In First Spot

By Vardy Buckalew

A completely juggled lineup proved yesterday afternoon the depth of this year's Carolina tennis team as the Tar Heels won an easy victory over Harvard 12-1.

The team held a round-robin tournament over the past weekend and as a result of this young Tom Bradford, left-handed freshman, moved into the number one position. He handled the position creditably as he beat John Rauh 7-5, 6-2.

Carolina and Harvard meet again on the varsity courts this afternoon at 2:00.

Del Sylvia, captain of the team and Southern Conference singles champ, was pushed down into the number three position due to a loss to Herb Browne in the round-robin. Browne retained his number two position in the lineup.

Another freshman, Don Thompson, moved ahead of Bob Payne into the number four position as a result of his record in the round-robin. And Pete Green broke into the top six for the first time this year by winning the second division of the tournament.

All this goes to prove what Coach Kenfield has known from the beginning—his team will have enough depth this year for two teams. In the next match his lineup may be entirely different.

The top three doubles combinations were the same as last time and will probably remain the same throughout the season. In the number one doubles Del Sylvia and Pete Green teamed up to beat the number one Harvard combination.

In the number two position was the Conference doubles champs, Browne and Payne. They defeated Rauh and Haegler 6-3, 6-2.

Bradford and Thompson, the two outstanding freshmen, rounded out the top three in the doubles division. They defeated Stone and King of Harvard.

Ward, Palmer Play Middlecoff, Boros Even In Benefit Match At Finley

By Biff Roberts

Everybody came out on top yesterday at the University's Finley golf course as Harvie Ward and Johnny Palmer played even with Julius Boros and Cary Middlecoff in the Jaycee's benefit match.

A crowd of approximately 750 was treated to a brilliant exhibition of golf by the foursome, the Junior Chamber of Commerce got a little financial boost toward sponsoring this year's junior golf tournament, and the four golfers ended with the match all square—thanks to a par four by Ward on the final hole.

Boros and Middlecoff held a one-up lead from the fifth to the final hole, but on 18 Ward played it straight for a par while Middlecoff and Boros strayed for bogies.

Both Boros and Middlecoff had putts for pars but missed. Boros tried first and was a shade wide. Then Middlecoff left a 20 inch putt a fraction short and the match ended even.

Palmer almost tied it on the 17th but his birdie putt faked toward the hole and then hung on the lip. His par three tied Boros and Middlecoff there.

The two teams played even for the first four holes in the best-ball match, but on the par-five fifth hole Boros had a bird while Palmer and Ward settled for par.

Harvie, the present British Amateur champion and former Carolina star, stroked in a birdie three on the next hole to pull even. But Boros birdied seven to put his team ahead again.

From there on out the match was level and it seemed that the one-up lead would win thhe match. Then Ward parred the 18th for the equalizer.

Boros had the best medal score with a 70, after playing the front nine in 34. Ward played straight par figures, 36-36, for a 72 to tie Palmer's 35-37, and Middlecoff was one over with a 36-37—73.

The player's found their shots falling short on some holes with the wind whipping into their faces heavily at times. But their experience and ability around the greens always kept them at par.

Middlecoff and Boros pleased the crowd mostly with their chipping and putting. Cary sank a 35-footer on three for a par and then canned a 12-footer for his birdie at six.

Middlecoff, Boros, and Palmer all headed for the Azalea Open at Wilmington after the match while Ward en-planed for work back in Atlanta where he now lives. Harvie, as the British Amateur champ, will play in the Masters at Augusta starting April 9.

Tennis Results

Singles—Bradford (UNC) defeated Rauh (H), 7-5, 6-2; Browne (UNC) defeated Ufford (H), 7-5, 7-5; Sylvia (UNC) defeated French (H), 6-0, 6-2; Thompson (UNC defeated Bossart (H), 6-4, 7-5; Payne (UNC) defeated Haegler (H), 3-6, 6-1, 6-3; Green (UNC defeated Watts (H), 6-1, 6-0; Kerdasha (UNC) defeated King (H), 6-2, 6-1; Gustafson (UNC) defeated Sonnabend (H), 8-6, 6-0; Spencer (H) defeated Izlar (UNC), 1-6, 7-5, 7-5; and Gordon (UNC defeated Stone (H), 6-2, 7-5.

Doubles — Green and Sylvia (UNC) defeated Ufford and French (H), 10-8, 6-4; Browne and Payne (UNC) defeated Rauh and Haegler (H), 6-3, 6-2; Bradford and Thompson (UNC) defeated Stone and King (H), 6-3, 6-2; Kerdasha and Gustafson (UNC) vs Watts and Bossart (H), called for darkness at one set apiece; Izlar and Gordon (UNC) vs Sonnabend and Spencer (H), called for darkness at one set apiece.

Point System Mural Entries Close Today

Entries for intramural softball and tennis, point system activities, will close today, and entries for water polo close Thursday.

Softball will be on a round robin basis, with games played Monday through Thursday at 4 and 5 o'clock. Managers are asked to acquaint themselves with rules for intramural softball on page 50 of the mural handbook.

Tennis will be conducted on a single elimination basis, with each match consisting of three singles and two doubles matches. Sets will be best five out of nine games, except in semi-finals and finals when regulation rules will be used.

In response to requests from students, Co-Rec play nights will be sponsored each Tuesday night from 7-9 p.m. The first play night will be tonight at 7.

Stewart Wins

GREENSBORO, March 30.—(Special)—Earl Stewart outshot favored Sam Snead on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff at the Sedgefield Golf Club here this afternoon to win first place in the Greater Greensboro Open.

Stewart and Snead, who deadlocked yesterday at 275 along with Doug Ford and Art Wall, finished today's 18-hole playoff with 69's forcing the quest for first money into the sudden-death playoff. Stewart wasted little time, beating the Slammer on the first hole to take $2,000 first place money.

Through the "Help Wanted" columns with Gun and Camera... or

Maybe the Low Man on that Totem Pole Started at the Bottom

Once there was a Senior who was Engaged. Very happily. One day, however, he realized that while Being Engaged, before graduation, was one thing, Being Engaged (A.D.) (after diploma) involved such complications as Getting Married and Supporting Dependents. In a word, Work.

So he began sending job letters to Personnel Directors of Large Corporations, outlining his qualifications. Some answered, sending him Application Forms to fill out. Some didn't. Eventually he wound up with a grim Common Denominator: they would let him know If Anything Came up.

Disenchanted but Willing, he outlined the problem to his Betrothed, a girl of Superior Intelligence. She regarded him sternly. "No wonder," she said, "letters, yet! Listen," and she unfurled a Stratagem.

First thing next morning, he jetted down to the Western Union office, in one hand a list of the 10 companies he'd most like to work for, and in the other a compelling message making clear that here was The Man, awaiting only the opportunity to Prove It. Sent it as a Telegram to all 10 companies.

Results? Within a week he had 6 Interviews, 4 Job Offers. Today, when he brags about being a Self-Made Man, his wife just Smiles Indulgently.

When you're jockeying for a job, use Telegrams to Get the Jump on the Competition. Telegrams get In, get Read, get the Reaction you want. Wonder-workers in other ventures, too . . . whether you're Dickering for a Date, a Hotel Reservation, or Pesos from Pop. Just call Western Union.

North Columbia Ave.
Telephone: 2681

WE HAVE THE RIGHT ANSWERS!

At the first sign of trouble—that annoying rattle, that sluggish starting—drive in here. We'll find out what's wrong and make it RIGHT . . . at the RIGHT price!

For safe, carefree driving, have your car serviced RIGHT here!

Hazzard Motor Co.

CHEVROLET SALES & SERVICE
PHONE 9-491

See The

CAMPAIGN SPEECHES

of

ADLAI E. STEVENSON

At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

Prayer Books
Red, Black or White
$2.25 to $15.00

Bibles
King James, Revised Standard and Goodspeed Translations
$2.50 to $19.00

Easter Books For Children

Religious Books

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

the world's most famous summer formals

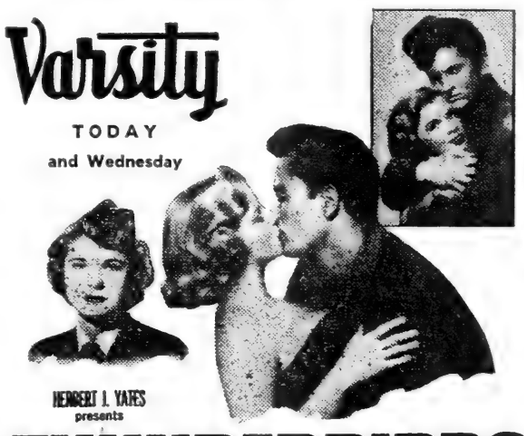
Advance styling and the ultimate in comfort make "AFTER SIX" the most popular name in formals! Now, Orlon-rayon blend fabric plus miracle "Stain Shy" finish add up to the most practical summer formal ever!

29.50

After Six

MIDNIGHT BLUE DRESS TROUSERS
12.95

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.



In Durham It's
OLSON'S MUSIC STORE
For Complete Lines of

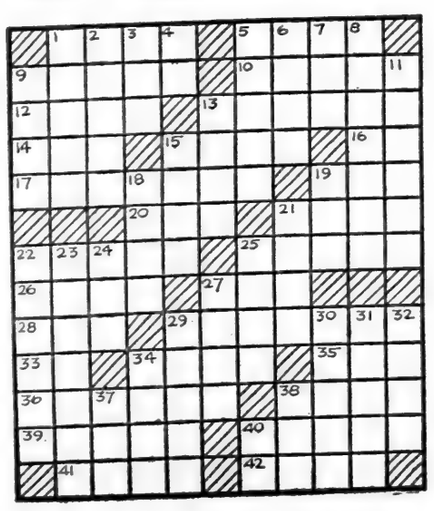
Woodwinds, Recorders, Brass, Accessories
Accordions, Guitars, Music, Reeds

Our Specialty
Band Instrument Repair
105 W. Parrish St.—Phone 3-4541

TO THE BEACHES AND BABES OF SALERNO...

Varsity
TODAY and Wednesday

HERBERT J. YATES presents
THUNDERBIRDS
starring JOHN DEREK · JOHN BARRYMORE, Jr. · MONA FREEMAN
GENE EVANS · EILEEN CHRISTY · WARD BOND



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Doom
5. Mast
9. Wading bird
10. Simpletons (var. pl.)
12. Ireland
13. Arched gallery
14. Part of "to be"
15. Is obligated
16. Ahead
17. Heavy hammers
19. A genus of swine
20. Color
21. Scoff
22. Potato (dial.)
25. Civil wrongs
26. On top
27. Bovine animal
28. Pig pen
29. Head coverings
33. Troop (abbr.)
34. Writing implements
35. By way of
36. Birds of prey
38. Rumanian coins
39. Reconnoitering plane
40. Diminished, as color
41. Soviet news-gathering agency
42. Grows old

DOWN
1. Wild
2. Ascend
3. Unit of weight
4. Half an em
5. Painful spots
6. Frontiersman's shoes
7. Polynesian drink
8. Temporary fortification
9. Chops
11. Becomes aware of
13. Filled with solemn wonder
15. S-shaped molding
18. Fall in drops
19. Title of respect
21. Robe
22. Savors
23. Draw attention to
24. Plaything
25. Units of weight
27. Studies
29. Source of sugar (pl.)
30. Shun
31. Prongs
32. Spoke
34. Addition sign
37. Black-tailed gazelle (Tibet)
38. Satchel
40. Music note

PHEW BOLA
SLURS URALS
TALE FLANGE
ECU BAG DAN
RA AURAL
ITALY ROAST
LEST BAKE
ESSAY BARED
RIVER ED
SOS PEG UTE
ESCAPE EVER
SLOPE PEERS
OWED ALAS
2-21

Yesterday's Answer

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MIN. WEST OF CARRBORO * HIWAY 54

TONIGHT AND WEDNESDAY

JOHN STEINBECK'S
"OF MICE and MEN"
with Burgess MEREDITH ★ Betty FIELD
LON CHANEY, Jr.

Hold Your Ticket Stub Thursday Night Until Intermission

it's not what you do

WE ADVERTISED!
WE SHOUTED!
WITH NO RESULTS

it's the way you do it

NOW We're giving records away with 30% Discount on all 33 - 45 - 78's for One Week!

Open Fridays 7-9 p.m.

Dale Fairless
"Where it's fun to shop"
GLEN LENNOX

Donalee Tabern To Speak Here Thursday Night

Dr. Donalee L. Tabern, head of the department of Radioactive Pharmaceuticals at Abbott Laboratories in North Chicago, Ill., will deliver a licture at Howell Hall on Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

The subject of Dr. Tabern's address will be "Applications of Radioactive Tracer Techniques." He has been a research chemist with Abbott Laboratories in North Chicago since 1925. He has worked with diuretics, barvituric acid derivatives, and is now doing extensive experimentation with radioactive isotopes.

Dr. Tabern was secretary of the Division of Medicinal Chemistry from 1934 to 1936 and was chairman from 1936 to 1937. In 1937, the American Chemical Society met in Chapel Hill where Dr. Tabern acted as presiding officer of the Medicinal Section.

In this same year he was elected Chairman of the Medicinal group of the Gordon Research Conferences. In 1947 he was voted by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society as one of the "Ten Best Qualified Medicinal Chemists in America."

Dr. Tabern is being brought to the University by Rho Chi, honorary scholastic pharmaceutical society. The departments of medicine, dentistry, nursing, physics, botany, zoology and mathematics have been invited to the lecture.

Alice Cole Named Queen At Sigma Nu Pledge Dance

Miss Alice Cole, a St. Mary's student from Statesville, was crowned White Rose Queen at the annual Sigma Nu pledge dance Saturday night.

Sigma Nu's and their dates danced to the music of the Statesmen at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham. Ivy and white roses twined on a white picket fence around the edge of the room, a large white star in the corner was the center of decorations. Pledges and their dates formed the figure at intermission when the queen was crowned. The queen crowned by President Curtis Meltzer, was presented with a dozen white roses and a crown of white rosebuds. Each girl received a red leather address book with the Sigma Nu crest on it.

Mr. and Mrs. Kay Kyser and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Armstrong served as a selection committee and announced the queen at the pledge banquet Friday night at the Ranch House. Other activities of the weekend included a party at Hogan's Lake Saturday afternoon and a party and combo at the Sigma Nu house after the dance.

Pledges and their dates included Pete Brumley, Statesville, president, with Joan Sherrill, Statesville; Sidney Dixon, Wilson, vice-president, with Mary Ellen Corbett, Wilson; Lewis Bass, Tarboro, with LaRue Taylor, Rocky Mount; Jim Boyette, Wilson, with Nancy Adams, Rocky Mount; Henry Carpenter, Albemarle, with Betty Brunson, Albemarle; Dave Elliott, Asheboro, with Dorothy Ann Scott, Little Washington; Buddy Harper, Snow Hill, with Betty Caton, Concord; Lee Holmes, Chapel Hill, with Peggy Benfield, Valdese; Bob Kimzey, Brevard, with Betty Ruth Klutz, Concord; Jack Markham, Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla. with Mary Lu Mercer, Baltimore, Md.;

Jim Marlowe, Walstonburg, with Miss Mary Wright Parker, Wilson;

Ed Martin, Reidsville, with Suzanne Bethea, Reidsville; Don Mitchell, Seaford, Del., with Margie Dobson, Seaford, Del.; Jack Moore, Wilson, with Jody Strickland, Wilson; Alex Nichols, Rocky Mount, with Clem Mulvehill, Charlotte; Benny Phillips, Winston-Salem, with Carolyn Charles, Winston-Salem; Bob Powell, Charlotte, with Jean Ford, Raleigh; Al Smith, Savannah, Ga., with Ann Nicholson, Allbrook, Canal Zone; Bob Smith, Farmville, with Joan Atkinson, Farmville; Mike White, Lumberton, with Sally Cowles, Statesville; Ray White, Columbus, Ga., with Nancy Peterson, Winston-Salem; Bob Wolfe, Dallas, N. C., with Anne Huie, Warsaw.

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders Taft and Martin yesterday said President Eisenhower is planning to cut out some of the 7½ billion dollars proposed by Truman for foreign aid beginning in July. They also said July 4 has been set as the target date for Congressional adjournment.

Card Board

The Card Board and staff will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the basement of Smith Dormitory.

French Club

The French Supper Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock on the second floor of Lenoir Hall.

Faculty Club

Dr. John P. Gillin will be speaker at the Men's Faculty Club luncheon today at the Carolina Inn. Dr. Gillin flew to Europe recently to help with the aftermath of the disastrous floods there. His talk to the club is entitled "Witnessing the Flood Disasters in England and Holland."

Di Senate

The Dialectic Senate will hold its first meeting of the Spring Quarter tonight in the Senate hall at 8 o'clock. The bill to be debated is: "Resolved: that there be a state-wide liquor referendum in North Carolina."

Y Advisory Board

The YMCA Advisory Board will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the YMCA offices. Important items on the agenda include a consideration of the financial situation of the association, a report on the program activities for the Winter Quarter, and recommendations from the YMCA Evaluations committee which has been working during the past two quarters.

Alpha Phi Omega Elects New Set Of Officers

Rho chapter of Alpha Phi Omega recently elected a new set of officers to serve during Spring Quarter and part of next Fall.

Those elected were: President Jim Davis; First Vice-President Charles Katzenstein; Pledgemaster and Second Vice-President Jerry Campbell; Recording Secretary Gene Campbell; Corresponding Secretary Mike Parker; Treasurer Jim Morris.

Historian Allyn Norton; Alumni Secretary Fred Isenhour and Rho Blazer Editor Charlie Niblack. Dr. Lee M. Brooks was re-elected as chairman of the Advisory Board.

UN Model Assembly Date Is Changed To May 1-2

Wilth the Model United Nations General Assembly postponed until May 1-2, the campus committee in charge will hold a meeting tomorrow night at 7 o'clock on the Y second floor.

Organizations taking part in the General Assembly are asked to attend tomorrow night's meeting. With 12 nations of 60 still unselected, committee members ask any organization interested in sponsoring a nation to contact Henry Lowet, 2 Vance Dormitory.

The assembly was postponed from April 24-25 because Germans will be held that weekend.

Need Pocket Money?

Gather up those old paper-back books and bring them in!

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

OPEN EVENINGS

— PLUS —

CARTOON — NEWS

NOW PLAYING

Carolina

"There's a certain amount of customer dissatisfaction because you forgot the Angostura*."

ANGOSTURA®

AROMATIC BITTERS

MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. The perfect Manhattan or Old Fashioned gets its "smoothness" from Angostura. See how a few dashes dramatize the flavor of soups and salads, too!

THE LITTLE SHOP

for

EASTER CLOTHES

out-of-this world EASTER CARDS

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

It's time to roll up your sleeve...

GIVE BLOOD NOW

CALL YOUR RED CROSS TODAY!

★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★

11:00 A.M. to 5 P.M.
APRIL 6-7-8
GRAHAM MEMORIAL

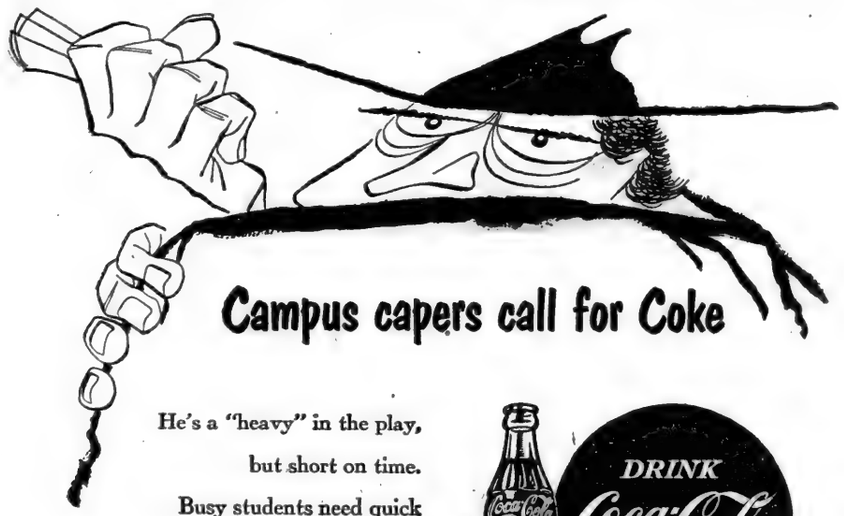
Phone 5611 or 9-1881
FOR APPOINTMENT

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

MAN OR WOMAN WITH CAR. Greensboro Daily News-Record for Chapel Hill and vicinity. Good proposition. Car expenses. Write News-Record, Greensboro, N. C. (1-c3488-5)

FOR SALE



ONE PORTABLE SEWING MAchine. Excellent Condition. $30.00 cash. Phone 9-5708. (1-3491 1)

FOR RENT

2 BEDROOMS TO LADIES OR Couple with or without kitchen privileges. Very reasonable, Phone 9-6841 (1c 3490 2)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

AM EXPERIENCED AT READING aloud, also baby sitting. Am mother of student. Call Mrs. Near, 9-3551, 413 Hillsboro St. (1-3489-1)

Campus capers call for Coke

He's a "heavy" in the play, but short on time. Busy students need quick refreshment. That's where Coca-Cola comes in.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Chesterfield is Best for YOU!

CHESTERFIELD contains tobaccos of better quality and higher price than any other king-size cigarette... the same as regular Chesterfield.

Chesterfield—first premium quality cigarette in both regular & king-size

WHEN you are asked to try a cigarette you want to know, and you ought to know, what that cigarette has meant to people who smoke it all the time.

For a full year now, a medical specialist has given a group of Chesterfield smokers thorough examinations every two months. He reports:

no adverse effects to their nose, throat or sinuses from smoking Chesterfields.

More and more men and women all over the country are finding out every day that Chesterfield is best for them.

Enjoy your Smoking!

Try Much Milder Chesterfield with its extraordinarily good taste.

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Fine Spring day with 75 high. Yesterday's high, 69; low, 39.

The Daily Tar Heel

SPRING
The editor talks about the latest equinox. See p. 2.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 119 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

FIVE-YEAR-OLD BILLY (Tex) Johnson and his side-kick sister, two year old Susan, stand guard with their arsenal against invasion by West Hartford, Conn., "Yankees." The youngsters moved with their family from Fort Worth, Tex. recently, and they're still a bit suspicious of their new neighbors; however, all the weapons are toys. —NEA Telephoto.

Student Party Outlines Plans For Campus, Releases 14 Points

The Student Party nailed the final plank in their Spring platform and slipped copies of it under students' doors yesterday.

The lengthy 14-plank platform promised:

1. Abolition of the compulsory payment of fees to the athletic association.
2. To reform the student courts.
3. Institution of a bi-partisan civil service commission for student government.
4. Repeal of the Umstead Act.
5. A student member on the Board of Trustees.
6. Dormitory improvements.
7. More General College advisors.
8. To install vending machines in all dormitories.
9. A bond issue for a new student union building and auditorium.
10. More practical improvements for the campus.
11. Door-to-door delivery of The Daily Tar Heel six days a week.
12. To make the presidents of Interdormitory Council and Interfraternity Council members of the cabinet.
13. Modification of the present coed visiting restrictions.
14. To establish a uniform cut system and open quiz files.

Not Quitting Friendly Spirit, Horton Replies

President Ham Horton yesterday said that "no one was quitting or crying" about the Consolidated University Student Council.

Reacting to an editorial yesterday in The Daily Tar Heel called "Quitters and Crybabies," the chief executive of the student body clarified his stand on the controversy over the three school group.

"No one is quitting or crying unless our not wanting to sell Carolina's student body down the river can be termed quitting or crying," said Horton.

"We are working now to substitute a plan of student consolidation which will bring the student bodies together voluntarily rather than forcibly. We must have unity instead of uniformity," he added.

The editorial Horton criticized said that both Horton and Jim Adams were "quitters" for dropping out of the CUSC. It said that improvements from within the group would accomplish more than quitting.

The CUSC consists of delegates from Carolina, State and Woman's College who meet quarterly to act as a liaison between the student body and the administration of the Consolidated University.

Adams, president of the Carolina CUSC delegation, quit the group last month. Horton said he wasn't going to appoint anyone to fill his seat because he "is inclined to agree with the things said in his resignation." The resignation tagged the CUSC a "gag for student opinion."

Yesterday Horton explained that

(See CUSC, page 4)

Staffers Invited

The Daily Tar Heel will hold a staff meeting Friday at 3 p.m. in the newsroom for those interested in working for the paper.

Work is available in four departments — news, editorial, sports and business. Past experience is helpful but not always necessary.

Those interested are invited to Friday's meeting. The newspaper's offices are located on second floor Graham Memorial.

Hiss May Testify Soon On Communists In UN

WASHINGTON — Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) said yesterday Alger Hiss' attorney has approached him about the possibility of having Hiss testify about Communist infiltration of the United Nations.

Keating is chairman of a House Judiciary subcommittee investigating disclosures that American Communists were hired by the U.N. Secretariat.

Duke Ducks Out

April Fool Traced To Mythology

By Alice Chapman

If you found salt in the sugar bowl this morning or heard screams of "April Fool," you merely were partaking in a custom centuries old. The origin of All Fool's Day is obscured in tales of the past but many find the source in mythology.

The Romans celebrated Cerealia each year on the first day of April. The occasion was to the memory of Prosperina's kidnapping by Pluto. Legend says that Prosperina was picking daffodils when Pluto found her and carried her screaming to the underworld. Ceres, her mother heard echoes of the screams but her search was like a fool's errand for she could not find the echoes.

For centuries the Feast of Huli occurred in India on March 31. People were sent on foolish errands for the 24 hours until April arrived.

April first began as a fool's day when Charles IX reformed the calendar in 1564. A number of conservatives objected to the change. So instead of making new year's calls and exchanging gifts on April first which had previously been New Year's Day, the objectors sent mock gifts. Anyone receiving a gift was labeled, "Poisson d'Avril," April fish.

The April fooling practice became common in England at the beginning of the 18th century. Settlers to the new country brought the custom to America. Scots labeled April fools as April gowks for the Scott gowk is a cukoo.

This custom proved disturbing to the Aquarium and Zoological Garden in New York a few years ago. Offices all over the city were telling their desk men that Mr. Camel or Mr. Fish at number so-and-so wanted them to call. The Garden has since started disconnecting its phones on April first.

History has been changed by this yearly farce. Francis, Duke of Lorraine, and wife escaped activity from Nantes on April first. Dressed as peasants the couple started past the sentries when they were recognized. The guards ahead were alerted but the laughing Duke shouted "Poisson d'Avril," and the couple passed out the gates to freedom.

Victims of practical jokes find comfort in the fact the after April first any joker can be ridiculed by this delightful diddy:

"April fool is gone and past
You're the biggest fool at last."

Holy Week Observances Listed By Episcopalians

For the remainder of Holy Week there will be celebrations at the Chapel of the Holy Cross of the Holy Communion held today at 7 and 10 a.m.; a service at 5:15 p.m., and a twilight service from 8-8:15 p.m.

A Career Starting At $500

Air Force Cuts Service Time To 3 Years For Pilot Trainees

The Air Force has reduced the required tour of duty for Air Force flight trainees from four years to three years, Lt. Colonel Jesse J. Moorhead said yesterday.

Col. Moorhead, professor of Air Science and Tactics here, said that heretofore, applicants for flying training have been required to serve on active duty with the Air Force for three years following completion of the one year training course.

College students graduating in June, however, will find that their entire tour of duty including one year of flight training will be of three years duration.

A graduate who goes into flight training receives instruction in the highly technical field of modern aviation. At the end of a year, he is grdauated as a pilot, navigator or radar observer.

He is then commissioned a second lieutenant and will earn approximately $500 per month. His initial tour of active duty as a commissioned officer will continue for two years following his graduation from flight school.

Information concerning the benefits of a career with the Air Force as a flying officer may be secured by visiting the office of the professor of Air Science and Tactics at the University.

Valkyrie Sing Tonight At 8

CAMPUS SEEN

Uniformed Air Force cadets, looking very much the staunch defenders, carrying wooden rifles.

*

Coed lugging tennis racquet and other athletic gear through morning to keep from going back to dorm before gym class.

*

Wrestling Coach Sam Barnes ambling through campus absorbed in English notes.

Final Chance For Interviews On Council

Students interested in running for a seat on the Student Council may be interviewed today from 4 until 6 o'clock by the council Selection Board. This is the final opportunity.

Interviews are held in Roland Parker 3 of Graham Memorial.

Seven seats are to be filled in the Spring election on April 15. Three are coed seats, one is to be filled by a man and the other three are at large seats, one of which is to be filled by a graduate student.

There are no specific requirements for Student Council except that each student be at least a junior.

The Selection Board is a result of a bill passed this quarter in the Legislature. The board picks students it considers qualified and their names appear on the ballot. Student voters choose from among those listed by the board as well as any independents who may have declared.

Dedication Of New Hospital Is April 23-24

The North Carolina Memorial Hospital and two other new units of the Division of Health Affairs—the School of Dentistry and the School of Dentistry and the School of Nursing—will be formally dedicated April 23-24.

The two-day program will be highlighted by the dedicatory address to be given Friday morning, April 24, at 11 o'clock in Kenan Stadium by Dr. Frank P. Graham, former president of the Consolidated University, now a mediator for the United Nations.

Following this address Governor William B. Umstead will present the new building in behalf of the people of the state, and President Gray will accept them for the University.

A concert by the University Band and greetings from educational institutions will be given at 10:45 prior to Dr. Graham's address.

While the activities both April 23 and 24 are open to the public, the program Thursday is planned primarily for professional groups.

Thursday's program will get underway at 10:45 with a convocation in Kenan Stadium. Dr. Joseph T. Wearn, Charlotte native, who is dean and professor of medicine at Western Reserve University's School of Medicine and Director of Medicine for the University Hospitals in Cleveland, Ohio, will ad-

(See DEDICATION, page 2)

Honor Council Interviews To Be Held For 2 Days

The Honor Council Selections Board will interview candidates tonight and tomorrow nights from 7 until 10 o'clock in the Men's Council room, Graham Memorial.

Candidates for both the Men's and Women's Council should attend to be interviewed. If anyone has questions he may contact Carman Nahm at 9-7081, Steve Perror at 6066 or Barry Kalb at 5241.

Senior Cup Presentation To Be Tonight

The Senior Girl Cup, given annually to the campus' outstanding coed, will be presented during the Valkyrie Sing tonight.

The identity of the honoree will not be revealed until she is called on stage at Memorial Hall.

The coed is selected on a basis of leadership, service, character and scholarship. A selection committee composed of six representatives makes the selection. Representatives are from coed independents, sorority, Dean of Women's office, Dean of Student's office, dean of awards and a non-student group.

Last year the award went to Mel Stribbling of Clarksdale, Miss. The award is presented by the Dean of Women Katherine K. Carmichael.

Tapping for the Order of the Golden Fleece is generally held at the Sing, but will be later this year.

ROMANTIC MEXICO was the aim of 10-year-old Anne Marie Dulas when she attempted to pawn a set of china and a wrist watch in order to obtain money for the trip. The pawn-shop's owner called police, and then "bargained" with Anne until they arrived. The girl finally agreed to wait until she could save up more money. Her worried parents agreed that might be a good idea.—NEA Telephoto.

Tricky Skits To Be Given By 13 Groups

The annual Valkyrie Sing, featuring some 13 campus organizations in song and costume acts, will open tonight at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall.

Some of the organizations and acts to be featured are "Export the Imports," Carr Dormitory; "College Seasons of the Roaring 20's," Alpha Delta Pi; "World Peace," Alpha Gamma Delta; "Rain," Chi Omega; "Our Coeds," McIver Dormitory; "It's Love," Chi Psi, and "Toast To Tar Heels," Phi Kappa Sigma.

Other organizations taking part in the sing will be Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Delta, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Sigma, Pi Kappa Phi and Sigma Chi. No men's dormitories are entered.

Judges for the competition will be Edgar Alden, Foster Fitz-Simmons, William Poteat, Mrs. Fred McCall and Wallace E. Caldwell. The campus is invited and there is no admission charge.

The Fleece tapping, usually held in conjunction with the sing, will not be held tonight. The Golden Fleece will have a special "Fiftieth Anniversary" celebration later in the year.

1,008 From West Durham

'Beat Dook' Is Theme Of Spring Blood Drive

Some university or other located at West Durham recently boasted of giving 1,008 pints of blood to the Red Cross for use by the Armed Forces. That record will be attacked next week by Carolina students, faculty members and townspeople.

The familiar cry of "Beat Dook" will inspire the blood drive and a goal of 1,009 has been set by campaign pushers. A Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at Graham Memorial on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Donors may schedule appointments on those days between 11 a.m. and 4:40 p.m.

Bill Roth, co-chairman of the blood program, said yesterday persons interested in donating should phone 5611 or 9-1881 or stop by the Graham Memorial office.

The blood collected through the drive will be used for two purposes: Most will go overseas to the Armed Forces, while some will be kept in this country for immediate use in combating polio epidemics.

Prizes will be given for blood donated during this drive. The organization with less than 100 members which contributes the most will receive passes to the Varsity Theater. The group with more than 100 members will be awarded a trophy.

Donors should not eat any fatty foods within three hours of their appointment. Single minors (under 20 years and six months of age) must have the written permission of a parent or guardian.

The student drive is co-sponsored by the Student Union Activities Board and the Red Cross Activities Unit. Harriet Eliason is student chairman. Local chapter co-chairmen are Bud Fox and Bill Roth.

THIS GRIM SCENE IS one repeated every day during the Korean fighting, and your blood may save this man's life. The Cross bloodmobile will be here three days next week to collect the precious flood from campus donors. Reservations may be made by calling 5611 or 9-1881 for appointment. On the stretcher is a wounded Marine being carried off battered Vegas Hill in Korea.—NEA Telephoto.

5 From Carolina Attend Seminar

Five members of the Carolina YMCA United Nations Committee represented UNC at the inter-collegiate United Nations Seminar in New York.

They were Dan Duke of Raleigh, chaiman of the delegation, Jody Desmond of Charlotte, Dean MacCoy of Maplewood, N. J., Manning Muntzing of Moorefield, W. Va. and Phil Kennedy of Charlotte.

Sponsored by the National Student Council of the YMCA and YWCA, the seminar was attended by over 150 students from colleges and universities in the eastern half of the United States.

NEWS IN BRIEF

TOKYO—A wary United Nations Command told the Communists yesterday to get down to business if their startling new offers to end the Korean fighting are sincere. Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander, said he would agree to reopen the suspended armistice talks if the Reds agree to details of exchanging sick and wounded war prisoners. Meanwhile, Red China's offer to settle the prisoner of war issue was delivered formally to U. N. General Assembly President Lester R. Pearson. He said at first glance the message appeared to be similar to Chou's message.

★

MOSCOW—The Soviet Union can be expected to give its full support at the United Nations to the new Korean prisoner of war offer by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. Soviet chief delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky has just returned to the U. N. Assembly meeting in New York after consultations here with the new Russian leadership. Optimism has soared in diplomatic circles here since it is believed that the chances for peace are better now than at any time since the Korean truce talks began.

★

BERLIN—Russia yesterday suggested an early four-power conference to write a peace treaty for defeated and divided Germany and to reunite the nation now split by the Iron Curtain. The proposal was made by the Soviet military commander for Germany, Gen. Vassily I. Chuikov, who also heads the Russian Control Commission for Germany—the Soviet counterpart of the Western high commissions. The Chuikov offer was the second highly informal peace treaty proposal put forward by the Soviets within the past 24 hours.

★

WINDSOR, England — Queen Mary was buried yesterday beside her husband, King George V, while Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Windsor wept openly at the coffin. The 85-year-old queen who died last Tuesday was buried in simple family ceremonies in St. George's Chapel within the walls of Windsor Castle, seat of Britain's rulers from the time of William the Conqueror. Remnants of Europe's dwindling royalty—many related by blood to the house of Windsor—gathered for the second time in little more than a year to mourn the passing of a royal Briton. George VI was buried in the family vault in February, 1952.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Charles Haskett, Syd Shuford, Eleanor Saunders, Charles Collins.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Trustees And Politics

Senator Grady Rankin's suggestion to the State Legislature tha is is "bad policy to elect folks from the Legislature" to serve on the Board of Trustees is good advice.

Rankin has told his subcommittee, whose job is to select new trustees, to bear in mind the person's qualifications, where he or she is from, and his affiliation (whether from Carolina, State or W.C.), The senator doesn't want to exclude Legislaors because that would shut out a man, who perhaps might be a trustee but who wanted to run for the Legislature. But he does think that the preponderence of Legislators on the board is unnecessary. He wants board members to thoroughly represent the people in the state and yet to take it out of political.

The Daily Tar Heel agrees with the senator to a degree. Having legislators on the board helps in matters of appropriation. A legislator who is continually facing the electorate has an opportunity to tell the citizens of the state about the university.

Another contention by Rankin is more worthy of attention. He notes that there are 56 UNC members on the board, with State and W.C. having a minority of the 100 seats. Rankin, a Carolina graduate himself, thinks that State and W.C. deserve more representation. The committee selecting the new members (there are about 27 seats, either vacancies or term expirations) should take this matter into consideration.

A Priceless Stroll

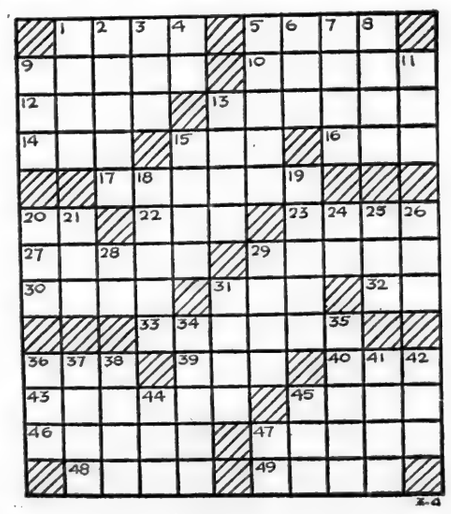
A walk at sundown around this area is revealing.

Away from the clutter and noise of the city (this little village of Chapel Hill is almost a city), students can get an infinite amount of lazy enjoyment from nature. Right opposite Cobb Dorm and the Monogram Club there is Battle Park. Around Kenan Stadium, there is a wealth of Springtime reminders. Along Morgan's Creek, on the Pittsboro Road there is plenty of nature to enjoy.

If the outer parts of the campus or the surrounding countryland are too far, just stroll on the campus proper. The dogwood blossoms are readying to greet you. The red buds are still with us. In front of the planetarium there are azaleas. A stroll through the arboreum will bring relaxation and inspiration to the weariest.

We know students who have been here for four years that never got nearer to nature than a "short subject" at the movies, or a required biology course. They won't even take the time to look at the flowers, or even the moon at night. Their life is a life of buildings, signs, and cement walks with no trees, no bushes, no birds.

You don't have to know the names of the plants or the vines. You don't really have to figure out whose chirp sounded last. All that is necessary is a pair of willing eyes, and perhaps, some energetic legs.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Shelter for sheep
5. Portico (Gr. arch.)
9. Approbation
10. The seashore
12. At a distance
13. Pin to hold parts together
14. Jellylike material
15. A hill (So. Afr.)
16. Speak
17. Shake with cold
20. Rough lava
22. Frost
23. A king of Israel
27. Edge
29. A size of type
30. Finest
31. Hasten
32. Affirmative vote
33. Shabby
36. The wallaba (Braz.)
39. Italian goddess of harvests
40. Tuber (So. Am.)
43. Mansions of lords
45. Smell
46. Fruit of the oak
47. Diving bird
48. Flaps
49. Lampreys

DOWN
1. Coffee shop
2. Egg-shaped figures
3. High, craggy hill
4. Erbium (sym.)
5. Area
6. Little child
7. Cereal grains
8. On the ocean
9. Cigarette (slang)
11. Attempt
13. A sheltered bay
15. Thrust with the foot
18. Cues
19. Stormed
20. Warp-yarn
21. Part of "to be"
24. Exclamation
25. Luzon native
26. Title of respect (Turk.)
28. Part of "to be"
29. Helps
31. Jumps (colloq.)
34. Musical instruments
35. Warble
36. Wine receptacle
37. Agreement
38. Wild ox (Celebes)
41. Male swans
42. Land measure
44. Sphere
45. Coin (Swed.)
47. Earth as a goddess

Yesterday's Answer

—Jim Wilkinson—

Cultural Lag

Everyone past Freshman sociology knows about the Cultural Lag. A rehash of the cause and effect would be as dull as the minds that allowed it to happen.

Briefly it is this: Scientists and technologists in our society are winning in the race to get somewhere—who knows where—first. The laggard is that element loosely defined as Culture.

A favorite device of anyone who sees he is losing a race is to sidestep the main issues and turn in wrath and vituperation upon whoever is out front. The motive is simple—it deflects attention, at least momentarily, from the laggard.

This device has never been better illustrated than the current clash between these two elements—Culture and Science. Admittedly the lag has taken on serious proportions. Science far more than Culture has proved itself to be accululative. New theories and premises are established on old ones, oftentimes before the old ones themselves have had a chance to be digested. It's a snowball effect we get, a wild headlong plunge that has gained unbelievable momentum and long ago lost any sense of direction. We dare not call it progress. Better we term it an age of experiments, and of course we all know who the guinea pigs are.

But wise or unwise, sane or insane, that is the situation in which we find ourselves, the Culturalists and the Scientists alike. Where do we go from here? There are only two real alternatives, backwards or forward. Peole don't "plan" to go backwards, at least not consciously, so we'll rule that one out.

Say everybody agrees we want to go forward. Well, let's not worry about the technologists—they seem to be making out all right. Let's take a look at the laggards. How are they meeting the challenge?

For the most part they have adopted a most dishonest and backhanded approach. Recently there has broken out in the press and on the rostrum a rash of cowardly attacks upon all those who don't admit to the same set of values. The attackers would never think of placing the blame on their own weaknesses. They enjoy being martyrs to the machine age—they find it easier than fighting back.

It's not a question of the idealist versus the realist, but rather the "doer" versus the slackard. An idealist can take positive action as well as a realists. The trouble is those who bemoan the Cultural Lag discuss antidotes in the obscure terms of pseudo-intellectuals who actually don't give a tinker's dam about what happens to anyone but themselves. They would panic at the very idea of taking any sort of concrete steps one way or the other. They prefer to languish in their own stagnant pools of self-pity. It's these flaccid, nebulous-minded characters that are the real stumbling block. Their very weakness is the cancer that is killing incentive among their ranks.

Of course a 20th Century Renaissance would be the answer. But we may have to wait along while for another such age of enlightenment.

In the meantime, those caught in the backwash should not try to pull themselves up by lowering the level of competition. Let them rather, direct any reflection upon themselves and see if they can't come up with some positive solutions, some real works, ideas that fairly jolt the world with their truth. They had better let the world of science alone—there's little they can do anyway — and concentrate upon their own shortcomings.

—Dedication—

(Continued from page 1)

dress the convocation. Greetings will be extended from the various professional societies.

That afternoon there will be separate meetings for doctors, dentists, hospital officials and nurses present for the dedicatory exercises.

Dr. David P. Barr, professor of medicine, Cornell University Medical College and Chief of Medical Service, New York Hospital, will address the physicians' group.

"If A Fire Breaks Out I'll Put In An Order For One"

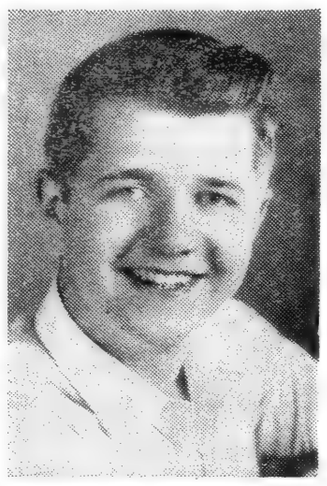
—Louis Kraar—

Party Line

Lowdown On Penegar

Ken Penegar, who believes in having a student member on the Board of Trustees, who eats in Lenoir Hall and who doesn't wear ties to class, talked about his campaign the other day.

We approached the Student Party's favorite son in his favorite eating place and asked him what he wants to do if he is picked president of the student body. He downed the last swallow of his iced tea and, pushing aside his plate, started his political pep-talk.



"The reason students don't have respect for their student government," said Mr. Penegar enthusiastically, "is because they can't see any benefits from it." He went on to say just what benefits student government would dish out if he wins this presidential race.

"I'd like to save the students some money for one thing," said the former Di Senate Speaker, former Student Union Activities Board chairman, Carolina Forum chairman and ex-fencing team member. Thrifty-minded Penegar said that he would like to see the practice of compulsory payment of Athletic Association fees done away with. "Why, there are grad students and many others who never go near the gym and still have to pay ten bucks a year in fees."

Penegar has held just about all the positions in student government that one usually holds when he aspires to the presidency. Like the rest of the SP candidates for executive posts, he's a fraternity man, a Kappa Sig.

We asked him if his political poster represents an innovation since it depicts him without the typical politician's necktie. Growing a little serious, he said, "Why, that's nothing new. Ham Horton's posters last Spring pictured him without a tie." He added, though, that this wasn't the sole factor that won the race for the University Party candidates last year.

"You know," said the SP presidential candidate who someone talked of the other day as looking as warm and friendly as a big old Saint Bernard, "I've been trying to go around and see all the students. I'm starting tonight to go around to all the dormitories. If there's anyone I don't get to see, I sure hope they'll drop by and see me up at Old East."

Ken Penegar

Since three other candidates are running against him, we asked him if he thought there might be a runoff. He responded with a broad smile, "I think so." Finally after some more questions about a runoff, Penegar said, "Assuming that I am in the runoff, it will probably be against Bob Gorham." Gorham is the University Party candidate. The other aspirants are independents Wade Matthews and Tommy Sumner.

Finally, we asked him wht he thought would happen in the runoff and Penegar reminded us of the presidential race in 1951. Ken's big brother, Dick was the UP candidate and he lost.

The winner, said Ken with an expression of party pride, was Henry Bowers, the SP candidate. Bowers beat the independent Ben James in a runoff.

We turned to leave the Student Party's Penegar, and he asked, "You're not going to print any of this are you?"

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles by columnist Kraar on the presidential aspirants.

Tarheel Indeed

The State Department of Conservation and Development has published a new promotional pamphlet. The title of it is: "North Carolina—The Tarheel State." Think of it! An agency of our government is giving almost official sanction to this misspelling of Tar Heel, the nickname of our State.

That comes under the heading of dirty work at the intersection. And it becomes even worse when that dirty work is compounded by dragging in General Robert E. Lee's name to sugar coat the pill. In a section called "Facts About North Carolina" it is baldly stated that Tarheel was the name applied by General Lee "to describe the sticking quality" of North Carolina Confederate troops.

General Lee may or may not have said that. But the point is that the origin of the name goes back to the time of the American Revolution. When Lord Cornwallis was marching northward, he crossed the Tar River near what is now the town of Rocky Mount. A part of the river is shallow at that place and the British troops easily waded across. However, the soldiers noted that after they had crossed the river a black sticky substance clung to their feet. It was fresh tar that had been dumped there by the tarmakers who had thus disposed of their boiling tar rather than have it fall into the hands of the British. Weeks later, when Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, his soldiers still had tar on their feet, and they swore that the people in North Carolina must all have tar on their heels.

But the worst thing that the Department of Conservation and Development has done is to merge the words Tar Heel into one. All these years true North Carolinians have uttered and written the words distinct and apart. At Chapel Hill it's the Daily Tar Heel. The song goes:

"I'm a Tar Heel born

I'm a Tar Heel bred,

And when I die

I'm a Tar Heel dead."

The change is outrageous. Those of us who were born Tar Heels may have to die Tarheels if the Department of Conservation and Development has its way.

Making one word of Tar Heel is as crazy as merging other good words for no good reason. Northcarolina has a Generalassembly now in session that ought to call officials of the Departmentofconservationand Development on the carpet and ask them if they have ever heard of the Tarriver, Atlanticocean, Essequamvidere, and Billumstead.

There ought to be enough capital H's left in Raleigh so that Tar Heel can be spelled the way it traditionally has been spelled.

The Winston-Salem Journal

—Drew Pearson—

The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

It doesn't often happen that a government bureau writes a secret memo aimed at killing little business and then proceeds to carry it out. However, this column has obtained a copy of a confidential plan, drawn up by the Civil Aeronautics Board in 1948, and carried out since then, to drive the non-sked airlines out of business.

These airlines sprang up after World War II and carried cut-rate, cross-country passengers who couldn't otherwise afford to fly. Most of the outfits were started on a shoe string by pilots just back from the war.

Ironically, they were encouraged and set up in business by the same CAB that later starting shooting them out of the skies with economic regulations after they gave the big airlines competition.

At one point, the CAB was forcing the non-skids into bankruptcy so fast that the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee called for a "stay of execution." The Senate small business committee also raised such a fuss that the CAB promised to try to find a place for the non-skeds in the aviation industry. What the Senators didn't know was that the man the CAB put in charge of this study, Louis Goodkind, was none other than the author of the secret blueprint towipe out the non-sked air lines.

Goodkind's secret plan was to repeal the blanket authorization that allowed the Non-Skeds to operate, then force each line to come before the CAB separately either for a certificate to operate as a regular airline or for permission to continue on a non-scheduled basis.

"Either procedure has the advantage of affording a means for ultimately terminating the operations of this group of carriers," Goodkind brazenly wrote in his secret memo never supposed to leak into print.

"A second reason in favor of either proposal," the memo continued, "is that it should not lay the board open to criticism of stamping out, without due process, these carriers which they have permitted to come into being. . . ."

Dated September 16, 1948, Goodkind's master plan to wipe out the non-skeds was followed to the letter by the CAB, which is supposed to guard the public interest, not protect the big airlines from competition.

On April 18, 1949, the CAB abolished the blanket authorization an dordered the non-skeds to file individual applications if they wanted to stay in business.

Of the first 103 applications acted upon, 78 were utrned down cold, thus forcing them out of business. No decision was handed down on 14 applicants, whereas only ten were approved. Significantly, the ten that got the OK were too small and insignificant to give the big airlines any competition.

This was also according to Goodkind's blueprint, which made the point that "the small (non-scheduled) carriers continue to perform a negligible amount of

(See PEARSON, page 4)

Carolina Beats Harvard In Tennis Here By 12-3

Netters Win All Singles But Last One

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina and Harvard tennis teams switched their lineups yesterday afternoon but the end result was the same—Carolina won, this time by a score of 12-3.

All of the Carolina losses came in the lower part of the lineup as the team continued to show its superiority over the Ivy Leaguers. The top part of the lineup won all of its matches without being entended in any of them.

The tennis team will meet Williams College this afternoon at 2:00 on the varsity courts.

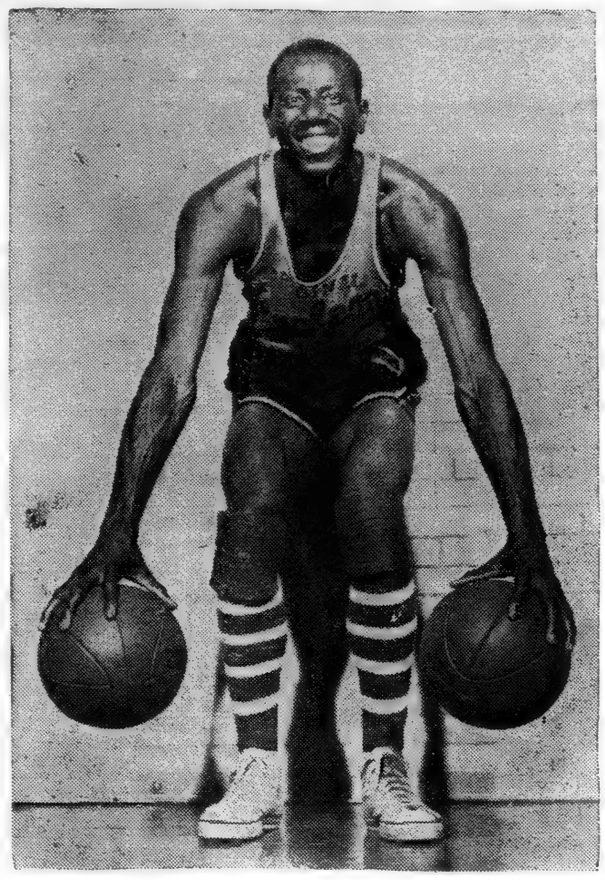
Yesterday's switch in lineups put Herb Browne in the number one position against Harvard's John Rauh. The match was very one-sided as Browne won eeasily 6-2, 7-5.

Tom Bradford, winner over Rauh in Monday's match, moved down to number two position yesterday and won over big Charlie Ufford 6-0, 6-1. Browne had defeated Ufford the day before in two close sets.

Don Thompson, outstanding freshman, swapped positions with Del Sylvia yesterday and played in the number three position. He beat Art French easily 6-0, 6-3. Sylvia played Don Bossart and won 6-1, 6-0.

Pete Green and Bob Payne rounded out the top six in the singles lineup in positions five and six respectively. Both won easily with Green taking a win over Alex Haeger 7-5, 6-3, and Payne defeating Dave Watts 6-0, 6-3.

The best tennis of the afternoon was in the first two doubles matches. Browne and Payne played as the number one combination and defeated Ufford and French in two very good sets 6-4, 8-6.



The Carolina pair got behind in the first set by three games before they could win one. Then they came back to tie up the match and finally break the Harvard service in the eighth game and go on to win.

Sylvia and Green teamed up in the second doubles position and won a hard three-set victory over Rauh and Haeger 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. Sylvia and Green won the first set easily and it looked another one-sided Carolina victory. However the Harvard team rallied and, mainly on the strength of Haeger's smashing serves, came back to make a real contest of the match.

The summaries:

Singles—Browne (UNC) defeated Rauh (H), 6-2, 7-5; Bradford (UNC) defeated Ufford (H), 6-0, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) defeated French (H), 6-0, 6-3; Sylvia (UNC) defeated Bossart (H), 6-1, 6-0;

(See TENNIS, page 4)

GOOSE TATUM

. . . leads the Globetrotters against the All-Stars tonight.

Globetrotters To Play Collegians In Coliseum

RALEIGH, March 31 (Special)—A game in the fourth annual "World Series" of basketball will be played in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at North Carolina State College tomorrow night, at 8:30 o'clock.

The competing teams will be the Harlem Globetrotters and the 1953 College All-Americans. They began the series in New York's Madison Square Garden last Sunday night and are now on a coast-to-coast tour, which will last for 19 days.

A sell-out crowd of 12,500 fans is expected at the State College Coliseum for the game, according to Coliseum Director W. Z. Betts.

Coached and owned by Abe Saperstein, the Globetrotters are taking 10 men on the national trek. They are Goose Tatum, Marques Haynes, Pop Gates, J. C. Gibson, Josh Grider, Babe Pressley, Elmer Robinson, Sam Wheeler, Clarence Wilson and Johnny Wilson.

Coaches of the collegiate squad are Ray Meyer of De Paul University and Honey Russell of Seton Hall.

Appearing in the college all-star lineup will be Irv Bemoras of Illinois, Dick Knostman of Kansas State, Ken Flower of Southern California, Norb Lewinski of Notre Dame, Ron Feiereisel of De Paul, Ernie Beck of Pennsylvania, Larry Hennessey of Villanova, Richie Regan of Seton Hall, and Norm Grekin of La Salle.

Also scheduled to face the Globetrotters are Darrell Tucker of Utah State, Jim Breder of Illinois, Bob Rousey of Kansas State, and Norm Swanson of Detroit.

UNC Tankmen Place Fifth In NCAA Meet

The Carolina swimming team put the finishing touches on a very successful season by placing fifth in the National Collegiate swimming meet at Ohio State this past weekend. This is the best showing ever made by a Southern team in the Nationals.

The Tar Heels gathered fourteen points which placed them behind Yale, Ohio State, Michigan, and Stanford in the team standings. Michigan State tied Carolina for fifth.

The best individual performance for the home team was turned in by co-captain Donnie Evans in the 150 yard individual medley. Evans' time of 1:33.6 was good enough to place him third in the event.

The Tar Heels picked up eight points by placing third in the free-style relay. Swimming for the team were Evans, Buddy Baarcke, Stan Tinkham, and Jack Edwards. Their time was a respectable 3:31.6.

Sophomore Warren Heeman surprised everyone by placing sixth in the 200 yard backstroke. Heeman beat Tommy Runlap, N. C. State's highly rated backstroker, in the preliminaries. His time in qualifying was 2:15.3.

Buddy Baarcke placed sixth in the 100 yard backstroke. The official timers gave fourth place to Baarcke but the finish judges gave him sixth. His time was :59.6.

In the medley relay the Carolina team turned in the fifth fastest time in the qualifying rounds but they did not qualify because they were third in their heat. On the first leg of the qualifying round, Baarcke held his own with Ohio State's Oyakawa who won two individual events in the meet.

Lacrosse Team Opens Season Here Tomorrow

The Tar Heel Lacrosse team has been grinding into shape for the past few weeks, pointing for its opening game of the 1953 season tomorrow with Williams, here. The Heels face another tough northern foe on Saturday when Cornell invades Chapel Hill.

These first two games of the season should give Coach Al Moore a good idea how his team will stack up with the best opposition. Carolina has never beaten a northern club.

Returning from last year's squad, which ran up a record of five wins, six losses, and one tie, are veteran attackers Ted Dawes, Dick Harrall, Dick Pillsbury (all lettermen), and Joe Walker. Co-Captain Walt Ernst should give reliable strength at the mid-field positions as should lettermen Buck Barkley, Bob Linker, Lou Wolfsheimer, newcomers Dick Baker, and Toby Haynsworth, and returnee Joe Burrell.

A tight race is being staged for the starting defense positions. Lettermen Tom Stokes, Earle Johnson, Mike Davis, and Charlie Friedman are being pushed for their spots by newcomers Jim Winston, Jere DuBose, and Steve Trimble.

Doug Styron, who played freshman Lacrosse in '50 and is returning to the team this year, is expected to provide extra strength and depth in this position.

Co-Captain Lew Floyd, honorable mention All-American last year, is returning to claim his goalie position. Art Einstein and freshman Tom Spain will fill in as reserves.

A tough 11-game schedule, including the National Champion University of Virginia Cavaliers, and always strong Washington and Lee and Dartmouth face Coach Moore's squad. The Tar Heels make their first northern trip since Lacrosse was installed in the athletic program here, when they travel to the University of Massachusetts April 13, and 14, and to Amherst on April 16.

Women Students Should Make Room Reservations

Room reservations for women students are now being taken for both summer school terms and the fall term.

Women students' rooms will be held for them until April 14. If by that time they have not made room reservations, their rooms will be assigned to incoming students.

A $6 room deposit for each term must be made and a room reservation card must be filed. Women students should see bulletin boards in their dormitories for procedure for making deposits and filing application cards.

Junior Varsity Golfers Take First Match Of Year At Finley

Carolina's junior varsity golf team had to count on its final foursome to beat Myers Park High School at Finley golf course Saturday as Phil Kreis and Eric Jonas came through with 8½ points to win the match 15½-11½.

Kreis, in fact was medalist for the day with a two-under par 70. His effort was enough to stop Gene Lookabill who paced the Myers Park team with a 72.

The high schoolers got off to a 6½-2½ lead in the first foursome as Bobby Sisk, one of the State's top young players shot a 78 against Carolina Eddie Pell.

The second foursome split even with 4½ points apiece. Then Kreis and Jonas came in to take the match.

Playing for the Tar Babies were Kreis, Jonas, Pell, Joe Correll, Charlie Erdman, Jimmy Sykes.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, PiKA vs. Pi Kap Phi-1; field 2, Sig Chi-3 vs. SAE-1; field 3, Delta Psi vs. Phi Delt-2.

5:00—Field 1, Phi Delt-1 vs. Phi Gam-2; field 2, Phi Kap Sig-1 vs. SAE-2; field 3, DKE-3 vs. Lamb Chi-1.

SPECIAL PURCHASE
GENUINE WHITE BUCKS $9.95
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

THEY HAD NOTHING TO LOSE BUT THEIR LIVES... AND THEY KNEW IT!

HERBERT J. YATES presents
THUNDERBIRDS
starring
JOHN DEREK · JOHN BARRYMORE, Jr.
MONA FREEMAN · GENE EVANS
EILEEN CHRISTY · WARD BOND
Last Times Today
Varsity
Late Show Sat. Nite
Starts Sunday

CO-STARRING
RICHARD CONTE
ARLENE DAHL
with AKIM TAMIROFF

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MIN. WEST OF CARRBORO ★ HIWAY 54
LAST TIMES TONIGHT

out-of-this world EASTER CARDS
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

CHECK THIS FOR SERVICE!

For real convenience plus safety, handle your expenses and pay your bills by check. All accounts are welcome regardless of size. Open your account today. The cost is so very small. Make our bank your "banking home away from home."

FOR THAT NEXT TIP CARRY SAFE, SPENDABLE TRAVELERS CHECKS—ONLY 75c PER $100

The Bank of Chapel Hill
CHAPEL HILL CARRBORO
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

CLOTH SHEETING, TOWELING, PRINT DRAPERY— 39¢ 3 yards for 1.00

CHINTZ, PRINT AND DRAPERY UP TO 48 IN. WIDE— 59¢ 2 yards for 1.00

DAN RIVER— 69¢ a yd.

ONE TABLE PICOLAY, BATES PRINT UP TO 1.50 A YD. RAYON GABARDINE. SALE PRICE— 98¢

1.00 OFF ON ANY BATES BEDSPREAD

BATES CHAMBRAY, RAYON PRINTS, SUITING— 1.39 SALE— 1.00 per yd.

PLAYTEX DRYPER, 100 PADS FOR— 1.00

PLAYTEX PANTS, DRYPER PANTIES, PLAYTEX SHEETS, ANY PLAYTEX ITEM OVER $1.00— 10% off

LADIES COATS, SUITS, TOPPERS, AND ALL DRESSES 8.95 AND UP— 1.00 off

LADIES COTTON PANTIES, FINE COTTON— 2 for 1.00

BLANKETS, CHATHAM AND FIELDCREST— 1.00 off

EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA HEAVY WHITE NAVY TOWELS. SPECIAL— 1.00

WHITE DUCK PANTS, SANFORIZED. SPECIAL— 3.50

MEN'S FRUIT OF THE LOOM UNDERWEAR, REGULAR AND BOXER SHORTS AND TEE SHIRTS— 69¢ each

ATHLETIC SHIRTS— 49¢ each

NEW ASSORTMENT OF NYLON, PRINTS & SOLIDS UP TO 48 IN. WIDE. REG. 1.39 WED. ONLY— 1.00 yd.

POLL PARROTT SHOES FOR CHILDREN
KEDS, BROWN, BLUE, RED AND WHITE (ALL SIZES)
FOR LADIES, SUMMERETTS, 15 STYLES TO CHOOSE FROM. SANDALS ANY STYLE— 3.48 up

BALLERINA SHOES, WHITE, GREEN, GOLD
LOOKING FORWARD FOR VACATION TIME — GET YOUR SAMSONITE LUGGAGE AT BERMAN'S. SMALL DEPOSIT WILL HOLD ANY ITEM.

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

Buy Now!

EASTER CARDS
—Now On Display—
LEDBETTER-PICKARD

Sunday April 5th Is The Day

Carolina Beats Harvard In Tennis Here By 12-3

Netters Win All Singles But Last One

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina and Harvard tennis teams switched their lineups yesterday afternoon but the end result was the same—Carolina won, this time by a score of 12-3.

All of the Carolina losses came in the lower part of the lineup as the team continued to show its superiority over the Ivy Leaguers. The top part of the lineup won all of its matches without being extended in any of them.

The tennis team will meet Williams College this afternoon at 2:00 on the varsity courts.

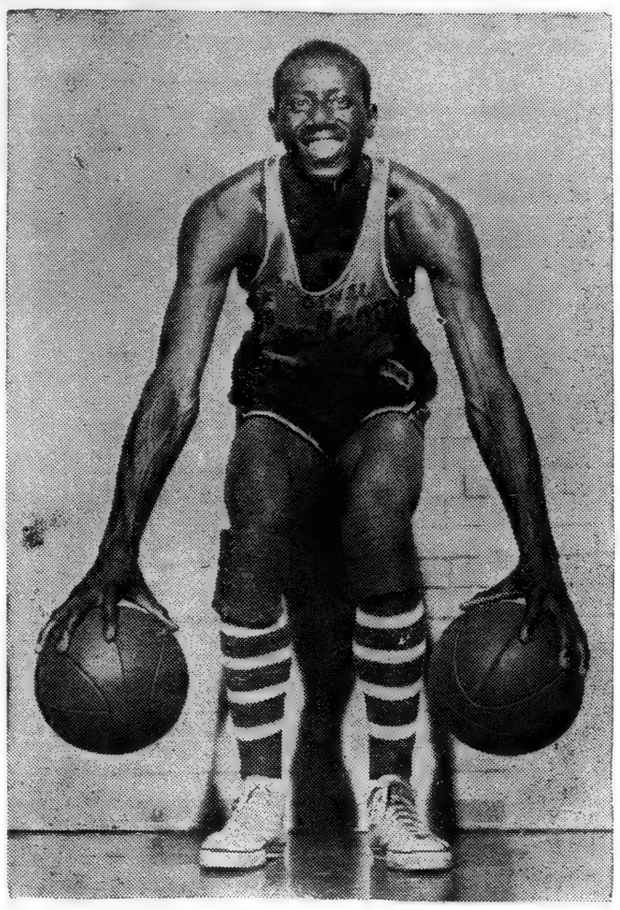
Yesterday's switch in lineups put Herb Browne in the number one position against Harvard's John Rauh. The match was very one-sided as Browne won eeasily 6-2, 7-5.

Tom Bradford, winner over Rauh in Monday's match, moved down to number two position yesterday and won over big Charlie Ufford 6-0, 6-1. Browne had defeated Ufford the day before in two close sets.

Don Thompson, outstanding freshman, swapped positions with Del Sylvia yesterday and played in the number three position. He beat Art French easily 6-0, 6-3. Sylvia played Don Bossart and won 6-1, 6-0.

Pete Green and Bob Payne rounded out the top six in the singles lineup in positions five and six respectively. Both won easily with Green taking a win over Alex Haeger 7-5, 6-3, and Payne defeating Dave Watts 6-0, 6-3.

The best tennis of the afternoon was in the first two doubles matches. Browne and Payne played as the number one combination and defeated Ufford and French in two very good sets 6-4, 8-6.



The Carolina pair got behind in the first set by three games before they could win one. Then they came back to tie up the match and finally break the Harvard service in the eighth game and go on to win.

Sylvia and Green teamed up in the second doubles position and won a hard three-set victory over Rauh and Haeger 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. Sylvia and Green won the first set easily and it looked another one-sided Carolina victory. However the Harvard team rallied and, mainly on the strength of Haeger's smashing serves, came back to make a real contest of the match.

The summaries:

Singles—Browne (UNC) defeated Rauh (H), 6-2, 7-5; Bradford (UNC) defeated Ufford (H), 6-0, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) defeated French (H), 6-0, 6-3; Sylvia (UNC) defeated Bossart (H), 6-1, 6-0;

(See TENNIS, page 4)

GOOSE TATUM

. . . leads the Globetrotters against the All-Stars tonight.

Globetrotters To Play Collegians In Coliseum

RALEIGH, March 31 (Special)—A game in the fourth annual "World Series" of basketball will be played in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at North Carolina State College tomorrow night, at 8:30 o'clock.

The competing teams will be the Harlem Globetrotters and the 1953 College All-Americans. They began the series in New York's Madison Square Garden last Sunday night and are now on a coast-to-coast tour, which will last for 19 days.

A sell-out crowd of 12,500 fans is expected at the State College Coliseum for the game, according to Coliseum Director W. Z. Betts.

Coached and owned by Abe Saperstein, the Globetrotters are taking 10 men on the national trek. They are Goose Tatum, Marques Haynes, Pop Gates, J. C. Gibson, Josh Grider, Babe Pressley, Elmer Robinson, Sam Wheeler, Clarence Wilson and Johnny Wilson.

Coaches of the collegiate squad are Ray Meyer of De Paul University and Honey Russell of Seton Hall.

Appearing in the college all-star lineup will be Irv Bemoras of Illinois, Dick Knostman of Kansas State, Ken Flower of Southern California, Norb Lewinski of Notre Dame, Ron Feiereisel of De Paul, Ernie Beck of Pennsylvania, Larry Hennessey of Villanova, Richie Regan of Seton Hall, and Norm Grekin of La Salle.

Also scheduled to face the Globetrotters are Darrell Tucker of Utah State, Jim Breder of Illinois, Bob Rousey of Kansas State, and Norm Swanson of Detroit.

UNC Tankmen Place Fifth In NCAA Meet

The Carolina swimming team put the finishing touches on a very successful season by placing fifth in the National Collegiate swimming meet at Ohio State this past weekend. This is the best showing ever made by a Southern team in the Nationals.

The Tar Heels gathered fourteen points which placed them behind Yale, Ohio State, Michigan, and Stanford in the team standings. Michigan State tied Carolina for fifth.

The best individual performance for the home team was turned in by co-captain Donnie Evans in the 150 yard individual medley. Evans' time of 1:33.6 was good enough to place him third in the event.

The Tar Heels picked up eight points by placing third in the freestyle relay. Swimming for the team were Evans, Buddy Baarcke, Stan Tinkham, and Jack Edwards. Their time was a respectable 3:31.6.

Sophomore Warren Heeman surprised everyone by placing sixth in the 200 yard backstroke. Heeman beat Tommy Runlap, N. C. State's highly rated backstroker, in the preliminaries. His time in qualifying was 2:15.3.

Buddy Baarcke placed sixth in the 100 yard backstroke. The official timers gave fourth place to Baarcke but the finish judges gave him sixth. His time was :59.6.

In the medley relay the Carolina team turned in the fifth fastest time in the qualifying rounds but they did not qualify because they were third in their heat. On the first leg of the qualifying round, Baarcke held his own with Ohio State's Oyakawa who won two individual events in the meet.

Lacrosse Team Opens Season Here Tomorrow

The Tar Heel Lacrosse team has been grinding into shape for the past few weeks, pointing for its opening game of the 1953 season tomorrow with Williams, here. The Heels face another tough northern foe on Saturday when Cornell invades Chapel Hill.

These first two games of the season should give Coach Al Moore a good idea how his team will stack up with the best opposition. Carolina has never beaten a northern club.

Returning from last year's squad, which ran up a record of five wins, six losses, and one tie, are veteran attackers Ted Dawes, Dick Harrall, Dick Pillsbury (all lettermen), and Joe Walker. Co-Captain Walt Ernst should give reliable strength at the mid-field positions as should lettermen Buck Barkley, Bob Linker, Lou Wolfsheimer, newcomers Dick Baker, and Toby Haynsworth, and returnee Joe Burrell.

A tight race is being staged for the starting defense positions. Lettermen Tom Stokes, Earle Johnson, Mike Davis, and Charlie Friedman are being pushed for their spots by newcomers Jim Winston, Jere DuBose, and Steve Trimble.

Doug Styron, who played freshman Lacrosse in '50 and is returning to the team this year, is expected to provide extra strength and depth in this position.

Co-Captain Lew Floyd, honorable mention All-American last year, is returning to claim his goalie position. Art Einstein and freshman Tom Spain will fill in as reserves.

A tough 11-game schedule, including the National Champion University of Virginia Cavaliers, and always strong Washington and Lee and Dartmouth face Coach Moore's squad. The Tar Heels make their first northern trip since Lacrosse was installed in the athletic program here, when they travel to the University of Massachusetts April 13, and 14, and to Amherst on April 16.

Women Students Should Make Room Reservations

Room reservations for women students are now being taken for both summer school terms and the fall term.

Women students' rooms will be held for them until April 14. If by that time they have not made room reservations, their rooms will be assigned to incoming students.

A $6 room deposit for each term must be made and a room reservation card must be filed. Women students should see bulletin boards in their dormitories for procedure for making deposits and filing application cards.

Junior Varsity Golfers Take First Match Of Year At Finley

Carolina's junior varsity golf team had to count on its final foursome to beat Myers Park High School at Finley golf course Saturday as Phil Kreis and Eric Jonas came through with 8½ points to win the match 15½-11½.

Kreis, in fact was medalist for the day with a two-under par 70. His effort was enough to stop Gene Lookabill who paced the Myers Park team with a 72.

The high schoolers got off to a 6½-2½ lead in the first foursome as Bobby Sisk, one of the State's top young players shot a 78 against Carolina Eddie Pell.

The second foursome split even with 4½ points apiece. Then Kreis and Jonas came in to take the match.

Playing for the Tar Babies were Kreis, Jonas, Pell, Joe Correll, Charlie Erdman, Jimmy Sykes.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, PiKA vs. Pi Kap Phi-1; field 2, Sig Chi-3 vs. SAE-1; field 3, Delta Psi vs. Phi Delt-2.

5:00—Field 1, Phi Delt-1 vs. Phi Gam-2; field 2, Phi Kap Sig-1 vs. SAE-2; field 3, DKE-3 vs. Lamb Chi-1.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MIN. WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54
LAST TIMES TONIGHT

CHECK THIS FOR SERVICE!

For real convenience plus safety, handle your expenses and pay your bills by check. All accounts are welcome regardless of size. Open your account today. The cost is so very small. Make our bank your "banking home away from home."

FOR THAT NEXT TIP CARRY SAFE, SPENDABLE TRAVELERS CHECKS—ONLY 75c PER $100

The Bank of Chapel Hill
CHAPEL HILL CARRBORO
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

out-of-this world EASTER CARDS
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

CLOTH SHEETING, TOWELING, PRINT DRAPERY— 39¢ 3 yards for 1.00

CHINTZ, PRINT AND DRAPERY UP TO 48 IN. WIDE— 59¢ 2 yards for 1.00

DAN RIVER— 69¢ a yd.

ONE TABLE PICOLAY, BATES PRINT UP TO 1.50 A YD. RAYON GABARDINE. SALE PRICE— 98¢

1.00 OFF ON ANY BATES BEDSPREAD

BATES CHAMBRAY, RAYON PRINTS, SUITING— 1.39 SALE— 1.00 per yd.

PLAYTEX DRYPER, 100 PADS FOR— 1.00

PLAYTEX PANTS, DRYPER PANTIES, PLAYTEX SHEETS, ANY PLAYTEX ITEM OVER $1.00— 10% off

LADIES COATS, SUITS, TOPPERS, AND ALL DRESSES 8.95 AND UP— 1.00 off

LADIES COTTON PANTIES, FINE COTTON— 2 for 1.00

BLANKETS, CHATHAM AND FIELDCREST— 1.00 off

EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA HEAVY WHITE NAVY TOWELS. SPECIAL— 1.00

WHITE DUCK PANTS, SANFORIZED. SPECIAL— 3.50

MEN'S FRUIT OF THE LOOM UNDERWEAR, REGULAR AND BOXER SHORTS AND TEE SHIRTS— 69¢ each

ATHLETIC SHIRTS— 49¢ each

NEW ASSORTMENT OF NYLON, PRINTS & SOLIDS UP TO 48 IN. WIDE. REG. 1.39 WED. ONLY— 1.00 yd.

POLL PARROTT SHOES FOR CHILDREN
KEDS, BROWN, BLUE, RED AND WHITE (ALL SIZES)
FOR LADIES, SUMMERETTS, 15 STYLES TO CHOOSE FROM. SANDALS ANY STYLE— 3.48 up

BALLERINA SHOES, WHITE, GREEN, GOLD
LOOKING FORWARD FOR VACATION TIME — GET YOUR SAMSONITE LUGGAGE AT BERMAN'S. SMALL DEPOSIT WILL HOLD ANY ITEM.

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

SPECIAL PURCHASE
GENUINE WHITE BUCKS $9.95
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

THEY HAD NOTHING TO LOSE BUT THEIR LIVES... AND THEY KNEW IT!

HERBERT J. YATES presents
THUNDERBIRDS
starring
JOHN DEREK · JOHN BARRYMORE, Jr.
MONA FREEMAN · GENE EVANS
EILEEN CHRISTY · WARD BOND
Last Times Today

Varsity
Late Show Sat. Nite
Starts Sunday
THE GREATEST ADVENTURE IN ALL THE RECKLESS LEGENDS OF THE FIGHTING FOREIGN LEGION!

CO-STARRING
RICHARD CONTE
ARLENE DAHL
with AKIM TAMIROFF

Buy Now!

EASTER CARDS
—Now On Display—
LEDBETTER-PICKARD

Sunday April 5th Is The Day

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

—Pearson—

(Continued from Page 2)

business in comparison with the largest and . . . a perpetuation of the present small degree of regulation over the small carriers should not have any serious effect on the total air transportation picture."

Another technique that Goodwind suggested to squeeze out the non-skeds was to abolish route operations.

"Our experience to date convinced us that, with few exceptions, it is necessary for carriers operating large aircraft to routinize their operations. . . ." He pointed out in his secret memo. "They must more and more confine their operations between certain points to build up a clientele and insure themselves of adequate load factors and a balanced directional flok . . . it is necessary in the case of the (irregular carriers) to make careful provision for their frequent overhauls and maintenance checks, crew changes, etc. Generally speaking, this cannot be successfully accomplished economically except on route operations."

Russia Expert Talks Tonight In Gerrard

Dr. Clyde Kluckhohn, director of the Russian Research Center and professor of anthropology at Harvard University, will deliver a lecture in Gerrard Hall tonight at 8:30.

Dr. Kluckhohn is being sponsored by the Institute for Research in Social Science and the Anthropology Club. He will speak on "The Problems of Values in Contemporary Civilization."

Author of a number of books and with extensive field work experience, he is one of the top ranking anthropologists.

Dr. Kluckhohn will serve, during his two-day visit here, as consultant on a Veterans Administration project being conducted by the University's Institute for Research in Social Science.

CUSC Row Continues

(Continued from page 1)

he and other CUSC officials had met with William Friday, assistant to President Gray, to work out another plan of consolidated student government. "No concrete plans" have been worked out yet, but other ones are planned, according to Horton.

The firm of management engineers who are making a survey of the administrative operation are going to meet with the president of the three student bodies to "find out how each student body prefers to have its feelings transmitted to the Consolidated University administration," Horton added.

President Horton said that a committee separate from the CUSC is going to work with the group to plan the Consolidated University Day program. Consolidated University Day will be held in Greensboro at WC on April 11.

Three other Carolina delegates have dropped out of the CUSC since last month. They are Virginia Hall, Tom Creasy and Jim McLeod.

What Goes On Here

Cheerleader

Students wishing to run for head cheerleader will be interviewed by the selection board tomorrow afternoon in Roland Parker Lounge No. 2 at 4 o'clock.

Tradin' Post $$

Students whose books have been sold by the Book Tradin' Post may pick up their money at the store in Graham Memorial today from 1 to 4 p.m. or tomorrow from 2 to 6 p.m.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet tomorrow at 5 p.m. in Hill Hall.

Card Board

Persons interested in working on the Card Board should meet in the office in the basement of Smith Dormitory tomorrow, 1 to 3 p.m. The board especially needs ushers and artists.

Old Well

Students who feel they are qualified for membership in the Order of the Old Well should fill out an application form in Dean Mackie's office, 313 South Building, before Friday.

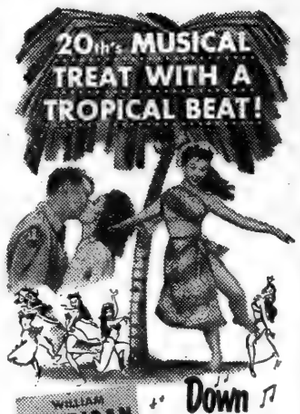
—Tennis—

(Continued from page 3)

Green (UNC) defeated Haeger (H), 7-5, 6-3; Kerdasha (UNC) defeated Sonnabend (H), 6-8, 6-4, 6-0; Gustafson (UNC) defeated King (H), 6-2, 6-1; Izlar (UNC) defeated Stone (H), 4-6, 6-0, 6-3; and Spencer (H) defeated Gordon (UNC), 6-4, 4-6, 9-7.

Doubles—Browne and Payne (UNC) defeated Ufford and French (H), 6-4, 8-6; Sylvia and Green (UNC) defeated Rauh and Haegler (H), 6-1, 3-6, 6-4; Stone and Bossart (H) defeated Izlar and Kerdasha (UNC), 6-4, 3-6, 7-5; Bradford and Thompson (UNC) defeated Watts and King (H), 4-6, 6-1, 6-3; and Goodman and Trinchieri (H) defeated Gustafson and Gordon (UNC), 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Polgar Has Amusing Program Devoid Of Usual Hocus-Pocus



Dr. Franz J. Polgar can indeed be called an originator and pioneer in the field of entertainment.

He has created a new and unusual form of amusement by using such intriguing mental phenomena as memory, hypnosis and mind-reading as the basis for all his programs. For the first time in his career he has brought his show, "Miracles of the Mind," to the American public.

Too often these mental phenomena have been misunderstood and abused, have fallen easy prey to charlatans, Dr. Polgar says.

Polgar appears minus a legendary turban and glass bowl, and he practically welcomes the "I'm from Missouri" reaction of so many of his audiences. And yet he has no difficulty getting volunteers for his various shows. Many are eager to be in the show, eager to watch at closest range what at first seems like trickery. Planters in the audience, signals to accomplices are some of the comments that often come from the floor.

He will be here tomorrow at 8 p.m. for a Memorial hall appearance under the sponsorship of the Student Union Activities Board.

— PLUS —
CARTOON — NEWS
NOW PLAYING
Carolina

It's time to roll up your sleeve...

GIVE BLOOD NOW

CALL YOUR RED CROSS TODAY!
★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★

11:00 A.M. to 5 P.M.
APRIL 6-7-8
GRAHAM MEMORIAL

Phone 5611 or 9-1881
FOR APPOINTMENT

LEAVE IT TO US!

If you're one of those ladies or gents who stares in wonder at the maze of wires and gadgets under the hood of your car, you need a reair shop with a reputation for reliability and square dealing. You need OUR service. Drive up!

POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

Who Gives Blood?

Mrs. Dorothy Newman
Hospital Nurse, Finds the Answer at Her Local Blood Donor Center

"I was working in Emergency when they brought the child in. She was like a tiny, broken doll in the truck driver's arms. They started transfusions immediately. Without blood, no surgery, no wonder drugs could have saved her. It took three pints . . . before her eyes opened . . .

"As I watched the transfusions, I wondered about those three unknown blood donors. I wondered—who gives blood . . . and why?"

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Mrs. Newman found the answer at her local blood donor center. "It's wonderful," she said, "how talkative and neighborly this painless gift of blood makes people . . . all strangers and yet sharing this great experience together.

"The people? All different. Veterans, businessmen, stenographers. Everybody.

"The reasons? Different, too . . . 'an older brother in Korea' . . . or a buddy 'lying forgotten in a hospital here' . . . a housewife who heard 'it would be needed in case we were suddenly attacked' . . . and one little man who kept saying, 'Well, of course, of course . . . it's the thing to do, just like voting!'

"As they spoke, I thought again of that child . . . and the three pints of blood. Was her need less urgent than a wounded soldier's? Than preparation for the day when the planes overhead might not be ours? And it seemed to me that as long as a single pint of blood may actually mean the difference between life and death today or tomorrow for any American . . . including you and me . . . the need for blood must always be urgent!"

★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★

GIVE BLOOD NOW
Call Your Red Cross Today!

CONTRIBUTED AS A PUBLIC SERVICE BY

The Daily Tar Heel

IT'S HERE!

PAPST BLUE RIBBON ON TAP

The Only 10c Beer In Town

THE NEW UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT

The coolest, friendliest atmosphere in town

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

MAN OR WOMAN WITH CAR. Greensboro Daily News-Record for Chapel Hill and vicinity. Good proposition. Car expenses. Write News-Record, Greensboro, N. C. (1-c3488-5)

LOST

LOST: ONE PAIR SLACKS, ONE blue sweater, one red sweater at Wrightsville Beach, March 29. Reward. Contact DTH Office. No chg. Staff

HELP WANTED

YOUNG LADY TO WORK AS cashier and sales lady. Part time work. Apply 2-5 p.m., Danziger's Restaurant, 2086. Chg. 1x1

FOR SALE

FOR SALE: ONE SINGER TREADle sewing machine. Good condition. $32.50. Call 9-5708(Mr. Clark. 1c3492-1

Some smokers choose just any brand;
They always wear a frown.
So just smoke Luckies and you'll have
Enjoyment that's deep-down!
James F. Quetach
University of Notre Dame

All facts don't come from textbooks;
Here's one I learned from Pappy:
Despite the claims of other brands,
Smoke Luckies—you'll be happy!
Fay W. Barron
University of Miami

Nothing-no, nothing-beats better taste
and LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!
Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette . . . for better taste—for the cleaner, fresher, smoother taste of Lucky Strike . . .

Be Happy-GO LUCKY!

When schoolwork has you in a whirl,
And facts escape your mind,
Remember Luckies' better taste—
A smoker's greatest find!
Gerald Robbie
New York University

Where's your jingle?

It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles—and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

© A. T. Co.

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Fair and cooler with 72 high. Yesterday's high, 80; low, 59.

The Daily Tar Heel

RAMBLE
The editors talk and talk today. See p. 2.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 120 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

MacCarthy In The Basement In The Dark

Prof's New Toy Breaks Down As Earthquake Records Here

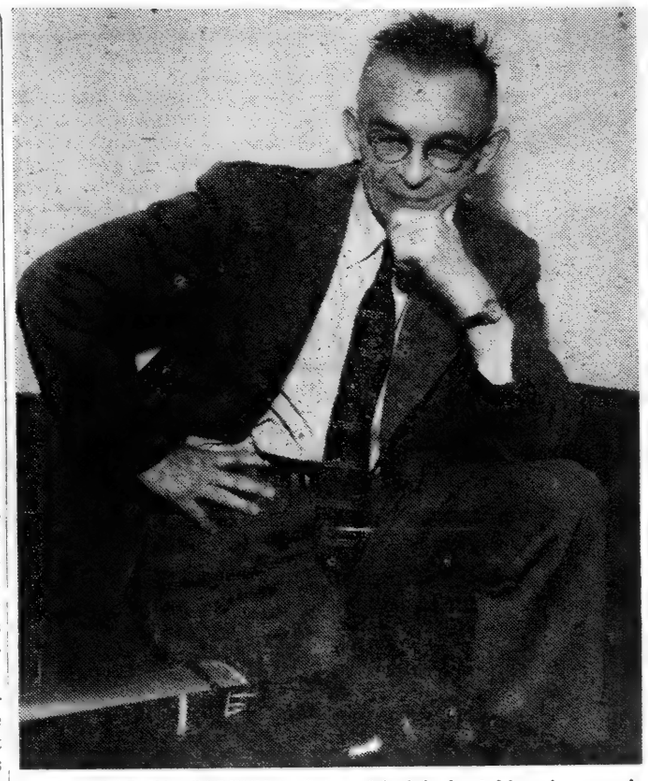
By Alice Chapman

The violence of the earthquake in Western Turkey on March 18 was detected half a world away in Chapel Hill.

Here on the campus a delicate machine picked up the tremors caused by the quake. However, the new seismograph was so sensitively adjusted to earth movements that the violence of the motion threw the machine into disorder. A record of approximately four minutes was obtained but a complete one was impossible.

Dr. Gerald R. MacCarthy, professor of geology and geophysics in the Geology Department, acquired the machine last Summer, but has been able to operate it only recently. The necessity of constructing a concrete base for the seismograph to rest upon that was separate from the building structure, delayed the machine's operation and Dr. MacCarthy found his first opportunity to test the apparatus on seismic disturbances when the Turkey earthquake developed.

On the record Dr. McCarthy obtained, the appearance of the quake was easily observable. In contrast to the usual nearly straight lines of small fluxuation which are recorded at all times, the quake appeared as long sharp nearly vertical lines.



The entire machine, seismometers, galvanometers, and recording drum, is housed in the basement of the geology and geography building. MacCarthy pointed out that the seismic device must operate in darkness because it uses photographic methods of recording. A reflected light reacting to the seismometers which pick up the tremors is exposed on photographic paper which is later developed. This paper moves on a rotating drum which is timed to revolve four times hourly.

Another necessary part of such a project is an accurately timed clock. Dr. MacCarthy synchronizes his clock within less than a second with official Bureau of Standards time as transmitted by station WWV at Beltsville, Maryland. The clock makes "time marks" on the records once each minute so that the exact time at which the quake is recorded can be figured to less than a second.

The University shop constructed a seismograph a few years ago, but it was impossible to obtain the proper sensitivity with the handmade machine.

MacCarthy stated that possibly the nearness of Chapel Hill to the eastern coast caused the present very sensitive seismograph to pick up minor ocean and coast disturbances. Part of the apparatus has been returned to the factory for adjustment to the particular conditions prevailing in Chapel Hill. It will then be less affected by the common movements set up by winds and waves while still receptive to the more violent shocks of the earthquake type.

The seismograph operated by Dr. MacCarthy is one of the few in the South east of the Appalachian range, the nearest seismological mountains. Laboratories are located at the University of South Carolina, in Columbia, in Washingington, D. C., and at Morgantown, W. Va.

DR. G. R. MacCARTHY took a quizical look at his seismograph when it defaulted on its first earthquake. Dr. MacCarthy, who has his pet installed in the basement of the Geology Department, soon found the trouble: the seismograph was too sensitive. An adjustment is being made.—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

Dr. Polgar To Present Show Tonight At 8 In Memorial Hall

Dr. Franz Polgar, internationally famous hypnotist and mind reader, returns to Memorial hall tonight at 8 o'clock to unfold his astonishing "Miracles of the Mind" show.

Sponsored by the Special Services Committee of SUAB, Polgar delighted capacity audiences here in 1949, 1950 and 1952 with his demonstrations of mind reading, hypnotism and memory.

Anne Bell, chairman of the Special Services Committee, requests that students come early to be assured of seats. All University students will be admitted free upon presentation of their I. D. Cards.

The Hungarian-born student of Freud and graduate of Budapest University holds doctorate degrees in both psychology and economics. For many years he has been a brilliant exponent of the human mind and its mysteries. His appearance in Chapel Hill is preceded by lectures, addresses and demonstrations before numerous medical groups and leading university round-tables.

At 7 p.m. the Memorial Hall doors will be opened to students. Admission is $1, including tax, to townspeople and all others at 7:40 p.m.

The members of the Special Services Committee of SUAB are Miss Bell, chairman, Edith Cross, Janet Cornwall, Lib Suddreth, Peg Hall, B. G. Williams, Mary Ruth Linville and Betsy Clarke.

UP Nails First 4 Planks Into New Platform

The University Party yesterday announced the initial four planks of the platform from which it will conduct the Spring campaign.

Bob Gorham, UP presidential candidate, in announcing the platform said, "Rather than hand down a platform created in a smoke-filled room, we are going to you, the students, and find out what you want. It is our duty to bring student government to you. We feel that this is one of the best ways to do this."

University Party candidates have challenged the other candidates to a debate in Aycock Dormitory social room tonight at 7:30. You're invited.

"This platform is going to contain concrete ideas that can be carried out," continued Gorham. "There are going to be no fancy political phrases. The whole thing is going to be based on common sense. We intend to present the platform in sections as we can obtain it from you."

The UP presidential favorite asked students to suggest more planks.

The four planks promised:

1. Installation of cigaret and candy machines in dormitories.
2. Getting janitors to make-up beds in the dormitories.
3. Continuation of Tarnation.
4. Allowing women the privilege of visiting in men's dormitories.

Commenting on the project of installing cigaret and candy machines in dormitories, Gorham said, "This can definitely be accomplished. We have already contacted the administration and they assure us that with the proper negotiations the machines can be installed."

And on the project of getting the janitors to make-up beds, he said, "This is a very practical idea and can be put through very easily. It is now done at State College. We feel that it should be done here also."

Shotts Talks Tonight At Y

Claude C. Shotts, General Secretary of the YMCA, will speak tonight at 6:30 in the Y on the subject of "Group Discussion Methods."

Arranged by the Freshman Camp Planning Committee, the meeting is open for all students who want to learn the essentials of effective leadership. Pointers on leading group discussions will constitute tonight's topic, with special reference to the cabin groups at Freshman Camp.

Men who wish to apply for positions as counselors in the Freshman Orientation program, sponsored by the Student Government, will find this meeting helpful, Shotts said. Student groups, either on the campus or in the churches, also are invited to attend.

Book Post

Students may get money for books sold at the APO book exchange today from 2 to 6 o'clock.

Three Students Fined In Court

Three students were among those appearing before Judge William S. Stewart of the Chapel Hill Recorder's Court for traffic violations.

John J. Hanes, a junior from Charlotte, and J. A. Johnson Jr., sophomore from Ayden, were haled before the court for yielding to the inclinatino to "step on it." Johnson also was charged with a stop sign violation. They paid fines of $10 and $15, respectively, and costs.

Miles C. Gregory, student from Halifax, was fined $25 and costs when judged guilty of driving without an operator's license.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — Even though he was convinced that it would destroy the Red armies in Korea, he was stopped by orders from making an amphibious landing behind the Communist lines in June, 1951, Gen. James A. Van Fleet testified yesterday. The former Eighth Army commander told Senators he was ready to go with the operation when he received stop orders from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, then the Far Eastern commander. At the start of the Senate group's investigation of ammunition shortages in Korea, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine said, "There is no doubt that there were shortages" despite the Pentagon's denial that there were any of consequence.

★

MOSCOW — In the first official Soviet comment on the latest Korean developments, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov yesterday pledged Soviet assistance to bring about an armistice on the basis of proposals by Chinese Premier Chou Enlai. Molotov said he was sure the action "will be understood by the United States government." At the same time Molotov strongly suggested that Red China and the North Koreans should be represented in the United Nations. This would greatly assist in settling the issues of the Korean war, he said.

★

STOCKHOLM — Swedish Deputy Foreign Minister Dag Hammarskjold yesterday accepted a Security Council offer to succeed Trygve Lie as UN general secretary. UN officials viewed the Soviet acceptance of Hammarskjold and their Korean truce promise of help as major steps in the new post-Stalin peace offensive.

★

DUBUQUE, Ia. — A teenage Marine yesterday admitted five wanton murders in four days. "I best leave the part about sound mind out of this," he wrote in his confession. Pvt. Fred E. McManus of Camp Lejeune and Valley Stream, N. Y. asked police to free his "dirty blonde" girl friend. The girl said, "We started off together and shared everything and I want it to end that way. I waited in the car while Fred went in to hold up the people . . . when he got back to the car he told me what had happened." McManus got a total of $58 in loot for his five murders.

★

RALEIGH — Directors of the North Carolina Press Association yesterday adopted a three-point resolution calling on the General Assembly to repeal its secrecy law. The directors deplored the legalizing of secret sessions by the Legislature.

Chi Psi, Delta Delta Delta, McIver, Mangum Win Sing

Tish Coley Awarded Cup As Top Coed

Patricia Coley won the Senior Girl Cup last night at the Valkyrie Sing.

The identity of the winner was not revealed until she was called on stage at Memorial Hall.

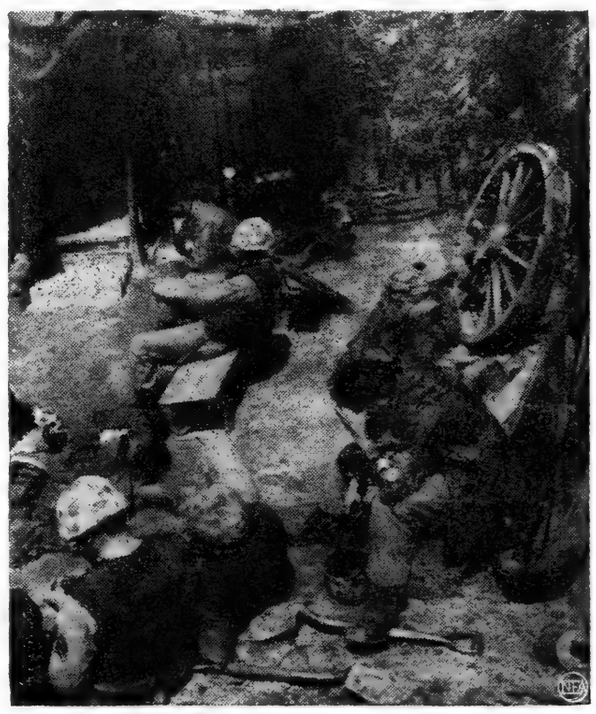
The cup is awarded annually to the campus' outstanding coed, who is selected on a basis of leadership, service, character, and scholarship.

Miss Coley is vice-president of the Valkyries, chairman of the Valkyrie Sing, and president of McIver Dorm. She is a Pi Beta Phi.

"I believe this should have gone to every girl in our class," Miss Coley said upon receiving the cup.

Dean E. L. Mackie made the presentation.

A selected committee composed of six representatives makes the selection annually.



TISH COLEY

George Cox Given Grant For $2,300

George Elton Cox, medical student from Winterville, N. C., has been awarded a $2,300 pre-doctoral research fellowship by the Life Insurance Medical Research Fund. The tenure is for one year.

A recent graduate of the University, Cox will continue his medical education while holding the the study of vascular diseases in the studf of vascular diseases in pathology. He will be associated with and assist Dr. C. Bruce Taylor on research projects supported in part by the North Carolina Heart

(See COX, page 2)

EVEN AS THE NEWS CAME that Chinese Communists have opened the way to a resumption of truce talks in Korea, so came a lull in the heavy fighting around the Vegas Hill sector. Exhausted medics of the U. S. First Marine Division take a well-earned breather as fighting was confined primarily to minor clashes between patrols. —NEA Telephoto.

CAMPUS SEEN

Doctor at Medical School, after discovering that sterilized water from laboratory was being used by one of workmen outside to mix concrete, sharply reprimanding workman. Culprit replies, "Aw, it won't hurt the cement none."

* * *

Burly grounds worker chasing mammoth Laborador retriever who made off with his lunch bag.

* * *

Bleach white males spread-eagled around men's dorms trying to get beach brown.

YWCA Picks 6 New Officers In Vote Tonight

Ballots bearing the names of nominees for the six major YWCA offices will be passed out in all women's residence halls tonight.

All YWCA members are eligible to vote for the nominees who were selected at a Y meeting last week.

Nominated for the office of Y president are Marilyn Habel, Chapel Hill, Janie Carey, Washington, D. C., Mase Chapin, Richmond, Va. and Ann Fleming, Raleigh. The runnerup for president will serve as Y vice-president.

Marilyn Habel, a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, has served as secretary of the Consolidated University Council, a member of Women's Honor Council, member of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors, and on the Y cabinet for the past year as chairman of the conference committee.

Janie Carey a Chi Omega, attended Sweetbriar College before coming to UNC. She has been active in the Canterbury Club and a member of The Daily Tar Heel staff.

Mase Chapin is a Tri Delt and served as chairman of UNC's mock election this fall. She is a member of the Y Campus Affairs committee and came to UNC from Virginia Intermont.

Ann Fleming, a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, has been vice president of Pan-Hel at UNC and comes from Mary Washington where she was active in the Y as chairman of the Vespers committee.

Nominees for Y secretary are Emily Cook, Arlington, Va.; Anna Stout, Scott, Miss.; Connie Lassiter, Rich Square; Mary Lowry, Atlanta, Ga.; Edith Rodgers, Wilmington and Martha Bridger, Bladenboro.

Four coeds will vie for the office of treasurer. They are Anne Patterson, Edenton; Celia Brown, Myrtle Beach; Pat Miller and Mary Jane Bumpous, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Running for program chairman are Jane Berryhill, Chapel Hill; Elinor Wrenn, Greensboro and Peggy Pierpont, Chapel Hill.

Nominated for membership chairman are Tolly Randolph, Chapel Hill; Jody Desmond, Charlotte; Joan Russell, Kenmore, N. Y.; Sara Rose, Chapel Hill; Ann Folger, High Point and Sarah Kate Davis, Graham.

YMCA Elects Ned Harbin

Ned Harbin of Winston-Salem was elected president of the YMCA for 1953-54, at a recent membership meeting.

Other officers elected were Robert Hyatt of Cherokee, vice-president; Susan Fink of Chapel Hill, secretary and Stuart Jones of Winston-Salem, treasurer.

Harbin, a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, has been active in the YMCA World Relatedness Commission.

Pi Phi's, Carr And Sigma Chi Get Mentions

By Louis Kraar

Chi Psi's love medley and Delta Delta Delta's medieval masquerade last night pleased a large Memorial Hall audience, as well as the judges, to win the annual Valkyrie Sing.

McIver Dorm presented a rundown on the types of dates in "Our Coeds," and won the cup for the women's dormitory division.

Mangum Dorm, a surprise entry not on the program, lent a handful of barber shop songs to win the prize in their division. They had no competition.

The Tri Delt song and dance routine was called "A Coed in King Arthur's Court." The string of song parodies executed by the "ladies" and "knights" won enthusiastic approval by the audience. The Chi Psi opus was called "It's Love." It included "All the Things You Are" and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

"Knight of Arthur's table, will you buy me a sable, a lady wants to glitter before she's a baby sitter; you can't buy a lady with a sword," sang the Tri Delts, led by Nancy Murray and Kit Wallace.

Pi Beta Phi won honorable mention in the sorority division. Their number, "Sleepy Time Gal," was a polite poke at coed hours, and drew many laughs.

Sigma Chi won honorable mention in the fraternity division with a production number, "Sigma Chi Sing." The Sigma Chi number included "Time on My Hands" and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," complete with smoking stone urns. They concluded with "All Through the Night."

McIver Dorm won the biggest laughs with their gripes set to music on not having enough dates. Carr Dorm, the only other women's dorm entered in the competition, won honorable mention. "Export the Imports" or "All that Glitters Is Only Gold Eye Shadow" was the title of their lament on imports.

Alpha Delta Pi turned back the clock to the roaring twenties, Alpha Gamma Delta gave a solemn, beautiful set of songs on "World Peace," Chi Omega got in tempo with the weather outside with a number called "Rain," and Kappa Delta praised "Boy Imports."

Judges for the competition were Edgar Allen, Foster Fitz-Simons, William Poteat, Mrs. Fred McCall, and Wallace E. Caldwell.

Other fraternity participants included Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Sigma and Phi Kappa Phi.

LSU Censors Leading Mags

BATON ROUGE La., April 1. (Special)—Recent issues of Coronet and Collier's magazines, objected to by several faculty members as obscene, have been banned from newsstands on the LSU campus.

The actual directive came from Dr. Daniel Borth, LSU controller. Dr. Borth explained the university's position by saying educational institutions are different from ordinary commercial enterprises and as such are subjected to more criticism in matters such as this.

LSU President Middleton said, "I will permit no obscene literature to be sold in the Field House and I want parents to know that. I think the parents will back me up on this."

DTH Openings

The Daily Tar Heel will hold a staff meeting tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the newsroom for those interested in working for the paper.

Work is available in the news, editorial, sports and business departments. Past experience is helpful but not always necessary.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe, Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Members Of The Board

The time: 11 a.m. April, 1955.

The place: Raleigh, Legislative chambers in the State Capitol.

Governor: The meeting will come to order. Is there a motion to suspend the rules?

Trustee X: So moved.

Governor: All in favor say aye.

All Trustees: Aye.

Governor: Opposed, no.

Silence.

Governor: The ayes have it. We will proceed with the controversy over tuition. The chair recognizes the student Trustee representing students from the Consolidated University.

Student Trustee: Governor, members of the Board: A Consolidated student committee in cooperation with faculty members have found that approximately 500 potential students would not come to Chapel Hill or State if tuition were raised. The number for Woman's College would be about 350. The committee also found that the estimated number of potential students who can't come here now because of high tuition is well over that number. These potential students have drifted to other institutions. We refer you to the UNC Chancellor's report on the number of students who are working while going to college. Tuition at the first state university in America should go down, not up if we are to fulfill the initial purposes of William Richardson Davie. This is the State University. It is a center of learning where all who are qualified, should have the opportunity of attendance. Tuition at other schools in North Carolina are lower. High tuition rates would merely shut off a source of students, a loss that would be hard to substitute for . . .

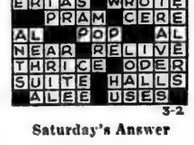
This purely imaginary Board of Trustee meeting could be a reality. This could be a student talking to the Trustees with the rank of Trustee. The Trustees could hear the student viewpoint in action. A student vote would be registered. The suggestion made by Ken Penegar, candidate for president, is worthy of serious study.

The old and occasionally true statement that the University is for the students could be made more real by the seating of an elected representative, of the students of the Consolidated University.

Different Twists

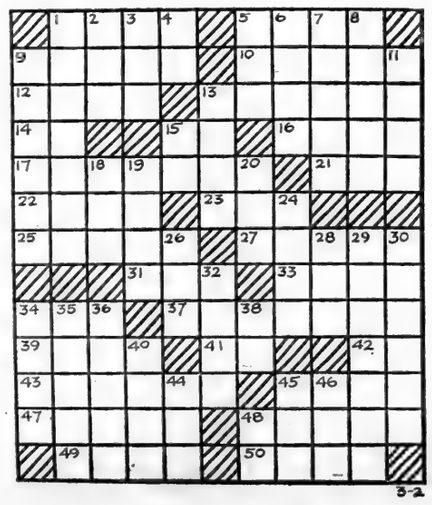
One candidate has a different approach. Instead of a handshake he gives you a condensed budget and waits for answers.

The student's interest perks up. "I didn't know The Daily Tar Heel got $19,000 in student fees last year?" he says. Then the candidate says he'll try and prove things by keeping students in mind.



This education via electioneering is new to our knowledge. There is another candidate that has a new twist too. His sign says, "Politicians not wanted," then a check list of "Studying, Sleeping," or "Not Interested" is available for those who wish to remain undisturbed.

The Daily Tar Heel hopes that students will want to be disturbed at least for the top presidential posts. Campaigning is one way of getting to know people, especially people who will be in important positions. A two minute interruption by a "politician" might prove valuable.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. To wax (obs.)
5. Russian inland sea
9. Goat antelope (Asia)
10. The nostrils
12. Search
13. The setting of the sun
14. Ahead
15. Type measure
16. Member of a political party (Gr. Brit.)
17. Bright red
21. American humorist
22. Prong
23. Striking success (slang)
25. Strikes
27. Indian fig tree
31. Female pig
33. Organ of smell
34. Town (Indiana)
37. Liberal giving
39. Solitary
41. Music note
42. Part of "to be"
43. Mechanical device (colloq.)
45. Drive
47. Arabian gazelle
48. By oneself
49. Brownish-red chalcedony
50. Vats

DOWN
1. Assembly of persons
2. Sea eagle
3. Rodent
4. Elevated train
5. God of the sky (Babyl.)
6. Speak violently
7. Incendiarism
8. Wary (slang)
9. Specters
11. Inflamed swelling of eyelid (var.)
13. Merganser
15. Hebrew name for God
18. Miscellany
19. Twilled fabrics
20. Spinning toy
24. Platform on side of stage
26. Coin (Peru)
28. American poet
29. Allots
30. One to whom lease is granted
32. Bear through the air
34. Seaweed
35. Bellows
36. Asiatic country
38. Sun god
40. Bavarian river
44. Old times (archaic)
45. Eskimo knife
46. Steal
48. Close to

Saturday's Answer

3-2

Dan Duke

What Price Another Hill

Last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, four other Carolina students and I attended a United Nations student symposium in New York City. For these three days, we heard lectures, watched the UN in function, and discussed world problems with students from all parts of the country.

On Friday, by coincidence, I bought a copy of the New York Herald Telegram which contained ironically enough, a front page editorial asking, "What Price Another Hill in Korea?"

Jim G. Lucas, the author was deeply disturbed over the stalemate in Korea. He wanted the answers to the why questions—why are we fighting, why are American lives being sacrificed over a crummy piece of earth like "Old Baldy" for example.

These are difficult questions. Lucas, however, decided that there were no good answers, no real justification for the United States and the UN to be in Korea.

I cannot agree with him.

Korea was the first serious challenge to the UN. While North Korea's attack on South Korea was a localized act of aggression, the aggression had implications of concern to almost all the major powers—especially Russia and the United States.

The integrity and purpose of the UN were at stake: could the Communist-supported North Koreans attack South Korea and get away with it? Was the UN destined like the League of Nations to disintegrate for lack of military and economic support in disputes where crucial differences existed?

The United States courageously intervened immediately — a bold step in this experiment called international collective security. As soon as possible, all but five of the sixty member nations voted their approval, and sixteen subsequently have joined and given economic and military aid to the United Nations forces in South Korea. This was a significant precedent in collective security. And in Korea lies the answer to whether collective security will succeed, to whether the UN will stand or fall.

If the UN is defeated or evacuates North Korea, the Communist aggressor nations will get their cue: They'll know that they can expand "unimportant country by unimportant country", until the rest of the world wises up—perhaps too late.

The League collapsed when Italy was allowed to take over Ethiopia. The UN will collapse if North Korea is allowed to take over South Korea.

"Old Baldy" is a lousy mountain. It is absolutely worthless real estate. It is of no economic or military importance. But in that tiny, war - ravaged stretch of land, literally, is a world at stake. The stalemate is depressing. Its sickening to see life after life go, apparently for nothing but rocks and muddy slush. But as far as I'm concerned its better that we stop aggression now, not when we are on the brink of disaster or when it is too late.

If the UN fails or withdraws in Korea, then NATO will remain as our only hope for national security. The many small nations which are not members of NATO will have no such security. They will be left to the whims of aggressor nations.

If the UN succeeds in working out a settlement in Korea, then the world will have an object lesson in collective security. A precedent will be established, and a way to stronger international security will open.

What price another hill in Korea? What price another hill in the United States? We are concerned with the freedom and integrity of South Korea, yes, but we are primarily concerned with American security. The policy of appeasement has never worked yet. Why should we think South Korea will satisfy the Communists?

—Cox—

(Continued from page 1)

Association and the American Heart Association.

The Life Insurance Medical Research Fund, a cooperative organization sponsored by some 150 life insurance companies, was set up to provide opportunities for training or experience in fundamental research, with preference to students wishing to work in the field of cardiovascular function or disease.

"Roll Out The Barrel"

Ron Levin

Flip Side

As everyone on this campus realizes or should realize by now my column is written solely for the purpose of provoking a few laughs at scattered intervals from those unfortunate few who happen to glance at the printed lines and any dig, rib, or razz at anything or anyone is done for fun, spelled f-u-n, pronounced fun, u as in Philadelphia. My column in Friday's edition mentioned a few of the more interesting types of personalities to be found on campu, and as I said in the article it was only a partial rundown on these types. I took for granted that everyone or nearly so had a working knowledge of Joe College. Now it seems the one I thought least important has become a center for ridicule and criticism. But Albert old chap, (A. Z. F. Wood to you readers) don't get me wrong. I understand that your column Sunday was aimed at the type I left out and not at me, but here the issue becomes strained somewhat. You see, though I myself ride an English bike smoke a pipe, and like to be by myself, there are definite traces of Joe College inside also. This throws me under the juggernaut of your category in Sunday's edition, and I strongly resent your attack on poor Joe.

Sure, I wear white bucks. They're darn comfortable. They last a long time, and get dirtier quicker than any other type of shoe. I have no convertible, but would not turn one down if offered me. I like Marilyn Monroe, and if I didn't I would run, not walk to the nearest psychiatrist. I don't play poker, but play in a dance band instead to make a few bucks to ease financial strain. I like Jerry Lewis solely because he's funny and for no other reason. Being a musician myself I happen to like at times Ray Anthony, good Dixieland, Bop, and what have you. I not only like it, I play it. I would love to go abroad to Paris but have neither the time nor money as I am struggling to get into medical school and one fine day, psychoanalysis. At times North Carolina does become boring, but if I didn't think it was good enough for me, I assure you I would take off like a herd of turtles to points unknown. Since I am in a religious minority I hardly think I would qualify for membership in the local society of hooded hoods the KKK, but enough, enough.

You see there is another side to the record. I have a small collection of good serious music which I add to as my pocket permits, and I would rather read, not Spillane (though it does sell) but good, really good literature. Nothing would please me more than to discuss the life of Vincent van Gogh and other similiar artists, not only in art itself but any other field of creative human endeavor. Perhaps this will give you some idea, that all Joe Colleges are not of the type you described. In fact, no one can draw a sharp line between types and say that's it. I did it in fun, merely for a laugh. The majority of Joes are swell guys. Okay, so they don't stimulate you intellectually. So they make seventy-six on an Archaeology quiz. So they drink beaucoups brew and date and perform other similar normal human functions. Is this a crime? When I have no desire left to mingle with the opposite sex I hope I'm six feet under. I'd never turn down a cold beer on a hot summer day (in fact the day doesn't even have to be hot, in fact it can even be winter) and about Marilyn Monroe she can't act, but gad what personality. And another thing any senior that doesn't go barefoot on Senior Day either has no feet, one foot, thirteen toes, or such a stodgy frame of mind and so highly conservative that to him or her, going barefoot is a step backword in evolution to the days of our primitive ancestors. Oh brother, have they been away!

In short, Al, if you can't enjoy some of those things you mentioned, then I really feel sorry for you. Okay, so maybe you feel sorry for me. Here we are two sorry mothers. Sure El Greco Shostakovitch, Maughan and Wilde are wonderful and I love them too, but to shut out completely the contributions of the modern contemporary society is just as bad as being a rabid fan of gallons of beer, Lewis, Anthony, and going barefoot on Senior Day. If Joe College likes all this then by all means let him. To each his own, and let him revel in it, let sleeping dogs lie (I've run out of slogans) but for gosh sakes don't get so darn bitter that just because you can't enjoy some of these things, or don't want to, or don't know how, that you must criticize and ridicule those others for doing so.

Why not turn the record over and play the other side. You might even like it. And if you are not doing anything special next Tuesday night drop into GM and watch Jerry Lewis on TV. He's a riot, try it . . .

Dorman Cordell

Stewpot

Once upon a time, at a fictitious institution of learning, the inmates, better know as students, were romanticists. Since they refused to face the truth whenever it could possibly be avoided, they had invented a little game.

Now this little game was known as politics and the prize was called student government. And the students played this game because they had outgrown playing house. But this game is somewhat the same because in both games you play like you are mommy and daddy and are running things. Of course, if you do something you shouldn't, mommy and daddy are still around to apply the hairbrush.

However, the fact that their game was only make-believe never fazed the students. In fact, most of them were quite happy with the whole thing, and even talked about the "influence of student government." And everytime they were allowed to do something, the students would all celebrate and say, "Oh boy, just look what student government has accomplished this time." And they were so happy that no one ever pointed out this was like saying, "Oh boy, I caused it to rain," when you were wishing it would rain and it did.

Two or three times a year, all the boys and girls would hold a big celebration, which they called an election. And two or three little bunches, calling themselves parties, delegated candidates for an office known as president. And sometimes one or two others called themselves independent candidates for president.

The main purpose of these elections was so the candidates for president could go home and wow all the farmers by telling how "I am running for president up where I go." This made a big hit with the farmers to see how silly the younger generation acted, once they got away from home and returned for a visit. And the farmers all felt much better about having quit school after the eighth grade.

Now, in the world of grown-ups, which was what all this was copied after, there were campaigns before elections, so the players decided they would have campaigns too. And candidate A would go around and say, "B is a draft-dodger." And candidate B would go around and say, "A is a drug-store cowboy." Ah, yes, vile epithets were hurled by one and all.

Just before the election, campaigning would get hot and furious, and all the candidates would go around interrupting studies of the more worthwhile students to try to "influence" a vote.

Then, on election day, all the campaigners went down and voted for themselves. And all the members of the groups that called themselves parties went down to vote for their candidates. And all the other students went out for a short beer.

A winner was announced, and he got a chance to make a speech, and to get his name in the paper. And then the student politicians, as they called themselves, left everybody alone until the next election neared.

But eventually, even as do all good things, their school days came to an end. And the students went out into the world of Democrats and Joe McCarthys and other horrible things. And they learned to act like grown-ups.

And eventually they had their own children who went off to an institution of learning. And the ex-student politicians watched their own progeny become student politicians. And they all sat around in the evenings and said, "Weren't we silly back then?"

The moral of this story is: Don't run for president of the student body. Get yourself elected as a trustee.

Rolfe Neill

Tarnation

No Redress

The new issue of Tarnation, full of some excellent jokes but otherwise pretty inane, begins with what strikes us an unwarranted apology.

Someone (presumably Ed. Tom Alexander) spends a half page groveling and recanting about material run in days of yore and (again presumably) material to be run in days to come. In effect, this frontispiece asks those whom it lampoons not to take offense. for it says, "In many cases the very, very roughest treatment will be delivered toward those whom we like or admire the most."

This is hard to believe. Rather, we think, it is an overt act of reconciliation toward several University administration members who were pretty brutally pilloried in a recent Tarnation issue. With the exception of Gordon Gray, whose profile was obviously exaggerated, the other Administration stalwarts victimized by Tarnation were very thoroughly and accurately caricatured.

Tarnation need make no redress.

Issue No. 3 out of the labyrinths of Graham Memorial lacks much stirring, witty material. However, the cartoons are excellent, a department which has kept this rating through three issues. We'd like to note that Putnam Davis Jr., Put Davis etc. is the only cartoonist we've ever read who signed his name differently to each work. Several other of the line drawings very effectively parody the local scene. Cartoonist Vogel, evidently the aquatic-minded staff member, does a couple of good ones on bathrooms and swimming pools.

Through History with Stanley R. Smith and Art Einstein makes puns readable in a double page, center section spread, and Ham on Wry is up to its usual self.

Editor Alexander says Issue No. 4 is aborning and will be out before the robins are well returned from Florida. If he gets as good a cover on it as Jerry McMahon did on Issue No. 3, the printing cost will be worth the cover alone.

Tennis Team Wins Fourth, Beating Williams, 14-1

Bradford Leads As First Six Sweep Singles

By Vardy Buckalew

With the first six men in the singles lineup again winning all of their matches, the Carolina tennis team breezed to its fourth win of the season yesterday afternoon, beating Williams 14-1.

The one loss sustained by the Tar Heels yesterday came when the number one doubles combination of Del Sylvia and Pete Green were beaten in three sets by Dick Squires and Charles Symington. This defeat was only the fifth which the whole team has absorbed in four matches.

The tennis team plays Williams College again this afternoon on the varsity courts at 2 o'clock.

Tom Bradford moved back into the number one position yesterday and won a hard-fought victory over Squires, a very fine player. Squires, who doesn't appear to be in very good shape yet, had Bradford 5-3 in the first set before fading and finally losing out 8-6. Bradford won the second set 6-2.

Green and Sylvia had a 2-0 lead in the final set of their match but they faltered and went on to lose the set 6-3 and the match.

The Summaries:

Singles—Bradford (UNC) defeated Squires (W), 8-6, 6-2; Browne (UNC) defeated Symington (W), 6-3, 5-7, 6-4; Sylvia (UNC) defeated Brownell (W), 6-0, 6-2; Thompson (UNC) defeated Kesel (W), 10-9, 6-3; Payne (UNC) defeated Zeigler (W), 6-2, 6-2; Green (UNC) defeated Fulkerson (W), 6-3, 6-2; Kerdasha (UNC) defeated Brucker (W), 6-3, 6-2; Gustafson (UNC) defeated Woods (W), 6-1, 6-2; Izlar (UNC) defeated Fiske (W), 2-6, 6-3, 6-2; Gordon (UNC) defeated Wilkes (W), 6-3, 10-8.

Doubles—Squires and Symington (W) defeated Green and Sylvia (UNC), 4-6, 6-1, 3-6; Browne and Payne (UNC) defeated Brownell and Kesel (W), 7-5, 6-4; Bradford and Thompson (UNC) defeated Brucker and Zeigler (W), 6-0, 6-1; Gustafson and Kerdasha (UNC) defeated Fiske and Wood (W), 6-2, 6-0; Lynch and Wickham (UNC) defeated Fulkerson and Wilkes (W), 9-7, 7-5.

Golfers Meet Williams On Finley Course Today

By Biff Roberts

The golfing regiment of Williams College's Southern invasion goes into action at 1:30 this afternoon, meeting Carolina on the University's Finley golf course.

It will be the second match of the season for the Tar Heels, surprisingly easy winners over The Citadel, 26-1, in their first outing. Last year Carolina beat Williams, 35-1, in an eight-man team match.

The two teams will field the usual six today, however, and Carolina coach Chuck Erickson has little reason to change his lineup from that which romped over the Bulldogs last week.

Against The Citadel the Carolina team was three strokes under par with a total of 429. Little Bill Thornton paced the scoring with a five-under par 67.

Thornton played number three against The Citadel but may move up this afternoon. Joining him will be Bob Black, Bill Williamson, Jimmy Ferree, Billy Ford, and John Frazier. Ford and Frazier are newcomers to the squad.

Players from the University of Notre Dame arrived here Tuesday night to get in shape for matches with the Tar Heels. The Irish are tentatively scheduled for a triangular meet with Carolina and Ohio University on Saturday and a dual meet with the Tar Heels on Monday.

Black, Williamson, Ferree, and Frazier all played in the Greater Greensboro Open this past weekend with Black finishing as the tourney's fourth best amatuer. He shot rounds of 76-72-71-75—294 to end up behind winner Frank Stranahan, Billy Joe Patton, and Dick Chapman, three of the nation's top simon pures. Ferree missed qualifying for the final two rounds by a single stroke.

Track Team Seeks Revenge Over Tigers

The Carolina track team will be seeking revenge Saturday afternoon when they play host to Coach Mathew Geis' Princeton Tigers. The Ivy Leayuers defeated the Tar Heels last year, 81-50.

The Princeton squad, which has twelve returning lettermen, will be led by Captain Buzz Taylor, Thoburn Maxwell, Thomas Eglin, and Homer Smith. Taylor, who holds the all-time Princeton broad-jump record, is the only American athlete to win medals in three modern Olympiads. Maxwell is a mile and two-mile standout, while Eglin is the top Tiger sprint man. Smith, broad jumper and low hurdler, is the 1953 Captain elect of the Princeton football team.

Seven other members of the Tiger track team are also gridders. Among them are All-American end Frank McPhee, who throws the javelin, and Len Lyons, All-East fullback, who holds the Princeton all-time shotput record.

MURALS

Today's Soccer

4:00—Field 1, Phi Kap Sig-2 vs. KA-1; field 2, Chi Phi vs. Sig Chi-1; field 3, SAE-2 vs. Phi Gam-1.

5:00—Field 1, Med Sch-2 vs. Graham; field 2, Med Sch-3 vs. Joyner; field 3 Ruffin-1 vs. Med Sch-1.

Lacrossemen Open Season With Williams

Carolina's Lacrosse team opens the 1953 season today, playing host to Williams College at 3 p.m. on the Lacrosse field. The visitors defeated the Tar Heels in their only meeting last year, 17-1.

Fourteen lettermen will lead Coach Al Moore's team in an attempt to register its first win over a northern club. Co-Captains Walt Ernst, at midfield, and Lew Floyd, honorable mention all - American goalie last year, are expected to sparkplug the Carolina relay and defense game, while veterans Ted Dawes, Dick Harrell, Dick Pillsbury, and Joe Walker should lead the attack.

Numerous freshmen and newcomers are giving lettermen Tom Stokes, Earle Johnson, Mike Davis, and Charlie Friedman a race for their defense positions. The most notable among the new faces likely to be seen in the lineup today are Jere DuBose, Jim Winston, and Steve Trimble on defense.

Lettermen Buck Barkley, Bob Linker, Lou Wolfshiemer, and rookies Dick Baker, Toby Haynsworth, and Joe Burrell, who played freshman Lacrosse in 1950, should give Co-Captain Ernst capable support at midfield. Art Einstein, and freshman Tom Spain may see action at the goalie spot.

The Tar Heels play their second contest of the season Saturday when they meet Cornell, here.

Head Cheerleader

Those wishing to run for head cheerleader will be interviewed by cheerleading selection board today in Roland Parker lounge 2 at 4 o'clock.

Old Well

Those who didn t receive an application to be filled out from the Order of the Old Well and who think their activities have qualified them for the Order should drop by Dean Mackeis office and fill out the form before Friday.

Jayvee Nine Wins Opener Over Cranbrook Prep, 18-6

The Carolina Jayvee baseball team opened its season Tuesday afternoon at Emerson Stadium by scoring an 18-6 victory over Cranbrook Prep of Bloomsfields Hills, Michigan.

Coach Henry House's Jayvees jumped to a two run lead in the first inning and added another run in the third. In the fourth inning, Cranbrook's left fielder Bill Soter connected for a grand-slam home run to put his team ahead 4-3. A five run outburst in the fifth chilled the Prepsters' lead, and a seven run rally in the eighth put the game on ice for the Jayvees.

Carolina collected thirteen hits and was aided by eleven Cranbrook errors.

Soter was the outstanding batsman with four hits including a home run and a triple.

Cranbrook	000	400	200	6	8	11
Carolina	201	051	27x	18	13	3

Newey, Soter (8), and Gary; Paquette, Aycock (6), and Dodson.
Winner: Paquette; Loser: Newey.

BUDDY KLEIN
and the
Statesman Orchestra
Write Box 5533—Tel. 21873
Raleigh, N. C.

Bargains In MEDICAL BOOKS . . .

Nutritional and Vitamin Therapy in General Practice Third Edition, (Gordon) $1.89

Manual of Physical Diagnosis by Freilich and Coe. (Third edition) $1.89

Biochemistry for Medical Students, by Thorpe. (Fourth edition) $1.98

Eternal Eve—the history of gynaecology and obstetrics, by Harvey Graham. $3.98

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.
OPEN EVENINGS

WHO WILL BE MR. FORMAL ?

FOR DETAILS ASK CAMPUS REP
Jake Froelich & John Baldridge
Beta House—4071

more men wear After Six than all other formals combined!

We are headquarters for America's smartest tuxedos, full dress suits, daytime formals and dinner jackets.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Spring is a wonderful time for a new SPORT JACKET

A MAN'S BEST FRIEND for spring is one of our outstanding Sport Jackets. They get the blue ribbon for good looks because they're masterfully tailored from pedigreed fabrics. To be faithful to the highest requirements of casual spring fashion, depend on Our Sport Jackets. And trust us to provide modest prices.

We have the following Sport Jackets—

- PALM BEACH
- MOYGASHEL LINENS
- NYLON CORDS
- SHETLANDS
- TWEEDS

priced from $21.50 TO $39.50

The Greatest Selection of Slacks You'll Find Anywhere
• FLANNELS • PALM BEACH LINENS • CORDS • TROPICALS
And Many Other New Fabrics

Good QUALITY pays off

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

BILLS MAILED HOME

New York Life Insurance Co.
Is Pleased To Announce The Appointment
of
John L. Clements
25-F Glen Lennox
Ph. 9-6302
As Special Agent
W. Emmett Underwood
Mgr., Raleigh Branch Office

Only time will tell about a plan to trap a man! And only time will tell about a cigarette! Take your time...

Test CAMELS for 30 days for MILDNESS and FLAVOR

THERE MUST BE A REASON WHY
Camel is America's most popular cigarette—leading all other brands by billions! Camels have the two things smokers want most—rich, full flavor and cool, cool mildness... pack after pack! Try Camels for 30 days and see how mild, how flavorful, how thoroughly enjoyable they are as your steady smoke!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

More People Smoke CAMELS than any other cigarette

COME TO THE PARTY!

Saturday Nite 7-9

Learn The Bunny Hop!

Make An Appointment To Have Your Dancing Analyzed

Arthur Murray

School of Dancing

104½ Morris St.
AT 5 POINTS
Phone 2-7872
Durham

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY — Sutton's

SUTTON'S DRUG STORE wants you to know that we have a complete stock of supplies for University students. We also want you to know the correct answers to the quiz . . . Mansard, Fasces and Sir Thomas Lipton. BE SURE TO SEE OUR STOCK OF EASTER CANDIES AND GIFTS.

THE BIG NEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rexall

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - SUNDRIES GALORE

See The

CAMPAIGN SPEECHES

of

ADLAI E. STEVENSON

At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

Ex-Communicated At Harvard

Ogden Nash To Appear Here Tuesday, Will Read Poems

The famous writer of light verse, Ogden Nash, will appear here next Tuesday at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall as the Student Entertainment Committee's last presentation of the year.

Auditorium doors will open at 7, and students will be admitted free upon presentation of ID card. Seats will go on sale to faculty and townspeople at 7:40. The price will be $1.

Nash, whose verse is well-known to readers of the New Yorker, Saturday Evening Post and other national magazines, as well as his many books of humorous poetry, will recite a number of his classic poems and comment on the turn of events in his life that caused their creation.

Nash's latest book of verse, "Parents Keep Out," is a selection of poems from earlier works for younger readers, or, as he subtitled it, Elderly Poems for Youngerly Readers. In addition to some nine other books of collected poetry, Nash wrote the lyrics and was co-author with S. J. Peelman of the hit musical, "One Touch of Venus."

Nash was born in Rye, N. Y., the first of his family to venture north of the Mason-Dixon line. He says he has 10,000 cousins in North Carolina; one of his ancestors was Revolutionary Governor of the state, and another, a Revolutionary General, gave his name to Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Nash entered Harvard but left after one year. This was his original idea, he maintains, not the dean's; he has affidavits to prove it. After a short attempt at teaching and selling bonds, he settled on humorous poetry as his natural field.

Pace Chosen Phi Speaker

Bob Pace of Morrisville has been unanimously elected speaker of the Phi Assembly. He is a political science major, chairman of the Carolina Political Union, chairman of the UNC Student Chapter of the American Church Union and vice chairman of the Carolina Forum.

other officers elected were Speaker pro tem Angell of Winston-Salem, Clerk Syd Shuford, Asheville, Treasurer Louis Brumfield of Randelman, Critic Fred Crawford of Sanford, Sgt.-At-Arms Dale Ryon of Asheville and Parliamentarian Don Sherry of Hartford, Conn.

Inaugural ceremonies for the new officers will be April 14 at 8 p.m. in Phi Hall.

GET YOUR SHARE OF THE WIT AND HUMOR OF AMERICA AT OUR BOOK SALE

Unicorn Book Shop

Over Sutton's Ph. 9-6173

WHO WILL BE

MR. FORMAL ?

Jake Froelich &
John Baldridge
Beta House—4071

COMPLETE LINE OF "AFTER SIX" FORMALWEAR

Town & Campus

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

MAN OR WOMAN WITH CAR—Greensboro Daily News-Record for Chapel Hill and vicinity. Good proposition. Car expenses. Write Greensboro Daily News-Record, Greensboro, N. C. 1—c3488-5

FOR SALE

1 SINGER, TREADLE SEWING Machine. Good Condition. $32.50. Call 95708. Mr. Clark. 1—c3492-1

LOST

ONE PAIR SLACKS, ONE BLUE sweater, one red sweater, at Wrightsville Beach, March 29. Reward. Contact DTH Office
No Chg.—Staff.

LIFE Exhibit In Morehead On Occupation

"Kyoto," an exhibition prepared by the editors of Life Magazine opened this week in the Morehead Building to continue through April 10.

Under the occupation of the United States Army much of the life of the Japanese city of Kyoto has gone on as it has for thousands of years. Temple-going, tea-drinking, a pursuit of scholarly studies and the activities of small handicraft industries — these are practically as they were under the ancient Emperors.

It is this aspect of Kyoto, particularly as it is reflected in its religious architecture, which the editors of Life have shown in assembling this series of photographs made for them by Dmitri Kessel.

Religion in Japan has been centered in the city of Kyoto fon almost 1,200 years.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54

TONIGHT ONLY

Kit Carson
EDWARD SMALL presents
DANA ANDREWS · JON HALL · LYNN BARI

What Goes On Here

Honor Council

The Honor Council selection board is now choosing candidates for the Men's and Women's Councils. Seats open on the Men's Council are three senior, one junion, one sophomore, one graduate and one pharmacy seat. Women's seats are open for 3 seniors, one graduate, one six months junior seat and one seat-at-large.

Election Board

The Election Board will meet 4:15 today in the vice-president's office in Graham Memorial.

Freshman Camp

Planners and others interested in working on freshman camp will meet at the Y tonight on the second floor from 6:30 to 7:30.

Rules Committee

The Rules Committee of Legislature will meet today at 5 in Roland Parker.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet tonight in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall at 6 o'clock.

Pharmacy Wives

The Pharmacy Wives will meet at the Institute of Pharmacy tonight at 8 o'clock. Dr. I. G. Greer will speak to the group on "North Carolina Folklore."

Card Board

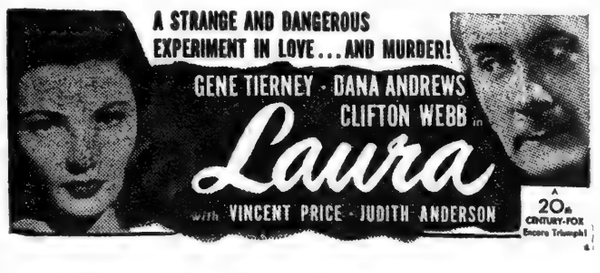
The Card Board and others interested in working with the group will meet in the basement of Smith Dorm from 1 to 3 o'clock today.

Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club meets today at 5 o'clock in Hill Hall.

out-of-this world EASTER CARDS

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP



205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

"Stanley rather likes our new maid — she never forgets the Angostura* in a Manhattan."

ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Whether it's Manhattans or Old Fashioneds, Angostura brings out the smoothness and delicate tang so necessary for perfect drinks.

Varsity

T-O-D-A-Y ONLY

LATE SHOW SAT.—SUN.—TUES.

IRENE DUNNE
ROBERT TAYLOR
IN MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION

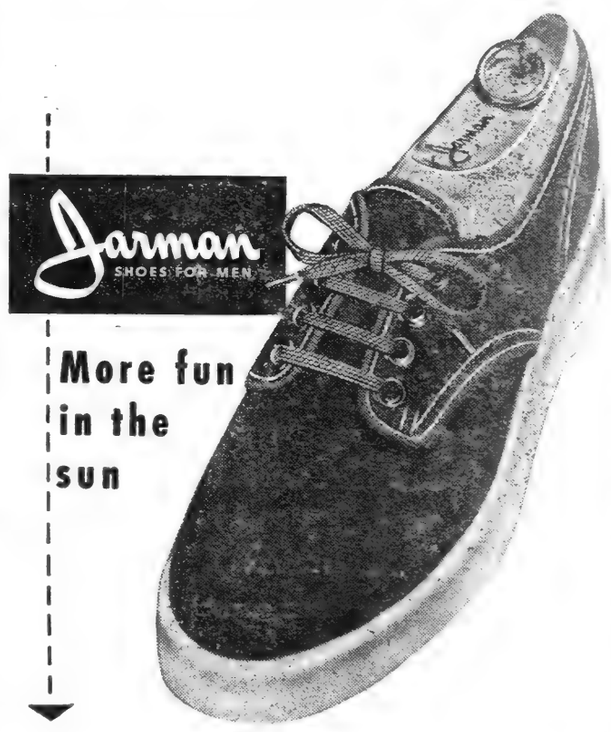
Carolina

NOW PLAYING

GIVE HER THAT SPECIAL EASTER GIFT

GET YOUR EASTER FILM NOW



For your sweetheart or your best girl — Make your Easter gift to her something to remember. And she'll appreciate a long-lasting gift — A brand new camera from Foister's.

OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

Jarman SHOES FOR MEN

More fun in the sun

Jarman Canvas Leisuals

You can really let your foot go in blissful barefoot comfort and have more fun in the sun with a colorful pair of Jarman Canvas Leisuals. This casual style is designed of washable fabric weave welted to a soft, flexible crepe sole—it's smart . . . it's terrific! Come in, try a pair.

ALSO U. S. KEDS

Town & Campus

Spaghetti and Meat Balls—All You Can Eat With Beer Or Wine, 99¢—RATHSKELLER EVERY THURSDAY

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Fair and cooler with 72 high. Yesterday's high, 80; low, 59.

The Daily Tar Heel

RIGHTS
The editors comment on the right to dissent. See page 2.

VOLUME LVI, NUMBER 121 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, APRIL 3, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Polgar Spellbinds Crowd With Feats

By John Jamison

Unbelievable feats of mind-reading, hypnotism and memory wowed a packed-in 1,800 students in Memorial Hall last night as Dr. Franz Polgar displayed the skill that made him famous around the world.

The Hungarian mental wizard held the audience's rapt attention for two hours despite the high-school antics of a few men in the hall.

Highlight in last night's program, as in years before, was Polgar's experiment with his "new electronic, X-ray glasses." The glasses, which he borrowed from a member of the audience, enabled their wearer to see through fabrics. Linda Smith, senior coed from Charlotte, found it advisable to run off stage when the first hypnotized man tried out the new invention.

Polgar demonstrated the amazing development of his memory by a highly complicated stunt involving a blackboard with sixteen blocks marked off, each containing a random work and a number. By dictating a series of numbers, he caused the total of each set of numbers on the board to come to a figure suggested to him by a member of the audience.

The hypnotist interrupted his demonstrations with brief historical explanations of the phenomenon. He called for questions from the audience about the possibilities of hypnotism. A woman asked, "Can you prevent pre-natal nausea?"

Polgar replied that he thought he could help and asked the woman to come up on stage to see. The lady declined.

In a demonstration of "mind - reading," Polgar had himself blind-folded and told a man to take a balloon anywhere in the auditorium. The man went a good distance down an aisle and held the balloon in the air. Polgar left the stage with a pocket knife and 45 seconds later burst the balloon.

NEWS IN BRIEF

TOKYO — United Nations negotiators agreed yesterday to a Communist proposal to open talks in Panmunjom Monday on the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war. The Communists submitted their proposal in a note handed to Allied liaison officers at the truce village. At the same time, the Reds also formally submitted Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's apparent concession on repatriating all prisoners of war—which may clear the way for reopening full dress armistice talks.

★

BONN, Germany — The United States and France accepted yesterday a Soviet invitation to join the Russian-British talks on the operation of three air corridors across Soviet-occupied Germany to Berlin. Western observers believed the Soviet Union may be trying to extend the conference now under way here into a full-scale Big Four conference on Germany. This would be in line with recent Soviet overtures in important areas of East-West differences.

WC Is Host To CUSC Day Next Weekend

Woman's College will for the first time act as hostess to its brother schools on Consolidated University Day scheduled next Saturday, April 11, in Greensboro.

Sponsored by the Consolidated University Student Council, the day's program will begin with a meeting and a luncheon for the CUSC that morning. At 3 p.m. facilities for bowling, skating, pool and ping pong will be available in Coleman and Rosenthal gyms for students from the three schools. The gym activities will continue until 5 p.m., when dinner will be served in the Woman's College dining halls.

After dinner, the program will move to Elliott Hall, WC's modern new student union building which was just opened this month. Elliott Hall facilities which will be available all evening include the informal game room, television room, lounges and terraces.

At 7 p.m., the three schools will contribute student entertainers for a talent show in the Elliott Hall ballroom, which will also be the scene of the informal dance immediately following the talent show. Link Smith and his orchestra will furnish the music for the dance, which will feature social dance, square dance, and mixers during the evening.

The Fall CU Day, usually held at Carolina when the State and Carolina football teams meet, was cancelled this year because of a polio outbreak, and the winter CU Day, originally scheduled for the State-Carolina basketball game, was also cancelled because of conflicts in the college calendars.

Staff Meet Today

A staff meeting for those interested in working on The Daily Tar Heel will be held today at 3 p.m. in the newsroom.

Positions are open in four departments: news, editorial, sports and business. The newspaper's offices are located on second floor Graham Memorial.

Those not able to attend today's meeting may come by the managing editor's office on Monday.

CAMPUS SEEN

Chi Phi's furnishing stirring highland bagpipe music via loudspeaker as NROTC marches by trying to keep in step with its Drum and Bugle Corps.

* * *

South Building's off-schedule bell ringing inciting classes to early dismissal.

* * *

Loud metallic clanging of horseshoes as fraternity pits open for business.

Beachers Beware

Cancer Is Threat To Sunbather

By Sally Schindel

Observers of the old Chapel Hill tradition of beach-ending (heading for the sunny coast on weekends) may take proper note of a recent warning about skin-cancer among sun-tanners.

If you are fair-skinned and burn and blister easily, you should beware of repeated and excessive exposures to the sun, according to Dr. Herbert Z. Lund, pathologist at Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital in Greensboro. Most people "actually beat up their skin" by deliberate exposure, he says.

In the brunette person, this is not so serious. But in the fair-skinned, repeated sun exposure causes premature wrinkles, permanent freckles and blotches. If care is not taken, Dr. Lund advises, these blemishes may announce the arrival of skin cancer.

Although all types are susceptible to skin damage, the pathologist particularly stresses the importance of the extremely light-skinned taking care of their complexions. "People who don't have skin adapted to the sun have no business deliberately exposing themselves to sunlight," he warns.

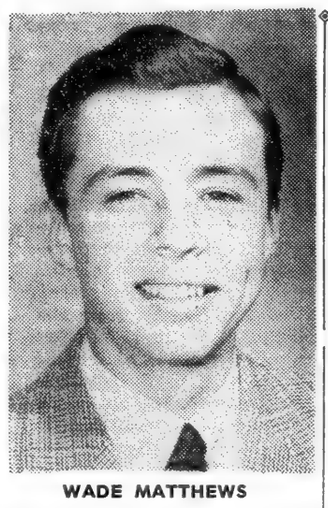
However, one sunburn does not mean doom. Cancer is not caused by one time but by several years of continued exposure, Dr. Lund said.

For the "foolhardy," the North Carolina coast is expected to be fair and mild this weekend, with about a 75 high.

Coast Expects Rain And Sun

It'll be sun and rain all along the state's 312 mile coastline this weekend, the weatherman advises.

The forecast is for continued mild until tomorrow afternoon when showers are expected. The wet weather is expected to hold until late Sunday when the trend will be back to fair.



A high of 75 is expected today and tomorrow with a decline to the upper 60's on Sunday. The showers will be preceded by southwest winds and followed by breezes from the northwest.

All beach resort facilities are now open.

Candidates Swap Ideas On What Is Best For Students

KEN PENEGAR

WADE MATTHEWS

By Rolfe Neill

"That's a real original platform you've got, Bob, tell us about it," Student Party Chairman Lew Southern chided last night.

It was the opening statement in a bull session—originally billed as a "challenge discussion"—held in Aycock Dormitory. When the forum began at 7:30 there were nine politicians and one spectator, and at 8:35 when it ended, there were 26 politicians and four spectators.

Those participating blamed the Polgar hypnosis show in Memorial Hall for stealing their audience, or at least part of it, and both sides looked slyly at each other and suggested that in the future there should be a more careful scheduling of such discussions.

Student athletic fees and a civil service system for student government were the most talked about items in the informal session.

The Student Party has proposed that a civil service commission be set up to determine which students should get which jobs. SP Presidential hopeful Ken Penegar said the idea was to have four members from each party making up the commission with them making the decisions on each job. This system, Penegar said, "would take student government out of politics."

UP presidential candidate Bob Gorham allowed that "this campus isn't like the federal government—thank goodness. We've all an essential interest in student government and it's not a political government. I think there's a danger of making it (student government) too political, too big time." There are plenty of jobs for everybody, Gorham added.

Penegar made his point again about taking the jobs out of politics and went on to explain that his civil service wouldn't be elaborate: no quizzes and competitive examinations. "The applicant merely fills out an application and has an interview and the commission picks the most qualified man."

Here, Jack Stilwell, UP vice-presidential candidate, joined the argument. He asked Penegar if it wouldn't be simpler for the applicant just to see the president (as in the past) rather than face an eight-man commission. Wouldn't it be less red tape, etc?

Slightly irritated, Penegar replied, "Jack, I haven't been elected yet and I haven't gone into all the details. I suggest, if you're so interested, that you stick around until after the election; it'll be a good job."

A plan to abolish compulsory payment of fees to the Athletic Association—another SP plank—brought lively talk by Gordon Forester, SP candidate for secretary-treasurer.

Forester said he had talked to Dr. O. K. Cornwell at Woollen Gym who "naturally was hesitant about giving up $150,000 a year in fees." (Students pay $10 a quarter for the use of Woollen Gym and $3.33 a quarter to belong to the Carolina Athletic Association; both fees are mandatory). Dr. Cornwell refused to let him see a copy of the gym's budget because "I don't think I have the power," Forester quoted Cornwell as saying.

"If they can justify where the money's going then I'm for giving it to them," the SP candidate concluded, "but if they can't I think we ought to do something."

Jerry Cook, UP candidate for secretary-treasurer, pointed out that putting the fees on a voluntary basis would increase the price of the fees for those who use the privileges. Forester argued that those who didn't use the athletic privileges shouldn't pay for them.

A student member for the Board of Trustees also was discussed. This too, is an SP proposal. Stilwell wanted to know if this proposal wasn't sort of empty since the state legislature decides on the Trustees and it would be impossible to get it before them this session. "On top of that," Stilwell continued, "the General Assembly only meets every other year so it certainly would be too late."

Penegar answered that his idea was to have a student member on the board merely to assure students of a continuing voice, that he wouldn't have to be a voting member. He had talked with a Trustee, Penegar said, and the Trustee said the board could vote members ex-officio, that is, include such people as Penegar proposed. Penegar explained his idea further by saying he thought each branch of the Consolidated University should be represented and that the representative should be the president of the student body.

Anthropologist Asserts World 'Without Chaos' Is Possible

By John Gibson

The Western nations already possess an ideology which has more to offer than Communism, but an extreme concentration upon technological aspects of life has caused us to lose the ability to make this ideology explicit to others.

Thus Communism presents the threat that it does, not because it is a better idea, but because it is a poorer idea, better stated.

This was one of the main themes of an address given Wednesday by Dr. Clyde Kluckhohn, professor of anthropology and Director of the Russian Research center at Harvard University.

"Thus," said Dr. Kluckhohn, "we shall lose the cold war and a possible hot war if we continue to fight with the technology of 1953, which we do very well, but with the ideas of 1853." To match our superb technology we need a vigorous, progressive and explicit ideology which will carry to the rest of the world the feelings we still hold about democracy, he said.

Speaking on "The Problems of Values in Contemporary Civilization," Dr. Kluckhohn said, "the trouble today is that we have a world society in terms of economics, communication and other factors. But we have no world standards — let alone any universally accepted foundations for such standards."

The relativism, or relativistic chaos, which has long plagued democracies is with us also today, he said. He stated, however, that this was not inevitable.

Major, Minor Topic Listed For UN Units

Topics for the UN Model Assembly have been announced by the UN Committee. The assembly is scheduled for May 1-2.

Each delegation will send a member to the four commissions. These commissions will have before them a major and a minor question. After debate on the major problem has been concluded, then the minor question and any others which time permits will be discussed. Resolutions concerning any of the questions debated in the commission meetings must be voted upon in the plenary session following the commission meeting.

The commissions and their problems are Political and Security Commission—Creation of an international police force (major). Establishment of an independent Western Germany (minor).

Economic and Financial Commission — Free trade with Red China and possible economic blockades of nations refusing to conform with UN policies (major). Management of strategic waterways and canals by a UN-appointed commission (minor).

Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Commission — Self-rule in North Africa (major). Indian question in South Africa (minor).

Trusteeship and Legal Commission—Abandonment of veto power in the Security Council (major). Granting UN the power of intervention in national internal revolutions (minor).

Other topics may be brought before the Model Assembly by the various delegations if time permits.

Quarterly Gets Coed Editor

Charlotte Davis, junior from Chapel Hill, was elected editor of the Carolina Quarterly for the Spring issue, the literary magazine's advisory board said yesterday.

The new editor set the publication date of the delinquent Winter issue for Saturday, April 18 and announced the Spring issue would be out May 23.

"Although the Quarterly is in a tough spot right now, I hope that with hard work and cooperation we will be able to finish the year successfully," Miss Davis said.

Anyone interested in working or contributing should come by the Quarterly office in Graham Memorial, Miss Davis added. Hours are 2 until 5 p.m. Spring issue contribution deadline is April 20.

President Horton Denied Floor In Legislature Battle On CUSC

By Louis Kraar

Leading Student Party legislators last night failed in an attempt to push through a move to force President Horton to do something that he had refused to do.

Introduction of a bill to force the president to make replacements in the Consolidated University Student Council stirred up the issue that has been boiling for many weeks now. The controversy arouse when Jim Adams, Carolina's top man to the three-school government group quit and Horton refused to appoint a successor.

Horton requested the privilege to address Legislature, but was refused by one member, Gene Cook. Unanimous approval is required for an outsider to speak.

The bill gave legislature power to make CUSC replacements if the president refused. Proponents of the move, principally SP members, asked for a suspension of the rules so that voting could be made right away. Legislature, however, didn't approve suspension of rules.

"I wish they had been willing to let the other side be heard," Horton said after the meeting.

Gene Cook (SP), the single legislator who refused the president permission to speak, said after the meeting he felt that since the move wasn't going to be considered until next week, "there was no use in letting him talk." Cook added, "You see, he'd only have to repeat it next week."

Bob Pace (SP) was elected parliamentarian to replace Ed Stevens (UP). Stevens graduated last quarter. Pace was lauded by his supporters for the position as "the youngest Justice of the Peace in the state."

When Adams quit his post as head of Carolina's delegation to the CUSC, Horton said he wasn't appointing a replacement because he agreed with his reasons for quitting. Adams had branded the three-school group a "gag for student opinion," and said it "has accomplished little, if anything at all."

Since then three other delegates have also resigned, Tom Creasy, Virginia Hall and Jim McCleod. Horton said that he and other CUSC members are working on another plan of consolidated student government with William Friday, assistant to President Gray.

Vets' Money

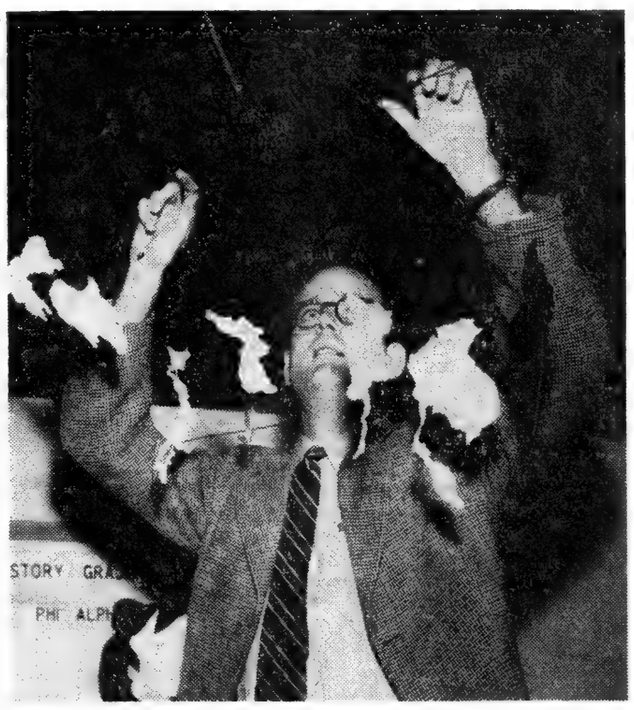
Veterans enrolled on the GI Bill must report to 315 South Building to sign their certification forms before their month's allotment will be sent to them.

The office is open from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. on weekdays and closes on Saturdays at 12:30. The certification must be signed every month.

A Seven Mile Wind And Outer Mongolia

Mobile Mobilizes Audience

By Walt Dear



"What we needed was a dynamic advertisement to increase attendance," said John Jones as he took his eyes off his moving creation called a mobile.

Jones' problem was this: A Dr. Clyde from Duke was to speak on "The Far East" next Wednesday in the Library Assembly Room at 8 p.m. How would the Graduate History Club get attention for the event?

Partly inspired by the English Club which has used mobiles to spur interest in club activities, Jones set to work last Saturday afternoon, equipped with five cents worth of nylon thread, eight coat hangers, a few tooth picks, two five cent pieces of wood, a penny's worth of solder, some cardboard, paint and Scotch tape.

The resulting combination, completed Sunday, and displayed on third floor Saunders this week, amounted to a mobile, which might be termed modern in action. Invented by Calder ("Caldermobiles") objects are suspended (from a wall in this case) and move at will with slight wind movements, or air currents created by a person passing by the mobile. The key to the success of a mobile is balance. In the Jonesmobile, most of the Far

(See HISTORY, page 4)

JOHN JONES, GRADUATE HISTORY STUDENT, makes a slight adjustment on his Jonesmobile. The Jonesmobile is a moving advertisement made to entice an audience to the Graduate History Club talk next Wednesday on "The Far East." The interesting piece of art is on display on third floor Saunders.—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... WALT DEAR
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

The Right To Dissent

. Editor's Note: Following are excerpts of the $2,500 winning essay by Stanley A. Wolpert of the College of the City of New York. The contest was conducted by the National Council of Jewish Women.

To the teacher, to the scholar on the high road of reason leading to truth, academic freedom is society's green light. It signifies, "You go, you who have been tested and tried by your teachers and colleagues, you who have learned through arduous study and long years of disciplined labor how to use honestly and objectively the tools of scholarship, the books, the logic, the facts of history and the natural world, you who have mastered the art and science of education, investigation and clear thinking, you go on unafraid, go as Prometheus went—steal more of the fire from Olymous." And if at the end of his road the scholar arrives at conclusions in conflict with popular opinion, or not in keeping with the current phase of an evolving national policy, or inimical to powerful groups in society, academic freedom means that no government or newspaper or individual will be permitted to force a retraction of those conclusions, to ban or burn them, to punish in vengeance their champion. It means that in the world of ideas, the stock of weapons is strictly limited to better ideas.

But in time of tense conflict, or violently competing ideas, of fear, insecurity and confusion, many people contend that the staunchest advocates of intellectual freedom are corrupters, subverters of all social values, and must therefore be silenced. In Greece there was a Socrates, in Germany, a Martin Luther, in Italy Galileo Galilei. Stubborn men these, curious men, peculiar and disturbing men who dared challenge the very gods and the rules of the earth, for the sake of conscience, in the service of truth.

Unless the teacher is free to question and dissent, the student's mind will emerge from school, not strong with wisdom, but at best heavy with information. The teacher who tailors his opinions to the cut of popular pressure will hardly encourage bold inquiry in his classroom. Men who will one day govern themselves must first learn to think for themselves.

There is no greater challenge to test the mettle of democracy's defenders than the current threat to academic freedom. Since the "cold war" has become warmer in Korea, havoc-crying patriots and understandably worried democrats have successfully managed to trim the wings of . . . (academic) . . . freedom . . . A far greater danger than any statutory restriction threatens the life of academic freedom—the subtle and silent fear, self-censorship. No university is an island divorced from the passions of the community out of which it has sprung. When the social atmosphere is charged with suspicion and clamors or conformity, when in the market place the greys of opinion are increasingly forced into areas of black or white, when the mere suspension of judgment on subjects of vital controversy is labelled "abetting the enemy" . . . instructors become more cautious, students cynical and apathetic about the very issue that will most strongly affect their future lives and the lives of their children.

Freedom will not be saved by men who have so little faith in her strength that with every sign of totalitarian attack they flee from her finest outposts and race into the arms of tyranny and suppression. Those who would shield our youth from the dangers of incitement forget Oliver Wendell Holmes' statement that "every idea is an incitement." Those who insist their only interest is national security forget Mill's warning that "A State which dwarfs her men, in order that they may be more docile instruments in its hands even for beneficial purposes—will find that with small men no great thing can really be accomplished."

Daily the meaning of academic freedom is defined by the student who insists upon his right to be guided, not led or driven in the direction of truth and understanding; by the teacher who resists all doctrinaire shackles, faithfully following the light of reason and conscience; by the administrator who values free inquiry above the largess of monetary endowments.

Harvey Bradshaw

The Grail

When the veterans of World War I returned to the Carolina campus in 1920, the problem of disunity between fraternity and non-fraternity men on the campus was a serious one. To help solve this and other problems, a group of 13 young men founded the Order of the Grail and set about their task of making our campus a better place to live and work.

They chose the Chalice or Cup which legend says Christ drank from at the Last Supper as the mystic symbol for the knightly way of life which they would seek. The miraculous power of this Grail was well-known in the middle ages and King Arthur's knights made long pilgrimages in search of it.

The present Grail Room in Graham Memorial was given to the Order in the early 1930's on the condition that they furnish it and allow other campus organizations to use it—a condition willingly met as a service to the University.

Since then in this room the generations of Grail members have met around the round table there. Here the symbolic cup is kept and the wall decorations carry out the Arthurian theme. Placques on the walls list the members' name since the founding of the group.

Each year since 1920 the Order has selected 13 sophomores and juniors to take up the quest —over 400 students in all. The honor of being asked to join has come to be the highest which can be bestowed upon a sophmore. The fraternity-non-fraternity problem was met by selecting seven from one group and six from the other each year, and alternating the majority. The initiation is a highly secret ritual. This year there are seven non-fraternity initiates.

Besides their foremost project, the Grail has become known for its inexpensive, informal dances, its scholarships (six per year of $150 each), its recognition of worthy, unpublicized services to the campus, and its primary purpose of service to the campus as a whole and its continual efforts toward harmony.

John Gibson

It Was So-o Big

Concerning the sizes of fish, especially the ones that get away, and the number of women who have fallen victim to a fatal charm, one cannot usually take at face value the statements of an American. But in most other matters, Americans are usually honest. Indeed, with many of the "typical middle class" Americans, honesty reaches the proportion of what the sociologist calls a cult. "An honest man is the noblest work of God." "Honesty is the best policy." Etc, Etc. This is all very fine, yet one wise author has pointed out "the only disadvantage of an honest heart is credulity." Such a disadvantage has reached serious proportions in the present world situation. Americans believe most of the things that are told them, especially from "experts," a title which is most willingly given to any daper stranger. And, as most other people, they especially believe the things they want to believe. Even in this latter sphere, however, they outdo most of the rest of the world. I would like to talk about three situations in which such pure credulity is actually or potentially very dangerous.

First is our treatment of "ex-Communists," those former enemies who have seen the light of day and have decided to turn over a new leaf. There is probably no better way to get an audience in Washington than by claiming to be an ex-Communist. There is certainly no beter way to get your ideas totally accepted. While there are many persons who have given up Communism, and this is hopeful, there are many others who have not, yet would claim to have done so if it were to their advantage. I do not particularly go for some of the actions of Senator McCarthy, yet suppose tomorrow a "self-confessed" communist were to admit that five years ago he and Joe plotted the overthrow of the government. Whatever else he is, I am rather sure that Joe is not a Communist, yet who would believe him? There is no better way to put the finger on an important and loyal American (or an unimportant and disloyal one) than to have him branded by an ex-Communist. The very nature of the argument makes it almost impossible for the accused to defend himself. This, I feel, is a real danger in the present crisis.

Secondly, there is an almost total acceptance on the part of the American people of statements by their leaders, especiallly the military ones. We would like to believe that for the most part our military always gives us the straight scoop, but often in our history this has not been the case. This point was brought home by Vermont Senator Flanders, who questioned the air force about the firing on an American plane off Siberia. The Senator said that by distorting the facts, the military was guilty of waging psychological warfare against the American people by creating a fear that was not justified. It is interesting that since that charge was made, an adequate answer from the Air Force has not been forthcoming. I do not suggest that we should dismiss all the reports of our military leaders, but a certain amount of skepticism would be healthy, if for no other reasons than to dilute the "natural enthusiasm" with which certain military figures report their successes and actions.

Finally, there is the problem of the Berlin refugees. Every day thousands of persons stream over into west Berlin from the Russian sector. We call them "refugees" who have fled the terror behind the iron curtain. No doubt most of the persons can be so classified. Yet what a fine way

(See SO-O BIG, page 4)

A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

The New Edition

As I signed the pledge on my ethnology exam, I barely refrained from disturbing the other students with a great "Huzzah" of elation. For, among other things, it meant that I could sell my ethnology book and purchase Hemingway's Green Hills of Africa, which I had seen in a beautiful new reprint while browsing in the Intimate Bookshop.

Down to the Intimate I skipped, whistling merry little tunes, and being very thankful that I had bought the ethnology book new and it was a six-dollar book. As I walked into the shop, I didn't hesitate, but walked straight to the back counter and plunked down my toughly-bound, well-kept, unwritten-in medium of exchange. The lady at the counter looked at the book, then in her card file, and announced that she could give me ninety cents for it.

My blithe smile changed to disbelief and then to dismay.

"Ninety cents! But that was a six-dollar book and I've taken good care of it." And I thumbed through the book to show the nice lady that there wasn't a blemish on it.

"I'm sorry," she said (and I think she was), "But we're not sure whether they'll use this book any more or not. You see, the Book Exchange won't tell us down here whether a book is going to be used any more or not. If we buy the book, and next quarter, they use another book or another edition of the same book, we'll be stuck. Have you ever tried to sell an ethnology book?"

I hadn't tried to sell an ethnology book until now. I saw what she meant though. "How can you buy and sell textbooks at all if you don't know what books are going to be used?" I asked.

"The students tell us. And we do get stuck many times."

I mumbled something about the Clayton Anti-Trust Act of 1914 and then said, "Look, I'll be back in a minute. I'm going to the Book Ex and see what the scoop is."

"If they're not going to use the book," she said, "I'll still give you ninety cents for it."

As I walked out, I glanced covetously at the shelf where Green Hills of Africa was, and if there had been a picture of something alive on the cover, it would surely have leered at me. The book looked as far away as Africa itself.

At the Book Ex, I was told that my little six-dollar gem was worth less than the paper it was printed on so far as the Book Ex was concerned. My book, they said, was out of date. It was only the twenty-third edition and next quarter they would use the twenty-fourth edition. I asked what the difference was between the editions, and I was shown that on page 549 of the new edition, on the first line, the word "or" had been changed to "and". (Later, on a hunch, I secured a copy of the twenty-second edition and noted that the word on the first line of 549 was "and". I never did find the twenty-first edition, but I have been told that the word in that book on page 549 was "or".)

JUST RECEIVED

NYLON CORD SUITS $32.50

WE HAVE SEVERAL COLORS . . . Come By While Sizes Are Complete

THE Sport—SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

Change it!

Keep your engine clear of sludge and gum by changing oil every thousand miles — at our station where friendly service and quality supplies mean real satisfaction. Drive up today!

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

it's not what you do

WE ADVERTISED!

WE SHOUTED!

WITH NO RESULTS

it's the way you do it

NOW We're giving records away with 30% Discount on all 33 - 45 - 78's.

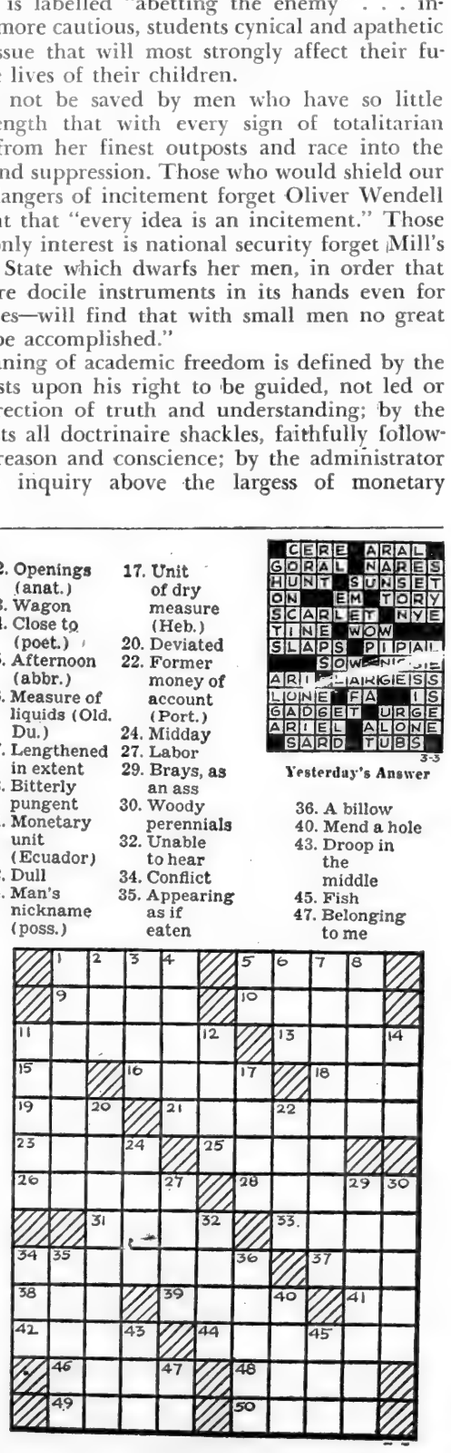
SALE ENDS THIS WEEKEND!

Open Fridays 7-9 p.m.

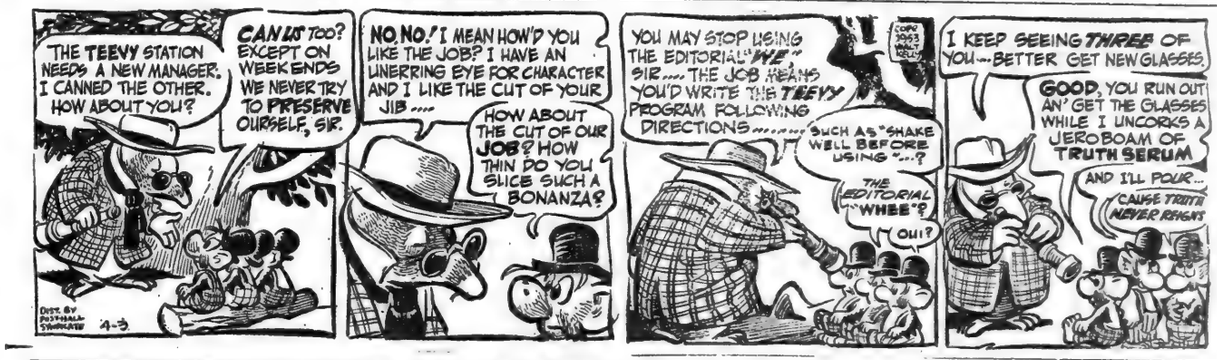
DALE FAIRLESS

"Where It's Fun To Shop" Glen Lennox

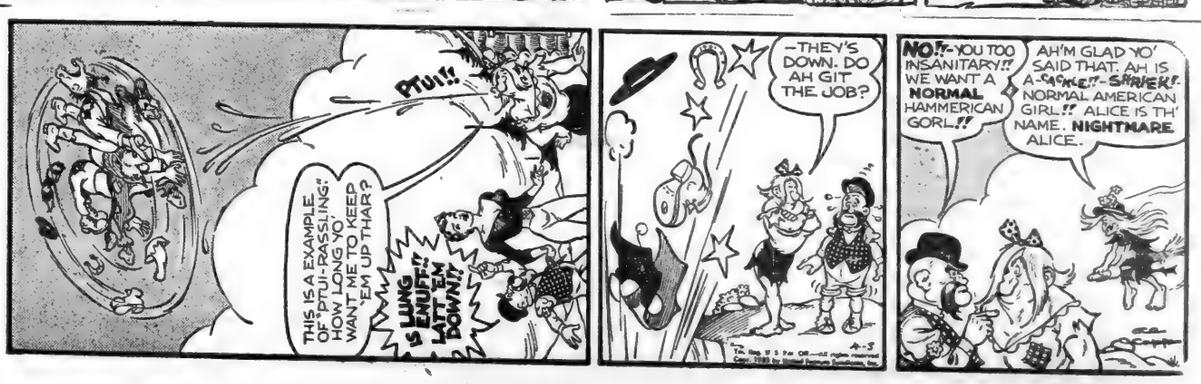
ACROSS



1. Source of cocaine
5. Father
9. Seaport in Algeria
10. Refuse of grapes
11. Trapped
13. Additional
15. Guido's lowest note
16. Starchy, edible root
18. Cover
19. Fish
21. Cleaning rods for guns
23. Destruction
25. Past participle of "be"
26. Disease of rye
28. Correct
31. Crucifix
33. Prophet
34. Wiener-wursts (slang)
37. River (Eng.)
38. Land-measures
39. Praise
41. Helium (sym.)
42. She made first American flag
44. Disorderly disturbance
46. Line of juncture
48. Flourish
49. Touchy (slang)
50. Finishes



DOWN



1. Outline
2. Openings (anat.)
3. Wagon
4. Close to (poet.)
5. Afternoon (abbr.)
6. Measure of liquids (Old. Du.)
7. Lengthened in extent
8. Bitterly pungent
11. Monetary unit (Ecuador)
12. Dull
14. Man's nickname (poss.)
17. Unit of dry measure (Heb.)
20. Deviated
22. Former money of account (Port.)
24. Midday
27. Labor
29. Brays, as an ass
30. Woody perennials
32. Unable to hear
34. Conflict
35. Appearing as if eaten
36. A billow
40. Mend a hole
43. Droop in the middle
45. Fish
47. Belonging to me

Yesterday's Answer

Black Paces Golf Team To Second Win Of Year

Carolina's golf team made another barrage on par yesterday afternoon at the Finley golf course as it romped over Williams College, 26½-½.

Number-one man Bob Black led the shelling with a three under par 69 as the Tar Heels took their second match of the season with ease. Black had a 34-35. Billy Ford, freshman from Charleston, S. C. had his second straight 70 of the season to follow Black.

The golf team will have a triangular match with Notre Dame and Ohio University at the Finley course starting at 10:00 tomorrow morning.

The team total for the match was 435, only three strokes over par. John Frazier and Bill Williamson both had par 72 rounds while Jimmy Ferree had a 74 and Bill Thornton a 78.

The summaries:

Black (UNC) defeated Rand, 3-0; Williamson (UNC) defeated Thompkins, 3-0; Black and Williamson defeated Rand and Thompkins, 3-0.

Thornton (UNC) defeated Gehret, 3-0; Ferree (UNC) defeated Belshea, 3-0; Thornton and Ferree defeated Gehret and Belshea, 2½-½.

Frazier (UNC) defeated Emerson, 3-0; Ford (UNC) defeated Bergen, 3-0; Fraziier and Ford defeated Emerson and Bergen, 3-0.

Browne Plays Number One In Fifth Win

The Carolina tennis team defeated Williams College, 14-1, yesterday to take a two match series and extend its season record to 5-0.

Carolina coach John Kenfield changed his lineup for the third straight day, with sophomore Herb Browne playing in the number one singles spot.

Carolina's tennis team will try for its fifth win in as many days against Amherst College this afternoon on the varsity courts at 3 o'clock.

Singles: Browne (UNC) over Squires, 6-3, 6-3; Bradford (UNC) over Symington, 6-1, 6-2; Thompson (UNC) over Brownell, 6-1, 6-1; Sylvia (UNC) over Kesel, 6-4, 6-1; Kerdasha (UNC) over Zeigler, 6-1, 6-1; Payne (UNC) over Fulkerson, 6-1, 6,1; Gustafson (UNC) over Brucker, 6-1, 6-1; Izlar (UNC) over Woods, 6-4, 6-0; Gordon (UNC) over Fiske, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2; Lynch (UNC) over Wilke, 6-4, 6-1.

Doubles: Browne and Payne (UNC) over Squires and Symington, 6-3, 7,5; Bradford and Thomp- 6-3, 6-3; Sylvia and Gustafson son (UNC over Brownell and Kesel, (UNC) over Zeigler and Brucker, 6-4, 9-7; Fiske and Woods (W) over Wickham and Lynch, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4; Kerdasha and Izlar (UNC(over Fulkerson and Wilke, 6-0, 6-1.

Williams Ruins Lacrossemen's Opening, 13-6

Williams College ruined the UNC Lacrosse team's 1953 debut here, yesterday, defeating the Tar Heels 13-6 in a roughly contested game. The Heels face Cornell in their second game of the season, here, Saturday.

Ted Johnson, with four goals, led the Williams attack, aided by Bruce Van Dussen, and Rick Bethune, with three each, Al Kissack, with two and Hugh Murphy with one.

Sparkplugging the Carolina offensive was veteran Ted Dawes with three goals. Walt Ernst, Dick Baker, and Dave Cole scored one goal each. Although allowing 13 balls to get past him for a score, goalie Lew Floyd played his usual fine game, making 24 saves.

WHO WILL BE MR. FORMAL ?

PLENTY OF PRIZES— ASK CAMPUS REP

Jake Froelich & John Baldridge
Beta House—4071

After Six

presents summer formals with "STAIN SHY" —the miracle stain resistant fabric finish! 24.95

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54

TONIGHT
RANDOLPH SCOTT
MAN IN THE SADDLE
Color by TECHNICOLOR

BREAKFAST SERVED ALL DAY FROM 7 A.M.

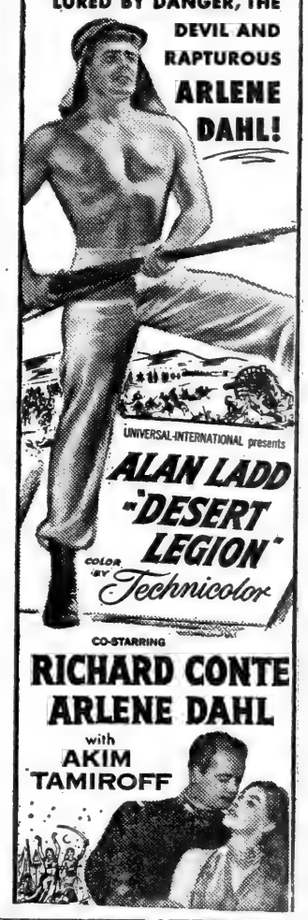
Special This Weekend
Juice
Two Eggs
Country Ham
Grits
Toast — Coffee
$1.00

THE UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT

Bargains In MEDICAL BOOKS . . .

Nutritional and Vitamin Therapy in General Practice Third Edition, (Gordon) ——— $1.89

Manual of Physical Diagnosis by Freilich and Coe. (Third edition) ——— $1.89



Biochemistry for Medical Students, by Thorpe. (Fourth edition) $1.98

Eternal Eve—the history of gynaecology and obstetrics, by Harvey Graham. ——— $3.98

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.
OPEN EVENINGS

— NOW SHOWING —
Things Happen At Night . . . especially in Paris!
CHARLES BOYER
JEAN ARTHUR
in
"HISTORY IS MADE AT NIGHT"
Varsity
LATE SHOW SAT. NITE
SUN.—MON.—TUES.

IT'S ALAN LADD IN THE FOREIGN LEGION!
LURED BY DANGER, THE DEVIL AND RAPTUROUS ARLENE DAHL!

CO-STARRING
RICHARD CONTE
ARLENE DAHL
with
AKIM TAMIROFF

FORDHAM UNIVERSITY
School Of Law
NEW YORK
Three-Year Day Course
Four-Year Evening Course
CO-EDUCATIONAL
Member of Assn. of American Law Schools
Matriculants must be College graduates and present full transcript of College Record
Classes Begin Sept. 28, 1953
For further information address
Registrar Fordham University
SCHOOL OF LAW
302 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y.

out-of-this world EASTER CARDS
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

OPENING TONIGHT
AND SATURDAY NIGHT
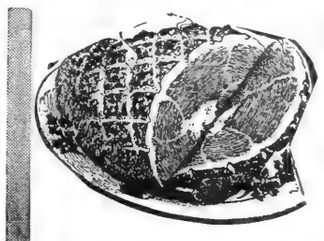
THE ——————— ROOM
OF THE RANCH HOUSE
Help Us Name The Room And Win A Prize
Details When You Come Out
MUSIC BY GIBSON JACKSON and the TRIO
Dancing Couples Only
Cover — $1.50 per couple



FOR EASTER FEASTING
See The Array of Values at A & P

WE WILL BE CLOSED ALL DAY MONDAY, APRIL 6th

LACHOY Chinese Style Food
La Choy Bean Sprouts No. 2 Can 19c
La Choy Brown Sauce 5-Oz. Bot. 19c
La Choy Chicken Chop Suey 19-Oz. Can 67c
La Choy Noodles For Chow Mein 14-Oz. Tin 18c
La Choy Chinese Dinners 18-Oz. Pkg. 59c
La Choy With Meat Chop Suey No. 2 Can 59c

Iona California Sliced or Halves PEACHES 29-Oz. Can 27c
Worthmore JELLY EGGS 1-Lb. Pkg. 19c
White House Evaporated Milk 3 Tall Cans 39c
A&P Cream Style Golden Corn 16-Oz. Can 15c
Green Giant Peas 17-Oz. Can 19c
Golden Maid Margarine 1-Lb. Pkg. 21c
Ann Page Prepared Spaghetti 2 15¾-Oz. Cans 25c
Marcal Paper Napkins 80 Ct. Pkg. 10c
Ann Page BEANS With Pork and Tomato Sauce 16-Oz. Can 10c; 31-Oz. Can 19c
Ann Page Fancy Tomato KETCHUP 14-Oz. Bot. 17c
Packers Label Standard Pack TOMATOES 2 19-Oz. Cans 27c

Paas Easter Egg Dye Pkg. 15c Complete Kit 39c
Royal Instant Pudding Pkg. 13c
Northern Toilet Tissue 3 Rolls 25c
Clapps Strained Foods 3 4¼-Oz. Jar 29c
Clapps Junior Foods 8-Oz. Jar 14c
Woodbury Facial Soap 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Ivory Soap 2 Lge. Bars 27c
Ivory Flakes Large Pkg. 27c
Duz Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c
Cubes Herb-Ox Bouillon Pkg. of 5 8c
Deviled Ham Underwood 2¼-Oz. Can 19c
Angel Soft White Facial Tissue 400 Sheet Pkg. 23c
Angel Soft Rainbow Facial Tissue 400 Sheet Pkg. 25c

Morrell's Pride Smoked Short Shank 12 to 14-Lb. Avg. HAMS Whole Or Half Lb. 63c
Butt Portion Lb. 55c • Shank Portion Lb. 49c
"Super-Right" Heavy Western Beef POT ROAST Lb. 43c
"Super-Right" Heavy Western Beef STEAK Sirloin Lb. 75c
"Super-Right" Center Cut Rib Pork Chops Lb. 59c
"Super-Right" Fresh Loin End Pork Roast Lb. 49c
Swift's All Meat Premium Franks Pkg. 49c
"Super-Right" Freshly Ground Beef Lb. 45c
Plate STEW BEEF .. lb. 19c
HEADLESS AND DRESSED WHITING Lb. 12c 10-Lb. Box $1.15

For Wide Variety, High Quality and Lowest Possible Prices, Pick A&P's Fresh Fruits & Vegetables

Crisp 4-Doz. Size Lettuce 2 Heads 23c
3-DOZ. SIZE GOLDEN HEART Celery Stalk 10c
Juicy Florida Oranges 8-Lb. Bag 45c
Yellow Onions 2 Lbs. 13c
Heavy With Juice Lemons 2 Lbs. 25c
Fresh Full Ear Florida Corn 4 Ears 33c
Ann Page PEANUT BUTTER 12-Oz. Jar; HONEY 1-Lb. Jar; MAYONNAISE Pint Jar — Your Choice 29c

Jane Parker Assorted Easter Egg Cakes 6 Cakes in Ctn. 45c
Jane Parker Chocolate Easter Egg Cake Each 69c
Jane Parker 8" Layer Easter Cake Attractively Wrapped Each 79c
Jane Parker Enriched White Bread 24-Oz. Loaf 20c

A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Through Saturday, April 4th

—History—

(Continued from page 1)

Eastern countries, on and off Asia, are represented by cardboard discs circling about. The mobile reminds one of the Copernican orrery in the Morehead Planetarium.

Russia, painted in red, has a domineering eye in the middle of its cardboard disc.

Dr. James Godfrey, professor of English History, decided after a glance at the mobile, "This symbolizes the balance of power."

Students almost got dizzy watching the graceful mobile.

When the mobile was finally installed, Jones discovered that it wouldn't balance. He found that a "seven mile wind" had blown Outer Mongolia out of circulation. He quickly replaced it and all was well.

Leave Your Laundry

— AT —

THE GLEN LENNOX LAUNDROMAT

WHILE YOU SHOP COLONIAL STORE

CAMERAS AND ACCESSORIES

SPRING IS IN THE AIR . . .

Get Your Easter Film Now

This is the "snap-shot" season. It's time to get all your photography equipment ready for warm, sunny days. Stop in today for your camera supplies.

OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

Carolina

NOW PLAYING

EASTER BUNNY MATINEE

SATURDAY 10:30 A.M.

All Cartoon Program

CHILDREN 20c — ADULTS 44c

SATURDAY

Phi Gams Hold Annual Dance

Epsilon chapter of Phi Gamma Delta honored its pledges last weekend with an annual pledge banquet and formal dance held at the Washington Duke hotel in Durham.

Jimmy Hill of Wilson was presented the Best Pledge award at Friday night's banquet. Following the banquet, the Duke Cavaliers furnished music for the dance, Flowers of purple and white, the fraternity's colors, decorated the ballroom. Pledges and their dates formed a diamond-shaped figure at intermission, and pledge trainer Jim Adams was presented a gift from the class. Honored guests at the dance were Dean and Mrs. E. L. Mackie.

Weekend activities began Friday afternoon with a cocktail party held at the Phi Gam house. Saturday an annual pledge-active softball game took place and a cabin party was held at Lloyd's barn. Favors for the weekend given to each girl were mugs bearing the fraternity crest.

Pledges and their dates were Paul Sylvester, Richlands, president, with Jane Smith, Albemarle; Ken Anderson, Kinston, secretary, with Pat Shepherd, Kinston; Joe Mavretic, New Bern, social chairman, with Toddy Smith, Bethel; Hugh Barwick, Clinton, with Billie Bateman, Tarboro; Erle Craven, Lexington, with Joan Green, Lexington; Claud Efird, Wilmington, with Alice Carter, Selma, Ala.; Sutton Flythe, Fieldale, Va., with Sarah Bennett, Charlotte; Bobby Grubb, Lexington, with Jane Sox, Hickory; Bobby Hackler, Washington, with Carolyn Hill, Washington;

Erie Haste, Edenton, with Peggy Flythe, Fieldale, Va.; Jim Hill, Wilson, with Adaline Blount, Wilson; John Hoyt, Washington, with Jane Langston, Goldsboro; Ted Lynch, Wilmington, with Patty Register, Wilmington; Jim Prescott, Elizabeth City, with Peggy Schackleford, Elizabeth City; Bob Tate, Wilmington, with Peggy Roberts, Anniston, Ala.; Jack Woods, Danville, Va., with Jeannette Stinson,

Phi Gamma Delta Names Bernstan As President

Epsilon Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta has elected Rowland Bernstan, Princeton, N. J. as its president for the coming year. Other officers elected were James W. Maynard, Burlington, Treasurer; James Adams, Warrenton, Recording Secretary; Garland Homes, Washington, Corresponding Secretary; Gene Lyon, Rocky Mount, Historian.

Danville, Va.; Shain Jefferies, Washington, with Martha Hoyt, Washington; Charlie Swaim, Winston-Salem, with Sara Leek, Thomasville; Frank McCain, High Point, with Sumner Parham, Henderson.

High School Students Entertained By Pi Lams

Forty high school students from all over the state attended the third annual basketball tournament fostored by the Pi Lambda Phi's here last weekend.

Friday's activities consisted of a special Hillel service, a movie, and later, a party at the Pi Lam house. Preceding the tournament Saturday afternoon, the guests were conducted on a tour of the campus. Following the tournament Saturday afternoon, the students were treated to a show at the Planetarium and another party at the Pi Lam house.

The tournament held on Saturday afternoon resulted in Raleigh-Durham defeating Winston-Salem 36-31 and the Pi Lam pledges beating Charlotte 47-38.

On Sunday afternoon the finals were held in Woollen Gym with defending champion Raleigh-Durham defeating Charlotte 34-30.

Baseball Today

Carolina's baseball team opens its Southern Conference schedule this afternoon at 3:30, meeting Clemson on Emerson Field.

Last Chance

Today is the last opportunity to purchase senior graduation invitations. The booth will be set up in Y Court from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. No more sales will be made this year.

—So-o Big—for Russia to slip in a few thousand spies and fifth column workers. We welcome the refugees for humanitarian and propaganda reasons. It is almost impossible to screen them properly. We can not turn them down easily, because we have a record of giving sanction to the persecuted of our enemies. So the refugees come. This writer feels that it is quite possible that among these thousands of refugees there are some Russian agents. If the Russians ever decide to blow the lid off Berlin, they would be a strong behind the lines force. As with the ex-communists, we should, if at all possible, be quite analytical of the persons who claim to have "left Communism."

Five Movies On India Will Be Shown Tonight

Five short films will feature the second program in the series of movies on India tonight at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

Sponsored by the students from India in cooperation with the World Relatedness Commission of the YMCA, the program will be directed by Dr. B. A. S. Iyengar of Mysore State, India. The public is invited to attend.

WHO WILL BE MR. FORMAL ?

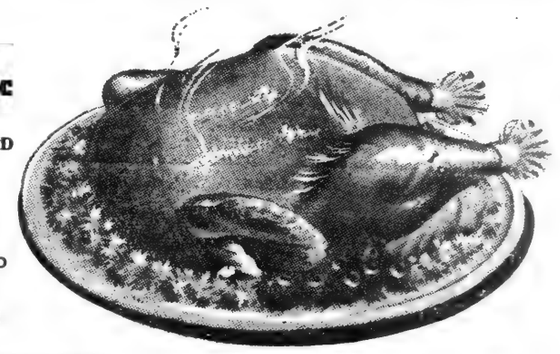
EVERY GROUP CAN ENTER—

ASK CAMPUS REPS

Jake Froelich & John Baldridge

Beta House—4071

COMPLETE LINE OF "AFTER SIX" FORMALWEAR



Town & Campus

Plump, Tender, Whole or Half Young Hen

TURKEYS LB. 55c

10 TO 14 LBS. AVG. WEIGHT—SEE NANCY CARTER BOX IN THIS AD

Easter HAM Favorites!

POPULAR BRANDS SMOKED SKINNED
SHANK END LB. 49c | BUTT END LB. 59c | WHOLE HAMS LB. 59c

LUTER'S OR GWALTNEY OLD CURE SMITHFIELD HAMS
10 to 14 Lbs. Avg. Wt. LB. 89c

CHEF'S PRIDE MILD OR HOT SAUSAGE LB. 53c
TENDER BONELESS STEW BEEF LB 49c
Fresh Ground BEEF LB 39c

PLATE OR BRISKET STEW BEEF LB. 23c
CHEF'S PRIDE BAR-B-Q FRYERS LB. 95c
CHEF'S PRIDE POTATO SALAD 1-LB. 29c
HEADLESS AND DRAWN WHITING LB 17c

Tender Beef Chuck ROAST
Budget Beef U. S. Commercial LB. 39c
Colonial Pride U. S. Choice LB. 43c

BASKET FULL OF BARGAINS FOR YOUR EASTER FEAST

The CS Rooster and the Easter Bunny team up to bring you a special array of wonderful food bargains to load your Easter Sunday table! Super values in high quality meats for your main course . . . dozens of good buys in all the trimmings that make the meal a real feast. Head for your friendly Colonial Store with your entire shopping list, for on the total of all your purchases for the feast, you'll save more at Colonial Stores. Your Total Food Bill Is Less When You Shop At CS!

COLONIAL STORES

Tender Beef Rib ROAST
Budget Beef U. S. Comm. LB 55c
Colonial Pride U. S. Choice LB. 59c

Delicious 5-Layer JAPANESE FRUIT CAKE 32-OZ. SIZE 79c

Chocolate Coated M & M CANDY 7-OZ. PKG. 25c

Check These Easter Values!

Pick of the Nest Grade "A" Lge. EGGS DOZ. 63c

OLD VIRGINIA STRAWBERRY PRESERVES 24-OZ. JAR 49c
MOTHER'S CREAMY SMOOTH MAYONNAISE PT. JAR 33c
ADD ZEST TO SALADS WITH SHEDD'S FRENCH DRESSING 8-OZ. BOT. 19c
PILLSBURY'S BEST—ANGEL FOOD CAKE MIX 14-OZ. PKG. 59c
HARRIS DELICIOUS CHUNK STYLE TUNA FISH 6-OZ. CAN 25c
NU-TREAT COLORED QUARTERS MARGARINE 1-LB. QTRS. 21c

GERBER'S STRAINED BABY FOOD 3 JARS 29c
HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP 14-OZ. 27c
LIBBY'S TENDER VIENNA SAUSAGE NO.½ 19c
LIBBY'S TASTY CORNED BEEF HASH NO.2 31c
LIBBY'S FLAVORFUL CORNED BEEF 12-OZ. 51c
LIBBY'S FULL-FLAVORED DEVILED HAM NO.¼ 19c
LIBBY'S MEXICAN STYLE CHILI CON CARNE 11-OZ. 21c

VISIT COLONIAL AND YOU MAY WIN

10 FREE $5 FOOD BASKETS

5 BASKETS AT EACH STORE

Glen Lennox Shopping Center

— — —

Franklin & Graham Sts.

No obligation! Nothing to buy! Tickets will be given for the remainder of the week. Drawing will be held Sat. Nite at the close of business in each store. Winning numbers will be posted at each store!

POTATOES U. S. NO. 1 NEW RED BLISS 5 LBS. 19c

EXTRA LARGE CRISP ICEBERG LETTUCE 2 HDS. 23c
FANCY FIRM RIPE SLICING TOMATOES CTN. 27c
FANCY TENDER FULL-POD ENGLISH PEAS 2 LBS. 29c
FRESH SWEET SPRING ONIONS BNCH. 10c
FRESH FIRM GREEN TOP RADISHES BNCH. 5c
FRESH TENDER GREEN ENDIVE BNCH. 10c
EXTRA FANCY MEDIUM SIZE Cucumbers 2 LBS. 25c
FRESH SWEET YELLOW CORN 4 EARS 29c
LARGE CRISP PASCAL CELERY 2 STALKS 19c

PRODUCE PRICES GOOD THRU SAT., APRIL 4!

PURE SHORTENING CRISCO 3-LB. TIN 89c
WHITE SWAN RED MARASCHINO CHERRIES 4-OZ. 19c
GETS DISHES CLEANER CHEER LGE. PKG 29c
WHITE NAPTHA P&G SOAP 3 BARS 22c
TOILET SOAP CAMAY 2 BATH 23c
WONDERFUL IVORY SNOW LGE. 27c

NABISCO SUGAR HONEY GRAHAM CRACKERS LB. 33c
FOR EASTER EGGS PAAS DYE PKG. 15c
HOUSEHOLD CLEANSER BAB-O 14-OZ CAN 12c
GET FLOODS OF SUDS WITH DUZ DOES EVERYTHING LGE. 27c
TIDE'S IN—DIRT'S OUT TIDE LGE. PKG. 29c
TOILET SOAP IVORY 3 REG. 23c

Your TOTAL Food Bill is Less when you Shop CS!

NANCY CARTER Tested RECIPES

HOW TO ROAST HALF TURKEY . . . Rub cavity with salt. Skewer skin to breast meat; tie leg and tail together. Place skin side up on a rack in a shallow pan. Brush with melted fat; cover with fat-moistened cloth. Roast in 325-degree oven, 3½ to 4 hours for a 5 to 8 lb. bird. Baste during roasting.

COLONIAL STORES

Corner of Graham and Franklin Sts. Free Parking Lot for Colonial Customers

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Fair and cooler with 72 high. Yesterday's high, 80; low, 59.

The Daily Tar Heel

HOPE
The editors are hopeful about hope for Easter. See page 2.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 122 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, APRIL 5, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Fraternities Begin Greek Week Slate

The third annual Greek Week, a constructive five-day affair which includes giving blood and clearing a church yard, starts tomorrow.

Purpose of the event is to provide constructive projects to round out pledgeship of fraternity pledges. It was instituted here in 1950 when Dick Jenrette organized a movement to rid the campus of hazing. Fraternity hazing was outlawed by the Interfraternity Council that year, and the constructive Greek Week replaced Hell Week.

The campus wide project for the greek letter bearers this year will be to clear the lands of a new Methodist Church on the outskirts of Chapel Hill Friday afternoon.

Pledges and actives will also join in the blood drive Monday afternoon.

Exchange dinners are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Exchange dinners are ones in which the various fraternities play host to each other's pledges.

Free movies are slated for Wednesday night at the Carolina Theater.

Thursday afternoon a field day will be held at Woollen Gym. One of four awards will be presented the winner of this event.

Stunt night is Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall. An award will be given for this event also.

Other awards to be presented are for the best pledge as shown by participation in the week and for the pledge class with the highest scholastic average.

Capt. J. S. Keating of the U. S. Navy will address the annual pledge banquet in Lenoir Hall Friday night at 7 o'clock.

Steven Trimble is chairman of this year's Greek Week.

Last year, most of the fraternities participated in the event. Early reports showed that most would be included in this year's fraternity fest.

Approximately 385 were expected for the climax Lenoir Hall banquet, Greek Week officials said. They said the events are arranged to bring the men together in common activities.

It's Nashery Tuesday Night At SEC Show

Ogden Nash, the witty, comic poet, defines the perfect husband: "He tells you when you've got on too much lipstick, and helps you with your girdle when your hips stick."

Nash will be here Tuesday at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Student Entertainment Committee.

Mr. Nash has concentrated for some twenty years on producing at a prodigious rate the light verses that have become associated with his name. His book, "Hard Lines," published in 1931, established him as an outstanding writer of humorous poetry. "I'm A Stranger Here Myself," published five years later, was a best seller, selling more than 100,000 copies in the original edition. These two together with his eight other books, contain 8634 poems, a number increased wekly by his regular contributions to the New Yorker and Saturday Evening Post.

Odgen Nash has attracted a large and faithful audience with his witty comments on the modern scene. Samples of Nash at his best include his reflections on The Happy Family: "Children aren't happy without something to ignore and that's what parents are created for" and Breaking the Ice. "Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker."

Honor Council Reports Cases

Four students were suspended for Honor Code violations, ten acquitted and one recovered from probation during winter quarter examinations, the council reported yesterday.

One was suspended for cheating on a Spanish 2 examination, another for copying from someone's examination paper in Sociology 56, one for cheating on a Geology 1 final and the last for copying answers from an exam book on an instructor's desk in Spanish 2 which had been finished and turned in to the instructor.

Ten students were acquitted or found not guilty by the council. Three persons were found not guilty of cheating on a zoology 42 final. Two others were acquitted on possible honor code violation in philosophy 42 on the final. Two more were found not guilty on charges of violations on a Spanish 2 final. Three others were acquitted on possible charges of violations on a geology 1 final examination.

One student was removed from probation. He was placed on indefinite probation in May of spring quarter 1952.

KOREA JOE, Sgt. Kim Man Su, of the Republic of Korea Army, who is better known to his American soldier buddies as "Korea Joe," shows off his new official arms and legs. Kim stepped on a land mine, which blew off both his legs; then his arms were amputated because of severe frostbite. Now he's well on the road to recovery—NEA Telephoto

Another Bill Aimed To Dry Campus Wets

RALEIGH, April 4—(Special)—Still determined to dry up intoxicating beverages on college campuses, Rep. William Winkler of Watauga has introduced another bill to achieve his aim.

It was little different from a similar measure the Watauga Republican sent forward several weeks ago. Winkler said the changes were suggested in the House Propositions and Grievances Committee.

The earlier bill would have provided for the suspension of any student and the firing of any faculty member, official employe convicted of violating the prohibition against liquor on the campus.

The new bill merely subjects them to a $50 fine or up to 30 days in jail for a first offense, and $100 fine and up to three months in jail for a second offense.

The Proposions and Grievances Committee showed little inclination to endorse Winkler's first effort. Observers predicted his second would fare no better.

IDC

The Inter-Dormitory Council will meet Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Alumni Building for the election of officers.

UNC Fumbles Duke Challenge To Beat Blood-Giving Record

It doesn't look like Carolina is going to beat Duke this year either. At least not if the blood donor appointments continue on the scale thus far, Chairman Harriet Eliason said yesterday.

Only 75 persons have signed up for the Bloodmobile's visit here tomorrow through Wednesday although a goal of 1,009 pints has been set. The 1,009 figure is one more than the number given by students at Duke University in its recent blood drive.

Blood collected in the drive will be used for two purposes: Most of it will go overseas to the armed forces ,while some will be kept in this country for immediate use in combatting polio.

Appointments may be made in the Graham Memorial office or by calling 5611 or 9-1881.

It is recommended that no fatty foods be eaten within three hours of the blood appointment. Unmarried minors must have the written permission of a parent or guardian.

The last donation record set by the Carolina campus was that of 822 pints given last Spring.

ALTHOUGH COMMUNIST NEGOTIATORS have proposed a date for discussing the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners, soldiers still need blood badly. Here eager GI's wait to help a wounded buddy at an aid station just behind the front lines while a medic holds the vital plasma being administered to the injured man.—NEA Telephoto.

Surplus In Red

Finances For UNC Look Dim

If the House's Finance Committee does't o.k. the proposed bond issue, state educational institutions are likely to suffer, it was indicated yesterday.

For if the committee doesn't think it's needed the General Assembly probobly will go along with that opinion, and House Bill 941, asking for $13,000,000 in bonds to help state education, will be dead.

The probability of getting the funds from the state's surplus already is dead, according to Budget Director David S. Coltrane. "The surplus will be in the red if the 10 percent pay increase goes through," Coltrane said.

Gov. Umstead has asked for a 10 percent pay raise for all state employees retroactive to July 1, 1952. According to Coltrane, the retroactive pay and the salaries for the rest of the fiscal year (June 30) would cost $13,000,,000 and for the next fiscal year would require $27,000,000.

UNC's part in the proposed bond issue is $1,001,000 and the Consolidated University total is $2,-881,000. The breakdown for the University at Chapel Hill:

Matching funds for Institute of Government	$500,000.
Dorm renovation & equipment	196,000.
Bingham Hall	41,000.
Peabody Hall basement ment excavation	36,000.
UNC Total	$773,000.

The Division of Health Affairs is asking for the rest of Chapel Hill's $1,001,000. Their breakdown:

South Wing Medical equipment	$ 50,000.
Complete post grad facilities & Dental School equipment	143,000
Remodel Med. School 3rd floor area	25,000
Complete equipment cancer research floor	10,000
Health Affairs Total	$228,000

NEWS IN BRIEF

MUNSAN—Allied and Communist liaison officers are expected to meet late today in Panmunjom to put the finishing touches on plans for a Monday meeting which could pave the way to a truce in Korea. Most officers here expressed belief that disabled prisoners will be exchanged soon. A time must be set for the session to discuss plans for exchanging sick and wounded prisoners of war. And Gen. Mark Clark's formal acceptance must be delivered to the Communists.

★

WASHINGTON—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has told Congress that Communists are infiltrating "every field" of American activity and "enemy espionage" rings are working more intensively than ever before in U.S. history. Hoover made the mornings in testimony, published yesterday, before a House appropriations subcommittee. The FBI chief asked for a boost in operating funds from $67,000,000 to $70,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

★

ISTANBUL, Turkey——Forty men trapped alive in the Turkish submarine Dumluplinar which sank yesterday in the Dardanelles telephoned the outside world that they were huddled in a back compartment. Six crew members fell overboard when the Dumlupinar collided with the freighter Naboland, a Swedish freighter. Five were rescued and one died. The submarine's commander managed to float a buoy after the sub sank. The buoy carried a telephone connected to the sunken vessel.

★

WASHINGTON—They'll be rolling eggs across the White House lawn tomorrow in the revival of a tradition. Over 50,000 citizens of all sizes will roam the six acres of lawn which hasn't been disturbed by President Eisenhower's golf practicing. This is the first of these events since 1941.

World Peace Is Easter Hope

STANDING AMONG DOGWOOD bows, Carolina May Queen Saralyn Bonowitz makes an appealing picture. Miss Bonowitz was chosen by the coeds who also picked her a court of 10. Carman Nahm will be maid of honor.—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

Whether or not this Easter will be the landmark of another great rebirth of hope and peace, the abiding faith of Christendom rests today in the promise held forth in the resurrection long ago in Jerusalem.

From Vatican City to Korea, Christians held their breaths in feelings of both hope and doubt over recent Soviet peace hints. In a Good Friday news conference, Secretary of State Dulles said the United States will have to continue strong defenses, but an agreement of an exchange of ill and wounded prisoners of war might open the way to a Korean armistice.

As Americans readied for Easter yesterday they were reminded of a day before the first Easter nearly 2,000 years ago, probably the most hopeless day in human history.

The crucifixion of Jesus appeared to mean that these loyal people who had followed Jesus were mistaken, that this Jesus was not the Messiah after all. Even more important, they wondered whether the testimony of the Bible regarding the coming of the Messiah was false.

The wondering stopped and faith was renewed when Christ rose from his tomb, with the same body in which he had suffered. He first appeared to a few faithful women; later to the disciples. In all there are 11 definite and different appearances recorded in the New Testament.

That same faith seemed restored yesterday as in Munsan, Korea, a tiny "freedom village" of tents sprang up and U.S. Marine engineers rushed hospital facilities in case a more significant promise materializes—the exchange of ill and wounded prisoners of war.

On the other hand, in East Germany the Communists chose Good Friday for harassment of the Protestant church. They banned a synod in Weimer, seized a seminary and forbade Easter services in the half-mile "death zone" separating East and West Germany.

In North Carolina a new holiday —Easter Monday—seemed rapidly becoming a permanent fixture on the state calendar. Although apparently less than 20 years old as a holiday, the day will be observed this year as a day of rest by thousands of students, state employees and store and industrial workers. Official lists of legal holidays in the various states show that North Carolina is the only state noting Easter Monday.

Carolina students will not have Monday off, however.

Chapel Hillians and early rising students attended a sunrise service this morning at the Forest Theater. The service was a community affair, conducted by Chapel Hill churchmen and planned by a layman committee. Scripture and prayer with organ music made up the program of the brief service.

Meantime faint glimmers of hope —the same hope born on the Resurection day—shone in at least one tiny sector of the Soviet peace of fensive. France announced she has been informed by Moscow that 14 of her captive civilians, held nearly three years in North Korea have been released and are on the way home.

Thus was the picture for Easter 1953—a continued faith in Christ, new hopes for peace in Korea and Carolina students ushering in the great day at a service as the rays of hope and sun bathed the scene.

Saralyn Bonowitz To Be Carolina May Queen

Pretty, auburn-haired Saralyn Bonowitz of Chattanooga, will reign as May Queen at the University on Sunday, May 10.

The queen and her court of 10 were selected by coeds on the basis of beauty, personality and character.

Carman Nahm of Deland, Fla. will be maid of honor.

Other members of the court are Elizabeth (Pepper) Stetson, West Chester, Pa.; Grace Gordon, Spray; Diane Breslow, Rahway, N. J.; Beverly Chalk, Greensboro; Jacqueline Fox, Roanoke, Va.; Dorothy Smith, Spencer, West Va.; Ann Sory, Palm Beach, Fla.; Jayne Adams, Charlotte and Virginia Wilson, Jackson, Miss Smith, a member of the May Court and Chairman of the May Day Committee, announced that plans for the pageant are incomplete.

The May Queen, a senior in the University, is a member of Chi Omega sorority. An English major, she plans to attend the summer session of the University of Chattanooga following graduation in June. She plans a teaching career.

She is president of Valkyries, highest honorary organization for coeds at the University; president of the Hillel Foundation; former secretary of her sorority; was women's orientation chairman and of campus orientation this year, and was a member of the Student Legislature last year. She has made the Dean's List almost every quarter.

Before coming to the University Miss Bonowitz was a student at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.

Candidates To Meet Monday For Briefing

Students will meet the candidates for office and the candidates will meet the election laws at a mass meeting in Memorial Hall at 7.30 tomorrow night.

The candidates for president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and head cheerleader will make short talks to the group, said Dusty Lamson, chairman of the Elections Board. Other candidates will be introduced.

All candidates are required to attend the meeting, Lamson said.

Candidates who don't have an excuse for not attending are disqualified unless they notify the Election Board Chairman within 48 hours. Chairman Lamson can be reached at St. Anthony Hall.

Student Series By Playmakers Is This Week

The Playmakers will present Wednesday and Thursday, the 160th in their series of new plays by student playwrights. The bill is a series of three one-act plays. They are "Hi, Sir," written by James Leonard of Trappe, Md. and directed by Cyril Lang of East Orange N. J.; "The Mute" by Cyril Lang, directed by Anne Edwards of New Bern; and "Little Wonder" by Donald Deagon of Chapel Hill, directed by Mary Virginia Morgan of Byhalia, Miss. The plays are under the general supervision of Foster Fitz-Simons. Curtains are at 7:30 and there is no admission charge.

"Hi, Sir," a comedy of army life will feature Lt. Kaspar played by Hal England of Kings Mountain; Lt. Little, James Fouts of Lexington; Lt. Foster, Billy Barnes of Wilson; Maj. Graughton, Donald Treat of Chapel Hill, and the General, George Belk of Williamsburg, Va.

"The Mute," a psychological drama of the last hours of a convict features Tommy Rezzuto of Asheville will as the Mute; William Trotman, Winston-Salem, Felix; Neta Whitty, New Bern, Zo; John Miller, Signal Mt., Tenn., the Hired Man; James Leonard, Trappe, Md., the Lawyer; Dan Reid Raleigh, the Negro Prisoner; Max Paul the Bartender; Don Carmichael the Second Man; Carl Williams of Charlotte the Chaplain; and Dave Ashburn.

Easter Story In Wax At Planetarium This Week

The Easter Story is depicted in miniature in an exhibit now being shown at the Planetarium.

The tiny scenes are all in color and were made inside sea shells and the lids of containers.

Michele Zuckmayer, the artist produced the exhibit to be shown concurrently with "Easter, the Awakening", the Spring Planetarium presentation. Each scene is in a minute detail and was formed without the aid of reference pictures. The secenes include "Palm Sunday," "The Last Supper," "Gethsemani," "Golgotha," "The Tomb" and "The Ascension."

Public inspection is invited daily from 2 to 10 p.m.; on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 to 10 p.m.

Carnival Plans Are Outlined

Plans for the University Club's annual carnival are underway and entry blanks have been sent out for the April 17 event.

Chairman Fred Hutchins said any campus organization is eligible to enter and he asked those who plan to do so to let him know by application or in person as soon as possible. He lives at the SAE house.

An entry fee of $2.50 will be charged.

Booths in the carnival will be judged in originality, general appearance and workmanship with a cup being awarded to the best booth. One of the feature events will be the crowning of the winner of the Ugly Man contest sponsored by Theta Chi Fraternity.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Curt Ratledge, Don Thornton.

ADVERTISING STAFF—Charles Haskett, Syd Shuford, Eleanor Saunders, Charles Collins.

Night Editor for this issue: Louis Kraar

Is There Any Hope?

The average college student is materially well off. Yet he is apt to be pessimistic—spiritually frustrated. He wonders whether right wins out over wrong. He wonders whether vicious liars shape the course of world events, whether men made with ambition for power shape our lives and destinies. Where does God fit in, we say?

Easter gives us a chance to concentrate on these questions that pop up in our minds. And the story of the crucifixion gives us one answer. Today is the day that can give hope and faith. Easter is a day to renew any dormant optimism that we have. A person, both God and man, rose from the dead to let men know that he was the Son of God, the Great Forgiver, the Man whose life portrayed a way of life for others to follow.

We have a chance to lift ourselves out of the quagmire of material things, and pause to think of matters of faith. We see in the Resurrection, that right finally knocks out wrong, that there is in this story a springboard of inspiration and faith for all time.

Blood On The Home Front

They process it in Charlotte and in a week's time it is in Korea ready for use, and then used in a few days. The need for blood is ever present.

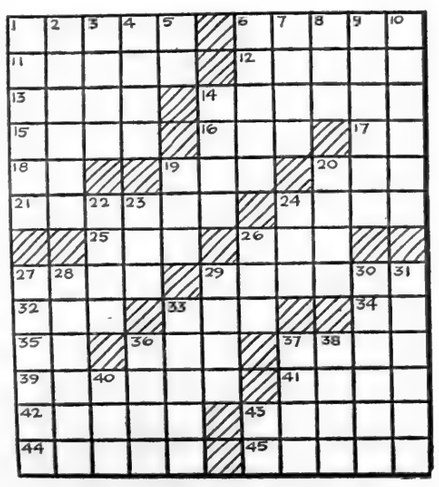
Blood flows in Korea. That blood is the blood of former students, neighbors, and fellow Americans. Blood plasma contributed is the best way to meet the heavy demands. The blood should flow here on the home front.

Perhaps one of the best aspects of giving blood in Graham Memorial is the opportunity to get to know people. Blood donors almost have small parties when they stop by the student union to give their blood. There are refreshments, relaxing chairs, and plenty of people. It's one of the better ways to spend part of an hour in Chapel Hill.

Some students may feel that blood transfer is a troublesome, hurting process. We just urge these students to talk to past donors. The experience is relaxing if anything.

Some students have never given blood. Others contribute about five pints a year. UNC have averaged about 400 pints during each visit of the Bloodmobile. Now we have a serious challenge from Duke which boosts of a 1000 donors.

When there was a fifty-fifty chance, Carolina was never prone to lose any competitive meet with Duke. This is no slacking off period. Give your blood now.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Stop
6. Shut
11. Beginning
12. Father-in-law of Jacob
13. Sacred picture (Gr. Ch.)
14. Manage
15. Nobleman
16. Remnant
17. Hawaiian Islands (abbr.)
18. Erbium (sym.)
19. A wit
20. Thrice (mus.)
21. Keep waiting
24. Vaulted roof
25. Equip
26. Black-tailed gazelle (Tibet)
27. Slender
29. Capital of Iraq
32. Fold over
33. Roman money
34. Norse god
35. Ahead
36. Polynesian drink
37. Ancient Silver coin (Gr.)
39. Estimated
41. Voice (mus.)
42. Oil of rose petals
43. Gentlemen's servant
44. Approaches
45. Winged

DOWN
1. Wound spirally
2. Demand for repetition
3. Hebrew musical instrument
4. Dispatch
5. And (L.)
6. Stick to
7. Rendered fat of swine
8. West Indian sorcery (var.)
9. The chief (Amer. Indian tribes)
10. Complete
14. University officer
19. Covering of false hair
20. Garden amphibian
22. Journey
23. Point
24. Canine
26. Fuel
27. A catchword
28. Woolly
29. Small perforated ball
30. Long-legged shore bird
31. Remove (Print.)
33. Affirms
36. Culture medium
37. Egg-shaped
38. Missile weapon (So. Am.)
40. The eye: in symbolism
43. Virginia (abbr.)

Yesterday's Answer

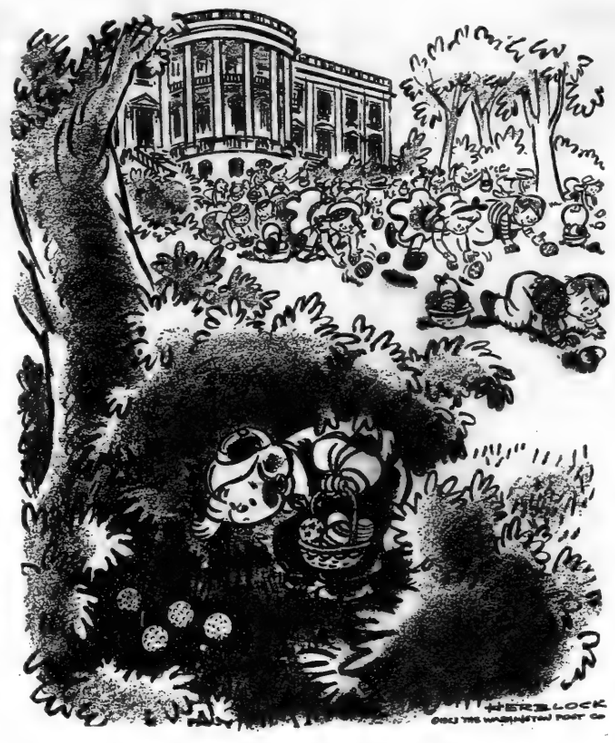
An Answer To Prayer

It happened on Okinawa during the last war. There were five hundred men stationed on the island in an Army Unit. Too few men to warrant the services of a chaplain. A group of five men wanted a chaplain and a chapel. Both things seemed to them impossible. But they prayed. Every night these five young men got together and prayed that if the Lord was really with them He would make it possible for them to have these things. A few days later, one of the men asked the C. O. if they could have permission to gather scrap lumber so that they could build a chapel. The officer gave them permission to gather any scrap lumber they could find on the island after they had finished their day's work. So, each night after chow, these men would search the island for any available building materials. They worked until midnight on many occasions, using flashlights. After a week or so of this, they were very discouraged at the small amount of lumber they had gathered. The C. O. was not discouraged, though. He was amazed at the perseverance of these men, so he gave them permission to use a new shipment of lumber that had just reached the island for another building, for the construction of their chapel.

That night the men thanked God for answering their prayers and they put their heads together and planned how their chapel was to be built. It seemed that each man had either had a business of his own or his dad had owned a construction business or had been a plumber or architect. Anyway, among the five of them, they drew up plans and built the chapel themselves, doing all the labor after they had put in a day's work.

A tough and hardened SeaBee heard of this "Operation Chapel" and gave the boys enough finishing lumber to finish the inside of the building, and to make pews and a pulpit.

They needed windows, and no one seemed to know where they could be found. One night one of the fellows was riding in a jeep to the other side of the island and took the road on the beach. Immediately in front of him was a huge sand dune. The moonlight was reflected from some large objects that weer leaning up against the dune. On closer examination, he discovered that they were window sashes made of steel. He was very elated to have made this discovery. But they were much too large. He reported his discovery to the others and they found a welder on the island who cut the windows down to size.



Now they needed a church bell to call the men to church. One night,after chow,one of the group had gone off by himself to pray and thank God for what He had done for them. As he was walking along the beach he stumbled over a bulky object partially imbedded in the sand. He drew back hurriedly, thinking it might be a mine that had floated ashore. He shone his flashlight on it and saw with amazement that it was a bell form a ship that must have been sunk not far off shore.

Now the chapel was complete —with pews, windows and a bell to call the men to services. Each of the original five men took turns preaching. They were earnest and sincere, but they were not preachers. Soon the others stopped coming altogether; everyone lost interest. The group prayed again for a chaplain—something they knew was impossible.

A week later a chaplain arrived on the island of Okinawa. He was a devout man and a good preacher, but he—in the language of the soldiers, was a shrimp! He was not a very imposing looking person and was the butt of many jokes about the skinny padre.

Our never-tiring group of men prayed again that a more suitable chaplain might be sent to them. After some time, another chaplain was sent to the island, to replace the original one who had been sent back to the States after he had suffered an attack of malaria. The new chaplain was just what the boys ordered. He was an ex-heavyweight champion. Not only was he impressive physically, he was truly a man of God. Many of the soldiers came to the chapel on Sundays. Two and then three services had to be held each Sunday to accomodate them all.

You may say that this all came about quite accidentally, that it was a stroke of luck that the windows were on the island, that it "just happened" that the bell washed up on shore—I say that it was God's way of answering prayer in a very real way in the twentieth century—a century of smug, sophisticated doubters.

Express Yourself

Editor:

What is about to follow appeared in a recent issue of the technical magazine Computing Machinery Field and was written by Dr. A. H. Householder of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. The topic seems hot enough to arouse some controversy and yet important enough to be worthy of a larger audience than it is likely to have originally received. I quote in part:

. . . "Yet, by a curious and tragic paradox, at just this time the facilities for technical training are in critical danger in this country. One source of danger lies in overcrowded classrooms, a shortage of qualified teachers, and generally inadequate support, financial and otherwise, for the educational system. This is serious, but widely recognized, and one may hope that remedies, in some measure, will be found.

"Another danger is no less real and far more insidious. It springs from an attack upon education at its foundations in the public schools; an attack that is launched by countless public school administrators over the country, and instigated by the professors of education in the teachers colleges. It takes many forms: degradation of classroom standards; dilution of curricula; selection of teachers on the basis of courses in "education", with little or no regard for preparation in the subjects to be taught; pressure upon colleges to lower their entrance requirements and accommodate all high school "graduates", whatever the "graduation" may have signified. All this is carried out in the name of "democracy", "citizenship", "social and personal adjustment", or any gilded phrase you may propose.

"Mathematical, engineering,and other professional organizations are considering what steps can be taken to increase the supply of trained personnel. Meanwhile students who wish to enter a technical field are discovering in college that their high school training has not provided the background expected of them. It is time for the pendulum to swing back, and individuals can contribute at least by investigating the public schools in their own localities and insisting that among the course offerings there be some solids with the froth."

John R. S. Whittlesey

Editor:

Let me congratulate you on a forward-looking, intelligent approach to questions too often evaded but now faced by The Daily Tar Heel. This opinion of an increasingly good student paper I have often heard voiced by intelligent Chapel Hillians who are interested in student viewpoints. One example is the leading editorial in your Sunday, March 29th issue. It does seem ludicrously anachronistic for any fraternity laying claim to the qualities youth versus old age should possess to exclude from its membership Jews, Chinese, Japanese, Negroes, and others regardless of brains and character.

Perhaps the following oft-quoted couplet applies to such race supremacy addicts:

"Come weal, come woe
My status is quo."

Mary B. Gilson

Mr. Charles Baskerville
Editor
The Daily Tar Heel
Chapel Hill, North Carolina
Dear Mr. Baskerville:

A friend of mine handed me a copy of The Daily Tar Heel of February 22, with a story on former editors of the paper.

I miss from the list the name of Frank Hough, who must have been editor just before or after W. H. Jones. Frank has been superintendent of schools at Shaw Mississippi, for years. His reputation may be quite local but it is highly luminous in and around Shaw.

Very truly yours,
O. W. Hyman

Editor's Note: Mr. Hyman has got his editors mixed up. Mr. Charles Baskerville was the first editor of the Tar Heel back in '93. His reading of the birthday edition celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of this student newspaper must have overwhelmed him.

Dorman Cordell

The British Way

Queen Mother Mary of England is dead, and it is always sad to see death come, even though it happens to us all sooner or later.

But what disturbed us was the possibility that the coronation might be postponed because of her death. What a catastrophe! That would be the most horrible thing to happen since the Chicago fire, if we didn't get the queen crowned. In fact, the British have just been tickled to death for the past few months at the pospects of burying the king and crowning the queen.

While they are about it, they are real happy to spend lots and lots of money in the process. And you have just three guesses as to where that money is coming from —and the first two guesses don't count.

Ah, yes, we must see that the queen is crowned. And why must the queen be properly crowned with the appropriate ceremony? Why, because it's the proper way — the British way — of doing things.

What does it matter that thousands of dollars will be spent. Wasted? Oh, goodness me, no. The English must have their quen in order to provide the symbol of government which will keep the English together in spirit. One question, though — why couldn't they use Santa Claus or the Easter Rabbit, or some other symbol which didn't get crowned, or buried, or paid a handsome sum every year to do nothing but have her hand kissed and her name revered.

Of course, this columnist is probably out of his place in daring to question the British way of doing things, since he is one of those rude, vulgar Americans. But the British seem to have no aversion to spending that rude, vulgar American money — as much as they can get.

Now far be it from us to begrudge money spent to help feed families bombed out of homes or to give some aid to setting the British back on their feet after the war. But is this what has happened to our money?

No, sir. The British must set up a plan of security from cradle to the grave under a plan of socialism, a system which reflects the emotions of unsuccessful men. And who is making sure that every Englishman is secure from the cradle to tht grave? Our pore old insecure John Q. American.

And the British must bury the king and crown the queen. Again, on our money.

But when the United States proposes to lift the Formosan blockade with the hope of perhaps shortening the Korean War, who hollers long and loudest? Well, it was practically a dead heat between the Communists and might affect British trade in the the British. And why? Because it Far East, or maybe cause the British to lose Hong Kong.

Yes, indeedy, better that a million men should die in the mud than that the British should lose a buck.

Good old Britain is neurotic. She's living in the past. The question is, when are the British going to wake up and find out that Britannia doesn't rule the waves anymore, and that the thirteen colonies gained independence years ago?

Or perhaps we are too harsh. Maybe so many German bombs hit the Limeys that they are still punchy.

John Gibson

Help Wanted

A college commanding,

Position of standing,
Requires a general prof.

A man who's admitted

To practice, and fitted,
To question, and argue, and scoff.

Must have a degree,

At least Ph.D.
And preferably others to boot,

Have taught many classes,

Have given few passes,
And the total of A's been minute.

Must have a gold key,

(Perhaps two or three)

And have written a number of books,

Must dress like a actor

Be a practiced abstracter,
And a person of extra good looks.

Must not be a red,

Or a fascist instead,
But vote the way of the college,

Must attend all the dinners

For varsity winners,
Ignoring their great lack of knowledge.

Must laugh at all jokes,

By the president's folks,
Be jolly, and witty, and quaint,

Must go to conventions,

Avoiding contentions,
And act like a veritable saint.

Must buy a big home,

Entertain with aplomb,
And gladly pay all the bills,

Must buy for the college

Displaying firm knowledge
Of how to avoid all the frills.

Must lecture with unction

And feel compunction
When falling behind in research,

Be a community leader,

A prolific reader,
A member of the school's local church.

Above are essentials,

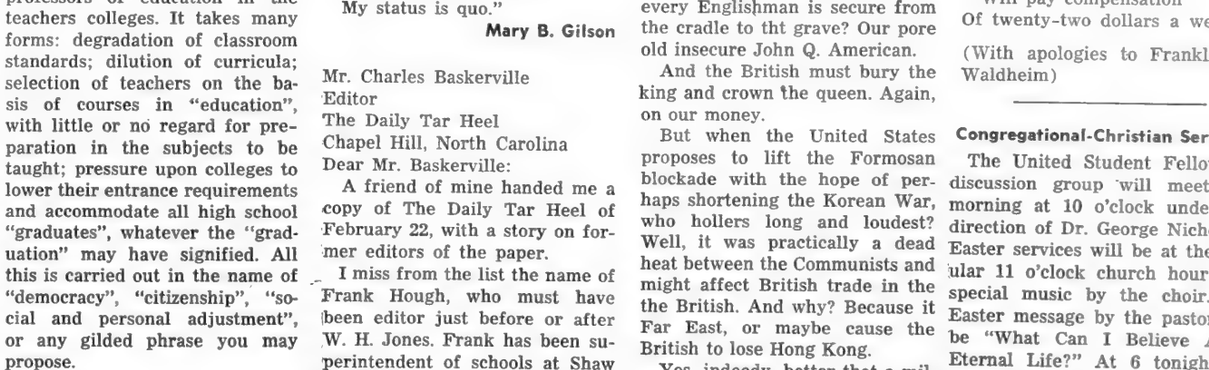
The best of credentials,
Required — and handsome physique;

Make prompt application

Will pay compensation
Of twenty-two dollars a week.

(With apologies to Franklin Waldheim)

Congregational-Christian Services



The United Student Fellowship discussion group will meet this morning at 10 o'clock under the direction of Dr. George Nicholson. Easter services will be at the regular 11 o'clock church hour with special music by the choir. The Easter message by the pastor will be "What Can I Believe About Eternal Life?" At 6 tonight the U.S.F. will meet for supper and a discussion.

Catholic Services

Mass will be held at 8 o'clock and 9:30 this morning in Gerrard Hall. The Newman Club will not meet this Sunday.

Methodist Services

The regular Sunday morning cocoa confab will not meet today but will resume its study of the Old Testament on next Sunday morning at 9:45. Currently the group is studying the meaning of "The Law."

Golf, Tennis Teams Win Twin Bills

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Nine Victors By 7-1; Lacrossmen Lose

Port Winner Over Furman In SC Contest

By Tom Peacock

Pitcher Chal Port shut out the Furman Paladins for seven and two thirds innings yesterday while the Carolina baseball team collected 13 hits to take its second straight Southern Conference game, 7-1.

Port has his best control, walking only one man and scattering eight Furman hits over nine innings to extend his season record to 2-1. Bobby Roberts, the losing pitcher, also had good control, and walked but one man while going the distance.

Bob Cashion of Furman and Fred Dale of Carolina were the only extra base hitters of the ball game, with both teams picking up a number of scratch infield safeties.

Carolina pushed a run across in the first on two hits and a steal, added one in the third, two in the fifth, two in the sixth and another in the seventh before Furman ever scored.

Ken Keller forced Dale on a fielder's choice, stole second, and scored on left fielder Wayne White's single to give the Tar Heels a 1-0 lead.

Three more base hits in the third produced only one tally for Carolina. Dale singled, Keller's one bagger sent him to third, and catcher Will Frye's drilling single through short brought Dale home to make it 2-0.

A walk to White, one of the five helpful Furman errors on Frye's grounder, and a long single by third baseman Bruce Holt put two more across for Carolina in the fifth to give Port a 4-0 lead to work with.

Port opened the sixth with a looping single to center and scored on Dale's double through shortstop. Another hit by Keller gave Carolina its sixth run before Furman could retire the side.

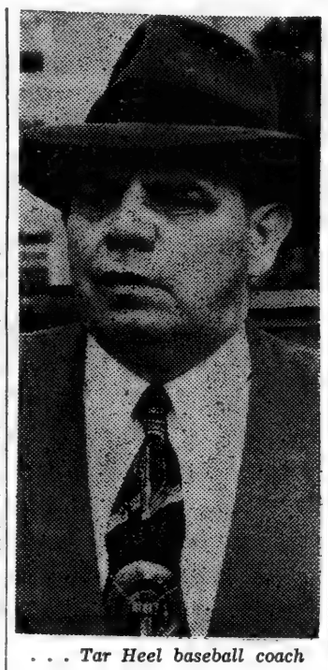
A scratch single by Holt, an error by the center fielder, and an infield hit by Bobby Henning put the last Tar Heel run over the plate in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Port struck out left fielder Bo Barry to open the eighth, but walked Cashion, the only man he lost. Roberts popped, but lead off man A. D. Bennett swatted a solid single to center. Connie Gravitte's throw to third might have nipped Cashion, but Dale cut it off. Russell Sutton stroked a slow rolling ball that Harry Lloyd scooped up, but the second baseman missed the bag and Sutton got a tainted single while Cashion scored to ruin Port's shutout.

Furman	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Bennett, 2b	4	0	2	1	4	1
Sutton, ss	4	0	2	4	3	2
Dillinger, 3b	3	0	0	1	3	1
Socha, c	5	0	2	3	0	0
Maddox, 1b	4	0	0	11	0	0
Small, cf	4	0	0	1	0	1
Barry, lf	3	0	1	0	0	0
Cashion, rf	2	1	1	1	0	0
Robberts, p	3	0	0	2	4	0
TOTALS	32	1	8	24	14	5

Carolina	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Lloyd, 2b	5	0	0	3	4	0
Dale, ss	5	2	3	3	6	0
Keller, rf	5	1	2	0	0	0
White, lf	3	1	1	2	0	0
Gravitte, cf	5	0	1	1	0	0
Frye, c	5	1	1	4	1	0
Holt, 3 b	4	1	2	0	1	0
Henning, 1 b	4	0	1	14	0	0
Port, p	4	1	2	0	5	0
TOTALS	40	7	13	27	17	0

Score by innings:



Furm'n	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	—1	8	5
UNC	1	1	1	2	1	0	0	2	0	—7	13	0

Runs batted in: Sutton, Keller, White (2), Frye, Holt (2), Henning.

Two-base hits: Cashion, Dale;

Double plays: Sutton, Bennett, Maddox; Dale, Lloyd, Henning; Lloyd, Dale, Henning; Port, Dale; Henning;

Left on bases: Furman, 5; Carolina, 12;

. . . Tar Heel baseball coach

Lore's Victory Streak At 4-0

Carolina pitcher Bill Lore won his fourth game of the season Friday, going the distance in the Tar Heels' 5-4 victory over Clemson.

Lore now has a 4-0 record, winning three starts and one game in relief.

Clemson pitcher Billy Odell held Carolina to one hit until the seventh inning, and allowed only four in the whole game. Carolina scored twice with two out in the ninth to win the game.

Carolina	100 000 202—5 4 1
Clemson	110 011 000—4 12 2

Six Races Carded At Pinehurst

PINEHURST, April 5—An attractive card of trotting races and the appearance of two of the favorites for the two biggest harness horse races this coming summer will be presented at the Pinehurst Race Track this Easter Sunday afternoon.

Six one-mile dashes for trotters and pacers will comprise the racing, with post time for the first dash set for 2.45.

The meeting will be the first of three carded by the Pinehurst Matinee and Training Club, with the proceeds going to the benefit of the Boy and Girl Scouts and local community recreation activities. The other meetings are scheduled for Sunday, April 11 and 18.

The parade of champions which will be a feature of the Easter Sunday program will give the public an opportunity to see the current favorite for the $100,000 Hambletonian Stake, the classic race of the trotting world, which will be held at Goshen, N. Y. August 12. The horse is Newport Star, owned by the Newport Stock Farm of South Plainfield, N. J., which belongs to Octave Blake, president of the Grand Circuit and a Pinehurst winter cottager. Newport State was the champion two-year-old last season, winning over $35,000.

The other star is Knight Star, one of the favorites for the Little Brown Jug, a $75,000 stake for pacers set for Sept. 23 at Delaware, Ohio.

Chess Club Announces Annual Campus Tourney

The Chess Club has announced its annual team tournament for fraternities, dormitories, faculty and other organizations. Each team will consist of two players, with trophies awarded to the winning team members. Intercollegiate chess players are barred.

Any interested group should contact Robert Hubbard, 19 Old West, or come to the weekly meeting of the Chess Club on Tuesday night at 7:45 in the Connor Dorm social room.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MIN. WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54
TONIGHT & MONDAY
TEN TALL MEN • BURT LANCASTER • Color by TECHNICOLOR

Netters Still Unbeaten; Golfers Win With Ease

Tar Heels Romp Over Notre Dame, Ohio University

By Biff Roberts

An attempt by Notre Dame and Ohio University to double team Carolina's golfers ended in a single result yesterday as the Tar Heels, playing their first 36-hole match of the year, trounced the touring mid-westerners at Finley Golf course.

Carolina barely missed whitewashing Ohio, winning, 23-1, and walked over Notre Dame, 19½-4½. The Irish got some consolance out of the marathon affair by winning over Ohio, 14-10.

For Carolina the double-dual meet marked the third and fourth one-sided victories of the season. The un-defeated Tar Heels have beaten The Citadel and Williams College in previous matches.

For the second straight match it was senior letterman Bob Black who led the Carolina scoring. He needed every stroke of it, however, to halve his match with Notre Dame's Tom Matey, a steady performer, who was also one under with 71-72.

Lew Brown, a letterman for the past two years but who has just started rounding into shape, fired two par 72 rounds playing as Carolina's seventh man, to beat both of his opponents.

Brown was headed for a sub-par round after his first nine of the afternoon session, going out with a two-under par 34. But he had to settle for a 38 on the back nine for an even round. He had birdies on numbers two, five, six, and seven while getting his 34 but had trouble with the first and ninth holes.

The Carolina scores were a little above the average of the season's first two meets but were still exceptional considering the fact that it was the first time he team had been sent over 36 holes this year.

Bill Williamson had a morning round of 69 to tie Black before the noon-time break but soared to a 76 his second time around the course. Litle Bill Thornton had 73-74—147; Jimmy Ferree a 73-75—148; George Mountcastle 73-76—149; Billy Ford 77-75—152; and John Frazier 80-77—157.

Matey was low for Notre Dame while Dave Rambo paced Ohio with a 76-74—150 effort.

The summaries:

Carolina 19½—Notre Dame 4½: Bob Black (UNC) tied Tom Matey 1½-1½; Bill Williamson (UNC) def. Joe Moresco, 3-0; Bill Thornton (UNC) def. Larry Eaton, 3-0; Jim Ferree (UNC) def. Tom Foley, 3-0; Paul Minnich (ND) def. John Frazier, 3-0; Billy Ford (UNC) def. Jack Powers, 3-0; Lew Brown (UNC) def. Mike Doyle, 3-0; George Mountcastle (UNC) def. Jim Terry, 3-0.

Carolina 23—Ohio University: Black def. Roger Pedigo, 3-0; Williamson def. Dick Small, 3-0; Thornton def. Dave Rambo, 2½-½; Ferree def. Dick Guthrie; Frazier def. Bill Purmort, 3-0; Ford def. Jim Leonard, 3-0; Mountcastle def. Dick Rouce, 3-0.

Notre Dame 14—Ohio University 10: Matey (ND) def. Pedigo, 3-0; Moresco (ND) def. Small, 3-0; Rambo (0) def. Eaton, 2½-½; Guthrie (O) def. Foley, 3-0; Minnich (ND) def. Purmort, 3-0; Van Nostran (O) def. Powers, 2-1; Doyle (ND) def. Leonard, 2-1; Terry (ND) def. Rouce, 2-1.

Michigan State, Georgetown Lose To SC Champions

By Vardy Buckalew

Due to a mixup in the schedule, the Carolina tennis team played its first doubleheader yesterday afternoon, winning over the Big Ten Champs of Michigan State 6-3 in the opener and defeating Georgetown in the night cap 9-0.

It was a hectic afternoon for Coach Kenfield's boys as some of them were forced to play in three matches. Herb Browne had the longest day of anyone as two of his three matches went to three sets.

Del Sylvia returned to the number one position in the lineup and won both of his matches. He defeated Stan Drobac of Michigan State, a very fine player, 7-5, 6-3. In his second match he polished off Herbert Von Urff of Georgetown with no trouble at all 6-2, 6-0.

Browne and Payne played as the number one doubles combination yesterday against Drobac and Tom Belton of Michigan State. Belton and Browne had just finished a gruelling three set match but both played very well as the Carolina pair won in three sets 7-5, 6-8, 6-4.

Carolina vs Michigan State

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Drobac (MS) 7-5, 6-3; Belton (MS) defeated Browne (UNC), 2-6, 6-4, 10-8; Bradford (UNC) defeated Sahratian (MS), 6-3, 6-1; Payne (UNC) defeated Roberts (MS), 6-1, 6-4; Thompson (UNC) defeated Pore (MS), 6-3, 8-6; Kerdasha (UNC) defeated Trick (MS), 6-2, 6-2.

Doubles — Browne and Payne (UNC) defeated Drobac and Belton (MS), 7-5, 6-8, 6-4; Sahratian and Roberts (MS) defeated Kerdasha and Izlar (UNC), 6-4, 6-2; Pore and Britton (MS) defeated Handel and Gustafson (UNC), 3-6, 7-5, 8-6.

Carolina vs Georgetown

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Von Urff (G), 6-2, 6-0; Bradford (UNC) defeated Frisby (G), 6-1, 6-2; Payne (UNC) defeated Baker (G), 6-4,6-2; Browne (UNC) defeated McFadden (G), 6-1, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) defeated McNabb (G), 6-1, 61; Kerdasha (UNC) defeated Leandro (G), 6-1, 6-4.

Doubles—Thompson and Bradford (UNC) defeated Von Urff and Frisby (G), 6-2, 11-9; Izlar and Gustafson (UNC) defeated Baker and Foster (G), 6-3, 6-1; Lynch and Gordon defeated McNabb and McFadden (G), 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.

MURALS

Tomorrow's Softball

4:00—Field 1, BVP vs Connor; Field 2, Winston vs Everett; Field 3, Lewis vs Mangum; Field 4, English Club vs Old East.

5:00—Field 1, Ruffin vs Stacy; Field 2, Phi Kap Phi vs DU; Field 3, ATO vs TEP-1; Field 4, Beta vs Kap Psi.

Tomorrow's Tennis

4:00—Pi Lamb vs SAE-1; ATO vs Chi Psi-2.

5:00—DKE vs Zetes-3.

Cornell Takes Easy 16-3 Win Over Carolina

Carolina's Lacrosse team lost its second game in as many starts yesterday morning, as the Big Red of Cornell fought to a 16-3 victory.

The game started slow with some good ball handling by both clubs. Then Dick Shriver scored the first goal with 5:52 of the first period elapsed. At this point Carolina's defense collapsed and just a minute later Herb Bool put one in the net for Cornell's second tally. Carolina's co-captain Walt Ernst, retaliated with an unassisted goal. Shriver ended the period with another goal to give Cornell a 3-1 lead.

The second period saw Cornell move ahead by getting 5 goals to Carolina's one. The third and fourth periods moved rapidly with Cornell keeping the lead and never having to worry.

All America Mention Lew Floyd stopped 26 shots to bring his season total to 50.

Last season's high scorer, Dick Harrall, was bottled up from the beginning to the end of the game by the Cornell stickmen who had scouted Carolina's game with Williams last Thursday. He broke loose once to score his first goal of the season. Dave Cole and Walt Ernst also scored for UNC.

Carolina's next game is Tuesday afternoon at 3:15, against Dartmouth on Navy Field. Admission is free.

Carolina	Pos.	Cornell
Floyd	G	Hudson
Stokes	D	Kalb
Trimble	D	Findlay
Johnson	D	Wilmot
Barkley	M	Bool
Cole	M	Bradfield
Ernst	M	Jones, C.
Dawes	A	Hopper
Pillsbury	A	Jemison
Harrall	A	Shriver

Cornell substitutions: Summers, Kohn, Perrollaz, Malther, Anderson, McFarlan, Scaap, Raedio, Bacon, Jack.

Carolina substitutions: Baker, Linker, Jones, W., Davis, Walker, Friedman, Winston, DuBose, Styron, Burrell, Haynsworth, Bryant, Ayscue.

Cornell Scoring: Shriver 5, Bool 2, Hopper, Kohn, Jones, C., Bradford, Jemison, Summers, Jack Perrollaz.

Carolina Scoring: Cole Ernst, Harrall.

Score by periods:

Cornell	3	5	7	1	—16
Carolina	1	1	1	0	—3

Bolt Shoots Three Under Par 69 To Lead Azelea Open Tourney

WILMINGTON, April 4—Tommy Bolt, Maplewood, N. J., professional shot a 69 yesterday to stay in the lead of the Azelea Open golf tournament at the halfway mark with 135, one stroke ahead of Johnny Bula and Jerry Barber.

Barber, of La Canada, Calf., shot under par 65, best round of the tournament, to vaut into a second place tie with Bulla of Verona, Pa.

Mike Souchak, Durham pro, shot up to 75 in his second round to drop to a tie for 12th place. Souchak shot an opening round of 66 to tie with Bolt, a native of Durham.

Bulla, putting with his left hand for the second time in his golfing carrer, ate up the back nine after going out in one over par and carded a five under 67.

Bolt was never over par in the first round of this $10,000 tournament which winds up Sunday afternoon, but he had some rough moments yesterday. After sinking putts of 40 and 12 feet for birdies, he took a six on the par five third.

Tigers Take Dual Track Meet, 68-63

By Sherry Smith

By the margin of five points the Princeton Tigers defeated the Tar Heel trackmen yesterday afternoon, 68-63, on Fetzer Field.

The meet was a thriller down to the start of the last event, the mile relay, which saw the score tied at 63 all. The start of the mile relay say Carolina take on an early lead and cling to it till the last leg of the last lap when Princeton surged ahead to go on and win the relay and the meet.

The lead changed hands several times during the afternoon.

Roger Morris on the first throw of the shot put threw a record-breaking 50 feet to set a new Carolina record.

The first event of the meet saw three records shattered as Len Lyons, with a throw of 51 feet, 8 inches, set a new Princeton all time record, as well as a new dual meet record.

The closest event of the meet was the broad jump which saw Homer Smith of Princeton defeating second and third place Charlie Yarborough and Harry Brown of Carolina by the margin of 4 inches and 5 3-4 inches respectively.

Brown, last year's top scorer for Carolina, pulled a leg muscle near the finish of the hundred yard dash and was sidelined for the rest of the meet.

The top scorers of the meet were Sonny Beall of Carolina, who had two firsts and a tie for second, and Thoburn Maxwell of Princeton, who registered two firsts.

Jeff Newton, continuing his stellar performance which was begun in the indoor track season, registered a win in the 100 yard dash and a second place in the 220 yard run.

Coach Dale Ranson of Carolina stated after the meet that he was proud of the Tar Heels showing and that he was well pleased with their performance in the meet.

One Mile Run:1. Maxwell (PU); 2. Osborne (UNC); 3. Bostian (UNC) T—4:28.5.

440-yard Run: 1. Myers (PU); 2. Suthpen (PU); 3. Ray (UNC). T—:50.4.

100-Yard Dash: 1. Newton (UNC); 2. Eglin (PU); 3. Hale (UNC). T—:10.1.

220-Yard Dash: 1. Eglin (PU); 2. Newton (UNC); 3. Evans (PU). T—:22.1.

880-Yard Run: 1. Yaffa (PU); 2. Bennett (UNC); 3. Newman (UNC). T—1:58.6.

120-Yard High Hurdles: 1. Beall (UNC); 2. Cornell (UNC); 3. Bell (UNC). T—:14.7.

High Jump: 1. Jordan (UNC); 2. Tie between Haire (UNC) and Lyons (PU. T—9:48.3.

220-Yard Low Hurdles: 1. Beall (UNC); 2. Keller (PU); 3. Smith (PU). T—:24.4.

Pole Vault: 1. Tie between Babb (PU) and Duke (UNC); 3. Tie between Yarborough (UNC) and Jordan (UNC). Ht—12-6.

Shot Put: 1. Lyons (PU); 2. Morris (UNC); 3. Higgins (UNC). Dist—51-8.

Javelin: 1. Swensrud (PU); 2. Marcinko (UNC); 3. Bell (UNC). Dist.—184-7.

Discus: 1. Morris (UNC); 2. Mathis (PU); 3. Wilson (PU). Dist.—141-1.

Broad Jump: 1. Smith (PU); 2. Yarborough (UNC); 3. Brown (UNC). Dist — 22-¾.

One Mile Relay: 1. Princeton (Myers, Archenbach, Yaffa, Eglin); 2. North Carolina, T—3:28.4.

"It's Like Voting!"

It happened at a local Blood Donor Center. Richard Gay, a businessman, was standing in line with his sleeve rolled up, when someone asked: "Why are you giving blood?"

"I thought while I'm here I'll give a pint of blood. You know, you live in town, you belong to a church, or a lodge, or a parents' group. You're a citizen, you've got certain obligations and privileges. Like voting. Giving blood is like voting. It's an obligation and a privilege."

YOUR BLOOD may go to a combat area, a local hospital, or for Civil Defense needs. But wherever it goes, this priceless, painless gift will some day save an American life!

★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★
GIVE BLOOD NOW
Call Your Red Cross Today!
CONTRIBUTED AS A PUBLIC SERVICE BY
11:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.
APRIL 6-7-8
GRAHAM MEMORIAL
Phone 5611 or 9-1881
For Appointment

IN ALL THE RECKLESS LEGENDS OF THE FOREIGN LEGION
THIS IS THE GREAT ADVENTURE!

When Paul Lartal led his reckless rogues against the battle-lusting hordes of Omar Khalif...when 1000 years of History hung in the balance...and a 1000 nights of Love awaited the victor!

CO-STARRING
RICHARD CONTE • ARLENE DAHL
with AKIM TAMIROFF • Directed by JOSEPH PEVNEY • Screenplay by IRVING WALLACE and LEWIS MEITZER • Produced by TED RICHMOND
T-O-D-A-Y
Monday—Tuesday
Varsity

What Goes On Here

Presbyterian Group

The Westminster Fellowship of the Covenant Presbyterian Church will have its second lecture in a series on the history of the church. Dr. C. H. Holman of the Department of English will speak on the "Church from 100 to Augustine." A discussion will follow the lecture. The group will meet at 6 o'clock tonight in the institute of Pharmacy Building. The public is cordially invited.

WUNC

Several new programs are being added to the WUNC schedule during the coming quarter. The new series will include recent releases by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, The British Broadcasting Corporation, and the French Broadcasting System. This week's WUNC schedule will be somewhat indefinite due to the program changes.

7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime
7:30—The Musician Comments
7:45—(To be announced)
8 p.m.—The University Hour
8:30—University of Chicago

CPU

The Carolina Political Union will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. The topic for discussion will be the "Gross Expansion of Authority by Congress and Congressional Committees."

Jobs with a future

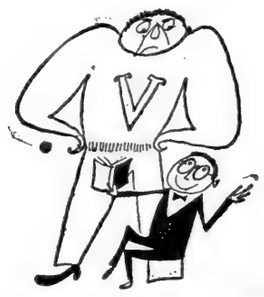
Every year hundreds of college girls use Gibbs secretarial training to get the right job and assure quick promotion.

Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."

KATHARINE GIBBS

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth Street

GIVE HER THAT SPECIAL EASTER GIFT



GET YOUR EASTER FILM NOW

For your sweetheart or your best girl — Make your Easter gift to her something to remember. And she'll appreciate a long-lasting gift — A brand new camera from Foister's.

OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

Them's Fightin' Words!

ONCE there was a big, muscular fellow named Joe Schlumph. He was full-back on the football team, captain of the baseball team, and star of the basketball team. He had a roommate named Freddie, who spent more time reading books than Joe did sewing letters onto his sweaters.

One day, Freddie came running in. He was obviously greatly excited. "Joe!", he panted, wiping the steam from his horn-rimmed glasses. "Guess what! I've just found the perfect shirts for all college men! They're brand new . . . and they're great for dates or cla--"

"I know," replied Joe. "Van Heusen's new short collar styles. They're the latest thing this year . . . and those smart short collars go perfectly with college clothes."

"Well," said Freddie, "that's not all. They've got one called the Van Karon that's the epitome of good looks. It has a diminutive collar that flatters anyone's cervical region. And it sets off your cravat impeccably!"

"Honest Injun?", said Joe.

"What's more," said Freddie, "they have a comprehensive collection of neoteric collar styles, including short spreads, short eyelets, short button-downs . . . plus short collars with regular or orbed points. And, you can get the new Van Heusen Short Collar Shirts in a myriad of smart new colors. They're so handsome they'll make any college man look like an oligarch!"

"An oligarch?", said Joe. "Well I don't care. I'm gonna buy some anyway!"

Complete Line of Van Heusen Men's Wear

TOWN AND CAMPUS

A QUEEN WAS CROWNED LAST WEEKEND at the NROTC and AF ROTC Military Ball and it was the Air Force who stole the honors. At left, AF ROTC Cadet Don Thompson stands with his date, Jennifer Johnson who was named queen. Col. J. J. Moorhead, is second from right and the lad with the roses is unidentified.—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

It's Spring for real this time, with Easter egg hunts galore, sun glasses at Y court and KA's taking pictures of flowers in the Arboretum.

Sigma Nu's and Alpha Gams gave a Happy Easter to orphans from the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh yesterday when they gave an Easter egg hunt at the Alpha Gam house.

Monogram club members and Pi Phi's also gave an Easter egg hunt for orphans from the Methodist orphanage yesterday, complete with dozens of eggs, jellybeans, punch, and cookies. The sticky-fingered guests enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Just because it's Easter, the Sigma Chi's have presented the Tri Delts with two baby chicks. These helped to entertain kindergarten children from the Negro Community Center. Tri Delts and Stray Greeks sponsored an egg hunt for them.

You can tell it's spring too, from the number of pinnings, and engagements. There's Gene Lawden, coed from Buffton, S. C., who's engaged to Bill Gregory, UNC grad from Asheville. And then we have Fan Lewis, Durham, who's engaged to Fred Wagner, now at Ft. Bragg.

More for the beach this weekend. Phi Kappa Sigs will make the trip. More news from that direction is the pinning of Phi Kap Hood Van Den Arend, Philadedphia, to Barbara Lehr, also of Philadelphia.

SAE's will go en masse to the Camden Cup races today. Think some of the Chi O's are going too.

KA pledges have been in high favor this week. Seems they set the house on fire or something equally clever.

A Sigma Nu and his pin are hard parted, but two of those pins got away this week. Gordon Taylor, Richlands, pinned Bruce Carr, Rocky Mount, and a student at Peace College, and Stan Smith, Va. Beach, pinned Betsy Lewis, a nurse from Charlotte.

TEP's do things up right with their parties. They'll head for the Plantation Club tomorrow night.

Another safari to the beach and it's the Chi Psi's this time.

And now comes the Kappa Psi portion of our program which may or may not be true. Tom Burgess Sparta, pinned Sue Henshaw, also of Sparta. They've been socializin' a bit too, with a beer party at the house last Wednesday and a house-party at Myrtle this weekend.

Chi Phi's serenaded some pinned Pi Phi the other night and it certainly was beautiful.

Word has it that Lambda Chi Louis Parham, Charlotte, is pinned. But who to? And then Lambda Chi amie Wilkes invites all to Myrtle Beach this weekend.

Phi Delta Chi's went to Wrightsville last weekend and liked it so well they're going again this weekend.

Charlie Cooper, Wilmington, has given his ring to one Pat Owen, WC student.

Phi Delt pledge Phil Thomas, Roxboro, completely surpriesd everybody by getting married Thursday. Mrs. Thomas is the former Barbara Mallard, WC student from Raleigh.

Phi Delts are making great preparations for their pledge weekend with a cabin party tonight and a cocktail party, formal dinner and dance tomorrow at the Country club.

Tri Delt Sara Bostick, has received a beautiful West Point ring and will marry, Leland Rew, West Point senior, in June. Both are from Gainesville, Ga.

Chi O's are attending some little social functions in Charlotte this weekend.

Kappa Alpha's might have a slightly full social calendar for the month. They'll begin by entertaining the ADPi's Tuesday night with a BYO party at the Country club. Next weekend is their pledge weekend and the following that crazy weekend they've all been growing the beards for—the Old South Ball.

ATO Mort Cooper of Washington, D. C. has been pinned a while, so this is no scoop. Wearing his pin is Frannie Winnery at Bradford Jr. College.

End of column. Happy egg hunting.

BREAKFAST ALL DAY

SUNDAY SPECIALS
* Barbeque
* Fried Chicken
* Corn Dodgers

The UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT

CLASSIFIEDS

WANTED

PERSONS NEEDING ONLY A little cash and having a lot of love to share, to board infants or small children on temporary basis. Call 5671, Orange County Dept. of Public Welfare, Hillsboro, N. C.

LOST

LOST ONE MEDAL ON WEDNESday night. Greek Cross and Laurel Wreath. Return, if found, to L. I. Insley, 413 Cameron Ave., Phone 3398. Medal is 49 years old and of great sentimental value. $10 reward. Name is on reverse.

NOW PLAYING

Carolina

There's no limit to the way the Easter Spirit multiplies when you send Easter Greetings the most special way there is...

WESTERN UNION say "HAPPY EASTER" by TELEGRAM

EASTER... APRIL 5

WESTERN UNION

North Columbia Ave.
Telephone: 2681

Spring Has Come to the Campus and the Customers at the Intimate Bookshop Are Coming in Two by two, Hot dog! Pal, it's Wonderful.

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

Sara Wood New President Of Independent Coeds

Sara Wood is the new president of the Independent Coed Board.

Other officers are Vice-President Joy Whisonant, Secretary-Treasurer Beverly Harney and Social Chairman Keen Oliver.

DANZIGERS

EASTER SUNDAY DINNER

Served from 11:30 A.M. until 9:00 P.M.

MR. "D's" FAMOUS ONION SOUP	$ .30
CREAM OF FRESH MUSHROOM SOUP	$ .25
SPRING SALAD served w/ hard boiled egg, sardine	$ .75
SHRIMP SALAD on lettuce served w/ hard boiled egg, tomoto, olives	$ .85
BISMARK HERRING "GARNIES" served w/ remoulade sauce, olives onion rings, hard boiled egg	$ .85
CZECH MEAT ROULADE served w/ sour cream and vegetable	$ .85
GERMAN SAUERBRATEN served w/ dumpling and vegetable	$1.10
WESTERN PRIME ROAST BEEF served w/ two vegetables	$1.85
WIENER SCHNITZEL w/ potato salad, two vegetables, lettuce, tomato	$1.25
HUNGARIAN BEEF GOULASH w/ potato and vegetable	$1.10
ROAST TURKEY served w/ dressing, cranberry sauce, vegetables	$1.50
BROILED SPRING CHICKEN served w/ potatoes and vegatable	$ .90
SERBIAN VEAL FRICASSE served w/ sauerkraut, potatoes	$ .95
BAKED HAM served w/ Polish Raisin sauce, vegetables	$1.25
T-BONE STEAK, large, w/ french fries,	$2.20
extra large	$2.80
SIRLOIN STEAK, large, w/ french fries	$1.75
extra large	$2.50

DON'T MISS MR. D's SPECIAL ICE CREAM IN RUM, VIENNESE COFFEE, and CREME DE MENTHE flavors.

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave	25.00 Value	9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave	15.00 Value	6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave	12.50 Value	5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT _____ $10 up

Each Wave Includes

- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Rainy and mild with 65 high. Yesterday's high, 64; low, 53.

The Daily Tar Heel

CHANGE
From bad to good, the editors say; those fraternity men are at it. See p. 2.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 123 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | TUESDAY, APRIL 7, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Doors Open At 7 For Nash Tonight

Ogden Nash, well-known writer of humorous poetry, will appear in Memorial Hall tonight at 8 o'clock as the Student Entertainment Committee's final presentation of the year.

Auditorium doors will open at 7 o'clock an dstudents will be admitted free upon presentation of ID cards. Seats will go on sale to faculty and townspeople at 7:40 p.m.

Nash's light verse appears regularly in the "New Yorker", "Saturday Evening Post" and other national magazines. He will recite a number of his better-known poems and add explanatory comment regarding their creation.

Student members of the SEC are Chairman Bob Simmons, Bill Brain, Walt Ernst, Al Neely and Bill Watt. Faculty advisers are Samuel Selden of the Dramatic Art Department, William S. Newman of the Music Department and Olin Mouzon of the School of Business Administration.

OGDEN NASH

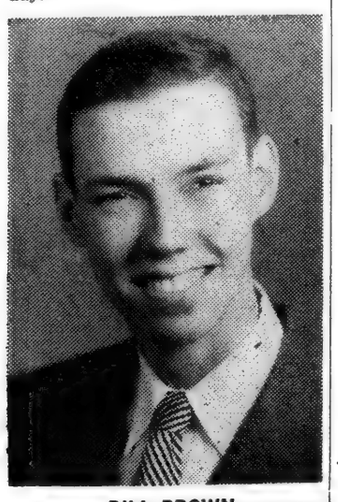
4 Duties For Veep Listed By Bill Brown

Bill Brown, independent vice-presidential candidate, yesterday termed the position of vice-president as being "the forgotten man in the executive set-up" for many years.

He outlined four duties which he said he thought the vice-president should perform. The duties:

1. To serve as speaker of Legislature as fairly as possible.

2. To consider it his duty to know what the students think in order to represent them.



3. To work in close harmony with the other branches of student government as an executive representative of the students.

4. To report back to the students about what Legislature and the other branches of student government are doing.

Brown said that each side of Legislature must have "the same opportunities to express their views." He added, "Otherwise Legislature becomes a political battleground with the students supplying the military funds."

Referring to the promise to report back to the students, Brown declared, "Even in such an important thing as the student government budget hasn't been distributed in the past. The students haven't even been told how their money is spent.

"The vice-president, by performing these four duties, can be one of the most important student representatives. Only in these ways will he be fulfilling the trust put in him by the students on election day."

BILL BROWN

Folk Dance Club Meets Tuesdays; Officers Picked

Tar Heels 'N Toes Folk Dance Club will meet this quarter on Tuesday evenings from 5 to 6:30 downstairs in the Women's Gym.

New officers for the quarter are President Sy Herzog of New York City, and Secretary-Treasurer Annie Russell Nicolson of Albrook, Canal Zone.

N. Y. To Spurn Aid Offers If Bias Required

ALBANY, N. Y., April 6—(Special)—Governor Dewey recently approved a bill making it an unfair educational practice for universities to accept any endowment or gift of money conditioned on the teaching of any racial superiority doctrine.

Dewey said he was "fully in accord with the purpose of the proposal." He added that the measure had the support of the Association of Colleges and Universities of the State of New York.

The aim of this measure is to avoid in New York a situation that has occurred frequently in several southern states. People have offered large gifts to small colleges if they would consent to teach the doctrine of "white supremacy" in their classes.

Governor Dewey emphasized that the new law would be in a section of the education law that could be enforced only if a complaint was made by a person wishing to enter a college or university. He suggested amending it next year to allow the state to move without having to wait for an individual protest.

"Politicians Keep Out" sign posted on dorm door of presidential candidate Tommy Sumner.

Chancellor House commenting on yesterday's weather: "Well, I'm glad it's raining, but then I'm sorry. I just planted some shrubs but other people are having Easter Monday picnics."

Harried coed frantically searching in Dairy Bar for lost scarf only to find it around her neck.

Condemned Houses

Time Ends But Work Not Begun

Time ran out Sunday for fraternity and sorority houses to display some definite progress towards installing fire escapes without rendering themselves liable to penalty under the North Carolina building code.

However, no legal action was underway yesterday despite the failure of houses to begin actual construction. This is in line with the local interpretation of the code to the code to the effect that "definite progress" is indicated by the obtaining of estimates and letting of bids.

April 5 marked the close of a 90-day time limit set by Chapel Hill Building Inspector P. L. Burch back in January when big "Condemned" signs were tacked on the front doors of every Greek-letter house in town except one. The local officials acted under state law which requires all boarding houses to furnish two unobstructed means of egress for all occupants above the first floor.

In January, only one fraternity house, the Chi Psi Lodge, avoided being condemned.

Greek-letter Fire Escape Chairman Julius Rousseau said yesterday all houses were showing positive progress toward removing fire hazards.

Apparently a ready liaison does not exist between the condemned houses and the building inspector, for Burch was of a different opinion yesterday. He said only a few houses had shown any definite progress towards complying with the order. For those houses who don't act quickly, he said, he had no choice under the law but to turn the cases over to the town attorney for legal action. He advised house presidents to "get on the ball right quick."

Burch indicated town rooming houses would be required to measure up to the fire laws the same as fraternity and sorority houses. None has been condemned yet, he said, because the fire department has not completed its inspction of the many rooming houses in Chapel Hill.

Most of the Greek-letter houses are bargaining as a group with three construction companies, seeking the lowest possible bid for the collective job.—J.K.

Selection Board Chooses 2 Cheerleader Eligibles

The Cheerleader Selection Board has found Louie Patseavouras and Jimmy Fountain eligible candidates for the office of head cheerleader.

Both were found eligible after interviews before the board.

Grail Taps 13 New Members

THIS 'FREEDOM VILLAGE' AT MUNSAN will be home to hundreds of United Nations prisoners next week as repatriation is scheduled to begin. Here, Marine engineers clear an area for additional facilities. NEA Telephoto.

Honor Banquet To Be Tonight At Carolina Inn

In its annual secret initiation ceremony, the Order of the Grail last night tapped 13 sophomores and juniors—six fraternity and seven non-fraternity men—and will honor them tonight with a banquet in the Pine Room of the Carolina Inn.

Those initiated were James Ervin Adams Jr., Warrenton; Edwin Osborne Ayscue Jr., Monroe; Herbet Howard Browne Jr., Columbia, S. C.; James William Claiborne, Charlotte; Thomas Eugene Cook, Fayetteville; Thomas Claiborne Creasy Jr., Gretna, Va.

Walter Dallas Girley Jr., Goldsboro; John Payne Jackson, Eau Gaillie, Fla.; Baxter Grady McIntyre, Ellerbe; George Holliday McCloed, Florence, S. C.; Edward Leonard Patterson, Albemarle; Harry Pawlik, Albemarle and Kenneth Lawing Penegar, Gastonia.

Standards used for selection include character, integrity, achievement, service and contribution to the campus.

The Grail was founded in 1920 with the purpose of achieving a better relationship between fraternity and non-fraternity men. In keeping with this tradition, each year 13 rising juniors and seniors are selected, with the 13th man alternating between two groups. The order is the second highest honorary organization on the Carolina campus and to be asked to join is one of the highest honors a sophomore can receive.

UN Makes Offer Of Prisoner Swap

PANMUNJOM — Peace hopes grew brighter yesterday as the United Nations told Communist negotiators they were ready to return 500 ailing Red soldiers daily within a week after agreement was reached on a swap of sick and wounded prisoners.

The UN offer was in a nine-point program put before the Reds at a 48-minute opening talk on the exchange of ailing prisoners. The talks may lead to resumption of armistice negotiations.

The UN negotiators said the first Allied-Communist talks in six months made "distinct progress." Both sides agreed to meet at 9 p.m. E.S.T. Monday.

The Communists raised the possibility of sending some categories of sick and wounded prisoners to neutral countries for the duration of hostilities.

The Reds move indicated they may intend in this way to broaden the terms of the exchange of seriously sick and wounded so as to include thousands of prisoners who do not meet the rigid requirements of "seriously sick and wounded" under the Geneva Convention.

Hopefuls Give Ideas As Campaigning Boils

By Louis Kraar

The campaigning that everyone has called so cool this quarter boiled over last night in Memorial Hall as political candidates laid their ideas on the line.

The meeting was planned for the students to meet the candidates, but turned out for candidates to meet their opponents. Dusty Lamson prefaced the speeches by reading the election laws. Then the political pyrotechnics commenced.

"I'm not a professional politician," Bob Gorham, University Party presidential candidate, said. "I'm interested in the Carolina way of life and have certain ideals about this. I think the University Party best represents these ideals. I want to be president, but I shall not be a politician to accomplish that."

Next up to bat, on an independent team, was Wade Matthews, presidential candidate. "I believe the election of president should be taken out of partisan politics," the former member of both campus political parties said. He outlined his platform, emphasizing the need for "a sort of citizens' committee of students for better student government."

Ken Penegar, Student Party presidential candidate, launched an atomic blast on the UP administration. He said that Horton's administration "is trying to wreck student government or just doesn't give a damn." He ran down the year's issues, poking the opposition in its executive ribs on each one and said he wanted "a little more action and a lot less reaction." Penegar concluded, "Let's ring down the curtain on this comic opera called 'Nothing to Do about Anything.'"

Tommy Sumner, another independent and the last one to enter the presidential race, said, "Party membership is a handicap to any elected official of our student government." Sumner introduced his campaign talk with a sharp blast at The Daily Tar Heel, declaring that his statement had previously been "badly cut up" by the publication. (A check of the files revealed Sumner's statement ran almost in its entirety on March 29.)

Next came the vice presidential hopefuls, starting with independent Bill Brown, who said that most students "think the vice president should keep independent of party politics." He said he would, if elected.

Baxter Miller (SP) lingered on the question of student apathy. "Do you think it (student apathy) could possibly be caused by the do-nothingness of the president?" He paused dramatically. "Why, sure it is," he added emphatically.

Jack Stilwell (UP) said the vice presidency was "not an easy job. I believe the vice president should be the right hand man to the president." Stillwell said the UP went around to the students to get their platform planks, instead of "sifting up in a smoke-filled room and deciding for the students."

SEOUL—American Marines battled with 200 Chinese early yesterday in no-man's-land close to the Panmunjom truce site, killing or wounding 63 Reds in a brief but bitter clash. The western front battle took place only a few hours before United Nations and Communist negotiators met at Panmunjom to discuss exchanging sick and wounded prisoners of war. A marine combat patrol prowling through no-man's-land within one mile of the truce village ran into a reinforced enemy company before dawn. Bitter fighting immediately erupted.

★

INSTANBUL, Turkey—The defense Ministry abandoned all hope Sunday night of recovering further survivors from the rammed submarine Dumlupinar 228 feet below the surface of the Dardanelles Straits. The total loss of life was put at 81 American-trained Turkish seamen. Five men, including the sub's skipper, were saved. All had been on the conning tower early Saturday when the 4,000-ton Swedish freighter Naboland rammed the Dumlupinar in pre-dawn darkness.

★

WASHINGTON — Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) asserted yesterday that bad planning by the Truman administration was a basic cause of ammunition shortage in Korea. Ferguson heads a Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee which is investigating Gen. James A. Van Fleet's charges that there were serious shortages of ammunition throughout his 22 months as commander of the Eighth Army in Korea. A Senate Armed Services committee also is looking into the charges.

★

LAS VEGAS—An atomic blast, designed to test flying mice and monkeys, was set off yesterday at the proving ground near here. Fourth in the current series of nuclear explosions, yesterday's was the first this year to be triggered in daylight. The flash flared to the northwest at 7:30 a.m. (10:30 a.m. EST). As in last week's third test, no troops were in the field. Observers noted many planes in the air before the flash. The Air Force has said it might have as many as 74 craft aloft at one time.

Dr. Rice Will Participate In London Chem Meeting

Dr. O. K. Rice of the Chemistry Department will participate in a meeting of the Faraday Society, physical chemistry society of Great Britain, to be held April 16, 17 and 18 in London.

Dr. Rice will read a paper written jointly with Dr. Douglas Atack, his research associate here. Its title is "The Interfacial Tension and Other Properties of the Cyclohexane-Aniline System Near Its Critical Soclution Temperature."

Dorms Invited To CUSC Day This Saturday

Consolidated University Day will be held at WC on Saturday with State, Carolina and Women's College invited.

"This year's Consolidated University Day is going to be the biggest and most gala event taking place in the history of the consolidated schools," a spokesman said. The big day will begin on Saturday morning. There will be all forms of recreation including billiards and pool.

A talent show with UNC is also on the agenda. "UNC talent is bound to be good as the same members who took part in the Campus Chest Show here will perform at WC," the spokesman continued.

There will be a dance on Saturday night from 8:30 until midnight.

UNC Chairman Jim Wilkinson said the dorms at WC are sending personal letters to the dorms at Carolina asking them to come over.

WC is also dedicating its new modern student union.

Plan Now To Attend
GREATER UNIV. DAY
SATURDAY
APRIL 11
At
W. C.—Greensboro
Dance—Girls—Skits

Needed: Car Rack

The lacrosse team, soon to depart for Massachusetts, is "desperately in need" of a luggage rack for the top of a car.

Anyone having same is asked to contact Al Moore at 9-3321 or Bob Colbert 4011. The team leaves Friday.

While Carolina Lags Far Behind

Thanks Of Legless Sergeant Is Sent To Unknown Donor

By George Sisler

(Sisler is war correspondent for The Commercial Appeal of Memphis, Tenn.—Ed.)

TOKYO—"I don't know who gave the blood that saved my life, but I'd like to get down no my knees and thank them for it."

Those were his words, but Sgt./1c Franklin P. Tilghman of Poplar Grove, Ark. spoke without realizing exactly what he was saying.

He has no knees.

They were blown off at Triangle Hill.

During mnay days and nights in the front lines of Korea and aboard fighting ships offshore, I was privileged to meet and talk with many heroes. But I can safely say that the smiling, square-jawed son of Mrs. Nettie Tilghman is the bravest man I've ever seen.

I'll never forget him, and neither would you if you could have seen him as I did here at the Army General Hospital. He's here—what's left of him is here—and it's all courage. He's a broken remnant of human being with more manhood per square inch packed into his broken frame that I'll ever be privileged to see again.

His legs are gone and his only hope of emulating his sound-bodied fellowmen will be with man-made limbs and the tortured movements of a man on stilts. Yet he looked up from his wheelchair, and with humble gratefulness in his honest eyes, sent home his thanks for the blood that saved his life.

Long weeks and 18 pints of blood after his wound, he was

(See SERGEANT, page 3)

GEORGE SISLER

With a goal of 1,009, the campus blood drive got but 176 donations yesterday. Two days are left in which to beat Duke. Appointments at 9-1881 or 5611.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe, Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Tom Parramore, Ben West, Jim Wilkinson, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Hubert Breeze, Harry Dunlop, Ellen Downs, Tom Neal Jr., Richard Creede, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Don Thornton, Ron Levin.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

From The Destructive To The Constructive

Greek Week is here in full bloom for the third time. Since its inception in 1950, the program has grown until almost all fraternities participate in the major events.

Organized to root out the last remnants of hazing, Greek Week has paid off in concrete dividends. There is better interfraternity spirit and more service to the community. Outsiders and loud critics of the fraternity system have been praiseworthy of the movemnt.

There are still bits of Hell Week remaining. But in the last four years, Carolina has made notable gains in the matter of hazing. Greek Week symbolizes progress. It entails a mass athletic competition, a land-clearing project for a new Methodist church, and a banquet at the end of the week. Greek Week has struck almost a death-blow to the outmoded hurly-burly hazing projects of the past.

To the list of activities must be added the blood donation drive in which all pledges are being urged to participate.

The Daily Tar Heel believes that fraternities can be much more than just social outlets. The pledge manuals and national charters are meaningless without active service to the campus and the community. Greek Week is a start towards greater interest in the University. These evidences of service, good fellowship among fraternity men, and a healthy finishing out period for pledges are things that fraternities can point to with pride.

Speak Up Candidates!

We haven't witnessed such a lukewarm political campaign in years. The candidates may be shaking hands, but most aren't talking about issues. This is an admittance to the campus that there are no issues. The Daily Tar Heel thinks differently.

We ask all four presidential candidates:

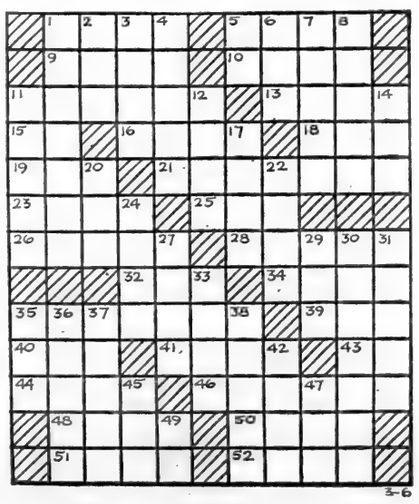
1. Are you for or against Carolina's participation in the National Students Association? State your reasons.

2. Do you think UNC should participate actively in the Consolidated University student council? Do you think that President Horton's decision to withdraw from the Council was wise?

3. Are you in favor of a voluntary Student Entertainment Committee which would abolish the cramming in Memorial Hall, brng worthwhile entertainers continually, and give an opportunity to ALL students to enjoy good programs?

4. Do you want a student representative on the Board of Trustees.

5. What do you think should be done about the Book Exchange's policies of giving pittances for used books? In some courses, a new book is issued two times a year? Do you have any recommendations to improve matters?



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Stiffly neat
5. Book clasp
9. Talk wildly
10. Leather flask for oil
11. In the direction of
13. Boast
15. Cry of pain
16. Close to
18. River (So. Am.)
19. Twilled fabric
21. Large, heavy hammers
23. Egyptian goddess
25. Greek letter
26. Mexican agave fiber
28. Pitchers with lids
32. Ancient
34. Tidy
35. Marked with small spots
39. Narrow inlet (geol.)
40. Sash (Jap.)
41. Spoke
43. Note of the scale
44. Thick cord
46. Flitted
48. Weather-cock
50. Midday
51. Girl's name
52. Egyptian goddess

DOWN
1. Valor
2. Uncooked
3. Man's name
4. Ponds
5. Exclamation
6. White linen robe (Eccl.)
7. Small spray of a plant
8. A river in Canada
11. A gateway (Jap.)
12. Small valley
14. Fuel
17. Network
20. Abyss
22. Break of day
24. Spill over
27. Old measures of length
29. Ever (poet.)
30. Apparel
31. Sober
33. Not living
35. June bug
36. Overhead
37. Indian fig tree
38. Goddess of the hunt
42. Let fall
45. Half ems
47. Digit
49. Water god (Babyl.)

Yesterday's Answer

English Club

A Small Point

A SMALL POINT

The problem which so concerns the advocates of the twentieth century novel, causing them to scorn earlier literature, may perhaps find solution in realization of one single task of the student of literature. This is the inevitable realization which he must arrive at, that there can be no question of choice between old and new literature in respect to quality, nor can any distinction made about the use to which either puts words stand.

To be qualified as a critic of literature one must be aware of what is to be judged. Literature, as man's highest yet eternally feeble effort to imitate the nature created around him and in him by an analogous but finite process of artifaction, must be analyzed as to nature and value according to as reputable a table of criteria as that by which we analyze and evaluate nature. In both cases, these are criteria which cannot be arrived at from a study of individuals which attempts no correlation of conclusions, nor seeks no totality of examination.

In this I would say that no one who through ignorance or choice excludes without examination the parts he does not understand of the whole he is studying, has any voice of authoritative decision. To understand any single thought of the human mind demands at least partial recognition of the conditions which the past has imposed on it. The examination of "old" literature, which seems so plodding, serves no function critically unless it is undertaken to produce evidence to substantiate the aesthetic criteria which the past seems to have observed. And no responsible standard for critical judgment of contemporary literature can be presented until we have awarded certainty to standards which the past seems to reflect, standards on which we can base principles for contemporary literature whose very contemporaneousness hinders complete examination.

A student of literature, then, who would understand and appreciate literature, especially of the present, with great fervor must eventually realize the irrevocable influence of the past on its descendant and reflection, the present. He must examine to completion, if he would be a student, the heritage of traditional heredity before he accepts the claims of environment. As part of this, the novel of the twentieth century would not exist as we know it except for its consequential relationship with the novel of previous centuries, and the literature of all ages.

The virtue to be assumed from this small point, this realization, is totality of scope and perspective; the vice, into which many have already fallen, is myopia.

Yr mst Obdt, Dvtd & Hmbl Srvt,
Lollius

Harvey Bradshaw

Watchwords

In its watchwords: Friendship, Truth, Courage, and Service; in its Arthurian ritual, knightly tradition and the meaning of its silver and purple key; in its choice of Knights for character, service, and personal integrity; and in Service—its chief objective—the Order of the Grail attempts to lead the life of Carolina upward toward the realization of the ideals upon which the organization is founded.

In this attempt to make the University a center of harmony, and progress, the Order each year sells graduation invitations, senior class rings, and tickets to inexpensive, informal dances which it sponsors to bring the entire campus together at a social affair. Last fall the program was expanded to include Duke students after the UNC-Duke game and tickets were sold on the Blue Devil campus also. The proceeds from these projects are put back into the University in the form of scholarships; six $150 awards are given each year to those chosen as the most deserving.

Another function of the group is the sending of citations to persons who have performed a worthwhile, unusual, and generally unpublicized service to the University. These citations are simply letters of gratitude to individuals, signed by the Grail, naming the worthy deed and expressing appreciation on behalf of the Order and the campus.

Thus, by honoring the worthy, by bringing closer together every diverse element, by acting through example rather than imitation, by working quietly, yet effectively and in the most inconspicuous way, the Order of the Grail strives to lift the plane of life at Carolina toward its own ideals — and its most effective weapon is service.

"Roll Out The Barrel"

Norman Jarrard

Potpourri

The most interesting paperback book among those I will mention today is one called "The 100 Most Important People", by Donald Robinson (Pocket Book). It is made up of short biographies of those "men and women most likely to affect your life this year." There are sections for people from public affairs (Malenkov, McCarthy, Stevenson, etc.), military affairs, economy, press and communications, the sciences, health, the church, philosophy and education (Russell, Schweitzer, Ortega y Gasset, Toynbee), letters (Eliot, Mann, Faulkner, Hemingway, Koestler, Malraux, Sartre), and the fine arts (Picasso, Chaplin). These aren't at all the type of biographies which begins with birth date and ends with date of death. What the man thought is more apt to get space than physical facts of his life. Of Jose Ortega y Gasset we read, "He urges that all power be placed in the hands of a select minority of intellectuals. Through an intellectual aristocracy 'governing in a spirit of enlightened liberalism,' he says, the world can be saved from chaos."

Among other non-fiction titles which may appeal to readers there is the "Saturday Review Reader No. 2) (Bantam). Among the contributors we find Bertrand Russell, Arthur Schlesinger, James Michener, Elmer Davis, Ashley Montagu, and Thomas Hart Benton.

A book which will probably sell well is "101 Favorite Hymns", edited by James and Albert Morehead (Pocket Book).

The flying saucer excitement has died down but those interested may want to read Gerald Heard's "Is Another World Watching? "The Riddle of the Flying Saucers" (Bantam).

Campus duffers should take a look at Ben Hogan's "Power Golf" (Pocket Book) which gives specialized rather than all-around instruction.

Historical novel readers have quite a haul this week. There is "The Ragged Ones", by Burke Davis (Pocket Book), about the Revolutionary War. Walter D. Edmonds has "Rome Haul" (Bantam), which tells of "days of the Erie Canal—1850." Frank Yerby adds another to his list with "Floodtide" (Pocket Book), which takes place in Mississippi. F. van Wyck Mason contributes "Stars on the Sea" (Pocket Book), another Revolutionary War item. James Street is quoted as saying that it is "the best historical novel I have ever read."

The number of books which have titles based on quotations from other writers seems to be increasing. Among this week's books such a one is Russell La Due's Hopwood Prize-winning "Hell-Bent With Jake" (Avon), formerly titled "No More With Me"—a story about "a returned veteran and a reckless girl." The latter title is taken from the following lines from Whitman's "Out of the Cradle Endlessly Rocking":

O past! O happy life! O songs of joy!
In the air, in the woods, over fields,
Loved! loved! loved! loved! loved!
But my mate no more, no more with me!
We two together no more.

The title of Harold Robbins' story about the New York slums, "A Stone for Danny Fisher" (Pocket Book), alludes to Matthew, VII, 9: "What man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?"

The story of a woman who wants a married man, William O'Farrell's "Thin Edge of Violence" (Bantam), makes use of Arthur J. Granville ("Laocoon"): "The elements contributing to an explosive situation are not necessarily violent in themselves. Oftentimes the thin edge of violence penetrates to the heart of the body politic before the latter is aware that its outer defences have been breached."

The most familiar of the sources used as titles is found in Harlan Ware's novel about "Chicago crime reporting," "Come, Fill the Cup" (Bantam). It's from Omar Khayyam:

Come, fill the Cup, and in the fire of Spring
Your Winter-garment of Repentance fling:
The Birth of Time has but a little way
To flutter—and the Bird is on the Wing.

Ed Yoder

A Man And A Mountain

A few weeks ago, in the columns of the Daily Tar Heel, Curt Ratledge lamented the scanty attention that is paid to past contributions by noted individuals to the University. He chose President James Knox Polk as the subject of the essay, noting that the commemoration of his presence here some 125 years ago has been neglected. President Polk is well-remembered, no matter what attention is given the fact that he studied here. But other men have made sizable services to both Carolina and the state and have been almost completely forgotten. Dr. Elisha Mitchell, a professor here for nearly thirty years, falls under this category. Certainly, he was one to whom the debt of the University is more than a chilly white stone in the lobby of Memorial Hall.

Briefly, the life of Elisha Mitchell, naturalist, teacher, scholar, scientist, Presbyterian Minister, and explorer was the story of a man and a mountain. The man came to North Carolina in 1825 from his native state of Connecticut and took a chair in the department of natural sciences of the University. For more than 40 years, Elisha Mitchell was an almost indespensable part of the Chapel Hill environment, as he was of the whole North Carolina scene. He made the seat of the University the base from which his explorations reached out into the remotest and wildest sections of the state. He was an intense student of its woods, waters, and animals, and had as keen a knowledge of its geological history as any of his contemporaries. Dr. Mitchell, however, was not one to allow his scope to be narrowed into one interest. So diverse was his knowledge that students began to call him the "walking encyclopedia." If someone sought a piece of knowledge out of the ordinary, it was natural to "go ask Mitchell," according to contemporary writings about him.

In 1835, the mountain loomed before Dr. Mitchell. The rankest laymen to the laws of nature find the mountains overpowering in inspiration and secret learning. For Dr. Mitchell, the mountains of western North Carolina held this and more. When, during the school term of 1835, an exploring colleague told him that the highest peak east of the Rockies must be somewhere in the Appalachians of North Carolina, intellectual curiosity and scientific zeal collaborated to focus his interest on find this peak. In the midsummer of the same year, he took leave from Chapel Hill and headed for the dim blue mountains of Yancey County. Somewhere in these lofty hills lay the highest land altitude east of the Mississippi. This was the mountain.

His first experiments, barometric readings, were fruitful. He returned triumphantly to announce that the Black Mountain of Yancey County stood 6,672 feet above sea level. This crag, he claimed, had no equal in all of the ranges east of the Rockies. But his triumph was short lived. U. S. Senator Thomas L. Clingman, himself a noted Appalachian explorer and naturalist, proclaimed that he, not Dr. Mitchell, had discovered the highest peak. He pointed out that almost within the shadow of Mount Mitchell another, a mightier, peak stood. The assertions of Senator Clingman rang in Dr. Mitchell's ears until he began to doubt that the Black Mountain, his mountain, had just claim to supremacy.

Taking with him his son, daughter, and a household servant, the aging mountaineer left Chapel Hill again in July, 1857. He arrived in Yancey County and began to inch his way up the mountain's flank, taking countless measurements. In his mind, this method stood infallible. The scientist worked anxiously, meticulously, through most of July. By the 27th of that month, he had almost reached the summitt of the mountain.

On the afternoon of the 27th, he told his son, Charles, that he was going to cross the mountain to visit friends on the other side. Charles was to meet him Monday afternoon at a predetermined rendezvous. When Wednesday night came without his return, the worst was feared. The mountain had many precarious paths where one could easily lose his footing in the shadows. It had been night when Dr. Mitchell crossed them.

Intensive searches were organized without result. Where was Dr. Mitchell?

It remained for one of Dr. Mitchell's old mountain friends—Big Tom Wilson, who had first led him to the summit of his mountain—to hit upon an answer. Big Tom Wilson decided that Dr. Mitchell, instead of following the regular road to Caney River, the section on the other side of the mountain where he was going, must have followed the narrow, circuitous shortcut that he himself had shown him years before.

He was right. His searching party found Dr. Mitchell's body in a pool of water at the bottom of Cat-tail fork creek gorge, a dark defile through which the little path led. Into the pool, which lies just below what is now Mitchell Falls, the explorer and University teacher had fallen on the night of the 27th.

Mr. Mitchell's death did not deprive either the man or the mountain of a victory. Later and more modern caluclations have proved Dr. Mitchell almost exactly correct in his determinations of the mountain's towering altitude. The mountain which bears his name holds its place as the highest peak east of the continental divide and as a magnetic tourist attraction. It has been since discovered that there was a large discrepancy in Senator Clingman's calculations.

Carolina Opens Big Four Schedule Today

Lore Trying For Fifth Victory In Tossup Game With N. C. State

By Tom Peacock

Bill Lore, Coach Walt Rab's star right hander with a 4-0 record, is scheduled to pitch here today against N. C. State in the first of nine Carolina Big Four baseball contests.

State is the preseason pick of the experts to take the Big Four title, but Carolina has picked up some hitting to go along with a strong pitching staff, and this afternoon's game is a tossup.

Lore has won three starts and another in relief to lead the pitchers this year, and State still remembers him from a beautiful, 3-2, fourteen inning game he won in Raleigh last season.

The Wolfpack has had trouble getting started this year, and coach Vic Sorrell might play two or three freshmen in today's contest. State's number one hurler, Ed Horbelt, may start even though he allowed five runs without getting a man out in his last game. Sorrell pulled him, but he was credited with the 8-4 loss to Clemson while never officially pitching a fraction of an inning.

Sorrell also has a problem at first base. Eddie Morris, his returning first sacker, left school to join the Pittsburgh Pirates' farm system. Third base was vacated, but is being adequately filled by a pair of freshmen, and the rest of the infield and outfield is solid.

Rabb will probably go along with the same team that has won both its Southern Conference starts. Behind the plate will be Will Frye, Bob Henning at first, Harry Lee Lloyd at second, Bruce Holt third, Fred Dale shortstop, Wayne White in left field, Connie Gravitte in center, and Ken Keller in right.

The starting team is hitting right around .300, a big improvement over the team's average last year. No one bettered the .300 for the Tar Heels last season, and second baseman Mark Herring led the team batting with an average less than .260.

Tennis Team Leads Week's Sports Card

Carolina's un-defeated tennis team leads the week's sports activity here, playing four more matches. The Tar Heels meet Sewanee today, Dartmouth tomorrow and Thursday, and Kalamazoo on Friday. All matches will be at home.

The baseball team will make a weekend trip to South Carolina, playing South Carolina on Friday and The Citadel at Charleston on Saturday.

The week's schedule:

Today—Baseball—N.C. State at Chapel Hill; Tennis — Sewanee at Chapel Hill; Lacrosse—Dartmouth at Chapel Hill.

Tomorrow—Tennis — Dartmouth at Chapel Hill.

Thursday—Tennis — Dartmouth at Chapel Hill; Golf—Michigan at Chapel Hill.

Friday—Tennis — Kalamazoo at Chapel Hill; Baseball—South Carolina at Columbia.

Saturday—Track—V.M.I. at Chapel Hill; Baseball — Citadel at Charleston.

MURALS

Entries for the intramural horseshoe tournament close tomorrow afternoon at 4:00. All entries for the tourney, which is a point system activity, must be in the intramural office by that time.

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, AK Psi vs. ZBT; field 2, Theta Chi vs. TEP 2; field 3, Winston vs. Everett; field 4, Phi Delt 2 vs. Phi Gam 2.

5:00—Field 1, Alexander vs. Aycock; field 2, SPE vs. Phi Kappa Sig; field 3, Phi Delta Chi vs. Lambda Chi; field 4, ATO vs. DKE 1.

Today's Tennis

4:00—PiKA vs. Chi Psi 1; Lambda Chi vs. Phi Delt 1.

5:00—Zete 2 vs. SAE 2; KA vs. Kappa Sig.

—SERGEANT—

(Continued from page 1)

taken to the Tokyo hospital where I found him. His legs are off at the hip, but his grin is one of those wide, beautiful things that will never fade or never die.

"I'd like to get down on my knees and thank them for it."

UNC Stickmen Seek Initial Win Tomorrow

By Jim Wiles

The UNC lacrosse team will seek its first win of the season tomorrow when it plays host to the strong Dartmouth Indians at 3 p.m. The Tar Heels lost their two contests to date.

Williams College defeated the local Lacrossemen in their opener, 13-6, and Cornell walked off with an easy victory over the Heels, 16-3, last Saturday.

Dartmouth, which always fields a rugged and hard-to-beat team, will be favored over Carolina. The Indians defeated UNC, 16-2 in their only meeting of the '52 campaign.

Goalie Lew Floyd, sparkplug of the Tar Heel defense, will be out to increase his save record for the year. Floyd has stopped 50 attempts at the goal this season, an average of nearly four a game better than his output last year.

Walt Ernst, Ted Dawes, and Dick Harrall will carry the load of Carolina's scoring hopes. Dawes leads the Tar Heel scoring for the season with three goals. Ernst has two points, and Harrall, who was high scorer for the team last year, has been held to one goal this season. Dave Cole has contributed two goals to the Carolina total and Dick Baker has scored once.

Tom Stokes, Steve Trimble, and Earl Johnson will probably start for the Heels at the defense positions. Buck Barkley, Ernst, and Cole should make up the number one midfield team, but Bob Linker, and Lou Wolfshiemer will see plenty action as they rotate frequently with the starting three. Dawes and Harrall will be aided at the attack slots by Dick Pillsbury, Joe Walker and Tom Sully.

The Tar Heels take off on their first and only northern tour next week when they invade the University of Massachusetts for a two day stand, Monday and Tuesday, and Amherst College for a single contest on Thursday, April 16.

Belichick Fills Coaching Staff For Carolina

Carolina's football coaching staff was filled up over the weekend with the addition of Steve Belichick as one of head coach George Barclay's assistants.

Belichick, a former Vanderbilt aide, will help primarily with defensive backfield. As a Vandy coach, assisting Bill Edwards, now a Tar Heel assistant himself, Belichick's backs ranked high in the nation on defense.

His defensive backfield was rated fifth in the nation in 1951 and eighth last year.

Belichick played under Edwards at Western Reserve, then went with the professional Detroit Lions and coached at Southwestern Louisiana Institute during his Navy V-12 training.

Prof. Brooks' Son Wins Freedom Photo Contest

Robert Brooks, an alumnus who is assistant editor of Boy's Life Magazine in New York City, has won a second place award in the Freedoms Foundation annual photographic contest.

Boy's Life is the official Boy Scout magazine.

This is the third year in succession that Brooks has won a Freedoms Foundation Award. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lee M. Brooks of Chapel Hill.

Rain Stops Net Match; Sewanee Plays Today

Rain cancelled yesterday's tennis match between Carolina and Presbyterian College but the undefeated Tar Heels will be back at it again this afternoon, meeting Sewanee at 2:00 on the varsity courts.

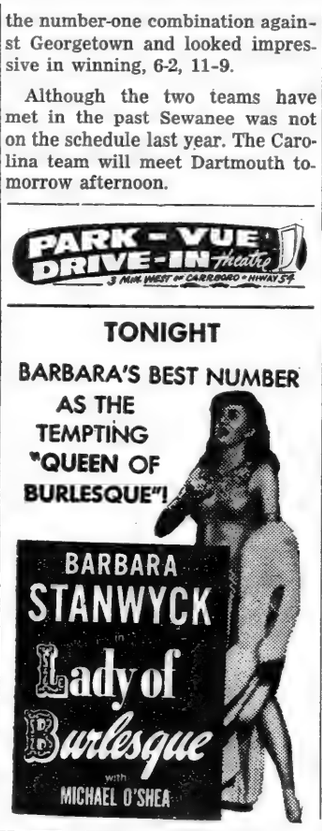
Although hampered by cloudy skies all day long both teams tried to get the match in, but the early afternoon showers prohibited any action.

Carolina will be seeking its eighth straight victory this afternoon against Sewanee and will be heavily favored to win the match.

Del Sylvia, the reigning Southern Conference champion, returned to his number-one position on the team Saturday against Michigan State and Georgetown and will probably be at that position today.

Barring further experimentation by Coach John Kenfield, who has juggled his team continuously to determine the strength of his squad, the rest of the lineup would have Tommy Bradford as number two; Bobby Payne third, Herb Browne fourth, Don Thompson fifth, and Ronnie Kerdasha sixth.

The doubles lineup will probably hinge on the outcome of the singles. Brown and Payne, who won the SC championship last year as freshmen, played number one against the Spartans Saturday and defeated the Big Ten champs, 7-5, 6-8, 6-4.



Thompson and Bradford, two high-ranking freshmen, teamed as the number-one combination against Georgetown and looked impressive in winning, 6-2, 11-9.

Although the two teams have met in the past Sewanee was not on the schedule last year. The Carolina team will meet Dartmouth tomorrow afternoon.

Dashiell Attends Meeting In Texas, Presents Paper

Dr. John F. Dashiell of the Psychology Department attended the 45th annual meeting of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology held this weekend in Austin, Texas.

Dr. Dashiell presented a paper.

Interested In

Politics?

"Education and Liberty" by James Bryant Conant. President Conant on the subject of public versus public-supported private schools. Important. —— $3.00

"The American Way" by Shepard B. Clough. An enlightening and thought-provoking study of the economic basis of our civilization. —— $4.00

And A Bargain

"Adlai Stevenson"—a fine biography by John Bartlow Martin. Published at $2.50. Now Only —— $1.00

THERE'S A BOOK YOU NEED IN

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

What to do till the Dough comes or

When it's Springtime on the Campus maybe Auntie will start Springing too

A certain Senior, who shall be Nameless, was all tangled up in an Unfortunate Situation. The Big Spring Weekend was just three days away; his Number One Girl was lined up; the blueprint called for Substantial Resources—and he was, to put it bluntly, Busted. Furthermore, his Credit Rating was Strictly Slow Music.

Nameless, however, being a man of Considerable Ingenuity, even though Insolvent, was nothing daunted. His strategy was simple: a quick reconnoiter in his book of Family Statistics, two minutes of inspired composition, and a fast call to Western Union.

The Big Weekend went like a Breeze. Our Boy cut a Super-Swath—and paid for it. Cold Cash. Sunday night he escorted his Dream Girl down to the 10:12, then headed for his Cubicle, tired but happy—pausing only long enough to throw a Heartfelt Kiss toward the windows of the local Western Union office, and to gaze fondly once again at a crumpled telegram. It bore this wallet-warming message: "Thank you for your Telegram and for your sweet thought. Even an old lady likes to have her birthday remembered. Hope the money order will prove useful." Signed "Aunt Jane."

As we said, a man of Considerable Ingenuity.

One of the Nicest Things about a Telegram is that it does More than you Expect of it. Whether you're Prying Open the Parental Purse, Greeting Your Gal (or Guy) or Jockeying for a Job, anytime you want "Yes" for an answer, ask the question via Western Union.

North Columbia Ave.

Telephone: 2681

How Does It Feel To Give Blood?

Miss Anita E. Montgomery

Nurse's Aide Asks a Question of Three Americans at Her Local Blood Donor Center

"I've seen miracles at the hospital where I'm on volunteer duty. I remember this one man recently who had been badly injured working in a defense plant. He came out of the operating room 'doing well.' Minutes later he went gray as ashes before my eyes. No surgery, no wonder drug could help him. Only blood. And it took 5 pints.

"So I know what it means to receive blood. And I know how important it is for our hospitals to have all the blood they can obtain. What made me curious was . . . how it feels to give blood . . .

"I found out quickly enough at our local blood donor center. People wanted to talk about this painless, anonymous gift they were making. Their voices sounded proud and yet humble . . . as they told me how it feels to give blood . . ."

"Silently Thanking An Unknown American . . ."

SARAH SIMMONDS, an Army Nurse, spoke up: "The men we're more likely to forget are those whose combat days are over now. But they're still fighting for their lives, still needing blood as desperately as the day they were hit. When you ask what it feels like to give blood, I think of them . . . lying in ward after ward, silently thanking an unknown American for saving his life."

"It Feels Great!"

CLYDE DONNELLY, Marine Sgt. back from 14 months' service in Korea, told Miss Montgomery: "I'm giving back some that I 'borrowed' after the landing at Inchon. How does it feel? It feels great. It feels like I'm almost talking to those guys still out there. That's what's important—for them to feel you haven't forgotten about them . . . and that's what you're saying when you give blood."

"This City Could Be The Front Lines"

HAROLD MARTINS, a man with an important Civil Defense job, joined in: "Combat areas . . . service hospitals . . . civilian hospitals . . . sure they've got to have all we can give them. But, as I see it, one all-out enemy attack and this city could be the front lines, with our own families among the casualties. In other words, let's make sure we have all the blood we need, wherever and whenever we need it."

★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★

GIVE BLOOD NOW Call Your Red Cross Today!

A PUBLIC SERVICE PROJECT • THE ADVERTISING COUNCIL

11:00 A.M. TO 5:00 P.M.
APRIL 6-7-8

GRAHAM MEMORIAL

PHONE 5611 OR 9-1881
FOR APPOINTMENT

Coeds Offered Scholarship, Must Apply By April 19; Value Is $300

Tri Delt Sorority has announced that applications for its annual local scholarship are now available at the office of the Dean of Women.

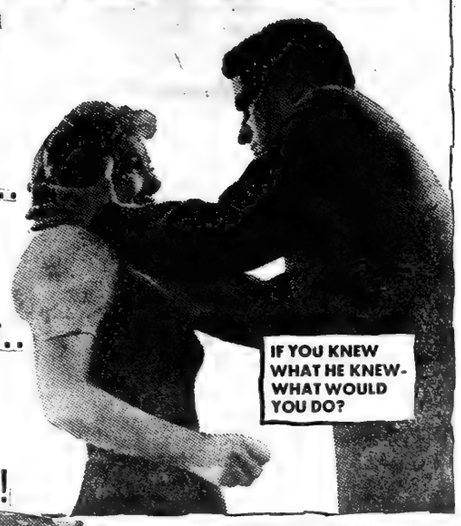
This scholarship, which is offered each Spring by the sorority, is the only one of its kind offered on campus and is open to any coed enrolled in the University. The amount of the scholarship is not to exceed $300.

The scholarship will become effective Fall semester.

All applications must be completed and returned to the Dean of Women's office not later than April 19.

Quality training pays dividends

Katharine Gibbs quality secretarial training qualifies college girls for today's job and tomorrow's promotion. Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."



KATHARINE GIBBS

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth Street

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S

I Confess!

A STORY OF RELENTLESS SUSPENSE FILMED IN COLORFUL QUEBEC BY WARNER BROS.

STARRING MONTGOMERY CLIFT ANNE BAXTER WITH KARL MALDEN, BRIAN AHERNE

Today and Wednesday

Carolina

BUY NOW—WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION, OR YOUR MONEY BACK

GIFTS .... NEW! DIFFERENT!

Add that Chapel Hill touch to your home, Frat, or college room. Hanging picture trays, waste baskets, letter boxes—each with an attractive, colorful scene . . . the heart of Carolina.

Guaranteed alcohol and water proof.

HUGGINS HARDWARE

What Goes On Here

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet in Hill Hall at 5 o'clock today.

WAA

There will be a meeting of all new and old Women's Athletic Association members at 7 o'clock tonight in Alderman parlor.

Co-Recreation

Students, faculty, and town people are invited to play volleyball, badminton and ping pong from 7 until 9 o'clock tonight in Woollen Gym.

Cheering Squad

There will be a meeting of the cheering squad Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge number 2. All who want pictures of the squad should be present.

Women's Room Reservations

Applications for women's rooms for both the summer and fall terms must be made before April 14. Rooms not applied for by that date will be assigned to incoming students. Each girl must make a $6 room deposit and file a room reservation card for each term. See bulletin boards in women's dormitories for procedure of making deposits and filing cards.

Alpha Phi Omega

Rho chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will hold its annual Spring banquet in the main ballroom of the Carolina Inn today at 7 p.m. All members, new and old, are invited.

WUNC

Today's schedule for WUNC:
7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Vistas of Israel.
7:45—Review of the British Weeklies.
8—To be announced.
8:30—Opera.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Card Board

The Card Board will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in Roland Parker No. 1.

Phi Eta Sigma

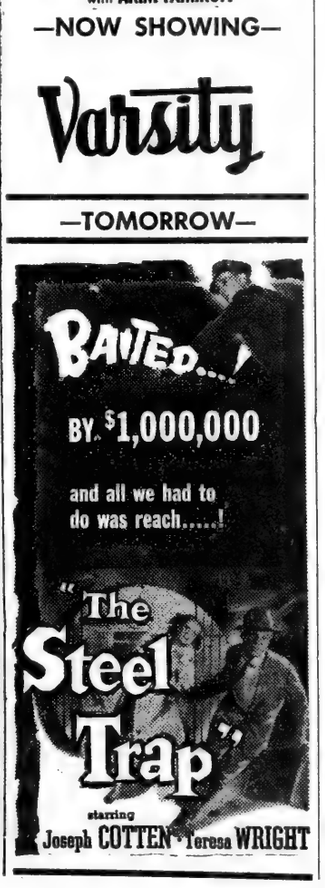
Recent initiates into Phi Eta Sigma may pick up their certificates at 313 South Building.

CLASSIFIEDS

LOST

PARKER MECHANICAL PENCIL. Lost sometime Monday, March 30th. Call Tom Lindsey, 27 Old East, 9-8056 (1-3493-1)

WANTED



PART TIME WAITER; PASTRY girl. Danziger's. Phone 2086. Chg. 1x1

—NOW SHOWING—

Varsity

—TOMORROW—

Y. Tells Plans For Outing, Folk Music, Work

The YMCA made it easy yesterday to take care of your spare time.

Item 1: Men interested in working this summer in Y boys' camps should contact John Riebel in the Y office. Several positions are open in camps run by city associations in this state.

In addition to room and board, salaries of various amount are paid. Some of the jobs require specific skills such as swimming or handicraft while others are general.

Item 2: Interested in folk music? Recently an interested group met to form a folk music band under the leadership of Bob Cole of Hendersonville. The group's next meeting is Friday at 7:30 p.m., second floor, Y. If you're interested you're invited.

Item 3: The Y is planning a membership outing at Camp New Hope this Friday and Saturday. Those interested in participating in the Y's program are invited. Reservations should be made now.

Recreation is planned for the weekend along with some organizational work. Program commissions will be formed.

HOW'S YOUR CAR'S PEP AND PICK-UP?

Sluggish starting is a sure sign it's time for a check-up. Maybe your battery is down. Maybe you need a new set of spark plugs. Our experts will find out what's wrong and make it right.

For safe, carefree driving, have your car serviced RIGHT here!

Hazzard Motor Co.

CHEVROLET SALES & SERVICE
PHONE 9-491

"He always drops in for our Whiskey Sours with Angostura*"

ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Without Angostura to marry the flavors, it's not a Whiskey Sour—and that's true of many another cocktail, too! Angostura is the dash you put in—to make the flavor come out!

Love

Is a wonderful thing. It can start with two people laughing together. Like at one of our copies of Addams and Evil, maybe, or From Beowulf to Virginia Woolf.

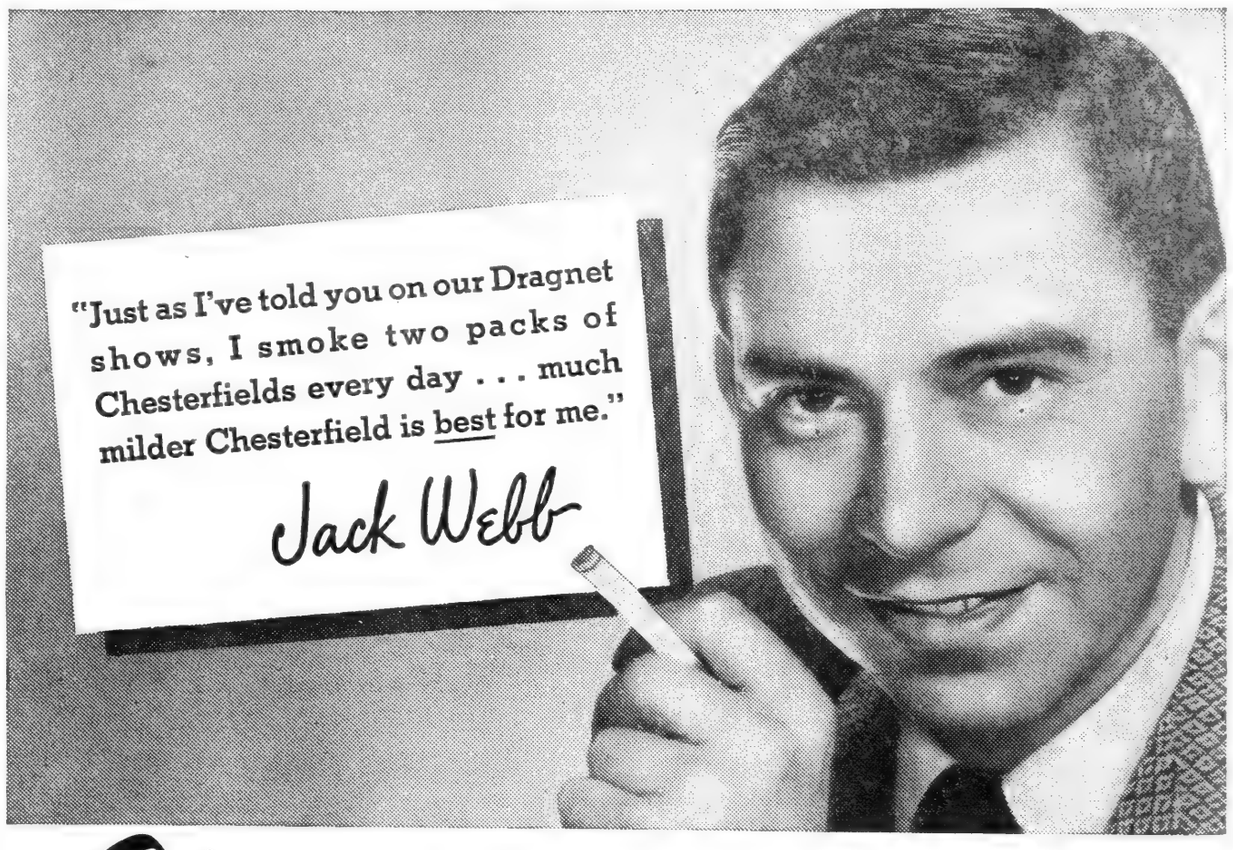
Love

Does things you wouldn't believe, once it starts going. Starts mathematicians reading poetry aloud. Books like "With All My Love," "This Is My Beloved," "For You My Love, Add Fuel To the Pyre." They even read 'em together in the old Intimate Bookshop.

Love

Is a couple coming in to look at "When You Marry" or "Spock's Baby Book," or "The Child From Five To Ten."

Love



Is two people reading the same book, and pal.

It's Wonderful

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

Chesterfield is Best for YOU!

CHESTERFIELD contains tobaccos of better quality and higher price than any other king-size cigarette... the same as regular Chesterfield.

Chesterfield—first premium quality cigarette in both regular & king-size

WHEN you are asked to try a cigarette you want to know, and you ought to know, what that cigarette has meant to people who smoke it all the time.

For a full year now, a medical specialist has given a group of Chesterfield smokers thorough examinations every two months. He reports:

no adverse effects to their nose, throat or sinuses from smoking Chesterfields.

More and more men and women all over the country are finding out every day that Chesterfield is best for them.

Enjoy your Smoking!

Try Much Milder Chesterfield with its extraordinarily good taste.

Copyright 1953, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Mostly sunny and mild with 65 high. Yesterday's high, 73; low, 45.

The Daily Tar Heel

YEA
The editors are cheering today for some cheerers. See p. 2.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 124 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Athletic Dept. Labels Absurd SP's Idea To End Gym Fees

ARMY SEC. ROBERT T. STEVENS, (left) said in Washington upon his return from Korea that the ammunition supply situation there is "good and is going to improve." Stevens, who was greeted by Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins, made the statement to reporters after a week-long flying trip to the Far East Command.—NEA Telephoto.

Local Productions

3 One-Act Plays Set Openings

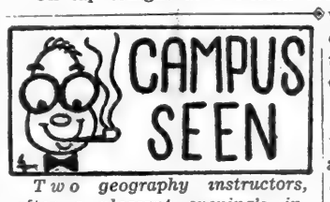
Three new one-act plays by student playwrights will be on view tonight and tomorrow at the Playmakers Theatre, with curtains at 7:30.

Entirely student produced, the plays are under the general supervision of Foster Fitz-Simons of the Playmakers staff. There is no admission charge.

"Hi, Sir," by James Leonard of Trappe, Md., is a bright and slightly sarcastic comedy of the feud between regular army and reservists in Korea. Its cast includes Hal England of Kings Mountain, James Fouts of Lexington, Billy Barnes of Wilson, Donald Treat of Chapel Hill and George Belk of Williamsburg, Va. It is directed by Cyril Lang of East Orange, N. J.

Lang's drama, "The Mute," an unusual study of the last hours of a condemned murderer, features Tommy Rezzuto of Asheville, William Trotman of Winston-Salem, Neta Whittey of New Bern, John Miller of Signal Mt., Tenn., James Leonard, Dan Reid of Raleigh, Donald Treat and Carl Williams of Charlotte. Student director is Anne Edwards of New Bern.

"Little Wonder," a light-hearted spoof on the susceptibility of housewives to salesmen, is directed by Mary Virginia Morgan of Byhalia, Miss., and was written by Donald Deagon of Chapel Hill. The players are Mary Helen Crain of Durham, Charles Billings of Dudley, Koen Oliver of Chatham, Va., Edgar Daniels, Raleigh, John Stockard, Greensboro, James Gillikin, Atlantic and Carl Williams.



Greeks Exchange Dinners Tonight

Greek Week, an affair that provides constructive projects to round out pledgeship for fraternity fledglings, starts into the final three-days of events tonight.

On tap tonight at 6 o'clock are exchange dinners in which the various fraternities play host to each other's pledges. At 11 o'clock there will be a free movie at the Carolina Theater for the pledges.

Tomorrow afternoon, a field day will be held at Navy Field. An award will be presented the winner of this event. At 8 o'clock tomorrow night the pledges will take part in Stunt Night at Memorial Hall.

On Friday afternoon at 1:30, pledges will go to the new Methodist Church on the outskirts of Chapel Hill where they will clear the land around the church building.

Two geography instructors, after a pleasant evening's indulgence with Bacchus, dancing together in front of New East at 11 p.m.

*

Empty baby carriage parked in front of Carr Dormitory???

*

Quietude of quiz disturbed by professor winding his Big Ben pocket watch.

CHUCK ERICKSON
. . . 'most ridiculous'

Students Lose If Move Made, Erickson Says

The athletic department sawed part of the Student Party's platform out from under it yesterday with an explanation on athletic fees.

"That is the most ridiculous suggestion I have ever heard of," commented Director of Athletics C. P. (Chuck) Erickson on one of the leading campaign promises.

The controversial issue was a pledge by the SP to abolish payment of fees to the Athletic Association. The campus political party wants abolition of both the $10 gym fee and the $3.33 Carolina Athletic Association fee which all students pay each quarter.

On the $3.33 fee Erickson said, "The students alone would lose by such a move." Then he went on to explain the uses of the Athletic Association fee.

The fee entitles the student, in part, to admission to UNC athletic events, use of outdoor facilities, provides for the upkeep of facilities, salaries of coaches, pays for athletic equipment and makes up the loss incurred by every Carolina sport, except football.

As for the $10 gym fee, the athletic director said, "The fee was instituted by the students themselves, and the Athletic Association has never raised it. The fee is $10 and gives each student at least $90 a year in benefits."

The $10 fee pays for all gym expenses, including janitorial service and approximately $12,000 yearly to pay the bond issue originally floated to build the gym.

Student Party politicians have been particularly keen on this platform idea, and have stressed it throughout the campaign as one of their leading issues. Gordon Forester, SP treasurer candidate, has deplored the fact that students who don't participate in the athletic program have to pay the fee.

Vernon Crook, Athletic Association business manager, recently finished a report to Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University. It deals with the fees, along with other matters. The report also touches on the history of the fee.

In 1876 the students banded together and taxed themselves to support the physical education program, which includes all athletics, according to Crook's report.

In 1913 a petition, signed by 551 of approximately 800 students enrolled in the University, requested that the Board of Trustees originate a fee not less than $2.50 nor more than $3 per quarter. It is still rather ambiguous just how the fee went up the extra 33 cents, according to the report.

Student fees comprise about one-eighth of the athletic fund. In the fall quarter, a student may see over $18 worth of football games as a member of the Athletic Association.

"The Athletic Association would make more money without the student fund plan, but we have never tampered with it because the students provided for it," Erickson said.

"We are in favor of the fee plan because it gives each student a part in Carolina Athletics. If a student is a member, he will be more prone to participate. The teams need support from the student body, and a student body with spirit is a great asset to the University as a whole. If the students didn't pay the fee, fewer would participate," Erickson added.

Students now have a voice in the Athletic Association through three student members on the Athletic Council. The student members of the Council are the president of the student body, Monogram Club president and Carolina Athletic Association president.

UP Announces Platform With Fifteen Points

The University Party came forth yesterday with a Spring election platform of 15 planks, some with an unusual twist.

One point the UP said it will work for if given governmental power by the voters is to have dormitory beds made up daily by janitors. They will seek to reorganize

The UP has challenged the SP to a debate tonight in Alderman Dorm at 8:15 p.m. A second challenge has been issued for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Cobb.

the Consolidated University Student Council, believing it has "a definite place in our system of government."

The UP platform deals mainly with issues much discussed currently and in the past. It agrees, in fact, with four of these which were included the Student Party's platform released last week.

UP and SP planks in agreement are: cigaret and candy machines in dormitories, a new student union building, visiting privileges for women in men's dorms, and improvements in the advisor system.

The UP platform carries the statement, "You have made these suggestions; we pledge to carry them out!" And listed beneath are the 15 planks.

The rest of the platform makes these promises:

"Carolina first! . . . to do every thing within our power to uphold Carolina's fine reputation and to further this in every way."

"Continuation of the Tarnation. UP brought Tarnation back to Carolina . . . we further our pledge."

"A revitalized program of social activities for the weekends."

"Fewer restrictions on student nurses . . . all coeds should be equal in their privileges."

"Closer relationship between the IDC and the IFC."

"Continued level-headed actions based on student opinions."

"The president be allowed to attend faculty meetings."

"President of the YMCA as a member of the student government cabinet."

"Not just a promise but action

(See PLATFORM, page 2)

Bop To Bach Offered Free

From Carolina folk songs to Carnegie Hall long hair stuff, the Graham Memorial record library has it.

And it's yours to use free.

Some 310 albums of classics, semiclassics, popular, hillbilly and band marches are available at the student union office. Upon presentation of his ID card, a student may check the albums out for four days at a time.

The records have been classified by the Student Union Activities Board Music Committee for easy selection.

PANMUNJOM — Flabbergasted State Department officials in Washington yesterday took an opposite view from that reflected in the happy headlines that Korean prisoner of war repatriationhad been effected. A high source said "There is absolutely no basis for the optimism at present." Correspondents had reported an agreement had been reached to exchange all prisoners including sick and wounded, but diplomats said official secret dispatches reaching them from the UN truce negotiators were at wide variance with these reports. "Nothing of any consequence has been reached," a spokesman added. No one could explain the mixup.

★

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Officers grappled with a serious problem of vandalism yesterday in this resort city swarming with about 15,000 college students on spring vacation. Coconuts have been hurled through hotel lobby and automobile windows. Dead fish, including a six foot hammerhead shark, have been tossed into swimming pools. A group of teen-agers stole a city bus and abandoned it after a drive. A city water tower was smeared with paint .Glass cases on the beach displayed large mounted fish have been smashed and the fish thrown into the streets. Police Chief Roland R. Kelley warned yesterday that unless the students quickly learn the difference between good-natured pranks and vandalism, "some of them are going back to school with criminal records."

★

SALISBURY — Rowan County men began brushing up their beards yesterday in preparation for a visit here by President Eisenhower Tpril 16 in celebration of the county's 200th birthday. The White House announced Mr. Eisenhower will fly here April 16 for an off-the-cuff speech in the 2,000 seat high school stadium, giving local residents a chance to see him in something besides his pajamas.

Carolina Lags Far Behind In Blood Drive

Only 224 donors showed up at Graham Memorial yesterday to boost the two-day total pints of blood given to 400, far short of the 1,009-pint goal.

Today is the final day in the current UNC drive. There was hope that UNC would beat Duke University in the number of pints given, but a drive official said yesterday it would be impossible unless more students turn out today.

The blood donations are being taken in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. It is described as a painless process that requires only about 30 minutes.

Appointments may be made by calling 9-1881 or 5611. The lounge will be open at 11 o'clock this morning and close at 5 p.m.

Dr. Howell Will Speak On New Testament To Y

Dr. A. C. Howell of the English Department will speak tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the YMCA Cabinet Room on the topic "An Introduction to the New Testament."

Jobs For Graduating Seniors Plentiful With Record Salaries

Starting salaries for much-sought June graduates is estimated about $25, or five to 10 percent better than last year or any year previous.

According to one placement director, "very few seniors will have to hunt for jobs—the jobs are coming to them."

Placement officers of some 50 colleges and universities across the country estimated starting salaries for June graduates will average well over $300 a month, and some specially trained students are considering "bids" as high as $600.

There are plenty opportunities for non-specialized liberal arts graduates, although engineers, accountants, sales personnel and teachers appear to head the list for job opportunities.

Although it is estimated that 50 to 85 percent of the male class of 1953 will be working for Uncle Sam before the year is out, the University of Tennessee reported 95 percent of business and industry recruiters are willing to hire young men for whatever training period is possible before their draft numbers come up, counting on their return to the job after discharge.

Estimates on the demand for engineering graduates ranged from a conservative two jobs for every graduate at Carnegie Institute of Technology to a frantic report from Kansas State College where 80 firms are battling for 24 June graduates in mechanical engineering.

At Buffalo State Teachers College there are five jobs offered for every grdauate. Only five colleges reported that demand was less than last year for graduates in specific fields, and in each case the opposite was true at one or more other colleges.

Entries Open To Ugliest Man At University

Once again, Theta Chi fraternity, in conection with the annual University Club carnival, is sponsoring its "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest.

The winner in the election, which is a penny-a-vote contest, will be presented at the carnival on April 17.

The deadline for entering contestants will be Saturday and a picture of each aspirant must be turned in to Bob Skillen at the Theta Chi house before that date.

No make-up may be used in the pictures; only natural photographs and natural distortions of the face will be acceptable. ID cards may be used.

Voting will take place in the 'Y' court the week of April 13 to 17.

It is expected that each fraternity, sorority and dormitory on campus will sponsor a candidate. However, independent candidates are welcome, according to Chairman Skillen.

The winners will be given various prizes donated by Chapel Hill merchants, and in addition, a date with Sigma Chi's "Miss Modern Venus of 1953."

Proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society.

Lowet Plan Is Protect Courts From Politics

Henry Lowet, non-partisan selection board endorsed candidate for student council, yesterday released a pre-election statement.

"I feel," said Lowet, "that a candidate for the highest student court should have had a variety of experiences as well as good contact with individual students in order to understand their problems."

Lowet listed the following experience and qualifications: UN Committee chairman, dormitory manager, student legislature, State student legislature, Di Senate, Arnold Air Society and Orientation Counsellor.

"The best thing that has ever happened to the student courts was to take them out of politics," said Lowet. "I believe they should be protected from political mishandling in the future."

Big Doings This Saturday In Greensboro

Students from UNC, NC State, and WC will meet at Women's College in Greensboro Saturday to observe Consolidated University Day.

Betty Otto Andehson, Port St. Joe, Fla., and Manning Muntzing, Moorfield, W. Va., are co-chairmen of UNC's portion of the annual celebration.

Activities for the weekend will begin Saturday afternoon with pool, skating, bowling, ping-pong and other games in the gymnasium at WC. Dinner will be served cafeteria style from 5 to 6.

Linc Smith and his orchestra will furnish music for Saturday night's dance in the new student union ballroom from 8:30 until 12. Also on the agenda for Saturday night are a talent show from 7:30 to 8:30. Talent from all three branches of the university will take part in the show.

A different branch of the Consolidated University plays host to the program each year. UNC was the site of the celebration last year.

SUAB Meeting Today At 4:30

The Student Union Activities Board will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 for all committee chairmen, committee members and anyone interested in student activities and entertainment.

Purpose of the meeting, which will be held in Roland Parker Lounges 1 and 2, is to acquaint the students with the various SUAB committees and their functions.

Highlights of committee programs for the Spring Quarter will be given by the chairmen of the following committees: dance, publicity, tournaments, music, display, forum, office, student-faculty, film, outings, receptions, polls, special services and calendar.

Independent Coed Board

The Independent Coed Board will hold open house in the main lounge of Graham Memorial tomorrow from 4 to 6 p.m.

Plan Now To Attend
GREATER UNIV. DAY
SATURDAY
APRIL 11
At
W. C.—Greensboro
Dance—Girls—Skits

AS UNITED NATIONS AND COMMUNIST officers opened negotiations for the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners-of-war, these doctors and nurses at "Freedom Village" near Munsan, Korea, hold "dress rehearsals" in preparation for the release of UN prisoners. Here a medic takes the role of returnee patient during a mock operation at a mobile Army surgical hospital.—NEA Radiophoto.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

The Big Council's Role

President Ham Horton is worried about Carolina being overshadowed by State and W.C. in the Consolidated University Student Council. Horton got so worried that he and his chief delegate quit the Council. His feelings on the subject and an opposite point of view are found elsewhere on this page.

Horton's main contention is that President Gordon Gray will get an unfair picture of the true opinions of UNC students if State and W.C. get together and force some measure through against our wishes, or conversely, if they fail to take action when action is needed. Horton wants some kind of Council, but not the present one.

The Council was not organized to present specific proposals to President Gray. It does not replace the Student Legislature here, nor the Student President. President Gray expressed himself on the matter Monday in a press conference when he said, "There are very few (student) problems that are universal," meaning that a State problem, is not generally the same as a Carolina problem. The matter of student automobiles must be treated differently. W.C. just doesn't have automobiles. We have them. State has them. Mr. Gray pointed out," There can be no super Consolidated Honor Council or Super Legislature." He doesn't expect the Council to present a united representative front to him, because, there is none, except on very broad matters.

We can find nothing in the CUSC Constitution to make Carolina an underdog. The day Carolina is bullied by State and W.C. as Prexy Horton has pictured it, is the day we should leave. We doubt, however, that such a day will ever come to pass.

Last November the Carolina delegation strengthened the individual viewpoint by giving the veto power to the student legislature on any matter. What else is needed? In matters where a positive vote is needed, Carolina expresses itself as an individual entity, which is as it should be. To say that the Council should take a stand on Saturday classes is absurd. This argument defeats the original argument that the Council should not represent to President Gray a united opinion. State and W.C. had completely different feelings on Saturday classes.

Mr. Gray has pointed out, as the Constitution states, that the Consolidated Council does have a lot to do with representing students on general matters. It is an agency to "carry forward spirit and understanding among students (from the three branches)" he has said.

We are happy to hear that Prexy Horton is working overtime to devise some plan that will give Carolina a better opportunity to express itself in the Consolidated office. If there are better ways, we want to know about them. In the meantime, we hope that the Carolina delegation will apply some common sense instead of fear to the problems and functions of Council from within rather than from without.

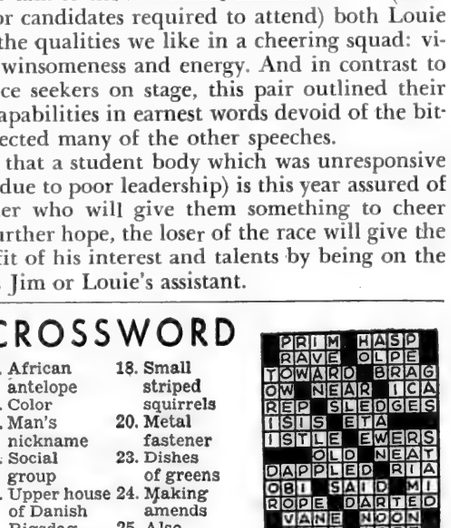
Mr. Cheer Himself

We were impressed at the meet the candidates affair Monday night with two of the candidates over all the others. They were Jim Fountain and Louie Patseavouras, candidates for the task of head cheerleader.

In a short pep talk to the Memorial Hall audience (nonexistent except for candidates required to attend) both Louie and Jim showed the qualities we like in a cheering squad: vibrant prsonality, winsomeness and energy. And in contrast to a number of office seekers on stage, this pair outlined their hopes and their capabilities in earnest words devoid of the bitterness which infected many of the other speeches.

It is excellent that a student body which was unresponsive last year (greatly due to poor leadership) is this year assured of a head cheerleader who will give them something to cheer about. And we further hope, the loser of the race will give the campus the benefit of his interest and talents by being on the cheering squad as Jim or Louie's assistant.

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Center
5. Applaud
9. Pierced with an auger
10. Fastened the shoes
12. Roman poet
13. Sculptor's workbench
14. A network
15. French novelist
16. Behold!
17. Viscous
19. Revolve
21. Belonging to him
22. Prong
23. Glossy fabric
26. Emblem worn by a flier
27. On top
28. Kitchen utensil
29. Weaving machine
30. Fireplaces
34. Indefinite article
35. Employed
37. To be in debt
38. Impressed by insistent repetition
40. Incite
41. Reptile
42. Affirms
43. Pant
44. Fish
2. African antelope
3. Color
4. Man's nickname
5. Social group
6. Upper house of Danish Rigsdag
7. Act (dial.)
8. Paring
9. Arches
11. Buzzes
13. Shore recesses
15. Outer covering of animal
18. Small striped squirrels
20. Metal fastener
23. Dishes of greens
24. Making amends
25. Also
26. Magic stick
28. Mottled
31. Parts of ears
32. Pitchers with lids
33. Places
36. Percolate
39. National Aeronautic Association (abbr.)
40. Polynesian drink
42. Jewish month

DOWN
1. Desire another's property

PRIM HASP
RAVE OLPE
TOWARD BRAG
OW NEAR ICA
REP SLEDGES
ISIS ETA
ISTLE EWERS
OLD NEAT
DAPPLED RIA
OBI SAID MI
ROPE DARTED
VANE NOON
ELSA APET

3-7

Yesterday's Answer

Ham Horton

Presidential Memo

The brainchild of former Gov. O. Max Gardner has paid off in dividends. His idea of consolidating the University of North Carolina has contributed much to our present standing among universities, and his ideal had been ably carried on by our President Gordon Gray.

A consolidated University necessarily involves some amount of student consolidation, and this is good. But here, too, we pass the point of diminishing returns. If it is true that each school is a part of the Greater University, it is also true that each school is a separate physical entity, with its own traditions, its own problems, ann its own purpose. Nowhere is this better shown than in the three student bodies.

We have at present a consolidated student government. Its purpose is to weld us into a consolidated student body. Now, if this aim is accomplished through mutual cooperation efforts such as the Consolidated University Days, whiih are beroming a wonderful tradition of bringing together the three student bodies at the different campuses, consolidated student government cannot help but enjoy the respect and goodwill of the three schools. However, if the aim is to be accomplished by erecting a super student government, passing laws which force the three into a common mold, it can result only in friction.

The CUSC constitution guards against State and WC ganging up on us and becoming a "tyranny of the majority" and vice versa. Each school's student legislature has a concurrent veto on CUSC regulations. This is good.

The Council is set up to act as a liaison between the student body of the Consolidated University and the administration of the Consolidated University. In other words, if we wish to object to President Gray against a curtailment of the rights of UNC students to have say, cars at school, we should go through the CUSC. In their meeting the CUSC can vote to reject our plea, or ammend it in such a way that it partially represents each school, wholly represents none. Either way, the Carolina student's opinion is throttled.

We assume that President Gray's office wants accurate, pure information from each student body. But it gets from CUSC a hybrid report of student feelings about cars at the three schools—and gets a true picture of no srhool. On the basis of this hypothetical report, his office would act. If this synthetic report is his "liaison" he cannot base his actions on the exact separate situations at the separate three schools.

And does Carolina get lost in the shuffle? You bet. Acting on the CUSC report the action of the Consolidated Administration would probably be to strike a balance between us and them. We lose, they gain. We could all gain, of course.

of course if each school were considered separately.

This example can be duplicated by many others; for example, the CUSC would take no stand with us on the Saturday class fight. Why? Because although they sympathized with us, they were happy with the Consolidated University administration, and didn't want to cause any possible disturbance. The Consolidated University certainly does not want to harm UNC's relative position, but without direct intelligence from the three schools, without its hand on three separate pulses, it cannot know how any one move is going to affect each school.

So the question is, how can President Gray's office get the accurate picture of student opinion which they deserve? The only way is to have each student body deal directly with the consolidated Administration: Only in this manner can they have a clear indication of the exact situation at each of the three schools. Only thus can Carolina save itself from being compromised downward at every turn.

This is why Carolina is leading the move to re-form the CUSC into an organization for better and closer relations between the three student bodies rather than a super student government.

We suppose we should be ashamed for not being more "progressive" or "consolidation-minded". We are sorry but we can't help but think of Chapel Hill as our Alma Mater. We can't help but wince when we see those things we prized at Carolina being taken away one by one. We can't help hoping it's not too late to stem the tide.

"No Fooling?"

The Disenchanted One

I sit here and all the old wonder and glorious amazement at the complexity of the world is blunted in the plodding after the blunted goal. Once not long ago I was alive and exultant with the discovery of the bigness and greatness of things, but now I find solace only in quiet eternal rain, and rumbling clouds, and old, old trees which come forth with tender young life each year. And so the world. Out of the mud come the flowers, out of the boiling, violent, black maelstrom of thought comes the beauty of creativity. Nothing is good nor bad. It is always a fight, and when you are losing, what your fighting is bad and when you are winning, you are bad so there is no answer. So there is no answer except that it is a fight all the way and all you can ever hope for is a brief toehold on the cliff of the universe. Of course each toehold is a small dent in the cliff, and so many million dents make a step to God, but we never can see that.

The biggest battles are yet to come—the external ones, maybe the ones you can deal with least effectively and with more harsh words and no peace, but they are minute compared with the battles of yourself with yourself. When you struggle with yourself to get control, and if you do, you wonder if that is best, and whether you've got the quality within you to emerge triumphant over this whole mess. And all the time you are hampered and fettered with your own ignorance and blindness and pettiness and it is a losing and wearisome struggle all the way and all you can long for is peace, and gentle rain to soothe the burns and cool your flesh.

The worst thing of all is fear. The fear that you don't have the ability to creat what you love most in the world. That all you can do is appreciate and criticize, and maybe parrot successfully and when you feel that fear, that you aren't quite good enough, that it is for others to do what you want to do more than anything else in the world, and when you see others seemingly successful with less ability and less love for what their doing than you, and you aren't doing anything—that is the time that you want to cry out to God and say that you don't see your way, that you are lost as hell and can't get out of this labyrinth we call world. And you're so unsure and others are so sure and definite in their purpose and are actively working. You see others stuck in some pigeonhole yellowed and crisp and faded like old newspapers and you plead O God please don't let that happen to me. Then you see some saddened and sour with their own failure and inability and in all of these you see some qualities that you yourself have.

Nature takes over about that time and either you go to sleep or go out and get good and drunk and by the time you have finished nursing the hangover and your head gives you peace you've forgotten about your original turmoil and you're ready to begin all over again. That Nature. You keep beating your head against a wall and then Nature comes along and rubs alcohol on your head and tells you that everything is going to be all right and then you go back to beating your head again and all your doing is bashing your brains and your heart out but there is nothing else for you to do. Maybe, God, if you'd let us see the end result of all this labor once in a while, just to keep that old spark a little bit alive like it was when we were young.

—Infelix

—Platform—

(Continued from page 1)

concerning all University prices to students." (UP charges the social science syllabuses in the Book Exchange cost $4.54 and have no resale value. It also says Carolina Inn food prices run 10 to 20 cents higher than town prices.

Express Yourself

Mr. President, I Disagree

Editor:

Having been present at the founding of the Greater (now "Consolidated") University Student Council, and privileged to serve on it for two years as a representative from State College, I have been deeply distressed over recent news reports concerning the Council.

Consequently I found your "Quitters and Crybabies" editorial last Tuesday most heartening. It was a well aimed blast, and not even slightly rebutted by the next day's so-called "explanation" by President Horton. Except for the heroic (and Laudable) assertion about "not wanting" to sell Carolina's student body down the river", Mr. Horton's statement can only be classified as meaningless double-talk.

He was quoted as saying that they were "working on a plan of student consolidation which will bring the student bodies together voluntarily rather than forcibly", then implied that this new plan may be based on the report of the management engineers now making a survey of the entire Consolidated University. That calls for the following observations:

1. No one has (as yet) been foolish enough to attempt to bring the three student bodies together "forcibly." The CUSC was entirely a student project from its very beginning and its goal was to establish a common understandinb, to lead, to persuade, and to set a good example of tri-campus cooperation and coordination. And it came from within the University. What could be more voluntary than that?

2. The management survey is undoubtedly a good idea, and student life will probably benefit from it directly as well as indirectly. But no matter how efficient and thorough the study is and no matter how fine the recommendations are, they will first have to be accepted and acted upon by both the administration and the students to be effective. President Gray is probably aware of this, for the armed services have accumulated bales of expensive surveys which they have never paid any attention to, and Mr. Horton should be prepared for all contingencies and not throw away the bird in hand.

3. Conceding that an outstanding plan for achieving a spirit of unity among all the students of the Consolidated University will be forthcoming, and is accepted by all concerned, will it have a better chance for ultimate success built on the sands of division and discord, or on the rock of several years experience in the hard work of cooperation? The answer is self-evident; in matters of the spirit it is always wise to try to improve and build upon the established foundation rather than destroy and start out all over again. Emotional schisms are not easily healed.

Mr. Horton is also quoted as wanting "unity instead of uniformity." By a strange paradox he is in the process of destroying unity because there was (apparently) a lack of uniformity somewhere along the line!

Finally, he is "inclined to agree" that the CUSC is a "gag for student opinion". If that could possibly be true it is an even greater reflection on the quality of his leadership than the sad spectacle of four members of the Carolina delegation resigning their duties. A negative approach is an easy way to shed responsibilities; it is also a subtle way of selling somebody down the river.

I am cognizant of the fact that one student generation has no right to expect succeeding generations to maintain and support projects started before their time, no matter how high the hopes or how great the enthusiasms which launched them. Situations and concepts may change as much as personalities. Yet it does seem that a dream to which a number of outstanding Carolina students made such substantial contributions could be given the benefit of the doubt rather than be ripped apart by petulant wilfulness. Some "unenlightened" students at State and W.C. originally opposed the organization of the Council, on the ground that "Carolina will only go along on this as long as things go their way. As long as we will help them sharpen their grindstones everything will be rosy, but if we don't play their way that'll be the end!" Having been one of those who ridiculed this suspicion, I am naturally not happy at being proved wrong, and so soon at that!

We came through the first two years with flying colors and all who had participated had the sense of satisfaction which comes from a job well done. We thought that the first few years would be the worst, especially in view of the bitter rivalry which had flared up anew between State and Carolina, but apparently our problems were naught compared to those which faced the Council this year!

The founding of the SUSC was watched with something less than whole-hearted approval by some administrative officials, for they saw that for the first time their students had established a workable open forum and would be in a position to present a united front and exert thrice their former force of student public opinion. Such indeed did happen, but in an atmosphere of mutual cooperation and reasonableness. Consequently Controller Carmichael and Mr. William Friday both stated that in their opinion the formation of the Council was the best thing that had happened to the University since Consolidation, and that there was no limit to the good that the Council could ultimately do. It seems to me that President Gray's recently held tri-campus faculty conference is a splendid vindication of these student trail-blazers. Will the same ever be true of Horton, Adams, et al?

It should be noted here that the founders of the Council had no expectation of working miracles overnight. They hoped that through steady progress a very different student and alumni attitude could perhaps be developed in 20 years or so, and that then the Council could really go to work in helping to make the "Greater University" the "Greatest University". Thus their aspirations were both idealistic and yet intensely practical. Furthermore, it never occurred to them that the representatives of the three student bodies would always agree on all things. That is not only not possible, but probably not desirable. The idea was to stand together on the fundamentals and keep the denomina-

(See I DISAGREE, page 4)

Pack Stops Tar Heels In Big Four Opener, 10-5

Dartmouth Stickmen Win Over Heels, 19-5

By Jim Wiles

The Dartmouth College Lacrossemen caught fire in the second half yesterday and went on to swamp the Tar Heels, 19-5. It was the third loss of the current season for Carolina.

The Tar Heels played on even terms with the Indians for the first quarter, and kept them fairly well intact in the second. Charley Jacob opened the scoring for Dartmouth after one minute had elapsed in the first period, and Pete Gulick followed less than a minute later with another Indian tally. Joe Walker and Walt Ernst scored successive goals for Carolina to even the score. Bob Cleveland then scored for the visitors and Walker tied things up again, but reserve Dick Gates then broke the ice to put Dartmouth out in front to stay.

The second quarter was almost entirely a one man show by Gates. The Indian attacker sent three balls whirling past Tar Heel goalie Lew Floyd for scores. Ernst tallied once for Carolina in this period.

The second half belonged to Dartmouth. The Indians racked up six goals in each of the fifteen minute quarters. The Tar Heels were able to score only once, when Walker broke through for one point late in the last period.

Gates was high scorer for the afternoon with five tallies in all. He was closely followed by teammate Jacob with four. Walker was credited with three of Carolina's goals and Ernst accounted for the other two.

Honorable mention All-American goalie Floyd registered 29 saves for the Heels as he continued to baffle the opposition on many occasions. This raises Floyd's average to slightly better than 26 saves per game.

Pos.	Dartmouth	Carolina
G	Wetzel	Floyd
D	Hayes	Trimble
D	Huyck	Stokes
D	Stanford	Johnson
M	White	Ernst
M	Dame	Barkley
M	Ankeny	Cole
A	Jacob	Walker
A	Gulick	Dawes
A	Champion	Pillsbury

GOLF TOURNEY

Students have until this Monday to qualify for the open golf tournament at the Finley golf course. An 18-hole card, signed by a person playing with you, must be turned into pro Ed Kenney at the golf shop by that time in order to qualify for the tourney. There will be various flights and players of the same ability will be in each flight.

CLASSIFIEDS

LOST

GREY CASHMERE SWEATER with Phi Delta Theta pin in it—Between University Drive and Cobb Dorm. Reward. Call Bill Baker. Phone 5041. 1-3494-2

FOR SALE

"HELL'S BELLS"—THE FINEST Model A Ford ever put out. In excellent condition. Must sell! Call Bob Bell—95031. 1-3496-1

LOST

IN OR NEAR THE CAROLINA Inn, Sunday, April 5th; a double string of pearls. Reward. Telephone 95662. 1-c3495-1

J. C. HIGGINS BICYCLE—BLUE and rather beat up. Last seen in back of Cobb Dorm. Reward—Contact Pete Jones, 306 Cobb. 1-3497-3

HELP WANTED

MALE OR FEMALE. EXPERIenced preferred but not necessary—Combination drug clerk and cosmetician. Good pay plus commission and paid vacation. See Mr. Yandle, manager, Suttons Drug Store. Chg 1x1

Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop

Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing

Thomas Book Store

Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham
Phone J-2331

L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads
Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps
Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

RIDE TRAILWAYS THRU-LINERS FOR GREATEST SAVINGS...

● As you sail along in AIR-CONDITIONED COMFORT, you know you're saving money with every spin of the wheels over any other way to go! You do so at no sacrifice of deep-cushioned comfort, punctuality or convenience. You enjoy heart-of-town arrivals and departures. Couple this with a traditional friendly concern for your welfare by all Trailways personnel, and you have it . . . "Southern Hospitality on Wheels"!

SAVE 2/3 THE COST OF DRIVING YOUR OWN CAR

Chapel Hill To:	1-way
GREENSBORO 14 round trips, 7 exp.	$ 1.25
WILMINGTON, N. C. 4 round trips daily	$ 3.75
NEW YORK 8 trips, Only 1 change, express service	$10.50
MEMPHIS, TENN. 4 trips, 2thru-liners daily	$14.90
NORFOLK 8 trips, 3 thru, 2 express	$ 5.00 (plus Tax)

Chapel Hill Bus Station

Phone 4281 E. Franklin St.

TRAILWAYS THE ROUTE OF THE THRU-LINERS

Wolfpack Gets Fourteen Hits Off 3 Pitchers

By Tom Peacock

N. C. State ignored Carolina's good pitching and bad weather yesterday, collecting 10 runs and 14 hits to ruin the Tar Heels, Big Four opening, 10-5.

Carolina fans hoped the threatening sky would produce some game-stopping rain after the Wolfpack grabbed three runs in the first inning, but State and the bad weather improved in the lengthy slugging carnival.

Starter Bill Lore couldn't last six innings before coach Walt Rabb had to pull him in favor of Don Marbry. Lore left Marbry in a five run hole, and the ace right-hander was credited with his first loss of the season. The defeat was Carolina's first in the Southern Conference and Big Four.

Five errors and some remarkably dumb fielding contributed to the loss.

Ken Keller was the brightest spot in the Tar Heels' lustreless lineup, collecting a single and home run in four times at bat. Keller's homer was a 400 foot clout to center field with no one on in the seventh.

A mild rhubarb occurred in the seventh inning when the wrong batter led off for State and Wolfpack coach Vic Sorrell refused to take the official scorer's word for it. Carmen Santoli singled out of turn, but the Carolina League umpires settled the whole affair by making the wrong decision and starting things all over again.

State freshman Jim Hardison started the game, and had good control of the situation until the sixth inning when a mild three run flurry sent him to the showers. Jack Yvars, another freshman, took over, doing a creditable job the rest of the game.

N. C. State	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Santoli, lf	6	0	0	3	0	1
Turney, 2b	3	3	2	4	3	0
Yvars, ss	4	3	3	2	2	0
Green, ss	2	0	1	1	0	0
Morris, 1b	5	1	0	9	0	0
Fuscoe, cf	5	2	3	2	0	0
Wyles, rf	6	0	4	0	0	0
Whitley, 3b	4	1	0	2	5	1
McGillis, c	5	0	0	4	0	0
Hardison, p	3	0	1	0	1	0
Jake Yvars, p	2	0	0	0	1	0
Totals	45	10	14	27	12	2

Carolina	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Lloyd, 2b	5	0	1	3	1	0
Dale, ss	2	1	1	1	5	2
Keller, rf	4	2	2	2	0	0
White, lf	2	1	1	2	0	0
Gravitte, cf	5	1	1	1	0	1
Frye, c	4	0	0	7	1	1
Holt, 3b	3	0	0	0	2	0
Henning, 1b	4	0	2	11	0	1
Lore, p	0	0	0	0	3	0
Marbry, p	1	0	0	0	1	0
Scearce, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
aWilliams	1	0	0	0	0	0
bMosier	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	32	5	8	27	13	5

a—Flied out for Marbry in 6th.
b—Grounded out for Scearce in 9th.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
N. C. State 300 033 010—10 14 2
Carolina 000 103 100— 5 8 5

Runs batted in: Morris, Fuscoe 4, Wyles 3, Whitley, Keller, Frye, Holt, Henning 3; Two base hits: Wyles, Yvars, Fuscoe, Henning; Three base hit: Fuscoe; Home run: Keller; Stolen bases: Whitley, Lloyd 2; Double plays: Whitley, Turney, Morris; Turney, Yvars, Morris; Left on bases: N. C. State 14; Carolina 6. Base on balls—off: Lore 2, Marbry 2, Scearce 1, Hardison 5. Struck out—by: Marbry 3, Hardison 2, Yvars, 1, Scearce 3. Hits—off: Lore 8 in 4 1/3; Marbry 3 in 1 2/3; Scearce 3 in 3; Hardison 6 in 5 2/3; Yvars 2 in 3 1/3. Balk: Scearce. Losing pitcher: Lore. Winning pitcher: Hardison. Umpires: McKenzie and Locurcio.

Netters Take 7-2 Win In Match With Sewanee

By Vardy Buckalew

The tennis team from the University of the South provided the Carolina tennis team with a workout yesterday afternoon, but that was about the extent of it—it was no contest. Carolina won an easy 7-2 victory.

Carolina's two losses came in the first and third doubles matches as Coach Kenfield put in his substitutes after the regulars had swept all six singles matches. The number two doubles combination of Ted Lynch and Barclay Gordon won their match over Dick Briggs and Howard Pritchard 6-2, 6-3.

The tennis team will play the first of two consecutive matches with Dartmouth this afternoon. Since the contest will be fifteen matches, it will get under way at 2:30.

The win was perhaps the easiest of the season so far for the Tar Heels as the regulars in the singles lineup lost only one set, that by Del Sylvia who lost the first set to Webb White in the number one match.

Sylvia was by far the better of the two but he had difficulty getting used to the soft shots of White. Once Sylvia hit his stride in the second set there was never any doubt about the outcome. He won the last two sets easily.

The rest of the matches were just as one sided. Tom Bradford shifted into the number two position yesterday afternoon ahead of Herb Brown due to a win in a challenge match, and he won two love sets over George Wagner.

Browne, playing in the number three position, took a 6-2, 6-1 victory over Dick Briggs. Bob Payne retained his number four position in the lineup and won his match 6-2, 6-3 over Keith Fort.

In the last two singles matches, Don Thompson won over Howard Pritchard 6-0, 6-1, and Pete Green defeated Joe Cater 6-0, 6-0. After the match yesterday Ronnie Kerdasha won a challenge match over Green and so will play in the number six position today against Dartmouth.

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated White (S), 3-6, 6-2, 6-0; Bradford (UNC) defeated Wagner (S), 6-0, 6-0; Browne (UNC) defeated Briggs (S), 6-2, 6-1; Payne (UNC) defeated Fort (S), 6-2, 6-3; Thompson (UNC) defeated Pritchard (S), 6-0, 6-1; Green (UNC) defeated Cater (S), 6-0, 6-0.

Doubles—White and Wagner (S) defeated Izlar and Handel (UNC), 6-1, 6-2; Lynch and Gordon (UNC) defeated Briggs and Pritchard (S), 6-2, 6-3; Fort and Cater (S) defeated Wickham and Potts (UNC), 6-8, 7-5, 8-6.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Pi Kappa Phi vs. Pi Lamb; field 2, Beta vs. Delta Sig; field 3, Pi Lamb vs. D. U.; field 4, Winston vs. Dental School.

5:00—Field 1, KA vs. Sigma Chi; field 2, Phi Delta Chi vs. TEP 2; field 3, Law School; field 4, Old East vs. Ruffin.

Today's Tennis

4:00—Law School 2 vs. Lewis; DKE 1 vs. Phi Delt 2.

5:00—SPE vs. Phi Gam 1; Ruffin vs. Law School 3.

HEADQUARTERS FOR Palm Beach®
WOVEN BY GOODALL-SANFORD, INC. ONLY
SUITS SLACKS SPORT JACKETS

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

Interested In Modern Writing?

"Ernest Hemingway," a full-length critical analysis by Professor Philip Young of New York University.—$3.00.

"Points of View"—critical writings by T. S. Eliot.—$1.25.

"The American Twenties," edited with an introduction by John K. Hutchens. A wonderful sampling of the period that saw the rise of Fitzgerald, Wolfe, Anderson, Hemingway, Dreiser, and dozens of others.—$5.00.

And A Bargain

"Ross and the New Yorker," by Dale Kramer. The fabulous story of the magazine and its brilliant editor. A best seller at $3.75. Our special—$1.89.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MIN. WEST OF CARRBORO • HWAY 54

Last Times Tonight
BARBARA STANWYCK
"LADY OF BURLESQUE"

The Oriental

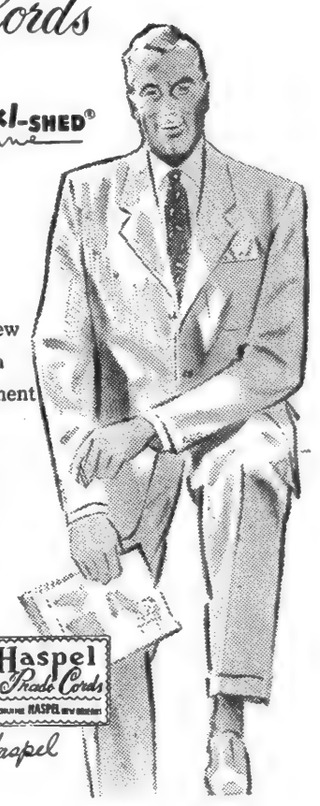
CHINESE & AMERICAN

Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45

116 E. Parrish St., Durham

Varsity

TODAY ONLY

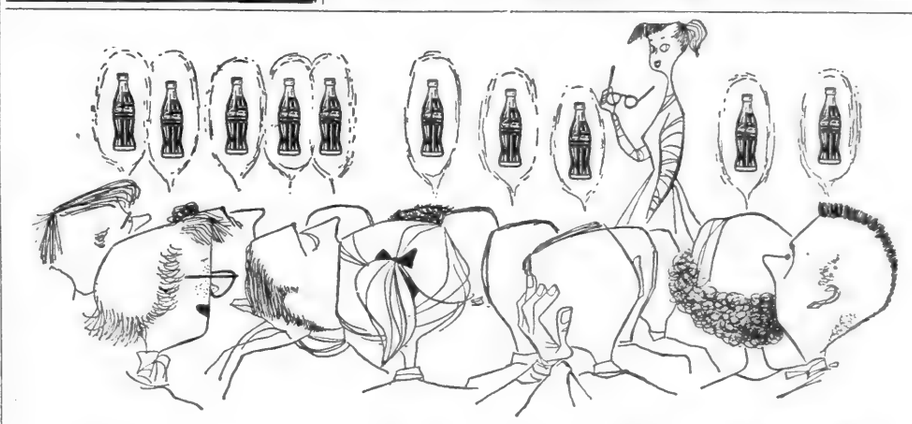


Now when you need your All-Cotton Suit most... you can have it at its very best!

HASPEL Prado Cords exclusively in DAN RIVER Wrinkl-Shed® Cottons

Coolness, crispness, correctness brought to a new high in satisfaction with Wrinkl-Shed—for permanent wrinkle and soil resistance, shape retention and complete washability.

In The Exciting Hairline Pattern



$24.50

Be sure it's Haspel

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

Effective Monday, April 13, our new store hours will be: 10 a.m.-7 p.m.
MILTON'S CLOTHING CUPBOARD

Campus capers call for Coke

In the Spring, young folks' fancy lightly turns and turns and turns.
Right now—refreshment's in order.
They'll have a Coke.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

—I Disagree—

(Continued from page 2)

tional differences in their proper place. The attitude of the Carolina leadership today seems to be quite the reverse.

Perhaps the cause is not so nearly lost as it seems to be. After all, student leaders are almost forced to stand forth with the dramatic gesture at times, and it is almost always accompanied by rash statements and blanket indictments. The excuse for this lies in the fact that the average student leader is sincere, hardworking, and conscientious; he hopes to do great things and nearly knocks himself out in the attempt, for he is often faced with student apathy on the one hand, and administrative inertia (born of wisdom, perhaps) on the other hand. Worst of all is the seeming lack of appreciation on all sides. There is no "A" for effort in the field of student government, and the constant query is: "Well, what have you accomplished?" The constituents give no credit for the exhausting routine of administrative work, however ably done, and even less for the intangible progress that inches forward year by year and is only visible when viewed historically. The result, at the very least, is a sense of frustration or even futility, and the obvious solution to the problem is to take the axe to someone or something and let the chips fall where they may.

That may be a partial explanation of the present controversy, but whether it is or not, one thing is certain: the Grand Exit may sometimes be good theatre—it is never good statesmanship.

Hoyle B. Adams

What Goes On Here

World Federalists

An organizational meeting for United World Federalists will be held in Gerrard Hall at 2 o'clock today.

Cheering Squad

There will be a meeting of the cheering squad this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge No. 2. All those who want pictures of the squad should be present.

Women's Room Reservations

Women students must make room reservations for both the Summer and the Fall terms by April 14. Rooms will be assigned to incoming students if they are not applied for by that date. Each girl must make a $6 room deposit and file a room reservation card for each term. See bulletin boards in women's dormitories for procedure on making deposits and filing application cards.

WUNC

Today's schedule for WUNC:
7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The UN Story.
7:30—To be announced.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—Old Books, Old Friends.
8:30—Masterworks from France.
9—Concert favorites.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwrok.

14 Candidates Disqualified For Missing Meeting, Must Make Amends

Fourteen candidates absent from Monday's required meeting in Memorial Hall must contact the chairman of the Elections Board by tonight at 7:30 or be disqualified—for good.

Already disqualified temporarily, they may be reinstated upon payment of a $1 fine. Delinquent are Junior Seawell, Van Weatherspoon, Dick Lackey, Joy Whisonant, Bill Ruffin, Randall Sheppard, Bill Phillips, Barry Kalin, Jane Allen, Alice Hicks, Nancy Gerlach, Dick Hensel, Malcolm Cos and Carolos Surratt.

Candidates should contact Dusty Lamson at the St. A. House.

Card Board

The Card Board will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in Roland Parker Lounge No. 1.

Phi Eta Sigma

Recent initiates into Phi Eta Sigma may pick up their certificates at 313 South Building.

Interested In Politics?

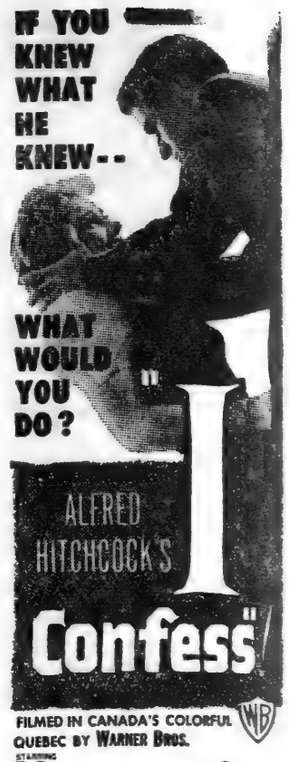
"Education and Liberty" by James Bryant Conant. President Conant on the subject of public versus public-supported private schools. Important. —— $3.00

"The American Way" by Shepard B. Clough. An enlightening and thought-provoking study of the economic basis of our civilization. —— $4.00

And A Bargain



"Adlai Stevenson"—a fine biography by John Bartlow Martin. Published at $2.50. Now Only —— $1.00

THERE'S A BOOK YOU NEED IN
The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

Chassis lubrication is an important part of keeping your car protected against the ravages of winter weather. Let our experts do the job. Quick service; moderate prices, always. Drive up today.

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR
POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

If you didn't answer the quiz with Margie, Apples and Oldsmobile, you made a blunder. You'll make a bigger blunder if you fail to come to SUTTON'S DRUG STORE for all household necessities and appliances. We carry the best for less.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rx SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS-MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE-JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

Wednesday & Thursday
SPECIALS

FIRST QUALITY, CANNON PERCALE SHEETS—81-108—
3.79
Only 2 to A Customer

CANNON MUSLIN SHEETS—81x99 FIRSTS—
2.88

1 LOT SHEETS—63x99, 72x99, 81x99—
1.98

RUGS—
59¢—2 for 1.00
98¢—2 for 1.50

FIRST QUALITY FRUIT OF THE LOOM PILLOW CASES
98¢—2 for 1.50

WHITE DUCK PANTS. SANFORIZED—
3.50

1 LOT FINE CHAMBREYS AND BATES PRINTS, PASTEL PIQUES—59¢

NYLON YARN—2 BALLS—
1.00

$1.50 AMERICAN BEAUTY SEAMLESS HOSE—
1.50

POLL PARROTT SHOES ALL SIZES

KEDS—RED, WHITE, BLUE AND BROWN
GOOD ASSORTMENT OF SUMMERETTES FOR LADIES

FOR MEN
$21.00 SPORT COAT
Special—14.95

KHAKI PANTS—
2.98 up

DUNGAREES
LADIES, MEN, CHILDREN

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY
BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

WHO WILL BE
MR. FORMAL
AT (CAROLINA)

✓ THE 3RD ANNUAL MR. FORMAL CONTEST IS NOW UNDERWAY!

✓ EVERY CAMPUS GROUP CAN ENTER TO WIN THE BIG LOCAL JACKPOT AND QUALIFY FOR THE NATIONAL PRIZES.

AFTER SIX, America's largest maker of men's formal wear invites all fraternities, athletic teams, societies, dorms, clubs and independent groups to take part in this prize-peppered competition. Don't wait, don't hesitate, choose up your team today and contact the campus rep to arrange for time and location of tryout.

NOTHING TO BUY—HERE'S ALL YOU DO!

1. Select a team of 10 or more men from your group to participate. Each man tries on an AFTER SIX dinner jacket and the group then chooses the member they want to represent them as Mr. Formal. A photo is taken of the winner and placed in competition with the other group winners.
2. Winners will be chosen on the basis of what the AFTER SIX white formal jacket does for them sartorially. You can't tell who will make the best appearance until all the men in your group have taken part.
3. The campus Mr. Formal will be chosen by a panel of impartial judges and announcement of their decision will take place at a campus event and in this newspaper.
4. Contact the campus representative and set-up a try-out time with him. He'll arrange a time and place convenient for your crew.

WIN THIS JACKPOT OF BIG PRIZES

— WHITE DINNER JACKET (with exclusive "Stain-Shy" finish)
— SUMMER FORMAL TROUSERS
— CUMMERBUND AND TIE "FORMAL-PAK"
— DRESS SHIRT

RONSON ADONIS POCKET LIGHTER
—Press it's lit, release it's out.

CHARBERT "TOP HAT" SET
—Plastic flasks of Eau de Cologne, after shaving lotion and talcum.

KAYWOODIE WHITE BRIAR FORMAL PIPE
—streamlined, finger thin shape ends pocket bulge.

ALSO ADDED PRIZES

THE Sport—SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

TOWN & CAMPUS
CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE (John Baldridge, Jake Froelich, Beta House, Phone: 6071)
OFFICIAL CAMPUS PHOTOGRAPHER (Borden Henley)

PLUS A CHANCE TO COMPETE FOR
MR. FORMAL U.S.A.
AND THESE NATIONAL PRIZES

★ $500.00 U. S. DEFENSE BOND.
★ FUN-FULL WEEK IN HOLLYWOOD, ALL EXPENSES PAID.
Transportation—dates with "movie lovelies"—round of night clubs—the works!
★ SCREEN TEST BY ALEX GOTTLIEB PRODUCTIONS.
Your chance for a big-time movie contract with one of filmland's "greats".

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Continued fair and mild with 75 high. Yesterday's high, 72; low, 49.

The Daily Tar Heel

DETAIL
The money you pay for athletics goes somewhere. It is listed on p. 4.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 125 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

POLITICIANS KEEP OUT!!

Use When Necessary

General Election — April 15
Run Offs — April 21

courtesy of

JERRY COOK

for

Secretary-Treasurer

OF STUDENT BODY

☐ ASLEEP

☐ STUDYING

☐ NOT INTERESTED

See Other Side UP UP

JERRY COOK, WHO SAYS HE BELIEVES in originality, came up with this handbill for voters this week. "Campaigns have almost got to the point of boredom," Cook said. "I just had to think of something original." The Student Party, his opposition, didn't like the handbill because it "promoted a lack of respect for student government." As for student reaction, it seemed to be summed up by one fellow in Old West. "Now the politicians are getting on the ball," said the voter with a smile.

A Legal Loophole

No CUSC Anymore --Horton

By Louis Kraar

The Consolidated University Student Council actually doesn't exist anymore, President Ham Horton said yesterday.

He went on to explain his statement, "There can be no Carolina CUSC committee because there is no one to call a meeting." Horton referred to the fact that Jim Adams, head of Carolina's delegation to the three-school student government group, quit last month.

"And there can be no CUSC," Horton continued, "because by the very nature of the organization it has to be made up of the entire Consolidated University."

Horton quit the group also, saying that he thinks it is the only way to revise the group. "If there were any other way to revise the CUSC, I would not have quit," Horton said yesterday.

President Horton said he was digging out the legal loopholes just to prove a point that the problems of the three schools are different and must be dealt with differently.

In an effort to iron out the problems, Horton said he and other CUSC officials were meeting with William Friday, assistant to President Gray, to work out another plan of consolidated student government.

Meantime, observers are wondering what's going to happen Saturday morning at Greensboro when the CUSC meets. Carolina will be represented unofficially by a Consolidated University Day committee, said Horton. On the other hand, some of the remaining CUSC committee said they were going to do the representing.

Horton said that no one would represent Carolina officially at the meeting. He said the CU day committee was only representing Carolina as far as participation in the day's program was concerned.

One of Carolina's CUSC members, Tom Creacy, who indicated

(See CUSC, page 4)

'Abolishment' Of Gym Fees Not Asked, Says Penegar

Student Party Advocates Placing Payment Of Student Gym Fees On Optional Basis

The Student Party's stand on athletic fees, partially misrepresented in Wednesday's Daily Tar Heel, was clarified yesterday by Ken Penegar, SP presidential candidate.

". . . No one is advocating abolition of all athletic fees, but that they be made optional, so that many students who cannot take advantage of gym privileges, including most graduate students, will not have to continue shelling out $13.33 wasted for them each quarter," Penegar said.

The budgets of the institutions you pay $40 a year to are carried in detail on page 4.

Penegar was referring to an SP platform plank which proposes 'to establish a plan for the voluntary payment of these fees." It has been a leading issue in the campaigning for spring elections.

"It came as no great surprise that the athletic department raised a great cry of protest at our suggestion to end mandatory payment of the unjust athletic tax. Anything that might rock their boat of financial security will always be labeled 'absurd'," Penegar continued.

"Why is it that that department cannot go to the General Assembly with requests for sufficient funds to maintain the building (Woollen Gym) and to pay for its construction? Why should the students have to pay your salaries and your mortgages? That is the responsibility of the state of North Carolina," Penegar declared.

The mortgages he referred to amount to $12,000 yearly paid on the bond issue originally floated to help build the gym.

"The students here in 1876," continued Penegar, "may have voted to support the athletic department with their taxes, but that was before the time of active support by the state. Neither does action then have to bind the students today.

"Furthermore, I don't believe that the students want to continue this burden today. This is a state institution and education should be provided at lowest possible cost to the student.

"Let's see what the students want on April 15th. In addition to the general will of the students that will be expressed in the election, I am proposing a referendum on this particular issue, so that the students can say whether they want to continue subsidizing the Athletic Department and Woollen Gym to the tune of $40 a year."

Wednesday's Daily Tar Heel story erroneously stated that the SP wants to abolish all athletic fees. The campus political party wants payment of the fees put on a voluntary basis.

Students pay $10 for gym fees and $3.33 to the Carolina Athletic Association a quarter.

SP officials said that many students have to pay the fees who don't get to take advantage of its benefits.

Student fees comprise about one-eighth of the athletic fund. In the Fall Quarter, a student may see over $18 worth of football games as a member of the Athletic Association.

Students have a voice in the Athletic Association through three student members on the Athletic Council. The student members of the council are the student body president, Monogram Club president and Carolina Athletic Association president.

'Under The Stars' Blanket Party Set

The University Club will revive the Carolina tradition of outdoor musical program with a mass blanket party on the grass in front of Graham Memorial Sunday night, April 26, from 8 until 10 o'clock.

The finale of Spring German Weekend, which features Tommy Dorsey on Saturday night, the blanket party will be presided over by Jimmy Capps, well known disc jockey of radio station WPTF. Capps will make personal dedications to students on an all-Carolina program. He has donated his time to the University Club in the interest of Germans.

Boxes for request selections will be placed in Lenoir Hall, the Y, the library and Graham Memorial. Students are asked not to make more than two requests so a maximum number of students may have their requests played.

The party will be strictly B Y O B—bring your own blankets.

BOB GORHAM. UP presidential candidate, says "The best way to maintain the student's respect for student government is to run a sensible, clean, high-level campaign. I pledge to continue the UP campaign in this manner."

Folk Dancing Presentation Tonight At 8

The Berea Country Dancers from Berea College, Ky., will present a program tonight at 8 o'clock in the Women's Gym under the sponsorship of the UNC Folklore Council.

The dancers will perform American, English and Danish country dances, English Morris and Sword dances. They will also present Appalachian square dance figures.

Students and townspeople are invited. There will be no charge for admission. The audience will be asked to join in some of the more popular American folk dances.

The Berea Country Dancers, a student organization, is under the direction of Frank H. Smith, founder of the Berea Country Dancers. Smith, in addition to his work at the college, does extension work in recreation throughout the Appalachian Mountain area.

The dancers have presented programs at the Universities of California, Kansas, Kentucky and have danced for such organizations as Sigma Phi Gamma International Sorority, the American College Public Relations Association and the Editorial Writers of America.

CAMPUS SEEN

Lone coed in French class listening to embarrased prof's definition of "sachet:" "It's that smell you smell in ladies' drawers."

*

Scores of students who pass a four year tenure here and know Eubanks Drug Store only as the place "where you weigh free."

*

"Why don't you study in the Law Library?" Answer by cat-talking lawyer to be, "Not enough eyeballing."

AFROTC Men Are Visiting Pope AF Base

Approximately 70 University AFROTC Cadets are visiting Pope Air Force Base today under the guidance of Major Joe O. Young, assistant professor of Air Science and Tactics here.

The students are seniors, members of the Air Science IV Flight Operations classes and of the Arnold Air Society.

During their visit, which is described as a routine orientation tour, the cadets will observe the facilities and functions of the Carolina Air Base, visit Tactical Air Command Operation Center, and the Base Flight Operations Center, and will witness a Tactical demonstration of paratroop operations performed by the famed 82nd Airborne Division.

The cadets will have luncheon at the Pope Field Base and will dine in the evening at Pope Air Force Base Officer's Club.

Blood Drive Fails Goal

The campus blood drive fell 282 pints short of its 1,009-pint goal yesterday.

Blood contributions yesterday brought the total number of pints given in the current drive to 727.

NROTC won the cup which is presented each year to the organization of over 100 members having the best percentage of blood donors. The NROTC unit percentage was 60.2 as compared with 13.1 per cent for the AROTC.

Red Cross officials said the number of pints of blood given here was not as large as expected in view of the drive made for donors made by campus organizations.

Top Candidate Of SP Writes 'Big 5' Views

Ken Penegar, running on the SP ticket for president, yesterday outlined his views on the five questions asked editorially in The Daily Tar Heel of all candidates. His statement:

1. For or against UNC in NSA? "I am definitely in favor of Carolina's continued leadership in the only American student organization that represents student opinion on a national and inter-national basis. I think, however, that the students themselves should say what Carolina should do."

2. Consolidated University Student Council. "I think the students at the three institutions have a responsibility to make consolidation work. Horton threw a monkey wrench into that cooperation."

3. Student Entertainment Committee. "Several plans have been put forth. There seems to be no agreement on these, but I do think that some equitable plan could be

(See PENEGAR, page 4)

Ring Sale Today

The Order of the Grail will sell class rings in the "Y" Lobby from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today.

This is the last group of orders to be filled before the end of the Spring Quarter.

Ogden Nash's Doggerel Impresses Crowd Here

By J. D. Wright

Reciting and commenting on the background of his more than 8,000 light poems, Ogden Nash delighted a Memorial Hall audience Tuesday night. Some 600 people were present.

Giving a brief review of how he became a writer of humorous poetry, Nash said he had been writing since childhood, and wrote his first poem when his sister was about to get married: "Beautiful Spring at last is here, taking my sister at last I fear." This went on for some 14 verses until he discovered his sister wa getting married in January.

After a year at Harvard, Nash said, "I developed good taste in poetry and stopped writing."

He then went to work for a publishing house where he became fascinated with bad poetry—thought it pathetic—and wondered what would happen if someone who knew the rules of poetry wrote bad poetry consciously.

He discovered it paid off when one day while in his office he wrote, "You sit in your office at 242 Madison Avenue, and think you have an important position haven't you."

Having discovered what he terms "a leak in the dike of the English language," he sold the verse and soon received a request for more.

Referring to himself as the "Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker" man, Nash said he had never understood exactly what the phrase means.

"An Evening with Ogden Nash" was the last of a series of presentations for this school year by the Student Entertainment Committee.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM—The Communists offered yesterday to return some 600 ailing United Nations prisoners—possibly including only 100 Americans—but the Allies protested and asked for a recount. In contrast to the Reds' offer, the Allies proposed to turn over 5,800 ailing Communist prisoners, including 5,100 North Koreans and 700 Chinese. The Communists said they would take the U. N. request under consideration and junior officers for both sides met after yesterday's main meeting to work out the mechanics of the exchange of the sick and wounded.

★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky appealed to the West yesterday to meet the Soviet Union "halfway" on world disarmament proposals. The General Assembly, however, adopted a Western plan for disarmament talks despite the strong appeal by the Russian Ambassador to modify it in the interest of East-West harmony. The vote was 52 to 5 Soviet block with three abstentions.

★

WASHINGTON—Senate investigators spoke somewhat warily yesterday of how far they intend to go in following up sworn testimony linking five Boston ministers to the Communist underground. Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) said the Senate Internal Secuprity subcommittee has made no decision on the extent, if any, to which its probe for Red influences in education will branch out to encompass the clergy. Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ), another subcommittee member, called it "a delicate matter" requiring careful consideration.

★

SEOUL—United Nations infantrymen yesterday turned back a Chinese Communist drive for key positions they apparently wanted to hold during an armistice in Korea. Allied troops along the battle-front smashed Red assaults on Bunker Hill and other key U. N. outposts while B-26 bombers dropped tons of explosives on a creeping convoy of 300 Red trucks. U. N. bombers also blasted three rail bridges and knocked out a Communist radio station on the Haeju Penninsula.

Aid Seekers This Summer Have Til May 1

The deadline for receiving applications on Summer School scholarships has been extended to May 1, Dean Guy B. Phillips said yesterday.

"A few scholarships are still open," Dean Phillips said yesterday, "and we are ready to make these available to qualified teachers if prompt application is made."

"They will cover the tuition and expenses incurred during one of the six-week summer terms, and represent an unusual opportunity for working teachers to extend their professional study at no cost to themselves," he said.

Application blanks may be secured by writing to Dean Phillips' office. The applications will be reviewed by the Scholarship Committee and the winners will be notified promptly.

Previous college record, success in teaching, and evidence of contribution to educational progress in the local community will be considered in the awards.

Pan-Hell Slates '53 Workshop Here Monday

The Panhellenic Council is sponsoring its annual Panhellenic Workshop Monday.

Headquarters for the workshop will be in Carroll Hall.

The workshop will begin with registration in Carroll Hall between 1:45 and 2:15, followed by an assembly in Carroll Auditorium and greetings from Dean Katherine Carmichael. Discussion groups will follow, with the following topics to be discussed:

1. Inter-sorority group relations; 2. Scholarship, activities and pledge training; 3. Alumnae relations; 4. Standards and campus citizenship and administration relations; 5. Social problems; 6. Rushing.

Miss Maxine Blake, national president of Alpha Delta Pi will be the banquet speaker. The banquet will be held at Lenoir Dining Hall at 6:30. At 8 o'clock delegates will go back to Carroll Auditorium for reports from discussion groups and a general summary of the workshop.

Consultants for the discussion groups will be local and district alumnae officers of the various groups.

The public will be welcome at these meetings.

LIB MOORE

Yack Hopeful Offers Views

Yack editorial candidate Lib Moore yesterday released a pre-election statement giving her experience and qualifications.

"Experience is a prime factor in the election of a public official," Miss Moore said. "It is even more important when the students are considering the qualifications of a candidate for such a responsible position as Yack editor."

"I have worked on the Yack ever since I came to Carolina," she added, "besides having a great deal of previous experience. I believe that I am capable of serving as editor of the '54 Yackety-Yack."

Gray Silent On Student As Trustee

President Gray had no comment yesterday on the proposal to include a student on the Board of Trustees.

At a press conference held in his office, the president said Trustee elections are not in the realm of administration affairs, hence his no comment. Anyway, he noted, students already are able to have their opinions brought before the Trustees. Students may be extended privileges of the floor at the Trustee meetings or have their views voiced for them by a Trustee.

Commenting on the Consolidated University Student Council, Gray said that "there are very few problems that are universal" for Carolina, State and WC. The Consolidated University president does not expect the council to present a united student viewpoint. He does think, however, that the council should do much to forward understanding and spirit among the three schools.

The question of student automobiles is under study, as a result of Trustee and faculty requests, Gray reported. The University now sends out to parents of prospective freshmen and transfers letters requesting that students not bring cars to the campus. Gray said that no plan has been adopted to take more strenuous action. WC students do not have cars on their campus.

In the past, Gray has raised the question of student automobiles before CUSC meetings, indicating that they pose a serious problem to the University.

Gray also announced that his office will take direct action on the findings of the faculty conference as soon as he receives corrected and final reports from conference committee chairmen.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Haskett
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

An American Tradition

We always thought that members of the University Party were industrious, though they may not have accomplished anything.

But the second plank in their announced platform convinces us that the entire University Party is LAZY. The plank states: "Securing janitor service for making-up beds in dorms —This is a very practical idea that certainly is attainable. The service is already in effect at N. C. State. There is no reason we can't have it here also."

Most janitors now get about $36 a week. Their work in the dormitories consists of sweeping, dusting, cleaning up lavatories, etc. To add to their burdens would be an unfair burden.

This is modern day Carolina. How many men have their beds made at home? How many beds in Chapel Hill are made everyday? We would like the Psychology Department to conduct a survey on this matter. Probably, there are many students, for important reasons, who do not want their beds made daily—perhaps only once a week. For many, the bed is a couch, or has some other use during the day. Some students don't get much sleep at night, so they have to concentrate on sleep during the daytime. We recommend that the members of the University Party make their own beds.

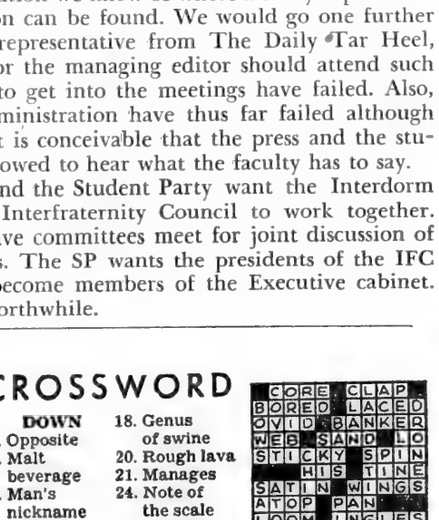
One of the main reasons for coming to college is to grow up, to put responsibility squarely on the shoulders of the future citizen. To evade this responsibility, whether it be at work or in the home, is pusillanimity of the highest sort. The Daily Tar Heel strongly feels that students, if they desire, should make their own beds. It's a great American tradition!

* * *

There are other planks in the UP platform that aren't quite so airy as the janitorial one.

For instance: The UP wants the student president to sit in on Faculty Council meetings. Faculty Council meetings in which each attending member represents about seven faculty members, is the governing agency of the faculty. It is the only organization we know of where a fairly representative faculty opinion can be found. We would go one further than the UP. A representative from The Daily Tar Heel, either the editor or the managing editor should attend such meetings. Efforts to get into the meetings have failed. Also, appeals to the administration have thus far failed although in a year's time, it is conceivable that the press and the students might be allowed to hear what the faculty has to say.

Both the UP and the Student Party want the Interdorm Council and the Interfraternity Council to work together. The UP would have committees meet for joint discussion of common problems. The SP wants the presidents of the IFC and the IDC to become members of the Executive cabinet. Both plans are worthwhile.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Electric catfish
5. Serpent lizard
9. Gelatinous substance
10. Limps (dial.)
12. Hail!
13. Indian mulberry
14. Hawaiian bird (hyphen.)
15. Music note
16. Speedy
18. Coin (Peru)
19. Granulates
21. Pro-Nazi organization
22. Eskers (geol.)
23. Shrubs (Jap.)
25. Neon (sym.)
26. Sets of boxes (Jap.)
28. Part of "to be"
30. Wild ox (Celebes)
31. Distressed
33. The common heather
35. Required
37. Remnant
38. One-spot cards
39. Sloth
40. Public notice
41. Perish
42. Milkfish
43. Last
45. Mohammedan bible
47. Three-toed diving birds
48. Absent

DOWN
1. Opposite
2. Malt beverage
3. Man's nickname
4. Two (combining form)
5. Begone!
6. Old measure of length
7. Italian river
8. Wooden-head golf club
9. Cant
11. Vended
13. Guarantee
16. Discharging a gun
17. Indefinite article
18. Genus of swine
20. Rough lava
21. Manages
24. Note of the scale
27. Negative
28. Sunken area leading to a cellar
29. Middle
30. Particle of addition
32. An alleged force
33. Part of a plant
34. Asiatic country
36. Electrical engineer (abbr.)
38. Troubles
41. The mail (E. I.)
42. Constellation
44. Greek letter
45. The unknown god (Hinduism)
46. Cry of pain

CORE CLAP BORED LACED
OVID BANKER
WEB SAND LO
STICKY SPIN
HIS TINE
SATIN WINGS
ATOP PAN
LOOM INGLES
AN USED OWE
DINNED ABET
SNAKE AVERS
GASP BASS

Saturday's Answer

Ron Levin

Dear Mutt . .

(A few days ago a letter that George, the collie, wrote to his brither, Mutt, at Dook, was intercepted and we thought it's contents might prove interesting to you dear, dear readers. . . .)

Dear Mutt,

How is every thing back at the ranch house? You really ought to be up here with me at UNC. I haven't yet figured out what this place is, but I think it's some sort of reform school, like when we was growing up on the South Side. Bells ringing all the time and barbed wire stretched across the grass. I hang out during the day at a place they cal the Y court, and what a soft touch. Everyone of these inmates pat me on the head and give me a duoghnut or ice cream. I walk by the steps of a big building where a lot of boys and girls sit and talk, and speaking of squirrels you can run them till your hearts content.

It is real pretty now here, and I wish I could bring Mom down for a while. She would really enjoy it. The people here are really something, they lead a dog's life. They have to get up real early, and go into these rooms until a bell rings and then they can come out, but pretty soon they have to go back in, and all the time the weather is so pretty, and the squirrels. . . Momma Mia! The other day I met a cute spaniel, and last night we romped in the arboretum like a couple of puppies . . . more fun. But most of the other dogs around here are a bunch of beasts from the east, like the ones that used to hang around the fire station back in Poughkeepsie.

Everybody keeps talking about something called Saturday classes and losers, so I imagine it's some sort of game they're playing and there're not many winners. When it's real hot, I go inside this big building with the steps and sleep all day long. At night, though, I have to leave because a lot of old men, they must be the guards, get together and play this game, Saturday classes. They come out laughing, though, so I guess they win all the time. It's really hard to figure out. Met a German Police here who knows Dan Dachshund from LA. . . used to make the rounds of all the firehydrants when they were together in the K-9 Corps . . .small world ain't it? But you have to watch your step and be careful what you eat around the Y. A person gave me a cup of dark looking stuff, it was hot too, to drink, and it made me sick as a human!!! Sometimes the old profs like to play tricks on me, especially the ones from the Chem building. They soak doughnuts in some bad tasting stuff and then offer it to me, but I bit one you know where yesterday, and they don't mess with me anymore. At night a bunch of us get together and go over to these places they call the pens, where a lot of girls stay and we bark and bark until they come to the window. Then we just sit and look at them, and howl.

Well, it's getting late and I'm supposed to meet some of the boys back of the Goody Shop. We're giving a friend of ours a going away party. He was drafted into the dog races.

Give everyone my best barks and I might be up in the fall.

Growls,
George

Express Yourself

Editor:

There is a situation in Chapel Hill that needs to be corrected. This problem can only be corrected by the students at the University.

This situation concerns the conduct of the students in the local movie houses. It seems that certain people go to the theater with only one purpose in mind. That purpose is not to see the movie or even to let other people enjoy the entertainment that the film might offer. These obnoxious people have gone there with the sole purpose of making noise and having a "big time" at the expense of others.

At a midnight movie about three weeks ago the disturbance reached its climax. Not only was there yelling and throwing of empty popcorn boxes but there was also quite a bit of vulgarity. This would not have given a visitor in Chapel Hill a very good impression of the students at the University. It is certain that he would go away wondering what has happened to the present generation. One, as a rule, would gape at the extent to which the parents and the University had failed.

Then, one begins to think. Are the parents and schools wholly at fault? The answer is probably "no". If people of this nature had received no guidance from their parents or the schools as to how to conduct themselves, merely the association with their fellow man would teach them the difference between right and wrong.

It is difficult to describe these persons. They surely don't conduct themselves as ones who have come to an institution of higher learning seeking to gain a fuller and richer life. And yet, they do not act as little kids. They do not place in either category. Actually, they conduct themselves as animals—animals that haven't been taught to have any respect or concern for their fellow beings.

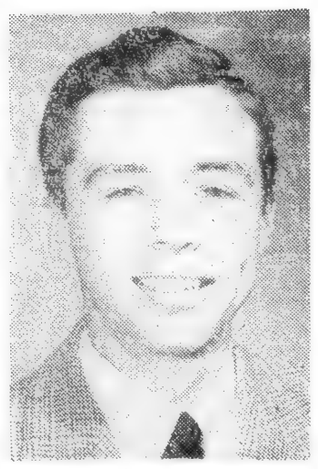
The whole solution depends on the fact that these guilty students must think not only how they are harming others, but also how they are harming themselves. Their reputation and future life are at stake and what they do in future years is dependent to a great extent on their actions at present.

The animal in the wilderness may live independently but the human being cannot live successfully without the help of those around him.

Allen Swann

"Does The Treaty With McCarthy Allow You To Keep Your Desk?"

Louis Kraar



Party Line

On Wade Matthews

Wade Matthews is a tall fellow with dark hair and lots of ideas on how to improve student government.

Matthews is running for student body president, as are three others, and is an independent candidate. Hailing from Winston-Salem, the former member of both campus political parties says he's not satisfied with either of them.

"Of course I think political parties should nominate their candidates for president. But once a president is elected, he should put political decisions into the background," said the candidate in his rather deep, quiet voice.

Wade Matthews

He speaks at a moderate volume, never raising his voice or taking on any of the other dramatic mannerisms peculiar to what students call "those politicians."

We finally, and inevitably, got around to talking about the average student's feelings toward student government. He said he had some very definite ideas on how to get students interested.

"Students need more information on their government," he said at supper the other night. We noticed that he didn't assume any sacharine sweet smile for the voters as they passed and greeted him. Matthews said students could get some of that information by a weekly mimeographed news sheet posted on bulletin boards. He said that was one of the planks in his platform.

He was also very keen on a student's committee on government. "It would be sort of like these citizen's committees for better government, nothing political. The group would act as an advisor to the president," he explained.

Matthews said he favored a voluntary Student Entertainment Program, National Student Association, some form of Consolidated University student government, and students having automobiles.

We asked the member of Legislature, the Phi Assembly, head of the Rules Committee how he felt his chances were.

"Well, I'm in this thing to win if I can," he said seriously. "I think student government business should be conducted on a strictly non-political basis. There's a lot of things that can be done, and I really think an independent can best do them."

Matthews reminded us again that he was an independent.

Sally Beaver

Welcome Semesterites

Welcome!

We the semesterites—we who woefully limp out of bed each Saturday morning to attend classes—we who count the year in terms of halves instead of thirds — we who live by an every-other-day schedule—welcome you into our company. We regret that you were forced into joining us; but with the command officially given it's time to investigate the possibilities and probabilities of Your Life under the Semester System. Or so your editor thought when he asked the Carolinian to point out the trials and tribulations, joys and delights of said system.

Because there's no question about it—you're going to have to do some adjusting—especially those of you who have never studied under any other schedule. But the picture is hardly as bleak and woeful as it has been painted. A glance around the state should be enough to assure you that life Can be Beautiful even with classes until noon six days a week—or have you the mistaken notion that students from Woman's College, State, Duke, Davidson, etc., are plunged into eternal melancholia? It just isn't so!

If we place the semester system and quarter system side by side we can see the major differences clearly. The quarter system divides the September-to-June academic year into thirds, with new terms beginning after the Christmas holidays and at the end of March. Students usually take three courses, occasionally four, per quarter, and meet each class every day Monday through Friday. There are no Saturday classes except in special cases. The semester system divides the same period into halves, with the mid-point coming in late January. Students usually take five courses, sometimes six, each semester. The classes meet on alternate days, so that an average schedule has three classes on MWF, two on TThS, or vice versa. Saturday classes end at 12 noon.

Those are the bare facts. What does it all mean? Well, for one thing, the fever and fret of semester final exams come only twice a year instead of three times—but more courses are covered at each exam period. It also means that you turn your new academic leaf about a month after you return from Christmas holidays, instead of at the same time you list your New Year's Resolutions; and that exams and term papers may hang heavy over your head during Christmas vacation. On the other hand, the pre-Christmas period is left comparatively free for holiday celebration often hampered by quarter system pre-holiday exams.

And how about this new class schedule? In the first place, your attention will be divided into more areas—five, usually. You will find that the every-other-day schedule is not so concise and tense as the day-after-day one. Come Monday evening, you can take your choice of studying for Tuesday's classes or for Wednesday's, or doing a little of both. There's no hard-and-fast rule that you must study every subject every night. (For one thing, with five subjects, it would be practically an impossible task.) You will have Latvian Literature, for example, drummed into your ears less times each week than under the quarter system, though the total number of class meetings will be approximately the same. This schedule makes for the same difference as does taking two teaspoons of Pepto-Bismol diluted to half-strength instead of one teaspoonful of the same stuff full-strength—same amount, but less concentration. Another thing —you'll probably have more term papers, but you'll also have a longer time scope in which to work on them.

And now we come to the Bugaboo of all college students—Saturday classes. For centuries, man has idealized the five day week. The University finally achieves it—and then the Trustees lower the boom, but good, and there you are marching to class on Saturdays as on Tuesdays. Does this spell the end of long weekends away—or of Friday night Germans, as a correspondent to The Daily Tar Heel wept a few weeks ago? Well, it's all up to you. A distinguished but unmentionable university in Durham has for years scheduled Shoe and Slipper weekends each autumn and spring: and these weekends feature a Friday night dance, a Saturday afternoon concert, and a Saturday night dance, even though the students have classes on Saturday morning. Davidson College does the same thing. Can't the Tar Heels do as well?

Unless the cuts system is unusually rigid, the majority of the student body will be able to cut Saturday classes to go home on the weekends quite frequently. And, no matter what they say, in many cases it is quite possible to arrange a semester schedule with no Saturday classes. This is very unlikely in the freshman and sophomore years, but when upperclassmen start specializing, it can be done. Not unfrequently students are able to take every class they want and still miss sixth-day lectures; other students will grab any old course available on MWF to keep from taking one that meets on Saturday. This latter course we wouldn't advise for anyone who's really serious about getting an education—it's a great deal wiser to depend on cuts.

We at Woman's College have no fondness for Saturday classes as such. But we have found one good result from them. Although they seldom keep a student on campus when there's a big weekend event elsewhere, they do keep her from running home every weekend. And it's the weekend atmosphere, relaxed and young and leisurely and so different from the rush and rattle of the mid-week schedule that builds the campus spirit to a high peak. Once used to the new systew, you Tar Heels may discover something new in Chapel Hill, the University campus, and your fellow students which has hitherto escaped your notice. (But don't forget us on Saturday nights!)

As has been said—it's all up to you. It's a change and a challenge. We're waiting to see what our brother college will do with it.

Down In Front

by Biff Roberts

How Do You Do It?

FOR MANY YEARS OTHER COLLEGES in the nation have wondered at the perennial success of Carolina's track teams. Year after year the Tar Heel runners have dominated the Southern Conference, most of the time their teams ranked highly in the nation. How, these other colleges asked, could Carolina continue to be at the top when it counted on home-grown athletes, some of whom hadn't run track before coming here. The willingness of such Coaches as Dale Ranson and Joe Hikton to work with inexperienced boys has for the most part been the answer.

After a short talk with Coach Dale you can understand how he has kept his sport going so well here at Carolina. In the past he has always done everything in his power to boost the sport not only here at Carolina, but at high schools throughout the State. It's Coach Dale's theory that any high school in the State, regardless of size, can have a track team. He bears this theory out in a recent mimeographed brochure he has sent to the various North Carolina high schools. The brochure is a brief run-down on how to establish a team and organize and run a track meet.

An Epistle To Others

COACH DALE'S EPISTLE briefly sets up the rules for a track program, describes the events, and even tells performers how to run, jump, throw the shot, etc. In addition, the brochure tells prospective coaches the best way to conduct a week's practice and gives references for those who want to know more about the sport. The booklet in five short pages furnishes enough information to get a good high school track team set up.

It is this sort of theory of establishing the sport in the high schools that has boosted track here at Carolina. In past years, Coaches Bob Fetzer, Ranson, and Hilton have even developed boys who hadn't run in high school. By starting boys on the sport in high school you can imagine how much further ahead our track program will be when the boys get here.

The track program here is for the most part supported by Carolina athletes who are doing it for the sport of it. Few grants in aid are offered, and aid which is offered is usually given out in small amounts. It is a sport which as Coach Dale says does not require great size or lack of it from its athletes. He asks only that his men try out for the team—ability can be developed in time.

Building A Team

IT IS THROUGH WORK LIKE THIS that track, essentially a low-budget sport, has maintained such prominence here at Carolina. In addition to this brochure Coach Dale has also gone to the trouble to compile all-time records not only for the Southern Conference spring meet but also for the annual Indoor games. He always supplies the sports desks with good publicity on his teams. Coach Dale relies on publicity by word and mouth of the Carolina students to do a lot of his recruiting, too. He can refer to numerous of his past stars who came here because Carolina students had talked to them and told them of Carolina's greatness.

It's a policy of building at home that has kept Carolina track well known over the country. With an increase in the spreading of that policy you can be sure that the sport will continue as one of Carolina's finest.

Football Time Again

WHAT WITH ALL THE ACCENT on the spring sports, football practice has taken a side-line. Still it will be just a week from this Saturday that the squad will split up to play the eighth annual Blue-White game in Kenan Stadium. A lot of people are interested in new coach George Barclay and what he can do with the Carolina team which had such foul luck last year. Certainly you can look for great improvement. The team learned a lot from those shellackings taken last year. Fortunately, few seniors were lost and even the freshmen who played last fall can be regarded as tried veterans now.

Like its predecessors this eighth Blue-White game ought to be a good one. If you want to get a few football cheers make plans to stay over the weekend of April 18—the game ought to be a greater inducement to stay here than Saturday classes.

Tennis Team Beats Dartmouth, 15-0

Netters Take Eleventh Straight Win

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina tennis team was still looking for some opposition yesterday afternoon after they had breezed through the Dartmouth lineup and defeated them 15-0. The whole team only lost one set.

It was the eleventh straight victory for the Tar Heels and not a one of the victories has been in doubt at any minute during the contest. Yesterday the only ones to lose a set were Ronnie Kerdasha and Bruce Gustafson in the fourth doubles match. They won their other two sets easily.

The lineup of the first six singles position was the same except for the number six position which Kerdasha held down today after beating Pete Green out in a challenge match. Kerdasha appears to be the most improved player on the squad over last year and has developed some very good shots.

Del Sylvia in the number one position and won an easy 6-0, 6-3 victory over Stu Stearns. The players will be shifted around for the match this afternoon and Sylvia will be playing number two behind Tom Bradford.

Bradford scored a win yesterday over Bill Crotty 6-2, 6-0.

Don Thompson and Bradford, who usually play in the third doubles position, were shifted up to the number one spot yesterday and had no trouble at all. They defeated Stearns and Steve Past 6-2, 6-3.

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Stearns (D), 6-0, 6-3; Bradford (UNC) defeated Crotty (D), 6-2, 6-0; Browne (UNC) defeated Fast (D), 7-5, 6-1; Payne (UNC) defeated Blount (D), 6-1, 6-2; Thompson (UNC), defeated Anzel (D), 6-1, 6-2; Kerdasha (UNC), defeated Archibald (D), 6-1, 6-1; Green (UNC), defeated Ness (D), 6-1, 6-0; Gustafson (UNC) defeated Pessl (D), 6-1, 6-0; Handel (UNC), defeated Carleton (D), 6-0, 6-4; Izlar (UNC), defeated Rogers (D), 6-0, 6-3.

Doubles—Thompson and Bradford (UNC), defeated Stearns and Fast (D), 6-2, 6-3; Green and Sylvia (UNC), defeated Crotty and Archibald (D), 6-1, 6-4; Browne and Payne (UNC), defeated Blount and Pessl (D), 6-2, 7-5; Kerdasha and Gustafson (UNC), defeated Anzel and Hess (D), 6-4, 4-6, 6-3; Gordon and Lynch (UNC), defeated Carleton and Rogers (D), 6-4, 6-4.

Against Michigan

Golf Team Goes For Fifth Today

Carolina's golf team will go for its fifth straight win of the season today at 1:30 in a match with the University of Michigan on Finley course.

Carolina has had little trouble with northern and southern teams alike, with a Conference victory over The Citadel and wins over Williams, Ohio, and Notre Dame.

Coach Chuck Erickson may make one change in his lineup, putting Lou Brown in the number six position in place of John Frazier.

Besides that possible change, the same lineup of Bob Black, Bill Williamson, Bill Thornton, Jim Ferree, and Billy Ford should shoot with the Wolverines.

Black has played steady golf all season to keep his number one spot, and was the fourth lowest amateur in the Greater Greensboro Open last week. Ford is the only newcomer on the squad, which was the Conference champ last year. Ford is a freshman from Charleston, S. C., and has shot some of the best golf on the team.

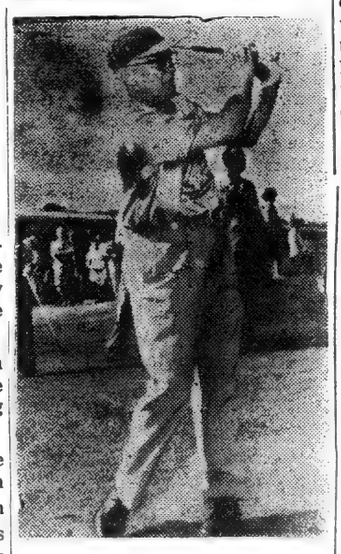
The golf team doesn't have another match until this Sunday when it goes on the road to meet the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, Va. The Tar Heels open their Big Four play next week on April 18 against N. C. State.

Today's match is admission free and open to the public.

Greek Week Pledge Relays Held Today

All fraternity pledges participating in Greek Week will compete today at four o'clock on Navy Field in the Greek Week Pledge Relays.

Five events are scheduled, with the team ranking highest in the greatest number of events winning the Relays.



(1) Up down relay: Teams are in even squad files of eight to ten men each, with a medicine ball in front of each squad. The ball is passed through the legs of squad members, and the last man carries it over the backs of the stooping squad to the front.

(2) Shuttle dash relay: Squads of eight to ten men are split up, with one man dashing to the other squad on a signal, and touching another runner who dashes back, the first squad to finish winning.

(3) Jump stick relay: On the same order as the other relays, but squad members must leap over a baseball bat wielded by themselves before continuing the race.

(4) Obstacle relay: Runners must hurdle obstacles along course.

(5) Tug of war: A round robin tournament, with three points awarded for each win.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER warms up in anticipation of his golfing trip next weekend. The president will be on the links while Vice-President Nixon throws out the season's first baseball.

Monogram Meet

The Monogram Club will hold its weekly meeting tonight in the club room at 7:15.

All members are asked to attend. Final plans for the Blue-White game will be made.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Pi Lamb vs. Sig Nu; Field 2, Lewis vs. Aycock; Field 3, BVP vs. Winston; Field 4, Chi Psi vs. Phi Delt.

5:00—Field 1, Delt Sig vs. Kap Psi; Field 2, Delt Psi vs. SPE; Field 3, English Club vs. Med Sch-3; Field 4, Med Sch-2 vs. Alexander.

BUDDY KLEIN
and the
Statesman Orchestra
Write Box 5533—Tel. 21873
Raleigh, N. C.

It Pays To Play

Have Your Racket Restrung Now At
The Carolina Sport Shop

The_____Room
of the Ranch House
invites you
Friday and Saturday Night
music by the
GIBSON JACKSON TRIO
Dancing Couples Only
Cover—$1.50 per couple
Call the Ranch House for Reservations
Help us name the room and win a prize. First customer to suggest the winning name wins a steak dinner for two. Other prizes.

The finest selection of Sport Shirts for Spring and Summer, styled by these Famous names: Botany, Van Heusen, Enro, Hanes and Stradivari.

THE TOWN & CAMPUS

Jack Burke Views Chances For Masters Starting Today

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8—(Special)—Take whatever you can make in practice—without conceding any putts—add four strokes, and you have what you can expect to make in the Masters Tournament if you're playing well.

That's how Jack Burke, the smiling, curly-haired Texan who was runner-up to Sam Snead last year, figures the difference between the Augusta National Course and the course that a record field will play in the main event, starting tomorrow.

Burke had just taken something of a drubbing in an informal match against four of the toughest customers in the pro golf business—Ben Hogan, Carey Middlecoff, Jimmy Demaret and Claude Harmon—when he sat down to estimate his chances of winning. He hadn't been putting very well, even though the greens were comparatively soft and slow after Monday's rain.

"The greens won't be the same when the tournament starts," Jackie said sadly. "Look at the difference in the scores the first two days and the last two every year."

"They always have a wind that dries out the greens and makes them different. Then they put water on the greens at night and let the wind blow. If they ever have four still days in succession, somebody will break the course record."

With a record field of 75 or more expected to start, Snead, Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum were bracketed as the favorites.

Others who must be considered are Burke; Al Besselink, Tommy Bolt and Jim Ferrier, who finished in a three way tie for third; Middlecoff, Ted Kroll, Doug Ford and Lew Worsham. They all have been hot in recent tournaments.

Interested In Modern Writing?

Ernest Hemingway, a full-length critical analysis by Professor Philip Young of New York University.—$3.00.

Points of View—critical writings by T. S. Eliot.—$1.25.

The American Twenties, edited with an introduction by John K. Hutchens. A wonderful sampling of the period that saw the rise of Fitzgerald, Wolfe, Anderson, Hemingway, Dreiser, and dozens of others.—$5.00.

And A Bargain

Ross and the New Yorker, by Dale Kramer. The fabulous story of the magazine and its brilliant editor. A best seller at $3.75. Our special —$1.89.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Here Are Phys Ed, CAA Budgets

Woollen Gym's Figures Show $163,868 Operating Expenses

Woollen Gymnasium as of February 28, 1953

Purpose and/or Objects	Budget
3201 Salaries and Wages	86,000.00
3202 Supplies and Materials	22,000.00
3203 Postage, Tel. and Tel.	200.00
3204 Heat, Light, Power and Water	24,000.00
3205 Repairs and Alterations	7,000.00
3206 General Expense	1,000.00
3207 Laundry	17,000.00
3208 Equipment	6,393.00
3210 Insurance	275.00
TOTAL	$163,868.00
Debt Service	12,531.00
GRAND TOTAL	$176,399.00

SP Promise Makes Issue Of Student $

(Compulsory payment of fees by students to the Physical Education Department and the Carolina Athletic Association has become a major issue in the current political campaign. The Daily Tar Heel feels it will be of value to all concerned if the budgets of both organizations are presented for public view before election day. We reprint the statements as they were submitted to us, with comment only where it might be helpful to understanding the various items. —Ed.)

On the left is a reprint of this fiscal year's operating statement for Woollen Gymnasium.

The fee levied on students for this expense is $10 per student per quarter, or $30 per year.

The Student Party platform carries a pledge to attempt to establish "a plan for the voluntary payment of these fees." SP feels there are many students who don't use the gym facilities and who shouldn't be billed for the $10 fee. Rather, they should choose beforehand whether or not they intend to use the gym.

In the Woollen Gymnasium statement at left, the item "salaries and wages" means money paid to physical education personnel only, not coaches of intercollegiate athletics. The term "debt service" represents the annual sum paid toward retiring the debt originally incurred by the construction of the gym itself.

On the right is a reprint of the Carolina Athletic Association's operating statement for the period from July 1, 1952 to Feb. 28, 1953, a period of eight months.

Each student pays a fee of $3.33 each quarter, $10 per year, towards the operation of the CAA. Athletic Director C. P. Erickson says the total of student fees amounts to about one-eighth of the total expenses of that organization. "It's the best bargain around today that I know of," Erickson said.

In the statement at right, the term "profit from sports" takes in any profit gained by any intercollegiate athletic squad at Carolina. Actually though, football is the only sport that makes any real profit, and it supports the deficits incurred by other sports.

The term "salaries—coaching" refers to money paid to coaches of intercollegiate athletic teams during the eight-month period of the statement.

Athletic Association Spent $299,808 First 2 Quarters

U.N.C. Athletic Association operating statement for the period from July 1, 1952 to February 28, 1953.

Income:
Postage and Insurance	1,455.64
Profit from sports	239,633.63
Student Fees	27,957.15
Golf Fees	9,312.90
Season Tickets	6,290.69
Other Income	1,370.24
Golf Store Profit	77.36
Radio and Television	7,287.50
Interest	63.39
Concessions	6,359.76
TOTAL INCOME	$299,808.26

Expense:
Repairs to Buildings	160.17
Repairs to Grounds	380.40
Salaries—Coaching	59,537.34
Salaries—Others	33,777.67
Salaries—Phys. Ed	100.00
Salaries—Student Assistants	2,624.83
Labor Grounds	35,958.95
Tutoring	4,150.45
Supplies and Equipment	18,684.31
Supplies—Grounds and Floor	1,986.80
Telephone, Telegraph and Postage	4,428.01
Travel	8,888.15
Motor Vehicles	1,483.07
Scouting Teams	3,259.21
News Bureau Appropriation	10,635.28
Repairs to Equipment	8,911.92
Heat, Power, Water	1,696.01
Miscellaneous	4,356.94
Subscriptions and Dues	544.38
Laundry	4,148.87
Meals, Training Expense	24,713.27
Medical Supplies	3,158.29
Medical and Hospital	1,528.31
Band	1,551.19
Insurance and Bonding	1,506.49
Printing	917.88
Additions and Betterments	2,223.00
Other appropriations	560.00
Yackety Yack Appropriation	1,000.00
Auditing and Bookkeeping	750.00
TOTAL EXPENSE	$243,621.19
Net Gain	$ 56,187.07

—Penegar—

(Continued from page 1)

worked out whereby the series could run for more than one night so that all students could see and hear the entertainment."

4. Student member Board of Trustees. "Of course I am in favor of it. It was one of our original platform planks, one I might add that has been most well received. The student on the board could represent student opinion before and during the time that important decisions are being made, not after as was done on the Saturday class issue."

5. Book Exchange. "Their prices are too high; re-sale value of books is too low. I would suggest that the Book X slack up on its profit-making attempts and try to give the students a fairer price for their books."

Phi Assembly Votes For Reorganization Of CUSC

The Phi Assembly went on record Tuesday night as favoring the basic reorganization of the Consolidated University Student Council.

They stipulated, however, that the reorganization must be done "in such a way that each school will present its own views to the consolidated administration."

—CUSC—

(Continued from page 1)

earlier that he would attend the meeting, said yesterday he wouldn't. "I'm not going to the meeting because I feel that if we're not united here, nothing will be gained there."

Jim McLeod and Creacy were reported by Horton as having quit the three-school group. Both McLeod and Creacy said yesterday that they have not resigned. Horton said it was an error on his part.

Adams, Horton, and Virginia Hall are the only members who have quit the CUSC.

Square Dance

The first in a series of Spring square dances will be held Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the Y Court.

Sponsored by the YMCA, the dance will be called by Carl Gregory. Fold dances will be handled by Cy Herzog. There will be singing and refreshments between dances.

RALEIGH—Bills calling for a state-wide liquor referendum were quietly buried by two legislative committees yesterday. The House Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns by an overwhelming voice vote gave an unfavorable report to one referendum bill. About two hours later the Senate Committee on Propositions and Grievances voted to postpone indefinitely on an identical measure.

What Goes On Here

WUNC

WUNC is a non-commercial FM radio station operated by the University at a frequency of 91.5 mc.

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Man and The Universe.
7:45—The People Talk Back.
9—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club meets this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining room at Lenoir Hall.

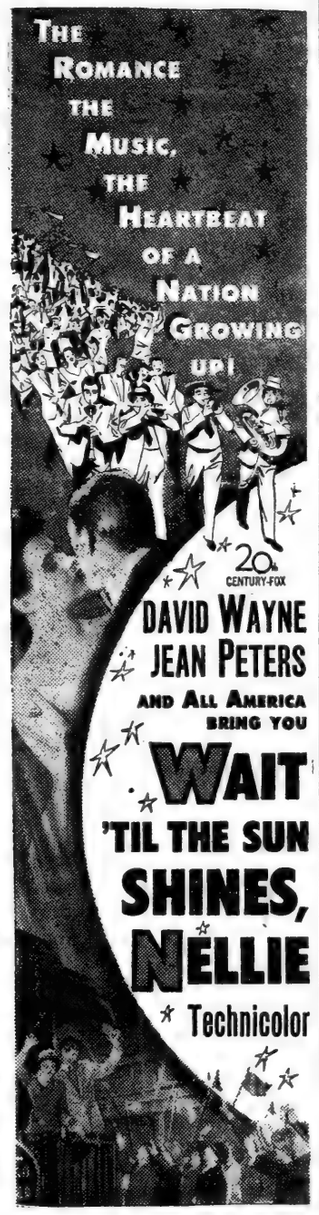
Cheer Leaders

There will be a meeting of the cheerleaders in Roland Parker Lounge No. 2 this afternoon at 4, rather than yesterday as announced previously.

Semper Fidelis

The Semper Fidelis Society will meet at 7:30 tonight in the Naval Armory. Pre-election discussions are on the agenda.

Dorm Dwellers



The Housing Office reminds men dormitory residents they should make room deposits for summer and fall sessions by April 20 if they expect to get room reservations. Fee for the summer session is $15 and for fall, $6. Deposits should be made at the cashier's office in the basement of South Building.

Freshman Camp

The YMCA Freshman Camp Planning Committee will meet tonight at 7 on the second floor of the Y. The agenda includes plans for recreation at camp, publicizing the camp to incoming freshmen and training group leaders. Students interested in helping with the freshman camp are invited to attend.

Remember
every Thursday is spaghetti day. All you can eat with a free glass of beer or wine.
99¢
THE RATHSKELLER

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

MUST SELL: 1951 STUDEBAKER Land Cruiser. 34,000 miles—all extras. ½ price. Call 9-6519 after 4:30 p.m. 1-3498-2

LOST

J. C. HIGGINS BICYCLE—BLUE and rather beat up. Last seen in back of Cobb Dorm. Reward—Contact Pete Jones, 306 Cobb. 1-3497-3

GREY CASHMERE SWEATER with Phi Delta Theta Fraternity pin on it—Between University Drive and Cobb Dorm. Reward. Call Bill Baker. Ph. 5041. 103494-2

FOR RENT

3 ROOM FURNISHED APARTment. Phone 9-3661. 1-c3499-1

Interested In Games?

Jacoby on Poker—Here's the poker book you've been looking for. As up-to-date as a jet, and not too snooty to include things like spit-in-the-ocean. Covers technique and rules—$2.00.

Culbertson Point Count Bidding—The old maestro rallies round with a new winning system of bridge that includes the newest approach to accurate bidding.—$1.50.

Contract Bridge Complete. Many a chap has cursed his bidding when the real fault lay in a lack of skill at play. Let Goren help you develop an all-round game.—$3.95.

And a Bargain

Complete Canasta Revised—Rules and canny methods of play for the best of the Rummy family of card games. Was $1.75. Now $1.00.

THERE'S A BOOK YOU NEED IN
The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Ratio Be Damned! Take Your Pick Of 2,500 Gals

STORY IN COLUMN ONE

WEATHER
Continued fair and mild with 75 high. Yesterday's high, 72; low, 49.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 126 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1953 | SIX PAGES TODAY

IMPEACH
The editors talk about the student president—old political safety. See p. 2.

VOTE ON FEE MAY BE HELD

WC Set To Greet 2 Brother Schools

GREENSBORO, April 9—(Special)—Students from the three branches of the Greater University will gather at Women's College Saturday in observance of Consolidated University Day.

Consolidated University President Gray may be present to extend his welcome to the assembly. His plans were not definite yesterday, due to a heavily crowded schedule.

Activities for the weekend will begin Saturday afternoon with pool, skating, bowling, ping-pong and other games scheduled in the gymnasium. Dinner will be served cafeteria style from 5 p.m. to 6 o'clock.

Linc Smith and his orchestra will furnish music for Saturday night's dance in the new Student Union Ballroom from 8:30 until 12 o'clock. Also on the agenda for Saturday night is a talent show from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Each year, a different branch of the Greater University plays host to the festive occasion. Last year, the celebration was held at the University in Chapel Hill.

Plan Now To Attend
CONSOLIDATED
UNIVERSITY DAY
TOMORROW

• APRIL • 11

At
W. C.—Greensboro
Dance—Girls—Skits

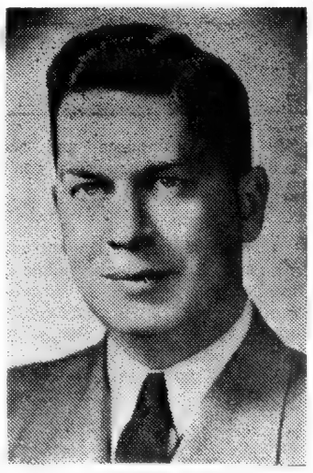
Good Music, Modern Decor Just For You

The redecorated Rendezvous Room opens tonight at 7 o'clock with a new atmosphere that features soft lights and music in the modern manner.

With a change in redecoration of tables and seating facilities, the Rendezvous Room has an indirect lighting system that lends itself to the overall decor.

The Juke box has been moved to the main dance floor and the bandstand, along with the entire interior, repainted. Arrangements have been made to provide live music from time to time during the remainder of the quarter.

New emphasis in the Rendezvous Room is on dynamic motion and sound. Couches have been placed in the late evening trystring place along with harmonious coffee tables and lamps.



The red bar has been replaced and is backed by murals in a distinctly Gillespie tone. It will be staffed nightly by uniformed waiters.

The new Rendezvous Room, with its futuristic atmosphere and contemporary motif, was designed and executed by Bill Stonestreet, asistant director of Graham Memorial.

It will be open nightly from 7 o'clock until coed hours.

ED WERGELES

JOHN H. COLBURN

Photographers Hear Experts Lecture Here

Some 200 photographers from dozen states arrived yesterday for the Fourth Annual Southern Short Course for Photographers.

The three-day program is designed to give cameramen attending the course a load of first-hand information from experts in the field of photography.

The program is sponsored by the Carolinas Press Photography Association in cooperation with the National Press Photographers Association, the North Carolina Press Association and the University Extension Division.

Designed to help working photographers get better pictures, the short course is planned as a series of lectures, demonstrations and exhibits.

Today's program will continue with a number of other lectures and demonstrations and will be topped off with a visit to Durham for the Perry Como Chesterfield Show in the Duke Indoor Stadium.

Tomorrow will be Editor's Day which will feature a program including John Colburn, managing editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch; Vincent Jones of the Gannett Newspapers; Ed Wergeles, chief photographer of Newsweek Magazine and Allan Gould of the Associated Press, New York.

CAA Will End Sporting Year With Big Loss

Although its budget now shows a hefty profit, the Carolina Athletic Association this year will lose $50,000—or more.

The impending deficit was announced yesterday by Woollen Gym officials in connection with the CAA budget which was released Thursday.

While the net gain up to Feb. 28 was $56,187, this did not take into account the fact that during Spring Quarter the CAA loses about $33,000 a month over its total income. Spring sports, as well as basketball, are operated at a loss with football being the only money maker.

This year's deficit will be the first time the CAA has gone into the red in several years.

The idea of putting student athletic fees on a voluntary basis, advanced by the Student Party, concerns two payments each quarter. One is $3.33 to the Carolina Athletic Association, the same group which will have a $50,000 plus deficit this year. The other fee is $10 and goes to operate Woollen Gym. Both fees are mandatory.

So far, there has been no comment at all by athletic officials about the $10 Woollen Gym fee. Dr. O. K. Cornwell, gym spokesman, will be out of town until Monday.

The $3.33 fee issue, however, is still stirring official comment. Vernon Crook, ticket office manager and CAA treasurer said yesterday:

"There is no practical way of administering the fee on a voluntary basis. In the absence of a fee, the students would be compelled to pay the same price as everybody else for the use of facilities and admission to athletic events.

"I would like to emphasize that this fee is not an admission charge but a membership fee in the Carolina Athletic Association."

The membership fee enables the CAA, thus the student, to avoid paying federal admissions tax on student tickets. Technically, students never get a ticket. Their pass book is legally only for identification purposes.

At the ticket gate, the student turns in his "ID coupon" in return for a seating card.

As sold to the public, a season's worth of football tickets would cost $18.50.

The student fee of $3.33 was set in 1913 at student request. It has never gone up since that time. According to the CAA, student fees comprise about one-tighth of the athletic fund.

Rule On Drinking May Get Revision

By John Jamison

A long-sought possible revision of the coed visiting agreement has reached the most advanced stage in its tedious history.

The University administration is now considering a proposal submitted recently by the Inter-Fraternity Council "to remove some contradictions" from catalogue and Woman's Handbook rules concerning coed visiting and drinking in fraternity houses.

The IFC proposal, if adopted by the University, would maintain similar visiting rules for coeds and imports and establish faculty visiting boards for each house. The IFC Court would enforce visiting rules, and individual violators would be tried by the appropriate campus court.

The proposal now under consideration would place more emphasis of self-restraint by men and women in respect to fraternity house drinking. It would, in effect, allow women to drink in the houses, governed by their own judgment and the Campus Code.

The "contradictions," or actually inconsistencies referred to in current discussions are the fact that drinking is dealt with by two separate University regulations: One, in the catalogue, says "the faculty is directed to discipline or dismiss from the University any student who is known to engage in drinking intoxicating liquors," and the other, in The Woman's Handbook, says "Women students may not consume alcoholic beverages, or remain in the presence of anyone doing so, while in the house."

Should the administration approve the IFC proposal, it would then consult the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees since the original regulation was instituted by the Trustees. The rule was placed in the catalogue about 1905.

There has been talk about fraternity houses being required to tear out bars under any possible new ruling. However, there has been no mention made of this in any sessions so far.

Since about 1940, fraternities have sought to remove the prohibition clause. A more intense effort was begun last year by IFC president John Robinson and continued this year by Presidents Jake

(See ADMINISTRATION, page 6)

CAMPUS SEEN

History prof's quip after noting absence of politician, fee-abolisher Ken Penegar: "He's probably down at Woollen Gym. . . . and never will be seen again."

*

Folk music enthusiasts in secret session as strains from hillbilly voices and instruments waft from behind closed door of Journalism Dean Oscar J. Coffin's office.

*

Kappa Alpha sitting in class scratching itchy beard grown for Old South blowout, a week hence.

Columbia Prof Hits AAU For Probe Policy

NEW YORK, April 8—(Special)—"In intellectual matters freedom is either unqualified or it does not exist," Prof. Robert S. Lynd of Columbia University said yesterday in a statement on the current investigation of Communists in education.

Dr. Lynd said that the recent announcement by the Association of American Universities on common policy toward any Congressional investigations of their faculty members is the most serious blow that education has received.

Dr. Lynd made the statement before a meeting of the Columbia Chapter of the American Association of University Professors with 200 faculty members attending. He said that most faculty members regard the investigation policy as an offer by the universities to men like Sen. Joseph McCarthy "to take over and carry on their aims and their work for them in the field of education."

Bill Introduced For Referendum On Gym Levy

By Louis Kraar

The Student Party last night backed a legislative bill calling for a poll of campus opinion on a voluntary gym fee system.

As Gene Cook (SP) read the lengthy bill dealing with one of the Spring campaign's most controversial issues, Sol Cherry (UP) uttered a long, low moan. The speaker called for order and got it. Cherry stopped groaning.

Cook tried to suspend rules so that the bill could be considered at once. But the required two-thirds majority wasn't reached.

The bill said: "A campus-wide poll, in the form of a referendum, will be held in order to ascertain student sentiment concerning the establishment of a voluntary system of payment of the quarterly fee of $10 all students who are not taking courses which involve the use of the gymnasium."

This poll will only show student opinion. Any action on this system must come from the administration.

Abolition of compulsory gym fees is one of the Student Party's top campaign issues. Political pros and cons of the present system have filled candidates' conversations and newspaper columns for several days now.

The referendum, according to the bill, was scheduled for the first week in May. The bill will be on the floor for discussion next week, after the election. But it will probably be in the political limelight because a runoff is anticipated by many observers.

The Consolidated University Student Council bill, which gives the Legislature power to appoint CUSC delegates if the president fails to do so, was passed without debate.

The bill gives the student lawmakers power to fill the present vacancies. And the Legislature took advantage of them appointing Tom McDonald (SP-UP), Baxter Miller (SP), Bill Brown (I) and Frank Plot (SP) to fill gaps left in the three-school group.

There seemed to be some doubt about whether the new CUSC appointees can officially represent Carolina at tomorrow's meeting in Greensboro. In order for a bill to be law, the president must consider it.

President Horton may either veto it or approve it. But, either way no action is likely before tomorrow.

Cook (SP) felt that the Legislature might have the power to make the appointments without Horon's approval. According to the legislator, the method in which appointees are picked is up to the Legislature.

Voting against the CUSC bill were John Cauble, Seymore Bayne, Gordon Battle, Sol Cherry, Dave Clinard, Raben Leonard, Julia Shields and Ann Street all University Party representatives.

Senior Week Plans Feature Tex Beneke, 'Barefoot Day'

Plans for a Senior Week that features a free movie, a day of legal class cuts and music by Tex Beneke, were announced yesterday.

The week officially opens on May 11, "Senior Barefoot Day," when all seniors will be privileged to meet class without shoes.

On Tuesday night, May 12, there will be a free movie at the Carolina Theatre for all Seniors. The movie will be shown at 11 o'clock and coeds will have late permission.

During the day, students may place their names in a box at the Y Court for a contest drawing which will take place the next day.

All seniors will be excused from classes on Wednesday for meetings with their deans. Seniors will meet in Memorial Hall at 10 o'clock and then go to individual meetings with their deans at 11 o'clock.

Meeting places and speakers for the respective schools are:

Arts and Science majors, Dean Clifford P. Lyons, Gerrard Hall.

Education majors, Dean Guy Phillips, Peabody Hall.

Business Administration majors, Dean T. H. Carroll, Carroll Hall.

Journalism majors, Professor Walter Spearman, Bynum Hall.

Pharmacy seniors will meet with Dean E. A. Brecht at Howell Hall at 9 a.m. instead of 11 o'clock.

The afternoon activities on Wednesday will take place at Hogan's Lake. Games and contests will begin at 2 o'clock and there will be a weiner roast at 5 p.m.

Also in the afternoon, the Queen of May Court will draw names from the boxes left in Y Court on Tuesday for prizes donated by Chapel Hill merchants. A combo will furnish Dixieland music during the evening.

There will be no activities on Thursday and Friday, but the main event will be on Monday night, May 18, at 8 o'clock when Tex Beneke will play a two hour concert in Memorial Hall.

Juniors have been invited to the Hogan's party on Wednesday and to the Beneke concert in Memorial Hall. They will not be excused from any classes.

The faculty has also been invited to join the activities and one Senior Class Social Committee member expressed hope that they would actively participate.

The Senior Class Social Committee, which has charge of the entire program, includes Steve Perrow, chairman; Grace Gordon, Toni Kelly, Grace Doar, Judy Taylor, Charlie Trent, Jim Lester, Buddy Heins and Buddy Baarke.

TEX BENEKE

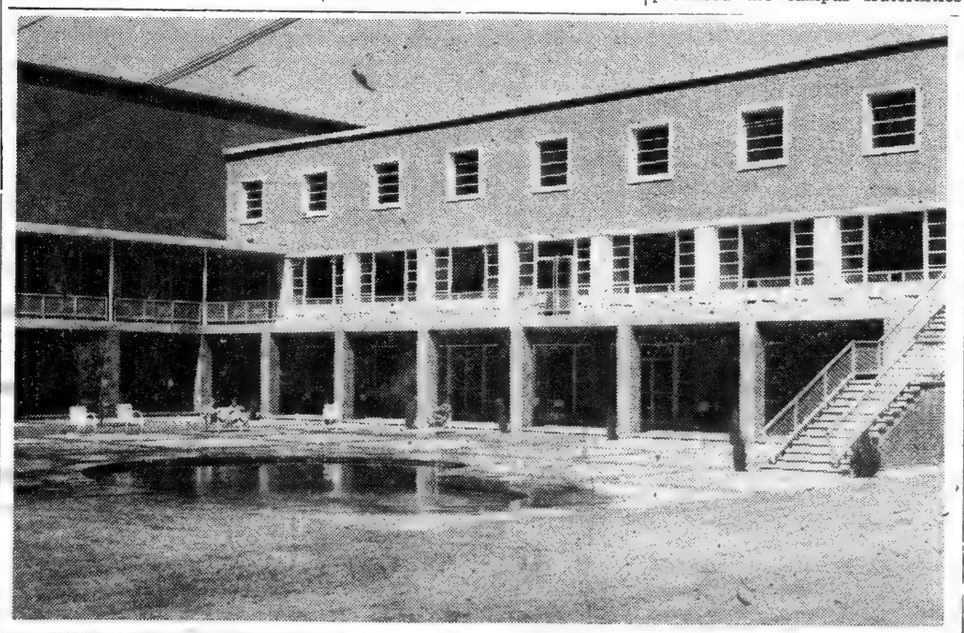
THETA CHI INITIATES

Alpha Eta chapter of Theta Chi initiated five new members Wednesday, April 8. The new initiates are Bill Ellis, Shelby; Mack Ammore, Wilmington; Eugene Roberts, Pikeville, Borden Henley, High Point; and Del O. Torrence, Cornelius.

UP Pledges To Fight Removing Bars, Second Quarter Rushing

The University Party yesterday promised the campus fraternities that it will fight any move to do away with bars in fraternities or to institute a system of second quarter rushing.

The promise was issued in a letter sent to the fraternities by Walt McFall, UP chairman.



"In regard to fraternities," said the mimeographed letter, "the University Party will fight any attempt on the part of the administration or students to do away with bars in fraternity houses, or to institute a system of second quarter rushing, which you and I know could mean the eventual weakening of the fraternity system on this campus.

"We further will do everything in our power to get prompt action on the coed drinking rule. The rest of our program is outlined in the platform."

McFall's letter said the UP would not base student government appointments on "some silly civil service plank, but we shall attempt to see that every organization has an equal share in student government."

The opening part of the letter stated that, through the efforts of the UP, student government participation has gone up 50 per

(See UP PLEDGES, page 2)

THIS MODERNISTIC BUILDING IS the new student union at Woman's College in Greensboro. This shot is taken looking into the court of the union from behind Alumnae House, the building formerly housing WC's student activities. The new union will be the focal point of tomorrow's Consolidated University Day activities.

Finance Unit Favors UNC

RALEIGH, April 9—The Finance Committee of the State House of Representatives voted late today to give a favorable report to the Legislature on the University at Chapel Hill's request for a permanent improvements bond issue in the amount of $1,001,000.

The committee also will recommend that the bill (HB 941) be considered immediately by the legislators. It will probably be taken up Friday morning.

Favorable report from the Finance Committee is usually an indication a bill will be successful on the floor. However, some amendments may be made.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull | Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter | Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Peace, It's Wonderful

Woollen Gym fees costing $10 a year should be established on a voluntary basis.

Undergraduates in their junior and senior years, graduates in law and other schools, even regular students who don't take physical ed classes should not have to pay for a service which they don't want and don't receive.

Woollen Gym services are unique. A clean athletic outfit is always provided. Equipment, facilities, coaching advice, and other values couldn't be better. But the fact remains that more than a nominal amount of students just find it physically impossible to utilize the gym. If it were a tiny minority, say even two hundred students, there would be no real problem. But the fee covers people, to the number of several hundreds who don't have the time to use the gym. There are also those who flatly don't want to use the facilities; a larger group of students who would like to use the gym, don't have the time.

If the Woollen gym program were wrecked because of a voluntary operation, the campus would miss it. But a formal request to the General Assembly on the part of the administration should be made. If the state is sincere about wanting to provide fairly inexpensive education for its citizenry, then it has an obligation to pay this $10 fee.

The other Student Party proposal—that of making membership in the Athletic Association voluntary—is not sound, we believe. More students, a large and clear majority, attend some athletic contest during the year. The $3.30 is a tiny sum compared to actual gains derived through membership in the Association.

There may be a certain number of students who never go to football games, who would like to abolish athletics. But they amount to perhaps dozens rather than hundreds.

The Numbers

Tomorrow should be a day of great fun-making, general happiness, and congenial introduction for the three student bodies of the Consolidated University are having a get-together in the new student union at Greensboro.

The occasion is Consolidated University Day. But some of the folks from State and W.C. will be angered because they will say there is no such thing as a Consolidated University on the student level. And they will quote Carolina's student president Ham Horton to prove their point. How can we have a three-branch student council without Carolina in it?

Horton says one of his main reasons for pulling out is to emphasize his point that there are irreconcilable differences among the three schools. He is saying that the kind of consolidation now in existence on the student level just won't work.

The Daily Tar Heel believes that Horton and the rest of the quitters of Carolina's delegation have acted in extreme haste and in bad faith. They have admittedly not tried to bring about the kind of reform that they want through regular procedure. Why quit when you don't know whether you've really been defeated or not?

Letter writer Tenney in another column suggests that Horton along with the presidential appointees to the council be impeached since the council has been dissolved according to Horton. There is some merit in this suggestion. The circumstances may be difficult; there may not be much chance of getting the council to act our way, but to forego a primary responsibility and duty, to slam the door—walk out and slam the door, is unbecoming of a student official.

* * *

This preface to CU Day on the part of the Carolina delegation has made the celebration of the annual affair slightly farcical. Nevertheless, The Daily Tar Heel urges students to visit Woman's College tomorrow to get to know our academic brothers and sisters.

The morning show—the Consolidated Student Council or rather the Unconsolidated Council session, though billed as just a routine meeting may prove to be a somewhat stellar attraction with one or two remaining delegates and some unofficial observers appointed by Horton from Chapel Hill attending.

Consolidated University Day, despite the petty bickering, walkouts, and maneuvering by our student representatives, does offer a real opportunity for us to have a good time, to acquaint ourselves with fellow students at Woman's College and State. W.C. is yours for the day; you might as well enjoy it.

Semester News From W.C.

Sally Beaver, author of the column, "Welcome Semesterites," appearing on yesterday's editorial page, is the editor of the Carolinian, Woman's College weekly newspaper. The Daily Tar Heel is grateful for her contribution which gave us an idea of what to expect in the fall, semester-wise.

A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

Facts

It has been said (by many people, I don't know who originally) that the American people have more knowledge of facts than any other people and know less what to do with them.

To put it into the language of the psychologists, we are living solely for the objective without a thought for the subjective.

The study of human beings as individuals and even as ethnic groups rides Jim Crow to the study of nuclear physics (almost entirely for destructive purposes), jet-power (almost entirely for destructive purposes), high-powered automobiles (almost entirely for destructive purposes), and television sets (purposes only partly destructive; results entirely so). We are living a hundred million miles an hour trying to keep up with the Russians, the Joneses, the rotation of the earth, and with Time which will run out anyway no matter how fast we go. It's been a long time since the American people have sat still long enough to take inventory; perhaps the last time was between the Civil War and the rise of the Rockefellers, Carnegies and Morgans. And ever since then it's been grab or be grabbed, get or be got, and run or be trampled.

So to who or what do we turn to help slow down the pace before the American people annihilate themselves and the rest of the world along with them?

The scientists (the group which very definitely runs this country and probably the world) are too busy inventing things to bother with the inventors and whomever the inventions affect.

Clergymen (the group which likes to think it runs the country) are too busy asserting what they believe to be true instead of seeking for the truths they don't know. And they are also too busy squabbling among themselves over irrelevant details and the myriad interpretations of what great men have said or are supposed to have said.

Politicians . . . well, you know about them . . .

It looks to me as if the job of channeling the American people's tremendous energy into a more introspective vein, of bringing things back to a more proper proportion lies with the educators, first-grade teachers as well as college professors, particularly with the philosophers, historians, and the so-called teachers of the Humanities. (Psychologists ought to come in here too, but the trouble is that the prevalent attitude of people is that anyone who wants to see a psychologist ought to have his head examined.)

It seems to me that an awful lot of changes are going to have to be made somewhere—or, I should say, everywhere.

For what do you learn in grade school and high school? You learn that in 1492 Columbus sailed the ocean blue. You learned that the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776. You learn that George Washington was the Father of our country and he never told a lie (which is a lie). You learn that Herman Melville wrote Moby Dick and furthermore you're required to read it and I defy any high school kid to be able to understand Moby Dick. You learn that H-2-0 is water and that the proper name for salt is sodium chloride. You learn that Caracas is the capital of Venezuela and that the circumference of the earth is about 25,000 miles. You learn that Beethoven wrote symphonies, was deaf, and his pictures have sour expressions. You learn never to split infinitives, dangle participles, or use slang expressions. You learn that America is God's land and atheists go to Hell without even stopping in Purgatory.

When you get to college you have been crammed with facts, some true, some half-true, some absolutely false, and most meaningless. So what do you do in college? You take high school courses for at least two years, taking notes and absorbing facts from teachers who do research mainly and teach on the side. You take quizzes and answer "Here" to the roll-call. You study things with no thought to their significance, certainly with no thought of how they affect life today. And so, quite naturally, you have no interest in your work, and your pent-up energy must find expression somewhere else. That somewhere else is often beer, etc., at first, and later you can be sure it's not in the "Humanities." Even late in life you are apt to shrink from literature and art and history, for you continue to associate them with the dullest of dull courses you had in college. You become a business man or a scientist or a lawyer and nuts to the Humanities.

That's what the colleges are turning out, not bad in them, selves, but bad in that they are often nothing else, have no other interests except maybe in television or football games.

"Go Away, Boy — You Bother Me"

Express Yourself

Editor:

If the C.U.S.C. is dissolved or allowed to dissolve, than all those in the student administration who are in positions of responsibility, should be impeached. The C.U.S.C. is or was a torch of hope for the true student consolidation of spheres of mutual interest on the three campuses. It has taken years of kindling by many students to arouse the flame for this torch of total representation. If it is allowed to burn out those you elected are just as guilty of treason as would be President Eisenhower if he withdrew our representative from the United Nations.

Elected leaders of the student body have a sacred trust to protect and improve the institutions which we and our student ancestors have erected, developed and cherished throughout the years that Carolina has been the Citadel of student democracy. When the rope in the Old Well broke, they didn't destroy the roof and the pillors, they simply installed new plumbing. Possibly the estate of C.U.S.C. needs a few new bricks, but let's not tear down the building for the want of a few bricks. If this structure is destroyed or allowed to fall through apathy; a structure whose every brick represents eons of student labor and dreams; then our leaders have betrayed the sacred trust bestowed by the electorate and should have their cloak of office ripped away from them, just as they are willing to destroy C.U.S.C.

Mr. Hoyle was the State representative in 48 and I was privileged to be one of the Carolina representatives. I would like to concur with his statements in The Tar Heel of April 7th, 1953 as we were in concurrence on practically all issues in 1948. There was no friction between the three campuses and we marched toward mutual goals linked arm in arm.

Ed Tenney Jr.

Editor's Note: Ed Tenney was a charter CUSC member when it was organized in 1949. He was a member of the Student Legislature and served in the president's cabinet. Just returned from Korea, Ed is majoring in education here.

Editor:

It was most interesting to read Mr. Jack Stilwell's statement regarding smoke-filled rooms (re Hopefuls Give Ideas As Campaigning Boils, The Daily Tar Heel, April 7, 1953).

Last Thursday I dropped by the Student Government office (that is, President Horton's private office) to see Mr. Horton on a non-political matter. Having seen someone in the office, and finding the door locked, I knocked. Mr. Stilwell opened the door, and in the clouds of smoke issuing therefrom, I discerned what appeared to be a clique of politicians. Since the University Party does not (according to Mr. Stilwell) decide its platform in smoke-filled rooms, I wondered what this particular occasion was for. Perhaps they were on the phone ascertaining student opinion.

Upon inquiring about Mr. Horton's whereabouts, I was told by Mr. Stilwell that he (Horton) was downstairs getting a haircut, and the door was abruptly closed in my face.

Respectfully,
Don Angell

P.S. The Graham Memorial Barbershop was closed.

—UP Pledges—

(Continued from page 1)

cent. "The platform on which the University Party was elected has been completed on all but two points, and work is still being done on these."

The fraternity letter concluded, "Please let this letter serve as a reminder to you to keep student government on a high and workable basis. You can do this by voting for your University Party."

Louis Kraar

Party Line

On Bob Gorham

Bob Gorham, who is the University Party presidential candidate, who wants a sensible approach to student government, and who is running for his first major political office, told us about his ideas on government yesterday.

"Politics certainly have their place in student government, but we've got to first be sensible and practical," Gorham said.

The tall, soft-spoken candidate from Rocky Mount explained that he got his platform up by "going around and seeing what the students want."

Gorham, who says being Orientation chairman was the "biggest thrill of my life," says he's for closer relationship between the Interdormitory and Interfraternity Councils. "We've got to have more dances on an all student level. That's the only way we can pull Carolina together and get back the old spirit," he reminded us.

We asked the former legislator, Phi Assembly member and Delta Kappa Epsilon member what he thought about the Book Exchange. "I think the matter can be looked into. There's no reason why students have to pay $4.54 for a social science syllabus, for instance, and then not be able to get anything back on it."

"I'm not going to be antagonistic though," Gorham said firmly. "We can go about the thing in a rational way."

As we ran down the list of political issues, Gorham said he was for revision of the Consolidated University Student Council, fewer restrictions on student nurses, securing janitor service for making up beds in dorms, continuation of Tarnation and anything else that would consider "Carolina first, then politics."

"You know, I haven't known exactly how to run this thing. I've listened to a lot of political advice and discarded most of it. So I'm going around to the students and seeing what they want."

The Bob Gorham we talked to wasn't the same, uncertain one that told us before the nominations last month that he wasn't sure what he's going to do. But he still was the same good natured guy who used to answer loaded questions saying, "Gosh, I don't known any political answers."

A lot wiser about campaigning and quite determined, Gorham talks of the campaign with pride. "This certainly has been a constructive campaign. And that's the secret to the whole thing. We've got to do some sound thinking and be interested in Carolina and not personal political gain."

That's Bob Gorham's idea of student government. Students will tell theirs Wednesday when the voting takes place.

Florence Williams

Student Productions

A weird monstrosity called "the little wonder," the agonizing last recollections of a condemned killer, and the skillful maneuvering of several army lieutenants to avoid the wrath of their superior officers provided the focal points in the three one-act plays presented by the Carolina Playmakers last night.

These widely varying student productions of new plays were written, directed, acted, and managed by students under the general supervision of Foster Fitz-Simons.

"Hi, Sir," a comedy of army life, was written by James Leonard and directed by Cyril S. Lang. Hal England, Donald Treat, and James Fouts starred in this brief, lively play. The actors made up for the lack of subtlety in their roles with exuberance and vigor. Highlight of this army episode was James Fouts' attempt to conceal a liquor bottle from his general. William Barnes and George Belk rounded out the cast of this fast-moving play.

The splendid acting of Tommy Rezzuto in "The Mute," the second play, was the main reason for the success of this unusual drama which was directed by Anne Edwards. Rezzuto portrayed the difficult part of the mute murderer with a sensitivity which is rarely both seen and felt by an audience. Second only to Rezzuto's acting was the emotion and understanding written into the script by playwright Cyril Lang. Neta Whitty was especially effective as the trouble-making hussy who drove the mute to murder. The many-sided setting designed by Charles Billings was most impressive. Don Carmichael, William Trotman, John Miller, Dave Ashburn, Philip Kennedy, James Leonard, Carl Williams, Dan Reid, and Donald Treat completed the cast. The sustained emotion and sympathy with which the play was written and acted more than made up for its occasional lack of clarity.

A delightfully farcial episode about a housewife, a salesman, and a new "do-all" invention provided the plot of the last play, "The Little Wonder," written by Donald Deagon and directed by Mary Virginia Morgan. All the players starred in this charming bit of satire on modern life. Mary Helen Crain was amusing as the gullible housewife. Keen Oliver as a flighty neighbor and Edgar Daniels as the bluff, big-talking salesman received most of the laughs. John Stockard, John Taylor, James Gillikin, Carl Williams, and Charles Billings were equally good in the remaining roles. John Stockard designed an attractive, colorful setting. Simple stage actions were effectively used to add humor.

Nina Gray, Jim Wallace

Engagement Announced

Tar Heel assistant editor Nina Gray is now engaged to Jim Wallace, part-time instructor in social science. Nina is a graduate student in English from Robersonville. Jim is also working for his master's and Ph.D. in History. He is from Jamesville.

Jim is a former reporter, feature writer, editorialist, and circulation manager of The Tar Heel.

Walter Gurley New President Of Inter-Dorm

Walter Gurley, junior from Goldsboro, was named Inter-Dormitory Council president in elections held Monday night. Gurley served during the past year as vice-president and succeeds Bill Acker of Winston-Salem as president.

Other officers named at Monday's meeting are Gerald Parker, Silverdale, vice-president and Robert Barlowe, Lenoir, treasurer.

The council also distributed tickets for the IDC dance and concert to be held April 18. The dance and concert this year will feature the Pied Pipers and Gene Williams' orchestra.

Dance tickets are free to all dormitory residents. Concert tickets are $1 per couple or 50 cents for stags. The tickets will be sold in the dormitories and in the Y court next week.

The new administration will take office immediately after the election of IDC Representatives in the dorms. Elections will be held probably on April 22.

Dr. Henderson Reelected Head Of Shaw Group

Dr. Archibald Henderson, founder of the Shaw Society of America, was unanimously reelected president of the organization at the spring meeting at the Grolier Club in New York, it was learned here today.

Dr. Henderson has served as president since the Society was founded in this country in 1950.

Other new officers are Richard Aldrich, producer and husband of the late Gertrude Lawrence, who was elected vice-president to succeed his wife; William D. Chase, literary editor, Flint, Mich., Journal, secretary, and William Marshall Holtzmann, New York theatrical attorney treasurer.

At a special semi-public program of the Society held in the auditorium of the Grolier Club, Dr. Henderson delivered his presidential address on "Bernard Shaw's Novels and Why They Failed," and Eric Bentley, drama critic, New Republic, spoke on "Shaw's Views and Actors and Acting."

A feature of the program was a dramatic reading by Peggy Wood, the actress, and Borwnwell Fletcher and William Redfield, both of whom are now acting in Shaw's "Misalliance" playing at the Barrymore Theatre.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO-HIWAY 54
TONIGHT & SATURDAY
CRIPPLE CREEK
GEORGE MONTGOMERY
TECHNICOLOR

Interested In Games?

Jacoby on Poker—Here's the poker book you've been looking for. As up-to-date as a jet, and not too snooty to include things like spit-in-the-ocean. Covers technique and rules—$2.00.

Culbertson Point Count Bidding—The old maestro rallies round with a new winning system of bridge that includes the newest approach to accurate bidding.—$1.50.

Contract Bridge Complete. Many a chap has cursed his bidding when the real fault lay in a lack of skill at play. Let Goren help you develop an all-round game.—$3.95.

And a Bargain

Complete Canasta Revised—Rules and canny methods of play for the best of the Rummy family of card games. Was $1.75. Now $1.00.

THERE'S A BOOK YOU NEED IN

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

SCREEN STAR Olivia DeHavilland and her three and one-half-year-old son, Benjamin, take a last look at Los Angeles as they board a plane for New York and Europe. Miss DeHavilland, who had previously denied news men photographs of her child, posed with the lad because, "this is his first trip abroda."—NEA Telephoto.

Carolina Coed Is Beauty Pick

In a few weeks a Carolina coed leaves Chapel Hill to spend 5 days in the original "Old South."

Miss Maureen Norris, a junior from Blytheville, Ark., will be flown from Raleigh-Durham airport to Memphis, Tenn. to take part in the 1953 Cotton Carnival.

Miss Norris has been named as a representative to the Royal Carnival Court. She will be one of 30 representative from towns and cities of 11 southern states. She is from the heart of the world's largest cotton producing county.

INTERESTED IN CRITICISM?

Critics and Criticism, edited with an introduction by R. S. Crane. The twenty essays here collected set forth the views of the Chicago school. ——— $6.00

The Writer in America, by Van Wyck Brooks. The credo of a profound writer. Attempts to segregate the productive from the sterile forces in the contemporary literary scene. ——— $3.00

AND A BARGAIN

Great Novelists and their Novels by W. Somerset Maugham. His vote for the greatest novels, supported by urbane and delightful essays. Was $3.00 Our Special $1.25

There's an exciting discovery for you in

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

National Championship
STOCK CAR
AUTO RACES
Under Personal Direction of Bill France
ALL LATE MODEL CARS
NATION'S TOP DRIVERS
MILES 100 LAPS
NASCAR SANCTIONED
EASTERN CAROLINA'S FIRST BIG RACE OF YEAR
SUNDAY
APRIL 12
Time Trials ——— 1:00 P.M.
Race Starts ——— 2:30 P.M.
ADMISSION
Infield ——— $2.00
Grandstand ——— $3.00
(All taxes included)
Children under 12 FREE with paid escorts.
OCCONEECHEE SPEEDWAY
HILLSBORO, N.C.
SOUTH'S FASTEST 1 MILE TRACK

Durer's Prints To Be Exhibited During April

During the month of April a series of woodcuts by Albrecht Durer will be on exhibit daily in the South Gallery of Morehead Planetarium. The exhibit is entitled the "Revelation Series."

These cuts were originally done as illustration for the Book of Revelations, and were bound in a folio with the passage of scripture. The original woodblocks were preserved and were later electroplated. The 16 prints on exhibit were printed from the original blocks.

On Thursday evening, April 16th, at 7 o'clock Dr. Clemens Sommer, Professor of Art History here at Carolina, will deliver a gallery talk on these interesting prints.

3 From Classics Dept. Attend Association Meet

Three members of the Classics Department of the University are attending a meeting of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South at Cincinnati, Ohio, this week.

Dr. B. L. Ullman, head of the department and a former president of the Association, will be principal speaker at the annual banquet. He is chairman of a committee to arrange for the 50th anniversary meeting in St. Louis next year.

Dr. Walter Allen, Jr., professor of Latin, is presenting a paper on "Political Name-Calling in Cicero's Time." Paul Pascal, a part-time instructor and graduate student, is giving an illustrated talk on "Travels in Italy."

See Big Values!
Share Big Savings!
A&P

Fine For Cooking Baking and Beverages White House Dry
MILK SOLIDS 7-Oz. Pkg. 15c

YOUR CHOICE 29c
Ann Page Creamy Smooth Peanut Butter 12-Oz. Glass
Ann Page Pure Honey 16-Oz. Glass
Ann Page Mayonnaise Pt. Jar
Ann Page Black Raspberry Jelly 12-Oz. Glass
Fine Foods Needn't Be Expensive — Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping

Rajah Dry Shredded Cocoanut - - - - 4-Oz. Pkg. 14c
A&P Crushed Pineapple - - - - 19-Oz. Can 25c
Cheese Food Spread Mel-O-Bit - - - 2-Lb. Loaf 99c
Marcal Paper Napkins - - - - - 80-Ct. Pkg. 10c
Packer's Label Red Sour Pitted Cherries - - - - 19-Oz. Can 21c
Libby's Fruit Cocktail ---- 17-Oz. Can 25c
Iona California Sliced or Peach Halves ----- 29-Oz. Can 27c
Sunnyfield Corn Flakes ------ 18-Oz. Pkg. 23c

A&P's Vegetable Shortening dexo 1-Lb. Tin 29c 3-Lb. Tin 79c
Ann Page Fancy Tomato SOUP 3 10½-Oz. Cans 29c

Peter Pan Peanut Butter 12-Oz. Glass 37c
Shortening Crisco 1-Lb. Tin 32c 3-Lb. Tin 89c
Quick or Regular Quaker Oats 20-Oz. Pkg. 17c 3-Lb. Pkg. 37¢
Pick of Carolina Pickles Sweet Mix 16-Oz. Jar 19c
Cut-Rite Wax Paper Roll 25c
Reynolds Aluminum Foil Roll 27c

Select "Super-Right" More for Your Meat Money!
Super Right Heavy Western Beef Chuck Blade Pot Roast - - Lb. 39c
Freshly Ground Beef - - Lb. 43c
Plate or Brisket Stew Beef - - Lb. 19c
Smoked Short Shank 4 to 6 lb. Avg. Shoulder Picnics Lb. 43c
Swift Premium Franks - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c
Swift's Brookfield Patties - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 53c
Nice Thick Fat Backs - - Pkg. 15c
Swift's Link Sausage Brookfield - - Pkg. ½-Lb. 31c

Libby's Meats
Corned Beef Hash 16-Oz. Can 29c
Vienna Sausage - 4-Oz. Can 19c
Deviled Ham - - 3¼-Oz. Can 18c
Corned Beef - - 12-Oz. Can 49c
Potted Meat - - 5½-Oz. Can 13c
Beef Tripe - - 11-Oz. Can 27c
Roast Beef - - 12-Oz. Can 55c

A&P Fancy Tuna Fish - - - - - - - - - 7-Oz. Can 31¢
Golden Cream Style Iona Corn - - - - - - - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 27c
Ann Page Sparkle Puddings - - - - - - - - 3 4-Oz. Pkgs. 20c

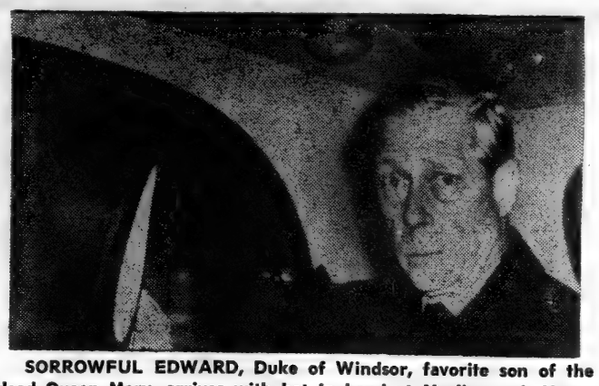
Palmolive Soap - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Palmolive Soap - - 2 Bath Bars 23c
Soap Cashmere Bouquet - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Soap Cashmere Bouquet - - - - 2 Bath Bars 23c
Octagon Toilet Soap - - - - 2 Reg. Bars 13c
Sweetheart Soap - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Flakes Blu White - - - - - - Pkg. 9c
Ivory Soap - - - - 3 Med. Bars 23c
Tide - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c
Joy Liquid Dish Washer - - - - - Bot. 29c
Spic & Span - - - 2 16-Oz. Pkgs. 47c
Flako Pie Crust - - - - - - 9-Oz. Pkg. 17c

A&P Sauerkraut - - - 27-Oz. Can 21c
Iona Tomatoes - - - - 2 19-Oz. Cans 27c
Welch's Grapelade - - - 1-Lb. Jar 25c
Green Giant Peas - - - - 19-Oz. Can 19c

Fresh Fruits & Vegetables
Crisp 4 Doz. Size LETTUCE - - - - - - - - 2 Heads 23¢
Juicy Florida ORANGES - - - - - - - - - 8-Lb. Bag 45¢
YELLOW ONIONS - - - - 2 Lbs. 11¢
JUICY LEMONS - - - - - - 2 Lbs. 25¢
CRISP CARROTS - - - - 2 1-Lb. Bags 19¢
FULL EAR CORN - - - - 4 Ears 29¢
Size 54's, 64's — Florida GRAPEFRUIT - - - - - - - 4 For 27¢

These Prices Effective Through Sat. April 11th
A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

Insurance Lecturer Here To Leave Post In June



W. O. Cummings, Julian Price Lecturer in Life Insurance here, will join the Company Relations Division of the Agency Management Association June 8 as a consultant.

A graduate of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania, Cummings entered the life insurance business in 1938 as an agent in the Chicago agency of the Aetna Life.

He served in the Navy in World War II where he was a personnel technician. When the demobilization program got under way he was in charge of interviewers at one of the stations at Great Lakes.

In the fall of 1951 Cummings was appointed Julian Price Lecturer here.

Carolina baseball games start at 3:30 p.m. this season for week days and 2 o'clock on Saturdays.

SORROWFUL EDWARD, Duke of Windsor, favorite son of the dead Queen Mary, arrives with hat in hand at Marlborough House to pay his last respects.—NEA Radiophoto.

Cherokee Indian Art, Crafts Exhibited Here

A display fo Cherokee Indian arts and crafts is on exhibition in Person Art Gallery.

The exhibition which will continue through April 12 was brought to Chapel Hill by the art instructor at Cherokee, George Bireline, a former University student. Included in the show are woven rugs, linen place mats, napkins, and towels, wood carvings, basketry, and children's paintings.

Many of the designs employed in the woven linens were introduced by Miss Ethel Garnett the weaving teacher at Cherokee since about 1930. An art instructor was provided only recently at Cherokee by the Cherokee Historical Association.

Leave Your Laundry
— AT —
THE GLEN LENNOX LAUNDROMAT
WHILE YOU SHOP COLONIAL STORE

TO BE GIVEN

FREE!

At Your Friendly
COLONIAL STORES IN CHAPEL HILL THIS WEEK!

Nothing to buy . . . no obligation . . . each visit to either of the two COLONIAL STORES in Chapel Hill this week is another opportunity for you to win . . .

DELUXE 17-INCH-SCREEN MOTOROLA

2 TELEVISION CONSOLES

ONE SET TO BE AWARDED AT EACH STORE — VISIT THE COLONIAL STORE MOST CONVENIENT FOR YOU!

Also To Be Given This Week:

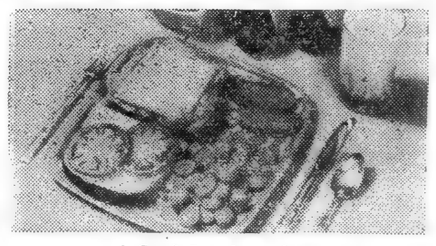
50 HOSIERY

PAIRS FIRST-QUALITY, 60-GAUGE
15-DENIER, FULL FASHIONED NYLON

25 PAIRS WILL BE AWARDED AT EACH STORE

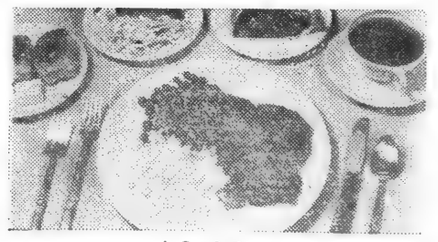
Come In Often—Get Complete Details
At Either Of The Two Colonial Stores
In Chapel Hill!

BOTH STORES REMAIN OPEN UNTIL
8:30 P.M. EACH FRIDAY NIGHT



for Breakfast... for Lunch... for Dinner...

Your TOTAL Food Bill is Less when you Shop CS!



COLONIAL STORES
MARK OF QUALITY FOODS

A Good Breakfast
Fruit or Juice
(Fresh, Canned, or Frozen)
Eggs, Meat, or Cereal with Milk
Bread Triangle Butter
Beverage

A Good Lunch or Supper
Cheese, Meat, Poultry, Fish, or Eggs
(In a main dish or sandwich)
Cooked or Raw Vegetable
(Green or Yellow)
Bread Margarine
Fruit Milk

A Good Dinner
Meat, Poultry, Fish, Eggs, or Cheese
Rice or Potatoes
Vegetable
(Fresh, canned, or frozen)
Salad
Rolls or Biscuits Spread
Dessert Beverage

MEAL PLANNING BECOMES simple and easy when you shop at your friendly Colonial Stores regularly. Everything under one roof . . . everything arranged for quick selection . . . everything plainly price marked. Yes, everything you can think of for a variety of appetizing meals three times a day. Make up your shopping list now from this list of BREAKFAST, LUNCH, and DINNER suggestions . . . check Nancy Carter's timely tips for better meals and save on your total food bill at Colonial Stores!

Breakfast Suggestions

CS NATURAL OR SWEET FLORIDA
ORANGE JUICE 46-OZ. 29c
LIBBY'S "GENTLE PRESS"
TOMATO JUICE 46-OZ. 29c
SUNSWEET NATURAL
PRUNE JUICE QUART 35c
CS CANNED GRAPEFRUIT
SECTIONS 2 17-OZ. CANS 37c
SILVER LABEL FRESH-GROUND
COFFEE POUND 81c
GOLD LABEL FRESH-GROUND
COFFEE POUND 83c
INSTANT
POSTUM 4-OZ. 33c

LOCALLY PRODUCED CAROLINA LARGE
FRESH EGGS DOZ. 67c
AUNT JEMIMA EASY-TO-PREPARE
PANCAKE FLOUR 20-OZ. 18c
VERMONT MAID BLENDED
SYRUP 12-OZ. BOTTLE 27c
JIM DANDY ENRICHED
WHITE GRITS 5-LBS 43c
BREAKFAST TREAT—SLICED
CANADIAN BACON LB. 65c
CHEF'S PRIDE—MILD OR HOT PORK
SAUSAGE LB. 53c
ARMOUR STAR OR SWIFT'S PREMIUM
SLICED BACON LB. 69c

LARGE JUICY FLORIDA
GRAPEFRUIT
4 FOR 27c

EVAPORATED ENRICHED
CS MILK
TALL CAN 13c

Luncheon Suggestions

CONDENSED CAMPBELL'S
TOMATO SOUP 2 NO. 1 CANS 23c
BLENDED VEGETABLE JUICES
V-8 COCKTAIL 46-OZ. 39c
CS SLICED HAWAIIAN
PINEAPPLE NO. 2 CAN 29c
CHEF'S PRIDE FRESH PREPARED
POTATO SALAD LB. 29c
FOR ICED TEA—SILVER LABEL
FANCY TEA ¼-LB. 23c
FOR HOT TEA—GOLD LABEL
TEA BAGS PKG OF 48 38c
COMSTOCK—SLICED PIE
APPLES NO. 2 CAN 23c
FLAKO EASY-TO-FIX
PIE CRUST PKG. 17c
MOLD INTO JELLO—CS FRUIT
COCKTAIL 17-OZ. CAN 25c
ASSORTED FLAVORS GELATIN
JELL-O 3 PKGS. 25c
TENDER FRESH EARS
CORN 4 EARS 29c
LIBBY'S FINEST QUALITY
SLICED BEETS 17-OZ. 17c

FOR MEAT LOAF—FRESH
GROUND BEEF LB 39c
FOR POT PIE—TENDER BEEF
BONELESS STEW LB. 49c
FOR SANDWICHES—ALL MEAT
SLICED BOLOGNA LB. 49c
CHEF'S PRIDE—READY TO HEAT B-B-Q
SPARE RIBS LB. 89c
TOP QUALITY FRESH
GREEN BEANS 2 LBS. 35c
FANCY SMALL—FRESH YELLOW
SQUASH 2 LBS. 25c
SMALL RED BLISS FRESH NEW POTATOES 5 LBS. 19c

DEL MONTE
EARLY GARDEN
SWEET PEAS
17-OZ. CAN 23c

Dinner Suggestions

HEINZ CONDENSED VEGETABLE
SOUP 2 NO. 1 CANS 27c
SUNSHINE KRISPY
CRACKERS PKG. 23c
HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE JUICE
DEL MONTE 46-OZ. 30c

FOR BANANA PUDDING—NABISCO VANILLA
WAFERS 12-OZ 33c
LARGE GOLDEN RIPE
BANANAS 2 LBS. 25c
PILLSBURY CHOCOLATE FUDGE
CAKE MIX PKG 35c

SIRLOIN OR ROUND
STEAKS
BUDGET BEEF U. S. COMMERCIAL LB. 69c
COLONIAL PRIDE U. S. CHOICE LB. 75c

TENDER BEEF CHUCK
ROAST
BUDGET BEEF U. S. COMMERCIAL LB. 39c
COLONIAL PRIDE U. S. CHOICE LB. 43c

7-INCH CUT STANDING BEEF
RIB ROAST Budget Beef—U. S. Com'l LB. 55c Col. Pride—U. S. Choice LB. 59c
U. S. NO. 1 TOP QUALITY IDAHO
BAKING POTATOES 5 LBS. 45c
SPECIAL VALUE!—OLD VIRGINIA PURE
STRAWBERRY PRESERVES 24-OZ. JAR 49c
TENDER GOLDEN WHOLE KERNEL
FANCY NIBLETS CORN 2 12-OZ. CANS 35c

FOR A DELICIOUS DINNER SALAD, SERVE FRESH HEAD LETTUCE WITH GIRARD'S FRENCH DRESSING. SEE THESE LISTED ELSEWHERE IN THIS AD.

Fresh Produce Prices Effective Thru Saturday, April 11

Serve a Tasty Salad with Celery and . .

CELERY
Large Fresh Crisp Pascal Save At Colonial!
STALK 5¢

LARGE FANCY GREEN BELL
PEPPER LB. 29c
GREEN AND FRESH
ENDIVE BCH. 15c
LARGE CRISP ICEBERG
LETTUCE 2 HDS. 23c
GARDEN FRESH
RADISHES BNCH. 5c
KRAFT'S FRENCH
DRESSING 8-OZ. 22c
GIRARD'S FRENCH
DRESSING 6-OZ. 27c

New and Improved
LIFEBUOY SOAP
3 REG. BARS 23c | 2 BATH SIZE 23c
CONTAINS SOLIUM
RINSO LARGE PACKAGE 27c
THE SOAP THE SCREEN STARS USE
LUX TOILET SOAP
3 REG. BARS 23c | 2 BATH SIZE 23c
NO-RINSE
SURF LARGE PACKAGE 29c
PURE . . . MILD . . . GENTLE
SWAN SOAP
3 REG. 23c | 2 BATH 27c
TONY BRAND
DOG FOOD 2 1-LB. 19c
DIAMOND TOILET TISSUE
SOFTEX 2 ROLLS 23c

★ Corner Franklin & Graham Streets — Free Parking To Colonial Customers — ★ Glen Lennox

Golf, Tennis Teams Victorious, Remain Undefeated

Netters Trounce Dartmouth; Black Paces Over Michigan

Golfers Register Fifth Consecutive Win Of Season

By Biff Roberts

The Carolina golf balloon almost soared too high yesterday afternoon at Finley golf course but the Tar Heels got back to earth before it burst to beat Michigan, 19½-7½, for their fifth straight victory.

The scores of the Carolina team were astronomical compared to previous efforts and it looked for awhile that the Tar Heels would get their first serious threat of the season.

But Michigan, the reigning Big Ten champs, soared even higher, allowing the UNC golfers to remain undefeated.

Bob Black had the best round for the Tar Heels, as has been his custom for the past four matches, with a par 72, a high round for him.

He started off well enough with a 34 on the first nine and stayed even on the back until the final hole. But there he slipped to a six for a two-over 38.

The closest Carolina man to him was Billy Thornton with a three-over par 75. Following him came Bill Williamson at 77, Jimmy Ferree at 78, Billy Ford at 80, and George Mountcastle, playing his first regular match of the season, with 81.

For Michigan it was Bud Stevens wiht a 73 who took medal honors. His 36-37 round enabled him to tie Black, 1½-1½, in their match.

The Tar Heels will travel to the University of Virginia on Monday to meet the Cavaliers.

The summaries:

Bob Black (UNC) tied Bud Stevens, 1½-1½; Bill Williamson (UNC) def. Jack Stumpfig, 2½-½; Black and Williamson def. Stevens and Stumpfig, 3-0.

Billy Thornton (UNC) def. Lowell LeClair, 2 ½-one half; Jim Ferree (UNC) def. Warren Gast, 21; Thornton and Ferree def. LeClair and Gast, 3-0.

Hugh Wright (M) def. George Mountcastle, 2-1; Billy Ford (UNC) def Ted Stanford, 2½-½; Mountcastle and Ford tied Wright and Stanford, 1½-1½.

Tennis Team Takes Twelfth Straight Win As Dartmouth Loses

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina tennis team won its second straight match over Dartmouth in as many days yesterday afternoon, trouncing them again, 15-0.

Again the match was no contest as the two teams changed their lineups from what they had been the day before. Carolina won all the singles in straight sets and only lost two sets in winning all the doubles.

The tennis team will play host to Kalamazoo College this afternoon on the varsity courts at 3 o'clock.

For Dartmouth it was their second match of the day. They lost 5-4 to Kalamazoo in a morning contest played at Duke. Carolina plays Kalamazoo today.

The lineup today put Herb Browne in the number one position against Stu Stearns and Browne won an easy victory, 6-3, 6-2. Stearns had lost to Del Sylvia the day before 6-0, 6-3.

The Summaries:

Singles—Browne (UNC) defeated Stearns (D), 6-3, 6-2; Sylvia (UNC) defeated Crotty (D), 6-1, 6-2; Bradford (UNC) defeated Fast (D), 6-0, 6-3; Thompson (UNC) defeated Blount (D), 6-1, 6-3; Thompson (UNC) defeated Blount (D), 6-1, 6-0; Payne (UNC) defeated Anzel (D), 6-2, 6-1; Kerdasha (UNC) defeated Hess (D), 9-7, 6-2; Green (UNC) defeated Archibald (D), 6-1, 6-1; Izlar (UNC) defeated Pessl (D), 7-5, 7-; Gustafson (UNC) defeated Carleton (D), 6-1, 6-0; Handel (UNC) defeated Rogers (D), 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles — Sylvia and Green (UNC) defeated Stearns and Fast (D), 6-3, 4-6 ,6-1; Browne and Payne (UNC) defeated Archibald and Crotty (D), 6-3, 2-6. 7-5; Whickha and Bradford (UNC) defeated Blount and Pessl (D), 6-1, 8-6; Gordon and Handel (UNC) defeated Hess and Anzel (D), 6-4, 6-3; Gustafson and Lynch (UNC) defeated Rogers and Carleton (D), 6-0, 7-5.

Carolina Caravan

Old Pros Hearn And Hobbs Bemoan Southern Conference Game Limit

By Jake Wade

Dean A. W. Hobbs sat in the sun, his long legs crossed, fanning and panning with his old chum, Bunn Hearn. They were down at the ball lot, watching the athletes chase Walter Rabb's fungos, a very lovely sight, and the two old pros were happy.

Well, not completely happy at that. Dean Hobbs, for many years chairman of the Carolina athletic council, a past Southern Conference president and long distinguished in intercollegiate athletics, was grieving over the limit of 22 games set by the Conference for the baseball season. And Bunn, in his 24th year as Tar Heel coach, was in quiet and humble agreement.

Hobbs and Hearn are, first and foremost, baseball men. Both former great college and professional pitchers, they have been close to the game a long time. The sharp curve, the slider, the high hard one, the change of pace, the line drive, the double play, the slide in the dirt and the long ball over the fence are for them the components of a symphony sweet and moving to tired old ears and eyes.

The game itself for them is relaxation, an unending adventure, even now after thousands of ever unpredictable innings. They never get enough of it, never will, for that is the way of baseball men. The dean will get to see only eight games played on Emerson field this year. The old coaches will get to sit and superintend in the dugout on only 22 payoff days, here and elsewhere. That's not nearly enough for the insatiable appetites of the likes of these.

Seem's Agreed

That's what the Messrs. Hobbs and Hearn were talking about the other afternoon in the sun, and they had logic for their case. The athletes practice every day. They may as well be playing contests, by the very nature of the game. And on what playing field can you find a game more wholesome than baseball?

"Maybe they should put a limit on games away from home, or work out something like that, if they are afraid of the boys missing too many classes," said Bunn, the "Big Steam," always slow to criticize the action of any mortal or group of mortals. "But we don't miss many classes, do we, Dean?"

The answer was, and is, no. And what the old pros were thinking and talking in the sun has been on the minds of many great and good fans hereabouts this spring. We understand Walter Rabb's baseball committee will make some recommendations to the Conference for relieving this situation in the future, so that next spring everyone will be happy again.

Long Range Note

Let this be an aside to the loyal and "hungry" University football supporters: Taking time out from the panorama of spring sports, we have slipped down to Navy field several times to watch the spring grid work. What we have seen has been satisfying and inspiring. Unless our weary old orbs have been completely deceived, the new coaches are getting the job done. They mean business, we are here to tell you, and there is a wonderful bounce to the practice sessions. The athletes, themselves, apparently have put new heart into their labors, with spirits lifted over the fine prospects of getting back in the winners' circle next autumn. Ring the date, April 18, next Saturday, on your calendar. That's when the Blue-White game will be played in Kenan Stadium. Come and see for yourself what has been accomplished in 20 busy days.

Stickmen Leave Today On Tour Of New England Section

By Jim Wiles

Following three one-sided defeats at the hands of tough northern foes, the Tar Heel Lacrosse team leaves today for a short tour around New England, still seeking its first victory of the season. Carolina faces the University of Massachusetts stickmen on Monday and Tuesday, and invades Amherst College for a single contest on Thursday.

There is a probability that the Heels will be forced to play these three games without the services of one of their star offensive men, Dickie Harrall. The sophomore attacker is suffering from a leg injury and was forced to miss the 19-5 loss to Dartmouth last Tuesday. Harrall has scored only once in two matches.

The Tar Heels' next home game is April 27 against Augusta Military Academy.

Baseballers Meet Gamecocks In First Game Of Southern Trip

Carolina's baseball team tries to regain the win column in Southern Conference play today, facing South Carolina's Gamecocks in the first game of a two game road trip.

The Tar Heels lost their first Conference and Big Four game Tuesday when N. C. State drubbed three Carolina pitchers for 14 hits in a 10-5 rout.

Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb will probably start their ace righthander, Chal Port, in today's game. Port has a 2-1 record, with wins over Rollins and Clemson and a loss to Georgia Teachers.

Billy Lore, another righthander, is slated to work in Carolina's game with The Citadel Saturday. Lore was knocked out of the box by State in his last start. Joe Pazdan may get the nod over Lore.

The batting of freshman Ken Keller has been a boost to the Tar Heels' hopes. Keller has a .360 average, and clouted a 400 foot home run in the State game.

Fred Dale, Wayne White, Harry Lee Lloyd, Will Frye, and Connie Gravitte continue as the top Carolina batters.

Carolina's fielding, a strong point in the early part of the season, took a nose dive, and the Tar Heels made five boots against State.

Carolina meets Davidson at Davidson Monday in another Conference game.

Track Team Meets VMI Here At 2 Tomorrow In SC Event

Coach Dale Ransom's Tar Heel Trackmen will meet the VMI Keydets tomorrow on Fetzer Field, with the meet starting at 2:00 p.m.

Despite Carolina's narrow margin loss to Princeton last Saturday the Tar Heels will be favored to cop their second Southern Conference win of the outdoor track season.

The VMI team will be led by Johnny Mapp and Ben Angle. Mapp is Southern Conference Indoor low hurdles champion and is also a star contender in the broad jump and a top sprniter. Angle, who runs the 880 yard and the mile runs, finished a close third last year in the Southern Conference 880 yard run.

The top Tar Heel performers are Sonny Beall in the hurdles, Jeff Newton in the sprints, Roger Moris in the shot put, Sam Jordan in the pole vault, and Charlie Yarborough in the broad jump.

Harry Brown, who was the top scorer last year for Carolina, pulled a muscle last Saturday during the Princeton meet and will be unable to participate tomorrow against the Keydets.

Next Saturday the Tar Heels will face Maryland at College Park followed on successive Saturdays by N.C. State here, The Pennsylvania Relays in Philadelphia, Duke here, Virginia at Charlottesville, Pennsylvania here, and finally the Southern Conference Meet which is to be held this year at Davidson.

The Southern Conference meet, which will be held May 16, will mark the end of the outdoor track season. This meet promises to be marked by extremely rough competition between the three top contenders, Maryland, N.C. State, and Carolina.

TEP Pledges Win Field Meet

The TEP pledge class scoring 19 points narrowly nosed out the oncoming Zetes and Sigma Nus to win the annual Greek week field competition yesterday afternoon on Navy Field.

The field competition, which is held every year as a part of the fraternity Greek Week, featured four events, the tug of war, sprint relay, the hurdle run, and the medicine ball rolling contest. Pledge classes representing 20 fraternities were entered.

The meet was extremely close with only 7½ points separating the teams in first and ninth place. The scoring was as follows:

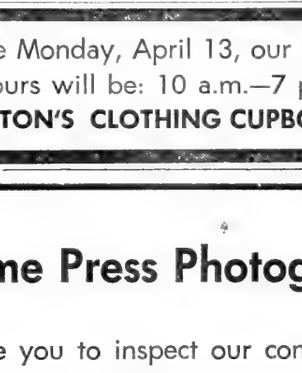
TEP 19; Zetes 17; Sigma Nu 17; Chi Phi 16; Chi Psi 15; SAE 14; Phi Kappa Sig 14; Sigma Chi 13; Phi Delt 12½; KA 10; Kappa Sig 10; Phi Kappa Phi 8; SPE 6; Beta 2½; ATO 2; Phi Gam 2, PiKA 0; Phi Lambda Phi 0. The Deeks were disqualified for not having enough men entered.

In charge of the meet were Fred Mawhinny, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council and Steve Trimble, who is in charge of Greek Week.

CLASSIFIEDS

LOST

ENVELOPE CONTAINING CONtract for teaching position—must have by FRIDAY. Please return to Margaret Winborne Sears at Chi Omega House (1-3500-1)



HELP WANTED

MALE OR FEMALE — EXPERIence preferred but not necessary—Combined drug clerk and cosmetician—Good pay plus commission and paid vacation. See Mr. Yandle, Manger, Suttons Drug Store. (chg 1x1)

Effecitve Monday, April 13, our new store hours will be: 10 a.m.—7 p.m.
MILTON'S CLOTHING CUPBOARD

Welcome Press Photographers

We invite you to inspect our complete and up to date stock of cameras and equipment.
If you need it, we have it.
Graflex Cameras and Accessories our Specialty. Heiland Flash equipment, Rollicord and and Rolleiflex, Leica, and Bell and Howell.
OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS
FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

The finest selection of Sport Shirts for Spring and Summer, styled by these Famous names: Botany, Van Heusen, Enro, Hanes and Stradivari.
THE TOWN & CAMPUS

Your engine t-o-o-o t-i-r-e-d to take you places the way it used to? Watch it snap to attention when we've charged the battery!
CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR
POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

THE RAILROAD THAT RIPPED THE WEST WIDE OPEN!

TO-D-A-Y & Saturday
Varsity
LATE SHOW SATURDAY NITE
Regular Showing SUNDAY — MONDAY
THE SOUTHERN PREMIERE of "COUNT THE HOURS"
starring
McDonald Carey — Teresa Wright
NOTE: This is a nigh perfect job of film-making in every essential way and should turn out to be one of the best murder suspense pictures of the year. —mgr.

Hollywood Screen Test for WINNER of "MR. FORMAL" Contest

Backed by a jackpot of once-in-a-life-time prizes, including a week's all-expense trip to Hollywood, a screen test by Alex Gottlieb Productions, a $500 U.S. Savings Bond, a complete summer formal outfit by "After Six" as well as other outstanding awards by Donson, Kaywoodie and Charbert, the third annual intercollegiate MR. FORMAL Contest got off to a fast start on campus this week.

Thus far, the following organization: Sigma Chi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Beta Theta Pi, Pi Kappa Phi, Phi Gamma Delta, and their nominations for MR. FORMAL at Carolina will be announced shortly.

Any campus organization of 10 or more men who have not yet received an invitation to enter the contest, may still do by contacting Jake Froelich & John Baldridge, Beta House, Phone 16071, and setting-up an appointment to try on the "After Six" white summer formal jackets at the following Contest Stores: Town & Campus and Sport Shop. The contestant selected as MR. FORMAL at Carolina by a panel of campus personalities, will also receive a complete summer formal outfit by "After Six", a Ronson lighter, a formal Kaywoodie pipe, a set of Top-Hat men's toiletries plus other tie-in prizes offered by local merchants.

COMPLETE LINE OF "AFTER SIX" FORMALWEAR

Town & Campus

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

And who's going to what beach with whom this weekend? Well, the TEP's will go to Myrtle, the Zete's to Morehead and the Theta Chi's to Wrightsville.

Then there are the Chi Psi's who are going to Hogan's.

Golden Bear award for the party of the week goes to the Sigma Nu's for their White Rose Formal last weekend.

A possibility for this week: Deke seniors will fete each other with parties for the rest of the year, beginning this Friday night. This week's party is given by Tom Alexander and Hoagy Carmichael, who are giving some kind of mysterious something or other for the rest of the seniors and dates.

Tri Delts will be hostesses to a statewide meeting of alumnae and other chapters. They'll honor the visitors with a coffee Sunday which will be attended by faculty and administration also.

Chi O's will entertain faculty members with a tea Wednesday afternoon at the house.

Lambda Chi's and KD's started the weekend early with a party at Hogan's yesterday afternoon.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Nick Peck, Kappa Sig of Concord, to Jane Matthews, also of Concord.

Phi Kaps share the spotlight with Fritz Pelone, Charlotte, engaged to Susan Northrup, also Charlotte, and Ted Dawes, Baltimore pinned to Christine Johnson, Niagara Falls.

Phi Gam grad of last year, Archie Myatt, will marry Tri Delt grad Chris Jones in Norfolk tomorrow. They have more news too. Charles Holt, Washington, pinned Julia Spears, also of Washington.

To the beach for the Pi Lams this weekend. They'll go to Wrightsville. Pi Lam Sam Lerner, Lincolnton, is pinned to Shirley Schrago of Goldsboro.

SPE Lacy Lucas, Greensboro, has himself a wife. She's the former Emily Stonestreet of Winston-Salem.

The Philosophical Society of 1799, all those Ugly people, have become very active of late. They even had a monstrous party at Hogan's this week. Highlighting the evening were intellectual discussions.

Beta's are on their way to Holden's Beach for the weekend.

Miss Maxine Blake, Kansas City, Mo., Grand President of ADPi, will visit the local chapter next week. In her honor they will have a tea Thursday from 3 to 5. Fraternity and sorority presidents, alumnae faculty and administration and campus housemothers will attend.

All fraternities are invited to the Chi Omegas' studybreak next Wednesday night.

Kappa Psi seniors will leave for a tour of pharmaceutical plants in the North tomorrow. While there they will party at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. They will be given a send-off party tonight. Phi Delta Chi's will also make this trip which will last a week.

Phi Delta Chi Carl Kirby, Wilson, gets special note, cause he's engaged to Thalia O'Neal of Charlotte.

Louis Parham, what is it with you?

Nother special note is given to the marriage of Delta Sigma Pi Dick Taylor and Norma Welborne of Raleigh.

AkPsi Peewee Campbell, Taylorsville, is engaged to one Ann Bowman of Statesville.

TEP's, aside from going to the beach, are joining with the Duke chapter tonight and having a cabin party.

And who is your candidate for the UMOC?

Fellowship

Hugh Hemmings, third year med student, has received a fellowship from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for the study of a certain virus. The followship extends through July and August.

Missing

The Elections Board has asked for the return of two missing ballot boxes to the Board office.

UF

Reverend Charles Reinhardt, Universalist Minister of Clinton, will speak on the topic "John Brown and America's Crusaders" at the Unitarian Fellowship gathering in Gerrard Hall Sunday evening at 8:30. Professor Raymond Adams of Chapel Hill will conduct the service.

Bikes Wanted

The student nurses want to borrow or rent 10 bicycles for this Saturday afternoon. Call 9-031 if you have one available.

Jaffe To Speak

Professor A. J. Jaffe, Columbia University, will speak at the meeting of the North Carolina chapter of the American Statistical Association, Monday at 7:30 in room 2 of Carroll Hall. His subject will be "The Mobility of the American Working Force."

Square Dance

The first in a series of Spring square dances will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Y Court. The dance, sponsored by the YMCA, will be called by Carl Gregory.

WUNC

Today's schedule for WUNC:
7 p.m.—The Children's Circle
7:30—To be announced
7:45—The Musician Comments
8—People Under Communism
8:30—The Symphony Hour
9—Music appreciation by Dr. William Newman
10—News and coming events
10:05—An evening masterwork

Traffic Violation Penalties Slapped On Two Students

Two students appeared before Judge William S. Stewart in the Chapel Hill Recorder's Court for traffic violations this week.

William Booth Simpson Jr., sophomore from Winston-Salem, paid court costs for a stop sign violation.

N. S. Harrington, Chapel Hill freshman, was fined $25 and costs for speeding.

Matthews Files His Answers To The 'Big 5'

Wade Matthews, independent candidate for student body president, yesterday filed answers to Editor Walt Dear's editorial questions of last week.

Matthews said he was glad to see "a request for information from the presidential candidates on their stands on certain controversial issues."

"I believe," said Matthews, "that each candidate has as his duty to the students to make a definite stand on all important issues."

He listed the following answers to the questions posed by Editor Dear:

1. I personally am in favor of Carolina's continued participation in NSA, however that question will be decided by the students in a referendum in May, and the policy of my administration would abide strictly by the results of that vote.

2. I favor revision of the CUSC so as to provide closer contact and more cooperation between the student bodies of the three branches of UNC (including more emphasis on such things as Consolidated University day). I do not believe that the student governments of the three institutions are quite capable of presenting a united front on issues affecting all the students without having to go through such an unwieldy organization as CUSC in its present form.

3. I believe that the Student Entertainment Series is one of the most appreciated activities of Student Government. Some changes to alleviate crowding are necessary however. On such an important issue as making the series voluntary, I believe that each student should be given the right to express his individual opinion. I therefore support a referendum on the question in May (if possible) or next fall.

4. It would require an act of the State Legislature to place a student voting member on the board of trustees. A non-voting member could be placed on it, however, by action of the present Board. I heartily favor such a plan.

5. The Book Exchange is prohibited by law from under-selling local merchants. However, the miserable trade-in allowances that they give students for used texts, and their seeming policy of non-cooperation in frequently not telling the competing privately-owned bookstore what texts will be used next quarter, and thereby forcing their trade-in allowances down, should definitely be changed, thereby giving both the students and their competitors a better deal.

Pledge Award Presented By Phi Delta Theta

Pete Knight, Tampa, Fla., was named the Most Outstanding Pledge as Beta chapter of Phi Delta Theta fraternity held its annual pledge dance last weekend.

Highlight of the weekend was the formal banquet and dance at the Country Club Saturday night. A cocktail party at the Club preceded dinner. Dance decorations consisted of dogwood branches and crepe paper streamers of the fraternity's colors, blue and white. The Duke Ambassadors furnished music for the evening. Sherwood Smith, Jacksonville, Fla., was presented the pledge scholarship award.

Other activities of Phi Delt weekend included a cabin party with music by a combo Friday night at Perry's cabin in Durham.

Pledges and their dates were Pete Knight, Tampa, Fla., president, with Mary Fran Allsbrook, Roanoke Rapids, Va.; Jim Durham, secretary, Durham, with Marie Watson, Wilson; Sherwood Smith, Jacksonville, Fla., with Diane Dewey, Palm Beach, Fla.; Clawson Williams, Sanford, with Martha Black, Sanford; Tom Ferguson, Sylva, with Joan Addington, St. Paul, Va., Wendy Ligon, Durham, with Mary Hadley Fike, Wilson; Al Long, Washington, with Jean Bryant, Durham;

Bill Marshburn, Greensboro, with Jerry Tatum, Vicksburg, Miss.; Tom Williford, Wilson, with Natilie Salter, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Henry Cheney, Florence, Ala., with Lane Buckley, Tryon; Fred Hooper, Burlington, with Emily Cook, Arlington, Va.; Bill Joyner, Summit, N. J., with Betty Birch, Bronxville, N. Y.; John Cauble, Hickory, with Nancy Ormand, Hickory.

YMCA Plans D.C. Seminar

Plans were announced by the YMCA office yesterday for a Washnigton Seminar for college students, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee.

The seminar will be held in the nation's capital from April 16 through April 18.

Room reservations for the Seminar group have been made with Gauntt House at 1716 "N" Street. Cost for the rooms is $2 per night.

The cost of meals at International Student House and the Supreme Court cafeteria will probably be not more than five or six dollars for the six meals scheduled on the program.

YWCA Elects Marilyn Habel To Presidency

Marilyn Habel, Chapel Hill junior and member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, has been elected president of the YWCA for the coming year.

Marilyn succeeds Anna Beeson of Greensboro. Other new YWCA officers are Mase Chapin, Tri Delt of Richmond Va., vice-president; Emily Cook, Alpha Delta Pi of Arlington, Va., secretary, Mary Jane Bumpous, Pi Beta Phi from St. Petersburg, Fla., treasurer; Tollie Randolph, Chi Omega from Chapel Hill, membership chairman; and Elinor Wrenn, Tri Delt of Greensboro, progfam chairman.

The new officers will meet to select cabinet members for the coming year, after which the cabinet and executive council will be installed by outgoing officers.

WIL Plans Party Saturday For All Foreign Students

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will give a party for foreign students, their wives and families and all supporters of the Cosmopolitan Club in the home of Dr. Wayne Bowers, 714 East Franklin Street, at 8:15 Saturday night.

Those who wish to attend the party can be picked up by car between 8 o'clock and 8:15 Saturday night.

Ugliest Of The Campus To Vie For Wide Selection Of Prizes

Several contestants have already been entered and many more are expected before the deadline Saturday afternoon for Theta Chi fraternity's "Ugliest Man On Campus" contest, according to contest chairman Bob Skillen.

Photographs of all entrants must be in to Skillen at the Theta Chi House by Saturday afternoon. Voting will begin Monday morning in the "Y" court, with votes a penny each. The winner in the competition will be announced at the University Carnival April 17.

Following is a list of prizes donated by Chapel Hill merchants for the winner:

The choice of any sport shirt in The Town & Campus, dinner for the winner and his date, (plus a pitcher of beer) from the University Restaurant, two Pig's Dinners for himself and his date from The Dairy Bar, a pair of sterling silver cuff links from Wentworth & Sloan, a two dollar trade certificate from Huggins Hardware, a Carolina belt buckle from the Carolina Sport Shop, a necktie from Milton's Clothing Cupboard, a certificate worth $2.50 in trade at Sutton's Drug Company, a pair of socks from Maurice Julian's, two passes from both the Carolina and Varsity Theatres, and a steak dinner for two at the Ramshead Rathskeller.

In addition to these prizes, the winner will have an all-expense paid date with Sigma Chi's "Miss Modern Venus of 1953."

IDC PICTURES DUE

Officers of the Inter Dormitory Council should get IDC sponsors' pictures to Publicity Chairman Bob Llewellyn by Monday. Latest time for turning in the pictures will be Monday night at 7 o'clock.

Y Membership Outing Confab Starts Today

The YMCA Membership Outing and Conference will start this afternoon at 1:30. Ned Harbin, Y president, asks all who are interested in planning next year's program to attend the conference.

Deadline for registration for the event is 4 this afternoon. Members will meet at the YMCA office at 1:30 Friday. The opening session of the outing will begin at 2 o'clock at Camp New Hope. The conference will continue until mid-afternoon Saturday, Sam Slie, associate secretary for the Southern Region Student YMCA Council, will be present for the conference.

Total cost for registration, overnight lodging and three meals is $2.50. Part time rates are available for those who wish to attend the entire event.

Plan Now To Attend Consolidated University Day At WC Tomorrow

'Do-Nothing' UP Rule Hit By Penegar

Ken Penegar, Student Party presidential nominee, yesterday attacked Ham Horton's administration for what he called "do-nothingism."

He said the UP administration have done little or nothing on top problems. Specifically, he refered to the "unhappy state of affairs in our judicial structure which still contains injustices, the Student Council, finally out of politics after SP's support to have the bill passed over presidential veto."

Penegar also mentioned the "area of academic affairs where we find too few General College advisers and the high cost of textbooks and the low re-sale value at the Book Exchange." He said, "Nothing has been done on these problems by the current administration."

President Ham Horton has pointed out that his administration saved some General College advisers from being dropped when enrollment went down shortly after the UP took over control last year.

"We expect to hear of a completely reorganized and revitalized advising system," from the administration soon, Horton said, as the result of a student government committee working on the problems and the semester system starting next fall.

Penegar also stated he wanted equal privileges for nurses as coeds.

"In short, "concluded the SP candidate, "it is an empty administration, running an empty campaign asking you the students to vote for emptiness and do-nothingism."

Gene Cook, Penegar's campaign manager, also censured the University Party for its lack of attendance at Legislature. "During the last season, the University Party had 34 absences. The SP had 17 absentees," said Cook.

Administration Now Studying Coed Compact

(Continued from page 1)

Froelich and Fred Mewhinney. Individual fraternity presidents and coeds have also worked in the campaign. (The coeds want to remove discriminations between them and imports).

During the Winter Quarter, Chancellor R. B. House, Dean of Students Fred Weaver, Assistant Dean Roy Holsten and Dean of Women Katherine Carmichael met with President Gray to discuss the drinking question. They agreed that there is a need to consider seriously some alteration of the current policy in an effort to remove discrepancies and establish a common sense policy.

They recommended that the IFC consider modifications along these lines:

1. Establish reasonable visiting hours for all women.

2. Obtain responsible adult supervision of social activities including visiting of women.

3. Review the existing IFC machinery for handling possible violations of the visiting agreement, with an eye towards maintaining standards of conduct as outlined in the Campus Code.

The IFC and fraternity presidents considered these suggestions and prepared their proposal embodying the suggestions along with a general outline of operating mechanics. It is this proposal that the administration is considering now.

NEWS IN BRIEF

MUNSAN, Friday — The Communists Thursday quickly agreed to all pertinent points for exchanging sick and wounded prisoners and may sign the agreement today, clearing the way for the first formal transfer of disabled captives in the Korean War, possibly 10 days later. Allied hopes vanished that the Communists would turn over more than 600 prisoners, not more than 125 of whom are expected to be American. But they were preparing to receive the Allied captives, whom the Communists promised to deliver at the rate of 100 per day.

★

WASHINGTON — Former Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr., said yesterday a major reason why ammunition production was not pushed in the first six months of the Korean War was Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "considered judgment" the war would end in December of 1950. Pace made the statement before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee investigating reports of serious and long-standing ammunition shortages in Korea. Pace said it was the "considered judgment" of both Washington and the Far Eastern command that "that particular war" would end six months after it started in June, 1950.

Douglas MacArthur

★

RALEIGH—Leaders of the state's dry forces shifted their attack to new fronts yesterday after annual efforts to win a statewide referendum were beaten by committees of the House and Senate and by members of the House. R. M. Hauss, executive director of the Allied Church League, said his group will seek repeal of a section of the liquor law which permits towns in dry counties to call beer and wine elections.

★

SEOUL—American Marines recaptured Carson Hill yesterday, killing or wounding 220 Chinese in a battle so close to Panmunjom it could be heard by truce delegations. It was the second straight day of savage fighting in the vicinity of the village of mud huts where United Nations and Red negotiators conduct talks that could lead to a cease-fire. Chinese poured into trenches and bunkers on Carson Hill, on the old invasion route to Seoul, after night-long shelling and engaged the Marines in bloody hand-to-hand combat.

★

BURLINGTON — A scheduled demonstration of a new super-accurate and top secret guided missle here was cancelled by the Defense Department Wednesday for reasons of "security and economy." Congressmen and defense officials had been invited to attend the unveiling April 17 of the "nike," a missle manufactured by the Western Electric Company here and said to be 16 times more accurate than ordinary anti-aircraft. The missle is about 20 feet long and has a speed in the neighborhood of 1,500 miles an hour.

SUAB Will Sponsor Concert By Pianist George Bennette

The Student Union Activities Board will sponsor George Bennette, a blind pianist, for its first concert of the Spring Quarter.

The concert will be held Tuesday night in Hill Hall at 8:30 Mary Bryan, Chairman of the Music Committee of SUAB, said yesterday.

Bennette is a native of Greensboro. In high school he was soloist for the North Carolina Symphony. He attended the North Carolina State School for the Blind and later Oberlin College in Ohio, where he received his Bachelor of Music degree in June 1951 with a major in piano.

He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from UNC in August, 1952, with a major in music and the violin as his special instrument.

Bennette is now attending the Julliard School of Music in New York City, working toward his Master of Science degree and studying piano under Joseph Bloch.

He is a member of Pi Kappa Lambda and Phi Beta Kappa honor societies.

Bennette has performed concerts in Ohio and North Carolina, havnig given a violin recital here in July, 1952. His selections for this concert will be taken from Bach, Beethoven, Scriabin, Von Weber, and Ravel.

Forester And Cook

How They Stand

Gordon Forester, Student Party treasurer candidate, yesterday declared, "It amazes me how many different interpretations we have received of our plank to abolish compulsory payment of fees to Woollen Gym and the Carolina Athletic Association."

Forester explained the Student Party's position on the issue:

"Any student who is not taking a course which involves the use of gym facilities or who is not engaged in any athletic activity outside of courses which involved the use of gym facilities should be allowed the option of paying the gym fee each quarter.

"Secondly, I feel that the student body deserves to know where this money is going and just exactly how it is being spent."

Forester continued, "After much insistence to higher - ups in the athletic department a very general financial statement was issued to The Daily Tar Heel.

"Any business trying to get by with a financial statement such as this to its stockholders would be laughed at."

Forester suggested that a campus referendum be held to decide if students wanted to continue the $3.33 per quarter C.A.A. fee.

Jerry Cook, University Party treasurer candidate yesterday voiced his views on the SP proposal to put the athletic fees on a voluntary basis.

"Were they considering the general welfare of UNC or considering the possibility of getting the votes of some selfish students who think only of themselves and not of Carolina?" asked Cook.

"We may as well make a proposal to have people taking one course pay tuition for one course, two for two, and so on," he added.

"I think it is the duty of the UNC student to support his University within reasonable limits and not take the attitude of 'what's in it for me?'"

Cook said the state is supporting the University "as much as it can—the students have to do the rest." He said also that we have one of the best physical education departments in the country.

"This gym fee is a general tax, not a personal tax and should not be treated as such. The past, which is the best guide to the future, proved that subscription would not work," Cook continued.

He concluded, "As for the $3.33 passbook fee, I don't think this proposal is worth discussing. It is ridiculous to propose to put this on a subcription basis. It is one of the best deals we ever got and what do you say let's leave well enough alone before we start paying full price for athletic contests?"

Mutilating, tearing down or otherwise disfiguring campaign posters is an Honor Code violation.

Violaters will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Phi Mu Alpha Elects Sibley New President

Tommy Sibley of Albemarle, N. C. has been elected president of Alpha Rho Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, national music fraternity.

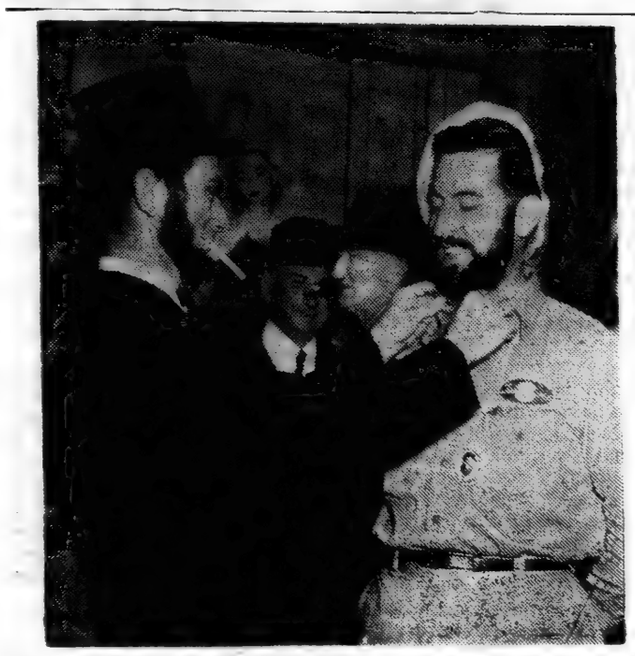
He succeeds Fred Rierson of Mount Airy as head of the local group. Also elected at the meeting were Jim Headlee, Asheville, vice-president; Wilbur Boice, Whiteville, secretary; Lewis Mack, Mooresville, treasurer; and Lee Bostian, Raleigh, warden.

The group also discussed plans for attending the regional convention at the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla., on the week end of May 1.

Alpha Kappa Psi Names Lacy Baynes President

Lacy Baynes, a third quarter sophomore from Greensboro, has been elected president of Alpha Kappa Psi's spring pledge class.

Other officers chosen by the pledges of the professional business fraternity were John Stuart of Shelby, vice-president and Al Stanly of Whiteville,, secretary-treasurer.



These men will head a pledge class of thirteen fellow students and will set up an organization patterned after the chapter. The members of the pledge class will serve as junior members of the various committees of the chapter. Plans are also being made for a formal pledge banquet-dance to be held around the first of May.

WEATHER
Some clouds and warmer with 75 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

POLISH
How to shine an apple, or The Art of Staying in College. Page 2.

VODUME LXI, NUMBER 127 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, APRIL 12, 1953 | SIX PAGES TODAY

M. J. CASPER OF SALISBURY, one of nearly 200 Rowan County Bi-Centennial celebrants who visited the campus yesterday, compares brush with Durham's Duncan King on the Durham leg of the Rowan caravan. Rowan County is 200 years old this week, while Durham, a comparative youngster, is only 100. (Photo courtesy The Durham Herald.)

An Uninhibited Junior, A Shave For Gray

String Music, Long Beards Snap Weekend Doldrums

By Bob Slough

Chapel Hill and the University let its hair down Friday afternoon and welcomed the Rowan County "Brothers of the Brush" and "Sisters of the Swish" to the campus.

The 40-car caravan, now touring the state to promote the Rowan County bicentennial celebration, came into Chapel Hill with sirens screaming and bells ringing.

Some 150 bewhiskered men and petticoated women stopped in the Graham Memorial parking lot for a round of square dancing and then proceeded to the Y Court to "wake this campus up."

They stirred the campus from a lazy afternoon quietness as students joined the square dancing and merrymaking.

This was the fourth caravan this month for the Rowan celebrants, trips which took them over most of the state. Friday's tour included stops at Asheboro, Ramseur, Burlington, Durham, Chapel Hill, Pittsboro and Siler City. They were escorted all the way by two Highway Patrol cars.

The fun-loving folk issued a general invitation to Carolina students to come to Salisbury Thursday afternoon to hear a speech by President Eisenhower who will be down to join in the celebration.

President Gray was made an honorary member of "Brothers of the Brush" and given a "Shaver's Permit" certificate.

"If you carry this permit," he was told, "you won't get thrown in jail if you go to Salisbury." He was also presented a tri-corner hat, official head-piece for the celebration.

In welcoming the group to "your University, the oldest state university in the country," Gray said, "I have some claim to Rowan County. My wife is from Rowan all the way back."

He offered his best wishes and "personally" thanked them for giving Chapel Hill some part in the program. For Mrs. Gray, the group had a bonet and "Sisters of the Swish" certificate.

The Salisbury master of ceremonies made it clear that they weren't a part of the Durham Centennial.

"No sir," he said, "this is Rowan County's Bicentennial Celebration. We're 200 years old. We don't fool with them young fellows in Durham. They're only 100 years old."

One student told a bewhiskered gentleman, "I haven't seen anything like this since I left Kentucky."

Another student called his friend to one side and said, "Man, come dig this—its the coolest thing you ever saw."

Student Body President Ham Horton and YMCA Secretary Irene McDonald joined in the square dancing along with Mrs. Dorothy Branch, secretary to Chancellor House.

Uninhibited Junior Ron Levin took off his shoes, square-danced with a Rowan grandmother, and sang two choruses of "Mountain Dew" with a four-piece string band.

UNC May Get Unclaimed Bets At Dog Tracks

The University was a step closer to the win, place and show window yesterday after a General Assembly committee agreed it should get unclaimed dog track winnings.

The winnings would be accredited to the Consolidated University's escheats fund. Escheat is the system whereby because of failure of persons legally entitled to hold it, property reverts to the state.

One of the tracks—there are two, one at Moycock and another at Morehead City—has about $11,000 in unclaimed winnings it has been would revert to the Consolidated estimated. The money eventually University's escheats fund anyway, but the bill would shorten the waiting time from five years to 60 days.

All other sections of the escheats bill proposed by Kemp S. Cate, escheats officer, were eliminated by the committee, Senate Judiciary 2. The only thing left was the gambling winnings proposal.

The proposals killed before the bill was approved would have provided for the escheat of unclaimed wages and of the proceeds from unredeemed transportation tickets. Another would have made it possible to transfer stocks or bonds to the escheats fund.

The escheats fund for the Consolidated University is invested and the proceeds ploughed into scholarships which are made available to each of the three branches proportionate to its student body.

Hemmings Gets Polio Research Fellowship

A Carolina medical student has been notified by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis of his approval for a two-months fellowship in research.

Hugh C. Hemmings of Mt. Airy will be associated with Dr. E. C. Curnen, professor of pediatrics at University Memorial Hospital, during July and August. The fellowship is to allow research concerning a virus thought to be a possible cause of polio.

Model UN

Chairmen will be selected for the four Model UN General Assembly commissions Monday at 7 p.m. on the second floor of the Y. Representatives of participating organizations are asked to be present.

Bryant In, Hill Out

J. W. Clark Reelected Trustee

Industrialist John W. Clark, segregation - minded Trustee from Franklinville sometimes embroiled in student arguments, yesterday was among 28 nominated to the Consolidated University Board of Trustees.

He received one of the highest votes accorded any Trustee during the selection.

Clark has been a Trustee since 1933 and most recently was in the news in the school year 1951-52 when it was revealed that he had looked into the hometown backgrounds of some of the University's liberal students.

He wrote letters to various town officials identifying himself as a member of the Executive Committee. The Carolinian at WC called on the Executive Committee to censure Clark for using the unit's name and when the committee met in the Spring it in effect rebuked Clark.

A joint House and Senate Committee of the General Assembly approved the nominations and a joint session of the full bodies will formally elect the Trustees.

Also reelected was Victor S. Bryant of Durham. Bryant, as chairman of the Trustee Visiting Committee and member of the Executive Committee, has been very active in University affairs and was one of the leading proponents for Saturday classes.

Another Trustee from Durham, also on the Executive Committee, was passed over. John Sprunt Hill was among 13 who didn't get their terms renewed.

There are 100 Trustees with an additional ex officio membership of the state schools superintendent, the governor and former governors. At least 10 of the 100 must be women.

The terms of 25 expire on April 1 of each odd-numbered year and 25 new members are elected to serve for eight years.

The Executive Committee is composed of 12 Trustees elected by and from the general board's membership. The Executive Committee has full power to act for the board except for power to alter or revoke any order made by the board.

The 28 nominations included six members of the present legislature —three senators and three represenatives. Sen. Edwin Pate of Scotland was tapped for a new term. Sens. John D. Larkins Jr. of Jones and W. Lunsford Crew of Halifax, and Reps. Grace Taylor Rodenbough of Stokes, Carl V. Venters of Onslow and A. C. Edwards of Greene won seats on the board.

In addition to Mrs. Rodenbough, women Trustees selected included Mrs. Charles Tillett of Mecklenburg and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell of Pitt.

Present Trustees, in addition to Bryant, Clark and Pate, chosen for new terms included:

Reid A. Maynard, Alamance; Wade Barbour, Chatham; Glenn C. Palmer, Haywood; Roy Rowe, Pender and E. Leigh Winslow, Perquimans.

Other Trustees nominated included:

Frank H. Brown Jr., Jackson; Floyd Crouse, Alleghany; Horton Doughton, Iredell; Henry A. Foscue, Guilford; Robert M. Hanes, Forsyth; Judge A. C. Harris, Wake; Dr. L. J. Herring, Wilson; Dr. Harvey B. Mann, Hyde; C. Knox Massey, Durham; B. S. Royster Jr., Vance; A. Alex Shuford, Catawba; Lacy C. Tate, Columbus and J. Shelton Wicker, Lee.

Present Trustees besides Hill not nominated for new terms:

Samuel M. Blount, Beaufort; Miss Gertrude Carraway, Craven; George S. Coble, Davidson; Henry A. Lineberger, Gaston; Mrs. Laua Weil Cone, Guilford; James C. Pittman, Lee; John G. Dawson, Lenoir; Collier Cobb Jr., Orange; John Q. LeGrand, Orange; J. Benton Stacy, Rockingham; John E. Ramsey, Rowan; Kenneth S. Tanner, Rutherford and Mrs. Frances N. Miller, Wake.

B. K. Lassiter of Granville was not a candidate for relection to his expiring seat on the board.

CAMPUS SEEN

Maddening suggestion on the back of a local beanery's menu: "Enjoy life! Eat out more often."

★

Odd positions assumed by visiting photographers to get shots of campus scenery.

★

'Spring for sure" as less inhibited profs hold classes under the trees.

Photo Course Ends With Talk By Va. Editor

"The most effective assignment planning and coverage I have found is to try and make every reporter and editor picture conscious, "John Colburn, managing editor of the Richmond Times - Dispatch, told press photographers and newspaper editors attending the Southern Short Course in Press Photography at the University of North Carolina today.

"Good assignment planning, combined with photographer initiative, can pay off in a better all-round photographic performance," he said.

He urged the photographer who wishes to move ahead in his profession to consider each assignment—be it a routine garden club shot or the biggest fire in the city's history—as a challenge to make a better and different picture.

This morning's program also featured an address by Vincent Jones, director of the news and editorial office for the Gannett Newspapers, Rochester, N. Y., who spoke on "Reader Interest in Pictures."

Ed Wergeles, chief photographer of Newsweek Magazine, and Allan Gould, New York, were scheduled to speak this afternoon.

"Readership is the payoff for anyone who works for a newspaper whether it be the editor, photographer or reporter," said Jones. "Every good newspaperman does his best to keep track of how his product is registering."

He divided the newspaper reading public into six groups and urged the 200 cameramen in his audience to make their pictures appeal to these fundamental human appetites. He also encouraged planning pictures to meet the appetites of both men and women rather than devote certain sections of the newspaper specifically to the two groups.

Joe Clark, one of the best known press photographers in the country, who addressed Friday sessions dressed in overalls and straw hat and barefoot, told the cameramen 'You dont have to go around chasing celebrities in order to get good newspaper and magazine pictures." He said that some of the best press pictures are to be found "right in your own back yard, among your own children, your neighbors and their children."

Horton Can't Quit Council Say WC, State, And Carolina

Day At WC Has But 400 In Afternoon

GREENSBORO, April 11 — WC girls blamed poor planning and lack of enthusiasm for a luke-warm afternoon session of Consolidated University Day, but tonight's social program was more active.

Despite the fact the women's dorms here sent invitations to dorms at UNC and State, the visiting turnout, numbering about 400, and resulting social activity, was low, though there was plenty of female companionship available.

An afternoon program consisting mostly of ping pong, skating, and bowling gave way to a more lively program at night with Linc Smith and his orchestra providing music for a dance in WC's plush new Elliot Hall Student Union. Previous to the dance, a talent show consisting of performers from the three schools packed in an attentive audience.

Chief attraction for the majority of visitors was the ultra-modern Student Union Building recently completed. UNC students remarked, "We need a duplicate copy at Carolina." The building has a huge ballroom, television room, several lounges, postoffice, and offices for most branches of student government.

Unable to attend the celebration, President Gordon Gray nevertheless sent a message to students, saying, "I extend greetings to all of you from the Woman's College, State College, and Chapel Hill, who have gathered together to take part in the activities of Consolidated University Day. Occasions of this kind will exemplify the spirit of consolidation.

"I regret that I cannot be with you, and I hope the day has been a happy one," he concluded.

The Consolidated University Student Council meeting went on mostly unnoticed by visiting students who seemed content to enjoy the warm April sunshine and the pert women students.

Chancellor Edward Kidder Graham of WC, in an interview, discussed some of the potentialities of the Consolidated Council. He thinks that students, as an organic part of the University, should also be available for policy-making on the consolidated level. He believes the council to be an important contributor to the cause of consolidation.

Noting that this year's council has not spent much time on positive projects, the Chancellor suggested that it study the proposal to have a student member of the Board of Trustees.

HAM HORTON
". . . doesn't exist"

WC President Says CUSC Exists Anyway

By Louis Kraar

GREENSBORO, April 11 — The Consolidated University Student Council decided today that it still exists and that President Ham Horton is still a member.

"I encourage this body to refuse to recognize Ham Horton's resignation," Bob Horne of State said. Then the three-school scuffle began.

Carolina's delegation, despite unusual make-up and much debate, went along with the other two schools when the vote was finally made. Carolina actually had three different groups — original CUSC members, four more appointed by the legislature, and President Horton's CU Day committee.

After a two-hour meeting in WC's brand-new Elliot Hall, a resolution was unanimously passed that Horton did not actually quit and couldn't do so unless he resigned as President.

The controversy arose last month when Jim Adams, Carolina's top man in CUSC, and President Horton quit the group. Things really got hot this week, though, when Horton said the three-school group doesn't exist because Carolina has dropped out.

"I don't intend to enter into Carolina politics," Trilby Boerner, WC student body president, said, "but I just want the executive committee to meet."

Miss Boerner said she was disturbed over Horton's attitude toward the group. "My understanding is that the CUSC is still a council. As for Ham, it's not our fault if he doesn't want to come," she remarked. The rest of the group agreed.

Ken Barton, who was chosen temporary chairman of Carolina's delegation at a front-lawn caucus, apologized for the situation at Carolina. "For the last two or three weeks," Barton declared, "we've been 'Ham-strung'."

Tom Sully, CUSC president and a UNC student, delivered a statement from Horton in which he apologized for not attending. "Horton recognizes this as a meeting of students from all three schools," Sully said.

Sully, who stated he was in an "unusual position," refused to recognize Horne's proposal about a half-dozen times.

The fifth time the proposal was made, Sully said, "You're going to have to force me against my will, and you'll have to push me."

"Well, I'll push you then," Miss Boerner answered, and she did until the motion was recognized.

Horne put his argument like this: "Horton can't resign, unless he wishes to resign first as president of the student body. It's something that just goes on and on."

State's Bill Hagler called the mixup a "political football at Carolina." Horne said that "Horton thought he was doing something real cute." Later he dubbed him "small minded."

Horton was expected to attend the dance and other activities last night. He did not appear for the CUSC meeting.

Woman's College spokesmen said that Horton started his efforts to break down the CUSC this fall. They termed this the reason for so little accomplished. The WC representatives pointed out that their criticism was not directed at Horton personally, but just at his actions in the CUSC.

WUNC Begins New Program Series Tonight

A revival of the old European custom of presenting public dress rehearsals of concerts by the Little Orchestra Society of New York City is to be utilized by student-operated station WUNC in a new program series this week, Mike Healy, program director, said yesterday.

Under the direction of Thomas Scherman, the orchestra will perform from the auditorium of Hunter College, New York, between 8 and 10 o'clock tonight. Mozart's "La Clemenza di Tito" will be featured in the broadcast.

These concerts have reecntly been adapted to radio by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters and are being carried over a nation-wide hookup.

Music critic David Randolph is featured with the orchestra to provide an illustrated commentary on the themes of the selections played.

"Bonjour Mesdames," a quarter hour of fashion and cuisine notes presided over by Marjorie Dunton and produced in Paris, holds the 7:45 p.m. spot on Monday night's schedule. Guest appearance tomorrow night will be put in by Jaques Heim, who will give the inside slant on Spring vogue.

A recording of humorist Ogden Nash's talk given last Tuesday to a University audience in Memorial Hall will be aired 9 p.m. Monday.

Lowest Since '46

University Enrollment Drops To 5,044 Mark

University enrollment for Spring quarter is 5,044, lowest in recent years, Central Records Office reports revealed yesterday.

This quarter's enrollment figure is the lowest since spring quarter of 1946 when 4,300 students were registered. The records indicate a drop of 174 students over last quarter's mark of 5,218.

General College leads all other schools of the University with 1684 students. Next, is the School of Arts and Sciences with 987 students. The report includes all schools.

Coed enrollment dropped to 835, a loss of 11 students over last quarter's 846 total.

There are 3,936 students from North Carolina and 1,062 from other states. Forty-six students come from foreign countries or U. S. possessions.

Enrollment for the schools follows:

	Winter	Spring
General College	1899	1684
Arts and Sciences	914	987
Business School	490	495
Education	254	258
Journalism	76	74
Graduate School	697	684
Law	177	173
Library Science	36	43
Medicine	166	165
Nursing	48	47
Dentistry	117	117
Pharmacy	213	211
Public Health	86	76
Social Work	45	30

In addition to the 684 students in Graduate School there are 60 graduate students in Public Health, 30 in Social Work and 12 in Library Science, bringing the total to 786.

Of the net total of 5,044 students, there are 591 men and 15 women using the GI Bill. In addition there are 436 male veterans and six female veterans not using the Bill. There are 3182 non-veteran males and 814 nonveteran females enrolled this quarter.

FIFTY-NINE YEAR OLD Ed Kibbe (above) has more blood in his veins than he can use. Because of an abnormally active bone marrow, Kibbe has to "donate" two pints each week to a Lorain, O., hospital. Every six weeks he has to go to Cleveland, O., where nurses use a five-foot pole and special radiation masks to hand him his "atomic cocktail," which is part of the treatment for his rare disease.—NEA Telephoto.

Expense Accounts

The Elections Board reminds all candidates in the Spring election their campaign expense accounts will be due Tuesday, April 14, the day before elections. The statements must be turned in to the board before 6 p.m. or the delinquent candidate will be fined $1.

A candidate will be disqualified for office if his expense account is not in within 24 hours after Tuesday, 6 p.m.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Trustees Go To School

Elecion of John W. Clark for another eight year term to the Board of Trustees is an indication of Clark's popularity in the State Legislature. Tha populari y doesn' extend to this campus. He received one of the highest votes of any of the new nominees in Thursday's balloting by the Joint House and Senate Committee.

Also returned to office was Victor Bryant of Durham, author of the Saturday class plan in the Executive Comittee.

Trustee Clark has been noticeably quiet this past year. Last year, he was the University's chief critic and almost a constant plague to students.

The 28 trustees whose election is almost insured, will be here in May to participate in a three day school session. Object of the course is to acquaint Trustees with the function and operation of the University. This educational program will go a long way in clearing up misinformed notions about UNC. It is another step in the direction of informing those who should know, but generally don't, what goes on here in Chapel Hill.

Recently, President Gordon Gray remarked that the first thing to do in handling the problem of interpreting the University to the State is to star a home. This is done on he student level through such agencies as the Consolidated University Student Council; on the faculty level, through this year's Faculty Conference, and now on the Trustee level, through the three day school period.

We are happy to hear that the Trustees are "going to school." We welcome them as fellow students. We are especially happy that Trustee Clark will have an opportunity to really find out about the University, close range.

How To Stay In College

Editor's Note; This came to us in the morning mail from the National Education Association Journal, October, 1948.

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. Demonstrate fiery interest and give him timely items to mention to the class. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings a random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.

2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievingly and shake it.

3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true." To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite objective.

4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.) If you are going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.

5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke, believe it or not.

6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.

7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.

8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do Math. in Psychology and Psychology in Math., match the books for size and collor.

9. Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your younger brother's second grade reader at that.

10. Call attention to his writing. Produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or an article, ask in class if he wrote it.

As to whether or not you want to do some work, in addition to all this, well, it's controversial and up to the individual.

What's Happened to Jazz

What's Happened to Jazz is the provacative title of a December Mademoiselle article in which Russell Roth traces the strange turns Jazz has taken since it came in with the bloomer girl and her lineal descendant, the flapper. Not the least of these is the current interest of American Universities, their growing need for teachers of jazz—or at least the history of jazz. Roth cites the experimental courses of Professor Marshall Stearns of N. Y. U., the work of Herskovits and Waterman at Northwestern, and he says that the University of Minnesota is considering its inclusion in the American Studies curriculum.

He points out an irony in this situation — namely that the universities are showing their first serious interest in jazz when the living tradition of the music is at its lowest ebb. "It doesn't seem to be at first glance: there is more talk today, and intelligent talk," Roth says, "about New Orleans jazz than ever before; there are more young musicians apparently interested in tradi ional jazz han at any time since the twenties. But this only veils a very serious reality, one that in the past has usually meant the death of a music; the audience has been lost."

The Jarrards

Clara

The quotes from reviews used as blurbs for Lonnie Coleman's Clara (Bantam) say, "Clara is a superior performance," "Lonnie Coleman makes a powerful bid for literary importance," "A story with real flavor an excellent novel," "Race qualities rather than race prejudices," and "an honest book on a ticklish subject." Since one doesn't pay any attention to blurbs, I didn't think Clara was any different from other race novels. However, curiosity got the better of me and I read the book.

Clara is the story of a struggle between Carl Sayre's wife, Lillian, and Clara, his Negro servant and mistress. Clara is not intentionally a rival for Carl's love as Lillian thinks. Clara serves Carl in all his wishes. To him she is more than a physical companion. She is the one who holds his household together, tames his wife, and takes care of him during his drunken periods. Clara is the only person who understands him.

In Lillian Carl had hoped to find love and understanding. Instead, he finds a cold, frightened woman who is his wife in name only. The reader will feel some compassion for Lillian. She needs Clara as badly as Carl does. Gradually, Lillian realizes Clara's importance to the family.

The story is told by Lillian. It begins in a small town in Alabama in the year 1920. Lillian tells her story in sequences of important years. The last chapter takes place in 1950. The book is centered around Carl and Clara but the rest of Lillian's family is brought in. Aunt Aster provides comic relief. She is a butterfly collector. In her old age, when she's not getting enough attention, she puts on all of her clothes wrong side out and backwards. Some of her antics are side-splitting.

Mr. Coleman has recaptured the Southern dialect. Lillian's "sayings" are so real and typical that they are immediately accepted as authentic. Through Lillian, Mr. Coleman skillfully gives an insight into women's ways of thinking. I found myself becoming impatient with Lillian's ideas, but upon analyzing them I realized that many women think in the same fashion. She faced her problems honestly and worked toward a sensible solution. Clara was portrayed realistically. She is not the uneducated, licentious Negress so often described in race novels.

I recommend Clara for almost all readers. It may start a chain of thought that won't end with Southern problems.

There are several other novels I want to mention. Low Company (Angels in Undress) (Avon), a novel of the London underworld by Mark Benney, was highly praised by some critics. Richard Brooks has The Producer (Pocket book), about Hollywood. In William Barrett's The Left Hand of God (Pocket Book), Jim Carmody disguises himself as a Catholic priest and finds it hard to undisguise himself, David Dressler, in Parole Chief (Bantam), tells about his work with convicts. Francis Carco's Perversity (Avon), translated by Ford Madox Ford, pctures life "in the lower depths of Paris."

A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

If the Shoe Fits

Ron, old bean (Ron Levin to you readers), you have done me a great injustice. You have inferred many many grave things about my tastes, endocrine balance, and ability to enjoy life. I never thought that I would be accused of stodginess. I expected the letter I received from the Southern Regional Committee of the Communist Party and, as a matter of fact, I'm quite proud of it. I expected to have half the English Department all over my back. But to be accused of stodginess! That is sheer cruelty, and so unjustified. You just missed the whole idea.

In the first place, I didn't condemn anybody for wearing white bucks, going barefoot on senior day, going to movies, or playing poker. I condemn those who don't do much of anything else and who regard anyone who does as queer. I condemn the conformist and the provincial and the sheep-like spectres that haunt this campus.

Just for the record:

You're right on Marilyn Monroe; she's got a big bust-line, a symmetrical figure, pretty hair, and about as much sex appeal, in my opinion, as a billboard poster. And if she's an actress, I'm Satchel Paige. (Roger Willcoe will assure you that I'm not Satchel Paige.)

Jerry Lewis, to me, is funny the first time, and maybe the second time if you've had a lot of beer, and after that, nuts!

Dixieland is my favorite type of music, that is, Dixieland in the loose sense. I like Benny Goodman and Louis Armstrong particularly, and when I hear Barney Bigard play Body and Soul it's all I can do to keep from crying.

I once drank twenty-seven cans of beer one afternoon and night and the only reason I don't do that anymore is because it came to a choice between eating and drinking, and after due consideration, I chose the former.

I am still interested in the opposite sex, though I will admit my interests are rather narrow. Last year I was completely snowed by a certain young damsel, and I went off and married her. To use one of your expressions, married life is "the greatest".

Though I had the misfortune of seeing The Snows of Kilimanjaro (which wasn't even close to the original), I don't go to movies much anymore. I'd rather save up the money and buy a bottle of gin.

With the exception of Joseph Conrad, my favorite writers are contemporary ones: Hemingway, Steinbeck, Monsarrat, and James Jones. As you probably know, I don't care much for Herman Melville or John Greenleaf Whittier.

Though my feet are size thirteen and a half, I plan to go barefoot on senior day.

Ron, old sport, now that the pique at identifying yourself a bit too closely with my first type has worn off, I would suggest that you go back and reread my column. Try reading it objectively one time. It is necessary that a psychoanalyst be objective, if nothing else.

"Yes, I'm Getting Quite A Charge Out Of It"

English Club

Foreign Languages

When the University sat down together to attempt a self-examination a month ago, many problems and purposes of higher education were stated for all to see. But one educational problem was apparently overlooked: how may this country become conscious of and proficient in foreign languages. Why should educated Americans know foreign languages? Here is part of an answer, quoted from the Washington Post, December 29, 1952:

"Until the first American trained especially for Indonesian duty was assigned to the Embassy in 1949, all translating was done by natives. To please their employers, they interpreted everything to sound rosy, pro-American. But when American area and language experts began to read Indonesian newspapers and attend sessions of the National Legislature, the Embassy learned that strong Communist-inspired anti-American feeling was sweeping the country. Now the Ambassador wants as many area and language men in Indonesia as he can get . . . but it will be years before this country is well supplied with them.

"State Department officials, at their most optimistic, estimate the department has only half the area and language experts which it considers a minimum need . . . Congress established the Foreign Service Institute in the department in 1940 to give general training to diplomats and then to educate some as area and language specialists . : . Only volunteers are given the area training . . . Not many volunteer for training on the area where they are most needed—Asla . . . The Institute has only one man in training as a Southeast Asia specialist —for Indonesia. The foreign service has only thirteen area specialists for India, Pakistan, Nepal and Ceylon. They speak no Hindustani, although there are at least thirteen other major languages in the area. . . .

"In the Moslem world the foreign service has only fifteen Arabic specialists, compared with an estimated need for forty-three. Only six are in training. Yet that is far better than it used to be. One career diplomat recalls that in 1946 the State Department did not have one officer who could read an Arabic newspaper . . . To find out what Islam was saying in its newspapers, the diplomats had to mail them home to the Library of Congress for translation.

"For Iran the foreign service has four language and area specialists and needs eight. None is in training. Luther Evans, Librarian of Congress, says that if this country had had more Irian specialists, or had listened to those that it had, the current crisis there might conceivably have been avoided. . . ."

Have the Administration and faculty heard this before?

Yr Mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
Pandarus

Herb Cohn

Review and Preview

Tomorrow night at 7:15 P.M. in Gerrard Hall the YMCA and the Hillel Foundation will sponsor "The Snake Pit", the fourth in a series of socially significant movies. The theme "Man Against Himself" will be the subject of the discussion following the movie with Dr. Harry S. Crane of the Clinical Psychology Department as leader.

Mary Jane Ward's powerful novel "The Snake Pit", is hardly one which Hollywood might have been expected to choose for transcription to the screen. For it puts forth fully and frankly the case of a young woman in a mental institution, wherein she proceeds through experiences not of a most pleasant nature. Yet Twentieth Century Fox and Darryl S. Zanuck saw the special merit in this book and brought it to the screen.

They approached this extraordinary job with a sense of responsibility to treat fairly a most delicate theme. They stuck rigidly to documented facts and showed the temptation to melodramatize insanity. The consequence is tha tthe picture is a true, illuminating presentation of the experience of a psychotic in an institution.

The most striking aspect of this picture is the forcefulness with which it makes us feel the dark confusion, distress and yearnings of a person mentally ill. It shows the idiosyncracies of "the sick" and draws them into a pattern which should expand and enlighten us.

Telling the poignant story of a young married woman who is slowly returned to sanity from a mental depth, it goes with her through the experiences of electro-shock treatment, narco synthesis, hydro therapy and the effect of living in a ward with the violently insane. And by the use of flashbacks of her earlier life, it gives a good Freudian explanation for her illness on which to base a cure.

The subject is dynamite and I advise that faint and susceptible people pass this one up. But it must be said that everyone of the roles, even down to the smallest bitparts of the ward patients, are excellently played.

In the chief role, Olivia de Havlland does a brilliant, heart-rending job as the central, guilt-ridden patient, and Leo Genn is remarkably fine as her shrewd, sympathic psychiatrist. Mark Stevens is gentle as her husband —a hard role to play—and Helen Craig gives a good, tough performance as a nurse who admires the doc.

"The Snake Pit" while frankly quite disturbing, and not recommended for the weak, is a mature drama on a pregnant theme. If you haven't seen it, be at Gerrard Hall tomorrow night. In addition to the movie, Dr. Dawson is a number one authority on the problem and his comments should be well worth hearing.

The Enchanted One

Oh, Infelix where are you? I have been seeking to find you, where you are sitting "in amazement at the complexities of the world with their bluntedness, plodding after the blonted goal". If I could find you, I would open my mind and soul to tell you of the great love and joyous heart which God has let me, and others, see "as the end result of all this labor" and how it "sparks" my life to go on and on mid toil and strife to receive even greater love and joy, and indeed peace of mind and heart.

"The joy of the Lord is your strength". To follow with words from Oswald Chambers, "My Utmost for His Highest"; "the only way to know the strength of God is to take the yoke of Christ upon us and to learn of Him. (Matt. XI:29) Christ asks us to take one end of the yoke—" my yoke is easy, get alongside Me and we will put together". When the darkness of dismay comes, endure until it is over, because out of it will come that following of Christ, the Son of God, which is an unspeakable joy.

The first thing to do in examining the power that dominates you is to take hold of the unwelcome fact that you are responsible for being thus dominated. If you are a slave to self and the world you live in, it is because at a point away back you yielded yourself. Likewise, if you are dominated by God it will be because you have yielded yourself to Him. I prefer to have God dominate my life because I know He is infinite in wisdom, power, and love, and that in my finite human weakness I need Him. Through dependence on Him and the surrendering of my will to Him, I obtain abundant joy and happiness in the world and eternal life in the life after death.

If you want to reach higher, out of the bounds of self and materials with their grotesque pressures, such as "when you go back to beating your head against the wall and all you are doing is bashing your brains and your heart out, thinking there is nothing else you can do", tell God you are ready to be dominated. Then let the consequences be what the may, you will find there are no real complaints, regardless of what God chooses. God puts you through the crisis in private, no one person can really help another. It is entirely between you and God. Externally the life may, for the time, be the same; the real difference is in will. You surrender your will to God and then He takes over, working His will through you.

After this complete surrender, there is nothing that oppresses or depresses, you realize that things cannot touch you as they used to do. This surrendering of will is an humbling experience, and so it must be i nthis process of putting away the "old man" (self way of life) and putting on the "new man" (God's way of life). God has taught us the way of humility and service to Him in the life of

(See ENCHANTED, Page 3)

Baseball, Track Squads Win Conference Bouts

Twelve New Track Marks Set; Lore Wins For Tar Heels

The Carolina track team, registering first places in 12 of the 14 events, defeated the VMI Keydets by the score of 92½ to 37½ yesterday on Fetzer Field. A total of 12 Carolina-VMI dual meet records were broken, 9 were smashed by Carolina and 3 by the Keydets.

Leading the Tar Heels was Jeff Newton, who scored wins in the 100 yard and the 220 yard dashes and was the second highest scorer of the meet with a total of ten points.

The individual high scorer of the meet was Johnny Mapp of VMI who registered a first place in the 220 yard low hurdles, a second place in both the broad jump and the 100 yard dash. Mapp is also the holder of the Southern Conference indoor low hurdles championship.

Those breaking records for Carolina in the meet were Morris in the shot put and discus, Bell in the javelin throw, Jordan in the high jump, Newman in the 880 yard run, Barden in the two mile run, Beall in the 120 yard high hurdles, and Yarborough in the broad jump.

The Keydet record breakers were Mapp in the 220 yard low hurdles, Angle in the 440 yard run, and the VMI mile relay team of Jones, Shay, Svendson, and Angle.

Summaries:

One mile run—Osborne (UNC) time 4:36.8.

440 yard run—Angle (VMI) time 49.6.

100 yard dash—Newton (UNC) time 10:00.

220 yard dash—Newton (UNC) time 22.1.

880 yard run—Newman (UNC) time 1:59.4.

120 yard high hurdles — Beall (UNC) time 14.7.

High jump—Jordan (UNC) height 6 feet.

Two mile run—Barden (UNC) time 10:00.9.

220 yard low hurdles — Mapp (VMI) time 24.1.

Pole vault—Jordan (UNC) Duke (UNC) Yarborough (UNC) hegiht 12 feet (tie).

Shot put—Morris (UNC) distance 49 feet, 5 inches.

Javelin—Bell (UNC) distance 174 feet.

Discus — Morris (UNC) distance 140 feet, 4 inches.

Board jump—Yarborough (UNC) 22 feet, 4¾ inches.

One mile relay—VMI time 3:27.2.

Paced by the relief pitching of Bobby Lore and three hits by Ed Hooks, the Carolina baseball team came from behind to take a 5-3 victory over the Citadel.

Pazdan, who started for the Tar Heels, had a show of wildness in the first inning and walked in a run. Lore came on the mound after two were out with the bases full and walked in another run. However, from then on the Citadel team could not lay their bats on anything that he threw at them.

The Tar Heels scored two runs in the second inning on a triple, a single, and an error. They went in to the lead in their half of the third by scoring a run without collecting a hit. Single runs picked up in the seventh and ninth innings cinched the win for Carolina.

It was the second win for the Tar Heels on their road trip. They defeated South Carolina Friday.

Carolina	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Henning, 1b	3	1	1	13	1	1
Lloyd, 2b	4	1	1	1	3	1
Dale, ss	2	1	1	3	4	0
Keller, rf	5	0	0	2	0	0
Gravitte, cf	5	0	1	2	0	0
Mottzinger, lf	3	1	0	1	0	1
Holt, 3b	3	1	1	0	3	0
Williams, 3b	1	0	0	0	0	0
Hooks, c	3	0	3	4	3	0
Pazdan, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Lore, p	3	0	1	1	4	0
	32	5	9	27	18	3

The Citadel	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Denny, 2b	5	0	0	3	4	0
Blanton, cf	3	1	0	3	0	0
Walker, rf	3	1	2	1	0	0
Strange, 1b	4	1	1	10	1	1
Allen, lf	3	0	0	1	1	0
Rierson, rf	3	0	0	1	0	0
Williams, p	3	0	1	0	3	0
Morrell, c	4	0	0	6	0	0
Long, ss	3	0	0	0	2	2
Newton	1	0	0	0	0	0
	32	3	4	27	12	3

Carolina 021 000 101—5 9 3
Citadel 200 000 010—3 4 3

RBI—Dale, Gravitte, Holt, Hooks, Strange, Rierson Chapman; 2B—Gravitte, Dale, Williams; 3B—Holt, Walker; SB—Blanton, Allen; Sacrifices—Dale 2, Henning, Lloyd; DP—Long, Denny, and Strange; Allen and Morrell; Left on base—UNC 11, Citadel 7; Bases on balls—Chapman 3, Williams 3, Pazdan 4, Lore 1; Struck out—Chapman 2, Williams 3, Lore 4; Hits—Pazdan, 0 in ⅔; Lore 4 in 8⅓; Chapman, 2 in 2⅔; Williams, 5 in 6⅓; Hit by pitcher — Williams (Motzinger); Wild Pitch—Chapman, LP—Chapman, WP—Lore; Umpires—Henry, Stewart; Time: 2:35.

MIGHTY MITE BEN HOGAN is in trouble as he has to blast his way from a sand trap near the 18th green at the Augusta, Ga., National Golr Course. Hogan, a contender for the 1953 Masters' Ttournament title, pitched up for a two under par 70 and added a 69 Friday. Other contestants watching Hogan before a large gallery are Jimmy Demaret and Claude Harmon (right).—NEA Telephoto.

Neeters Blank Kalamazoo, For 13th Victory

The Carolina tennis team swept to its 13th consecutive win of the season Friday, blanking Kalamazoo College, 9-0, on the varsity courts.

Carolina won six singles and three doubles matches in straight sets.

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) over Moran, 6-3, 6-1; Bradford (UNC) over Devos, 6-0, 6-3; Browne (UNC) over Fowler, 6-3, 6-2; Payne (UNC) over Glasser, 8-6, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) over Smith, 6-1, 6-0; Kerdasha (UNC) over Wolfe, 6-0, 6-0.

Doubles—Thompson and Bradford (UNC) over Devos and Moran 6-3, 6-2; Izlar and Kerdasha (UNC) over Fowler and Glasser, 7-5, 6-0; Gordon and Lynch (UNC) over Smith and Wolfe, 6-4, 6-4.

MURALS

Tomorrow's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Chi Phi vs Delt Sig; Field 2, Phi Delt 2 vs Theta Chi; Field 3, Pi Kap Phi vs SAE 1; Field 4, Phi Kap Sig vs Delt Psi.

5:00—Field 1, SPE vs DKE 2; Field 2, TEP 2 vs Phi Gam 2; Field 3, Mangum vs Alexander; Field 4, Sig Nu 3 vs Pi Lamb.

Tomorrow's Tennis

4:00—ATO vs Chi Psi 2.

5:00—PiKA vs Pi Kap Phi.

Tomorrow's Horsheshoes

7:00—Phi Delt 1 vs SPE 3; Beta 1 vs AK Psi.

7:40—Kap Sig 1 vs Phi Gam 2; Sig Nu 3 vs SAE 2.

8:20—Phi Gam 1 vs SPE 1; Zetes 2 vs DKE 1.

Entries for both the organization and open play tournaments close tomorrow afternoon.

'The Mobility of the American Working Force" will be the topic of a lecture by Professor A. J. Jaffe of Columbia University tomorrow night at 7:30 in Room 2 of Carroll Hall.

UNC Golfers Play Virginia Away Monday

Carolina's undefeated golf team makes its first trip from home tomorrow, playing the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

Already the Tar Heels have won five matches, all of them with the home course advantage, and they will probably be favored to win their sixth tomorrow. Last year Carolina won over Virginia easily at the Finley golf course.

Making the trip with Coach Chuck Erickson will be Bob Black, Bill Williamson, Bill Thornton, Jim Ferree, Bill Ford, John Frazier, and George Mountcastle.

Black has been the pacer in the past four matches and seems to have hit a winning stride. His only round over par was in the first match against The Citadel when he had a 73. He had a 74 in the 36 hole match with Ohio and Notre Dame but a 69 on the second 18 gave him a one-under total.

The team will return tomorrow night after the match. The next home match will be with N. C. State here this Saturday.

BREAKFAST
Served
ALL DAY
At
The Air Conditioned
UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT
It's Cool Inside

When You're Looking For A Friend New Or Old The Intimate Bookshop Is The Best Place To Look
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

WE ANNOUNCE
Tops In Suspense!
The Southern Premiere of "COUNT THE HOURS"
Starring
McDonald Carey — Teresa Wright
THE KIND OF PICTURE THE TRADE LIKES TO REFER TO AS A SLEEPER
T-O-D-A-Y — MONDAY
Varsity

—Enchanted—

(Continued from Page 2)

Christ, His Son.

Infelix, I entreat you to think on these matters, and pray that you too may come to know the unspeakable joy of being one with Christ in whom God has His way. "Seek and ye shall find, ask and it shall be added unto you."

I am hoping to hear for you again Infelix, and others who would call themselves Infelix (unhappy) whether publicly or in correspondence via the editor.

Doreathea Dixus, Evangelisticus Felix

Watch the Ads For Details on the
THE DALE FAIRLESS RECORD CLUB
Glen Lennox

INTERESTED IN CRITICISM?

Critics and Criticism, edited with an introduction by R. S. Crane. The twenty essays here collected set forth the views of the Chicago school. $6.00

The Writer in America, by Van Wyck Brooks. The credo of a profound writer. Attempts to segregate the productive from the sterile forces in the contemporary literary scene. $3.00

AND A BARGAIN
Great Novelists and their Novels by W. Somerset Maugham. His vote for the greatest novels, supported by urbane and delightful essays. Was $3.00 Our Special $1.25

There's an exciting discovery for you in

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

A GALA HOMECOMING FELL FLAT when France's Communist leader returned to that country after 30 months in Moscow where he was suposed to have been cured of a heart ailment. Maurice Thorez, accompanied by his wife, Julie Marie Vermeersch, stepped from his train at St. Quentin, France, limping painfully, and with one side apparently paralyzed. He went immediately to Paris and into hiding at his secret headquarters.—NEA Telephoto.

Sun rise - and all's well

SKY AND SEA ARE CALM. But alert American Navy men stand at the ready as the sun rises over the Korean coast. It is their responsibility to protect not only the troops on the shore but you far away at home.

The job these men are doing is a constant and continuing job of maintaining America's military strength. The job you are doing at home is equally important and equally constant—that of maintaining our country's economic strength. You are doing it, you know, if you are investing regularly in United States Savings Bonds.

For it is only when you have financial security that your country is economically strong.

Are you one of the 43 million good, thrifty Americans who invest in Bonds regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan?

You decide just how much you want to save . . . as little as 25c a week or as much as you like . . . and each payday the amount is automatically saved out of your paycheck and put into interest-earning United States Savings Bonds. You'll be amazed—and thrilled—at how fast your savings grow! So join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.

Here's how E Bonds

now earn more money for you!

Now safe, sure U. S. Series E Savings Bonds pay an even better return than ever before . . . thanks to 3 brand new money-earning features announced by the U. S. Treasury.

1 Now every Series E Bond you get begins earning interest after only 6 months. It earns 3%, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity.

2 Every Series E Bond you own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date.

3 All maturing E Bonds automatically earn interest at the new, higher rate (average 3% compounded semiannually) for 10 more years.

Start now! Invest more savings in better-paying Series E Bonds—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank!

Peace is for the strong! For peace and prosperity

invest in U. S. Savings Bonds

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, the Advertising Council and

The Daily Tar Heel

What Goes On Here

Bible Study Group

The Bible study group of the YWCA will meet at 5 p.m. tomorrow in the Y with Dr. Bernard Boyd leading the discussion.

French Play Tryouts

Tryouts for a French play to be given near the end of May will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Green Room of the Playmakers Theater.

Inter-Dorm Council

The Inter-Dorm Council will meet tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in Alumni Building. Officers and chairmen of the IDC Dance Committee are reminded the deadline for turning in sponsors' pictures is then.

Jaffe Talks Tomorrow

Prof. A. J. Jaffe, Columbia University, will speak tomorrow at 7:30 in room 2 of Carroll Hall to the N. C. chapter of the American Statistical Association. His subject will be "The Mobility of the American Working Force."

Poll Tenders

There will be a poll tenders meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in Gerrard Hall. Election rules and procedures will be explained.

Two Missing Boxes

The Elections Board is missing two ballot boxes. If information concrening them is available, contact The Daily Tar Heel, 9-3361.

WUNC

Today's schedule for campus station WUNC:

7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime.
7:30—Learning in Later Years.
7:45—Songs of France.
8—Little Orchestra Society Concerts.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Tomorrow's schedule for WUNC.

7 p.m.—Stories 'n Stuff.
7:30—Adventures in Research.
7:45—Bonjour Mesdames.
8—University of Chicago Roundtable.
8:30—Drama of Poetry.
9—To be announced.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Statistics Colloquium

S. N. Roy will speak tomorrow at 4 p.m. in 206 Phillips Hall to a statistics colloquium. His topic will be "Simultaneous Confidence Interval Estimation II. Applications to Multicariate Analysis."

CPU On TV

The Carolina Political Union will present a program on federal world government today at 1 p.m. on WFMY-TV in Greensboro. On the program will be Fred Crawford, Tommy Sumner, Pebley Barrow, Joel Fleishman nad Bob Pace.

CHURCH NEWS

Presbyterian

Following a supper meeting tonight at 6 o'clock, the Westminster Fellowship of the Covenant Presbyterian Church will have its third lecture in a series on "The History of the Church." Dr. Thomas A. Schaffer of Duke Divinity School will speak on "Pope Gregory the Great."

Supper and lecture will be held in the Institute of Pharmacy Building on Church and Rosemary Streets.

Jewish

Rabbi Efraim M. Rosensweig, director of the UNC Hillel Foundation, and the Rev. Maurice Kidder, minister of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Family of Glen Lennox, will present a program called "The Minister and the Rabbi" each Sunday afternoon at 4:20 on local station WCHL.

The 15 minute program will deal with the interests and backgrounds of Christianity and Judaism, their kinship, their differences and their common outlook on moral problems.

Catholic

The Newman Club will meet this afternoon at 5:30 on second floor Lenoir Hall. The discussion will be a continuation of "Catholic Courtship and Marriage." Mass is heard at 8 and 9 a.m. each Sunday in Gerrard Hall and confessions are one half hour before mass.

Unitarian

The Rev. Charles Reinhardt, Universalis minister, Clinton, will address the Unitarian Fellowship in Gerrard Hall tonight at 8:30 on "John Brown and America's Crusaders." Prof. Raymond Adams of the University will conduct the service.

Episcopal

The schedule for services today at the Chapel of the Cross: 8 a.m.—Holy Communion; 11 a.m.—Morning prayer and sermon; 6 p.m.—Canterbury Club with the Rev. Robert Insko, rector of St. Stephen's Church, of Erwin, as guest speaker; 8 p.m.—Evening prayer with a brief address.

WITH A
Westinghouse
Livelyaire® FAN

Here's a real bargain in summer cooling

- Handsome modern styling.
- Streamlined for super air flow.
- Powerful Westinghouse motor.
- No radio or TV interference.
- Adjustable for wall mounting.

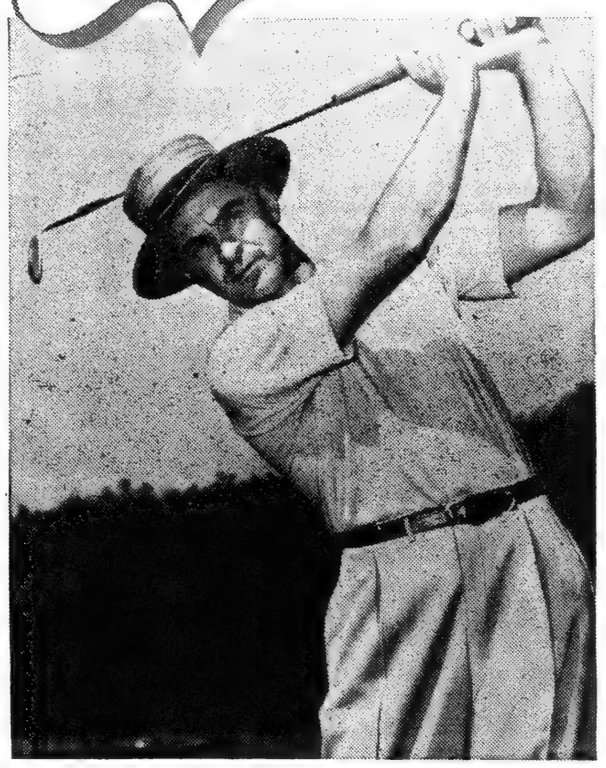
ONLY 17.25

. . . of course, it's electric!

BENNETT & BLOCKSIDGE

YOU CAN BE SURE . . . IF IT'S Westinghouse

Take it from me



PALM BEACH*

are the Smartest, Coolest

SLACKS

I've Ever Worn!

says SAM SNEAD, Winner 1952 Palm Beach Golf Championship

Bills Mailed Home

"Comfort and color variety are the two things a golfer wants most in slacks," says Slamming Sammy. "You've just got to keep cool when the that's why Palm Beach slacks are a 'must' with pressure's on," agrees Lloyd Mangrum. "And so many of my 'pro' friends," adds Jimmy Demaret.

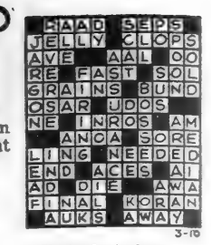
That's also why cool, washable Palm Beach slacks are preferred by so many men everywhere. They hold their shape and crease, last a long, long time . . . and for colors, you just name them . . . we've got them because Palm Beach are the most colorful slacks in all America.

$10.95

Palm Beach®
WOVEN BY GOODALL-SANFORD, INC. ONLY

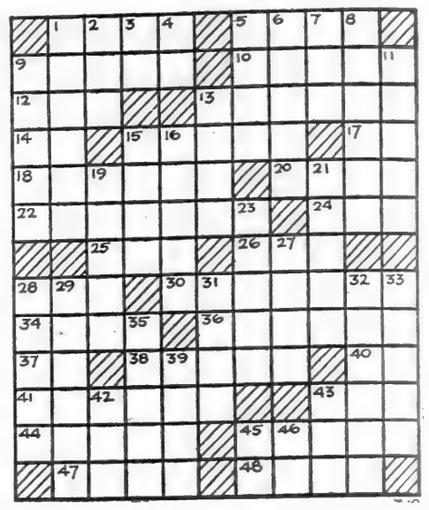
*Reg. T. M. Goodall-Sanford, Inc. Mohair, rayon, acetate and 5% nylon, in most styles.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Head cook
5. Fellow
9. Beach
10. Firm
12. Striking success
13. Dawn (Class. Myth.)
14. All correct (abbr.)
15. Minister's house
17. Land-measure
18. To have recourse for use
20. Location
22. Cleared the bottom of
24. God of pleasure (Egypt.)
25. Sign of the zodiac
26. Property (L.)
28. Indian of a Mayan tribe (Mex.)
30. A gymnasium apparatus
34. Macaws (Braz.)
36. Unrolled
37. Music note
38. American Indian's tent
40. Nickel (sym.)
41. Rub gently
43. Humor
44. Hoist
45. Incites
47. Hastened
48. A son of Adam

DOWN

1. A tight necklace (colloq.)
2. In what manner
3. Erbium (sym.)
4. Iron (sym.)
5. The shank (anat.)
6. Employs
7. Past
8. A high-seas robber
9. A weapon
11. Ventures
13. Poker stake
15. A way
16. Cant
19. City in Alabama
21. Norwegian playwright
23. Arrange, as folds
27. Fencing sword
28. Bog
29. Rugged mountain crests
31. Thick cord
32. Culmination
33. Prepares for publication
35. Cooking range
39. Fleeced out
42. Knock
43. Damp
45. Roman pound
46. Exist

Yesterday's Answer

Uncle Sam made the Bonds you own an even better bargain!

Now Your Maturing Series E Bonds Can Earn Interest 10 Years More at 3%!

PRESENT TREASURY REGULATIONS make it possible for you to collect a return of as much as 80% on the Series E Savings Bonds you already own!

For now those Bonds which you invested in 10 years ago can go right on earning interest for ten more years without your doing a thing about it! That is true not only of the Bonds which you have held for ten years, but any other Series E Bonds which you have invested in in the meantime. And any Series E Bonds which you obtain now will also enjoy the extended earning period. They will start earning interest sooner and mature earlier, too, paying 3%, compounded semiannually.

The Bond you got for $18.75 can now pay you $33.67 . . . a $37.50 Bond will be worth $67.34 . . . and so on.

Invest regularly in Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Ask your pay office to save as little as 25c a week for you, or as much as you are able.

If you can save just $5 a week regularly through the Plan, in five years you will have $1,367.90 . . . in 9 years and 8 months, you'll have $2,850.70 . . . and in 19 years and 8 months, $6,872.45!

So join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work today. Or start the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.

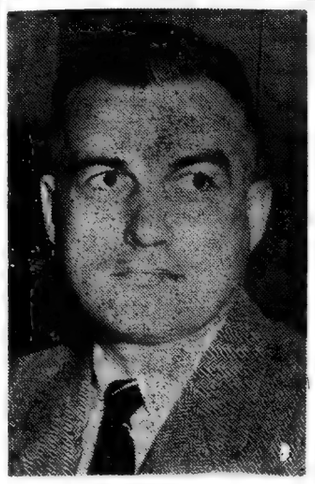
If you want to be paid your interest as current income—invest in 3% Series H

If you want a good, sound investment which pays you your interest by check every six months, ask at your bank about United States Government Series H Bonds. Series H is a new current income Bond available in denominations of $500 to $10,000. Redeemable at par after 6 months and on 30 days' notice. Matures in 9 years and 8 months and pays an average 3% interest per annum if held to maturity. Interest paid semiannually by Treasury check. Series H may be purchased at any bank, annual limit $20,000.

Now even better!

Invest more in Savings Bonds!

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, the Advertising Council and



U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and mild today. Yesterday's high 65, low 40.

The Daily Tar Heel

POLITICS
Election propaganda on page 2.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 128 — CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1953 — FOUR PAGES TODAY

C. M. SHAFFER, assistant to the Chancellor in the field of development, will address the Men's Faculty Club today at 1 p.m. at the Carolina Inn. Shaffer will talk about his work.

Educators Say Grants Neglect The Humanities

ATLANTIC CITY, April 13—(Special)—American colleges and universities, with the aid of Federal grants, are placing too much emphasis on scientific research at the expense of the liberal arts and humanities, Roman Catholic educators declared here recently.

This statement was made at the 15th annual convention of the National Catholic Educational Association.

A panel of Catholic college men said that the humanities are needed more than ever to educate men and women who can better understand the present ideological conflict.

Dr. Robert J. Slavin, president of Providence College, said, "The money available for scientific research should not tempt us to neglect the humanities." Then he added, "We will prostitute the aims of higher education if we change our curriculum to get Government money."

CAMPUS SEEN

Pungent odor of wild onions as campus grass cutters go about their duties.

Episcopal Rector David Yates twisting ankle and splashing Sunday morning clergy suit as he steps in large rain puddle.

Four housemothers gathered in downtown drug store booth discussing diet.

State Assembly To Hear UNC Request Today

RALEIGH, April 13—(Special)—The University at Chapel Hill and the Division of Health Affairs' request for $1,001,000 in permanent improvements bonds was reported out of the House Finance Committee Thursday "without prejudice," indicating it has a good chance of getting through the Legislature as it stands.

It will be considered tomorrow (Tuesday) at noon.

The bill (HB 941) totals $13,500,000 to be raised by the floating of state bonds for the state's educational institutions. The Finance Committee usually reports out bills "favorably" or "unfavorably." The "without prejudice" label in this instance may be result of some appropriations wariness brought on by the Commissioner of Revenue's predirtion that state taxes will provide nearly $7,000,000 less in revenue this year and the next biennium than the figure estimated by the Advisory Budget Commission.

Major items in the University at Chapel Hill's request are $500,000 for the Institute of Government and smaller amounts for repairs to dormitories and renovation of class buildings.

Trustee Says So

Student As Trustee Is Seen Soon

One of the University's top Trustees yesterday said he believed that a student member from all three branches of the Consolidated University could be allowed to sit in on Executive Committee meetings. The students would not have a vote.

Ex-Lt. Gov. Frank W. Taylor, a UNC Trustee and now Gov. Umstead's legislative liaison counsel, said the idea to have students represented on the board and the Executive Committee would not require action by the General Assembly. The assembly does, however, nominate the regular Trustees.

The idea of student representation on the board and its executive unit was advanced by the Student Party as one of its platform planks. The platform called for a "member" of the two bodies but SP officials have modified this to be a "representative" since a "membership" would take legislative action.

Taylor invited students to put forth the proposal at the Executive Committee's next meeting this May. He said the only sort of formal action which would be required would be a vote of the committee. The board would have to take the same sort of action for the representatives to be officially recognized as such.

Now students present their views by one of three methds. They can be represented by Consolidated President Gray who has several times expressed his willingness and availability; they can have their case brought by a Trustee, or they can be extended privileges of the floor as Student President Ham Horton was in the Saturday class fight.

Under the Student Party proposal, the student representatives on the board and its committee would be the presidents of the respective student bodies. In the event the stndent Trustee plan is accepted, the representatives probably would be the presidents, as the SP has suggested.

SP Candidates Miller, Myers Outline Views

Ken Myers, SP candidate for Senior Class president, and Baxter Miller, SP candidate for vice president of the stduent body, made a statement yesterday.

Myers said: "For many years now class officers have been considered as mere stepping stones to higher political plums. Needless to say it should not be that way. . . .

"The president of the senior class has obligations to: 1. work in coordination with other class officers to effectively plan social functions; 2. plan the senior dance and other affairs. 3. make the speech at graduation; 4. represent the Senior Class in conferences."

Myers has been president of the Debate Council, clerk of the Men's Honor Council, a member of the Interfaith Council and an officer in his fraternity, Tau Epsilon Phi.

Regarding the vice president's duties as speaker of the Legislature, Miller said:

"I shall impress upon each legislator, that as an elected representative, it is his duty to express the opinion of these who elected him, thus making the legislature a more accurate voice of students will.

I shall ,needless to day, be fair, giving each representative an equal opportunity to express himself. On controversial issues I shall lend my full support to all efforts directed toward keeping you informed about legislative action."

Concerning attendance at legislative sessions, Miller said, "The UP legislators,in apparent conformance with the 'wreck student government' attitude of President Ham Horton have compiled a miserable absentee record, with 35 UP absences thus far in this session."

Burton To Speak At Phi Ceremony

Thomas C. Burton, president of the Burton Institute for Adult Education, will speak tonight at 8 o'clock at the Phi Assembly inaugural ceremony.

Chancellor Robert B. House will introduce the speaker. Burton, a member of World Federalists, will speak on "Threats to American Freedom." The ceremonies tonight will be held in Phi Hall.

The Most Reverend Vincent S. Waters, bishop of Raleigh, will deliver the invocation.

Officers-elect of the Phi are Robert Pace, speaker; Don Angel, speaker pro tem; Sydney Shuford, clerk; Dale Ryon, sgt. at arms; Frederic Crawford, critic; Donald Sherry, parliamentarian and Lewis Brumfield, treasurer.

THOMAS C. BURTON

Opening Today At 2

50 One-Acts Feature Drama Festival Here

Like to see Menotti's opera "The Medium" for four cents?

Tickets for 50 one act plays go on sale today in the Green Room of the Playmakers Theatre at $2 each, and are good for five days of plays at the Carolina Dramatic Association Spring Drama Festival which starts this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Tickets for individual sessions will also be available in the Green Room throughout the festival, at 35 cents.

Activities of the festival will be recorded by CBS-TV for use in a half hour study of UNC contributions to state drama, which will also include shots of the Forest Theatre production of "Lysistrate" in May, and three summer outdoor dramas.

Today's program: 2 p.m.: Three plays by county high schools. Scenes from "Rip Van Winkle," presented by Fuquay Springs High School, Vivian Burton, direstor. "New School of Wives." by John Kirkpatrick. Presented by Balls Creek High School, Newton, Mrs. W. D. Isenhower, director. "Release," by Chloris Merne Heyl, presented by Wake Forest High School, Thomas H. Johnson, director.

(See DRAMA, page 3)

Nation To View UNC's Face On CBS-TV College Series

The University is one of 21 American universities to be featured in a series of educational programs to be televised by the CBS network beginning next September.

The series of programs will be presented weekly and will dramatize higher education's scientific and cultural contributions to individual and national welfare.

Attending the New York conference at which the announcement was made were Chancellor John W. Harrelson, N. C. State College; Dr. William S. Wells, chairman of the faculty at Chapel Hill and a number of presidents and other executives of the participating institutions.

Dr. Wells, in explaining the purpose of the program, said "The University program series, as planned by CBS television, gives all indications of strongly developing public interest in American colleges and universities. At the University of North Carolina we are delighted to have a part in the series.

"One reason we are confidently going into educational television is that the Department of Dramatic Art has already shown it can highlight the purpose of many functions of the University. Not that the members of the Department plan to compete with 'Studio One,' but they are enthusiastic about the study of drama as part of liberal education.

"They have been almost unbelievably successful in encouraging young writers. For example, the novelists Thomas Wolfe, Noel Houston and Betty Smith all studied in the department. Their many former students, now successful teachers, business men, lawyers and physician, a well as playwrights, actors, and producers witness the breadth of education it has helped to provide."

Roy Lockwood, who will produce the program, said the approach in developing each university's story will be "to attempt to give a documentary feeling of what the university is like; to present the spirit of each university; to explore fully one particular activity of the university that it does outstandingly well, or that is unique to that university."

Campus Talent Being Sought For GI Show

The campus Red Cross unit will continue its program of camp shows during the Spring Quarter with a show at Service Club No. 2, Fort Bragg Sunday night.

The group is scheduled to leave from Graham Memorial Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

There will be a rehearsal for all students interested in performing in this show Thursday night at 7 o'clock in the Horace Williams Lounge of Graham Memorial.

Previous shows to Fort Bragg service clubs and to Red Cross hospitals have featured well known student talent. Some of those taking part have been Herb Dowd, campus hillbilly from Charlotte; Mardi Boyle, tap dancer from Al-

(See TALENT, page 3)

Fisk In Tenn.

Phi Betes Recognize Negro U

NASHVILLE, Tenn, April 13—(Special)—Fisk University, outstanding Negro college here, has become the first Negro institution of higher learning in the country to be awarded a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity.

The Atlanta Constitution said in an editorial Friday, "We applaud the decision" of national Phi Beta Kappa to open its door to Negro scholars.

The editorial continued, "Scholarship is not restricted to any race or nationality of peoples and to deny the rewards of superior effort to any American citizen is not in keeping with basic principles of our democracy and educational processes.

"Fisk University and many other fine Negro colleges in the South are performing great and growing services to their race, to their states and to the nation. These services are helping to point the way to the solution of many pressing social and political problems that have plagued us these many years.

"Since membership in the organization is an accepted national scholastic standards meet Phi Beta measurement of suptrior scholarship, all Negro Colleges whose Kappa requirements should be permitted chapters to encourage greater effort by students and to offer the latter a reward for effort," The Constitution concluded.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM, Tuesday — The first of more than 600 sick and wounded Korean war prisoners of the Commhnists today were scheduled to start down the long road back to home and freedom from Red prison camps. They were to be loaded aboard red-draped ambulances and trucks at Chonman, near the Yalu River, for a jolting, four day 200-mile trip down bomb-crated highways to Kaesong near this truce conference site. On Monday, April 20, the first of the Allied prisoners will be formally exchanged and will pass through Panmunjom's symbolic "Freedom Gate."

★

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower warned in his first major address since his inauguration that the western hemisphere cannot achieve security in "splendid isolation.". Speaking before the Pan American Union Sunday, he said "the widest oceans offer no sure defense" against "the forces threatening this continent." He did not once refer to communism or to Russia.

★

SILER CITY—Fire, engine trouble and bad weather were blamed yesterday for the crash of a twin-engined Marine TBM torpedo-bomber near here Sunday night which killed five of the seven men aboard.

SP Alters Stand; Favors CAA Fee, Pat On Gym Levy

Student Party Says Referendum To Give Answer To Question

We're for whatever the students want, Student Party leaders said yesterday.

(See story in right hand column)

"Our plank (on the fees) was introduced in an effort to save students money which we felt wasn't right for students to pay in the first place," Gordon Forrester, SP treasurer candidate, said.

"We proposed a referendum in Legislature," Forester continued, "and from the results of that referendum, we shall determine which will be abolished and which should be kept."

"If strong student opinion favors keeping compulsory fees to CAA, they will be kept," added Forester. "So far, all we've been able to find out is that students are against compulsory gym fees."

Forester cited the ticket mixup at the State-Carolina game as one of the reasons for originally including abolition of compulsory CAA fees in the SP platform.

Lew Southern, chairman of the SP, said that "the whole thing depends upon the state assuming its duty."

"We think the state should absorb the loss of income to Woollen Gym which would result from putting on voluntary basis. If state doesn't want to do it, we don't feel like putting it off on the freshmen and sophomores," Southern said.

Position Gets Shift After Investigation Of Student Reaction

The Student Party yesterday altered its stand on the question of abolishment of the compulsory fee of $10 a year to the Carolina Athletic Association.

The party's position remained unchanged on the $10 a quarter fee to Woollen Gym itself.

This gym fee is for physical education privileges while the CAA payment is for membership in that organization. CAA membership entitles students to admission to UNC athletic events.

Originally the SP wanted to abolish the compulsory payment of both the CAA and the Woollen Gym fees. As of yesterday, the party stated it believes the CAA fee should remain as it is, "unless we can find strong student sentiment favoring a change."

Party leaders said this revision came about as a result of investigations of student opinion, whirh, according to the SP, favors keeping the $3.33 quarterly fee.

SP's change was presented to the students in a mimeographed sheet distributed over the rampus yesterday. The sheet said about the CAA fee:

"Since the $3.33 CAA fee (for varsity athletic events) was voted upon favorably by the student body several years ago and since

(See SP, page 4)

Patseavouras, Fountain Give Cheering Plans

The head cheerleader candidates, chosen by a special board, presented their platforms yesterday.

Fountain, who says he's "a cheerin' fool for a cheerin' school," presented his platform for head cheerleader.

Jim, who cites three years cheering experience, promised to instigate a campaign for more school spirit and to boost interest and responsiveness of student body.

Specifically, Fountain outlined his plans for "energetic and enthusiastic cheerleaders, new yells with spark and rhythm, all yells properly limited and spark and rhythm, all yells properly limited and spaced between plays and during time outs, with cooperation of CAA purchase new uniforms of a different color pattern for girls and boys, choose new cheerleaders on ability and radiating personalities, sponsor a gigantic homecoming."

Fountain, who was head cheerleader at New Hanover High School in Wilmington, also advocates larger and louder pep-rallies to include torch-light parades and band stand and bon-fire rallies.

Louie Patseavouras, who's for "a mighty might for the blue and white," presented his platform for headcheerleader yesterday.

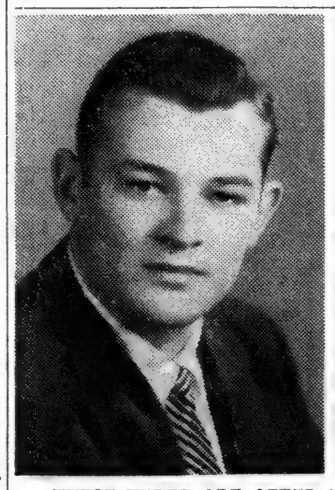
(See PATSEAVOURAS, page 3)

Twenty Groups To Participate In UC Carnival

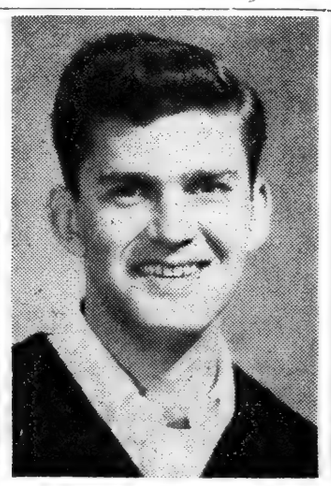
Twenty organizations—13 fraternities, five sororities and two dormitories—will participate in the University Club Carnival to be held Friday night from 7 until 11 o'clock on Navy Field.

The event will include carnival attractions ranging from miniature golf to strip tease. Prizes will be awarded the winners in the variety of games to be played. The winner of Theta Chi's ugly man contest will be announced at 10:45 and the trophy will be presented. Judges for this contest will be Ray Jeffries, assistant to Dean of Students and two members of the University Club.

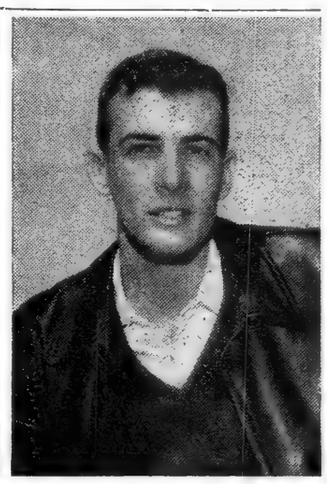
Proceeds will go to the sponsoring organizations. They include PiKA, TEP, ATO, Pi Kappa Phi, Phi Kappa Sigma, SAE, Phi Gamma Delta, Zeta Psi, Lamba Chi Alpha, SPE, Sigma Nu, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta, Tri Delt Alpha Gamma Delta, Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, KD and and Everett and McIver Dorms.



YMCA Begins Series Tonight



The YMCA will hold the first in a series of membership meetings tonight at 7:30 in the Cabinet room of the Y.



This is the first meeting following the Planning conference held at Camp New Hope last weekend. Purpose of the series is to continue the program planning and organizing of the YMCA for next year.

Four program commissions are being organized. These programs, to which students may relate themselves as active members, are Christian faith and Heritage commission, Personal and Campus Life commission, Effective Citizenship and Social Responsibility commission and World Relatedness rommission.

In addition, there are several administrative groups being formed. The nature and function of these groups will be explained at the meeting tonight.

THESE THREE ARE AFTER jobs in tomorrow's election. They are Baxter Miller (left), SP vice-presidential candidate; Jim Fountain (center) one of two non-partisan candidates for cheerleader, and Ken Myers (right) SP candidate for Senior Class president.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Do All Get Benefits?

In a column appearing elsewhere on this page, Gene Shaw, points to The Daily Tar Heel and the Student Entertainment Commitee as two agencies to which all students pay funds, yet to which not all students enjoy or participate.
all students enjoy or participate.

Columnist Shaw's reasoning is faulty, we believe mainly because of the problem of numbers. The Student Entertainment can't possibly bring top-notch entertainers for all the students to enjoy the program. There just isn't enough room in Memorial Hall. We have recommended a voluntary program as the best way for all students to enjoy the program.

As for The Daily Tar Heel, there is no way of actually finding out what per cent of students read this paper. Recently, however, two Daily Tar Heel reporters took an on the spot survey of Daily Tar Heel readership, covering at least fifty students. Not one said they didn't read the paper. Because of difficulties at the printshop, during the Fall Quarter we were unable to get out the paper a number of times. Since then, however we have been able to get the paper to the students almost without exception, though there have been days when the paper was unavoidably late.

If The Daily Tar Heel were put on a subscription basis, we expect that money would be made, that students wouldn't enjoy it as much as hey now do, nor would they have a voice in the election of the edior.

No Support

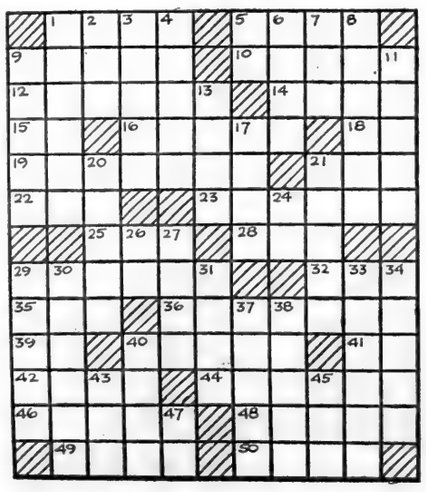
The Daily Tar Heel reiterates its stand on support of candidates. That stand is no support. In an editorial called "Strictly Policy" appearing on Wednesday, February 18, 1953 almost a month ago, we stated flatly, "The Daily Tar Heel will voice itself on general issues rather than specific candidates."

We also reiterate for the benefit of those unbelievers on campus that publication of Jerry Cook's "Do Not Disturb" poster doesn't mean that we endorse Cook. The poster was printed as a matter of public interest. Previously, we have said that such a poster, urging politicians to not knock on doors, or interrupt students, is bad politics, for Cook and everyone else running. The knock on the door around election time is about the only way students can meet future student government leaders. The dormitory electioneering per the person-to-person campaign is nowadays almost an essential.

State Technician

The Wisdom Of Women

A Carolina Coed had been conveyed to Chapel Hill by a Stateman who didn't object to treading on the hallowed ground. As the bright young thing disappeared into her dormitory she displayed an almost fierce and unrelenting pride in her Alma Mater by saying, "I can forgive you for going to State, but I can't forgive you for liking it."



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Costly
5. Exclamation of sorrow
9. Canal boat
10. Sharpened, as a razor
12. Lyrical compositions
14. A size of type
15. Close to
16. Musical instruments
18. Biblical city
19. Graver
21. Coin (Swed.)
22. East-northeast (abbr.)
23. Flinched
25. Take supper
28. Habitual drunkard
29. Marked with holes
32. Guido's highest note
35. Type measures
36. Settled
39. Jewish month
40. Thong
41. Public notice
42. American Indian
44. Place side by side
46. Throws
48. Senior
49. Lampreys
50. Observes

DOWN
1. City (Ohio)
2. Blunder
3. Nimble
4. Happen again
5. Exclamation
6. Cuts off the tops
7. Keel-billed cuckoo
8. Safe
9. Bored by life
11. Ventured
13. Boil slowly
17. Goddess of discord (Gr. myth.)
20. Defeats
21. Musical composition for eight
24. Negative reply
26. Guido's lowest note
27. To throw missiles
29. A fruit
30. To stain
31. Girl's name
33. Lets
34. Viper
37. Cloaks
38. A fruit
40. Vend
43. Before
45. Poem
47. Steamship (abbr.)

Yesterday's Answer

UP

'Ridiculous'

After reading various articles appearing in The Daily Tar Heel concerning the payment of athletic fees, the arguments for the abolishment of the fee to me seems entirely ridiculous. Why don't these petty politicians work for something attainable and let the administrative work and worry to the departments of the university.

One of the strongest arguments presented against this fee is that a large number of students do not use Woollen Gym. Well, I may point out that a probably larger number of students have never used the medical facilities of this university. Yet whether the students realize it or not part of their tuition and fees go toward the health services provided. The best medical attention possible is there for the students. So is the case at Woollen Gym. The building and facilities are there for all the students.

Let us move on to the Student Entertainment. All of the students do not take advantage of the big names brought to this campus by all of the students' money. Should we charge each student $5.00 to attend one of these programs, or should all the students share the expense. I think it is handled pretty well under the present system. This expense does not put a financial burden on a few, but is divided very lightly among all students.

As another illustration, I would like to mention The Daily Tar Heel. All of the students are paying for the Tar Heel. Yet if put on a voluntary basis, I doubt very seriously if The Tar Heel could continue to function because of lack of funds. When I was a member of the Student Legislature in 1949-50, some $20,000 of the students' fees were appropriated and earmarked for The Daily Tar Heel. Even at that, there have been many days that students did not receive their copy of The Daily Tar Heel. Woollen Gymnasium is available for all students to use 7 days per week—not five, nor four.

Woollen Gym is not only used for athletic contests, but is there primarily for the education of the students. All parts of our educational system and program are necessary. Don't try to handicap one important phase of education, just because a few of the students are unable to find time to use the physical education facilities. I seriously doubt the argument that some students don't have time to use the facilities of the gym. Take for instance the medical students and the law students. Both of these organizations always rank high on the list of dormitory intramurals. And if anyone needs to use time for study, these are the boys.

It would be almost impossible to make a check on those students failing to pay the fee, yet still able to use the gym facilities. It would not be difficult for the student to use his own equipment and dress in his room, and still walk in the gym. The Physical Education Department and the Athletic Association do not want to bar anyone from enjoying the use of the gym, or any other facilities of the department. Some of the other facilities which I may mention are the indoor and outdoor swimming pools, the intramural field, the baseball and track fields, and the tennis courts and golf course. Yet, the programs cannot be maintained by pulling money from trees.

If all of the students share the expense, no one is hurt financially. But if all of the expense is going to be the responsibility of the physical education majors and the students in required physical education, then a lot of people are going to get hurt.

In order to criticize the use of funds at Woollen Gym, it seems to me that it is necessary to present figures. The word "many" does not specify number, percentage of students, or whether it is just Mr. Penegar and a few of his friends who do not utilize the facilities of the gym. I will conclude by asking Mr. Penegar to conduct a reliable survey and present figures of how "many" students never use the gym. Students have the responsibility of supporting the facilities which they have the right to use. Don't disregard responsibility because you don't take advantage of your rights.

"And Now, Mates, We Head For Land"

One World Or None

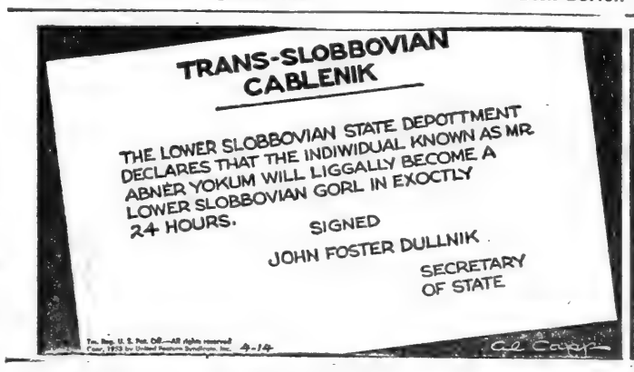
Today, April 8, I attended an organizational meeting to establish a Student Chapter of the United World Federalists at Carolina. Only three persons, including myself, attended. I was rather shocked and very much ashamed that there was such small a turn out. It seemed to indicate a great lack of interest by the students of this university in projects to bring about world peace.

All of us have heard the arguments against a world organization. All of us have at one time, I hope, asked ourselves questions about world government. Some of us have gone into the problem and tried to dig out some answers to basic questions about it. I should like to share the answers to four questions that I have asked myself with others.

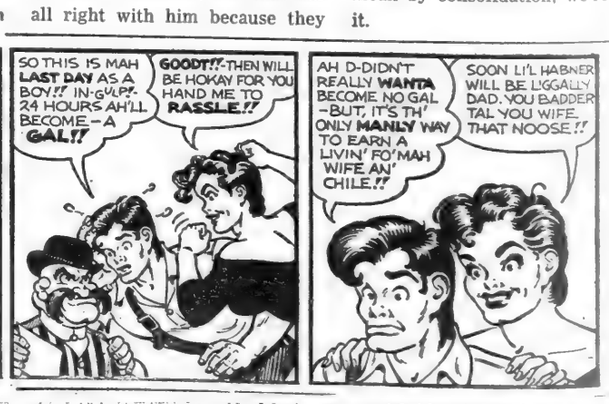
The first question that is asked is: is a limited form of world government necessary? In the course of the last generation we have had to fight two world wars; a third one is now threatening to engulf us. With the new weapons that science has been able to provide us with, and the lack of any defense against these weapons, the waging of war by any nation today means suicide. This includes us. If, however, there is world law to make the waging of war impossible then we need have no fear. The catch is that there can be no world law without world government to make, interpret, and enforce it. The answer is yes, there is a need for limited world government.

Will a superior military force supported by the "A" and the "H" bomb protect us? No. We would probably find ourselves in the hands of a dictatorship if we continue trying to win an armament race that will lead only to war. If Russia has the "A" bomb and guided missiles then she is just as well off as we are. We might win a war against Russia militarily, but our cities, towns, and many millions of people would be destroyed. World government is the best defense against the "A" and the "H" bombs.

In a recent talk that was given on this campus the biggest objection to world government, by those who have not checked into it, was brought out. Will the United States have to give up any of her sovereignty? In order to be a sovereign a state, or a person, must be able to decide their own destinies. We, the people of the earth, do not have the ability to say whether or not we will have a third world war. The Kremlin exercises that decision. By the establishment of world law, we will be able to command our own destiny . . . where we do not now.



Each nation in the world will have to give up the right to wage war. Since it is a right of sovereignty to wage war, we will be giving up that much of our sovereignty.



The fourth, and probably the most important question is: is there anything that would prevent a world government from becoming dictatorial? A world government would have power only to prevent war; second, a system of balanced representation in a world legislature. A Bill of Rights would keep the power of the countries in their own hands. No power would be able to turn a world into a world dictatorship.

Most of us who are in this university today have either had, or are facing, a term of military service. War has come to mean a vastly personal thing to us all. The veterans have fought the war of yesterday. The war of tomorrow is up to us to fight. I do not think that anybody would call us cowards if we sought to end the dreadful threat of war for us and for our children. The world is weary of war. We are weary of hearing of it. Let us, the citizens of tomorrows world, try and stop it.

With the machines of destruction becoming larger and more terrible we stand at the crossroads of destiny. The issue is clear one world or none?

Dick Burton

SP

Common Sense

During the past few weeks much has been said about the existing compulsory gym fees. We would like to clear up a few misconceptions which have arisen, and also point out the practicality of a voluntary set-up.

We believe that the payment of a compulsory gym fee is a complete denial of the basic democratic principles of this liberal state-supported institution. The support of a University department, deemed a necessary part of our education, is the specific responsibility of the taxpayers of the state, and not of the individual students of this University.

It is the state's responsibility, not the students', to pay for the construction, maintenance, janitors' and secretaries' salaries and all other expenses incurred in the upkeep of Woollen Gymnasium.

The opponents of a voluntary system have cited as an example the situation regarding the University Infirmary and the University Library. We pay fees covering the usage of these facilities, they argue, regardless of whether or not everyone uses them.

But here's the catch: The fees we pay to the Infirmary and the Library amount to only $2 each. Two bucks a quarter is a small amount to pay for the medical insurance which the University provides for us, and the $2 Library fee is way out of proportion to the thirty dollars a year we are compelled to pay for gym maintenance, which is not our responsibility in the first place.

Some students fear that they would have to pay more under a voluntary system, since other students would stop paying entirely. We must recognize that this is a highly complex problem that cannot be solved without a great deal of work. We do not propose to abolish the present system until a better program is worked out, whereby assuring every student that he will not have to pay the deficit incurred in a voluntary system.

The basic problem is that each student is now paying too much money for value received, and this is the problem which we are pledged to solve. If students indicate that they are opposed to the compulsory student fee in the forthcoming referendum, and the facts are presented to the Trustees suggesting a voluntary program, we believe that a system to save the individual student money can be worked out.

Gordon Forester
Ken Myers

Louis Kraar

Party Line

GREENSBORO — Carolina students got sold on consolidation here as they danced, bowled, politiced and admired the plush, new Woman's College student union.

Officially called Consolidated University Day, the three-school blowout actually brought WC, State and Carolina together Saturday for a mass social event.

Elliott Hall, WC's ultra-modern student union, has all the assets of a luxurious country club, except the bar and slot machines. The ball room is so spacious it makes the Taj Mahal look like the Rathskellar. The building is trimmed in back with a long balcony. An unusual shaped pool sits in the center of a patio below the balcony.

We sat out on the patio, looking at the hundreds of couples through the ballroom's picture windows and wondered when Carolina would get such a place.

The day started at noon when Carolina's confused delegation to a three school student council arrived. Campus politics had thrown the thing into a legal knot, and it looked like tough going for Tom Sully, head of the big student council and a Carolina man.

Ham Horton, who quit the group for a number of reasons, sent a committee. The original delegation came, and some extras tacked on by the student Legislature also showed up. Sully had to decide which was the official group from the Hill.

Finally after an enjoyable buffet lunch, Sully met with all three species of Carolina representatives on the front lawn. He said he'd recognize all but the committee sent by Horton. Manning Muntzing, a leading member of Horton's committee, said that was all right with him because they had only been appointed to take care of the nonpolitical doings of the day.

The student council meeting was long. The gathering was held in a new room never used before, and from the length of the meeting, it appeared that no one else would ever be able to use it.

The result of all the politicing was that Horton is still considered a member. The group said that as long as he's president, he's a member. Horton says differently. Since he wasn't there, though, he sent a message to let them know.

From the lack of attendance at the beginning of the evening, it looked like the social affair wasn't going to click. But by eight, when the schools were putting on skits, the place was packed.

Carolina put on a racy version of "Slaughter On Tenth Avenue." The sexy dance number provoked sighs from Woman Collegers and the most applause of the evening. WC did a number of song and dance routines, while technical minded State didn't enter the show.

We bumped into Ham Horton at the skits. He told us that he had been in Greensboro all day at a Moravian Church meeting, that he was enjoying the skits, that he was glad to see us, and that he was sorry he couldn't have been there earlier.

The dance started a little late, and by this time the crowd had expanded even more. Couples covered the dance floor, balcony, patio and practically everywhere else you could think of. Everyone was getting to know their brother and sister schools, and we only met one fellow from Duke.

Mr. Gray if this is what you mean by consolidation, we're for it.

Nine Swamps Davidson; Golfers Take Sixth

Pazdan Goes Route In 18-5 Win; Golf Team Whips Virginia, 26-4

Thornton Shoots 76 On Saturated Course

By Biff Roberts

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 13—Carolina's golfers sloshed over the Farmington Country Club course in a whipping wind today, losing only one match to defeat the University of Virginia for their sixth straight win, 26-4.

It rained all morning, and the course was saturated, keeping the score high. Low medalist for Carolina was Bill Thornton with 76, with Bill Williamson and Bob Black followed him at 79.

Besides the six man field, a singles match between George Mountcastle and Virginia's Landon was played, with the Tar Heel winning, 3-0.

Black (UNC) defeated Evans, 3-0; Williamson (UNC) defeated Eversman, 3-0; Black and Williamson defeated Evers and Eversman, 3-0.

Thornton (UNC) defeated Wells, 2-1; Ferree (UNC) defeated Esckilsen, 3-0; Thornton and Ferree defeated Wells and Esckilsen, 3-0.

Fay (Va.) defeated Ford, 2½-½; Frazier (UNC) defeated Rogers, 3-0; Ford and Frazier defeated Fay and Rogers, 2½-½.

Mountcastle (UNC) defeated Landon, 3-0.

Tar Heels Hit Four Home Runs In Game

DAVIDSON, April 13 (Special)—Carolina's baseball team collected 20 hits off two Davidson pitchers including four home runs to swamp the Cats, 18-5.

Joe Pazdan went the distance, shutting Davidson out for five innings after allowing a run in the first.

Catcher Will Frye and third baseman Bob Williams got three hits apeice for Carolina, Williams collecting two doubles and a homer.

—Patseavouras—

(Continued from page 1)

Patseavouras, a junior from Rocky Mount, said he wants to bring out the spirit with short, snappy, original yells.

He advocated well-planned, pep rallies, selection of the squad equally on basis of ability and personality, a bi-partisan selection group consisting of head cheerleaders from Duke, State, Carolina for out of town games, caravans and Wake Forest, better tickets for games on other campuses and a well integrated, cooperative squad.

"I think a year of college experience has given me the insight to see the problems that a head cheerleader must face. And it is through this experience, that I plan to carry out my platform,"

—Drama—

(Continued from page 1)

At 7:30 p.m.: Four plays by city high schools: "Indian Summer," by Betty Brydon Beecher. Presented by Reidsville High School, Bob Grogan, director. "The Flattering Word," by George Kelly. Presented by Fayetteville Senior High School, Sara K. Jordan, director. "Andante," by Wesley Coutts. Presented by Walter M. Williams High School, Burlington, Julian C. Burroughs, director. "Don't Feed the Animals," by Bob Wellington. Presented by Chapel Hill High School, John Bonitz Jr., director.

—Talent—

(Continued from page 1)

ton, Ill.; Dan Swaim and Dewey Chappel, jazz artists from Winston-Salem; Tish House, vocalist from Beaufort; Bill Collins, pianist from Chapel Hill; Fritz Pelone, vocalist from Charlotte and Nancy Green, comedienne from Chapel Hill.

Interfaith Council

The Interfaith Council will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the YWCA.

Lacrosse Team Gets First Win, 6-3, Against Massachusetts In The Rain

AMHERST, Mass., April 13—(Special)—Carolina's lacrosse team scored its first victory of the season today in a driving rainstorm, defeating the University of Massachusetts, 6-3.

Jack Cole scored three goals to lead the Tar Heels on a field soggy with mud. Carolina and Massachusetts meet again tomorrow.

Mass.	Pos.	UNC
Monaghen	g	Floyd
Spencer	d	Trimble
Jennison	d	Styron
Shores	d	Stokes
White	m	Ernst
Mellor	m	Cole
Marsh	m	Barclay
Yesair	a	Dawes
Moffitt	a	Harrall
Huber	a	Pillsbury

Scoring — Carolina: Cole (3), Ernst, Barclay, Dawes. Massachusetts: Smith, Yesair, Marsh.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, SAE-2 vs PiKA; Field 2, AK Psi vs Sig Nu-2; Field 3. ATO vs Phi Gam-1; Field 4, Kap Sig vs Pi Lamb.

5:00—Field 1, Med Sch-2 vs Med Sch-4; Field 2, KA vs Phi Kap Sig; Field 3, Lewis vs Alexander; Field 4; Mangum vs Aycock.

Today's Water Polo

7:00—Sig Nu vs Chi Psi.

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Sig Chi-4 vs Sig Nu-2; SAE-1 vs Sig Nu-4.

7:40—DKE-2 vs Sig Chi-1; Kap Sig-2 vs Phi Kap Sig.

8.20—Delt Psi vs Sig Chi-2; Pi Kap Phi-1 vs DU-2.

Co-Rec. Night

Woollen Gym will be open from seven until nine tonight for co-recreation in badminton, ping pong and volley ball.

Monogram Members

Monogram Club members are urged to pick up tickets to the Blue-White game at the Woollen Gym ticket office for advance sale. All new winter sports lettermen are also asked to sell tickets. These new lettermen are invited to attend the Monogram Club meeting Thursday at 7:15 p.m.

St. Mary's Alumnae

There will be a meeting of St. Mary's School and Junior College alumnae Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Episcopal Parish House. Dr. Richard G. Stone, president of St. Mary's, will be guest speaker.

THE _____ ROOM
of the Ranch House
Invites You
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday
NIGHTS
Couples only—Dancing—Cover
75c per couple

NEW STORE HOURS
10 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
MILTON'S CLOTHING CUPBOARD

INTERESTED IN CHAPEL HILL
?

Southern Part of Heaven, by William Meade Prince. The warm and nostalgic story of a turn of the century childhood in Chapel Hill. $3.75

The Campus of the First State University—a treasury of information and anecdote about Chapel Hill's University and it's Campus, by Archibald Henderson. _____$5.00

AND A BARGAIN

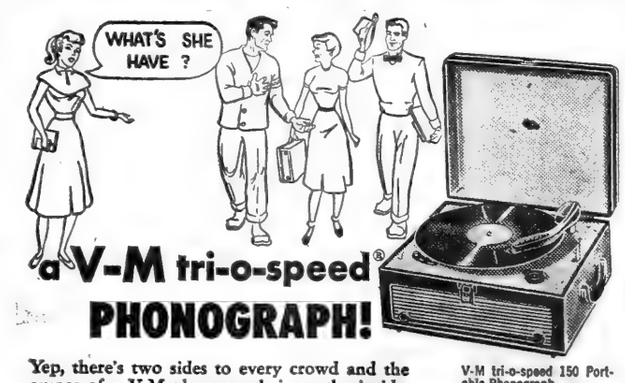
Memories of an OldTime Tarheel—by Kemp Plummer Battle. A delightful half-century of North Carolina life, from the 1830's to the '80's, by a former President of the University Published at $3.00
Our Special $1.00

IT'S ALWAYS FUN TO BROWSE IN
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

A TONIC FOR SPRING FEVER

Perk up these fine Spring afternoons and evenings, by driving out for a snack at Dairyland Farms. You'll enjoy our delicious ice cream specialties —

TEMPTING, LARGE
DE LUXE
ICE CREAM SODAS



DELICIOUS FRESHLY MADE SANDWICHES
Premium Ice Cream Made In Our Own Plant
Available in 20 different flavors

Dairyland Farms
GLEN LENNOX SHOPPING CENTER
"The Most Beautiful Dairy Bar in the South"

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
JOHN FORD
BEST DIRECTOR
Also BEST COLOR AWARD
HERBERT J. YATES presents
JOHN FORD'S GREATEST TRIUMPH
THE QUIET MAN
Color by Technicolor
JOHN WAYNE · MAUREEN O'HARA · BARRY FITZGERALD
with WARD BOND · VICTOR McLAGLEN · MILDRED NATWICK · FRANCIS FORD
ARTHUR SHIELDS and ABBEY THEATRE PLAYERS
Directed by JOHN FORD
Screen Play by FRANK S. NUGENT · From the Story by MAURICE WALSH
Produced by MERIAN C. COOPER · an ARGOSY PRODUCTION
A REPUBLIC PICTURE
Varsity
COMING THURSDAY

BY POPULAR DEMAND!
DANNY KAYE
It's a fun-and-music sensation!
SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S
UP IN ARMS
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
DINAH SHORE · DANA ANDREWS
and the GOLDWYN GIRLS · Directed by Elliot Nugent
Associate Producer Don Hartman-Original Screen Play by Don Hartman, Allen Boretz and Robert Pirosh
Re-released thru RKO RADIO PICTURES, Inc.
TODAY ONLY
Carolina

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MIN. WEST OF CARRBORO · HIWAY 54
Tonight & Wednesday
Betty HUTTON
Top Hat Musical Hit!
SOMEBODY LOVES ME
Color by TECHNICOLOR
with RALPH MEEKER

a V-M tri-o-speed® PHONOGRAPH!

Yep, there's two sides to every crowd and the owner of a V-M phonograph is on the inside, every time! Everybody likes V-M's life-like sound reproduction from records of any size, any speed. The floating tone arm with newest type two-needle "turn-about" cartridge and the beautifully styled wood-grain mahogany leatherette case on easy-to-carry V-M portable, win lots of praise too. See the entire V-M line, prices start at $29.50. V-M Corp., Benton Harbor, Mich.

*Slightly higher in the West.

V-M tri-o-speed 150 Portable Phonograph. Three-speed electric, manual change, best quality 4" x 6" speaker. $49.95*

V-M 45 Spindle accessory $2.95

V-M tri-o-matic 985 Portable Phonograph. Has Siesta Switchand Lazy-Lite. Full automatic record changer mechanism. $79.95*

EYE, TRY, BUY a V-M PHONOGRAPH!
SEE YOUR V-M DEALER TODAY

Anyone here named "Cannonball" Frobisher?

BASES FULL. Fat part of the opposition batting order coming up. The manager needs a new pitcher—fast!

So he did what most everybody does in an emergency—reached for the telephone. It connects bull pen and dugout. "Cannonball" was elected to put out the fire.

Ever wonder why people place so much faith in telephones in time of emergency? It's because they know it is dependable—a real friend.

This dependability is a tribute to the men and women of the Bell System. They are forever working on new ideas or improving old ones to give the nation the best telephone service in the world.

The interesting and rewarding work they do could be yours as well. Your Placement Officer will be happy to give you details about the many opportunities for employment in the Bell System.

Bell Telephone System

JUST RECEIVED
THE NEAT LOOK
MEN'S WHITE
KNIT TIES
Choose the latest style for your new spring wardrobe. White is the "neat" color. White rayon knits especially priced at only $1.50
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Campus capers call for Coke

How long can Jack be nimble?
Square dancing's rugged . . .
better tune up now and then with refreshing Coca-Cola.

DRINK Coca-Cola
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company
"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Poll Tenders

There will be a meeting for all poll tenders in Gerrard Hall tonight at 7 o'clock. The Elections Board must explain the various forms of ballots and the procedure of voting.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega will hold an important meeting in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial tonight at 7 o'clock. Projects and Spring rushing are on the agenda.

WELCOME DRAMA FESTIVAL!!

Stop in for your free map of the campus.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

ON SALE

Modern Wing Chair ..... $59.

2 Foam-rubber Lounge Chairs ..... $75. & $80.

Modern Armless Lounge ..... $55.

Sofa ..... $190.

Cabinets and bookshelves in ivory-finished solid oak

LAMPS ..... CHINA

PACE

GLEN LENNOX

The Rights of Man...

THIS SUMMER

In our choice of merchandise we are more exacting, more insistent, more demanding than any of our customers could possibly be. We know the original from the attempted copy...we differentiate sharply between quality and quackery.

That is why, when it comes to men's Refreshable summer clothes, we seek the preference of the Haspel label.

The Haspel label is our assurance...and yours...of superlative practicality in light weight, coolness, comfort and fine-fitting attributes, as well as dependable fabric excellence. It is our guarantee...and yours...that the suit is a product of the foremost specialists in the field.

We know it is our right...and we believe it is your right that in making your Refreshable summer wardrobe selections...

Haspel REFRESHABLE® CLOTHES

Be sure it's Haspel

EXCLUSIVELY OURS

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

Blind Pianist Will Perform Here Tonight

Tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall the SUAB will sponsor George Bennette, a blind pianist, for its first concert of the Spring Quarter. This concert will consist of selections from Bach, Beethoven, Sciabin, Von Weber and Ravel.

Bennette is a native of Greensboro. He was a soloist for the North Carolina Symphony while still in high school. He attended the North Carolina State School for the Blind and later Oberlin College in Ohio where he received his Bachelor of Music Degree in June 1951.

In August 1952 he received his Bachelor of Arts degree from UNC with a major in music. He is now attending the Jilliard School of Music in New York City.

Bennette has performed concerts in Ohio and North Carolina, having given a violin recital here in July of 1952.

Tar Heels & Toes

Tar Heels & Toes square and folk dance club meets today from 5 til 6:30 in the Women's Gym. Plans will be made for the club's part in the Durham Centennial celebration.

"He always makes such a production of putting in the Angostura*."

ANGOSTURA® AROMATIC BITTERS MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Nothing's quite so wonderful as a Manhattan made with Angostura—unless possibly it's the magic things Angostura does for soups and sauces.

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED 8B

PART TIME WAITER: PASTRY girl. Apply in person at Danziger's. (chg 1x1)

WUNC

Tonight's radio schedule:
7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Vistas of Israel.
7:45—Review of the British Weeklies.
8:00—The People Act.
8:30—Opera.
10:00—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Young Methodists

The Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church will have a picnic and cabin party tonight. Meet at the church at 6:30.

French Club

The French Supper Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall. Elections will be held at 7 o'clock at which time all members of Pi Delta Phi are requested to be present.

Expense Accounts

Campaign expense accounts from all candidates are due tonight at 6 o'clock. A fine of $1 will be levied on late accounts. Candidates who fail to get their tabs in by tomorrow at 6 p.m. will be disqualified from office.

JUST RECEIVED

Newest Note in Men's Fashions . . .

A SPORT VEST

- SOLIDS
- CHECKS
- STRIPES
- REVERSIBLE

from $4.95

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

—SP—

(Continued from page 1)

there are many benefits derived through the payment of this fee which would not otherwise be available, your Student Party believes that the $3.33 fee should remain as it is unless we can find strong student sentiment favoring a change."

The original SP platform, which is introduced by a pledge "to devote unceasing effort toward the fulfillment of the following goals," lists as its first "goal" the following:

"You are now forced to pay $10 for gym fees and $3.33 to the Carolina Athletic Association per quarter. It is impossible for the majority of students to benefit fully from this money. We, therefore, propose to establish a plan for the voluntary payment of these fees."

Watch the Ads For Details on the THE DALE FAIRLESS RECORD CLUB Glen Lennox

WHO WILL BE MR. FORMAL AT CAROLINA AND WIN THESE BIG PRIZES

★ AFTER SIX WHITE DINNER JACKET AND FORMAL TROUSERS

★ CUMMERBUND AND TIE FORMAL-PAK

★ AFTER SIX DRESS SHIRT

RONSON ADONIS POCKET LIGHTER

KAYWOODIE WHITE BRIAR FORMAL PIPE

"TOP HAT" TOILETRIES BY CHARBERT

Plus a chance at Mr. Formal U.S.A. and the big national prize. Including a $500 Defense Bond . . . a full week in Hollywood, all expenses paid . . . Hollywood screen test by Alex Gottlieb Productions . . . plus others.

TOWN & CAMPUS THE SPORT SHOP

Jake Froelich & John Baldridge Beta House 6071

TODAY and WEDNESDAY

Varsity

THERE MUST BE A REASON WHY Camel is America's most popular cigarette—leading all other brands by billions! Camels have the two things smokers want most—rich, full flavor and cool, cool mildness . . . pack after pack! Try Camels for 30 days and see how mild, how flavorful, how thoroughly enjoyable they are as your steady smoke!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

More People Smoke CAMELS than any other cigarette

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and warmer with 70 high. Yesterday's high, 58; low, 33.

The Daily Tar Heel

WHISKEY
Drink and responsibility go together, according to the editors. See p. 2.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 129 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

POLITICKING ENDS, CAMPUS VOTE IS TODAY

Here's Where You May Ballot Today

Here is where students cast their votes today: Polls open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

Dorm District I: Cobb Dormitory; VOTE at center section of Cobb.

Dorm District II: Aycock, Lewis, Everett, Graham and Stacy: VOTE at Lewis and Stacy.

Dorm District III: Alexander, Connor and Winston: VOTE at Alexander.

Dorm District IV: Mangum, Manly, Emerson Stadium, Joyner, Grimes and Ruffin; VOTE at Mangum or Gerrard Hall.

Dorm District V: Steele, Old East, Old West, B.V.P., Whitehead and all other University-owned residence halls; VOTE at Gerrard Hall.

Town Women: All women students not living in University-owned buildings; VOTE at Gerrard Hall or in Graham Memorial.

Dorm Women: All women's dorms; VOTE at Graham Memorial or Alderman Hall.

Town Men I: Southern Section south of Cameron Ave. extended; VOTE at Gerrard Hall or Graham Memorial.

Town Men II: Rectangle bounded by west Cameron South Columbia, West Franklin and Mill Road; VOTE at Gerrard Hall or Graham Memorial.

Town Men III: All other men students; VOTE at Gerrard Hall or Graham Memorial.

'Snake Pit'-Type Pictures Are Valuable But Dangerous—Crane

Aided by Oscar-winning Olivia de Havilland in the "Snake Pit," Psychological Consultant Harry W. Crane Monday night discussed the causes and cures of mental illnesses.

Dr. Crane, of the University Psychology Department, led a discussion at the conclusion of the movie, shown free to an audience which nearly filled downstairs Gerrard Hall.

Dr. Crane evidently chafed a bit as the group laughed during some of the pathetic scenes in the picture and he took advantage of a lull during reel changing to reprimand his audience. "There is no humor in the situation . . . these are tragic situations and cause sorrow for a great many people."

"Snake Pit" is the story of Virginia Cunningham (Miss de Havilland) who because of childhood frustrations and a teenage tragedy has a mental breakdown and loses her memory. The movie traces her case from beginning to finish.

Films such as "Snake Pit" which portray mental institutions are "valuable but also dangerous," the speaker said. The value, Dr. Crane said, lies in the spotlighting of reforms needed within the institutions. While the danger, he continued, is the vision which remains in the minds of people who might need mental attention.

Dr. Crane termed the "most interesting and most important" the film's "sequence of occurrence, starting in childhood, which terminates in mental illness." According to Dr. Crane, psychoses "nearly always start in childhood." It would be a help "if parents could understand . . . that they can't always decide for children . . . sometimes it's the whims of the parents and the decision is not based on a knowledge of the child."

The speaker recommended two books to his audience. One was Dr. E. A. Strecker's "Their Mother's Sons" which shows the effect of parents on children. "The Mind that Found Itself" by Clifford Beers is the autobiography of a man in an institution written after his release.

"Snake Pit" is one of a series of movie-lectures sponsored this school year by the Hillel Foundation and the YMCA. The next show is "Treasure of Sierra Madre" with the late Walter Huston. It will be shown May 5 in Gerrard.—RN.

Philip Morris' Johnny

Johnny, of Philip Morris fame, will be in the Y this morning from 10 until 11 o'clock, and in Lenoir Hall at noon. He is currently touring the colleges as a Philip Morris representative. Yesterday he visited Woman's College in Greensboro.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM — United Nations officers expressed concern yesterday for the health of sick and disabled Allied war prisoners now riding toward freedom. Light rain fell along the 200-mile long "freedom road" from Chonma on the Yalu River to Panmunjom and more bad weather was predicted for last night.

★

SEATTLE — A Miami Airlines plane with 25 persons aboard disappeared over the towering Cascade Mountains early yesterday. A Civil Aeronautics Administration spokesman said the twin engined red and white DC-3 carried 22 military passengers and a crew of three. A fleet of 13 Air Force, Coast Guard and civilian planes searched a 1,500 square mile area in the rugged mountains where the "clouds were sitting right down on the peaks."

★

RALEIGH—The Senate yesterday completed legislative action on a proposed amendment to the State Constitution to keep a single county from having more than one senator. The Senate passed the amendment, which already had been approved by the House, by a 36-8 vote. It now must be submitted to the people for approval in the next general election.

Fire Violators Make Promise

The Town Board of Aldermen heard a promise Monday night from fraternities and sororities that all fire escape construction bids would be completed by Friday.

The board agreed to go along with the houses even though the 90 day time limit for correcting hazards was up on April 5. P. L. Burch, building inspector, said, "If we can get all the bids accepted and approved by the end of this week, we will have made a good step."

Burch will make a report to the board on April 27. He said he did not see a lack of bona fide effort on the part of the houses to get the work done.

Some Changes Will Be Voted On In Election

There may be some changes made by students today as they consider two constitutional amendments.

One of the suggested changes is for electing Publication Board members in two shifts instead of all during the Spring election. The other is for setting up a new major student government officer, a coordinator for the National Student Association affairs.

These amendments were passed in the Student Legislature last February. In order to be tacked on to the constitution they must be approved by two thirds of the voters.

The Publications Board is the publishing and financial policy forming agency for The Daily Tar Heel and The Yackety Yack. The board is made up of two faculty members appointed by the chancellor, four student members elected by the student body and one member elected by the Student Legislature.

The amendment, proposed by Tom McDonald, would keep editors in chiefs and business managers of the publications from being voting members of the board. It also provides that two of the student members shall be elected in the fall and the other two in the Spring.

The National Student Association is made up of colleges throughout the country. It is a sounding board for student opinion nationally, an exchange group for ideas on student government and sponsor of various scholarships and student tours.

At present the head of the nation wide group is appointed by the president of the student body. The amendment calls for this post to be filled by the students in Spring elections.

Student Head Of Law School Asks Revision

Wallace Ashley president of the Law School Association, yesterday called for a program in the Law School here that would "end the conflict for student interest."

In a Presidential Memo column in the Tar Heel Barrister, UNC Law School Association publication, Ashley said "one organization would mean one program."

He pointed out that without the legal fraternities, expense to the law student would be less. "One thousand dollars which students invest in legal fraternities this year will go to that mysterious unknow 'national' by way of initiation fees."

"The writer (Ashley) is willing to assume for purposes of this discourse that the fraternities at present are rendering substantial service to the student body" he said. "It is the probability that similar service can be had through a larger, more inclusive organization that raises the doubts of their necessity."

Ashley quoted one student as saying "It's nice to have them (legal fraternities) for those people who would like to go a particular fraternity."

"A similar argument," Ashley said, 'could well be made for houses of prostitution and probably with more success."

"It is not for the president of the Law School Association, even with his term of office nearing the expiration date, to suggest that the Law School Association is the only student organization needed here," he concluded. "Nevertheless, he does not deem it indiscreet to suggest that it might well be."

Laura Cone, John S. Hill, Collier Cobb Jr.

Solons Drop 3 Big Trustees, Draw Fire From Many Sides

By John Jamison

Friends of the University were wondering yesterday why John Sprunt Hill of Durham, Mrs. Laura W. Cone of Greensboro, and Collier Cobb Jr. of Chapel Hill were not renominated to the Board of Trustees.

A joint committee of the state legislature Thursday nominated 28 persons in the board, including the much-discussed John W. Clark of Franklinville, but failed to include the names of at least three of the more prominent Trustees.

Hill and Mrs. Cone were members of the Executive Committee of the board. Cobb was chairman of the Building Committee.

John Sprunt Hill, UNC, Class of 1889, has been one of the University's more generous benefactors for many years. He said yesterday he had indicated a desire to take it easy, since he is now 84 years old and tires rather easily.

However, neither Mrs. Cone nor Cobb had expressed any desire to quit serving on the board. Woman's College is incensed at the committee's failure to renominate Mrs. Cone. She is an alumna of WC and has been president of the Woman's College Alumnae Association. She has been a Trustee for 22 years.

A WC spokesman explained yesterday Mrs. Cone's supporters were not opposed to any of the persons nominated. They just didn't understand how Mrs. Cone could be left out. This opinion was also heard in Chapel Hill.

Mrs. Cone said yesterday she was "willing to step out." She said, "The only thing that concerns me is that I hope Woman's College will get sufficient representation on the board. It is entirely right and proper that when people have served a long time, they should step out."

Trustee rules require at least 10 of the 100 board members be women.

Cobb is an insurance and real estate executive here and has been on the board for eight years. He was chairman of the board's Building Committee for six years. He said yesterday he had not been "an active candidate" for renomination but neither had he told anyone he felt like leaving the board.

Hill, a lawyer, farmer, banker, legislator and benefactor, has been less active with the board recently because of various illnesses. He suffered a hemorrhage not long ago and although

(See HILL GIVES, page 4)

Disarm World, Revamp UN, Burton Pleads

"Let every nation disarm and give the UN power to define, manufacture, and control the use of armaments of agression is the only way the world can ever attain peace and security,"Dr. Thomas Burton, president of Burton Institute of Adult Education at Charlotte, said here last night.

Dr. Burton is a former member of the British League of Nations Union held in Paris in 1927, past chairman of the Committee on Causes and Cures of War in Connecticut, 1937, and since his retirement in 1947 has devoted one half of his time to the World Federalist organization. His speech here last night was delivered to the Phi Assembly.

Recalling the mistakes the United States made after World War I in neglecting its role in world leadership, helping lead us into World War II, Dr. Burton told the assembly we should cooperate with other nations in an all out effort to disarm the world and reorganize the United Nations so that plans for disarmament may be established.

Dr. Burton said the world is currently in a vicious cycle in that there can be no peace without disarmament and no disarmament without the assurance of peace. Therefore "we should provide the UN with the power to control armaments of aggression, even manufacture them, and define those armaments of aggression. Also there should be a UN committee with the power to go into all countries and inspect so that it can be sure that no arms of aggression are being built."

Dr. Burton studied international law in 1917 impending a career in diplomatic service and has been interested in world government ever since. He holds a Ph.D. in education and served in World War I as an artillery lieutenant.

In the inaugural ceremony of the Phi Assembly new officers installed were Bob Pace, speaker, Don Angell, speaker pro tem Sydney Shuford, clerk, Dale Ryan, sergeant at arms, Fred Crawford, critic, Donald Sherry, parliamentarian, and Lewis Brumfield, treasurer.

UCLA Warns Faculty About Not Testifying

Four N. Y. Educators Urge Expulsion From Schools Of All Reds

NEW YORK, April 14—(Special)—Four New York college administrators urged the expulsion of all Communist party members from American schools in a forum broadcast over national radio and television networks recently.

The four, three of whom are college presidents and the other a dean of education, would include everyone from professors to clerks and secretaries in the purge.

Dr. Ernest O. Melby, Dean of the New York University School of Education, said, "We've got to prepare young people in America to be good citizens in a free society. Even if someone were to assure me that we had not one single Communist in the entire structure of American education, I still wouldn't be completely satisfied unless I were certain that all the teachers were dedicated to freedom and were conducting schools every day that really lived and breathed the meaning of our free society."

When asked whether he thought the Congressional investigation of subversives in education has endangered academic freedom, Dr. John J. Theobold, president of Queens College, said, "I have yet to see a person of any standing in a college faculty unwilling to open his mouth on a subject pro or con, and I'm wondering how much of this fear really exists."

All four of the educators agreed that teachers who are communists might influence the thinking of their students through their out of class attitudes and utterances. They said that clerks or secretaries could further the party's aims through their access to records and in other ways.

Balky Prof Could Be Dismissed, Committee Suggests In Report

LOS ANGELES, April 14 (Special)—The Committee on Academic Freedom of UCLA warned faculty members of the legal consequences of not testifying before state and federal investigating bodies in a report issued here recently.

According to the committee a refusal to testify might "set in motion a series of events which could result in dismissal from the faculty."

The committee backed their statement by saying that a refusal to testify before a state committee constitutes contempt and the university is required by law to discharge any person who commits a contempt.

"Any dismissal action based on evidence of Communist party affiliation should always follow the traditional procedures and policies of the University," the committee said.

In case the matter were to come up in a court of law the report suggested suspending the professor until the verdict and then hiring or firing him depending on the court's ruling.

Penny A Vote For Ugly Man

Fourteen candidates have been entered in Theta Chi Fraternity's "Ugliest Man On Campus" contest, and pictures of each of them are posted in Y Court for voting this week.

Results of the penny a vote contest will be announced at 10:45 Friday evening at the University Carnival, according to Contest Chairman Robert Skillen.

The winner will be presented many prizes donated by Chapel Hill merchants. In addition to this, he will be given a date with Sigma Chi's "Miss Modern Venus of 1953."

APO Rushing To Be Planned

Rho Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega national service fraternity, will hold an open rush meeting tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the Ren-

Rho Chapter was founded here in

All students who are interested in becoming members of the fraternity have been invited to the meeting.

dezvous Room of Graham Memorial. 1930 and is now considered one of the foremost APO chapters in the South.

Being a service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega crosses all lines of honorary social and professional fraternities. Members of other campus organizations may also be active in Alpha Phi Omega.

President Jim Adams said anyone desiring to render service to others, and to have fun and fellowship, is eligible for membership.

The local chapter of Alpha Phi Omega sponsors a guide service for campus visitors, provides ushers for student entertainment shows and is currently engaged in a "Book Exchange" project. APO also sponsors the annual Parent's Day at the University.

Race Is Over After Month Of Door Pounding

By Louis Kraar

The big question mark in the minds of campus politicians yesterday was, are students going to vote?

After a month of listening to the candidates, reading party handouts and wondering just who stands for what, the boys in lower quad and the girls in McIver will make the final decision at the polls today.

It's D-Day for Spring Elections. Polls are open from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Ken Penegar, Student Party, and Bob Gorham,, University Party, along with independent Wade Matthews have figured strongly in the contest for student body president. Tommy Sumner, another independent, aside from tacking up a poster or two, has made little apparent effort to further his campaign for the top post.

The match for vice-president is three way with Jack Stilwel (UP), Baxter Miller (SP) and independent Bill Brown dueling for the vote. Gordon Forester (SP) and Jerry Cook (UP) are in the contest for treasurer.

Despite vigorous campaigns between all the candidates, politicos were worried yesterday about just how many would really vote.

Candidates participated in several dormitory debates, but these were usually attended by little audience except fellow politicos. Door pounding, a prime factor in last year's campaign, was as prevalent as coffee cups at the Y court. In many dorms and fraternity houses, the complete slate of candidates made the rounds in a single night.

The Student Party said it was putting out a publicity sheet, The Student Tar Heel, but University Party officials when asked about their plans said they would not. Last year the UP put out one, The University Tar Heel.

A new system of nominating head cheerleaders this year yielded two energetic candidates, Louie Patseavouras and Jim Fountain. The two have similar platforms.

The only issues of the race have been the questions of compulsory gym and Carolina Athletic Association fees and a student member on the Board of Trustees. Both were originally dealt with in the SP platform, then challenged by the UP and finally partially revised by the SP.

As it now stands, SP leaders want to abolish compulsory payment of gym fees and keep compulsory payment of the CAA fees.

The UP view, as voiced by presidential candidate Gorham was, "We're against taking money away from the gym. . . . We want to save money wherever possible, but are not for abolishing the system as it is."

The SP idea of having a student on the Board of Trustees proved acceptable to at least one Trustee. Frank W. Taylor, leading Trustee, said representatives from all three branches should be allowed to sit in on board and Executive Committee meetings. The students wouldn't have a vote.

The original SP proposal called for a "member" of the two bodies, but SP officials revised it to be a "representative" since a "membership" would take action by the state legislature. SP leaders were first reminded by the UP at a dorm debate of the fact that an official voting student member on the Trustee board would take legislative action.

Most candidates remained optimistic yesterday and spent last night touring the campus in last minute campaign efforts. Political posters dominated bulletin boards and shop windows.

VOTE TODAY:

1946	54%	1948	36%	1950	43%	1952	47%
1947	50%	1949	40%	1951	43%	1953	??

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull | Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter | Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr., Jennie Lynn, Joyce Adams.

SPORTS STAFF—Vasty Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Russey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

Night editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Four Letter Word

These "stupid politicians" that seek your vote are the ones that fight tuition raises, plans to abolish cars on campus, Saturday classes. They are the ones who propose curriculum changes, improvements in fraternities and dormitories.

There are plenty of polling places open today from 8:30 a.m. till 6 p.m. You've got a reason to vote, you've got the right to vote, so vote.

A Potential Blessing

Fraternities, like other organizations, cherish their freedoms. They fear interference, harsh regulations, and control from without.

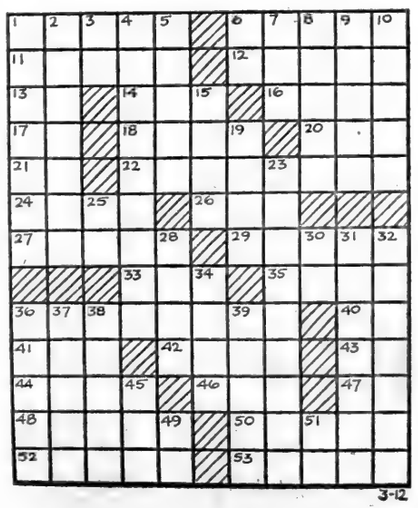
Some fraternity men have looked upon the latest program to allow women to drink in the houses as real infringements of basic rights. They fear that South Building will take over. Others, more mature, look to the Interfraternity Council's approach to the problem as the best available solution to a problem that lacks solving in hundreds of colleges and universities.

The IFC proposal awaiting full administration approval would provide visiting hours for imports as well as coeds. It would end the longstanding discrimination between the Chapel Hill women and the outsider. It provides for adult visiting boards to supervise social activities, and keener application of the Campus Code towards violators. The key to a satisfactory working out of the plan, if it becomes a fact, is the word, responsibility, responsibility that hasn't been placed on the shoulders of fraternity men before.

Yet, fraternities have increasingly shown an ability to take on responsibilities and to contribute more to the campus. For the last four years hazing has decreased to the point where there is only a shadow of it now compared to the wild, childish shannigans of before. Fraternities have adopted Greek Week as a week of healthy competition, service projects, and fellowship among pledges. The University administration from the dean of students office to the consolidated office and up to the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees can have this clear cut evidence before them that, given a chance, fraternities can lead responsibly.

The Daily Tar Heel doesn't say that the IFC proposals are the best way out of a complex situation. No one knows the best way of handling a problem that is a sorespot for most schools and particularly state universities. But we do say that the contradictions, even hypocrisies, published in the University catalogue and Women's Handbook should be erased from the record, and a more practical, modern policy be adopted. The suggestion that bars in fraternities be torn out is a form of that hypocrisy which we know the University wants to keep away from.

Responsibility on the part of all fraternity men and a realistic attitude on the part of the University administration will go a long way in ending a difficult and embarrassing situation. The IFC proposal should become a part of UNC's policy.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Ceases
6. Silent
11. Unit of Boy Scouts
12. Worship
13. East Indies (abbr.)
14. Steal
16. River (Eng.)
17. Pound (abbr.)
18. Center
20. Half ems
21. Lutecium (sym.)
22. All creation
24. On top
26. A number
27. Equip again
29. Not ever
33. Short sleep
35. Capital (It.)
36. Soaking in liquid
40. King of Bashan (Bib.)
41. Constellation
42. Wings
43. Terbium (abbr.)
44. Rend
46. Fate
47. Id est (abbr.)
48. Sour
50. A son of Zeus (Class. Myth.)
52. State (W. Ger.)
3. Sacred pictures (Russ. Ch.)

DOWN
1. Of the stars
2. Personal compliment
3. Hawaiian bird (hyphen.)
4. A quilled animal
5. An eating utensil
6. Tantalum (sym.)
7. Girl's name
8. Lid
9. Manacles
10. Taut
15. Young herring
19. Level
23. Vigorous
25. From
28. Mulberry bark cloth
30. Verso (abbr.)
31. Feeling
32. Withdrawal
34. Pellet of medicine
36. Girl's name
37. A moment
38. Projecting edges of roofs
39. Mother-in-law of Ruth (Bib.)
45. Bitter vetch
49. Exist
51. Negative reply

Yesterday's Answer

The Smile

She kind of tripped into class. Such trips always get my attention.

One of those lazy cashmere sweaters clung around her, giving emphasis to nature's provisions. Her face was happy. She made you smile when she smiled. There she was, right behind me, two seats over to the left. How I wished the instructor would lecture from the rear of the room just for me—not the rest of the class—so I could enjoy her.

After class, I gathered my conversational powers together, recalled that she knew a good friend, and tried to talk. She broke loose with one of those ear to ear jobs, and I could hardly make my tongue move. The talk was inconsequential to her.

Another class, another tidbit of talk. This time, there was radiance on her part, and more talk on mine. A date was proposed, a dance perhaps. But the expected "No" was announced and the eager smiled-upon gave up temporarily.

Still, there was that smile, that warm, tingling feeling when she was around. Now a waiting period began. Two weeks elapsed with steady lectures, a furtive glance to the rear seeking the smile which was occasionally granted. One day, she did not show up. This engaging beauty was susceptible to the flu, too. How could it be possible in one so lovely?

Another dance was coming up fast. This was Tuesday. I had till Saturday. Who should I call? Try the infirmary. Lend some cheer to the sick, I thought. A wavering finger shaked towards the little "9" hole and in a moment her voice came through on the other end. She was pleased for the thoughtful message, glad about the date request, but "I've already got one; raincheck, please," she coughed.

Ah . . . another smile, another glance, after the flu. Some further conversation. Could I ask again?

The smiles became dearer as spring approached. They were full to the brim, but still no date. The conversation was halting, the admirer, fearful.

I had another conversation the other day not with her, though. It was with four other guys in the class. The smile was common property.

W.D.

Ron Levin

Dear George

Yesterday I intercepted and translated a letter from George the collie, to his brother Mutt over at Dook. I mailed the letter on to Mutt and here is his answer that arrived in the morning mail.

Dear George,

How's by you? Things are pretty dull over here and have been ever since I was carried over here by mistake last fall by that bunch of drunken Dook bums who thought I was Rameses. But I ain't so sorry. I admit they don't feed me doughnuts like over at "The Hill", but once in a while I can go around back of Hollis Eden's house and pick up a few scraps. They really aren't much, and that just goes to show you how college professors don't make what they used to!

Mom hasn't been feeling too well lately. You see about a week ago, we were back of Eden's house getting some supper, and Eden's dog, J. Crumpington Laceworthy III the Earl of Sussex, came out and made a pass at Mom. He saw me but it was too late, and today the campus flag flew at half mast. I never did like that hound anyway.

I was hanging around in front of one of the men's dorms the other night, and heard them saying something about a pantry raid, or a panty maid, or a pansy maize, or something like that. They were real excited and everything, but the gatekeeper came up and drove them back into the cages for the night, so nothing ever came of it . . . how about you over at UNC?

Mom and I might come over in a few weeks, to spend a little time with you. Can you put us up? Please let me know as I have a chance to go over with a Russian Wolfhound who goes over every weekend for the party meeting. He won't tell me what party, but Mom and I have our own ideas.

Be good, and don't worry about A. Z. F. Wood Jr. If he gives you any more trouble, I'll send the word over to the gang, and he'll never know what bit him.

Yours for more fire hydrants,
Mutt

"Let's See—What'll I Look Into Next?"

Drew Pearson

The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Probably the most important backstage feud in Washington is between two auto tycoons who are battling over the nation's mobilization policy. They are General Motors' ex-boss Charlie Wilson, who quit the auto business to become Secretary of Defense, and Studebaker's present boss Harold Vance, who was offered the job of defense mobilizer but couldn't afford to give up his Studebaker ties. However, he agreed to serve as a special consultant.

These two captains of industry have clashed behind the scenes over broadening the country's production base. Wilson has found that he can save an estimated billion dollars out of his budget by stopping the construction of defense plants. Vance has warned this would cost more in the long run, might even joepardize the nation's future security.

Both men have tried to keep their dispute out of the papers. However, Wilson argues privately that he would rather stockpile planes and tanks than defense plants and machine tools. He claims that more money has been spent on industrial mobilization than weapons of war since the Korean outbreak.

"A number of plants have been built that shouldn't have been built," he keeps repeating in closed door conferences. "I don't agree with (ex Secretary of Defense) Lovett's theory that you need two plants to produce a thousand tanks when one plant could do the job."

He also wants to strike $500 million out of the budget for stockpiling machine tools.

"I see no reason to stockpile machine tools," Wilson declares flatly.

However, Vance takes the long range view that the more plants we have, the greater our output will be in case of all out war. He warns that we should not store too many production eggs in one basket, should scatter as many plants as possible around the country. This would make it more difficult for Russia to cripple defense production by surprise attack.

Vance also claims it would be cheaper in the long run to stockpile machine tools, than try to stockpile the planes that the tools produce. When the stockpiled planes and tanks become obsolete, Vance points out, they would have to be scrapped. It would be more economical, he argues, to keep the machine tools on hand and simply redesign them to keep up with modern improvements.

Most of Wilson's military experts agree with Vance. However, Wilson is the boss. His views probably will win out.

Just before General Al Gruenther flew back to Paris, he testified behind closed Senate doors regarding the solemn chances of peace or war. He alsto told about "the most serious" security leak at NATO headquarters, and related how a Russian order was recently intercepted by which the Red Army was to attack an American unit the next morning at five o'clock.

Some of Greunther's testimony must be kept off the record because of military secrets. However, here are the non-security highlights.

Most significant discussion was over Russia's sudden peace offensive, which Greunther warned may be a trap to lull us to sleep. This roused some sharp comment from President Eisenhower's Republican backers.

"I am scared to death of these peace overtures," blurted Senator Alex Smith, New Jersey Republican and ex Princeton professor.

"We better watch out that we aren't a sucker for a left," agreed Gruenther. He added that the Soviets "made the biggest mistake in their history when they started the Korean war, because it has united the West."

"Do you think that may be the reason Malenkov has launched this peace campaign, in order to stop our united effort?" asked Senator Homer Ferguson, Michigan Republican.

Express Yourself

Editor and others concerned:

Having for some time been more interested in reading The Daily Tar Heel than the required reading for several courses that I'm taking at the present time, I feel that I would like to add my "two cent's worth" about a matter that has been in the limelight lately at State College, Carolina, and the Woman's College. This matter is the C.U.S.C. Being a student at the Woman's College and being a member of the C.U.S. C., I have noted with considerable interest the development of the controversial issues revolving around the C.U.S.C.

This afternoon (today being C.U. Day at W.C.) was spent in a meeting of the C.U.S.C. With many thanks to the level-headed Legislators at Chapel Hill, Carolina had a few more delegates present than I had expected. The meeting this afternoon in itself proved that the C.U.S.C. is doing something. I have been quite interested in the remarks that have been made, to the effect that the Council hasn't done anything and that its existence is not a necessary one. There has been an underlying obstacle all year as far as a smooth operation of the Council has been concerned. With an obstacle such as this, it has been impossible for the Council to even think about something constructive, much less do it! I (and I think, we) at W.C. are thankful that we were able to get our plans made and carried out for C.U. Day amongst all the confusion, complications, and controversy that has prevailed for some time. About the "obstacle," I believe that "it" will will be removed before long, and that the C.U.S.C. can start making some progressive moves.

As I see it, the Council does not need a revision — just a chance!

I only hope that next year's student leaders on all three campuses will act intelligently, as far as their official capacities are concerned, and will strive toward better relations between the three schools, and for consolidation, rather than un-consolidation! The C.U.S.C. can work, and it will work!

On behalf of the W.C. delegation, I would like to thank all who helped to make our C.U. Day possible.

Margaret Crawford

Dan Duke

Segregation Schmegregation

Over and over we hear the arguments justifying Jim Crowism on the grounds that segregation of the races is the "natural", the fitting, the proper thing for society to do.

Overlooking the completely democratic, idealistic, and ethical argument against segregation and the similiar discriminatory measures, let's examine "segregation" (as we know it) and see how well it accomplishes its own expressed purpose of keeping the races separate.

From the first it should be obvious that segregation does not keep the races separate. There are numerous spheres of overlapping activity and intermingling. Indeed if segregation's primary purpose is to discourage or prevent interbreeding, then that very purpose is strongly contradicted by the fact that there is a much greater amount of interbreeding in the South (where strict segregation is the rule) than in the North (where little legal discrimination exists against the Negro.)

Some argue that we have segregation because the races "by nature" are disinclined to associate with each other, If this is so, then I wonder why it is necessary to have laws to enforce the workings of nature. And to be people who are supposedly adverse to interracial contacts, whites do not seem very hesitant to hire Negroes as laborers or servants—with whom they have frequent contact. Nor are storekeepers particularly anxious to refuse Negro dollars. To me a contact is a contact, whether between master and servant or between human being and human being.

This segregation, as we have seen, is not a means to keep the races separate. In the last analysis, the true purpose of segragation is reduced to an attempt by the whites to discriminate against Negroes, who whites sincerely or falsely believe are inferior, and should, consequently, be kept in an inferior position.

Thus Negroes are shoved into unsuitable, cramped, residential areas. They are discriminated against in public theatres, hotels, eating establishments, and other public accomodations and services. They are denied the right to a good education or an equal opportunity. And they must suffer daily a thousand insults, discriminations, and degradations of their character and human dignity.

Yet if angels do not spring from this hell, whites argue that this proves the inferiority of the Negro and the necessity of "keeping him in his place."

Or if some Booker T. Washington's or George Washington Carver's do succeed, in spite of their environment, whites contend that this proves that segregation is not really discrimination, that any man can get ahead "if he has it in him." No consideration is given to the question of how many Booker T. Washingtons and George Washington Carvers society forfeits and loses because of a stagnant environment.

In my opinion segregation is unethical, undemocratic, immoral, injust, inhumane, irrational, and contrary to Christian principles. It draws no distinction between the idiot and the genius, between the ignoble and the great. It pronounces all Negroes inferior to all whites with no exceptions.

The only truth about racial prejudice is that it is deeply rooted in the hearts of men. Prejudice is illogical, but quite real. While laws will not end prejudice and discrimination they certainly will help in the process to break it down.

Gene Shaw

The column headlined, "Ridiculous" with an overline capped "UP," appearing in yesterday's Daily Tar Heel editorial page was written by Gene Shaw, a senior and former University Party member. Shaw's name was inadvertently left off the column. It was a personal opinion, however, an opinion held by many in the University party.

Nine To Face Deacons On Road In Big Four Game

Port Is Slated To Pitch Today In SC Contest

By Tom Peacock

Carolina's baseball team stays on the road but reopens its Big Four schedule today, with righthander Chal Port slated to face the Wake Forest Deacons at Wake Forest. Game time is 3:30.

The Tar Heels are currently leading the Southern Conference with a 5-1 record, but Wake Forest has the best overall record in the Big Four with eight wins and a loss.

Carolina's lone Conference loss came against N. C. State, while the Deacs lost their first to Duke in their last outing after an eight game winning streak.

Since the Tar Heels' loss to State, they have easily beaten South Carolina, The Citadel, and Davidson in Conference contests.

Today's game is the first of three scheduled between the two schools, the winner taking temporary hold of third place in the Big Four.

Deac coach Taylor Sanford will call on his ace fourth-year lefthander, Archie Lynch, to work against Carolina. Lynch had sore arm trouble Saturday, and Sanford will be in trouble if he isn't ready.

Port, an all-Conference pitcher, is one of the most effective hurlers in coaches Walt Rabb and Bunn Hearn's lineup. He has a 2-1 record.

Also slated to start today for Carolina are Will Frye, catcher; Bob Henning, first base; Harry Lee Lloyd, second base; Bob Williams, third base; Fred Dale, shortstop; Wayne White, left field, Connie Gravitte center field; and Ken Keller, right field.

Sanford is expected to start Liptak, catcher; Hugh Smith, first base; Oscar Signore, second base; Harron Floyd, third base; Dickie Harris shortstop; Ralph Brown, left field; Luther McKeel, center field; and Tommy Cole, right field.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Sig Nu 1 vs. PiKA; Field 2, Theta Chi vs. Phi Gam 2; Field 3, DKE 1 vs. Sig Nu 2; Field 4, Sig Nu-3 vs. Chi Psi 1; Field 5, Chi Phi vs. Phi Delt 1; Field 6, Phi Kap Sig vs. DKE 2.

5:00—Field 1, KA vs. SPE; Field 2, SAE 2 vs. Zetes 1; Field 3, DU vs. SAE 1; Field 4, Connor vs. Dental Sch; Field 5, English Club vs. Law School; Field 6, Ruffin vs. Stacy.

Today's Tennis

4:00—Pi Lamb vs. SAE 1; Sig Chi-2 vs. Kap Sig.

5:00—Med School 1 vs. Connor; Med School 3 vs. Aycock 2.

Yanks Defeated In Opening Game

The New York Yankees, defending world champions, were defeated on opening day for the first time in five years yesterday, as the major league season got into full swing with seven games. One was called on account of bad weather.

The Yankees lost to the Philadelphia Athletics 5-0 in New York as they ran into an opening day shutout by Alex Kellner, Philadelphia left-hander. Yankee ace Vic Raschi went all the way for the champs but Kellner could not be beaten.

In the other American League afternoon game, Bob Lemon almost made history as he pitched a one-hit shutout over the Chicago White Sox for the Cleveland Indians. The score was 6-0.

The only hit off the big Cleveland pitcher came in the first inning when Minnie Minoso singled. After that he couldn't be touched. He contributed offensively to the Cleveland cause with a home run.

The game between Washington and Boston in Boston was called off due to snow and wet grounds. Detroit played St. Louis in a night game.

In the National League, the pennant-winning Brooklyn Dodgers got off to a good start as they defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-5. The Dodgers took up where they left off last season as they had to call on Joe Black for relief when the Pirates jumped on starter Carl Erskine.

The Dodgers got thirteen hits including home runs by Roy Campanella and Duke Snider. Murray Dickson was the losing pitcher for Pittsburgh.

The Milwaukee Braves played their first game before the people in their new home and made it a success as they beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 in 10 innings. It was the second win of the campaign for the Braves who opened the season Monday by beating the Cincinnati Reds.

The New York Giants beat the Philadelphia Phillies and Robin Roberts 4-1 yesterday behind the effective pitching of Larry Jantben. Roberts had the best record of any pitcher in the major leagues last season.

In the other National League game the Chicago Cubs scored two runs in the bottom of the eighth inning to beat Cincinnati 3-2. Bob Rush went all the way for the Cubs to beat the Reds' eKnny Raffensberger.

Netters Take Week's Rest

The Carolina tennis team is taking a well-deserved rest this week from match competition after playing thirteen almost consecutive matches and winning all of them in the past two weeks.

The season so far has been a big success for Coach Kenfield and his boys as they have won all of their matches very easily. The tough ones are on the other end of the schedule.

The team will swing into action again Saturday morning when they meet Wake Forest in a match which was scheduled for tomorrow but was postponed until Saturday in order to add to the program of "High School Day." The match will be played at 10 a.m.

Following the Deacon engagement will be a match with State on Tuesday, April 21, and then the big match with Duke on the following Thursday. Coach Kenfield will be very anxious to hand the Blue Devils a defeat this year, as they were one of the two teams that was able to beat him last year.

Lacrosse

AMHERST, MASS., April 14—(Special)—The lacrosse game between North Carolina and the University of Massachusetts was called off this afternoon due to snow.

The game between these two teams yesterday was played in a driving rain which turned to snow overnight, forcing cancellation of today's contest.

Weather permitting, the Carolina lacrosse team will continue its northern tour tomorrow afternoon in a game with Amherst College.

Life Saving

All students who are interested in senior life saving classes are asked to attend a meeting at 7 o'clock tomorrow night in room 304 of Woollen Gym. Coach Dick Jamerson, who is in charge of the classes, also asked that all persons who would like to teach a class and renew their certificate attend the meeting.

CRYPTOGRAM

VHFX MH MAX—KHHF HY MAX KTGVA AHOLX YHK KHFTGMBV TMFHLIAXKX, FNLBV, WTGVBGZ. HIXG MNXLWTR MAKN LTMNKWTR GBMXL.XOXK LH EBOX FNLBV YKB. TGW LTM. VHNXK—.75 IXK VHNIEX MO., PX., M A.; $1.50 IXK VHNIEX PXXDXGWL.

solution tomorrow

Vince Grimaldi To Receive Basketball Player Awards

Vince Grimaldi, University of North Carolina senior from Philadelphia, was named recently by his teammates to receive the University's highest honors in basketball for his play during the 1952-53 season.

The Tar Heel guard was selected to receive the Foy Roberson Jr., Medal offered annually to the player "contributing most to team morale and sportsmanship." Last year the award went to Howard Deasy, presently with the Akron Goodyear Wingfoots.

Grimaldi was also named by his teammates to receive the E. Carrington Smith-Carolina Theater trophy as the team's outstanding player.

He was named to several All-Southern Conference and All-State teams.

Tuxedos For Rent

Varley's Men's Shop

We are moving to the Tankerseley Building Next To Post Office

Today

The Yarn Shop

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

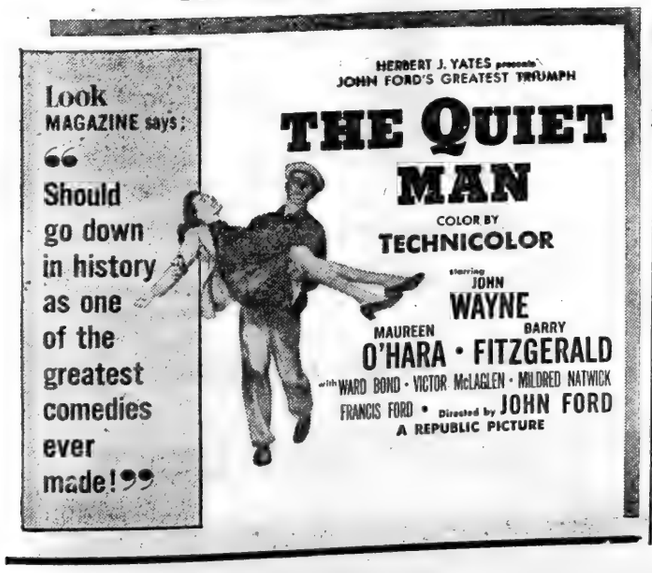
The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

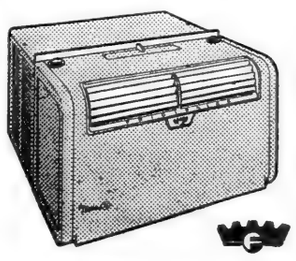
NEW STORE HOURS
10 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
MILTON'S CLOTHING CUPBOARD

COSMIC FRANKENSTEIN TERRORIZES EARTH!



THE MAGNETIC MONSTER

Last Times T-O-D-A-Y



Varsity

T-O-M-O-R-R-O-W

Winner of Two Academy Awards!
Best Director—Best Color

New COMFORT CONTROL!

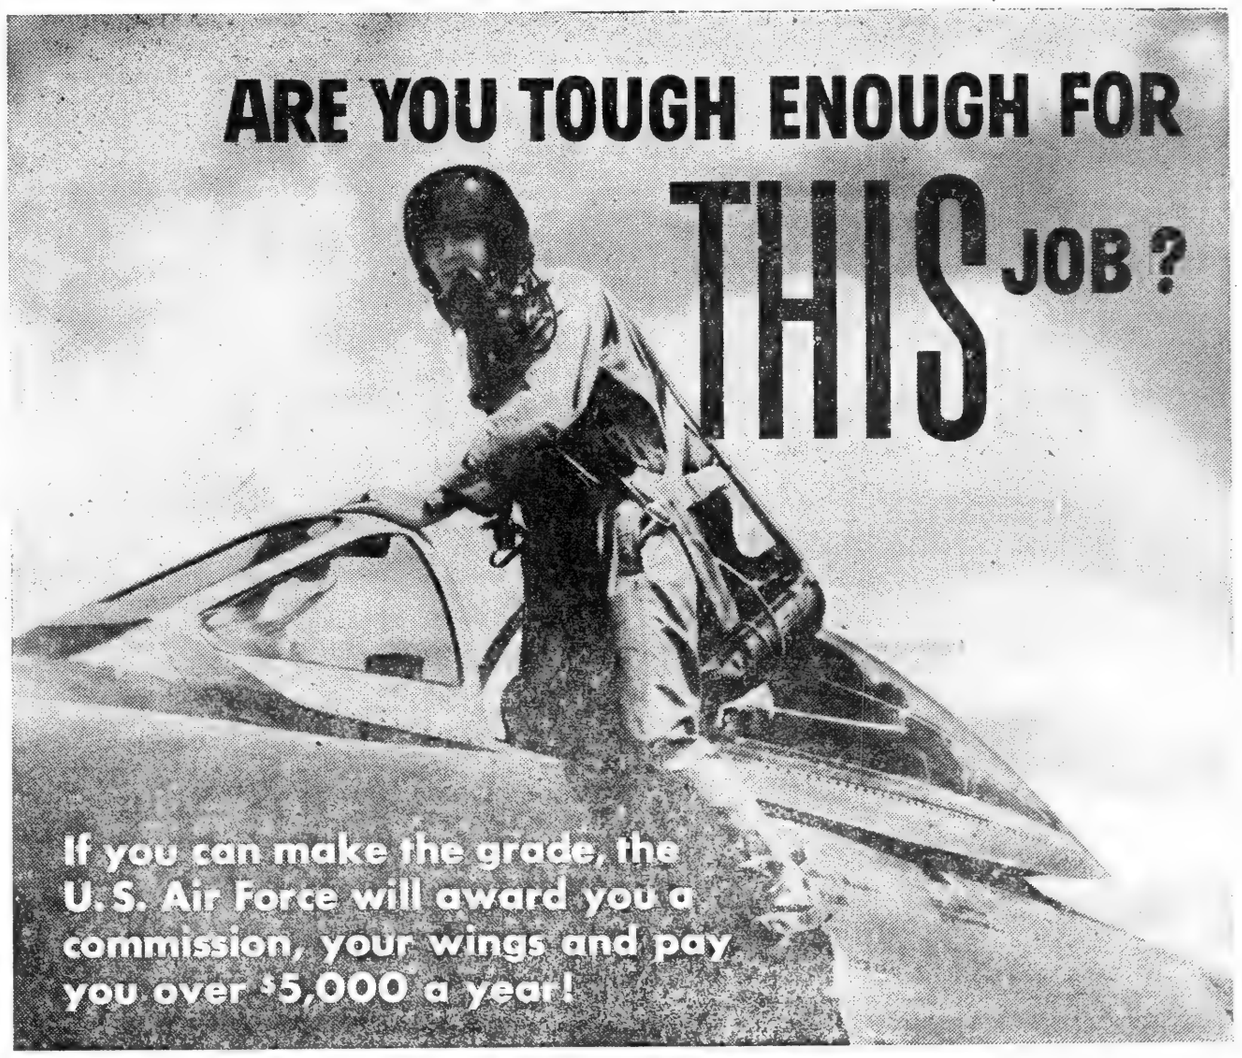
FRIGIDAIRE
Twin Meter-Miser ROOM AIR CONDITIONERS

One operates in moderate weather for air conditioning at lowest cost.

Both team up on hot days; double cooling economically.

Exclusive Great Circle Cooling

Gentle up-and-around air circulation surrounds you in cool, refreshing comfort—no drafts, no warm, moist "pockets."



- All-steel, style-winning cabinets
- Meter-Misers warranted 5 years
- Choose from 6 models RC103-10

Twin 75 Model only $389.95

Other models as low as $229.95

Bennett and Blocksidge, Inc.

105 E. Franklin St.

CAN YOU "take it" 6 days a week? For 52 weeks? Can you meet the high standards required to be an Aviation Cadet? If you can—then here's a man-size opportunity! An opportunity to serve your country and build a personal career that will fit you for responsible positions both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer.
OR WRITE TO: AVIATION CADET HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AIR FORCE, WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

U.S. AIR FORCE

Dean At Yale Wants Frats To Go Local

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 14. (Special)—Harold B. Whitman, dean of undergraduate activities at Yale University, recently urged the fraternities here to sever their connections with their national organizations.

Dean Whitman urged the move because of the weak financial status of the fraternities. He said that the local chapters could have more money to operate on if such a large portion of the initiation fee were not sent to the national organizations.

In claiming that the alumni are the primary reason for national affiliations, Dean Whitman said, "They remember the good old days before the colleges were built, when the fraternity meant something more than an eating place and a bar to its members."

Yale moved toward greater economy by charging flat board rates instead of optional 14 or 21 meal rates and by charging rushees for the meals and liquor they consume on visitation.

Whitman's proposal came at the same time a Williams College fraternity's national connections were severed because it admitted a Jewish student.

Academy Award Winner for the Best Actor GARY COOPER ★ Academy Award Winner for the Best Scoring (Drama) Dimitri Tiomkin "Do Not Forsake Me" from "High Noon."

STANLEY KRAMER PRODUCTIONS presents GARY COOPER in "HIGH NOON" with THOMAS MITCHELL · LLOYD BRIDGES KATY JURADO · GRACE KELLY · OTTO KRUGER

NOW PLAYING

Carolina

A REAL BARGAIN

$1.50 American Beauty Seamless Hose—

$1.00

Berman's Dept. Store

INTERESTED IN

CHAPEL HILL

?

Southern Part of Heaven, by William Meade Prince. The warm and nostalgic story of a turn of the century childhood in Chapel Hill. $3.75

The Campus of the First State University—a treasury of information and anecdote about Chapel Hill's University and it's Campus, by Archibald Henderson. ——— $5.00

AND A BARGAIN

Memories of an OldTime Tarheel—by Kemp Plummer Battle. A delightful half-century of North Carolina life, from the 1830's to the '80's, by a former President of the University Published at $3.00

Our Special $1.00

IT'S ALWAYS FUN TO BROWSE IN

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

——FOR THE BEST FOOD IN TOWN——

Visit one of Chapel Hill's finest eating places and enjoy your meals.

Carolina Coffee Shop

WELCOME DRAMA FESTIVAL!!

Stop in for your free map of the campus.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

ON SALE

Modern Wing Chair ——— $59.

2 Foam-rubber Lounge Chairs ——— $75. & $80.

Modern Armless Lounge ——— $55.

Sofa ——— $190.

Cabinets and bookshelves in ivory-finished solid oak

LAMPS ——— CHINA

PACE

GLEN LENNOX

Drama Festival Schedules Ten One-Act Plays

Plays by Eugene O'Neill and other plyawrights may be seen during the current Drama Festival for 35 cents for single tickets, or $2 for the series of 50 one-act plays.

Today's schedule includes: 10 a.m.: "Bread," by Fred Eastman presented by Myers Park High School, Charlotte, and directed by Erleen Marquardt.

At 10:45 a.m., two plays by county high schools: "Heat Lightning," by Robert F. Carroll, presented by Crossnore High School and directed by Kate Ranson Cornue; "Afterwards," by Geraldine McGaughan, presented by Griffith High School and directed by Lazelle M. Northrop.

At 2 p.m. two plays by city high schools: "Mind Set," by Merle Bouton Young, presented by Needham Broughton High School, Raleigh, and directed by Nan Wilkinson; and "The Knave of Hearts," by Louise Saunders, to be presented by Charles L. Coon High School, Doug W. Swink, director.

At 4:15 p.m. the Children's Theater of Gastonia will present "The Rope," by Eugene O'Neill, directed by Naomi D. Cunningham.

At 7:30 p.m. four plays will be presented by senior colleges. They will include: "A Phoenix Too Frequent," by Christopher Fry, presented by Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, directed by Doris Holsworth; "The Leader of The People," by John Steinbeck, presented by Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone, directed by Audrey Eichelberger.

"A Question of Morality," by Percival Wilde, presented by Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, Ralph H. Lyerly, director; "The Pot Boiler," by Alice Gerstenberg, presented by The Plonk School of Creative Arts, Asheville, and directed by Josephine E. Holmes.

Notre Dame Gets Grant To Examine Curriculum

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 14—(Special)—The University of Notre Dame has received a grant of $23,600 from the Ford Foundation to work on a study aimed at the closer integration of college studies with the fundamental goals of life and the destiny of man.

The researchers will study all pertinent documents on what a Catholic liberal education should be. They will travel to other institutions and have the advice of visiting consultants as well.

The structure and content of the liberal arts curriculum, especially with reference to theology and philosophy, will be studied and faculty members, seniors, graduate students and alumni will be interviewed to determine their evaluation of the contribution of theology and philosophy to the curriculum.

The ORIENTAL

Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN

Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45

116 E. Parrish St., Durham

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED 8

PART TIME WAITER. ALSO pastry girl. Apply in person at Danziger's. Chg 1x1

English Prof Talks Tonight

Prof. Howard Russell Huse of the Department of Romance Languages will address the English Club at its meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Assembly Room of the Library.

Prof. Huse, whose Dante courses are perennially popular, will speak on "The Divine Comedy," "The program is specially scheduled for undergraduates who have not had the opportunity of hearing Prof. Huse lecture in class," a club official said.

Undergraduates will join the members of the English Club for coffee at 7:30 and Prof. Huse's lecture at 8 o'clock.

Male's snores provoking titters from rest of students in Commerce Room at Library.

*

The Pi Lam who looks like Jerry Lewis and the coed who looks like Rosalind Russell.

*

AFROTC students filing into barbershop to get that last minute trim before 2 o'clock drill.

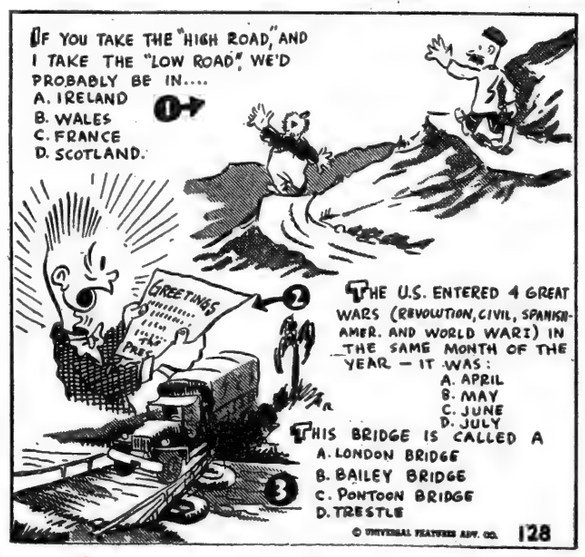
New Sports Broadcast Will Feature Jamerson

Dick Jamerson, professor of physical education here, is heard on "The Carolina Sports Review" broadcast each Wednesday evening at 7:30 by the Chapel Hill and Durham radio stations.

Jamerson, known to thousands as the announcer of Kenan Stadium football games, will discuss coming events and new developments in all phases of sports on the Tar Heel campus. He will also include sports news from other Big Four and Southern Conference schools, and will feature frequent guest commentators to talk about special phases of the Carolina sports program.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54

Last Times Tonight
Betty Hutton
Ralph Meaker
—In—
"SOMEBODY LOVES ME"



Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop
Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing

Thomas Book Store

Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham
Phone J-2331

L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads
Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps
Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY Sutton's

There's no doubt about SUTTON'S DRUG STORE'S line of sick room supplies and accessories . . . they're the finest. Buy at our store and save. There's no doubt about the answers above . . . they are Scotland, April and Pontoon Bridge.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

Concert Tickets

Tickets for the IDC concert are on sale in the YMCA every day from 10 until 1 o'clock.

AK Psi Meeting

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, will hold a professional meeting tonight at 7:30 in the chapter house at 214 East Rosemary Street. Reaves Nelson, special agent with Atlantic Life Insurance Company, will speak on "Insurance as an Investment Media."

Lazy Literates

The Lazy Literates will present Dr. Robert W. Mann in a talk on "Saint Thomas Aquinas, Faith and Reason" tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the YWCA.

Bible Study Group

The YMCA Bible Study Group will meet tnoight at 8:30 in the Cabinet Room. The group will begin a study of the gospel of Mark, following last week's discussion with Dr. A. C. Howell.

WAA Golf Club

The Women's Golf Club will meet at Women's Gym at 2 o'clock today for a trip to Finley course. The club is open to all coeds. School clubs may be used and transportation will be furnished. Miss Elizabeth Ann Colette is adviser to the group.

WUNC

Tonight's WUNC schedule:
7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The U. N. Story.
7:30—Carolina Sport Review.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—Old Books; Old Friends.
8:30—Masterworks from France.
9—Concert Favorites.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Band

All University Band members, both varsity and concert, should report to Kenan Stadium this Saturday morning at 11:30 to play for the Blue-White game. Members using University instruments should pick them up at Hill Hall at 1 o'clock. Uniforms will not be required.

Alumnae Meeting

There will be a meeting of the alumnae of Saint Mary's School and Junior College tomorrow night in the Episcopal Parish House at 8 o'clock. Dr. Richard G. Stone, President of the school will be the guest speaker.

Hill Gives Age, Doc's Orders As Reasons For Leaving Board

(Continued from page 1)

he is "feeling pretty good right now," his physician has advised him to slow down a bit.

Asked if his retiring from the board accompanies a decline in his interest in the University, Hill said, 'Oh no. I just made a little gift yesterday." He wouldn't elaborate on his most recent donation. However, judging from his past gifts, it probably was more than a "little" one.

In the past Hill has given the University the Carolina Inn, Hill Hall, the old Carnegie Library, and led promotion for funds to build the present library. In addition to these, he has made dozens of periodical donations to his alma mater.

His retiring from service was called "a great loss to the University."

We'd like to hang a "Don't Drive" sign on every car whose brakes are out of adjustment.. for perfect brakes are absolutely essential to safe driving on treacherous winter roads. Drive up for check up, today*

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

SPECIALS

FIRST QUALITY, CANNON PERCALE SHEETS—81-108—
3.79
Only 2 to a Customer

CANNON MUSLIN SHEETS—81x99 FIRSTS—
2.88

1 LOT SHEETS—63x99, 72x99, 81x99—
1.98

RUGS—
59¢—2 for 1.00
98¢—2 for 1.50

FIRST QUALITY FRUIT OF THE LOOM PILLOW CASES
98¢—2 for 1.50

WHITE DUCK PANTS SANFORIZED—
3.50

DUNGAREES
LADIES, MEN, CHILDREN
BLUE, GREEN, RED, BLACK

SAMSONITE LUGGAGE
GET READY FOR VACATION
5 COLORS ALL SIZES
START A SET NOW!
TRY OUR LAY-AWAY PLAN.
MAKE A SMALL DEPOSIT

MEN'S COOL COTTON CORD PANTS—NYLON CORD PANTS—
4.98 to 6.95 each

ONE LARGE TABLE OF ASSORTED CLOTH INCLUDING FINE CHAMBRAY AT 1.39 A YARD—

BATES CLOTH, ASSORTED DRAPERY UP TO—
98¢

PIQUE ASSORTED COLORS ALSO CHINTZ, DENIM ALL
59¢ a yd.

NYLON YARN—59c—2 BALLS
1.00

POLL PARROTT SHOES
ALL SIZES

KEDS—RED, WHITE, BLUE AND BROWN
GOOD ASSORTMENT OF SUMMERETTES FOR LADIES

FOR MEN
$21.00 SPORT COAT SPECIAL—
$14.95

KHAKI PANTS
2.98 up

SHOE SALE
MEN'S SMALL SIZE, ODD LOTS DISCONTINUED NUMBERS—CROSLEY SQUARE, ENDICOTT JOHNSON SHOES
5.00 pair

ALSO THICK RUBBER SOLE CANVAS TOP SPORT SHOE
5.00

MEN'S ANVIL BRAND KHAKI PANTS WITH ZIPPER

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Possible showers with 68 high. Yesterday's high, 64; low, 51.

The Daily Tar Heel

AWAY
Alice Chapman talks about other schools today. It's on page 2.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 130 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

RECOUNT SHOWS GORHAM VICTOR BY 7 VOTES

ARMY MILITARY POLICE ERECT A SIGN READING "PW Holding Enclosure" at an advance prisoner-of-war camp for sick and wounded Communists. The camp was set up to handle the more than 5,000 Red prisoners who will be returned to the Communists under the terms of an exchange agreement.—NEA Radiophoto.

Alumni Due Today For Assembly

A large number of alumni from all sections of the state will attend the annual Alumni Assembly at the University today.

New officers and a member to represent the Alumni Association on the Athletic Council will be nominated, to be voted on by mail ballot, and two members of the association's board of directors (four are to be nominated) will be elected at tonight's sessions.

President Gray will address the annual dinner meeting in Lenoir Hall at 7 p.m. and is expected to make an important announcement at this time. Reports of the nominating committee, as well as reports of officers and other committees, also will be heard.

Presiding will be President R. Arthur Spaugh, Winston-Salem. W. Frank Taylor of Goldsboro, vice-president, will automatically be elevated to the presidency at the commencement meeting here in June.

Members of the nominating committee, appointed by Spaugh, who will submit candidates at today's session for next year's officers, are Egbert L. Haywood, Durham, chairman; Willis Hancock Oxford; W. E. Thompson, Chapel Hill; Ben C. Trotter, Spray and Paul W. Schenck Jr., Greensboro.

The assembly will open with a luncheon at the Carolina Inn at 1 o'clock for the members of the board of directors and class agents and area committeemen of the Alumni Annual Giving Program.

At this session Chancellor Robert B. House, Mayne Albright, Raleigh, chairman of the program; Tom Bost Jr., Chapel Hill, director, and others will lead a discussion of the new alumni fund project.

There will be opportunity during the afternoon for all alumni attending the assembly to visit N. C. Memorial Hospital and other Health Affairs buildings, the Library addition, the new Business Administration buildings and spring football practice on Navy Field (from 4 to 6 p.m.).

Stilwell And Miller In Runoff; Cook, Moore, Fountain Win

Seven votes gave Bob Gorham, the University Party's candidate, victory over three opponents for the presidency of the student body in yesterday's election.

But his rivals, hopeful of a mistake, demanded a recount and when it was complete at 1:00 a.m. this morning the results showed the same thing: Gorham the winner by seven votes.

The three-way vice presidential race boiled down to a runoff between Baxter Miller (SP) and Jack Stilwell (UP). Miller pulled 857 votes to Stilwell's 873, while Independent Bill Brown drew 534 votes.

UP's Jerry Cook racked up 1,364 to defeat SP choice Gordon Forester, 955, for secretary-treasure. Cook's margin was 409 votes.

The two independent presidential candidates, Tommy Sumner and Wade Matthews, drew 51 and 180 votes respectively. After the initial count Sumner said he would support Gorham if there were a runoff.

Gorham beat Ken Penegar (SP) 1,178 to 940. The votes collected by independents Sumner and Matthews totaled 231 which when added to Penegar's tally left the threesome seven ballots short of Gorham. Candidates must receive a majority—one more than half—of all the votes cast or the two highest candidates oppose each other in a runoff. The last presidential runoff was two years ago.

Gorham's energetic campaign came to a climax last night in Graham Memorial as he stood among coffee-drinking politicos and well wishers and thanked the campus. "I can only say at this time that I sincerely appreciate the support that has been given me."

Lib Moore (SP) moved into the editorship of the Yackety Yack as she defeated Rollie Tillman (UP). Early this morning as weary election board members recounted votes few exact figures were known, among them, those on the Yack. Miss Moore is the second coed editor out of the last three yearbooks and the second coed editor of a campus publication this Spring. Charlotte Davis recently was appointed editor of the Carolina Quarterly to give the women a two-thirds hold on UNC publications.

Rolfe Neill (SP-UP) was unopposed for editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

Jim Fountain became head cheerleader over Louie Patseavouras. Both candidates were chosen to run by a special cheerleader selection board.

The long range outcome was that the University Party got reapproval for the executive post. Strangely, Gorham whose dorm support was doubted by UP bigwigs, came through quite strongly in all dorms. In Dorm Men's V he trailed Penegar by but one vote and in Dorm Men's IV by only 23.

Penegar conceded the election at midnight before the official recount was complete.

Penegar said: "It's a hard thing to do, but there is one good thing about my campaign; my ideals remain intact. The students have made their choice and I wish the president elect the best of luck and God speed. May the confidence placed in him not be misplaced in your forthcoming administration."

PRESIDENT GORHAM

Campus Politicians Shout About Illegal Doings Of One Another

SP Charges UP and Vice Versa But Finally All Ends Happily As Both Drop Accusations

Top supporters of Bob Gorham, University Party presidential candidate, and Ken Penegar, Student Party presidential candidate, were yelling about expense accounts and disqualifications last night before votes were counted.

Key SP members said Gorham spent more than the $25 allowed presidential candidates. Gorham's campaign manager said, "We're three dollars under. We'll sit up all night to prove it if we have to. You can quote me."

Dusty Lamson, chairman of the Elections Board did not, however, get any official protests or challenges of expense accounts. After the SP charges were written up, a meeting of the board was called. SP leaders then reconsidered and tore up the written charges without turning them in. Lamson later explained the center of controversy.

Lamson said that Gorham as well as Gordon Forester, SP secretary-treasurer candidate, actually spent more than the allowed amount on posters, but that it did not count since both turned in a sufficient number of unused posters to the Elections Board.

The general practice, according to Lamson, allows candidates to be charged only for what they use, not what they print. Lamson said he was going along with the way it had been done, but that changes should be made in the rules.

Meantime, the SP camp contended that although the UP posters weren't used, the printing of a large quantity lowered the cost of each poster actually used.

Then some UP members began talking about possible illegal practices at the Victory Village polls by SP's. So both parties dropped the whole thing last night by the time ballot counting started.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — The United Nations Command was reported about ready yesterday to accept the Communists' suggestion for resumption of the Korean truce talks which have been bogged down since last October. No final decisions on details have been made, informed sources said, but the U.N. probably will be prepared to accept the Red proposal that war prisoners who refuse to go home be placed under control of a neutral nation. Switzerland reportedly may be the U.N. choice of a truly neutral nation which would be satisfactory to the Allies. The U. S., it was said, will advocate selection of Switzerland. There was no indication whether she would be acceptable to the Communists.

★

PANMUNJOM — Reconnaisance pilots yesterday spotted two convoys of sick and disabled Allied war prisoners "highballing" down "freedom road" toward this truce site where ailing captives of both sides in the Korean war will be exchanged on Monday. At Pusan, where the first contingent of homeward-bond Chinese Communist prisoners arrived in a U. S. landing boat, authorities had to break up a sitdown strike of 754 surly Reds. The Fifth Air Force said a reconnaisance photo showed that convoy No. 1 of Allied prisoners which left Chonma near the Yalu River Tuesday had reached Yongsong, eight miles north of the Communist capital of Pyongyang.

★

SELLECK, Wash.—Army buddies, fresh from basic training, told yesterday how they huddled around the wreckage of a DC-3 and "called to each other trying to find out who was alive and who was dead." Six persons were killed Tuesday when the Miami Airlines plane rammed into the jagged Cascade Mountains in early morning darkness. "All night long I didn't think we'd make it," said Howard Wormuth of Carbondale, Pa. "We just sat there waiting and calling to each other trying to find out who was alive and who was dead."

★

AUGUSTA — President Eisenhower will give the American people a frank discussion tonight of current efforts to end the Korean war and will review "the chance for peace for all the peoples of the world in 1953," the White House announced yesterday.

Dental Dames Elect

The Dental Dames recently elected new officers.

They are President Margaret Daniels, Vice President Kathleen Daniels, Secretary Rosa Fitterman, Treasurer Liv Floyd and Publicity Chairman Ruth Sluder.

At Meeting This Monday

Press Club Recognition Going To DTH Writers

Members and visitors present this Monday at the meeting of the Press Club will hear a gradutae of the School of Journalism and now established newspaperman, and will witness the quarterly presentation of awards by the club to Daily Tar Heel staff writers.

Roland Giduz, class of '48, will talk about opportunities in the daily- and weekly-newspaper fields. Giduz was managing editor of The Daily Tar Heel in 1946-47. Formerly employed in the Chapel Hill Bureau of the Durham Herald and Sun, he shifted to the Chapel Hill Weekly in January. He holds a masters degree from the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism and was in the public relations field for a year before returning to Chapel Hill.

Recipients of the Press Club's quarterly awards to writers on The Daily Tar Heel were informed by mail this week and will be announced at the meeting. The awards are presented for best news and sports stories, features and editorials during the Winter Quarter.

Buddy Northart, Fred McGee and Jack Booker are the members of the Awards Committee. Prof. Stuart Sechriest is the faculty adviser.

A year's subscription to Time magazine will be presented to winners this quarter through a courtesy extended by John Philip Sousa III, education director of the magazine. This is a new feature in addition to the certificates of award presented by the Press Club.

SUAB's Movie Tonight To Be Epic Of War

"All Quiet on the Western Front" is the epic movie being presented tonight at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall by the Film Division of SUAB.

One of the film classics of all time, "All Quiet" is a recount of the first World War. Lew Ayres and Louis Wolheim are in the roles of representatives of the U. S. armed forces in World War I.

An extra for the evening is the short "On the Edge." It is a cinematic abstraction of the mind into a suspenseful doom-haunted adventure set in bubbling volcanoes and desolate wasteland.

Admission to these films is by series subscription only. Five evenings of movies are provided for a total of $1.50. Tickets are available today at the Graham Memorial office and at the door of Gerrard Hall tonight.

Ennis Heads Pi Delta Phi As Language Frat Elects

Pi Delta Phi, honorary French language fraternity, recently elected Lloyd Ennis of Salisbury president.

Other officers chosen were Vice President, Sam Newell, Jackson, Miss., Secretary Julia Shields, Chapel Hill and Treausrer Bob Connelly Raleigh. Dr. Jacques Hardre is adviser and Mrs. Charlotte Huse is councilor.

Fleece Is Now Oldest Group To Publicly Tap

By Julian Mason

With the recent announcement that the honor societies ta Yale University would no longer select their members in public tappings, the Order of the Golden Fleece here at Carolina becomes the oldest honor organization of its type in the country to still use this form of tapping.

The first selections were made in 1903, and the public ceremonies this year mark the 50th anniversary of the order. It was in 1903 that the inspiration for the Order occurred to Dr. Eben Alexander, a UNC faculty member who had been tapped as a student at Yale into Skull and Bones. With the collaboration of two other outstanding faculty members, Dr. Edward Kidder Graham and Dr. Henry Horace Williams, the order took in its first 11 members that year.

Phillips Russell, then the sixth student tapped, now professor of journalism here and a noted author, became the first Jason.

The order took its symbolism from the legend of Jason and his quest for the golden fleece, which was suggested by Dr. Alexander, a professor of Greek. This legend was a most appropriate choice and fitted well the ideals of the Fleece which have continued for half a century.

The first publicly pre-announced tapping was held on April 25, 1914, and the first reunion was held in 1923. The order taps on the basis of contribution, character and service. Among the over 500 students tapped in the past have been such men as Gov. William B. Umstead, President Gray, Lt.-Gov. Luther Hodges, Kay Kyser, Thomas Wolfe, Chancellor R. B. House, Dr. Frank P. Graham, Judge Walter P. Stacy, Dr. Albert Coates and R. Mayne Albright.

The tapping this year will be held in Memorial Hall on Monday evening, April 27. Until that time the selections will be secret, even to those selected to be tapped.

CAMPUS SEEN

Political science prof droning through lecture while queen-size queen bee drones 'round his head.

*

Presidential candidate's campaign manager hauling load of coeds up to polls in natty convertible.

*

Maintaining a policy of strict impartiality, the United States Navy's chief representative here, Capt. J. S. Keating pulled out two "Stop, Go Gorham" stakes stuck in front of the Naval Armory yesterday.

Demonstration Of New Quick Free Tonight

Can a revolutionary new shorthand called Quick be learned by UNC students in one hour flat?

This challenge meets Dr. Thomas Burton, author of Quick, tonight at 7 o'clock at a free experimental session in the Roland arker lounges of Graham Memorial.

A completely new approach, Quick is described as a "common sense shorthand" for students, instructors and professional people. Unlike commercial shorthand, it is designed for original writing—lecture notes, reading notes, memos, messages, speech drafts and term papers.

The University Extension Division and the Student Union Activities Board will sponsor the free hour-long class for all students and faculty members interested in this simple new shorthand which can increase note-taking speed by five times in short order—or at least so says Dr. Burton.

Dr. Burton, president of the Burton Institute in Charlotte, has remained on campus since delivering the Phi Assembly's inaugural address Tuesday night to be able to teach tonight's class in person.

From Teaneck To Duke At The Age Of 16

Big IDC Weekend Features Dance, Concert By Gene Williams' Orchestra, Pied Pipers

A rising musical star and a quartet of long-time favorites come to town Saturday for an IDC-sponsored double feature—a 4 o'clock concert in Memorial Hall and semi-formal dance at Woollen Gym Saturday night.

Gene Williams and his orchestra and the Pied Pipers make up the weekend's billing for the Inter-Dormitory Council's annual investment in music.

The Williams group, billed as "The Band of Tomorrow," is one of the younger competitors in the popular music world. In less than two years, Williams' band has played a number of impressive engagements, including night clubs, college dances and major radio and television networks.

Williams, who attended Teaneck High School in Teaneck, N. J., joined an aggregation of musicians from Duke University at the age of 16. The group toured the New England resorts for a month, then went back to New Jersey for a four week engagement at Palisades Amusement Park.

He joined the Johnny Long orchestra as a vocalist and toured California, made Decca recordings, short subjects and appeared in the full length feature "Hit the Ice," a Universal picture which starred Abbott and Costello and Ginny Simms.

After a stint in the Army, Williams had vocal engagements, in rapid succession, with George Paxton, Bobby Sherwood, Vincent Lopez and Claude Thornhill.

When Thornhill disbanded in 1948, Williams organized his own band and since that time has made recordings for King Records and Mercury recordings.

The Pied Pipers, the other half of the IDC show, first received national recognition while associated with Tommy Dorsey's Orchestra in 1940. At that time Jo Stafford was the feminine member of the group.

Lila Spaeth, Jimmy Farmer, Eddie Thomas and Lou Hurst now make up the youthful quartet. Their radio career includes a year on the Bob Crosby Old Gold Show, 26 weeks on the Johnny Mercer Music Shop, two years with Frank Sinatra and an engagement on the Lucky Strike Hit Parade.

Frosh Camp Plans Group Schedules Meet Tonight

The Freshman Camp Planning Committee will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the YMCA Building.

Co-chairman Charles Wolf will preside at the meeting which will hear reports from the publicity, recreation and speakers committees.

At 8 o'clock the special committee on leadership training will meet under the chairmanship of Jim Buyer.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr., Jennie Lynn, Joyce Adams.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

A Life Of Inspiration

Everytime you get disillusioned about Carolina, you can turn your thoughts to the philosophy and good works of John Sprunt Hill who said as early as 1903, to the Alumni Association, "I have come here today on a mission of love and devotion to the State that gave me birth, and to the Institution of learning that gave me a thousand times more than I can ever repay. The force of my remarks, therefore, will be directed toward doing something for the good of the University . . ."

Mr. Hill was and still is grateful to the University of North Carolina. When he mentioned remarks, he mean action. He was first chairman of the "Friends of the Library," an organization which seeks "to increase interest in the Library, multiply its usefulness, and plan for its higher development." His work to secure a decent library for the University was invaluable.

Mr. Hill was responsible for providing renovation funds to give the University an adequate music building. The Trustees, recognizing Mr. Hill's continuing services and contributions, named the hall after him. Mr. Hill has given the University the Carolina Inn. His philanthropic interests go on. He established the Student Loan Fund during the bank holiday in 1933. He helped financially with the building of Graham Memorial.

Finally, Mr. Hill has served ably on the Board of Trustees and on the Executive Committee. His life has been one of long standing devotion to Carolina. It is the kind of faith and service in a school that inspires us to think twice about the University, its achievements and its failings. There is always the tendency to condemn the University for what it has not done. Yet, we must recognize its accomplishments. As future alumni we may be in a position to correct some of the failings, and to provide a richer basis for education.

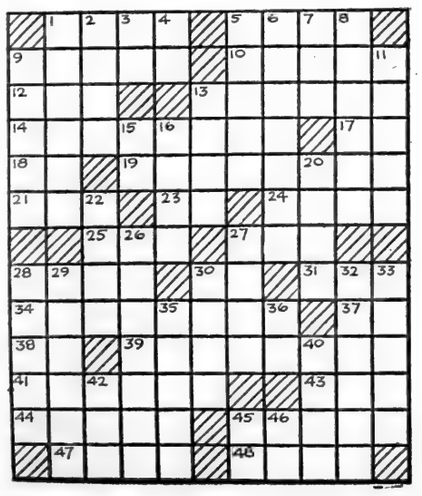
Mr. Hill should have been made a life member on the Board of Trustees, instead of being retired by the peculiar Joint House-Senate Committee on Trustees. Such enduring service should be recognized not only by the University but by the representatives of the citizens of this state. Certainly, students are grateful for Mr. Hill's share in making this a better school.

For The Navy

The Naval ROTC topped all other campus organizations in contributing blood last week for the Red Cross Bloodmobile drive.

Over 200 Middies made donations. The NROTC unit percentage was 60.2.

For this effort, the future Naval officers deserve special commendation, Perhaps, they particularly realize the pressing need by our men in the Armed Forces for blood.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Support
5. Thin board
9. Native of New Zealand
10. Doctrine
12. Constellation
13. Quicker
14. Military titles
17. Tantalum (sym.)
18. At home
19. Placed on the market
21. Pig pen
23. Buddha (Chin.)
24. Ireland
25. Astern
27. Beast of burden
28. Unadorned
30. Mulberry
31. Ineffectual actor
34. Writer of short stories
37. Depart
38. Part of "to be"
39. Relied
41. Potatoes (dial.)
43. Undivided
44. Booth
45. Fountains
47. Incites (on)
48. Is obligated

DOWN
1. A father or mother
2. Soft leather (sheepskin)
3. Gold (Her.)
4. Greek letter
5. Stem
6. Those to whom leases are granted
7. Emmet
8. Seesaw
9. Belonging to the Wise Men
11. Exchange
13. Game of chance
15. Type measure
16. Float
20. Exclamation
22. Measure of length
26. Supplying with nourishment
27. Genus of lily
28. Prepares a fishhook
29. Having a handle
30. Vipers
32. Deputies
33. Methods
35. Bamboolike grasses
36. Names (abbr.)
40. Accomplished
42. Children's game
45. Foreign officer (abbr.)
46. Cry of pain

Yesterday's Answer

Alice Chapman

On Other Campuses

POLITICIANS — a specie of robot constructed to give the Ipana smile, the Truman grip and trained extensively in the latest propaganda methods.

Our campus having been overrun by this creature peculiar to spring elections, let's take a look at its invasion of other campuses.

One such group at Colorado A & M became highly ethical in its platform and put in a plank for democracy. If elected to office, they promised to provide for a second student party to make politics more democratic. It was a real switch in the usual procedure or damming, denouncing, and degrading all competition. But wait until next year when their offspring begins to campaign for its independent ideas!

As the zero hour approached Iowa State candidates sought a new startling issue and found one in the mud. They would clean up the extensive clay hole that isolates the Service Building from the beauty of the surrounding campus. This party also proclaims the necessity of extending the phone deadline in women's dorms from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

So contrary to popular belief and sorrow there are issues that even SP and UP have neglected this season.

The local party that wanted janitors to make up beds in the men's dorms really got misplaced. Apparently this plank was destined for Princeton where a number of the men found out that they couldn't do without the necessities of life—the janitors. A sextet of rooms there has been severely condemned as being in poor condition continually by inspectors from the dorm offices. This school has inspection twice a week at unexpected hours and without janitors the sextet will continue to be condemned—with worse than a 7" by 12" sign on the front door.

Wednesday April 15 was a day of sunshine for the Carolina campus but election day for the University of Michigan appeared in a deluge of grey and persistent rain. Disappointed politicians saw a meger (for that campus) 5,998 students at the polls in spite of the fact that the balloting continued for two days.

* * *

Proudly UNC points to its Mock United Nations Assembly as do several other schools.

At Cornell 59 colleges met to enact a General Assembly with the greatest deligation in the 26-year history of the conference. During the three day conference UN officials sent greetings and congratulations to the mock assembly.

Northwestern went full speed ahead with their assembly last week. Features of the three day conference were a walk-out by the Russian delegation, an address by the Iranian delegate to the UN Security Council, Dr. Fatemi, emergency meetings of the General Assembly, and a typical discussion about repatriation of prisoners in Korea. Even a model International Court was set up to consider pertinent controversies.

Express Yourself

Editor:

Why doesn't the 'all-powerful' Student Government try to do something about the bus situation? The less financially-able of us (car-less) have often to walk back from the bus station when returning from Raleigh on the 'Express' bus 'cause the driver refuses to let anyone off before he gets to the station over near Carrboro. If a bus stop could be established either at the Woollen Gym—'A' Dorm corner or even at the corner of Franklin and Columbia Streets—it would really aid those of us who dread the long road back from the bus station.

Emmett Thompson

Editor:

I would like to express myself to the "red-blooded" Americans boys of this University as follows:

Let's hope that your younger brothers and friends are more generous when and if you ever need blood.

Margharetta Elderidge

"What's This Talk About An Ammunition Shortage?"

Drew Pearson

The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Most people don't know it, but the art of fooling the public has now become a major industry. Millions of dollars are paid to public-relations firm has made up the public's mind for it.

Here are two illustrations of this fooling the public racket just come to light.

One is the manner in which certain women's club leaders were paid off and civic associations were formed by Carl Byoir and associates on behalf of the railroads to combat the trucking industry.

The other is a secret memo by the same Carl Byoir to Craig Sheaffer, now Assistant Secretary of Commerce, aimed at fooling the public into accepting a national sales tax.

Sheaffer, head of the Fountain-Pen Company by that name, is the same man who kicked up a national furor by firing the Director of the Bureau of Standards because he was allegedly unfair to auto battery pepperups, Sheaffer's background seems to fit into the Carl Byoir technique of fooling the public. He was a heavy contributor to rabble-rousers Merwin K. Hart and Upton Close; once became indignant at the way one of his pens was tested by the Bureau of Standards.

Byoir, incidentally, is the same man exposed by a congressional committee as having received $6,000 a month as a public relations representative for the Nazi government before Pearl Harbor. This deal was arranged by George Sylvester Viereck who later went to jail for failure to register as a Hitler Agent.

The manner in which the unsuspecting public is fed publicity under the high sounding name of some civic organization is illustrated by Byoir's organization of "The New Jersey Citizens Tax Study Foundation."

The average taxpayer would consider this a most worthy cause, dedicated to helping him lower his taxes. However, a study of the backstage facts shows that the tax-study foundation was actually organized at the time Carl Byoir was launching his New Jersey battle of the railroads against the truckers.

Furthermore, one of the incorporators of this supposedly impartial citizens tax study foundation was C. Colburn Hardy, the man in charge of Byoir's public-relations campaign for the railroads in New Jersey.

Also, court records reveal a long list of checks paid by the Byoir firm to Fred W. Goodwin, executive director of the supposedly neutral Tax Foundation. These payments during the latter part of 1951 and 1952 totaled $3,700.58. In addition, two checks totaling $300 were paid to the tax foundation by the Byoir Firm direct.

Finally a memo written by Byoir's chief public relations operator in New Jersey to other members of Byoir's staff during the trucks vs. railroads battle, reads:

"We are also assisting in the formation of a new group: New Jersey Citizens Tax Study Foundation . . . All literature, etc., from this group must be on plain paper and mailed from New Jersey."

Some of the eastern railroad executives who got euchred into this public relations campaign are not happy about it, say it was not fully explained to them.

Carl Byoir's latest plan for fooling the public, this time regarding taxes, proposes to make dupes of radio and TV panels, University discussion forums, etc., in order to put across a national sales tax. This secret Byoir memo, dug up by the Madison (Wis.) Capital Times and written for the benefit of the new Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Sheaffer, adopted the same technique of using civic organizations as fronts to fool the public.

" 'Initial impetus' for the national sales tax," says the Byoir memo, "would have to come from a trade association, civic group, or by some 'name' spokesmen demanding such a tax.

"It will be necessary first to create an event which will develop news items on the subject.

"Another method," continues the Byoir recommendation to the now Assistant Secretary of Commerce, "would be a special one or two day institute on the sales tax question held under the auspices of a business administration of a leading college. New York University through its society of business advisory professions, Columbia University through its Arden - Harriman symposiums; Cornell, Northwestern, and many other colleges organize such sessions. They provide a good public relations vehicle for launching a point of view."

Switching to the use of unsuspecting TV and radio programs, Byoir recommended:

"A good springboard is to originate a Town Meeting of the Air (radio) for some place where an audience is available, such as a local chamber of commerce meeting. The fee for such organizations amounts to about $1,500 and the topic selected is generally the one the home group selects. (Done very efficiently in Philadelphia for the MITAC account.)

"Another forum interested in such a proposal is keep posted (TV—Martha Rountree). An out of town origination would cost about $3,000.

"Those to which the subject would have to be presented on its merits include Author Meets the Critic—by suggesting an economic book as a peg, On Trail, Chronoscope, Reporters Roundup, Meet the Press, Georgetown University Forum, Chicago Round Table, Northwestern Review Forum, and the CBS Cross Section, USA and You, and The World Series, plus many others.

"An essential element in all of this is some effective speaking personalities. The lecture platforms and radio-TV forums are leery of the small-fry economists and official (again) small-fry spokesmen for business, and turn a deaf ear to their use. Since tax subjects are considered proverbially dull, they require more than the usual showmanship to make such programs interesting. It will be necessary to have Mr. Sheaffer or someone of equal stature available as a 'star' speaker, and others as alternates . . . ."

Dan Duke

1964

Memoirs Etc.

(Upon Being Elected President for Life, United America)
June 1, 1964

I suppose it was my liberal, democratic outlook which led the 531 delegates of the Ultra-Nationalist Party (handpicked by me for security reasons) to unanimously elect me last night to be President for life of United America. The Party—United America's only official State party—was in solid agreement, a far cry from the haggle and tussle days of the two-party system.

Indeed, the 531 EMSP (Executive Military Secret Police) Agents interspersed among the rowdy delegation to keep order reported that there was not one single incident of real dissention. They did report, however, that two delegates raised their eyelids and had a subversive look about them. A check into the Secret Security Files confirmed that these two have engaged in questionable or subversive activity before, so their trials will come up next week.

Enlightened citizens today really can have no idea how backward United America—at that time called the "United States of America"—was before 1956, the year I was first elected President under our primitive and obsolete governmental set-up. Peoples of that day did not have a security program anywhere near adequate enough to cope with the problems and dangerous influences which confront a free people. They didn't even have yearly, much less the weekly Purification Purges we have today. (Incidentally, the National Security and Purge Council asked that I remind Americans that 2473 persons have been purged to date in 1964, as compared with 2168 to date last year. The Council predicts that some 3000 more will be purged this year, and warns Americans to cooperate and report the slightest hints of un-Americanism—like failure to smile while listening attentively to our glorious National Anthem, "McGurgle Freely Forever." Always remember the motto the Council warns that "a purge a day will keep individualism away," and that it is best to report your friends before they report you, for the life you save may be your own.

Even before 1956 I had warned pure White-and-Blue Americans of the lurking dangers from the un-Americanisms which abounded everywhere. As early as 1950 I had demanded investigation into the vast amount of un-Americanism which prevailed, and I cited documented evidence disclosing many examples of subversive activity. (e.g., of particular interest were the Arboretum Cases of 1952 and 1953. These investigations revealed subversive activity of the lowest sort.)

But during the Dark Ages (1950-1954), people seemed absolutely blind to my reform programs, and my investigations and disclosures received only lukewarm reception. To me this just confirmed how really widespread un-Americanism was in those days. I guess this reaction was to be expected, however. How could misinformed Americans know the TRUTH when so many un-American magazines, reporters, Democrats, and Republicans conspired with Moscow in a smear campaign against me,

But those un-Americans could not keep old Joe McGurgle freely aside. In spite of the incessant lies the distorted facts, the infamous character assasination famous character assassination the gun. I repeated my charges over and over until people began to listen. This worried the State and Justice Departments (now obsolete) somewhat, so they naively asked for my evidence for my charges. But those un-Americans couldn't trick me. Since there was no one I could absolutely trust, I firmly refused to hand over my evidence to anyone, I just repeated my charges all the louder until sanity at last prevailed and people came slowly to wholeheartedly back me up.

And then came 1955, the BIG year—the year we finished our extensive investigation into education. We disclosed the startling, fact, that—while not all our teachers necessarily were un-American—about a good 85 per cent of them were definitely misguided and unfit to teach American youth. Consequently, my colleagues and I decided to introduce what we called the McGurgle freely Education and Culture Purification Bill.

(continued tomorrow)

Port Hurls Nine To 5-2 Win Over Deacs

Down In Front

by Biff Roberts

A Change In The Weather

ABOUT THIS TIME EVERY YEAR, when spring football practice nears an end, the sports writers have a favorite line about how the trees are blossoming, the birds are singing, the co-eds are flirting, et al. Then they go on to say, "but actually it's football time again for the annual Blue-White game is this Saturday." Luckily we can use a different line this time—with the weather the way it's been the past two days it really seems like football time again. Let's hope it holds for Saturday's intra-squad game.

If you take a look down on Navy field you get the idea that it's fall again and that the Tar Heels are getting ready for a regularly scheduled game—the team has been looking just about that good. A comment from one interested by-stander just about sums it up. Said he, "Heck, they look better now than they did anytime last season."

Approaching The Coaching

YOU CAN CONTRIBUTE THE VAST DIFFERENCE in the two teams—one which won only two games last season and this new one which seems eager for a winning season to a lot of things. One glaring reason for the spring change-over is the coaching. George Barclay, who now finds himself as head coach instead of head assistant, apparently has one of the best staffs in the nation. Bill Edwards, who came here after being the top man at Vanderbilt seems to be a master at handling the offense backs. The boys seem to be working harder, handling themselves better, and certainly look a good deal better than they did last year. Two exceptional backfield combinations will be starting Saturday. For the Blues it will be Marshall Newman at quarterback, Larry Parker and Flo Worrell at the halves, and George Wallin at full. The Whites will go along with Charlie Motta, who showed finese on the option plays last fall, at quarter, Bob White and Billy Williams as the halfbacks, and big Nick Marcopulus at fullback.

Speaking Of Others

A FORMER ASSISTANT OF EDWARDS' Steve Belichick, has been extremely helpful coaching the backs on defense and should have a much better secondary that the Tar Heels have shown for the past few seasons. Of course, under the new NCAA code there will be little or none of this shifting of men on offense and defense, and it takes time to get the same players schooled on both routines. Fortunately, we seemed to be blessed with men who handled both jobs in high school and the changeover shouldn't be too hard.

Following this same line on the coaches we come to one of the finest men we've had here in quite a while—Marvin Bass. Bass, who was here in 1949, went to William and Mary, and then helped the Washington Redskins, has been a hard worker on his linemen—but he's getting results. He did a tremendous job last year after taking over the Redskin line and made what was probably the league's weakest forward wall into something. Barclay has received great over-all assistance from Jim Gill, Dick Jamerson, a man who seems to have success no matter what sport he handles, and Julian King, who played a lot of tackle for the Tar Heels a few years back. If we can't go Saturday and next fall it will hardly be the fault of the coaching staff.

Game Time

FROM QUICK OBSERVANCES it doesn't seem as though it will be the fault of the players either. For hte most part all have looked impressive. We are fortunate in having most of last season's team back with us and although they were able to win but two games last year, the experience they picked up was invaluable. Toward the end of last season the freshmen and sophomores dominated the play. They'll be the ones we'll have to count on next fall and the year after that. They should be ready.

And speaking of the Blue-White game itself, I can only prescribe a mighty enjoyable day of it. The game lacks little that becomes a game in the fall. It'll be high school day, too, and that always adds a lot to the program. The boys you see performing well Saturday will be the same who will be carrying Carolina hopes next fall. The game is sponsored by the boys themselves—the Monogram Club, that is—and th proceeds go to Monogram scholarships and other worthy causes. The lettermen are in charge of the ticket selling and for your convenience a table will be set up in the Y court today and tomorrow. Tickets for students are 50 cents and general admission $1. It should be a pleasing afternoon for Carolina football fans—if practice sessions produce what they seem to be showing.

Carolina Takes First Big Four Win Of Year

By Tom Peacock

WAKE FOREST, April 15.—Pitcher Chalmers Port held the Wake Forest Deacons to six hits here today to give Carolina its first Big Four win of the season, 5-2.

The Tar Heels could hit safely only six times themselves, but they gave losing pitcher Bob Brown's pitches good ride most of the time. A strong wind coming from center field kept some Carolina line drives from falling safely, while not one Deacon hit was clean.

Port struck out seven and walked four in carding his fourth win of the season against one defeat. Brown also went the distance, striking out two and walking four.

Carolina pushed three runs across in the top of the fifth after four scoreless innings, and never lost the lead. Third baseman Bobby Williams, subbing for ailing Bruce Holt, led off with a single, catcher Will Frye drew a walk, and Williams scored on a sacrifice by Port and an error by the pitcher. A single by Bobby Henning and another error brought both Frye and Port in.

Port had a momentary relapse of his control in the bottom of the fifth and walked the first two men to face him. He then struck out two, but Junie Flyod stole third base. First baseman Bud Smith stroked a single that was a little too hard for Fred Dale to handle, scoring Floyd.

Carolina got the run back on two hits and an error in the sixth. Williams got his second straight single, Frye singled him to second, and Port brought him home with a sacrifice that was bobbled again by Brown.

Port lost Oscar Signore to start the seventh, and scratch singles by Tom Cole and Luther McKeel brought him home for the other Wake Forest run.

The Tar Heels collected their last tally in the eighth.

Carolina	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Henning, 1b	5	0	1	13	0	0
Lloyd, 2b	4	0	0	3	4	0
Dale, ss	3	0	0	1	6	0
Keller, rf	4	0	1	0	0	0
White, lf	3	0	0	3	0	0
Gravitte, cf	4	1	1	0	0	0
Williams, 3b	3	2	2	0	3	0
Frye, c	3	1	1	7	0	0
Port, p	1	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	30	5	6	27	13	0

Wake Forest	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
McKeel, cf	4	0	1	5	0	1
Harris, ss	4	0	0	1	3	1
Brown, rf, lf	4	0	1	4	0	1
Floyd 3b	3	1	1	1	4	0
Liptak, c	1	0	0	3	0	0
Signore, 2b	3	1	0	3	3	0
Cole, rf	4	0	2	0	0	0
Smith, 1b	4	0	1	10	0	0
Brown, rf, p	3	0	0	0	1	2
Totals	34	2	6	27	11	5

Score by innings:	R.
Carolina	000 031 010—5
Wake Forest	000 010 100—2

Runs batted in: Henning 2, Frye, McKeel, Smith. Two base hits: Keller, Gravitte. Stolen bases: Dale, Floyd. Sacrifices: Port 2. Double plays: Williams, Lloyd and Henning; Dale, Lloyd and Henning. Left on bases: Carolina 7; Wake Forest 6. Base on balls—off: Port 4, Brown 4. Struck out—by: Port 7, Brown 2. Wild pitch: Brown. Passed ball: Liptak. Time: 2:35. Umpires: Smith and Beck.

Tar Heel Lacrosse Team Defeats Amherst College, 8-1

AMHERST, Mass., April 15. (Special)—The Carolina Lacrosse team defeated Amherst 8-1 here this afternoon to win the second straight game of their current northern tour.

Dick Harrall led the scoring for the Tar Heels as he racked up four points. The other four points were divided equally among other players. Goalie Floyd of Carolina played his usual game and made fifteen saves.

One of the Carolina assists was made by Tom Stokes, a defensive man, who made a fine play on a steal, and ran down the field to assist on the goal. Defensive men are usually not in a position to make assists.

The team is scheduled to play Amherst on Friday.

The scoring: (UNC)—Harrell 4; Dawes 1; Pillsbury 1; Walker 1; Ernst 1. (A)—Linehan 1.

CAMPUS SEEN

Campus cops who somehow manage not to see illegally parked automobiles belonging to certain officials.

Woodpecker doing a pleasant rhythm on Gardner Hall's slate roof.

TENNIS RE-SCHEDULED

The tennis match between Carolina and Wake Forest which was scheduled for this afternoon has been moved up to 10:00 on Saturday morning.

"I'm going to hang around until you give me an extra dash of Angostura*!"

ANGOSTURA® AROMATIC BITTERS MAKES BETTER DRINKS

* P.S. The best Manhattan-mixers and Old Fashioned-fixers say it's Angostura that brings out that just-right flavor. Same goes for soups and sauces!

Interested In DRAMA?

Shakespearean Stage Production—then and now: by Cecile de Banke. In four sections, Staging, Actors and Acting, Costume, and Music and the Dance, she traces Shakespearean production from Elizabethan times to the present. Illustrated. ——$6.00

John Brown's Body, by Stephen Vincent Benet. The dramatic poem from which Lawton's hit performance was made. ——$3.00

And a Bargain

The Last of the Actor-Managers—by Hesketh Pearson. A famous biographer describes hte achievement of some of the glamorous personalities of the stage. Published at $3.00. Our Special $1.69.

It is always fun to browse in

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

For all your electrical needs and repairs on your flourescent desk lamps.

Electric Construction Co.
169 East Franklin St.

• THE PLACE TO GO FOR BRANDS YOU KNOW

Don Richards tropi·cord "the tailored cord" made of Ronel $32.50

Now you can enjoy the cool comfort of cord, and still stay trim on even the soggiest Summer day. Wear our Don Richards Ronel Tropi-Cord — the cord that's tailored like the finest regular-weight suits. It's designed with a wonderful inner construction that's lighter-than-air. Keeps you breezy and brisk no matter how hard heat and humidity try to rumple your appearance. Try on a Don Richards Ronel Tropi-Cord today. Choose from the classic cord patterns in blues, browns, tans.

Don Richards, the suits designed on living models

BILLS MAILED HOME

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Monogram Club Meets Tonight To Greet Winter Lettermen

The Monogram Club will hold an informal initiation of all Winter Quarter letter winners in the Club room tonight at 7:15. All old members and new initiates are urged to attend.

Also on the agenda will be the completion of plans for Saturday's Blue-White football game.

Winter quarter letter winners are:

Basketball

Jippy Carter, Gene Glancy, Vince Grimaldi, Al Lifson, Paul Likins, Bud Maddie, Bob Phillips, Tony Radovich, Ernie Schwarz, Jerry Vayda, Jack Wallace, Skippy Winstead, and Art Einstein, manager.

Swimming

Buddy Baarcke, Jack Edwards, Donnie Evans, Newell Gill, Warren Heeman, Buddy Heins Smith Jewell, Joe Koslo, Bob Linker, Larry Shannon Stan Tinkham, Barry Wall, Duke Widoff, and Bert Harrell, manager.

Wrestling

Harvey Bradshaw, Arthur Gregory, Miles Gregory, Ed Haines, Andy Holt, Pete McGehee, and Harry Pawlik.

Gymnastics

Andy Bell Seth Brumley, Check Goodin, Richard Hallden, Otis Hartsell, ohn Hearne, James Howard, Gordon Hudson Rupert Phipps, Bob Polan Davis Lamson, John Rhoades, Bill Rivera, Milton Scott, Frank Williams, Bob Eberle, manager.

Lettermen To Sell Blue-White Tickets

Tickets for Saturday's annual Blue-White football game may be purchased from any Monogram Club member.

A table will be set up today and tomorrow in the Y court for the convenience of students and faculty. Student tickets with page 50 of the passbook, are fifty cents. General admission seats are $1.

Proceeds from hte game, which is scheduled fro 2:00 Saturday afternoon, will go to the Monogram scholarship fund and other worthy causes.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Delta Psi vs. Sigma Chi; field 2, Zete 2 vs. ATO; field 3, TEP 1 vs. Phi Gam 1; field 4, DU vs. Chi Psi 1; field 5, Zete 1 vs. AK Psi; field 6, Delta Sig vs. Chi Psi 2.

5:00—Field 1, Lambda Chi vs. TEP 2; field 2, Pi Kappa Phi vs. Pi Lamb; field 3, Med School 1 vs. Winston; field 4, English Club vs. Ruffin; field 5, Med School 3 vs. Stacy; field 6, Beta vs. Chi Phi.

Today's Tennis

5:00—Sigma Chi 1 vs. Sigma Nu; Phi Gam 1 vs. SPE.

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Lambda Chi vs. PiKA 1; SPE 5 vs. TEP.

7:40—PiKA 2 vs. Pi Lamb 3; Pi Lamb 1 vs. Beta 2.

8:20—SPE 2 vs. Phi Gam 3; Pi Kappa Phi 2 vs. DU 1.

Water Polo Championship

7:00—Phi Gam vs. (Winner of Sigma Nu vs. Chi Psi).

News Bulletin In Y Features UN This Week

The United Nations is featured in the "World News of the Week" bulletin posted in the YMCA lobby today.

Reviewing the accmoplishments and listing the current issues facing the UN, the display also shows the organizational chart for the international body.

The editors point out that "United Nations activities began eight years ago this month when representatives of 50 nations gathered in San Francisco to draw up and sign the charter. This historic event was hailed by millions of people the world over who were weary—in the words of the charter's preamble—of 'the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind'."

Thus the UN was formed, as a center for nations to help keep peace, security and friendship; to solve international economic, social, cultural and humanitarian problems, and to promote respect for human rights.

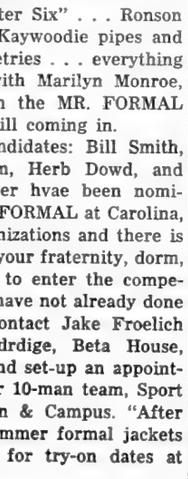
"In the intervening years many world developments contrary to UN purposes have taken place: wars, real and threatened; mass persecutions; rioting and revolt. Yet there is hopeful evidence for future world peace and prosperity to be found in the good that has been accomplished by the 60-member UN."

It is to aid the understanding of the UN—its organization, and its past, present and probable future progress and problems that this display is presented.

The bulletin on world news is sponsored by the Y World Relatedness Commission and is posted weekly in the YMCA lobby.

COMPLETE LINE OF "AFTER SIX" FORMALWEAR

Town & Campus



"MR. FORMAL" Guaranteed Everything But Date With Marilyn Monroe

A week in Hollywood . . . 500 bucks worth of government bonds . . . a complete summer formal outfit by "After Six" . . . Ronson lighters . . . Kaywoodie pipes and Charbert toiletries . . . everything but a date with Marilyn Monroe, yet entries in the MR. FORMAL contest are still coming in.

So far 10 candidates: Bill Smith, Bill McCollam, Herb Dowd, and John Motsinger hvae been nominated as MR. FORMAL at Carolina, by their organizations and there is still time for your fraternity, dorm, club or team to enter the competition if they have not already done so. Simply contact Jake Froelich or John Baldrdige, Beta House, Phone 6071 and set-up an appointment for your 10-man team, Sport Shop or Town & Campus. "After Six" white summer formal jackets are available for try-on dates at these stores.

Judges for the local contest on campus will be announced next week and MR. FORMAL will receive a complete summer formal outfit by "After Six", America's largest manufacturer of men's formal wear, a Ronson "Adonis" lighter, a Kaywoodie white briar pipe and a set of men's toiletries by Charbert.

AUTHENTIC Formal WEAR

DINNER JACKETS BY AFTER SIX

BILLS MAILED HOME

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

REMEMBER THOSE SPECIAL OCCASIONS

And make them extra special by giving flowers. They add the perfect touch.

Carolina Flower Shop

OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE

KNITTING YARNS AND ACCESSORIES

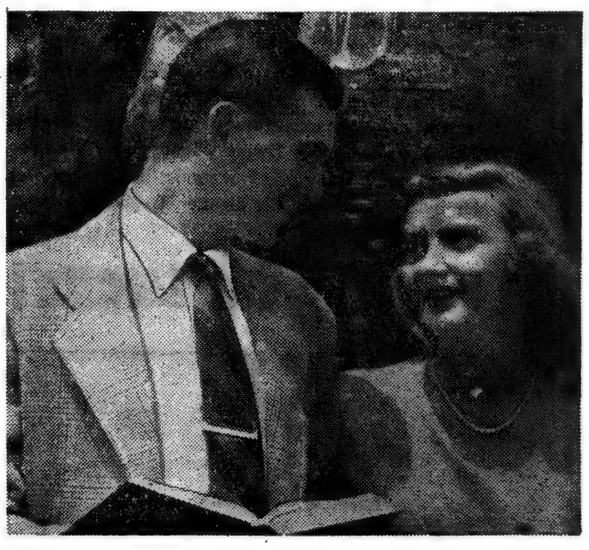
Closet accessories—Dress, Blanket Sweater and Storage Bags

THE YARN SHOP

WELCOME DRAMA FESTIVAL!!

Stop in for your free map of the campus.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP



205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

ARROW SOLD AT

VARLEY'S MEN SHOP

Arrow Gordon Dover Seen As Campus Favorite For '53

Button-Down Oxford Classic Overwhelming Favorite Of College Crowd

All signs point to a big year on campus for Arrow Gordon Dover—the neat, button-down Oxford so many young men prefer. Available at all Arrow dealers.

ARROW SHIRTS

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT-

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

What Goes On Here

APO

Alpha Phi Omega will hold an open rush meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial. Any student interested in becoming a member is asked to attend.

Dental Dames

The Dental Dames are having a food sale at Fowler's Food Store at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Room Reservations

All male students must make room reservations for the Summer and Fall terms by April 20. The $15 Summer term deposit and the $6 Fall term deposit may be paid to the cashier in the basement of South Building.

WUNC

Today's schedule:
7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Report from Europe.
7:45—Chopin Etudes.
8—The University Hour.
8:30—Voices of Europe.
9—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet today at 5 p.m. in Hill Hall.

Band

All University Band members, both varsity and concert, should report to Kenan Stadium Saturday afternoon at 1:30 to play for the Blue-White game. The time previously was incorrectly listed as 11:30. Members using University instruments should pick them up at Hill Hall at 1 o'clock. Uniforms will not be required.

Drama Festival Slates 11 Plays For Day's Work

Eleven one-act plays are scheduled today by participating schools in the Carolina Dramatic Ascoviation Festival being held here through Saturday.

The schedule: 9:30 a.m.—three plays by city high schools. "Sunday Costs Five Pesos," by Josefina Niggli. Presented by James Gray High School, Winston - Salem, Grace Robbins James, director. "Lawd, Does You Undastan'?" by Ann Seymour. Presented by Needham Broughton High School, Raleigh, Nan Wilkinson, director. "Good Medicine," by Jack Arnold and Edwin Burke. Presented by Rocky Mount High School, Mildred Petway Kramer, director.

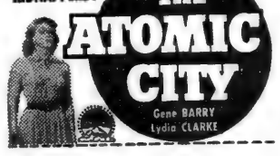
2 p.m.—three plays by junior colleges. "The Sicilian," by Jean-Baptiste Moliere. Presented by St. Mary's Junior College, Raleigh. Florence Davis, director. "Last Flight Over," by Allean Lemmon. Presented by Campbell College, Buies Creek, Robert R. Phebus, director. "The Will," by James M. Barrie. Presented by Mars Hill College, Elizabeth Webster Watson, director.

4:15 p.m.—a play by a city high school. "Two Crooks and a Lady," by Engene Pillot. Presented by Rocky Mount High School, Miss Kramer, director.

7:30 p.m.—four plays by city gar Lee Masters. Presented by high schools. "Richmond," by Ed- Goldsboro High School, Clifton Britton, director. "Miracle at Blaise," by Josefina Niggli. Presented by New Hanover High High School, Wilmington, Doris Hovis, director. "Which Is The Way to Boston?" by Ronald Lorenzen. Presented by Greenville High School, Ward James, director. "Lady Precious Stream," by S. I. Hsiung. Presented by Central High Srhool, Charlotte, Bristow Hardin Jr., direrton.

Tickets may be bought for a small price at the Green Room of the Playmakers Theater.

CRYPTOGRAM SOLUTION



COME TO THE ———— ROOM OF THE RANCH HOUSE FOR ROMANTIC ATMOSPHERE, MUSIC, DANCING. OPEN TUESDAY THRU SATURDAY NITES. EVER SO LIVE, MUSIC FRIDAY AND SATURDAY. COVER, .75 PER COUPLE TUES., WED., THUR.; $1.50 PER COUPLE WEEK ENDS.

PARK - VUE DRIVE - IN Theatre

3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIGHWAY 54

TONIGHT ONLY

G-MEN vs. KIDNAPPERS!

NROTC Picks 11 Regulars For Program

Eleven contract midshipmen from the Carolina NROTC Unit have been selected for the regular program, Capt. J. S. Keating, USN, Professor of Naval Science, said yesterday.

The students selected are Edgar Glenn Bullock, Rocky Mt.; Christopher Gale Crowson, Raleigh; Gerald Routh Daughtridge, Rocky Mt.; Alfred Rudolph Fathman, Chapel Hill; Albert Earle Garrett, III, Danville, Va.; Lee Bourne Holmes, Chapel Hill; Josephus Lyman Mavretic, Havelock; Andrew Hammill Milstead, Maysville, Ky; Noel Harper Petree, San Juan, P. R.; Alerander Graham Shanks, Birmingham, Ala. and Charles Bagby Swaim Jr., Winston-Salem.

In September, the midshipmen will begin receiving payment of tuition, fees, books, uniforms and $50 retainer fee until graduation.

They will be commissioned ensigns in the U. S. Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps upon graduation.

Five Students Fined In Court

Five students were among 13 persons appearing before Judge William S. Stewart in the Chapel Hill Recorder's Court this week for minor traffic violations. Payment of light fines and|or court costs were meted in each instance.

James F. Austin, Altamahaw junior, paid $10 and costs for using an expired operator's license.

William J. Prothero, sophomore from Johnstown, Pa., was fined $10 and costs for speeding.

Norman R. Lane, student from Roselle Park, N. J., paid $5 and costs for a charge of making an illegal U-turn.

Samuel T. Stevens, Asheville junior, paid $5 and costs for speeding.

Roger B. Triplett Jr., junior from Lenoir, paid court costs for a stop sign violation.

BUDDY KLEIN and the Statesman Orchestra

Write Box 5533—Tel. 21873

Raleigh, N. C.

Chapel Hill's Budget Request Withstands Amendment Rash

RALEIGH, April 16 — The University at Chapel Hill's bond issue request sailed through a flood of amendments on the floor of the House yesterday and came to rest in good shape, surviving a futile attempt by one legislator to whack it down the middle.

The entire institutional bill, originally totaling $13,000,000, was amended in one day's session to $14,250,000. Chapel Hill's proposed slice of $1,001,000 was left intact. It must now withstand three separate readings on the House floor, any amendments offered by the Senate and three more readings on the Senate floor.

The bill will become law, in one form or another, at the end of this process, probably towards the end of next week.

At one point in yesterday's session, Rep. White of Chowan stood up and offered an amendment to leave out a $500,000 appropriation for matching funds to build a new Institute of Government. Rep. John Umstead of Orange got the floor and urged that White's amendment be dropped. Umstead said, "There's not a county or town in North Carolina that doesn't benefit from the Institute of Government." The amendment was defeated overwhelmingly.

Another amendment was introduced which would have more than doubled Chapel Hill's appropriation. Rep. David Clark, an alumnus of Carolina, proposed to issue bonds totaling $1,010,000 to build a new school of pharmacy in Chapel Hill.

NEW STORE HOURS
10 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
MILTON'S CLOTHING CUPBOARD

"One of the screen's most gifted and subtle comedians!"—Newsweek

ALEC GUINNESS as the PROMOTER

A J. Arthur Rank Organization Presentation
A Universal-International Release

Carolina

Also Cartoon—News NOW PLAYING

If It's Dress Shirts You Need—

Drop by and look them over . . .
15 different collar styles—

Whites and Colors. Van Heusen Enro, Manhattan.

TOWN AND CAMPUS

WINNER OF 2 ACADEMY AWARDS BEST DIRECTOR BEST COLOR

THE QUIET MAN IS A RIOT MAN!

When the marriage broker and a ready-and-willing redhead gang up to romance him!

HERBERT J. YATES presents

JOHN FORD and MERIAN C. COOPER'S Argosy Production

THE QUIET MAN

Color by TECHNICOLOR

starring JOHN WAYNE • MAUREEN O'HARA • BARRY FITZGERALD

with WARD BOND • VICTOR McLAGLEN • MILDRED NATWICK • FRANCIS FORD

ARTHUR SHIELDS and ABBEY THEATRE PLAYERS

Directed by JOHN FORD

Screen Play by FRANK S. NUGENT From the Story by MAURICE WALSH

A REPUBLIC PICTURE Republic Pictures Corporation

From John Ford, three time Academy Award winner—his greatest triumph!

T-O-D-A-Y ONLY

Varsity

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

WEATHER
Cooler and continued sunny with 62 high. Yesterday's high, 66; low, 37.

The Daily Tar Heel

ELECT
The editor talks about the editor. See p. 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 131 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Major Election Breakdown

	DMI	DMII	DMIII	DMIV	DMV	DW	TW	TMI	TMII	TMIII	Abs. Inf.	Tot.
PRESIDENT:
Bob Gorham (UP)	105	96	50	121	89	146	90	104	234	110	33	1178
Wade Matthews (Ind)	31	28	18	39	17	9	2	18	5	4	9	180
Ken Penegar (SP)	135	115	103	144	88	129	19	41	48	73	25	940
Tom Sumner (Ind)	0	7	7	18	6	5	0	3	3	2	0	51
VICE-PRESIDENT
Bill Brown (Ind)	114	76	52	99	53	40	7	16	21	24	32	534
Baxter Miller (SP)	96	86	90	114	76	150	37	84	38	69	17	857
Jack Stilwell (UP)	63	65	36	101	71	100	68	81	230	92	16	923
SEC.-TREAS.
Jerry Cook (UP)	135	136	56	158	119	156	85	110	243	109	57	1364
Gordon Forester (SP)	134	109	128	153	79	129	28	68	46	71	10	955
YACK EDITOR
Lib Moore (SP)	186	162	126	176	126	202	59	86	81	88	30	1323
Rollie Tillman (UP)	76	83	46	129	68	83	53	94	107	89	37	865

SP And UP Get Same Number Of Legislators

The University and Student Parties put 13 legislators each in office as a result of Wednesday's election, late Election Board returns showed yesterday.

Which party has the majority in the Legislature depends on the number of holdovers. Yesterday party prophets were busy counting their legislators, but no common solution was reached.

Junior Seawell (UP) won the presidency of the Carolina Athletic Association over Bob Pace (SP), 1250-685. Dick Lackey (UP) gained the CAA vice-presidency over Van Weatherspoon (SP), 1116-749.

The UP swept up all senior class officers. The senior class winners were George McLeod, Russ Cowell, Ann Street, Gordon Battle and Claire Boone.

Freshman class office winners were Charlie Yarborough (UP), president, Donna Overholt (SP), secretary, Pepper Tice (SP), treasurer and Susan Fink (SP-UP), social chairman.

Student Council women's seats went to Mase Chapin, Lois Collins and Tilinor Wrenn. Jane Berryhill, Ed Gross and Bill Ruffin won at-large seats. Henry Lowet won the Men's six month seat.

Men's Council winners were Bruce Crater, Art Einstein and George McLeod for senior seats. Pete Block and Osborne Lee will compete in the runoff for the junior seat. Ed McClurry won the sophomore seat.

Senior seats on the Women's Council: Jo Deming, Sara Rose and Pat Smith. Mary Frances Allsbrook gained the seat at large.

Jane Allen and Carolyn Johnson will be in the runoff for Women's Athletic Association president. Jane Berryhill and Alice Hicks will enter the runoff for WAA vice-president.

Betty Otto Anderson and Rollie Randolph will compete in the runoff for chairman of the Women's Residence Council.

Jim Fountain, head cheerleader winner, beat Louie Patseavouras, 1,504-771,

Both constitutional amendments were passed. The amendment which sets up a regular elected National Student Association coordinator passed, 1,475-525. The one which revamped terms on the Publications Board passed, 1,580-398.

Victorious legislators were Dayton Estes (SP), Tom Shores (UP), Bob Wynne (UP), Joel Fleishman (SP), Ray Long (SP), Gilbert Rabland (SP), George Whiteside (SP), Charles Wolf (SP), Gerald Parker (SP), John Ingle (SP), Manning Muntzing (SP), Pete Adams (UP), Bob Farrell (UP), Carlos Surratt (UP), Anita Anderson (SP), Jane Bolmeir (SP), Carolyn Little (UP), Don Huntington (SP), Tommy Yorke (UP), Jack Harden (SP), Jack Stevens (UP), James Crouch (SP), Lionel Perkins (UP), Burt Veasey (UP), Bev Webb (UP) and Robert Mason (UP).

Lib Moore (SP), victorious Yackety-Yack editor, defeated Rollie Tillman (UP), 1323-865.

Rolfe Neill, who was doubly endorsed, ran unopposed for editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

The Publications Board was completely doubly endorsed. Elected were Joe Raff, Ed Starnes, Russ Coweli and Louis Kraar.

What Happened

Due to mechanical difficulties, a wreck and assorted election night vicissitudes, part of yesterday's Daily Tar Heels were not delivered. We're sorry.

Y Membership Meeting Will Be Next Tuesday

Ned Harbin, YMCA president-elect yesterday said the next membership meeting will be in the form of an outing at Claude Shotts' farm.

The date is next Tuesday and the time is from 5 to 8 p.m. A program of softball, picnic supper and reports on program plans for next year is planned. All who are interested in attending are invited to sign up in the Y office today.

APO Seeks Help

"Help us," cry the Alpha Phi Omega's, sponsors of the annual Spring Parents Day.

They need people to stuff and volunteers to come to the chap- address envelopes and ask any ter room in Graham Memorial any afternoon this week.

CAMPUS SEEN

Law student explaining to visiting company representative why he is not interested in taking a correspondence course in plumbing.

*

Theater caption appropriately marked for elections, "The man who was too proud too run."

Play Tryouts Are Tuesday

Open tryouts will be held Tuesday in the Forest Theater at 4 and 7:30 p.m. for the Playmakers' last major production of the season, Aristophanes' bawdy comedy of sex and war, "Lysistrata."

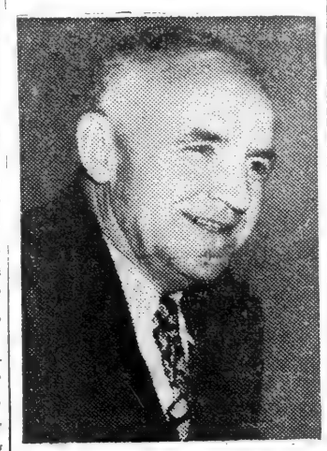
In case of rain, tryouts will be moved to Memorial Hall.

The play will be directed by Foster Fitz-Simons, assistant director for the Playmakers, and is scheduled for production in the Forest Theatre May 22-24, in conjunction with the dedication of the Theatre as a memorial to "Proff" Koch, founder of the Playmakers.

"Lysistrata" demands an unusually large cast—20 men and 20 women of all ages. Scripts are on reserve at the University library for those interested in reading them in advance.

Next Friday

Dr. Graham To Address Students



Dr. Frank Graham, former president of the Consolidated University, will address the UNC student body next Friday night at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall.

Appearing here for the dedication exercises of the new medical center, Dr. Graham will speak to the students on "The United Nations and Some of Its Achievements." He will be introduced by Chancellor Robert B. House.

The speech next Friday will mark the first time in several years that Dr. Graham has addressed the Carolina students. He will also speak at the Medical School dedication exercise next weekend.

At present, Dr. Graham is serving as a United Nations representative and is mediating disputes between India and Pakistan. He also served as United States Senator from North Carolina.

An informal banquet in honor of Dr. Graham will be held next Friday night at 6:15 in the South Room of Lenoir Hall. All delegates to the Carolina UN Model Assembly will be invited to the banquet.

DR. FRANK GRAHAM

SPONSORS FOR THE INTER DORMITORY Council Dance are top row, left to right, Donna Overholt, Pittsburgh, Penn., with Gerald Parker, Silver Lale, dance committee chairman; Vinal Overing, Greensboro, with John Ingle, Siler City, treasurer; Becky Freeman, Star, with Dick Gamble, Summerfield, IDC court chairman. Center picture, Hope Leonard, Greensboro, with John DeWitt Gooch, Greensboro, secretary. Bottom row, Geraldine Snyder, Fayetteville, with Walter Gurley, Goldsboro, vice-president; Sara Joyner, Rocky Mount, with Harry Pearsall, Rocky Mount, dance committee; Helen Faust, Asheboro, with Bob Llewellyn, Concord, dance committee. Not pictured, Marlene Saunders, Reidsville, with Gerald King, Winston-Salem, dance committee.

Carnival Tonight At 7

Ugliest Male Crowning Set; Admission Free

Who's the Ugliest Man on campus?

You'll know if you're on the midway of the University Club Carnival at 9:30 tonight when the Theta Chi's announce the winner of their Ugly Man Contest and award prizes to him and a trophy to his sponsor.

The carnival, to be held at Navy Field, will get underway at 7 o'clock and until the 11 o'clock curfew there will be plenty to see and do. Briefly-clad coeds in the McIver booth will subject themselves to being squirted with water pistols and the PiKA's will duck wet sponges, and the Theta Chi's old pies.

There will be various games to test luck and skill including darts, miniature golf, dice and card games. There will be prizes, including kisses from the SAE and Chi O booths.

Other orgnaizations participating will be TEP, ATO, Pi Kappa Phi Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Delt, Phi Gam, Zeta Psi, Lambda Chi, SPE. Sigma Nu, Beta, AD Pi, Kappa Delta, Pi Phi and Everett dorm.

Admission is free.

State Festival Of Dramatists In Fourth Day

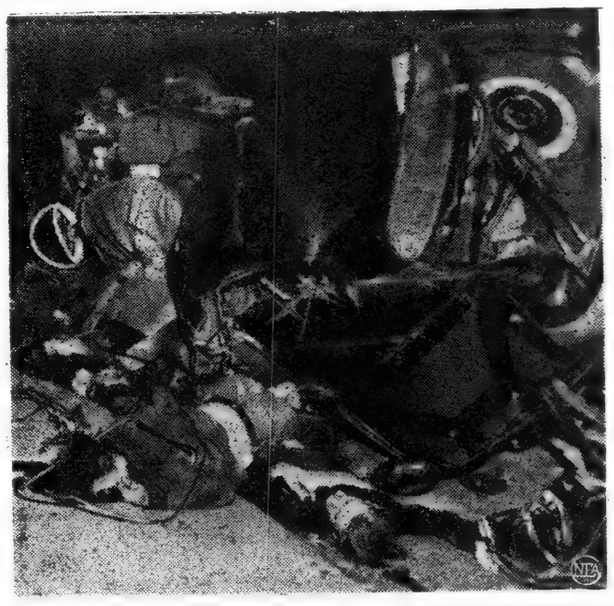
The State Drama Festival goes into the fourth day of activities today with three sessions of plays scheduled.

Today's schedule includes: 9:30 a.m., three plays by city high schools: "Dark Brown," by Philip High School, Charlotte and direct- Johnson, presented by Myers Park ed by Erleen Markuardt; "Bessie, the Bandit's Beautiful Baby," by Leland Price, presented by Lee Edwards High School, Asheville and directed by C. B. West; and "Jacob comes Home," by William Kozlenko, presented by Greensboro Senior High School and directed by Mozelle Causey.

At 2 p.m., four plays by city high schools: "The Caucasian Chalk Circle," by Bertolt Brecht, pre- Hardin Jr.; "I Shall Be Waiting," Charlotte and directed by Bristow sented by Central High School, by Florence R. Kahn, presented by Hanes High School, Winston-Salem and directed by Mae Thornton; "Fortunata Writes a Letter," by E. T. Apstein, presented by Reynolds High School, Winston-Salem and directed by Emma Kapp; and "The Slave with Two Faces," by Mary Carolyn Davies, presented by Whiteville High School and directed by Alma Elkins.

At 7:30 p.m., an original play by an individual member, "Hand Me a Silver Platter," by Elizabeth Welch, will be presented by Goldsboro High School and directed by Clifton Britton.

At 8:15 p.m., the following will be presented by Little Theatres: "A Little Bird of a Woman,' 'by Frank Sehon, presented by the Wilson Little Theatre and directed by Kay Swink; and "Hello, Out There," by William Saroyan, presented by the Shoestring Players, Wilson and directed by Cecil Willis.



At 9:30 p.m., a tea and exhibit and a discussion will be led by Samuel Selden, director of the Carolina Playmakers.

(Complete schedule may be obtained at Playmakers Theatre.)

Tar Heels 'n Toes

There will be a special meeting of Tar Heels 'n Toes today at 5:30 p.m. in the Women's Gym to practice for the Durham Centennial exhibition.

Why Don't You And Death Take A Holiday - - Drive Carefully

Great Eliza's Name Praised In Display

"To Great Eliza's Glorious Name," the fifth in a series of Library displays arranged and sponsored by the English Club, is located at the east end of the main hall.

The new display, executed under the direction of Thad Seymour and John Schnorrenberg, is presented in honor of the 10th annual meeting of the Southeastern Renaissance Association, being held in Chapel Hill today and tomorrow. Of primary interest in the exhibition is a manuscript letter, dated 1570, which bears the bold signature of "Elizabeth Regina." The other items in the display illustrate the abundant praise which courtiers, poets and playwrights lavished on England's greatest queen.

In recent months the English Club has offered a variety of displays on general and topical subjects. A Dickens exhibition was presented in conjunction with the performance of Emlyn Williams, and a collection of poems about spring heralded the arrival of warm weather. On other occasions visitors to the library have had an opportunity to examine the documents in the Bacon-Shakespeare controvery, and moralize upon the views of Addison and Steele "On Drinking."

The English Club is a comparatively newcomer among campus organizations and began its activities last Spring. A club made up of graduate students in English, it has provided bi-monthly programs of academic interest for its own members as well as numerous programs for the University community in general. Recent guests have included Prof Benjamin Boyce of Duke University, Dr. Archibald Henderson and the Duke Madrigal Singers. Popular among undergraduates are their bi-monthly programs of recordings related to English literature.

Describing the aims of the English Club, an official said, "We feel that our organization has a double responsibility to the University. Through our regular meetings, our weekly departmental luncheons, and our other activities we attempt to strengthen the relationship between student and student, as well as student and faculty member.

"But we also feel that it is essential to provide programs of interest to undergraduates in order to combat the dwindling interest in the Humanities."

Alumni Event For Library Slated Today

Inaugurating what is expected to become an annual event, the School of Library Science will hold its first Alumni Day today.

The school now has 656 alumni of whom 421 are actively engaged in library work, and it is hoped that a large number will attend the program here since the School and alumni maintain unusually close relations. Even those no longer in the library profession keep in touch with the School and members of the faculty and staff.

Among special topics of discussion during the Alumni Day activities will be the inauguration of the M.S.L. degree in 1950 and the M.S. in library science in 1951.

Dean Susan Grey Akers said the school staff feels that the "opportunity to observe the enlarged program and to ask questions on the spot concerning the work of the School will be of interest to the many alumni who wonder about the content of new courses and what changes have taken place in the old courses they remember."

Alumni Day will also serve to introduce new faculty members to students of earlier years.

Members of the class of '32 wil be interested in meeting their former classmate, O. V. Cook, Assistant Librarian, in his new capacity as visiting professor for the current spring quarter.

The program of Alumni Day includes registration tours of the Library and get togethers with staff members during the morning, a luncheon at the Carolina Inn at 12:30, and an address by Thomas Moorman Sinkins Jr., currator of Rare Books of the Duke University Library, in the Assembly Room of the Library during the afternoon.

An informal tea will conclude the day's program.

Mission Will Feature Orth

The Rev. James B. Orth, chaplain from the University of Florida will lead a preaching mission in the Chapel of the Cross Episcopal Church Sunday, Monday and Tuesday evenings at 7:30.

The talks will be combined with a brief service, and will be followed by informal discussion groups in the parish house.

brated Monday and Tuesday morn-

Holy Communion will be celeings at 7 a.m. A discussion group will meet in the parish house at 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. All students and townspeople are invited to participate in the mission program.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr., Jennie Lynn, Joyce Adams.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Keep Electing Him

We don't feel that it's too late to discuss the advisability of an editor being elected.

This year the campus was extremely fortunate in having to select only one man, Rolfe Neill, a newspaperman experienced in most phases of journalistic work and a real servant to the campus since he entered Carolina. In the past, however, there have been numerous candidates for editor, some of them very incompetent. In April, 1951, there were as many as five candidates for editor, two of them "joker" candidates. Many students, pondering the mass of possible politicians as editors, thought that the editor should be elected by the Publications Board, the body that handles financial matters of this paper and the Yackety Yack, and approves staff appointments. Some suggested that the School of Journalism should take a direct hand in the management of the newspaper. Some have suggested that a select board made up of student government officials, representatives of the faculty, and the Publications Board pick an editor.

The charge is: Students aren't capable of picking an editor.

Maybe they aren't. But we think they are entitled to choose the editor for many reasons.

You as a student pay about $1.25 per quarter for subscription to The Daily Tar Heel. That's $3.75 a year. The block is universally applied. By tacit agreement, students have allowed this system of subscription to continue. They therefore have a right to direct the policy of the newspaper. The Daily Tar Heel is a student newspaper, first of all. As such, it must be a student voice. The election of an editor is one way to insure that this voice is adequately heard.

Student participation in the selection of an editor naturally makes the students more interested in the operation of the newspaper. Though it is difficult to gauge the effects of this interest, we believe that students would be very much less interested in their paper if they didn't vote for the editor.

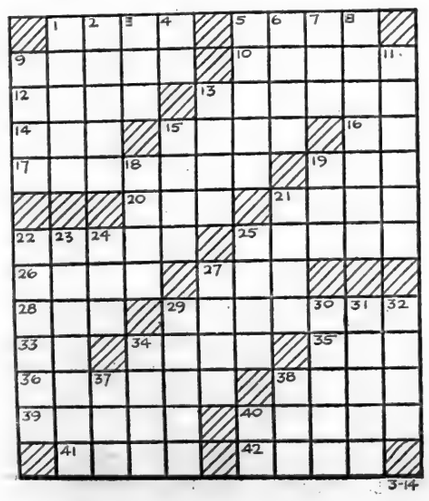
The charge is frequently made that the best don't become editor, that it is unfair to ask a newspaperman to campaign because he doesn't have time, and he should be utilizing his time with journalistic endeavors. We can't measure the quality of editors over a period of time. We can say that there have been excellent as well as poor ones, however.

Any newspaperman might not be happy about campaigning, but after some thinking, he may realize the value of campaigning. What greater opportunity is there to learn about people than to talk to people, a large amount of them. Electioneering by newspapermen is a valuable experience.

We believe the job of editor to be the most important one on campus. We believe, further, that the editor has a significant responsibility to find out opinions, to make them, and to present them.

We have tried to think of another agency, other than political parties, to choose candidates. We can't think of any at the present. The editor of The Daily Tar Heel is the representative of the students on their paper.

Until the block gee is abolished we see no reason why the editor should be appointed by a special group of students.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. American Indian
5. Tab
9. Play
10. Fastened with a cord
12. Rowing implements
13. One who deserts his party
14. Evening (poet.)
15. Garden tool
16. Italian river
17. Military or naval duty
19. Vitality
20. Covered with ice
21. God of war (Rom.)
22. Kind of cotton fabric
25. Of a horse
26. Robust
27. Cry, as a dove
28. Any fruit drink
29. Piers
33. Smallest state (abbr.)
34. Scorch
35. Fetish (Var.)
36. Pad
38. Scoff
39. Pry
40. Walked back and forth
41. Marbles
42. Mimicked

DOWN
1. Desire greatly
2. More infrequent
3. Type measures
4. Water god (Babyl.)
5. Lamina
6. Tardy
7. Perform
8. Makers of peeping noises
9. Performs
11. Edema
13. Sporty (slang)
15. Wealthy
18. Endorsement on a passport
19. Equal
21. Secure, as a ship
22. Maps
23. Glowing
24. Malt beverage
25. White with age
27. Talk
29. Sobs
30. Speak
31. Subsided
32. Plant ovule
34. Not fast
37. Long, feathered scarf
38. Breach
40. Father

Yesterday's Answer

3-14

Dan Duke

1964
Memoirs of J. McGurglefreely

The purpose of the McGurglefreely Education and Sulture Purification Bill, briefly, was to strike at un-Americanism wherever it appeared in education, literature, music or art. Specifically the first part dealt with education: it demanded 1) a loyalty check of all teachers, and 2) prohibition from the profession of all persons with I Q's above 100. (We had long known that intelligence was correlated with individualism, and that individualism in the teaching profession was especially dangerous.) The second part, dealing with literature, music, and art, provided first, the destruction of the works of some 11,081 authors (including, of course, the work of such un-American radicals as Al Capp, Thomas Jefferson and Jesus Christ); second, the compositions of some 8403 musicians—including Shostakovitch, Tchaikovsky and "Red" Foley, for example were to be destroyed; and finally the paintings of some 3269 artists were also to be destroyed.

A rider attached to the bill forbade the manufacture or sale of "pink" undergarments to ladies. Also all women were prohibited from wearing any such subversive garments. (This led, when later passed, to the famous Marilyn Monroe investigation. The sub-committee asked Miss Monroe over and over: "Are you now wearing, or have you ever worn, subversive undergarments?" Miss Monroe, standing on her constitution, at first refused to submit to the thorough investigation necessary. But when the sure hands of McGurglefreely undertook the task, the bare facts were revealed, and Miss Monroe, as we now all know, was cleared of all charges.)

In a very close vote, Congress (an obsolete legislative body whose functions I now handle for security reasons and in the interests of democracy) voted down the bill. This was the cue: if even the Congress of the "United States" would not fight un-Americanism, who would? I knew instinctively my duty to my country. I called for the immediate formation of a third party, the Ultra-Nationalists.

Instantly, the nation rallied behind me, and with the help of some very able colleagues (Pat McCrayon, a real American boy; Joe McCromwell, of the Chicago Tribute, and Louis Fulton, Sr., a Mutual friend, as typical examples), our party swept the country by storm and I was elected President in 1956.

All that has happened since is ancient history. The people were good and ripe for some sweeping reforms, and I really gave them some. First, there was the revolutionary 22nd Amendment, the "Magna Charter" of our American democracy, which 1) made the Constitution inoperative on questions of vital security, 2) abolished Congress and the Supreme Court, and portions of the Constitution dealing with these bodies, 3) turned over all judicial and legislative functions to the executive (in the interests of progress and security), 4) dissolved all the states of the "United States" and turned over all their functions to the central government, the executive administration of "United America" as it was thenceforward called, 5) changed the flag, so that one huge white stor (with a picture of McGurglefreely — in his shirtsleeves—in the center) on a blue background replaced the former flag, and 6) outlawed the colors red, pink, or any close facsimile with strict prosecution provided for any person or prism caught violating that law.

The 22nd amendment was immediately followed by the 23rd which incorporated the McGurglefreely Education and Culture Purification Bill, with about 71,915 names added. This was followed by the 24th, which set up the National Security nad Purge Council, and set the pattern for our present day purges. Perhaps you remember some of the trials which followed; the famous "leer" case in which William Doakes was convicted for a subversive leer at yours truly; the Charley Smith case, in which a minister was convicted of putting Christ before the security of the state; etc.

And of course our ingenious foreign policy of "Blowentohellism" will go down in history. Logic convinced us in 1960 that all other countries were hopelessly un-American, so we decided simply to blow them off the map—for their own good and for the good of their children. Of course this policy brought repercussions at home when bordering nations like Canada and Mexico were blown up. (We did not miss those Texans, but some of those Wisconsins were real, fine Americans. But as we all know, the cost of security is high.)

But all this, as I said, is ancient history and beside the point. All Americans know how all-American America is today.

The future? I don't know. In spite of all my efforts, hints of un-Americanism still crop up. Too many people are still thinking. People must come to do good and act American automatically, instinctively (like me). We will have to recruit more EMSP Agents, make our practical education more practical, and tighten our propaganda channels.

But in the large I think Americans can look with pride at our nation, this golden age of democracy. America has demonstrated that Aristole was wrong. We have established a real and a permanent democracy of, by, and for the people, which shall not perish from the earth.

(Note: All facts and data found in my "Memoirs" are carefully documented and verified in the source book, McGurglefreelyism —the Flight from Americnnism, by Joseph McGurglefreely played daily on all TV channels.

Joseph McGurglefreely

The Ram Sees

Overheard at Annapolis: "He graded so tough that he flunked me because I had a period upside down."

—ACP

Want Ad in the Michigan State news: "Single room for rent for male student with parking space on east side of Lansing."

—Michigan State News

LITTLE EVENING DRESSES

FOR BIG SUMMER EVENINGS

Our bright, glittery, and bouffant dresses have the charm of a Strauss waltz . . . the color and romance of a Tango . . . and the dream of a perfect evening . . . Make them your partners on your next big date . . . you'll have a wonderful time . . .

An invitation to every girl to come in and see our beautiful Spring and Summer collection of "Lighter than Air Formals . . . " All you Summer Brides . . . don't forget we have the wedding dress of your dreams . . .

Crystal Room
Second Floor

Ellis Stone

Durhams best store since 1885

Annual Blue-White Tilt Set At Kenan Tomorrow

Ken Yarborough of High Point and Bob White of Lyndhurst, N. J., will head the Blue and White squads respectively here tomorrow in the eighth annual Blue-White football game.

Kickoff for the Kenan Stadium contest, marking the end of off-season practice sessions, is slated for 2 p.m.

Yarborough heads a Blue team coached by Marvin Bass, Steve Belichick and Dick Jamerson. The Blues will have such well known stars as Marshall Newman, Larry Parker and Flo Worrell in its backfield and line stalwarts Dick Kocornik, Dave Mullens, Paul Hursh, Francis Fredere, Ed Patterson nad Bill Baker.

White's team features Billy Williams, Charlie Motta, Dick Starner, John Lambert, Bill Kirkman, Gregory and Dan Mainer.
Ralph Beaver Steve Opitz, Miles

Several of last year's aces will watch from the sidelines tomorrow. Bud Wallace, among the nation's top 10 punters for three years, will be missed. George Norris, great defensive end, and giant tackle Tom Higgins, have ended their playing careers. Jack Cooke, Chal Port, Ernie Liberati and others graduate in June.

Several Tar Heels on spring sports teams will not be in attendance. The baseball team has backs Billy Hawks, Ken Keller, Connie Gravitte, Billy Joe Johnson and Albert Long and end Will Frye while end Jeff Newton is competing on the Tar Heel track team.

The sick list will carry the names of guard George Foti and Vince Murray.

The contest marks Head Coach George Barclay's debut as Tar Heel coach. He has turned over the coaching duties for the contest to his aides and will watch from the sidelines.

Barclay took over for Carl Snavely when the veteran Tar Heel menplayed under Snavely here and was selected on the 1934 All-America tor resigned in December. Barclay football team. He has coached at V.M.I., Oberlin, Dartmouth, Maryland and Washington and Lee. He was head coach at Washington and Lee, winning the 1950 loop title.

Carolina Has Full Schedule For All Teams

Although the Blue-White football game takes the center of the Carolina athletic stage this weekend all of Carolina's other teams will have supporting roles.

The golf team starts the weekend this afternoon, playing N. C. State in a 2:00 match at the Finley golf course. The golfers are undefeated in six matches and will be favored this afternoon.

The tennis team will play a morning match tomorrow against the newly organized Wake Forest team. The match is scheduled for 10:00 on the varsity courts.

The three other teams will be on the road. The baseball team, now leading the Southern division of the Southern Conference, plays a non-Conference game with Virginia at Charlottesville tomorrow.

The track team, winner of its last two meets by one-sided scores, travels to College Park, Md. to meet Maryland's defending Southern champions.
thern Conference champions.

The lacrosse team will continue its northern tour, which has found it winning twice, by meeting Amherst this afternoon. The Tar Heel stickmen defeated Amherst Wednesday by 8-1.

Football Tickets

Representatives of the Monogram Club will be in the Y Court this morning to sell tickets to tomorrow's annual Blue-White football game. Student tickets are 50 cents and regular general admission $1.

NEW STORE HOURS
10 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
MILTON'S CLOTHING CUPBOARD

WELCOME DRAMA FESTIVAL!!

Stop in for your free map of the campus.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

THE SENSIBLE THING TO DO!

For real convenience plus safety, handle your expenses and pay your bills by check. All accounts are welcome regardless of size. Open your account today. The cost is so very small. Make our bank your "banking home away from home."

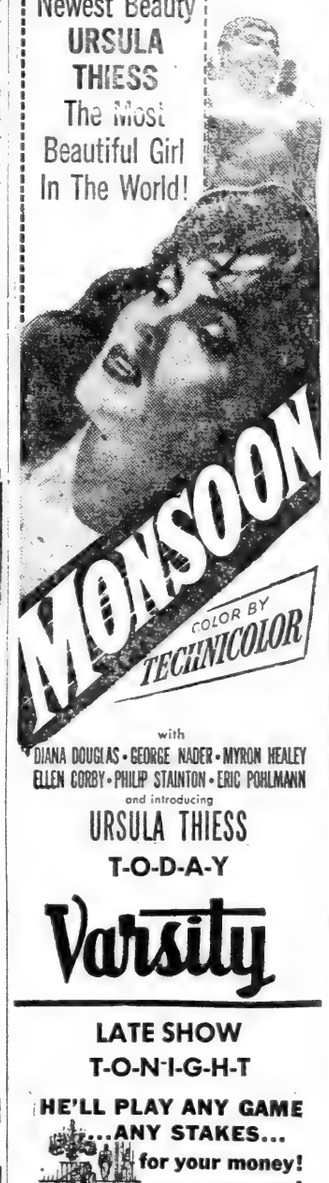
FOR THAT NEXT TIP CARRY SAFE, SPENDABLE TRAVELERS CHECKS—ONLY 75c PER $100

The Bank of Chapel Hill
CHAPEL HILL CARRBORO
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Interested In DRAMA?

Shakespearean Stage Production—then and now: by Cecile de Banke. In four sections, Staging, Actors and Acting, Costume, and Music and the Dance, she traces Shakespearean production from Elizabethan times to the present. Illustrated. $6.00

John Brown's Body, by Stephen Vincent Benet. The dramatic poem from which Lawton's hit performance was made. $3.00



And a Bargain

The Last of the Acter-Managers—by Hesketh Pearson. A famous biographer describes hte achievement of some of the glamorous personalities of the stage. Published at $3.00. Our Special $1.69.

It is always fun to browse in

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

The Screen Unveils Its Newest Beauty URSULA THIESS The Most Beautiful Girl In The World!

with
DIANA DOUGLAS • GEORGE NADER • MYRON HEALEY
ELLEN CORBY • PHILIP STAINTON • ERIC POHLMANN and introducing
URSULA THIESS
T-O-D-A-Y
Varsity
LATE SHOW
T-O-N-I-G-H-T

HE'LL PLAY ANY GAME ...ANY STAKES... for your money! ...your woman! ...or your life!

in The MISSISSIPPI GAMBLER
Color by Technicolor

SAVE WITH THESE A&P VALUES!

Iona Large Sweet
PEAS - - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 25c

Iona Strainless Green
BEANS - - 2 15½-Oz. Cans 25c

Mild American
CHEESE - - Lb. 45c

FARM-FRESH FRUITS & VEGETABLES AT DOWN-TO-EARTH PRICES

Fresh Florida Full Ear
CORN 4 Ears 23c

Juicy Florida Size 54's, 64's
Grapefruit - - - - - 4 For 29c

Golden Crisp
Carrots - - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Cello Bag 10c

Juicy Florida
Oranges - - - - - - - 8 Lb. Bag 45c

Heavy With Juice
Lemons - - - - - - - 2 Lbs. 25c

Crisp 4 Doz. Size
Lettuce - - - - - - - 2 Heads 25c

Come See at A&P

A&P Fancy
Sauerkraut - - - - - - - 27-Oz. Can 21c

Our Own
Tea - - - - - - - - - - 1-2 Lb Pkg. 39c

Del Monte Fruit
Cocktail - - - - - - - - 17-Oz. Can 25c

Del Monte Sliced or Halves
Peaches - - - - - - - - 29-Oz. Can 33c

Del Monte Early Garden Blend
Asparagus - - - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 43c

Del Monte
Sugar Peas - - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 23c

Pick of Carolina Sweet Mixed
Pickles - - - - - - - - 16-Oz. Jar 19c

Ann Page Sparkle
Puddings - - - - - - - 3 4-oz. Pkgs. 20c

Standard Pack
Tomatoes - - - - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 23c

Blue Label
Karo Syrup Pt. Bot. 23c 5-Lb. Tin 63c

Nabisco
Vanilla Wafers 12-Oz. Pkg 31c

Octagon Soap 2 Giant Bars 15c

Octagon
Soap Powder Lge. Pkg. 24c

Ajax Cleanser 2 Cans 25c

JANE PARKER SPANISH BAR CAKE
BIG VALUE 29c

Jane Parker Cinnamon
Breakfast Rolls - - - Pkg. 25c

Jane Parker Rolls
Brown 'N Serve - 2 Pkgs. 27c

Jane Parker Enriched
White Bread - - - - - 16-Oz. Loaf 14c

Jane Parker
Dessert Shells - - - - Pkg. of 6 20c

Fab Lge. Pkg 29c Giant Pkg. 69c

These Prices Effective Through Saturday April 18th

Armour's Meats

Treet	12-Oz. Can	45c
Corned Beef Hash	16-Oz. Can	29c
Chopped Ham	12-Oz. Can	57c
Vienna Sausage	4-Oz. Can	19c
Potted Meat	5½-Oz. Can	13c
Chilli Con Carne	16-Oz. Can	32c
Dried Beef	2½-Oz. Glass	35c
Corned Beef	12-Oz. Can	49c

Wesson Oil - - Pint Bot. 35c Qt. Bot. 67c

Snowdrift - - - 1-Lb. Tin 32c 3-Lb. Tin 89c

Orange Drink HI-C - - 46-Oz. Can 27c

Ivory Soap Personal Size - - 4 Bars 21¢

Camay Soap - - - - 2 Bath Bars 23c

Lava Soap - - - - - Bar 10¢

Cheer - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c

Dreft - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c

Super Suds - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c

Vel - - - - - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c

Top Grade Only! Dependable Quality Always!
A&P's "Super-Right" Meats

"Super Right" Freshly GROUND BEEF
Pound 43c

"Super-Right" Heavy Western Beef
BONELESS
POT ROAST - Lb. 59c

"Super-Right" Plate or Brisket
Stew Beef - - - Lb. 19c

"Super-Right" —Lean
Boneless Stew - - Lb. 55c

Morrell's Pride Smoked Short Shank
Skinned Hams 12 to 14 Lb. Avg.
Shank Portion - - Lb. 49c

Butt Portion - - Lb. 55c

"Super-Right" Fresh Loin End
Pork Roast - - - Lb. 49c

"Super-Right" Center Cut Rib
Pork Chops - - Lb. 63c

TEXIZE BLEACH
QUART BOTTLE 10c

A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

3 STORIES FROM "MEXICAN VILLAGE" By Chapel Hill's Own Author JOSEFINA NIGGLI Has Been Brought To The Screen In

M-G-M's "Sombrero"

Sombrero

RICARDO MONTALBAN · PIER ANGELI · VITTORIO GASSMAN
CYD CHARISSE · de CARLO · YVONNE
JASON ROBARDS · FOCH · KASZNAR · WALTER HAMPDEN · THOMAS GOMEZ · JOSÉ GRECO

SCREEN PLAY BY JOSEFINA NIGGLI and NORMAN FOSTER
Based On the Novel "A Mexican Village" by JOSEFINA NIGGLI

TUESDAY—WEDNESDAY
CAROLINA THEATER

Dance At Washington Duke Highlight Of KA Festivities

Kappa Alpha's and their dates danced to the music of Jimmy Perkins and his orchestra Saturday night as Upsilon chapter of the fraternity celebrated its annual pledge weekend.

The formal dance was held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham. Pledges and their dates formed a figure at intermission when Karl Barkley, Raleigh, was presented the "best pledge" award.

Kappa Alpha's began their weekend activities with a pledge-active softball game and party at Hogan's Lake Friday afternoon. Friday night a "Roaring Twenties" party was held at Turner's cabin in Durham. Members and their dates wore costumes of 1920 vintage and all entered in a Charleston contest.

Saturday, previous to the dance, there was a party and barbecue dinner at Sparrows Pool.

Pledges and their dates were Karl Barkley, Raleigh, pledge president, with Barbara Melvin, Charlotte; Jerry McBrayer, Reidsville, vice president, with Eleanor Smith, Reidsville; Bob Angstadt, Charlotte, secretary treasurer, with Gloria Campen, Charlotte; Pete Harris, Charlotte, with Emily Cook, Arlington, Va.; Earle Garrett, Danville, Va., with Joanne Seay, Danville Va.; Allen Bader, Louisville, Ky., with Julie Sanders, Tryon;

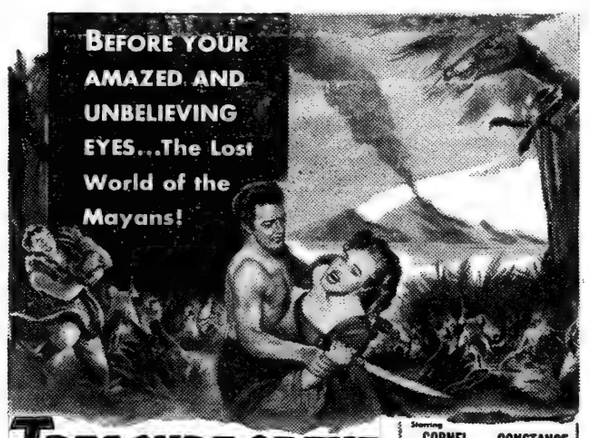
Johnny Jackson, Atlanta, Ga., with Bunny Gregg Bennettsville, S. C.; T. C. Homesley, Cherryville, with Lorraine McCurrey, Cherryville; Bob Wynne, Greenville, S. C., with Kay Scarboro, Greenville, S. C.; Scott Spradley, Shelby, with Marcelene Spake, Kings Mountain; Pete Waggoner, Salisbury, with Margaret Padgett, Chapel Hill; Bob Peek, Winston-Salem, with Ann Taylor, Savannah, Ga.; Bob Bursley, Washington, D. C., with Sue Carter, Chapel Hill; Karl Bardin, Jacksonville, Fla. with Beeps Buchanan, Hendsrsonville; Phil Roberts, Charleston, S. C. with Margee Hartzog, Florence, S. C.; and Harry Easterling, Bennettsville, S. C., with Dee Breslow, Rahway, N. J.

McKey Wins Display Award

John McKey, senior from Putney, Vt., won fourth place in the nationwide window display contest sponsored by Simon and Schuster Publishing Company.

Bookstores all over the nation competed for the best display of "This I Believe" by Edward R. Murrow. McKey won $50 for the Intimate Bookshop with his surrealistic design done in black and white using strings to create a perspective effect.

★ ★



PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre

TONIGHT & SATURDAY
Cornel WILDE · Teresa WRIGHT
CALIFORNIA CONQUEST
Color by TECHNICOLOR
A COLUMBIA PICTURE

FORDHAM UNIVERSITY
School Of Law
NEW YORK
Three-Year Day Course
Four-Year Evening Course
CO-EDUCATIONAL
Member of Assn. of American Law Schools
Matriculants must be College graduates and present full transcript of College Record
Classes Begin Sept. 28, 1953
For further information address
Registrar Fordham University
SCHOOL OF LAW
302 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y.

Leave Your Laundry
— AT —
THE GLEN LENNOX LAUNDROMAT
WHILE YOU SHOP COLONIAL STORE

Carolina
TODAY AND SATURDAY

TREASURE OF THE GOLDEN CONDOR
20th Century-Fox
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
Starring CORNEL WILDE · CONSTANCE SMITH
Finlay Currie · Walter Hampden · Anne Bancroft · George Macready · Fay Wray · Leo G. Carroll
Produced by JULES BUCK · Directed by DELMER DAVES
— PLUS —
CARTOON — NEWS

ACADEMY AWARD
WINNER FOR THE BEST ACTRESS
SHIRLEY BOOTH
"ONE OF THE YEAR'S BEST" — NEW YORK TIMES

BURT LANCASTER
SHIRLEY BOOTH
IN Hal Wallis' PRODUCTION
Come Back, Little Sheba

Co-starring TERRY MOORE with RICHARD JAECKEL
LATE SHOW SAT.
SUNDAY — MONDAY
Carolina

Check IT!

Tire condition . . . a vital element in driving safely through the icy roads of winter. Let our tire expert check now. Drive up today — and every day!

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

CLASSIFIEDS

WANTED 8

STUDENTS FOR SALES WORK. Car required. Drawing account $1.25 per hour plus 6% commission on a nationally advertised product. Write R. B. Windsor, General Delivery, Chapel Hill, N. C.

LOST 12

MAROON SHAEFER FOUNTAIN pen. In vicinity of AROTC Buildings. Reward. Call 91011—Howard Silvers.

FOR RENT OR SALE

LARGE MODERN ELECTRIC Refrigerator, very reasonable. Can be seen in Victory Village. Available immediately. Check at Village office.

Sunny Values for You – at Colonial's
Stokely-Van Camp
PANTRY SHOWER SALE!

It's like pennies from Heaven—the super-savings you'll get on nationally-advertised Stokely and Van Camp products at Colonial Stores during our April Pantry Shower Sale! Save, too, on guaranteed meats and garden-fresh produce at Colonial as well as on dozens of grocery values to make your pantry and refrigerator the best stocked in town! Prove once again that Your Total Food Bill Is Less When You Shop at CS!

COLONIAL STORES MARK OF QUALITY FOODS

SWEET PEAS — Stokely's Finest Honey Pod — 17-OZ. CAN — 23¢
SPINACH — Stokely's Finest Chopped — 17-OZ. CAN — 17¢
TOMATOES — Stokely's Finest Mostly Whole — 17-OZ. CAN — 27¢
HOMINY — Van Camp's Improved — 1-LB CAN — 10¢

STOKELY'S TINY GREEN LIMAS 2 FOR 49¢ NO. 303 CAN
Stokely's FINEST GREEN LIMA BEANS
Stokely's FINEST CUT GREEN BEANS
STOKELY'S CUT GREEN BEANS 2 FOR 39¢ NO. 303 CAN

Van Camp's SPANISH RICE 15-OZ. CAN 23¢

Special Bonus Buy!
Save $2.50 on "Val-Keen" 50-ft. Plastic GARDEN HOSE
Regular $5.99 Value — $3.49
Guaranteed 5 Years. Get Yours Today!

TENDER PLUMP DRESSED & DRAWN FRYERS
TRAY CUT LB. 51¢ | WHOLE LB. 49¢

Serve with Chicken!
OCEANSPRAY CRANBERRY SAUCE 1-LB CAN 20¢

FRESH TENDER GOLDEN BANTAM CORN ON THE COB 5 EARS 25¢
FANCY FULL POD TENDER ENGLISH SWEET PEAS LB. 10¢
NEW CROP YELLOW ONIONS U. S. NO. 1 3 LBS. 17¢
FANCY JUICY SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES 5 LBS. 30¢
FIRM MEDIUM SIZE GREEN CABBAGE 2 LBS. 9¢

STOKELY'S FINEST WHITE OR GOLDEN CREAM CORN 17-OZ CAN 23¢
STOKELY'S FINEST FANCY GREEN TURNIP GREENS NO. 2 CAN 17¢
STOKELY'S FINEST SAUERKRAUT CHOPPED 17-OZ. CAN 17¢ SHREDDED NO. 2½ CAN 25¢
STOKELY'S FINEST SMALL WHOLE WHITE POTATOES 17-OZ. CAN 17¢
STOKELY'S FINEST TENDER WHOLE KERNEL GOLDEN CORN 17-OZ. CAN 23¢

Buy the Fryer Pieces You Like . . .
TENDER MEATY WHITE BREAST LB 89¢
FRYER LEGS AND THIGHS LB 79¢
GRAND FOR POT PIES—FRYER WINGS LB 45¢
FOR GIBLET STEW—HEARTS AND GIZZARDS LB 39¢
FRYER NECKS AND BACKS LB 23¢

Armour's Star or Swift's Premium FRANKS 1-LB CELLO 49¢
Tender and Meaty PORK ROAST
RIB END LB. 49¢ | LOIN END LB. 53¢
THICK WHITE SALT PORK FAT BACK LB 15¢
NUTRITIOUS SLICED BEEF LIVER LB 59¢
CHEF'S PRIDE CHOPPED BARBECUE 12-OZ. CUP 73¢
CHEF'S PRIDE PREPARED COLE SLAW 1-LB CUP 25¢
GORTON'S RED PERCH FILLET 1-LB. CELLO 35¢

Driscoll Fresh-Frozen STRAWBERRIES Special Value! 12-OZ. PKG. 29¢
Seabrook Farms Fresh-Frozen SWEET PEAS Special Value! 2 10-OZ. PKGS. 35¢

NABISCO VANILLA WAFERS 12-OZ 33¢
PLANTER'S COCKTAIL SALTED PEANUTS 8-OZ 37¢
PURE MILD SOAP IVORY 2 LGE. 27¢
FLOATING SOAP IVORY 4 PERS 21¢
IVORY SOAP FLAKES LGE 27¢
BEAUTY SOAP CAMAY 3 REG 23¢
SILVER LABEL TEA ¼ LB 23¢ ½ LB 43¢
OUR PRIDE OLD FASHIONED BREAD 1-LB LOAF 15¢
OUR PRIDE RAISIN BREAD 1-LB LOAF 19¢
SPRY VEGETABLE SHORTENING 3-LBS 89¢
DEEP-CLEANING OXYDOL LGE. 29¢
FOR "DIRTY DIRT" LAVA SOAP 2 REG 21¢

Special Value!—CS 3-Layer Fruit Spice CAKE BIG 3-LB SIZE 79¢
Colored Quarters Margarine NUTREAT 1-LB QTRS. 21¢
America's Favorite Bleach CLOROX QUART BOTTLE 17¢

KILL BUGS 3 WAYS WITH REAL-KILL
PINT BOTTLE 69¢ 12 OZ CAN $1.47

Entertaining? GET NANCY CARTER'S NEW Free RECIPE BOOKLET...
NOW AVAILABLE AT ALL COLONIAL STORES!
Save At Colonial!

• Corner Franklin & Graham Sts. TWOSTORES • Glen Lennox

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Showers and much colder with 50 high. Yesterday's high and low, 75 and 45.

The Daily Tar Heel

SHEBA
The reviewer makes an unqualified recommendation. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 132 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, APRIL 19, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

WALLIN SCORES 2 TO PACE 20-14 BLUE WIN

High Schoolers Sample Day Of Carolina Life

Over 3,000 high schoolers viewed Carolina yesterday during the tenth anual High School Day. The Blue-White game drew the greater share of their interest in a day crammed with activities.

The blue jean and coke set toured the campus, saw exhibits and demonstrations and learned about courses from the Admissions Office in their one day sample of Carolina Life.

The day started early for the visiting high school students who registered at the Old Well at 8 a.m. University Club members served as the host committee throughout the morning. The guests saw radio station WUNC in action, a movie about Carolina, scientific exhibits in Phillips Hall and Venable, psychology demonstrations in New West and the Morehead Planetarium show.

Hill Hall musicians entertained the group with a half hour of bright tunes. Divers exhibited their skill at Bowman-Gray indoor pool and a morning varsity tennis match put Carolina against Wake Forest.

A gymnastics exhibition was put on in Woollen Gym and the Playmakers Theater echoed with the histrionic sounds of 50 one - act plays, part of the Carolina Dramatic Festival.

Alpha Phi Omega, campus service fraternity, and members of other campus fraternities and sororities conducted tours of the campus.

Morehead Planetarium accommodated the young people with five showings of its production, "Easter, The Awakening."

English Essay Contest Open To Non-Majors

The College English Association is holding a contest on "What English Departments Should Do For Students Not English Majors."

The Contest is open to all junior and senior undergraduates who are not English majors. First prize essay winner will receive $100 in cash, and the essay will be published in the CEA Critic.

Essays should discuss the aims, of the English Department, its purpose, desired results, and the means to achieve them. They should not exceed 1,200 words.

Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, May 17, 1953. They should be in sealed envelopes bearing the statement, "My essay submitted to the College English Association Prize Contest, 1953," followed by the signature of the contestant, the name and address of his college, and his own address.

A statement from the head of the English Department that the contestant is a junior or senior student and not an English major must accompany the essay.

The entries must be double-spaced typescript, and each page, upper left, must bear the name and address of the author. They should be addressed to: Executive Secretary, College English Association, Box 472, Amherst, Mass.

Cosmopolitan Club

"The United Nations in World Disputes" will be the topic for the Cosmopolitan Club meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Graham Memorial. Dr. Dwight Rhyne of the University Extension Division will lead a discussion following the showing of a film on the UN.

Freshman Camp

Charles Wolf and Bennett Meyers, temporary co-chairmen of the Freshman Camp Planning Committee, said yesterday that applications are being received for the position of permanent chairman of the 1953 Freshman Camp. Those who are interested in applying for this position of leadership, should leave their names with Miss Irene McDonald in the YMCA Office tomorrow before 4:30.

Brown Favors Stilwell For Veep In Runoff

Bill Brown, defeated independent vice presidential candidate, yesterday gave his support to Jack Stilwell (UP) in the runoff with Baxter Miller (SP).

Brown drew only 534 votes to Miller's 857 and Stilwell's 923 in last week's election. The runoff is Wednesday.

"I sincerely appreciate the support I was given in the primary election," said Brown. "I now hope my supporters will vote in the runoff election. My support must be for Jack Stilwell.

"Jack has spent two years in the student legislature and that, together with his other student government work makes him well qualified for the vice presidency. It is my sincere belief he will do a good job as vice president if elected."

Brown is a former SP leader. He went independent last month making his bid for the vice presidency.

The independent's campaign was launched on a "let's bring student government back to the students" basis.

REV. JAMES B. ORTH

Mission Here Offers Talks By Rev. Orth

A Student Vestry-sponsored preaching mission led by the Rev. James B. Orth will open today at the Chapel of the Cross.

Mr. Orth will preach at morning prayer today and will also speak at 7:30 p.m. tonight, tomorrow and Tuesday night. The talks will be held at the Chapel of the Cross Episcopal Church.

Informal discussion groups will also be held in the living room of the Parish House following each of the evening talks.

Mr. Orth is Chaplain to Episcopal students at the University of Florida. He addressed the Canterbury Conference which was held at Montreat last December.

In addition to the talks and discussions, the Holy Communion will be celebrated tomorrow and Tuesday mornings at 7 a.m. as part of the program of the mission. There will also be a discussion in the Parish House on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

This preaching mission is one of the series which the Student Vestry of the Chapel of the Cross has conducted over the past three years.

SICK AND WOUNDED COMMUNIST PRISONERS of war who staged a sit-down strike aboard the vessel which brought them to Pusan, Korea, from the Cheju prison camp, walk down the gangway after United Nations troops arrived on the scene. The Reds, some of the more than 6,000 who are to be exchanged, refused to leave the ship until bayonet and tear gas armed soldiers arrived on the docks.—NEA Telephoto.

Simpson-McConnell—A Family Team

Father - Daughter Educators Reunite On University Faculty

By Elizabeth Alexander

A father-daughter team is hard to beat, and this one forms a rapport between Harvard University and this University.

The team got together in Chapel Hill this week and no doubt full reports on both institutions were exchanged.

Former Brigadier General James S. Simmons (U.S.A. ret), now Dean of Harvard School of Public Health who attended the national meeting of the Association of Schools of Public Health in Chapel Hill, got a behind-the-scenes view from his attractive daughter, Mrs. Frances Simmons McConnell, administrative assistant on the Continuation Education Program of UNC's School of Public Health.

Dean Simmons is author of a number of books and articles on experimental bacteriology, preventive medicine and tropical medicine.

He has been awarded the Sternberg Medal, the Sedgwick Memorial Medal, the USA Typhus Commission Medal, the Carlos J. Finlay Medal, the Walter Reed Medal, and the Distinguished Service Medal.

Mrs. McConnell began her duties with the School of Public Health here last February. She graduated from Sweet Briar College and took her master of science degree in public health here in 1951.

She has been information analyst for the American Red Cross and was associated with the Chronic Disease Division of the U. S. Public Health Service before coming to Chapel Hill.

Seasons Show Set To Open At Planetarium

Final showings of "Easter, The Awakening" will be given at the Morehead Planetarium through tomorrow night. Today's performances wil be at 2,3,4, and 8:30 p.m.

The popularity of the Easter story is attested by the fact that more than 15,000 visitors have witnessed it since opening on March 24.

On Tuesday, a new presentation entited "Reasons for the Seasons" will open. Several special demonstrations of this showing are completely sold out.

"The causes and effects of certain physical factors involved in bringing about our seasonal sycle will be presented in this program," Manager A. F. Jenzano said. "Contrary to a common misbelief, seasonal changes are not due to the varying distance between the sun and the earth as it travels in its elliptical orbit about the sun.

"Actually, we are closest to the sun in the winter and farthest in the summer! Adults and children alike will find "Reasons for the Seasons" a very interesting and illuminating presentation," he added.

CAMPUS SEEN

High School students in Rendezvous Room wildly cheering antics of exhibitionist Carolina piano player.

Tardy prof greeted with full class commends students. Back row comments, "'Tis only eight minutes past the hour." Prof replies, "Scared instead of faithful, eh?" Student squelch: "No, only law abiding."

Map Stealers, Duelers Are On The Loose

Spring-like weather probably wasn't the reason, but no other explanation was offered as to why a student would steal a may of North Carolina from the office of a dormitory housemother while two other gay blades carried on a French-accented epee duel in the Y Court Saturday morning at 3 a.m.

The duel happened after four students marched into the Y Court with epees and masks. Two of the students acted as seconds while the other two battled around the Y Court like two characters out of an Arabian movie. After several parries and a couple of thrusts they left.

Sometime near the coed curfew hour last night, a thief with a liking for North Carolina history stole into the office of Mrs. Sedalia Gold, housemother of Smith Dormitory.

One From Mitchell Society Here

Bureau Chief Astin Retained After Stormy Protests Filed

WASHINGTON, April 18—(Special) — Secretary of Commerce Weeks, faced with stormy protests over his ouster of Dr. Allen V. Astin as director of the National Bureau of Standards, announced last night that Astin will remain in the post for several months.

Then he will be given a job of comparable grade where, Weeks said, his abilities will be used "in the national interest." Weeks said he had never questioned the integrity of Astin or the bureau.

One of the many protests filed with Weeks came from the 69-year-old Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society at the University of North Carolina. The society is composed of faculty members and research staff of the various science departments of the University.

"We, along with other scientists in the world over, have had complete confidence in the Bureau, in its personnel and in the integrity of its reports," the resolution to Weeks stated.

The resolution passed this week by the society called the dismissal "incomprehensible" and "inconsistent with the administration of the government of a free and democratic people."

Following is the complete text of the resolution:

"Therefore be it resolved: 1. That the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society voice its objection to the manner in which Secretary Weeks has summarily dismissed the Director of the National Bureau of Standards. since such methods are an affront to science and scientists.

"2. That the Elisha Mitchell Society deplores the intimation by Secretary Weeks that 'the play of the market place' should color the objective reports emanating from the National Bureau of Standards, for if such a policy should ever be adopted, the value and integrity of the Bureau would be completely destroyed.

"3. That the Elisha Mitchell Society call upon the Secretary of Commerce, and if necessary ask Congress to intervene, to have an impartial and unbiased committee, composed of experts, examine at the earliest possible date into the merits of AD-X2 and related substances, rendering a full report and interpretation of their findings to interested scientific bodies and to the public. This is essential and necessary for the following reasons:

"(a) If the implications of the Secretary of Commerce are true that the Bureau of Standards is guilty of issuing prejudicial and unbiased reports, and, therefore, is no longer the impartial fact-finding body it is designed and we still believe it to be, then the sooner the matters are aired and corrected, the better.

"(b) If the accusations of the Secretary of Commerce are without foundation, the Bureau deserves to have its name cleared promptly so that the public may continue its reliance on the Bureau and its reports with renewed confidence."

Annillo QB Standout; Whites Nearly Get Tie

By Tom Peacock

Fullback George Wallin scored twice to give the Blue team a 20-14 edge over an evenly matched White team before 6,000 people in the annual Carolina intra-squad game at Kenan Stadium yesterday.

The game ended with the Whites only nine yards away from the tieing score after driving 81 yards from their own 10.

White quarterback Carman Annillo turned in the game's most outstanding individual performance, scoring one touchdown, passing for another, and getting off runs of 35 and 29 yards.

Blue		White
17	First Downs	11
225	Yards Rushing	223
23	Yards Passing	51
248	Total Yards Gained	274
31.6	Punting Average	33.8
7	Passes Attpt.	9
1	Passes Comp.	4
1	Passes Inter.	1
3	Fumbles	2
2	Fumbles Lost	1
15	Penalties	40

Carolina's coaches and fans got their first look at the new one platoon system, but the quarterback problem is still unsolved. Besides Annillo, his freshman teammate, Doug Farmer, turned in a creditable job, as did Blue quarterbacks Charlie Motta and Lou Britt.

Marshall Newman, freshman who ended the season last year as first string quarterback, played a few minutes at halfback, but an injured thumb prevented him from working under the center.

The Whites, captained by fullback Bob White, jumped into a 7-0 lead with only 2:32 gone of the first quarter. End Don Mainer set up the touchdown inside the Blue 30 yard line by recovering Flo Worrel's fumble.

On fourth down, Annillo ran to his left, was trapped, and threw from the 27 by end Dick Starner on the five. Motta batted the ball, but Starner made a desperate catch as he fell into the end zone for the score. Halfback Billy Williams converted.

The Blues got the score back with five minutes left in the period. After taking Williams punt to the White 36 yard line, Motta directed Parker and Wallin down to the five where Wallin bulled over. A bad center prevented Motta's attempt at the conversion, and White kept a 7-6 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The Blues struck again with 7:13 away in the second quarter to climax an 84-yard sustained drive. Lou Britt directed Blue backs E. C. Smith, J. C. DeWeese, Sonny Ridenhour and other down the field, and threw a 10 yard pass to end Van Weatherspoon to set up the score. Weatherspoon took the toss on the White 25, raced to the 10, and Deweese scored two plays later from the one-half yard line to put the Blues ahead, 13-7.

Linebacker Paul Hursh intercepted Motta's pass on the Blue 35 to put the White team in scoring position. Annillo kept the ball on the option, swung around left end, picked up some good blocking and scored standing up with 12:33 gone.

(See BLUE-WHITE, page 4)

CUSC Groups Aren't Official, Says Horton

By Louis Kraar

What President-elect Bob Gorham will do about student consolidation is anybody's guess. But outgoing President Horton, of the same party, has voiced some definite views on the situation.

"I don't think that any of the Carolina groups were authorized to represent Carolina," commented Ham Horton on last week's Consolidated University Student Council meeting in Greensboro.

Horton's remarks were directed at the meeting of the three school student government group which he has already said doesn't exist anymore. The controversy started last month when Jim Adams, head man for Carolina in CUSC, and President Horton quit the big council.

"In spite of the difficulties that we have had in getting our feelings across to the students, I want to tell them how much I appreciate the many men in the dorms and houses who have told me that they backed our stand," continued the student body president.

"Space doesn't permit a complete explanation of my feelings," he pointed out, "but I hope the students will have confidence that everything we've done has been in a sincere effort to protect Carolina."

Adams quit the group, he said, because it was serving as a "gag for student opinion." Horton's objections have been that the CUSC could develop into a super student government under its present setup and be supreme over the campus student government. Horton also contends that since the problems of the three schools are different, they must be handled separately.

WC spokesmen said last week that Horton started efforts to break down CUSC last fall. Horton said that it was not true.

"I want to reorganize so that it (CUSC) can't work to erect a super student government that will choke out Carolina's independence," Horton declared.

Carolina actually had three different groups at the CUSC meeting last week — original CUSC members, four more appointed by the Legislature and President Horton's CU Day Committee.

Tom Sully, CUSC president and a Carolina student, recognized all but Horton's committee. And committee members said they were only representing Carolina as far as the day's plans were concerned.

The CUSC, according to its constitution, acts as a liaison between the Consolidated University administration and students. It is made up of 11 delegates from each of the University branches.

The big student council decided that it still exists and that Horton is still a member, whether he likes it or not. The CUSC said that Horton, by virtue of being Carolina's president, is a member of CUSC.

"I had not realized that CUSC had already become so powerful that it could take upon itself the duties of our own student Council," commented Horton.

Lifesaving

Senior Lifesaving Courses have begun at the indoor pool, but it's not too late to get in a class of you want to.

The first meeting of class number one will be at the pool tomorrow at 4:30. Class number two meets for the first time Tuesday night at 7 o'clock.

Dorm Men

Tomorrow is the last day for men students to reserve dormitory rooms for summer school or the fall semester, the housing office said yesterday.

The same deadline applies to men who want to get preference in their room assignment. Deposits are payable to the University cashier in the basement of South Building. It's $15 for summer and $6 for fall.

The housing office also gave the answers to some current questions about what Winston Dorm will be used for next year. The Division of Health Affairs will use the west end of Winston, all four floors, beginning June 1. Men now occupying these rooms will be given some preference in reassignments, but they must abide by tomorrow's deadline as everyone else.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

The Map Hunter

The American people are known for heir keen appreciation of souveniers and momentos. When the U. S. S. Missouri returned from the Pacific after the signing of the Japanese surrender, and visitors came aboard, they tried to take everything away with them. We imagine that a few stouthear ed thing away with hem. We imagine that a few stouthearted souls had in mind the anchors for a special momento, but couldn't quite carry them away.

Locally we see another example of this yen for souvenirs. A visitor took a fancy to a North Carolina map from Smith Dormitory. The visitor could have taken a chair, a pillow or even a curain, but he wanted to show off his education. Nothing less than a map would do.

High Schoolers And UNC

The Daily Tar Htel welcomes the more than 3,000 high schoolers who have been visiting here this weekend.

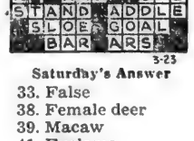
We hope that these visitors, many of them future collegians, will consider Carolina as their college. UNC is more than a Blue-White game, more than a colorful campus in Springtime. although these things are part of the Chapel Hill atmosphere. Carolina is the best place we know of to satisfy your curiosity, to get more out of the process of thinking than you ever have before, to meet and get to know people from all over the state and nation, and to enjoy your personal interests more fully through extracurriculars.

Carolina is your state university. It offers to you a wide variety of curricula. We look forward to seeing you in September.

Action And AKPsi

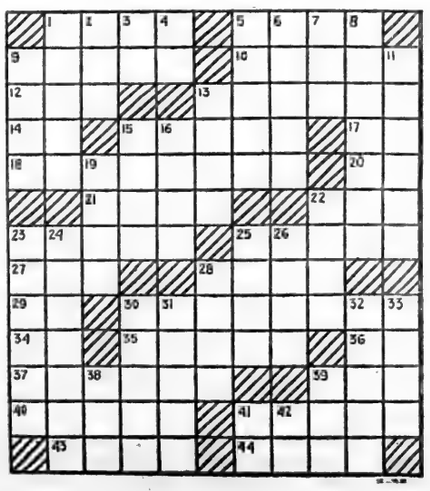
Alpha Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi has become the nation's top business fraternity chapter principally because of the work of its outgoing president, Rush Jordan.

Under Jordan's leadership, AKPsi presented a Faculty Awards Banquet honoring eight members of the faculty of the School of Business Administration who had served the University for 25 years or more. AKPsi sponsored the 1953 Easter Seal campaign for Orange County. Jordan brought recognition not only to his fraternity but to he School of recognition no only to his fraternity but to the School of Business and the University when AKPsi made Governor William Umstead and Carl G. McCraw, president of Union National Bank of Charlotte as honorary members.



AKPsi gave a rousing reception to new faculty members and their wives the first Sunday evening of the school year in September. About 250 guests participated.

Jordan's chief contribution to the campus has been his working conception of a professional fraternity. Service and AKPsi go hand and hand. The Daily Tar Heel believes that any kind of a fraternity, but particularly, a professional fraternity, should have as one of its primary goals, service to the campus. AKPsi has richly succeeded in fulfilling this goal. We feel that it will continue to actively contribu e o he We feel that it will con inue o ac ively contribute to the School of Business and the campus.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Pineapple (Sp.)
5. Troublesome child
9. People of Denmark
10. Deposits of metal
12. A diving bird
13. Near the tail
14. Part of "to be"
15. Set out to grow
17. Symbol for sodium
18. Succession
20. And (L.)
21. Incite
22. One-spot card
23. Watches secretly
25. Heavy, clumsy ships
27. Feline
28. A scroll
29. Gold (Her.)
30. Volatile liquids, as turpentine
34. Music note
35. Hebrew prophet
36. Cry of pain
37. A salad plant
39. Polynesian drink
40. Rock
41. Residence of Moslem women
43. Prophet
44. Jewish month

DOWN
1. Hesitate
2. Writing fluid
3. Neon (sym.)
4. Roman pound
5. Alpine peak
6. Way
7. Find the sum
8. New Jersey town
9. Raised platform
11. Political tickets
13. Walking stick
15. Unadulterated
16. Supports
19. Stop
22. River (Eur.)
23. Scratches
24. One's father and mother
25. Sharpen a razor
26. Forearm bone
28. Ascend
30. Belonging to thee
31. Waver
32. Wanderer
33. False
38. Female deer
39. Macaw
41. Exclamation
42. Public notice

Saturday's Answer

A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

Constructive Destruction

Recently I have been accused of pessimism, cynicism, and destructive purposes. Further, I'm told that I am a complete misfit and the best thing for me and for everybody else is for me to quit school and go join the Foreign Legion. Even a New England grandmother, who fancies herself a psychoanalyst, has said mean things about me and my poor little pitiful column in The Daily Tar Heel. I am beginning to feel like the animals in Pogo who have been told by the mole to migrate somewhere.

The big gripe about my columns is that the criticisms are destructive rather than constructive. In a sense, I admit this. Because: (1), I'm just a student and what I'm criticizing is institution. It's like an ant trying to gnaw through a 150 year old oak tree. (2) The field of education is not bad enough yet to need the drastic changes I advocate. It isn't impossible to get an education yet; it's just improbable that you will, particularly at college. But just because nobody pays any attention to my criticisms, does that necessarily mean that they are wholly destructive? For within the criticisms are obviously - implied suggestions and alternatives.

I am dissatisfied with college. This is my last quarter here. That makes thirty six courses for me, and thirty one different professors. Of the thirty one, there have been four who were not bores, who were not bored with everything but books and scholarship, who encouraged originality (even when the originality wasn't any good), who had a fresh outlook, who had something to add to the textbook, who were in the stream of life.

I am not saying that my other twenty seven courses were wasted. Far from it. I had a course last quarter which was by far the worst course I ever had, but I got a lot out of it. I got a lousy grade, but there were many things in the course which brought into clear focus nearly everything that I despise, nearly everything that, in my opinion, epitomizes what is wrong with the field of education today. Yes, you can learn something from a fool, and from a bore too, if you can stay awake. And for this reason, I'm glad I came to college. I think that the four stimulating professors, and the twenty seven bores too, have given me a start towards an education. I want to get one anyhow.

But the college can give a man more than just a start. The college can't give a man an education or make him a "complete man", but it can get him farther along his way than it does.

Following are some constructive suggestions that will also not be taken any time soon, if at all:

(1) In lieu of a history course that covers three hundred years sketchily, teach one that covers fifty years, so that you can get below the facts and appreciate the whys of the whens, wheres and whats.

(2) Encourage class discussion and have the students write essays, lots of essays, on the subject. Writing necessitates organization of material, and by expressing himself in a somewhat organized fashion, the student can learn more about how he thinks about things, can develop his own philosophy rather than adopt that of another. For a man's philosophy is of value only to himself, and only if he thinks it out by himself.

(3) Give open book quizzes. Give the students the facts and ask them to explain them. Don't give multiple choice exams so that the student has to stay up all night memorizing a bunch of jarbled facts which are as isolated from one another as a bunch of islands in the Pacific.

(4) Make the students think. Give quizzes every once in a while without the facts. Ask them to speculate and guess and reason out and theorize. As a hypothetical example: What are the Russians up to? Or who's going to win the American league pennant and why?

(5) The main thing is to arouse the student's interest in a subject before you choke him with facts and more facts, for if you don't he will forget everything including the facts as soon as the course is over.

What the student will remember when he gets out of here will not be the factual data. He will remember that he either got some of his questions answered or he did not. And if he did, more questions sprung up, like the heads of the Hydra. It is fun to have questions to ask.

(Oh, yes, I almost forgot. A good (6) would be to ask the teachers to place a little more emphasis on teaching and less on research.)

"Try It Again, Men, And Be Sure You Get This Answer"

Norman Jarrard

Reviews

It's an especial pleasure to review the books for this week. First there is New Voices: American Writing Today (Permabook, 50c). When placed beside the two volumes of Mentor's New World Writing and Pocket Book's Discovery, an impressive advance is shown in the past year in the recognition and encouragement of serious new writers and experimental writing. New Voices includes 62 short pieces of fiction and poems. Most of them are among the first things ever published by their authors. The only name I recognized was that of William Styron, who contributes "A Moment in Trieste." The story dramatizes a minor anti-American incident. It has Faulknerian narration and Hemingwegian dialogue and character names (Nick, Doc, and Maria).

Marilyn Kalb has an interesting poem, "Eve's Return (In the Garden of the Museum Rodin)," and William Alfred impresses with two scenes from a projected play, Agamemnon. T. L. Berger's "April is the Cruelest Month," a story of a youth's reaction to his mother's death, dwindles into symbolism. Rebecca Boorstein has two interesting pieces. The humorous one, "Bathroom Dilemma," tells of a girl who lets a potential friendship be broken up because she thinks her friend knows that she didn't wash her hands after leaving the bathroom since she forgot to simulate the sound of washing by turning on the water.

Fancies and Goodnights (Bantam, 35c) is a collection of 50 of John Collier's short stories. One of the more famous ones is Thus I Refute Beelzy. A father is going to punish his son for not admitting that his playmate is merely imaginary. The son says, "He said he wouldn't let anyone hurt me. He said he'd come like a lion, with wings on, and eat them up." The son is spanked and guess what son is spanked and guess what happens?

Stories of Sudden Truth (35c & $1.50), one of the new Ballantine Books, contains 20 stories by such authors as Hersey, O'Connor, Capote, Welty, Caldwell, Saroyan, Anderson. John Hersey's "Peggety's Parcel of Shortcomings" is an inconsequential story about a fat girl a stinking salmon she has to carry around, and her date. Capote's "The House of Flowers" is interesting, as are all of his stories. It is about Haiti and casting spells. His figures of speech, as usual, are fresh: "If you're in love you feel as though pepper has been sprinkled on your heart, as though tiny fish are swimming is your veins." "He's staring at you like you were something cold to drink." "Her smile was fragmentary, it clung to her lips like cake crumbs."

Last for today and probably the best, is Permabook's 7 Arts (50c), edited by Fernando Puma. It has 48 pages of reproductions and 22 articles. Of the reproductions, I liked Saul Baizerman's "Crucifixion" and Kathe Kollwitz's "Death Holds Young Girl." Among the articles, Priestley's "Decline of English Criticism" notes "the absence from the field of criticism of large creative personalities capable of surveying all the major work of the time." William Carlos Williams, in "The Present Relationship of Prose to Verse," asks for new verse rhythms and thinks they may be found in "common prose usages." In "The Artist and Society," Thomas Mann defines, "The artist is not originally a moral being but an aesthetic one, has primary drive being not virtue but play —not virtue but virtuosity, as it were." He quotes Goethe to the same effect: "A work of art may have a moral effect, but to demand moral purpose from the artist is to make him ruin his job."

John Taylor

"Come Back, Little Sheba"

From the moment Shirley Booth makes her first entrance in "Come Back, Little Sheba," groping her way down a staircase in early morning, to the final scene in which she pathetically acknowledges that Little Sheba, her puppy, is not going to come back, it is quite clear for all to see that she more than lives up to the contention of her many devoted fans that she is the new first lady of the American theatre. Miss Booth and company will be at the Carolina beginning today for a regular run.

In "Come Back, Little Sheba" she is re-creating her stage role of Lola Delaney, the dowdy, frumpy house wife who so longs for security and the love of her husband, Doc (Burt Lancaster). Since she has played Lola a great many times, she has had opportunity to develop the character into an alive, multi-dimensional person. Her Lola is a sloppy, comic individual on the surface, but one who wants desperately to be loved. Her myriad little gestures of attempting to make herself neat when she hasn't the ability to do so, fear and desperation, and final resignation to the life which she must lead are perfect in every shading and nuance of character. It is a completely understanding and sensitive performance of a difficult part.

Lola and Doc Delaney live a hum-drum existence. Doc, a promising medical student, had by necessity become a chiropractor, when he had had to marry Lola. Once a violent drinker, he became a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, and he and Lola settled down to a life of toleration and one sided love on her part. Their life is thrown out of balance when they take in a pretty college girl, Marie, (Terry Moore) as a boarder. Both see her as a symbol of pure, fresh youth—something that they had lost long ago. When Doc mistakenly comes to the conclusion that Marie is sleeping with the college athlete (Richard Jaeckel), he goes on a binge and tries to kill Lola. He is taken off by the AA's and Lola, saddened, but enlightened by the experience, is attempting to rebuild their marriage as the film ends.

If by this thumb nail description of the plot, the movie seems like a cheap, radio serial sob story, it is more than made up for in the powerful scenes and telling detail that playwright William Inge has injected into it and by Daniel Mann's skillful direction. Structurally, there is too much time allotted to the scenes following the climactic murder attempt, but since some of the most beautiful moments occur in this period there seems to be nothing that can be done about it.

Burt Lancaster should be commended for tackling a role which requires something more than swinging from the mast of a ship, but unfortunately his characterization lacks the depth and feeling that the part of Doc demands. Terry Moore strangely enough proves that she can act, and her Marie emerges as just the right mixture of the young vixen and the scared little girl. The rest of the well-chosen cast contribute commendable performances.

But this is primarily Queen Shirley Booth's movie, and everybody who wishes to see a job of acting that they will not soon forget, should make tracks for the Carolina without delay.

Ron Levin

Passing Remark

Saw Fred Lippman, Len Gredsky, and Larry Maslou trucking a keg of beer down the sidewalk Friday afternoon. What's up men, going in the wholesale business? Speaking of beer, the state authorities came out and took a sample of Hogan's Lake water to be tested in Raleigh. Results of test: 86% Blue Ribbon, 6% Schlitz, 4% Budweiser, and 4% R. C. Cola. Heard that the University Carnival was a great success, but one of the wiser guys put dilute acid solution in the water pistol he shot at the scantily clad coed, and in a few minutes, she was even less scantily clad. (That sulfuric is potent stuff).

★

Was over at Duke Friday night, and as I was leaving saw a bunch of amorous males serenading the females in Jarvis House. Was enjoying it all, until the men in blue came along and decided the males were singing off key. Tough luck, men.

★

Yesterday was Senior Day, and I never saw so many up flaps, duck tails, sixteen inch drapes, and black suedes in all my life. But if you find yourself laughing at it, just think back two or three years, and it ain't funny.

★

Was in the Varsity Saturday afternoon watching the "Rambling Gambler", and noticed a crowd of Theta Chi's trying to impress three high school female seniors, so they thought until they found out they were in the ninth grade. Some guys have all the breaks. Stay with it, Jerry.

★

Should have been out at the Ranch House Friday night. All the Horace Greeleys and dates had a ball at The Daily Tar Heel Banquet. Hey Dorman . . . here comes Arthur Godfrey.

★

Mickey Spillane's new book came out about a week ago, and since then the lights in Alderman have been burning awful late. Good stuff, huh girls. Ought to try Pinnochio. Not much action, but a darn nice plot. Just ask my friend Beverly.

★

I was in front of Graham Memorial Thursday night, and saw a black '38 Plymouth come tearing down the sidewalk, by G.M., Alumni, cut across to Davie, and thence home to the dorm. Joel, you shouldn't let Chuck egg you on like that! B. C. probably suggested the whole thing. Those boys from the "Rat" are really gone. .. .

★

Came by Hill Hall late Saturday night and heard the craziest bop coming forth from one of the practice rooms. It's that Donnie Harris again, but you can't keep a good High Point man down. Just ask Rab, Morty, or Silver, right boys?

Down In Front

by Biff Roberts

On Blues and Whites

CAROLINA HELD ITS EIGHTH ANNUAL Blue-White game at Kenan Stadium yesterday. The best summation of it would say that it looked like a 1953 version of a slightly improved 1952 team. That's about as good a report as you can give on the final scrimmage of Coach George Barclay's spring practice. It's not an unjust criticism because you can't expect a team to get up to full power for a game in the spring. Then, too, the players were not conditioned like they would be for a regular season contest. The game, as it should be, was for the most part an experimental contest to see exactly who would fit where and how next fall.

Judging the game on an over-all basis, Carolina fans could find little to get excited about. There were a couple of brilliant runs, some good blocks, some good passes—but for the most part the game seemed slow. Perhaps, it was the new NCAA rule which has prohibited the mass substitution we have seen the past few years. But if you look deeper into the outcome of the game you can find a lot of things to cheer about—and you can bet the coaches saw it.

Quarters Give No Quarter

UNFORTUNATELY, MARSHALL NEWMAN, who ran as the number one quarterback last fall, injured his left thumb in practice and was not able to run at quarterback for the Blue team, as scheduled. It would have been pleasing to see his improvement as a split-T director. But, on the other hand, our other quarterbacks looked successful enough. Charlie Motta showed the same fine running game that he displayed last year at quarter and he still seems to be the best man on the option—Newman included in the bargain. But the top run of the day must be credited to Carmen Annillo, a man who has continued to impress in spring games and practice, but who has yet to show his worth in regular games. The run which seemed to stick in most peoples' mind came near the end of the half. The Blues were ahead, 13-7, but the Whites had the ball on the Blue 35-yard line. Annillo took the ball, swept to his left and then did some fine elusive running to go all the way to score.

Another outstanding job came from a young man, new to most Carolina fans. Doug Farmer, who played as the reserve White quarterback, put on a fine exhibition, especially in the final quarter. Farmer, from Pulaski, Va., is a freshman, having just entered this quarter. He stands 5-10 and weighs 165. Despite his age, he seemed to be a veteran when he directed the White drive in the fading minutes of the game. His team took the ball on its own 10-yard line and drove all the way to the Blue nine only to have the clock run out. Farmer did a good bit of running in the drive and seemed to know his business. He made only one pass in the sustained drive, that one on the final play of the game when he advanced the ball from the Blue 20 to the nine. But he is known to be a good passer, having shown well in practice. He should be a good man to watch.

Backs Rush In

MOST OF THE OFFENSIVE EMPHASIS was placed on the running attack and both teams racked up a good amount of yardage. The Blues hit for 225 yards running and the Whites ran for 223. The first string Blue backfield seemed to have the edge, however, and undoubtedly the most consistent runner of the day was rising junior, George Wallin, who seems to be the solution to the fullback problem. He showed tremendous drive yesterday and there's no reason for him to slack off from his fine performance of yesterday. He scored two of the Blue touchdowns, but even more than that he showed the power we have needed at full. Wallin is a rough six-foot 180 pounder.

One of the most exciting plays of the game came when the Whites scored the first touchdown. Annillo heaved a rifle pass to Dick Starner at the edge of the end zone. Charlie Motta, playing safety in this new system which almost annihilates substitution, batted the ball and deflected it but Starner grabbed it as it dropped and fell into the land of touchdowns. Annillo's TD was another great one as was Farmer's 18-yard jaunt for the Whites in that final-quarter drive.

One thing that both teams missedsed was the fine punting we have seen for the past many years. The Blue average for the day was just over 21 yards per try and the Whites could add only a couple of yards to that. Dick Lackey came up with a tremendous boot in the fourth quarter that supplied the game's humorous incident. Kicking from his own 43, the Shelby senior sent one down the middle. His coverers overplayed their hands, however, and in trying to get as much yardage out of the kick as possible, allowed the ball to cross the chalk line for a touchback. Had the ball been stopped just short of the goal, Lackey would have had 55 or 56 yards to his credit. As it turned out his official distance was 37 yards.

Terps Take Thinlies, 79-52; Newton Pulls Leg Muscle

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 18 — (Special) — Maryland's track team had little trouble turning back Carolina's Tar Heels here today, 79-52, in a Southern Conference dual meet.

Jeff Newton, Carolina sprinter and hurdler, pulled a muscle in his leg in the 220-yard dash and may be out for the rest of the season.

One-mile run—1. Osborne (UNC) 2. Goldstein (Md).; 3. Swassord (Md). Time—4:30.9.

440-yard dash—1. Wilson (Md.); 2. Tentzer (Md.); 3. Ray (UNC). Time—:49.4.

100-yard dash—1. Mathews (Md); 2 Newton (UNC); 3. Norquist (Md). :9.9.

120-yard high hurdles—1. Cornell (UNC); 2. Rakow (Md.); 3. Scott (UNC). Time—:'5.1.

880-yard run—1. Thornton (Md.) 2. Newman (UNC); 3. Howard (Md.). Time—1:56.6.

220-yard dash — 1. Mathews (Md.); 2. Norquist (Md.) 3. Stroup (Md). Time—:21.9.

Two-mile run—1. Good (Md); 2. Barden (UNC); Tibbetts (Md.) 9:49.3.

220-low hurdles—1. Scott (UNC); 2. Corbell (UNC); 3. Gaddy (Md.). Time—:25.0.

One-mile relay—1. Maryland. (Coss, Stroup, Tentzer, Wilson): Time—3:26.3.

Shot-put—1. Morris (UNC); 2. Dyson (Md:); 3. Higgins (UNC). Distance—51 feet.

Javelin—1. Isburgh (Md.); 2. Gaddy (Md.); 3, Bell (UNC). Distance—.192 feet.

High Jump—1. Tie between Jordan (UNC); Beuhler (Md.) and Haire (UNC) .Height—5'8".

Broad jump—1. Yarborough (UNC); 2. Stroup (Md.); 3. Jones (Md). Distance—21' 11".

Pole vault—1. Tie between Schwartz and Butler (Md); 3. Yarborough (UNC). Height—12'

Discus—1. Dyson (Md.); 2. Rizzo (UNC); 3. Higgins (UNC). Distance—133' 7¾".

Stickmen Lose To Harvard, 17-6; Harrall High Man With 4 Goals

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 18, (Special)—Carolina's lacrosse team lost its first match of the northern tour today, bowing to Harvard University, 17-6.

The Tar Heels were playing on a dry field for the first time in a week and a half, and were quickly winded by Harvard.

Yesterday, Carolina took its third win of the trip, swamping The Trinity, 11-5.

Dickie Harrall, last year's high scorer for Carolina, finally hit his stride, scoring six goals against The Trninity and four against Harvard.

Carolina scoring: Against The Trinity—Harrall (6), Dawes (3), Ernst, Barclay.

Harvard	4	5	5	3—17
Carolina	0	1	1	4— 6

Netters Win Over Deacs, 9-0

Carolina's tennis team successfully opened its Southern Conference play yesterday morning, defeating Wake Forest, 9-0, for its 14th straight win of the season.

All nine matches were taken in straight sets by the Tar Heels, and Wake Forest never won more than three games in one set.

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) over Allred, 6-0, 6-1; Bradford (UNC) over Memory, 6-0, 6-0; Browne (UNC) over Weathers, 6-1, 6-0; Payne (UNC) over Correll, 6-1, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) Rogers, 6-0, 6-0; Kerdasha (UNC) over Martin, 6-3, 6-0.

Doubles—Bradford and Thompson over Allred and Memory, 6-0, 6-0; Kerdasha and Gustafson (UNC) over Weathers and Daughtrege, 6-0, 6-3; Handel and Smith (UNC) over Correll and Rogers, 6-2, 6-2.

Jayvees Win

Carolina's junior varsity baseball team defeated Wingate Junior College, 10-8 here Friday.

The Tar Heels saw a 4-1 lead vanish in a three-run seventh inning uprising by the visitors but came back in the bottom of the stanza with a barrage of extra base blows to score six runs for the margin.

PREPARE FOR AN EXECUTIVE CAREER IN RETAILING — IN JUST ONE YEAR!

From New York to New Zealand, college graduates converge on "The Retailing Center" to train for an exciting, rewarding career—in just one year! Retailers need you—and look to our graduate school—for future advertising managers, buyers, merchandise managers, fashion executives, store managers, personnel administrators, researchers. Prominent retailers send their sons and daughters to the N.Y.U. School of Retailing to help carry on the family business successfully. Our one-year Master's Degree program includes courses in all branches of retail-store management, under well-known specialists, plus 10 full weeks of supervised executive training, with pay, in leading New York stores, plus valuable store and market contacts.

For details, write for BULLETIN CJ

New York University School of Retailing
100 Washington Equare East, New York 3, New York

JUST RECEIVED

FADED DENIM WALKING SHORTS
$3.50
Six New Colors To Select From

FADED BLUE DENIM ZIPPER JACKETS
$4.95

BUTCHER LINEN HOBBY SLACKS
$5.95
Four New Colors To Choose From

FADED DENIM SLACKS
$4.95
Four New Colors To Select From

New Summer Merchandise arriving daily. Come In While Selections Are Complete

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

WINNER OF THREE ACADEMY AWARDS

SHAMELESS, SEDUCTIVE PARIS... with lifted skirts and open arms she awaits you at the Moulin Rouge!

ROMULUS presents JOSÉ FERRER in John Huston's MOULIN ROUGE
with ZSA ZSA GABOR, SUZANNE FLON and introducing COLETTE MARCHAND
A ROMULUS PRODUCTION • Directed by JOHN HUSTON
Screenplay by Anthony Veiller and John Huston
From the novel "MOULIN ROUGE" by PIERRE LA MURE
Released thru United Artists

...THE MOST STARTLING AND DARING LOVE STORY EVER TOLD!
COLOR BY Technicolor

STARTS THURSDAY
Admission: Adults, Matinee 55c
Children 20c Night 74c
Varsity

Jobs with a future

Every year hundreds of college girls use Gibbs secretarial training to get the right job and assure quick promotion.

Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."

KATHARINE GIBBS
BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth Street

May 10th
MOTHER'S DAY

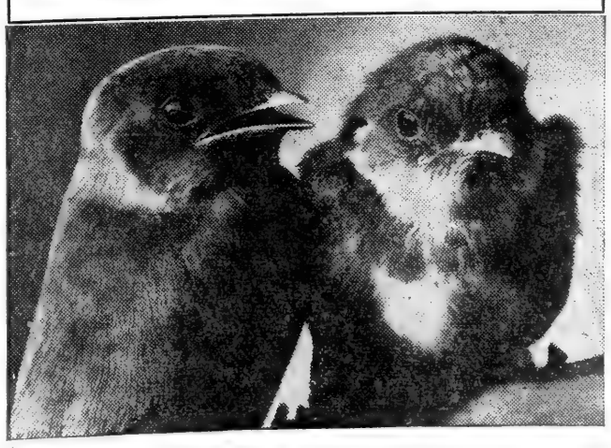
—A DATE TO REMEMBER
—A DAY FOR FLOWERS

UNIVERSITY FLORIST
Robbins Bldg.

Ford Paces Golf Victory Over N. C. State

Billy Ford and George Mountcastle paced Carolina's golf team to its seventh straight victory at the Finley golf Course Friday afternoon as the Tar Heels trounced N. C. State, 23-4.

Ford had a 37-33-70 to take the medalist honors while Mountcastle had even par rounds of 36-36 for a 72. Melvin Deitch paced State with a 35-38—73.



State got three of its four points in the first foursome where Deitch handed Bob Black his first loss of the season, 2-1. Black had a 74. Black teamed with Bill Williamson, however, to beat Deitch and Frank Jones, 2-1.

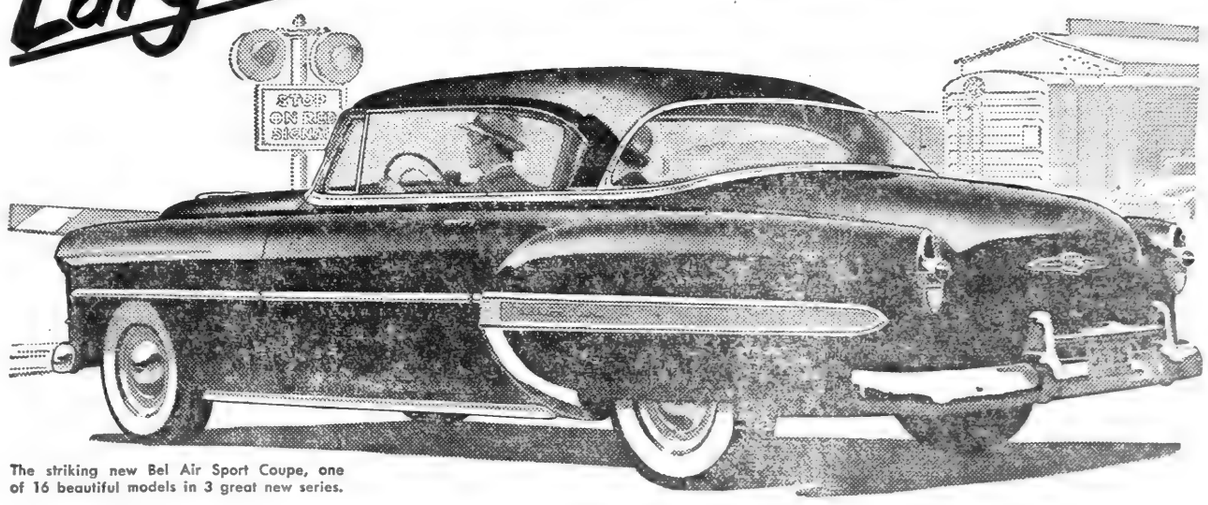
Deitch (State) def. Black, 2-1; Williamson (UNC) def. Jones, 3-0; Black and Williamson def. Deitch and Jones, 2-1.

Ferree (UNC) def. Pete Smith, 3-0; Mountcastle (UNC) def. Bill Smith, 3-0; Ferree and Muntcastle def. Smith and Smith, 2-1.

Ford (UNC) def. Edwards, 3-0; Frazier (UNC) def. Ames, 3-0; Ford and Frazier def. Edwards and Ames, 3-0.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"LISTEN, BIRD-BRAIN, don't get soar, but I cooed never love you," said Sheedy's little chickadee. "Your hair's strictly for the birds! Better remember the tree cardinal rules for social success so you won't be an also-wren. 1. Hop to a toilet goods counter. 2. Peck up a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's Favorite Hair Tonic. Contains Lanolin. Non-alcholic. Grooms the hair. Relieves dryness. Removes goose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. 3. Use it daily and peeple will love you." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil for himself and a diamond wing for his tweetie-pie. Better buy a bottle or tube today. Or ask for it at your barber's. If you don't you're cookoo!



*of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N.Y.
Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.

...and for your safety

Largest Brakes in its field!

with easier action, too!

The striking new Bel Air Sport Coupe, one of 16 beautiful models in 3 great new series.

Chevrolet's improved Velvet-Pressure Jumbo-Drum Brakes give maximum stopping power with maximum ease of application

CHEVROLET
Entirely NEW through and through!

Chevrolet owners have long been convinced that they have the safest as well as the largest brakes on any low-priced car. And that is even more true in 1953.

This year you will find much smoother, more responsive brake action . . . up to 23% less pedal pressure . . . and a softer, more velvety feel of operation.

Realize, too, that here is the only low-priced car with sturdy Fisher Unisteel Construction, Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows of sedans and coupes, extra-easy Power Steering* and many other important safety factors, and you'll understand why owners rate the new Chevrolet tops.

Come in; see and drive this thrillingly advanced car, and we believe you'll place your order now! Optional at extra cost. Power Steering available on all models. Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.*

MORE PEOPLE BUY CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

SEE YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!
Conveniently listed under "Automobiles" in your local classified telephone directory

—Blue-White—

(Continued from page 1)

Williams' conversion gave the Whites the lead at the half, 14-3.

The Blues, captained by tackle Ken Yarborough, took most of the third period to drive 69 yards for their last score. Motta did the generaling, and Wallin was his chief soldier, picking up three first downs on the march. The 180 pound junior fullback scored from the one, end Tom Adler converted, and the Blue squad led, 20-14, at 12:08 of the third period.

The White team started its last drive after an exchange of punts. Doug Farmer led all the way on the ground, but it was the slow route, and the game ended with the Whites perched on Blue's nine yard line on the wrong end of a 20-14 score.

Baseball Team

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 18—(Special) — Pitcher Joe Morgan held Virginia's Cavaliers to eight hits today to give Carolina an 8-5 win over the University of Virginia.

Left-fielder Albert Long led the seven hit Tar Heel attack with two safeties.

USE

DAILY TAR HEEL

WANT ADS

STUDENTS! TEACHERS!

GO TO EUROPE THIS SUMMER

Space Available on Special Student Ships

S.S. AROSA KULM
M/S ANNA SALEN
M/S SKAUBRYN

eastbound	westbound
June 9	Aug. 11
June 16	Aug. 24
June 24	Sept. 2
July 4	Sept. 28

Also other dates

$135 up

COUNCIL ON STUDENT TRAVEL
179 Broadway, New York 7, N. Y.
REctor 2-0936

A DARING RESCUE IN ICY WATERS of the Yellow Sea off the North Korean coast has seen jet ace Capt. Joseph McConnell pulled to safety in near-record time. McConnell had just bagged his 8th enemy MIG when a second Red jet's fire damaged his Sabrejet. The captain bailed out, but within two minutes an Air Force helicopter was on the scene and was lifting him to safety—NEA Telephoto.

Dr. Knight's Fourth History Volume On South Published

The fourth volume of "A Documentary History of Education in the South Before 1860," by Dr. Edgar W. Knight, Kenan professor of educational history in the University, was published this week by the University Press.

The book contains 260 original documents on academies and other private educational activities, including those of fraternal organizations, of manual labor schools, military schools, and collegiate institutions.

It bears the sub-title of "Private and Denominational Educational Efforts."

This volume shows that in the South, as in other parts of the country, academies were numerous but continued to be popular here longer than elsewhere because the public high school, which tended to displace the academy just as the academy had displaced the Latin grammar school of the colonial period, was late in developing in the South.

The three previous volumes of this extensive study were favorably received. On the jacket of this volume appear excerpts from reviews of the earlier volumes.

Prof. E. M. Coulter of the University of Georgia calls the work an "outstanding accomplishment of the preeminent authority of the educational history of the South." D. Hiden Ramsey, Asheville publisher, wrote that the materials were "carefully chosen and skillfully edited; a vast undertaking in scholarship, a finished work in research."

Prof. S. W. Rudy, of Harvard, wrote in "The American Historical Review" that "Professor Knight's brief and incisive educational comments are very helpful in placing al of these documents in their proper social and historical setting."

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 Miles WEST of Carrboro on Rte. 54
TONIGHT & MONDAY
Coldest Crew Since "THE KILLERS"!
THE MOB
BRODERICK CRAWFORD
A COLUMBIA PICTURE

His game is fancy women... his fate is lady luck!
TYRONE POWER
PIPER LAURIE · JULIA ADAMS
in The MISSISSIPPI GAMBLER
filmed in Technicolor
with JOHN McINTIRE · PAUL CAVANAGH
T-O-D-A-Y and MONDAY
Varsity

DON'T FORGET

The Germans Will Be Here This Weekend. Come In And Let Us Help You With Your Formal Needs

—After Six Tux
—After Six Dinner Jackets
—Cummerbund Sets
—Boutonnieres
—All Other Formal Accessories

THE TOWN and CAMPUS

MURALS

Tomorrow's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Delta Sig vs, Phi Delt 1; field 2, Kappa Psi vs. Chi Psi 2; field 3, AK Psi vs. SAE 2; field 4, Zete 2 vs. Sigma Nu 2; field 5, ATO vs. TEP 1; field 6, Connor vs. Everett.

5:00—Field 1, KA vs. DKE 2; field 2, Sigma Chi vs. SPE; field 3, Zete 1 vs. ZBT; field 4, Lambda Chi vs. Phi Delta Chi; field 5, Sigma Nu 3 vs. SAE 1; Winston vs. BVP.

Tomorrow's Tennis

4:00—Lambda Chi vs. Phi Delt 1; Zete 1 vs. Pi Kappa Phi; PiKA vs. Chi Psi 1.

5:00—Aycock vs. Med School 4; Stacy vs. Med School 2; SAE 2 vs. Zete 2.

Tomorrow's Horseshoes

7:00—Phi Delt vs. SPE 3; Beta 1 vs. AK Psi.

7:40—Kappa Sig vs. Phi Gam 2; Sigma Nu 3 vs. SAE 2.

8:20—Phi Gam 1 vs. SPE 1; Zete 2 vs. DKE 1.

PEPSI-COLA
Bottling Company
OF DURHAM
305 South St. Durham

What Goes On Here

Westminster Club

Dr. William Poteat of the Philosophy Department will speak tonight at the Westminster Club meeting at Institute of Pharmacy Building. The topic of Dr. Poteat's address will be "St. Augustine." The address will be proceeded by a supper. All interested persons are invited.

BSU

Dr. R. J. McMullen, acting pastor of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church, will be the featured speaker at the BSU Supper Forum tonight.

The annual BSU Spring retreat will be held next weekend at Albemarle Baptist Church. All reservations must be in to J. C. Herrin before April 20.

New members of the BSU Council are asked to be present at the Sunday morning worship service for ordination services. Students not singing in the choir are asked to meet in the Student Lounge after Sunday School.

Church Of Holy Family

There will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist this morning at 9:30 in the Di Hall in New West. At 11 o'clock there will be morning prayer and sermon in Gerrard Hall.

CPU

The Carolina Political Union tonight will discuss Student Freedom at the University. The CPU meets at 8 o'clock in the Grail Room. All interested students are invited to attend.

Frost Talk

Charles Frost of the Redmond Manufacturing Company and the National Pheumatic Company will speak in 106 Hanes Hall at 7:30 tomorrow night. His subject will be "The Business Executive and the Communist." The publi cis invited.

WUNC

Today's program schedule:
7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime.
7:30—Learning in Later Years.
7:45—Songs of France.
8 p.m.—Little Orchestra Society Concerts.
10 p.m. — News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.
Monday's schedule:
7 p.m.—Stories 'n Stuff.
7:30—Adventures in Research.
7:45—Bonjour Mesdames.
8 p.m.—University of Chicago Roundtable.
8:30—Drama of Poetry.
9 p.m.—British Concert Hall.
10 p.m. — News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

MUST A DAME ALWAYS TAKE A BEATING IN THE BATTLE OF THE SEXES ?

NO, SISTER, NO!
Not If She Visits
The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

COMING THIS WEEK
Your Chance To Join The
DALE FAIRLESS RECORD CLUB
Open Sundays 1-5 p.m.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR RENT OR SALE

LARGE MODERN ELECTRIC REfrigerator, very reasonable. Can be seen in Victory Village. Available immediately. Check at Village office.

UNC Student Gets Columbia Study Award

Archibald L. Patterson of Maxton has been awarded a grant of $1,000 for study in the Russian Institute at Columbia University in 1953-54.

Patterson, a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, is a student of the Russian Language. His major subject is Political Science with a minor in History and Economics. He will specialize in government and law at the Russian Institute.

Patterson took up the study of Russian for the first time last September in the class of W. W. Arndt, assistant for Russian in the curriculum in comparative linguistics.

Butner Youth Center

The YMCA-sponsored deputation to the Youth Center at Camp Butner will take place this afternoon under the leadership of Gil Marsh, YMCA president. Men and women students who are interested in going are asked to meet at the Y this afternoon at 2:30.

In eight years of pitching for the Braves, lefthander Warren Spahn has won 122 games.

3 STORIES FROM "MEXICAN VILLAGE" By Chapel Hill's Own Author JOSEFINA NIGGLI Has Been Brought To The Screen In

TUESDAY—WEDNESDAY
Carolina

ACADEMY AWARD
WINNER FOR THE BEST ACTRESS
SHIRLEY BOOTH
"ONE OF THE YEAR'S BEST" —NEW YORK TIMES

BURT LANCASTER
SHIRLEY BOOTH
in Hal Wallis' PRODUCTION
Come Back, Little Sheba

Co-starring TERRY MOORE with RICHARD JAECKEL
NOW PLAYING
Carolina

Spaulding Air-Flite Golf Balls
THE CAROLINA SPORT SHOP

Sensational New Advance in Golf Clubs

Every club has identical contact feel... amazing ease of shot control

They will do more to save you strokes than any clubs you ever played.

Using an entirely new and exclusive scientific formula, Spalding creates these clubs with centers of gravity in absolutely coordinated sequence. Every wood, every iron, has identical contact feel . . . gives you amazing ease of shot control!

You make tough shots look easy. Your timing is uniform. You get the ball away straighter. You shoot for the pin instead of the green. You get lower scores, consistently.

See your Spalding dealer or golf professional.

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave	25.00 Value	9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave	15.00 Value	6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave	12.50 Value	5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ——— $10 up

Each Wave Includes
- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Fair and warmer with 63 high. Yesterday's high, 55; low, 32.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 133 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | TUESDAY, APRIL 21, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

UBIQUITY
A fellow named Clark is on p. 2 and p. 4 as well as p. 1.

We Honor The Missing

This issue of The Daily Tar Heel is dedicated to those members of the Board of Trustees who have worked incessantly for a greater university over a period of many years.

They are on the Missing Persons list because of the inefficiency in legislative procedure. Many of them are core members of the Trustees. Many have given up valuable time to devote more energy to the furtherance of the University. They are true servants to the people.

We cite the work of Collier Cobb Jr., a member of the Board for the last eight years and chairman of the Carolina committee on buildings. Mr. Cobb spent a great deal of time in developing a concise plan for the University's largest building program in history. His value to the University in the last five years is inestimable.

Another outgoing member is John Sprunt Hill, one of the University's most illustrious alumni and frequent financial helper. The Daily Tar Heel has recommended that Mr. Hill be made a life member of the Trustees.

Still another valuable member is Mrs. Laura Weil Cone of Greensboro. A member of the Executive Committee and chairman of the Woman's College Committee on Buildings of the board, Mrs. Cone has served with distinction for the past 22 years. She has been on other important committees and served admirably on all of them.

The list grows. There is Kenneth Tanner, a generous contributor to the University. Among other things, he gave West House, now used for the University's Development Council office. He is a prominent textile manufacturer from Rutherfordton and has served on the board efficiently and ably.

There is J. Benton Stacy of Ruffin who served on the Campus Stores Committee. Mr. Stacy was also a member of the Visiting Committee and has been on the Board for a number of years. There is George Coble, State College alumnus who, in his first term, has devoted much of his time as a trustee.

Senator J. C. Pittman of Sanford was not renominated. Senator Pittman was one of the leading board members fighting against the institution of Saturday classes.

Mrs. Francis N. Miller of Wake County, and Henry Lineberger of Gaston County are other other board members not selected by the Joint House-Senate Committee.

While there are 100 members on the Board, there are generally a group of key persons who do the most work. This is true of all organizations but particularly of an agency like the Board. To drop these key members who have shown their enthusiasm and capacity to work for the University, is to cut away the very foundations of the policy making body of the Consolidated University.

The Board has gained, in recent years, a great deal of power. Recently, it jumped into an academic and administrative matter by authorizing Saturday classes for Carolina and State. Certain Trustees have taken an increased interest in the University. With such interest and power, the board needs experienced and proven members.

The loss of these worthy members is a strategic and unnecessary blow to the effectiveness of the board as one of the fundamental parts of University government.

Veep Spot Top Ballot In Runoffs

Baxter Miller (SP) and Jack Stilwell (UP) will be up today for the campus' second spot, the vice-presidency, in a runoff election.

The runoff resulted from a three-way race last Wednesday in which no candidate yielded the majority. Independent Bill Brown was the third candidate, and pulled 534 votes. Miller got 857 and Stilwell, 923.

Pete Block and Osborne Lee will compete in the runoff for the junior seat on the Men's Council.

Jane Allen and Carolyn Johnson will be in the runoff for Women's Athletic Association president. Jane Berryhill and Alice Hicks will enter the runoff for WAA vice-president.

Betty Otto Anderson and Rollie Randolph will compete in the race for chairman of the Women's Residence Council.

Election Boarders have made some efforts to get out the vote, but a large vote is not generally cast in the elections of this type. Dusty Lamson, board chairman, asked for volunteer vote counters.

Brown, the SP turned independent who scooped up enough votes votes to necessitate a runoff, came out for Jack Stilwell last week.

Legislators Ready To Elect Trustees In Joint Session

Effort Will Be Made To Return Names Of Hill, Cone, Cobb To Nominations List

The State Legislature will hold a joint session probably today or tomorrow for the purpose of formally electing 28 persons to the University's Board of Trustees.

The session will be clouded by bitter feelings from many points in North Carolina. Such names as John Sprunt Hill, Collier Cobb Jr. and Laura W. Cone, long-time Trustees and devoted supporters of hte University, were not included in the special Trustee committee's nominations submitted April 9.

Friends of these persons are expected to use all the influence they can gather to have the list of nominations revised before the final vote is taken in the General Assembly.

Eyebrows were also raised by the renomination of Trustee John W. Clark of Franklinville. Clark, a free-talking advocate of segregation, was sharply criticized for his February, 1952 "investigation" of two students here. He reasoned that the University had instilled in them some ultra-liberal views concerning race relations. Clark also attacked the Rev. Charles M. Jones for preaching to mixed congregations in his church here.

Hill, donor of Hill Hall and the Carolina Inn among other things, has been a Trustee for about 40 years. He said last week his age and declining health had convinced him of the advisability of not seeking reelection.

Mrs. Cone, a Woman's College alumna, has served on the board for 22 years. The omission of her name incensed her friends in Greensboro.

Cobb, a Chapel Hill insurance and real estate executive, has been a Trustee for eight years. He was chairman of the Building Committee for six years.

Grady Rankin's Plan Failed; Sees No Trustee Floor Fight

His plan had failed and he was unhappy.

"I'm not happy about the selecting method," said Senator R. Grady Rankin of Gastonia and chairman of the Senate Committee on Trustees. His own county doesn't have a representative on the board any longer and Rankin, who had offered a concrete plan for better selection of Trustees, was disappointed about the outcome.

Early in the Legislative year, Rankin had asked the Senate and House to adopt a plan whereby Trustees would be chosen on the basis of ability, geography, and school representation. He urged that less emphasis be put on political qualifications and more on interest in the Consolidated University. Noting that there were 56 Trustees now on the Board from Carolina, and a relative handful from WC, Rankin proposed that there be an adequate number from each school, with no one school dominating the membership. Himself a UNC graduate and former member of the board, Rankin wanted to secure a new crop of Trustees, that was in every way qualified to represent the people of North Carolina.

Specifically, he proposed that a study be made of members now on the board and all nominees, giving basic information. Then a small subcommittee, five from the Senate and a proportionate number from the Trustee committee in the House, would go over the nominations with a view of getting the men and women who would fit the requirements. After sifting the names and checking on the present membership, the subcommittee would make their recommendations to the full committee, picking the necessary 28 from the 90 nominations.

The senator thinks this process would give the full committee the

(See GASTON HAS, page 4)

Trustee John Clark Boasts Stormy Record

"Im going to talk about the college with the fringe all around."

John Washington Clark, a tall, firm-faced man who has been a UNC Trustee since 1918, was addressing a full meeting of the board in Raleigh on a hazy late-February morning in 1952.

Clark can perhaps best be seen in the proper perspective if that date is taken as a departure point in an attempt to measure his contributions to the University as a member of its Trustee Executive Committee.

This was the climax of an episode that President Gordon Gray termed a "hassle," that University students called a battle for freedom of student opinion and expression and a fight against "Gestapo-like intimidation." That Governor Kerr Scott described as a small "cold war."

Clark played the central role in that "hassle" and it was a familiar role for him, as an ardent and unashamed advocate of segregation and white supremacy who was convinced that a "movement to break down segregation . . . and bring about amalgamation of Negroes and whites is highly financed and . . . supported by individuals employed by the Trustees of the University of North Carolina."

A member of their Executive Committee, Clark was speaking to the Trustees because he had been attacked. The Daily Tar Heel had criticized him for letters he wrote to home-town mayors of students who supported a request by the Japanese Christian leader—Kagewa—for an unsegregated audience when he appeared in Chapel Hill and for a letter Clark had written to the Dialectic Senate asking for the names of members who voted in favor of a Senate bill condemning segregation.

The Daily Tar Heel said it could not "recall or conceive of any other institution of higher learning which has permitted a man to sit on the Board of Trustees and at the same time to use the best methods of the Gestapo to intimidate students."

Clark said he wrote the letters to find out if the students "had been influenced by anyone on the University faculty." He had charged in a second letter to the Dialectic Senate that "There are 226 teachers from Northern states at Chapel Hill, many of them are doing excellent work, there are also a number of other individuals who have been planted there to help with the NAACP campaign and among them are some scalawags who are taking a most active part."

Now the Trustees had been asked to adopt a resolution by Major L. P. McLendon of Greensboro. It stated that the "statements and declarations of Mr. John W. Clark and his controversy

(See JOHN CLARK, page 2)

JOHN W. CLARK

Trustee Clark Supported By Nephew Clark

"I supported John Clark because of his deep interest in the University of North Carolina as a trustee and his interest in the state of North Carolina," said David Clark of Lincolnton.

A nephew of Trustee Clark, David Clark was active in securing the second highest vote for his uncle in nominating sessions of the Joint House-Senate Committee on Trustees. In a telephone conversation with The Daily Tar Heel, Clark, a member of the Legislature briefly summed up his reasons for getting his uncle nominated.

'His views coincide with the views of a large segment of the people in North Carolina," he pointed out. "No one doubts his sincerity. Those who differ with his views will still respect him for his sincerity. Mr. Clark is not like others, who though they feel as he does, refuse to state their views," openly.

Nephew Clark called his uncle "outspoken in his views." Last year, Clark figured in several controversies with students about segregation. For a period of several years, Clark has criticized non-segregated meetings in Memorial Hall, any attempts to break down segregation here or at Woman's College, and even the possibility that students might change their minds on the question of segregation.

Clark's brother, David, of Charlotte has also been an active trustee, though primarily interested in matters affecting State College. The David Clark from Lincolnton is the son of Thorne Clark.

Nephew Clark also cited his uncle's varied business interests — industrial work, (he operates a mill in Franklinville), farming,

(See NEPHEW, page 4)

Rules Violation Ignored For Truant Trustee

A technical violation of the rules was passed over by the Joint House-Senate Committee on Trustees as the committee renominated Representative R. Lee Whitmire of Hendersonville last week.

Whitmire's term of office doesn't expire until 1957, but he hadn't attended regular trustee meetings for two years, so, legally, he had forfeited his seat. The administrative code states, "Whenever a trustee shall fail to be present for two successive years at the regular meetings of the Board, his place as trustee shall be deemed vacant." Whitmire attended a special meeting in July, 1951 when the board considered the application for admission by a Negro Ph.D. candidate to the Spanish department here.

Lefislators were apparently puzzled on Whitmire's attendance record. One legislator gave a fuzzy report of Whitmire's case, declaring that the committee nominated him "to be sure of no technical violations."

Woman's College alumnae tried to replace Whitmire with Mrs. Laura W. Cone, ousted member, but the attempt failed when the committee voted to keep Whitmire in office.

WUNC

Today's schedule for campus FM station WUNC:

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Vistas of Israel.
7:45—Review of the British Weeklies.
8—The People Act.
8:30—Opera.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Take Trustees Out Of Politics —WC Solons

GREENSBORO, April 20—(Special)—Woman's College's Student Legislature has asked Gov. Umstead to change the way of picking Trustees so that it would be taken out of politics.

The resolution, released here today, also asked the governor to "define the qualifiiations to be sought" in Trustee nominees.

The resolution stated in part, "Whereas the selection of Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina has become entangled in political manipulation and bargaining, and thereby it be resolved:

"First, we recommend that in the interests of the Consolidated University, the procedure of selection of Trustees be revised to avoid all political manipulation and to insure the acquisition and retention of the persons best qualified for the position.

"We recommend that appropriate steps be taken by the governor of the State of North Carolina or such agencies as he may designate to conduct an inquiry into the method of selection of the nominees for the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina to define the qualifications to be sought in said nominees and to make recommendations regarding selection procedures which will most effectively serve the needs of the state and the Consolidated University."

No Objections To New Trustees; Ill Will Concerns Ones Left Out

There were few complaints about the new nominations to the Board of Trustees. The hue and cry was about those left off. The method of selection also came in for heavy criticism.

Hardly a legislator or interested citizen remarked that the new group of Trustees generally wasn't a worthy one. But many alumni from UNC, State, and WC and some legislators were extremely disappointed because the names of several prominent and hardworking Trustees were not on the nominations list.

The chief name missing was the State's Lieutenant Governor, Luther W. Hodges from Leaksville, a Carolina graduate and candidate for nomination. When one legislator was asked why Mr. Hodges was left off the list, he commented, "He just didn't get enough votes."

State law prescribes that "there shall be 100 trustees . . . at least ten of whom shall be women, who shall be elected for terms of eight years by the General Assembly by joint ballot of both houses. Twenty-five of these trustees shall be elected every two years." Because of resignations and other reasons, 28 seats were up for reelection this year when the Joint House-Senate Committee started nominating two weeks ago.

Nominating is tantamount to election. Rarely has a nomination been made from the floor. Legislators could only recall one nomination being made in such a manner. Also, there have been few attempts to discuss nominees and their qualifications on the floor.

Senator Grady Rankin mentioned that if the nominations matter were brought before the full assembly, the whole slate of 28 nominees would have to be discussed. Such a move is highly improbable.

JOHN W. UMSTEAD

Szent-Gyorgyi To Give Talk In Wilson Hall

Prof. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, recipient of the Nobel Prize in Medicine in 1937, will present the first of two lectures here tonight at 8 o'clock.

The lecture tonight, sponsored by the Sigma Xi Society, will be in Wilson Hall, the Zoology Building. Topic of Prof. Szent-Gyorgyi's address will be "Cellular Blueprints, or the Nature of the Cell."

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the auditorium on the fourth floor of the Out-Patient Clinic of Memorial Hospital, the Whitehead Society will sponsor his lecture on "Contraction in Body and Heart Muscle."

A native of Hungary, Prof. Szent-Gyorgyi received the M.D. degree from the University of Budapest and the Ph.D. degree in Biochemistry from Cambridge University. He is now director of the Institute of Muscle Research in Woods Hole, Mass.

The public is invited to attend his lectures.

WUS-Sponsored Seminar Will Be Held In India

World University Service of India and Canada will sponsor a seminar on "The Human Implications of Development Planning," this summer in India.

American student and faculty members are eligible to participate in this study and analysis of the economic, social, and political situation in Asia and North America, with particular reference to South Asia and Canada.

Rep. Umstead Says 'Slate' Method Better

How do the Trustees, those people who voted for Saturday classes, get elected?

Democratically, answers Representative John W. Umstead, himself a University Trustee for 16 years and a member of the Executive Committee for nine years. In fact the present democratic method is too much for Mr. Umstead who thinks the old "slate" method was much better.

Five years ago, representatives from State, WC, and UNC would draw up a slate and present it to the Joint House-Senate Committee on Trustees, Umstead said that the committee nominated those on the slate and those interested in the welfare of the University generally were always on the board. There weren't many good folks left out, he indicated.

But now via democracy, the committee receives nominations from anybody, and it is generally accepted that the person that does the most "buttonholing" or lobbying gets his man (or woman) nominated.

This was the case with John Washington Clark, outspoken and frequent critic of Carolina whose nephew David Clark got to see most of the members of the committee. Clark got the second highest vote of any.

The committee received over 90 nominations and chose 28 seats, including vacancies and seats up for reelection. Mrs. Laura W. Cone, hard working Trustee from Woman's College up for reelection, received a relatively small number of votes.

Lobbying paid off, particularly for new nominees. A delegation from Guilford County presented their case to the committee for the nomination of Henry Foscue, wealthy furniture merchant and active in university foundation work. Foscue received a high number of votes.

Umstead remarked that the quality of board probably won't change if the nominees are elected. Under the old method, however, "we were sure of people who were interested would be selected." The new nominees actually are good selections, Mr. Umstead commented, but just lack testing.

Umstead is the brother of Governor William B. Umstead, with

(See UMSTEAD, page 4)

Campus Brass Sound Off On Trustee Issue

Various student government leaders yesterday had varied opinions on the recent nomination of University Trustees.

The campus leaders were asked three questions and all gave different answers:

1. Do you think the present method of selecting Trustees is proper?

2. How do you feel about the omission of Collier Cobb Jr., John Sprunt Hill and other Trustees who have showed great interest in Carolina?

3. What do you think about the presence of segregation-minded John W. Clark, whose actions shook the campus last year?

Ham Horton, student body president, said, "In the long run, the legislative method of choosing Trustees has proven the best way to insure that the University will truly be a state university.

"It is regrettable that such interested Trustees were left off. As for Clark, there was never any question all along that he is sincerely interested in the University, although we don't agree with the way he chose to be interested."

Ken Penegar, recent presidential candidate, declared: "I think we could change our method of selecting Trustees. I would prefer it if it weren't political. It's very unfortunate that those others were left off. I feel that they are friends of the University. Some of the people put on the board are not."

Concerning Clark, he said, "He is one of the persons whom I feel is not a friend of the University. In that regard, I feel that's where present system's ills show up."
they slipped. That's where the

Jim McLeod, vice-president of the student body, said, "For want of a better method of Trustee selection, I think it should be left to the Legislature. It is unfortunate that those Trustees were left out. I think Clark's selection is indicative of the general feeling in Legislature."

Gene Cook, Student Party leader and prominent legislator, had this to say: "I think that student and administration advice should be sought in choosing Trustees. Now it's thrown into the hands of people who are not familiar with the needs of the University. Selection seemed to be based on political reasons.

"The Trustees left off obviously devoted themselves to the welfare of the University for a number of years. They were excluded for unknown reasons and everyone's in the dark."

Can We Keep The Worthy On The Board?

Webster's Dictionary defines "logrolling" as "a combining to assist another in consideration of assistance in return, especially among politicians for the accomplishment of political ends—used opprobriously."

This term and "horsetrading" apply equally to the methods used by the Joint House-Senate Committee on Trustees to select 28 members to the board. The method is called by some supporters as the best possible one.

Representative John Umstead has tagged it as too democratic, however. He blames the present method as the work of the state press which demanded a few years ago that the old "secret" mehod of choosing trustees be discarded.

Rep. Umstead claims that the old method at least insured the election of qualified trustees, old timers who were experienced in making policy and serving on board committees. The new method, often leaves the best people off the board. Rep. Umstead would have us return to the old system, which would mean that a few legislators and "interested parties" would draw up a slate composed of candidates from the three schools, and present it to the committe for approval or disapproval.

Senator R. Grady Rankin thinks that the democratic method is a fine idea but needs adequate guidance. He supports the method whereby a special subcommittee would investigate the geographical, political, and school representation qualifications besides the ability of a candidate. The special committee made up of a small number of members of the larger trustee committee would recommend out of all the nominations proposed only 25 candidates and present recommendations to the committee for action. The big feature of Rankin's plan is that the subcommittee would nominate new members on their qualifications as they related to the old membership.

For instance: If there were too many "politicians" on the board, the new 25 member crop would contain a limited number of legislators. Or, if UNC had too many representatives (we already have too many —56), then the representation from WC and State would be increased. The Rankin plan is particularly valuable in regard to county representation. Constitutionally, each county should have at least one representative. Several large counties don't have any. Gaston, the sixth largest in the State, which formerly had two members has none. Rutherford and Lexington counties are in a similar position.

On the other hand, Guilford County folks argue that Wake, Guilford, and Orange should have a large amount of representatives on the board. They have a chance to observe first hand what's going on at the schools and can best help on committees, because of their nearness to the campuses. Guilford County has five board members, Orange, Two.

Dr. Howard Odum, a student of college and university government, thinks that basically, that the county arrangement is a good one. "The large number is a fine thing, because in an emergency not just four or five people rule on an important matter." Dr. Odum doesn't know of any school that compares with the Consolidated University Board of Trustees.

The University of Georgia and the University of Mississippi have, about 15 and 9 trustees respectively. Harvard, a private school, has six overseers. For many state universities, the governors appoint trustees, subject to the approval of the legislatures. At Cornell, a private institution with several state-owned branches, the alumni, the governor, and the board itself all have a hand in selecting trustees. In some schools the faculty choose trustees.

Most legislators will admit that the method now used should be modified to prevent situations like the following: Representative Whitley of Wake County said in the committees meeting when trustee selection came up," I'm open for decent trading with anyone. I've picked only 10 names. I've got 18 places open. Whose first?" Fellow legislators grabbed at the chance of getting their own candidates some more support, and Whitley's ballot was quickly filled.

How can any legislator be expected to chose from a list of 90, 28 qualified trustees, especially when he doesn't have sufficient information to make a decent decision? Clearly, it is not a matter of legislative incompetence so much as a matter of procedure that could be changed.

* * * *

The Rankin plan deserves special consideration. The Daily Tar Heel respectfully requests that the Joint House-Senate Committees initiate a thorough study of the procedures of selecting trustees. We ask that this be done before adjournment. If the Legislature had time to pass a bill providing for secret sessions for discussion of budgetary problems, we feel there is time to discuss trustee selection methods.

If the committee is unable to do this, we suggest that they authorize the full board to select a group of trustees to thoroughly investigate the method of selection, and make recommendations. There is plenty of material available to show the inadequacy of the present system.

,If the first state university of this country is to have the type of government it deserves, then the State Legislature of selection for membership on he board of trustes. The board should represent the people of North Carolina. It should have able and willing membership. The state and the University must pay tribute to those who have given so freely of their talents, finances, and experiences. These requirements should be uppermost in the minds of all legislators.

Clark Works Vigorously As Trustee

Since 1919, John Washington Clark has actively served on the Board of Trustees. Many University spokesmen believe him to be an able trustee. They can only think of one exception to his excellent record as a trustee member and that is in the matter of race relations.

Mr. Clark has been an active member of the Executive Committee, a member of the Advisory Admissions Committee, and the State College Buildings Committee of the board. He and his brother Walter established the Walter Clark professorship of engineering at State College.

Recently, Mr. Clark presented the UNC Law School with copies of the two volume edition of the papers of Judge Walter Clark, former Chief Justice of the N. C. Supreme Court. Mr. Clark has contributed to the University Press.

It is estimated that Mr. Clark is one of the hardest working trustees that have ever served on the board.

Qualifications For Another Term

Editor's Note: We realize that the following will, in all probability do no good, that the Legislature's mind is made up. Yet, for the record, we think a protest is necessary. We make this a tribute to student impetuosity.

A good example of bad politics is illustrated by the loss of important trustees for the next eight years and the nomination of an unqualified trustee.

We cite the loss of such valuable friends and servants to the University as Mr. Cobb, Mrs. Cone, Mr. Hill, and others. We deplore a system which leaves these people out, and at the same time gives John Washington Clark next to the largest vote of all the trustees.

The Daily Tar Heel is opposed to the renomination of Mr. Clark. The Legislative Committee evidently took no account of Clark's activities as a trustee when he was censured by the full board by a large vote. They took no account of Mr. Clark's attempt to make students think the way he does, nor did they recognize the results of Mr. Clark's work which hurt the reputation of the Consolidated University to a great extent.

Placing Mr. Clark on the board for another eight year term, especially with the second highest vote in a field of 90 comes perilously close to approving his policies.

* * * *

John Washington Clark springs from a North Carolina family, rich in its contributions to this state. Mr. Clark has served on the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University or one of its branches for 24 years—since 1919. Mr. Clark is a sincere man. He is a consistant man.

His nomination however should be challenged and defeated by members of the full State Legislature.

Senator Grady Rankin, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Trustees, told the people of North Carolina that his committee would seek qualified trustees. Senator Hamilton Hobgood of Franklin, in a motion approved by the Senate committee said, "each nomination must be accompanied by a detailed "summary of the nominee's past achievements and public service and qualifications." Yet the committee, we believe, has failed to take into account Mr. Clark's irresponsible conduct last year.

As a trustee, Mr. Clark has stated, in answers to his attacks on individuals and events connected with the Greater University—at Chapel Hill and Greensboro—that "I am not attacking the University of North Carolina. I never have . . . but I feel the University can best be served by removing the rotten fringe that surrounds it . . . "

Here are some of the activities of Mr. Clark, notices of his "service" to the University:

1. In mid July, 1951, at a special Trustee meeting Mr. Clark introduced a resolution to abolish Ph.D. work in Spanish to prevent a Negro student from entering graduate work in that field. President Gordon Gray at the time said, "If every time a Negro comes along and applies for admission to the Graduate School and you say you're going to abolish the graduate school, what kind of a University are you going to have," You're beginning to carve at the very vitals of the University if you pass Mr. Clark's motion," Gray said. The motion was overwhelmingly defeated.

2. In a letter to Nell Battle Lewis reprinted in The Raleigh News & Observer. February 3, 1952, Mr. Clark stated, "The movement to break down segregation in and around Chapel Hill and bring about the amalgamation of Negroes and whites is highly financed and is locally supported by individuals employed by the Trustees of the University of North Carolina . . . So far, the Executive Committee has done nothing to oppose the movement . . . " Mr. Clark did not substantiate his charges realistically.

3. Mr. Clark wrote the mayors of Maxton and Four Oaks inquiring whether students "practised and advocated" non-segregation writing his letter as a member of the Board of Trustees and a member of the Executive Committee. His objection: Students who believe that Memorial Hall should be available for all think along subversive lines.

4. Mr. Clark wrote the Dialectic Senate debating society demanding information about a resolution for the abolishment of segregation.

In items three and four, Mr. Clark sought to challenge the right of students to hold opinions contrary to his, and took advantage of his position on the board of trustees to write defamatory letters to citizens in the home towns of students.

5. Mr. Clark stated, "There are about 225 teachers on the faculty from Northern states and I've asked the president of the Dialectic Senate how many have come to North Carolina to break down segregation."

6. Mr. Clark libeled the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill when he said, "The situation at Chapel Hill is as rotten as the State Department in Washington. The average trustee doesn't know what's going on, and several others, like myself, resent what is going on at the University of North Carolina."

7. In its Spring meeting last year, the full Board of Trustees by a vote of 47-23 resolved: "It is the view of the Board of Trustees of the Greater University that the statements and declarations of Mr. John W. Clark and his controversy with others concerning segregation and racial questions are his individual responsibility and the Board deems it inappropriate for it to take official recognition of such matters."

Mr. Clark was clearly rebuked by his fellow trustees for his letters, words, and deeds. He acted irresponsibly and was censured for it.

8. John Clark has been relatively silent this year, but so have the campuses of the Consolidated University. When a resolution to remove Clark and his brother Dave from Charlotte, was withdrawn from consideration in the State Student Legislature last November, it was done so from direct pressure applied by Chancellor Harrelson of State College and President Gordon Gray. We feel that these administrators acted with the best intent, in that they didn't want Mr. Clark to be aroused again after the "silent period." Nevertheless, students were effectively shut up because of top level suggestions.

When the actions of trustee Clark cause the University administration to clamp down on students for individual beliefs, even though they be wrong or even impertinent, then we believe that that student opinion is being stifled.

* * * *

John Washington Clark is more than a representative of a large segment of opinion in the state. He is symbolic of a new element creeping into American life, creating fear, applying McCarthy-like methods, and attempting to freeze opinion.

He has for years shadow-boxed "the rotten fringe" which he alleges surrounds the University. This rotten fringe is no less than the essence, spirit, goal, and dynamic force that has made this a center of progress and culture. The "rotten fringe" makes Chapel Hill the intellectual center of the South.

It is one reason why people come here, people from inside and outside the state borders.

The University is not surrounded by a "rotten fringe." Rather, it is held back by something far worse, men who would smear it till it lacks the ability to fight back, men who would continue to attack it, to paint its name in infamy. If this be love of University and state, then we ask for a redefinition of such basic values as love, devotion, and friendship for one's school!

John Clark Got Second Highest Vote In Committee Balloting

(Continued from page 1)

with others concerning segregation and racial questions are on his individual responsibility and the board deems it inappropriate for it to take official recognition of such matters." Clark spoke "only as a citizen of the state and not as a Board member," the resolution declared.

President Gray and most of the Trustees supported the resolution.

Clark termed it "very unfair." Now he was presenting his case against the University with the "rotten fringe."

Clark listed "18 charges," which included such items as the activities of Chapel Hill ministers Charles Jones and David Yates, the acceptance of money from the Rosenwald fund by the University, two white girls from Woman's College attending an inter-racial meeting at West Market Street Methodist Church in Greensboro and "hanging around inside the church with the Negro men for more than an hour after the services," the activities of Chapel Hill Communist Junius Scales, "Eleanor Roosevelt's sending a Negro band to Chapel Hill," unsegregated religious meetings at Woman's College, and anti-segregation "propaganda" circulated by the Associated Press.

He also attacked The Daily Tar Heel, the Raleigh News and Observer, and Greensboro and Charlotte newspapers. He described articles in the papers as the work of "Oscar Coffin (UNC journalism school dean) and his hatchet boys and the NAACP and their associates."

Clark asked the Trustees to set up a three man committee to investigate this "fringe." It died without a second.

McLendon's resolution was passed overwhelmingly by the Trustees. The views and actions of John W. Clark were repudiated. The Board made it plain that Clark speaks only for Clark, that he may shout all he wants to about the goblins he sees lurking around the campuses of the three units of the University, but only as a private citizen, not as a Trustee and member of the Executive Committee. The trustees had lived guardians of academic liberty by up to their responsibilities as stating that a lone trustee will not be permitted to "intimidate" students.

This was not Clark's first tirade against "NAACP associates" and "subversive elements" at the University.

Through the many years of his Board of Trustee tenure the thunder and lightning of North Carolina's crisis in race relations has played about his head. It has been said that no man could better play the role Clark has played on this front, even if clad in Wellington boots and Confederate gray.

But Clark was born to play the role. His maternal grandmother was a relative of George Washington. One of his uncles was a University Trustee for some 50 years; a great uncle, Gov. William A. Graham, was Trustee for about 30 years—and in addition was once nominee for vice-president, a secretary of the Navy, and was barred from the U. S. Senate only by post-bellum Yankee resistance to his election.

The father of Clark was North Carolina's most celebrated jurist, the embattled liberal of his day, Judge Walter Clark.

Clark is a wealthy operator of two busy textile plants. He still operates the large Roanoke River farm which has been in the family since land grant days.

Thus, when the furore burst upon him in February, 1952, it found Clark a man of parts and a willing antagonist.

So far as the Board of Trustees is concerned, he told a Greensboro Daily News writer in 1952 his active interest in the question dates back to: "In 1946 or '47, they held a mixed meeting in the Presbyterian Church here, whites and Negroes in the audience and the choir, and Guy Johnson spoke."

Clark labeled Johnson a "social anthropologist," said he had been in Atlanta for a time, and added that he was going back to Chapel Hill, on Rosenwald Foundation money to break down segregation.

He took the issue to the trustees and "tried to convince them the University shouldn't accept the Rosenwald money, about $25,000, since it was being used to break down segregation."

The next time Clark took his problems to the trustees was in 1948 when Dorothy Maynor came to Chapel Hill with a white accompanist, and "there was mixing of the races."

Clark said four years later, "I remember one white woman complained that the rest rooms were full of Negro women. I took that to the trustees—and they talked a bit on my resolution, which said only that the people of North Carolina approved of segregation, and wanted it maintained."

He has kept a file of clippings, letters and other records on such incidents, including newspaper stories and pictures of interracial gatherings in Greensboro. His position throughout has been clear. He will defend segregation. He thinks its downfall is plotted at Greensboro and in Chapel Hill by University people and others.

Clark suspects that faculty members, especially those from outside the state, are teaching students that segregation is un-Christian, unethical, or uncivilized. He is trying to find out who these teachers are.

He says he is astonished by how little the trustees know about what goes on in the University and its branches.

As an example he says: "Why they bring the applications of teachers before us for approval—most of them from out of the state . . . and we know nothing about them." These outsiders, he says, lead in the fight to break down segregation within the University. "We have about 125 teachers from the North at Woman's College, and more than 200 at Chapel Hill." Many of these, he thinks, are "NAACP associates" and "scalawags."

Clark is sincere in his fight against them, though they may be only nebulous goblins he sees lurking in the halls of ivy. Their goal, he says "is the mingling of white women and Negro men—a mongrel race in the South."

And in the summer of 1951, after the Trustees opened the University graduate school to Negroes and the Supreme Court ordered the Law School to also open its doors, Clark was willing to propose what amounted to the destruction of the University to prevent a Negro woman from doing work on her Ph.D. in Spanish here during the summer session. Clark introduced a motion at the Trustee's meeting to abolish Ph.D. work in Spanish.

President Gray spoke against his proposal. "If every time a Negro comes along and applies for admission to the graduate school and you say you're going to abolish the graduate school, what kind of a University are you going to have," Gray asked. "You're beginning to carve at the very vitals of the University if you pass Mr. Clark's motion," Gray stated. He was applauded and the motion was overwhelmingly killed.

The Chapel Hill Weekly

Editor Louis Graves Calls Legislative Committee Work 'A Shameful Performance'

People at all acquainted with the University affairs, and with the quality of the service done by leading members of the Board of Trustees, could hardly believe their eyes when they read in the newspapers the report of the action of the Legislature's joint committee charged with selecting members to succeed those whose terms expire this year.

The astonishing thing about the selections is not that they include persons whose record shows nothing to indicate that they can contribute anything useful to the deliberations of the board. That always happens. It is bound to happen under the present system of election by the Legislature. The astonishing thing is that persons already on the board, who are known by their fellow members and by the public for their devotion to the University, their ability, and their industry and fidelity in attending to their duties as trustees, have been thrown out.

Such persons who come to mind at once are John Sprunt Hill, Collier Cobb, Jr., Mrs. Laura Cone, and Kenneth Tanner.

"One of the inexplicable developments in so far as the public hereabouts is concerned," says the Greensboro News in an editorial on the selection of trustees by the joint legislative committee, "was the replacement of Mrs. Laura Cone on the board. Mrs. Cone has served for more than 20 years and has given unstintedly of her time, talents, and intelligence to the University and especially to the Woman's College here. Her judgment and vision have had a major part in the institution's expansion and many of her ideas are wrought into its structure and campus beauty. The State and the University are deeply indebted to Mrs. Cone for her contribution."

Any community is of course specially interested in the case of one of its own citizens. Greensboro is keenly conscious of Mrs. Cone's service as a trustee. The member of the board whose work has come under close observation by the people here in Chapel Hill is Collier Cobb, Jr. As chairman of the board's building committee he has borne the responsibility of directing the expansion program which included construction of the hospital and the other buildings in the new Health Center. In the last few years he has devoted a large part of his time to this task—attending meetings of groups concerned with various phases of the project, consulting with various architects and engineers,examining plans, checking contracts, reporting to the State Budget Bureau, and making inspections as the work proceeded. He has not limited himself to "high level" decisions; he has given close and constant attention to the details of construction. Altogether, the work he has done for the University and the State has been of incalculable value.

John Sprunt Hill was chairman of the trustees' building for many years before Mr. Cobb was appointed to that post, and nobody in Chapel Hill needs to be reminded of Mr. Hill's great services and benefactions to the University.

The University never had a more devoted friend than Kenneth Tanner. It has received from him many generous gifts, and as a trustee he has served it with diligence, unflagging zeal, and a high degree of intelligence.

There are 18 Senators and 44 Representatives on the Legislature's joint committee on the election of University trustees.

Formerly a few leaders in the Legislature would make up a "slate" of trustees, and their influence was sufficient to put it through. This was not an ideal procedure, but it worked out well in one respect: the slate-makers might put some persons on the slate for personal or political reasons, but they knew who were the really valuable members of the Board of Trustees and they always left on the board members who were known to have been specially active and competent. They never failed to recommend for re-election such persons as the four named above.

The slate - making procedure came under severe criticism five or six years ago and was abandoned. Now nominations are made in the joint committee, and the nominees who get the largest number of votes become members of the board. Theoretically, changes can be made on the floor of the Senate. I am writing this editorial before the committee's report comes up for consideration and I do not know what hope there is.

An acquaintance of mine who has been in Raleigh during legislature there, tells me that he never before saw such trading and logrolling as there was this year in the committee on the election of University trustees, The Greensboro News says the committee's proceedings were characterized by "log-rolling and political deals." I have heard the same thing from many sources.

It was a shameful performance.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ____ WALT DEAR
Managing Editor ____ ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ____ JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ____ BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. ____ Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. ____ Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ____ Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. ____ Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. ____ Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. ____ Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. ____ Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. ____ Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. ____ Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. ____ Alice Chapman

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Baseball Team Faces Tough Test In Duke Game Today

By Tom Peacock

Carolina's baseball team faces its toughest test of the season today when it meets defending Southern Conference champion Duke University at 3:30 on Emerson Field.

Righthander Bill Lore is scheduled to pitch today, but an injured ankle may keep him on the bench.

The junior varsity baseball team travels to Durham this afternoon at 3:00 to play the Duke jayvees.

If it does, Chal Port, another righthander, will be called on to take his second straight Big Four game. Port beat Wake Forest, 5-2, last Wednesday.

The Tar Heels have won five straight since State defeated them in their last home game. Carolina has a 1-1 record in Big Four play, and a win today will move it to the top. Carolina now leads the southern division of the Conference with a 6-1 record.

Duke coach Ace Parker, in his first year, is undecided on his starting pitcher, but will probably start a left hander. Parker lost a number of his starters from last year's team including Dick Groat. He still has hitting power in a strong outfield and Billy Werber at first base.

Carolina coaches Walt Rabb and Bunn Hearn expect third baseman Bruce Holt of Durham to be ready for the first time in a week. Holt hurt his ankle against Davidson, and should bolster the infield. Bobby Williams, his replacement, has done a good job at the plate.

Some other positions are still undecided in the Tar Heel lineup. Will Frye or Ed Hooks will catch; Bob Henning, first base; Harry Lee Lloyd, second base; Williams or Holt, third base; Fred Dale, shortstop; Al Long or Wayne White, left field; Connie Gravitte, center field; and Ken Keller, right field.

Long started his first game against Virginia in Carolina's last outing, and the Durham sophomore led the seven-hit attack with two.

The Tar Heels play Davidson here Thursday and move to Wake Forest on Saturday.

Track Meet Today

Carolina's track team will meet N. C. State this afternoon at 3:00 on Fetzer Field.

Although the team will be without the services of star sprinter Jeff Newton, who pulled a leg muscle in Saturday's loss to Maryland, Carolina will probably be a heavy favorite to win.

The team has record of two wins and two losses going into today's meet.

Netters Beat Cow College, 9-0

Wind and cold couldn't stop Carolina's netters yesterday as they didn't lose a single set in defeating State College, 9-0, for their 15th consecutive victory of the current campaign. It was also the second straight Southern Conference win of the season for the Tar Heels.

Del Sylvia, Tom Bradford, Herb Browne, Bobby Payne, Don Thompson, and Pete Green played the singles matches for UNC in that order, while the doubles chores were handled by the second six.

Singles: Sylvia (UNC) over Aksel, 6-2, 6-4; Bradford (UNC) over Kline, 6-0, 6-3; Browne (UNC) over Dufett, 6-1, 6-1; Payne (UNC) over Greenberg, 6-0, 6-3; Thompson (UNC) over Garman, 6-1, 6-1; Green (UNC) over Cashion, 6-1, 6-0.

Doubles: Ezlar and Kerdasha (UNC) over Aksel and Kline 6-3, 6-3; Handel and Gustafson (UNC) over Duffett and Greenberg, 6-1, 6-1; Lynch and Potts (UNC) over Cashion and Coppersmith, 6-4, 6-1.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet at 5 p.m. today in Hill Hall.

MURALS

Today's Softball

There will be no games scheduled today because of the Duke-Carolina game at Emerson Stadium.

Today's Tennis

4:00—DKE 1 vs. Phi Delt 2; KA vs. Kappa Sig.

5:00—SAE 1 vs. Beta; ATO vs. Chi Psi 2.

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Law School vs. Ruffin; Dental School vs. Joyner.

7:40—Sigma Nu 5 vs. Delta Psi; Pi Kappa Phi 1 vs. Phi Gam 4.

8:20—Zete 1 vs. Kappa Sig 2; SAE 2 vs. DKE 2.

Golf

The first round of the intramural tourney must be completed by tomorrow. In the first round Beta 2 plays Sigma Nu and SPE meets ZBT.

WHO WILL BE

MR. FORMAL

AT CAROLINA

BIG PRIZES:

After Six BY KAYWOODIE

A complete summer formal outfit from After Six, America's leading formal wear maker, including an After Six white dinner jacket and midnight blue trousers . . . cummerbund and tie, Formal-Pak . . . After Six dress shirt.

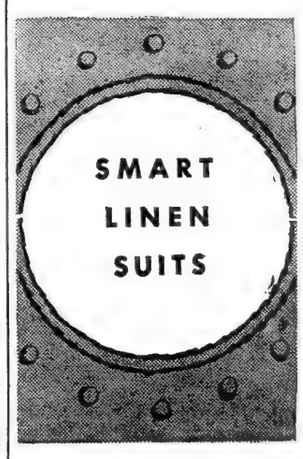
From Kaywoodie, the new white briar formal pipe. A fine Ronson Adonis pocket lighter. Top Hat toiletries by Charbert, and other top flight items.

Plus, a chance to compete for Mr. Formal U.S.A. The national title that brings with it . . . a $500 Defense Bond . . . a full week in Hollywood, all expenses paid and a screen test with Alex Gottlieb Productions.

TOWN & CAMPUS SPORT SHOP

JAKE FROELICH and JOHN BALDRIDGE
Beta House—Phone 6071

Si! IT'S M-G-M's "Sombrero" TECHNICOLOR



And a Chapel Hill woman wrote it!

From Josefina Niggli's Novel "Mexican Village" come three short stories that M-G-M has woven into some hot tamale of a show.

Carolina

TODAY and WEDNESDAY

In new shape-retaining wrinkle-resistant fabrics.

Tailored by College Hall in the same manner as our fine woolens. Rated first by Consumers Union.

Available in good Brooks cut or 2 button lounge.

The Synthetic Linen Suit—34.95.

The Moygashel Irish Linen Suit—49.95.

Bills Mailed Home

MILTON'S Clothing Cupboard

NOW OPEN 10 A.M. TO 7 P.M.

Campus capers call for Coke

Everything's in high gear at May Fete time . . . keeps you on the go.
Good idea is to pause now and then for a Coke.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

One large table of assorted cloth including fine Chambray at $1.39 a yard.
Bates cloth, assorted drapery, up to 98c a yard.
Pique assorted colors, also Chintz, denim.

All 59c a yd.
BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

- DINNER JACKETS
- FORMAL TROUSERS
- ACCESSORIES

BILLS MAILED HOME

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

Don't you want to try a cigarette with a record like this?

1. THE QUALITY CONTRAST between Chesterfield and other leading cigarettes is a revealing story. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

2. First to Give You Premium Quality in Regular and King-size . . . much milder with an extraordinarily good taste—and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

3. A Report Never Before Made About a Cigarette. For a full year a medical specialist has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months. He reports . . . no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.

BEST FOR YOU

Gaston Has No Representative Due To New Selection Method

(Continued from page 1)

right information, would save time, and would insure the election of an able and representative grodp of Trustees. The Senate followed this operation, but the House only went as far as making a study. Consequently, when the full House committee met, they were swamped with names and more names but without any clearcut recommendations.

Reliable sources have indicated that this hodgepodge of nominations initiated the greatest amount of logrolling and horsetrading that has been observed in legislative work for a long time.

The difference between the Rankin plan and the old "secret" or "slate" method is that the former is still democratic and in line with the present policy of letting anyone be a candidate for nomination. The "slate" plan, left in the hands of a few, was a back-room affair, observers say, but it always managed to get those devoted to the University nominated. Proponents of the Slate method, including Rep. John Umstead think that the new method, while democratic, results in casualties that are too expensive. They cite the loss of such outstanding members as Mrs. Laura Weil Cone, Collier Cobb Jr., Kenneth Tanner, John Sprunt Hill and several others.

To get someone nominated now depends on the amount of lobbying done. No one thought that longstanding members like Cobb would be dropped, but they forgot that no matter how popular or worthwhile a member may be, members of the Legislature are frequently subject to pressure and will vote for those who are in demand.

Senator Rankin saw no hope for a change in selection during this session, nor did he see any chance of a fight on the floor of the Legislature. He said that he and other legislators are thinking of what can be done in the future to improve the situation. Plans for a change will probably be brought up early in the next general session of the Legislature.

Trend Viewed With Alarm By WC Alumna

Ten women on the Board of Trustees represent 18,000 alumnae of Women's College and the 25,000 alumnae in other revions. The number has not grown and the fact that able women Trustees have been cast off is disturbing many of the college's most interested graduates.

"We view with grave alarm a trend established in 1951 when Mrs. Sadie McCain was not reelected," said Mrs. Hall Swain, president of the Women's College Alumnae Association of Raleigh yesterday. Mrs. McCain is now dean of women at Flora McDonald College in Red Springs. She had been an energetic trustee.

"Alumnae all over the state are upset" about the Joint House-Senate Committee passing over the name of Mrs. Laura Weil Cone, remarked Mrs. Swain. By State law, the Consolidated University Board must have 10 women representatives. Mrs. Swain could only remember one time that the Legislature had "slipped up and given us 11." The Alumnae Association wants more women representation on the board.

Mrs. Swain stressed the fact that WC alumnae were not against the people nominated by the Trustee committee. They just deplored the loss of Mrs. Cone, who has served so notably, acording to Mrs. Swain. Mrs. Cone has been a member of the Board since consolidation, a period of 22 years. She has served on the WC buildings committee, the finance committee, the admissions committee, and has been on the Executive Committee. "Her contributions have been made not only to WC, but also to the Consolidated University," Mrs. Swain declared.

Her chief virtue has been the "quality of her mind." She has been uncompromising in maintaining standards," Mrs. Swain pointed out.

Mrs. Cone has said, "The only thing that concerns me is that I hope Woman's College will get sufficient representation on the board. It is entirely right and proper that when people have served a long time, they should step out."

WC alumnae were "incensed," according to one spokesman about the absence of Mrs. Cone's name from the list of new nominees.

There was some hope that a spot could be found for Mrs. Cone when it was announced that Representative R. Lee Whitmire of Hendersonville had forfeited his trustee seat by not attending regular meetings for two years. The trustee committee however ignored the Tar Heels 'n Toes, folk and square dance club will meet at 5 today in the woman's gym. Members are urged to attend since preparations for the Durham Centennial are in progress.

Tar Heels 'n Toes

French Supper Club

The French Supper Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir.

Y Summer Camp

Clint Rogers and Bill Cate are recruiting for the staff of the Durham Y summer camp. Positions are open for counselors and an assistant camp director. Those interested may contact Rogers at 233 Cobb Dorm or Cate at 208 Hillsboro St.

Pre-School Children

Pre-school children who expect to enter Chapel Hill schools in September are expected to be present for registration between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. tomorrow at the elementary school building. Parents should bring the child's record of immunization against disease and his birth certificate. To enter, a child must be six years old on or before Oct. 1.

Lysistrata Tryouts

Tryouts for the production of Lysistrata will be held today at 4 and 7:30 p.m. in the Forest Theatre.

Cheerleader Tryouts

Persons interested in trying out for next year's varsity cheering squad should report to Kenan Stadium Wednesday and Thursday at 4 p.m.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega will hold a meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. All prospective pledges and members are asked to attend.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre

Tonight

Edward Arnold—Jane Darwell

DANIEL AND THE DEVIL

The Atomic Bomb of the War of the Sexes!

The Intimate Bookshop Reluctantly Presents

The Unfair Sex

by Nina Farewell

- What Mahan was to Sea Power, What Clausewitz was to Land War

Nina Farewell is to Woman's eternal struggle with Man.

- It tells how to avoid, at all costs, going to a man's apartment.
- It tells what to do once you get there.
- It gives the proper method of saying "no" in every conceivable situation.
- It lessens Man's chance of getting away with what he has been getting away with.

ALAS! ALAS! — You can see a copy today at—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

UWF Group To Open Fund Drive Tonight

Two nationally prominent members of the United World Federalists, Clare and Ronald McLaughlin, members of the National Executive Council of the UWF, will speak at a fund-raising dinner of the Chapel Hill chapter at 6:30 tonight at the Carolina Inn.

Both are pioneer Federalists and have just returned from the Asian Congress for World Federation.

Jack Lasley and W. D. Perry are co-chairmen for the dinner.

Sponsors are Gordon W. Blackwell, Henry P. Brandis Jr., Dudley D. Carroll, Mrs. Emil T. Chanlett, Gran P. Childress, Russell M. Grumman, Harold Hotelling, Robert Pace, William H. Poteat, W. Carson Ryan, Mrs. Taul B. White, and Earl Wynn.

Cobb Not Mad Over Removal Of His Name

Collier Cobb Jr., of Chapel Hill, outgoing Board of Trustee member and chairman of Carolina's building committee on the board said he "was very grateful to be of service and to have the opportunity of serving the university and the state," yesterday.

"I hold no ill will towards the Legislature," he said when asked about the removal of his name from the nominating lists. He was a candidate for reelection and has served on the Board for eight years.

As chairman of the UNC buildings committee, he piloted the University's largest construction program in history.

Cobb had no comment to make on the methods of selection used by the Joint House-Senate Committee on Trustees. The only remaining trustee from Chapel Hill is Representative John W. Umstead, a member of the Executive Commitee and brother of Governor William B. Umstead.

Y Outing

Cars will leave the Y at 2:30, 4 and 5 p.m. today for a Y outing on Claude Shotts' farm. Deadline to sign up is 11 o'clock this morning.

Di-Phi Debate Will Be Held Tonight At 8

The annual Di-Phi debate will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Di Hall, New West. Subject of the debate will be a confederation of Western Europe.

Debating for the Phi Assembly will be Fred Crawford, Don Angell, Dayton Estes, Ham Horton, Dick Lobst and Bob Pace. The Phi Assembly will take the negative.

Gerald Parker, Ben Webb, Mike Soaper, Charles Yarborough, Clyde Smith and David Reid will debate for the Di Assembly.

Judges will be Dean E. L. Mackie, Dr. D. G. Monroe, Dr. N. W. Mattis, Dr. J. L. Godfrey and Dr. Arnold King.

—Umstead—

(Continued from page 1)

whom he occasionally differs on problems of state.

The representative from Orange County thinks that the Senate started the ball rolling which led to the unintentional removal of several prominent trustees. Now, "the Senate is eating crow," Umstead commented. Umstead placed original blame for the present situation on "the newspapers." The state press didn't like the slate method ,so they demanded a change. "Now they got a change and they don't like it," he remarked.

—Nephew—

(Continued from page 1)

and other business activity, as a qualification for trustee membership.

Fellow legislators noted that Clark had "button-holed" people to secure support.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

MUST SELL. 1951 STUDEBAKER Land Cruiser with automatic transmission. All extras. $1,450. Call 9-6519. 1-8003-2

FOR SALE 6B

GRAY BOSTON ROCKER AND 4 kitchen chairs. All are in good condition and very inexpensive. Call 9-7699.

WHEN YOUR CAR NEEDS A FRIEND . . .

When your car needs a friend . . . we're it! Thoroughly, we'll check it, point-by-point. Skillfully, we'll put it in shape for smooth performance. Our charges are on the friendly side, too!

For safe, carefree driving, have your car serviced RIGHT here!

Hazzard Motor Co.

CHEVROLET SALES & SERVICE

PHONE 9-491

THE MOST STARTLING AND DARING LOVE STORY EVER TOLD!

Only amid the shameless glitter and gutters of Paris could such a love be born! Kindled by a backstreet rendezvous, it swept from cabarets to artists' garrets until it flamed into a violence and passion that shocked the world!

ROMULUS presents

JOSÉ FERRER in

John Huston's

MOULIN ROUGE

with ZSA ZSA GABOR SUZANNE FLON

and introducing COLETTE MARCHAND

COLOR BY Technicolor

WINNER OF THREE ACADEMY AWARDS

"HIGHEST RATING!" —N. Y. Daily News

"FASCINATING!" —Journal American

OTIS GUERNSEY, HERALD TRIBUNE SAYS:

"A MAGNIFICENT MOTION PICTURE ACHIEVEMENT!"

ARCHER WINSTON, N. Y. POST SAYS:

"EXCELLENT! BEYOND COMPARE! THE YEAR'S FINEST MAJOR AMERICAN FILM"

ALTON COOK, WORLD TELEGRAM SAYS: ——

"EVERY DETAIL OF THIS FILM LEAVES ITS INSPIRING TOUCH. JOHN HOUSTON HAS CREATED THE MASTERPIECE OF HIS NOTABLE CAREER:"

STARTS THURSDAY

ADMISSION

Adults: Matinee ..... .55
Adults: Night ..... .74
Children ond Day 20

Varsity

NOW PLAYING — THE LONE HAND COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

STARRING: JOEL McCREA—BARBARA HALE

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Warmer with 70 high. Yesterday's high, 62; low, 35.

The Daily Tar Heel

APART
A. Z. F. W. Jr. does some segregating today. See p. 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 134 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Dedication Will Draw Big Crowd

Hundreds of doctors, dentists, hospital administrators, nurses and other citizens from all sections of the state head for Chapel Hill today to be on hand for the two-day dedication program of the new health center which gets underway tomorrow morning.

The ceremonies will begin at 10:45 with a general convocation in Memorial Hall when Dr. Joseph T. Wearn, dean and professor of medicine, Western Reserve University School of Medicine and director of medicine for the University Hospitals in Cleveland, will be the principal speaker.

The buildings to be dedicated are the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, the School of Dentistry, the School of Nursing and the expanded new four-year School of Medicine.

Sessions both days are open to the public and the various new buildings will be open for inspection tours.

For the convenience of visitors, about 40 courtesy cars will be located at strategic points about the campus. The cars will be furnished and driven by medical and dental students and will be at the disposal of dedication guests both days.

There will also be a corps of student guides who will be stationed about the campus to give information to direct visitors about the new buildings. Classes in the Medical, Dental and Nursing Schools will be suspended after 10 o'clock both mornings so that the students may participate in the activities.

In addition to Dr. Wearn's address, the Thursday morning program will include greetings from the presidents of the North Carolina Medical Society, North Carolina Dental Society, North Carolina Nurses' Association and North Carolina Hospital Association.

Barbecue luncheon will be served by Griffin's of Goldsboro at 12:30 both Thursday and Friday on the east side of the Library, or, in case of rain, in the Tin Can.

The various professional groups will hold separate sessions Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

Dr. David P. Barr, professor of medicine, Cornell University, will address the medical group in Dudley Carroll Hall; Dr. Lloyd H. Dodd of Decatur, Ill., the dentists in Gerrard Hall; Mrs. Lucile Petry Leone, assistant surgeon general and chief nurse officer, U. S. Public Health Service, will speak to the nurses in the amphitheatre of the School of Nursing and Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, director of professional relations, American Hospital Association, Chicago, will address hospital officials in the auditorium of Memorial Hospital.

The Medical Alumni Association of the University will hold its annual meeting and dinner in Lenoir Hall that night at 6:30. Informal talks will be made by Dean W. Reece Berryhill of the School of Medicine; Dr. James B. Bullitt, professor of pathology emeritus; and L. P. McLendon, Greensboro, president of the Medical Foundation of North Carolina. Dr. Roy B. McKnight, Charlotte, president of the Alumni Association, will give his annual report.

Presbyterians To Meet About Church Complaint

Presbyterian ministers of the Synod of North Carolina will meet May 14 in Raleigh to discuss the Chapel Hill Church row.

Dr. Harold J. Dudley, general secretary, stated that the Synod will hear and act on the complaint of the Chapel Hill Church against the Orange Presbytery for accepting the recommendations of the Judicial Commission that the pastor and officers of the church be discharged.

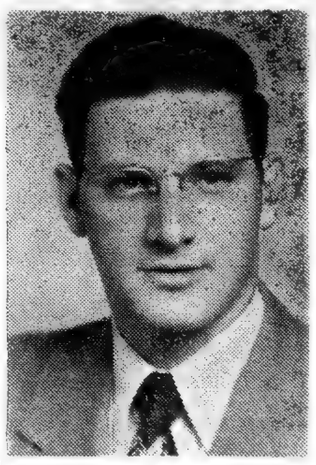
Classes As Usual

Rumor to the contrary, classes will be held Friday as usual.

Chancellor Robert House's office yesterday said there would be no special dismissal of students for the medical center dedication ceremonies this weekend.

To Add 5 Trustees

UNC Action Draws Legislative Response As Bill Hits Senate



RALEIGH, April 22—A bill to increase the size of the University Board of Trustees by five gubernatorial appointees was introduced yesterday by Sen. J. Vivian Whitfield of Pender County.

Whitfield said, "If anyone is left off the Board of Trustees who the Governor feels should be on it, this bill would enable him to correct the error.

"In any system there will be some left off who should be on the Board, but this bill would help some," he said. He said he didn't have any particular Trustees in mind, that he might just as well have introduced the bill two years ago.

However, the bill is of particular interest to many persons who were disappointed by the joint nominating committee's failure to include the names of John Sprunt Hill, Mrs. Laura Weil Cone, Collier Cobb Jr. and Kenneth Tanner.

The General Assembly will meet in joint session probably this week to elect the Trustees from the committee nominations and nominations from the floor if any are made.

BILL ROTH

Roth Leaving GM Job, Takes Scouting Post

Bill Roth, popular Graham Memorial director, resigned his post yesterday to go into professional Boy Scouting.

The GM Board of Directors accepted the resignation "with reluctance," chairman Ken Penegar said. Roth hopes to start training for the job of District Scout Executive of Chatham, Lee and Orange counties sometime in May. He will also be in charge of Exploring, the Senior Scouting movement, for Occoneechee Council, whose Scout membership is 10,000.

Applications for the job of director will be received by Fred Weaver, dean of students in South Building, either in person or by writing. A personnel committee of the board, composed of Weaver, J. Maryon Saunders and Penegar is in charge of finding a new director.

Roth has served as director for two years. Under his leadership, the movement for a new student union gained wide acceptance. The $1,200,000 student union request was placed second on the agenda of the Legislature's Advisory Budget Commission. While no action was taken by the 1953 General Assembly, it is felt by many that a new student union building on this campus will be a reality in a few years.

With Penegar, Roth organized the Student Union Activities Board (SUAB) to promote better use of GM and initiate new programs for student entertainment. Recently the Rendezvous Room was redecorated under Roth's guidance.

Roth is working towards a Ph.D. in industrial relations.

He is a member of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail. In Scouting,he has received the National Distinguished Service Award by the Order of the Arrow, scouting's highest honorary fraternity. The award has been presented to only 28 scouters in the country.

At the present Roth is serving on the National Executive Board of Alpha Phi Omega, collegiate scouting fraternity, and is a district Scout comissioner.

Cheerleader Tryouts

Persons interested in trying out for next year's varsity cheering squad should report to Kenan Stadium today and Thursday at 4 p.m.

Miller Wins Vice-Presidency Over UP's Stilwell, 592-505

Baxter Miller (SP) won the vice-presidency yesterday over Jack Stilwell (UP) 592-505, in the runoff election.

Miller is sergeant-at-arms in the Legislature, a member of the Interdormitory Council and has served on the Men's Honor Council. He is the sole SP candidate in the executive department of student government.

Osborne Lee won the junior seat on the Men's Council over Pete Block.

Women's Residence Council chairman is B. O. Anderson who won over Rollie Randolph.

Carolyn Johnson won the Women's Athletic Association presidency over Jane Allen. Jane Berryhill gained the WAA vice-presidency over Alice Hicks.

Miller, the new student body vice-president, wasn't available for comment last night, but he campaigned on the promise of bringing the Legislature "back to the students." He has pledged to "see that the students are informed of its activities."

Stilwell, defeated vice-presidential candidate, is a veteran legislator and chairman of the Finance Committee in the Legislature.

Bill Brown, the independent vice-presidential candidate whose votes necessitated the runoff, came out for Stilwell last week.

BAXTER MILLER

Alpha Chi Sig Chem Awards Made To 4

Rho chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma, national chemistry fraternity, presented its annual awards to outstanding undergraduate students of chemistry Monday evening at Venable Hall.

The outstanding senior award of $100 went to Louis Allred of Mt. Airy. William Q. Beard of Saint George, S. C, received a free membership in the American Chemical Society as the outstanding junior. Duplicate awards of the chemistry texts to be used in the junior year were awarded the outstanding sophomores, Raymond Snipes from Reidsville and Lyndon Anthony of Greensboro.

Awards are made on the basis of scholarship and leadership in the field of chemistry each year. Dr. H. D. Crockford, professor of chemistry and faculty adviser to the chapter, made the presentations.

Dr. Walter J. Peterson, head of the Chemistry Department of State College, was speaker of the evening. He spoke on the topic "Chemistry and the Land Grant College."

Rev. Edwards Here Sunday

The Rev. Tom T. Edwards will deliver the YWCA's final University Sermon of the year Sunday night at 8:30 in Hill Hall.

Topic of Mr. Edwards' sermon will be "Spiritual Knowledge". Mr. Edwards, who is from the St. Philip's Episcopal Church in Durham, was born in Winston-Salem and received his B.A. degree at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.

He received his B.D. degree at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, Mass., his S. T. M. at Harvard, and is now completing his Ph.D. at Harvard. Before coming to Durham he was assistant to the dean of the American Cathedral in Paris.

NEWS IN BRIEF

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea—Accounts of Bataan-style death marches, semi-starvation and calculated brutality came yesterday from the second handful of Allied soldiers returned from Communist prison camps. And stories of many more dangerously ill Allied soldiers still in Red captivity indicated the Communists do not plan to free all sick and wounded as they had agreed to do. Sgt. Walter H. Mitchell of Greenville, Tenn., said, "There were quite a few left in the hospital at the Pyoktong camp . . . I would rather they had come than me . . . They needed medical attention more." A second group of 100 disabled but jubilant Allied prisoners came back from North Korea yesterday as the 30 Americans exchanged Monday landed in Japan on their way home

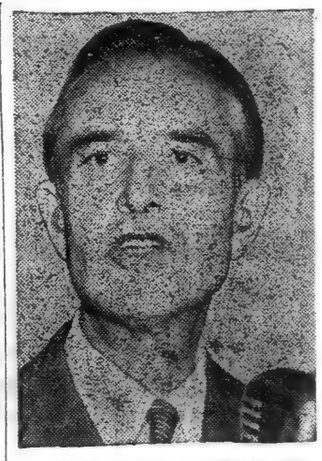
★

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower, apparently feeling better than he has for months, scheduled a final round of golf yesterday before flying back to Washington. The president, who has been here since April 13, was expected to take off for the nation's capital late yesterday afternoon aboard the White House Constellation Columbine. During the course of his golfing vacation, the president suffered an attack of food poisoning, but the frisky way he attacked the golf course yesterday gave every indication of full recovery.

★

SEOUL—The "off limits" sign was off the Freedom Road area yesterday and American Superforts bombed a newly reconstructed airfield near Taechon in northwest Korea. Eleven B-29's from Okinawa droned over the airfield, near the spot where Allied sick and wounded prisoners had stopped last week on their way to freedom, and dropped hundreds of small bombs on the runways and revetments.

★



DILLON, S. C. — A 17 - car streamliner toppled off its rails near here Monday night and mashed up into a mass of twisted steel. Officials here said at least five died. One newspaper reporter who made an early estimate of 10 or 12 dead said he had seen six bodies. Injured were rushed to seven hospitals in nearby towns. Rescue squads stood by yesterday as huge cranes tugged at the cars thrown about like matchsticks. The Atlantic Coastline streamliner was speeding north from Miami to New York.

★

RALEIGH—Frost over the Carolinas and frost and snow in Virginia may have hit a heavy blow at commercial peach orchards in the three states. Estimates of frost damage ranged up to 25 pe rcent of the peach crop in some Sandhills damage ranged up to 25 per cent North Carolina orchards. Paul Rush past two nights has wiped out half of his 20-acre crop. Snow fell in Richmond, Va., about 7 a.m. yesterday.

Averell Harriman To Speak Tonight On Foreign Policy

Prominent Democrat To Talk At 8 O'Clock In Carroll Auditorium

W. AVERELL HARRIMAN

W. Averell Harriman, one of the Democrats who helped guide the United States during President Truman's second term, will speak tonight on "America's Foreign Policy."

Harriman will talk at 8 o'clock in Carroll Hall Auditorium of the School of Business Administration. The public is invited to the speech, sponsored by the Carolina Forum, non-partisan student organization.

Harriman will arrive at Raleigh-Durham airport this afternoon at 2:05 and will be met by Dean of Students Fred Weaver, Forum Chairman Ken Penegar and William F. Friday, assistant to President Gray. The group will return here where Harriman will chat with President Gray, an old friend from Washington days. Afterwards, there will be a guided campus tour for the visitor.

A dinner at 6:30 at the Carolina Inn will be given for Harriman with University student and administration officials attending.

Following tonight's talk a reception will be held in Graham Memorial for Harriman. The public is invited.

Harriman is president of the Union Pacific Railroad, a post he resumed after leaving the Truman administration where he served as Mutual Security Administrator from 1948 to 1952. He was among prominent candidates mentioned as the Democratic presidential nominee at last summer's convention.

A graduate of Yale University, class of 1913, Harriman served as vice-president of the Union Pacific Railroad from 1915 to 1934. He was an administrative official of the National Recovery Administration during the depression. He served as United States Ambassador to Russia from 1943-46 and as ambassador to Great Britain for seven months in 1946. He later served as Secretary of Commerce. He was special representative to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman on numerous important missions.

Tonight's speech will be broadcast by campus FM station WUNC in connection with state stations WBT and WDNC of Charlotte and Durham.

Faculty Study At Rochester Aided By Cash

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (Special) — To encourage productive scholarly research by University of Rochester faculty members, particularly in the humanities and social sciences, the university recently announced a new plan of support through a series of summer fellowships.

For the coming summer, five scholarships will be granted, each with a cash award of $400 to $600. Purpose of the fellowships is to enable faculty members to engage in research by partially relieving the recipients of the financial need for additional employment, such as summer school teaching.

Decisions on the fellowship awards will be based on the importance of the research project, the applicant's need for financial assistance and his expected contribution to the world of scholarship and especially to the intellectual life of the University of Rochester.

Gorham Clean On Expenses, Board Rules

An investigation by the Elections Board showed that presidential candidate Bob Gorham's expense account was in order, according to Board Chairman Dusty Lamson yesterday.

The investigation was requested by Gene Cook (SP) who said he noticed "several irregularities" in the election. Acting on Cook's suggestion, the group checked Gorham's election expenses and declared them in good order.

Cook said yesterday that the incident arose from a "loophole in the law which should be corrected."

The "loophole," according to Cook, is the fact that a candidate is charged on his account for the posters and material that he actually uses, not all that he buys. This, Cook pointed out, allows candidates to print up more material than they plan to use to lower the unit cost of each poster.

Gordon Forester, Student Party secretary-treasurer candidate, used the same expense account method, according to Lamson.

The Elections Board met last week to hear Cook's grievances, which were released yesterday.

Among the "irregularities" which Cook presented were that 12 students were turned away from one poll because polltenders ran out of ballots, polltenders were not sufficiently taught how to keep the polls and campaigning took place near the polls at Victory Village and Gerrard Hall.

DEFENDANTS AND TRIAL JUDGE are all grins before a Women's Honor Council meeting recently in Graham Memorial. The coeds, with the exception of council chairman Carman Nahm (extreme right), are from second floor Spencer. Seated left to right are Geff Johnson, Margaret Entzminger, Toni Kelly, Pat Kelly and Miss Nahm. Back row left to right are Beeps Buchanan, Snooky Stone and Boaty Boatwright. The girls were up for a minor infraction.—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

Greensboro Firm Gets Nod For Fire Escapes; Greeks Still Lag

A fraternity and sorority committee on fire escapes yesterday recommended the J. D. Wilkins Construction Company of Greensboro for the job of installing safety equipment in the condemned houses here.

Chairman Julius Rousseau said the company is well-qualified in erecting the required steel ladders. His committee feels the houses will get a reasonable estimate from Wilkins.

At least three houses are arranging to have the work done apart the cooperative plan of the other houses.

Rousseau also said Wilkins will begin actual construction on some fire escapes by the first of next week.

Chapel Hill Building Inspector P. L. Burch said yesterday he is scheduled to report on fire escape progress to the Board of Alderman Monday night. He said the houses were supposed to report to him last Friday but none did.

If he can't get a favorable report, saying that the houses are making a "bona fide effort," he will turn the delinquents over to the town attorney for legal action, he said.

"I can't afford to play along with them any longer," Burch said.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Beenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr., Jennie Lynn, Joyce Adams.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

An Opportunity

No one quite knows what the Consolidated University Student Council is supposed to do. The council members themselves aren't so sure, especially since they have been haggling over constitutional matters in the last few years.

However, the council has done effective work in the past. Last year, the CUSC drew up a resolution condemning some of the activities of John Clark as a trustee. The council has initiated greater cooperation among the three schools on the student level by sponsoring Consolidated University Day.

Now, another opportunity has come for the council to act. Both presidential candidates wanted a student representative on the Board of Trustees. W. Frank Taylor, trustee and president of the Alumni Association, likes the idea and thinks it possible. Taylor invited students to make a formal proposal to the Executive Committee in May. A CUSC resolution to the effect that student government presidents from the three schools be represented on the board would strengthen the move.

Chancellor Edward Kidder Graham of Woman's College believe students, as an organic part of the University, should also be available for policy-making on the consolidated level. CUSC should not lose sight of this opportunity.

For the Record

Last minute efforts to find something wrong with Bob Gorham's expense account last week failed. Individuals within the Student Party, however, were able to cast a tinge of suspicion on President-elect Gorham's expense account, which was legally O.K. He had the same difficulty as many others running for office, overbuying, and then not using posters. Under the present election law, a candidate can buy a lot of material for a cheap price knowingly, and then not use it. He saves money this way and at the same time gets a lot of posters.

The $25 limit of expenses for presidential candidates prevents the candidate from overdoing it. We don't suggest any revision in the law since candidates usually don't intentionally order over their expense accounts.

* * *

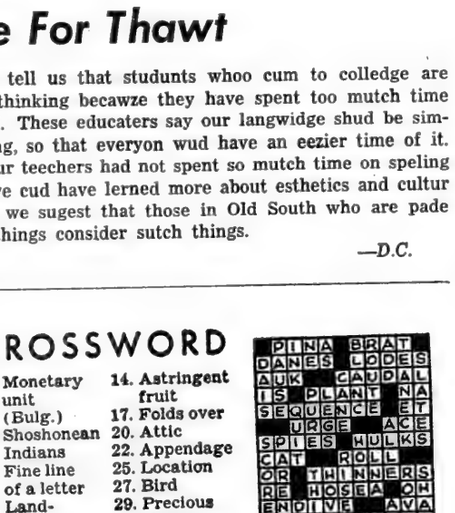
President Gorham deserves the support of all students. He is the winner and he has plenty to do. At the same time, Gorham should be receptive to the good ideas that were presented by his opposition, such as a student member on the Board of Trustees.

A Cawze For Thawt

Some educaters tell us that studunts whoo cum to colledge are hampered in ther thinking becawze they have spent too mutch time just lerning to spel. These educaters say our langwidge shud be simplified in its speling, so that everyon wud have an eezier time of it.

We aggree. If our teechers had not spent so mutch time on speling and sutch things, we cud have lerned more about esthetics and cultur and the like. May we sugest that those in Old South who are pade to consider sutch things consider sutch things.

—D.C.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Addition sign
5. Afresh
9. Network
10. Bellow
11. American patriot, famous for his ride
13. Metallic rocks
15. From
16. Part of a window
18. Salt (chem.)
19. Babylonian god
21. An authoritative decree
23. Toward
24. God of love (Gr.)
26. American Indian
28. Fruit
30. Title of respect
31. Dairy product
34. Missing
37. Ahead
38. Send forth, as rays
40. Conflict
41. Viper
43. Pack away
45. Guinea (abbr.)
46. Rip
48. Come into view
50. Greedy
52. One of the Great Lakes
53. Mother of Castor and Pollux
54. Scorch

DOWN
1. Like better
2. Monetary unit (Bulg.)
3. Shoshonean Indians
4. Fine line of a letter
5. Land-measure
6. Now (dial. var.)
7. Organs of hearing
8. Circular band of flowers
11. Flowing gown
12. Pen-name of Charles Lamb
14. Astringent fruit
17. Folds over
20. Attic
22. Appendage
25. Location
27. Bird
29. Precious stones
31. Water craft
32. Break open, as a seal
33. Ceremony
35. Box of fire clay for delicate pieces
36. Not false
39. Large volumes
42. Cover, as a road surface
44. Part of "to be"
47. Free
49. Narrow inlet (geol.)
51. District attorney (abbr.)

Yesterday's Answer

Express Yourself

Editor:

Please let me take this opportunity to address an open letter to the student body. I want to thank publicly all 940 of my supporters during the recent election and extend my warmest, personal thanks to those thirty or forty who worked hardest for my election. My party and I will strive continuously to see that so large a minority is not forgotten.

While the campaign was not successful for us from a political standpoint, it did provide an opportunity for discussion of ideas, education about student government—its workings and problems, and a time of re-evaluation of the role and aims of student government in light of current student needs.

The students have made their choice, and I, of course, will abide by their wishes; but I will not stand idly by during the forthcoming administration. My party and I pledge to the campus our ready support of any good measure done in its behalf. At the same time we pledge ourselves to keep a constant vigil to see that no injustice is done the students, our campus, or student government. It is not an easy role—that of the opposition—but one that requires great tenacity. It is, however, one of importance, for without it there would be no assurance of responsible action by the party in power. Again we accept this role, not without regret, but at least without bitterness.

I did not seek the office of President flippantly. For me it was a high call for service, nobly sought. It could be no less regarded by anyone. It was a hard fight to lose, and I think I must know how that great American felt last November, when he said that it was like the little boy who, after stubbing his toe in the dark, said "He's too old to cry, but it hurts too much to laugh."

Again I wish the new administration success in all its good endeavors and may it always keep the best interest of the campus at heart.

Sincerely,
Ken Penegar

Ron Levin

Passing Remark

Funny how some guys are never satisfied. Harvey Tilles had a cast on his leg for six months and couldn't wait until he took it off, and now since he's got to take physical ed, he wishes he had it back on. What's with these psych majors?

* * *

Fred Schilds said if he saw his name in here, he'd sue for libel. Go ahead, Fred, I ain't libel for nothing. . . . I'm under age.

* * *

It's a shame Lew Southern and R. W. Pritchard couldn't get together Saturday night. It seems that Lew was in the Saddle Club, and left Poor Richard to ride the range all alone. Saddle up men, it's the last roundup.

* * *

Do you know Franz Roberts? It seems this boy type DuPont was in Chem lab cooking merrily away when too late, he remembered there was no stopper in the tea pot. Results, one hysterified lab instructor, three maimed fellow workers, and a new window in the top of Venable (without any glass in it). This younger generation, ah me.

* * *

I heard that Dale Adams locked himself in his room in the Kappa Psi house with a lot of glass flasks, copper tubing, and what have you. Dale, I tried it myself. It can't be done. It tastes all right, but it eats its way through the glasses . . . pass the bicarb, Steve!

* * *

Norman, (of Raleigh fame), I hear your bon voyage to the sunny lands has been cut short. What's up man, wouldn't they give you a passport? I told you to vote for Ike . . . someday you'll learn.

* * *

Flash . . . Dave Glass has started a revolution over one small flask. It all started back in the spring of 39 when . . . anyway stay with it Dave . . . . you and Zapata!

"We'll Import From Anywhere But Abroad"

A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

Just Pass A Law

Once upon a time there was a fellow named Don Dupe. Now Don was a very well-meaning fellow and he was all hipped on the idea of crushing—nay, annihilating — segregation. Segregation to Don meant discrimination and discrimination meant slavery.

Well, Don started his campaign to end segregation by writing columns for The Daily Tar Heel. He lambasted the evil institution every time that he wasn't blasting congressional investigations. His columns were fairly popular for no one liked McGurglefreely and few defended segregation. The Don Dupe supporters were also at a loss as to what to do about segregation; it was a delicate problem and hda to be handled with kid-gloves.

After Don graduated, he continued to lambast segregation and his supporters began to push him for political office. For they reasoned that Don, being a college man, would have enough sense to handle the problem tactfully. Also he was from the south (at least he went to a southern university), and he would be no crack-pot like Henry Wallace or Mrs. FDR. He knew what the problem was at first hand.

At length Don was elected president of the United States and just about that time five members of the Supreme Court died and Don appointed Paul Robeson, Harry Truman, Walter White, Henry Wallace, and Mrs. Roosevelt. Then too, Don had won the presidential election in a land-slide and both houses of Congress were jammed with civilrightests. It is said that one of the senators from Pennsylvania was Thaddeus Stevens.

Don immediately set to getting all sorts of laws passed: an FEPC law, a law making segregation in schools, primary and secondary, illegal, a law disallowing separate drinking fountains, toilets, movies, and stores, a law forbidding fathers to advise their daughters not to intermarry, and laws making it a felony to think that colored people were any different from white people. No one was legally allowed to have any prejudices, predilections, or preferences and America would be one great happy family.

Disregarded was the fact that less than a hundred years ago a bitter civil war was fought and was followed by an even more bitter period of reconstruction in which was born the Ku Klux Klan, the only means of protection of the southerners, and in which bitterness and antipathy had been deeply imbedded and passed on to succeeding generations.

Disregarded was the fact that each succeeding generation was becoming less and less bitter, less and less narrow, less and less prejudiced that slow but sure progress was being made all over the south, that in 1952 there was not a single case of death due to lynching in the south, that the state law officers and courts of adjudication were digging into unfairness against the Negro, as, for example, at the Myrtle Beach affair and the reversal in the leering case affair, that Negroes were serving on southern juries more and more, that the barriers were being broken down in a painless and permanent process. Attitudes were changing and many were beginning to regard the attitude of racial superiority as outmoded as the doctrine of the Communist Party.

But when President Don got his laws passed, all this was undone, and the clock went back to the 1860's and 1870's:

That year there were seven more race-riots in Detroit and 74 deaths due to lynching than in Louisiana alone.

All the Negro baseball players were kicked out of organized ball and when the Supreme Court objected, Larry Doby and Willie Mays were lynched and others never tried to get back in again.

The membership of the Ku Klux Klan rose to 28,000,000 and Howard University was burned to the ground and Louis Armstrong's trumpet was smashed.

Four Negro doctors were killed in Alabama in two days and a riot in Harlem took 739 lives.

Everywhere there were unwritten laws which commanded four times the respect as the written Federal laws. Negroes no longer rode on the back of busses, no, they didn't ride in busses period. Negroes got very fair trials (just as they had before Don became president) but nobody guaranteed what happened after the trials. And the Negro children didn't go to school anymore.

Then Thomas Hamilton got out of jail, ran for president against Don and won by 531 electoral votes to 0 for Don.

What followed cannot be recorded for all books were burned and there is no written account of what happened.

Golden Fleece

Man Of The Half Century Who Is He?

The Golden Fleece tapping is a campus tradition of fifty years standing. The public ceremony in Memorial Hall on April 27, at 7:15 p.m. will be the dramatic event that those who have seen a Fleece tapping remember. In celebration of its fiftieth anniversary the Fleece plans to heighten the drama with the announcement of the Fleece Man of the Half Century chosen from among their number by his five hundred fellow members.

Late in February ballots were sent out to Fleece members scattered all over the world. With the ballots went a letter requesting them to vote for the living Fleece member who stood highest in their estimation. As the ballots came in there was little question who had the vast majority. This man will be in Memorial Hall on April 27. Those who chose him will not know who he is.

The Giants, symbols of the legend of the Fleece and of its quest for worthy men will come into Memorial Hall. Quietly and slowly they will move down the central aisle. They will choose without hesitation the Man of the Half Century, the man known to them and not to his fellows.

Who will hesitate to be there? Students have always joined with the Fleece in honoring those whom it seeks to honor. Their praise that night is wonderful for those who receive it. The Man of the Half Century will be happier for it.

Alumni will be there. Those who have been closely a part of the University as students and very closely part of it as Fleece members will return to be glad in the addition of more students to their number.

Faculty, and administrative members of the University, town residents and visitors will be there to take part in this annual occasion given a new significance on this its fiftieth recurrence by the selection of the Man of the Half Century.

It will be a big crowd. It will be excited and good humored. Faculty, students, alumni, staff, townspepole, friends of the University and visitors will all be together, waiting eagerly.

Who will hesitate to be there?

Hear ye, all Theta Chis. I hear, or at least Hook told me that Jerry has sworn off cigarettes and on to pipes . . . is this true Jerry? You've been listening to Sid again. Those boys from Hendersonville are no good for you, Jerry. They do things differently up there.

English Club

Language Study

We would like to reprint an excerpt from a speech that U. S. Commissioner of Education Earl J. McGrath made on May 3, 1952, at a meeting of the Central States Modern Language Teachers Association in St. Louis. It's urgency is obvious and acute:

"The social, the political, the international reasons for the study of languages deserve the thoughful consideration of all who determine the character of American education. There are, of course, other arguments for the study of languages . . . But for the average citizen the basic consideration . . . is our world position as a nation . . . This small world is one in which . . our children will live even more intimately than we with their contemporaries in other lands. Whether we discharge our world responsibilities well or poorly . . . will be determined by our ability to understand other peoples and their ability to understand us . . . Only through the ability to use another language even modestly can one really become conscious of the full meaning of being a member of another nationality or cultural group. It is in our national interest to give as many of our citizens as possible the opportunity to gain these cultural insights . . .

"Educators from the elementary school to the top levels of the university system ought to give immediate attention to this matter . . . The citizens of other nations excel ours in using foreign languages, and the principal reason for this superiority is that they have the opportunity to study languages early in their lives in the school system . . . Only a small percentage of American children have an opportunity to begin the study or use of a language other than their own before they enter high school. Yet it is a psychological fact that young children learn new languages easily and idiomatically . . .

"Greater emphasis should be given to language study in high schools and in colleges for the same reasons . . . Enrollments in foreign languages have fallen relatively in both high schools and colleges in recent decades. Again in view of the world situation this decline has been unfortunate . . . If proper steps are taken, these trends can be reversed. We cannot wait . . .

"To gain the popularity it deserves, language study must in my judgment be made more functional . . . The spoken language should be emphasized, and the many modern teaching methods and devices that have been so successfully employed put to maximum use. Moreover, unless language study is related to history, sociology, art, geography, and the other aspects of life which make up the totality of a culture, it will remain at best only partly alive . . .

"This is a matter which deserves the earnest consideration of all members of the academic profession and of all laymen as well . . . "

Yr mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
Pandarus

Port Handcuffs Duke For 5-2 Victory

Tar Heels Tie For First In Big Four

By Tom Peacock

Pitcher Chalmers Port held Duke University to six hits yesterday to give the Carolina baseball team a 5-2 home win and a tie for first place in Big Four play.

Port struck out seven, had perfect control, giving no walks, and five of the hits were of the infield variety.

Joe Lewis, Duke ace fastballer who went the distance, was hot and cold, walking eight, giving nine hits, and striking out 10. Four of the walks he gave were the first four Carolina men at bat.

The Tar Heels gave Port good backing in the field for a majority of the time, but the pitcher was the victim of some rather dubious base running that left nine men on base. Twice Carolina had the bags full with one out and could get but one man across

The Blue Devils took a one run lead in the top of the first. John Gibbons scratched out one of his three singles, stole second, and scored when first baseman Bobby Henning bobbled a throw.

Lewis more than evened things up in the bottom half of the first. throwing 11 straight balls, and eventually 17 balls out of 20 pitches to walk in a run and fill the bases. Catcher Will Frye blasted a long single to right center, but only one Tar Heel could score as center fielder Al Spangler missed catching it by a hair. The erratic pitcher struck the next three men out, but Carolina had a 2-1 lead that it held.

Carolina added single runs in the third, fourth and fifth, while Duke got its last tally in the sixth.

A long line drive by Wayne White that bounced over the fence on the first hop went for a ground rules double in the third, but Connie Gravitte scored him with a hard single to left.

Carolina loaded the bases again in the fourth on hits by Harry Lloyd and Port, and a walk to Fred Dale. Lewis obliged by walking White to force a run in, but that was the strength of the output for the inning.

Frye swatted a long double, his second hit, to open Carolina's fifth, Connie Gravitte walked, and third baseman Bobby Williams singled Frye home, after Frye took third on Lewis' wild throw.

Duke's last run in the sixth was a gift, coming on two scratch hits and an infield out.

The box:

Carolina	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Henning, 1b	3	1	0	12	0	1
Dale, ss	3	1	0	0	5	0
Keller, rf	3	0	0	1	0	0
White, lf	2	1	1	2	0	0
Frye, c	4	1	2	8	0	0
Gravitte, cf	2	0	1	1	0	0
Williams, 3b	4	0	2	0	4	0
Lloyd, 2b	4	0	2	3	2	0
Port, p	4	1	1	0	1	0
Totals	29	5	9	27	12	1

Duke	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Spangler, cf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Gibbons, rf	4	2	3	1	0	0
Clapp, lf	4	0	0	1	1	0
Werber, 1b	3	0	1	2	1	0
Lea, ss	4	0	1	1	1	0
Tarr, c	4	0	0	12	0	0
LeClercq, 3b	3	0	0	3	1	0
Brewer, 2b	3	0	1	3	0	0
Lewis, p	3	0	0	0	3	1
Totals	32	2	6	24	7	1

Score by innings: R.

Duke 100 001 000—2

Carolina 201 110 00x—5

Runs batted in: Werber, White 2, Frye, Gravitte, Williams. Two base hits: White, Frye. Stolen bases: Gibbons 2, Werber. Sacrifice: Henning. Left on bases: Duke 5, Carolina 9. Base on balls—off: Lewis, 8. Struck out—by: Lewis, 10; Port, 7. Time of game: 2:10. Attendance: 2,500. Umpires: Hall, Potts, and Loring.

Cornell Leads Track Team To 82-48 Win Over State In Conference Meet

The Tar Heel track team bounced back in championship style from last Saturday's loss to Maryland by defeating the State Wolfpack on Fetzer Field yesterday by the score of 82-48.

Carolina was minus the services of stellar sprinter Jeff Newton. Newton pulled a leg muscle during the Maryland meet and will be out for the most of the remaining season. Charlie Yarborough, star freshman broad jumper, was also out with a twisted ankle.

The Tar Heels were led by Bill Cornell, who was high scorer for the Carolina team. Cornell registered a win in the low hurdles and took second place in the high hurdles. Other Carolina standouts were Sam Jordan in the pole vault and Roger Morris in the shot put.

The high scorer of the meet was Dickie Bethune of State. Bethune chalked up a win in the 100 yard and the 220 yard dashes and finished second in the broad jump for a total of 13 points.

Summaries:

One mile run—1 Garrish (NCS), Sawyer (NCS) tie; 2 Osborne (UNC), time 4:34.

440 yard run—1 Ray (UNC), 2 Reimer (UNC), 3 Cook (NCS), time 51.3.

100 yard dash—1 Bethune (NCS), 2 Hale (UNC), 3 Heifner (NCS), time 10.00.

220 yard dash—1 Bethune (NCS), 2 Ray (UNC), 3 Mitchell (UNC), Heifner (NCS), time 22.5.

880 yard run—1 Newman (UNC), 2 Higgins (UNC), 3 Bennett (UNC), time 2:00.

120 yard high hurdles—1 Scott (UNC), 2 Cornell (UNC), 3 Bell (UNC), time 15.2.

High jump—1 Yoder (UNC), 2 Haire (UNC), 3 Alexander (UNC) Jordan (UNC) tie, height 6 ft.

Two mile run—1 Sawyer (NCS), 2 Barden (UNC), 3 Miller (NCS), time 9:37.4.

220 yard low hurdles—1 Cornell (UNC), 2 Greene (NCS), 3 Browning, time 25.

Pole vault—1 Jordan (UNC), 2 Duke (UNC), 3 Lugan (NCS), Ferre (NCS) tie, height 12 ft. 6 in.

Shot put—1 Morris (UNC), 2 Higgins (UNC), 3 Griswald (NCS), distance 45 ft. 7 in.

Javelin—1 Brown (UNC), 2 Bell (UNC),) Marconko (UNC), distance 175 ft. 11 in.

Discus—1 Griswald (NCS), 2 Rizzo (NCS), 3 McAllister (UNC), distance 130 ft. 2 in.

Broad jump—1 Logan (NCS), 2 Bethune (NCS), 3 Long (UNC), distance 20 ft. 10⅛ in.

Mile relay—(UNC), time 3:32.5.

JV Nine Tops Blue Devils In Slug Fest

In a wild scoring contest that resulted in a total of twenty-three runs and twenty-four hits, the Carolina JV baseballers downed Duke's JV team.

Charlie Aycock went the route for the winners and received credit for the win. Paller and Dodson each picked up three hits for the winners in five times at bat. Perry, Harding, and Zachery collected two apiece.

Carolina had to come from behind to win. They trailed Duke until the fourth inning when they had a four run surge to go into the lead by one run. In the fifth inning every man on the team came to bat as they scored another four runs to cinch their lead. The eighth and ninth frames also proved lucky for the Tar Heels as they collected three and four runs, respectively, to run their total to seventeen.

Line scores:

Carolina — 020 440 034—17 15 3

Duke ——— 113 000 100— 6 9 4

Batteries:

Carolina: Aycock and Dodson; Duke: Blackburn, Boyd (5), Barlow (9) and Rodensky, Riggsby.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Everett vs. BVP: field 2, Sigma Nu 1 vs. SAE 2; field 3, Beta vs. Phi Delt 1; field 4, TEP 1 vs. Sigma Nu 2; field 5, Phi Kappa Sig vs. Delta Psi.

5:00—Field 1, Phi Delt 2 vs. Theta Chi; field 2, Lambda Chi vs. Phi Gam 2; field 3, Pi Kappa Phi vs. Pi Lamb; field 4, Kappa Psi vs. Delta Sig; field 5, Phi Gam 1 vs. DKE 1.

Today's Golf

First round matches between Sigma Nu and Beta 2 and SPE vs. ZBT must be completed by this afternoon.

Track

Entries for the campus-wide track meet open today. Although next Tuesday, April 28, is the deadline for the entries, the intramural department has asked that they be filled out and turned in as soon as possible.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre

Tonight

Edward Arnold—Jane Darwell

DANIEL AND THE DEVIL

Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop

Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing

Thomas Book Store

Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham

Phone J-2331

L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads

Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps

Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

Celebrating For The Next 5 Months

Rathskeller's

5th Anniversary

With A

5c Discount On All DRAFT BEER

Ounce for Ounce No Better Buy In Town

8 Oz. Mug, Was 20c ——— NOW .15

16 Oz. Mug ,was 35c ——— NOW .30

80 Oz. Pitcher, Was $1.50 ——— NOW $1.30

1 Gallon Jug To Go ——— NOW $1.75

FOR GOOD FOOD AT STUDENT PRICES

EAT at the

RATHSKELLER

Remember every Thursday is "All you can eat spaghetti and meatball day" for 99c plus a free glass of beer or wine.

From The Novel "A Mexican Village" By Chapel Hill's Own—Josephina Niggli

LAST TIMES TODAY

Carolina

The ORIENTAL

Air-Conditioned

CHINESE & AMERICAN

Open Daily 11-9:45

Sunday 12-9:45

116 E. Parrish St., Durham

DR. QUIZ conducted by Sutton's

THE ANSWER TO YOUR PRESCRIPTION NEEDS IS SUTTON'S. The answers to the quizare O-Hi-O, Plymouth and Nellie. Remember it's Sutton's for school supplies where you are always Welcome.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER Sutton's DRUG STORE Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES

5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

It's Time For Germans

The Spring Dances will be here this coming weekend. We want to help you look your very best. So stop in today and let us supply you with your formal needs.

- After Six Dinner Jackets
- After Six Tux
- Cummerbund Sets
- Boutonnieres
- All Other Formal Accessories

THE TOWN and CAMPUS

CAN YOU SCORE
FIGHTS ON TV
Win 6 bottles of beer by coming closest to the referee's point decision every Wednesday night at the
RATHSKELLER

COMPLETE LINE OF
"AFTER SIX"
FORMALWEAR

Town & Campus

WINNER of "MR. FORMAL" Contest to be Announced Next Week

Only one week remains to enter this year's MR. FORMAL contest so hop to it if your fraternity, club or dorm thinks one of the boys rates a screen test with Alex Gottlieb Productions, a week in Hollywood, a $500 defense bond, a good chance of not getting a date with Marilyn Monroe and lots more.

To enter the contest, call Jake Froelich or John Baldridge—Beta House, Phone 6071 to set-up an appointment to have at least 10 of your men try on the "After Six" white summer formal jackets at Sport Shop & Town & Campus.

Remember, the man selected as MR. FORMAL at Carolina also walks off with an armful of prizes as well as the opportunity to compete for the national title —MR FORMAL U.S.A.—and all that goes with it.

Enter your team today. The try-on is painless . . . fun . . . and takes but a few minutes of your group's time

MR. FORMAL candidates selected by their groups thus far are Tom Creasy, SAE; Thad Eure, Beta; Sid Kalin, TEP; Bill Smith, Phi Gam; Herb Dowd, Kappa Sigma; John Motsinger, Sigma Chi.

AUTHENTIC Formal WEAR

- DINNER JACKETS
- FORMAL TROUSERS
- ACCESSORIES

BILLS MAILED HOME

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

What Goes On Here

UN Committee

There will be a meeting of the UN Committee at 7 o'clock tonight on the second floor of the YMCA. It is necessary that all members attend.

Semper Fidelis

The Semper Fidelis Society will meet Thursday night at 7:30 in the Naval Armory. Officers for the coming year will be elected. Plans for the coming year will be made.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall Thursday night. Those interested in speaking Spanish are invited.

Master's Degree Exam

The comprehensive examination for the master's degree in education will be given Saturday, May 9. Registration for this examination closes this Saturday. Graduate students wishing to take the exam should register in the Education Office, 127 Peabody Hall.

Indian Movies

The date for the showing of a group of movie reels on Indian life has been changed from Friday to Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Gerradd Hall. The six to 10-minute reels include "Handicrafts in India," "The Silk Industry" and "Indian Classical Democracy."

Pre-School Children

Pre-school children who expect to enter the Chapel Hill Schools should be present for registration between 8 and 1 o'clock today at the Chapel Hill Elementary School Building. Parents should bring the child's record of immunization against disease and his birth certificate. A child must be six years old on or before Oct. first to begin school in September.

The Rev. Jones

The Rev. Charles M. Jones will speak before the Columbia Relations institute of Columbia, S. C., tomorrow night. His topic will be "Social Problems Facing the South Today." In the afternoon session between 4:30 and 6 o'clock he will lead a discussion on "Improved Techniques in Community Cooperation."

WUNC

Today's schedule for WUNC:
7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The UN Story.
7:30—Carolina Sport Review.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—W. Averell Harriman Broadcast.
9—Masterworks from France.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and coming events.
10:05—An evening masterwork.

Art Guild Tryouts

Tryouts for the Chapel Hill Art Guild's production of "Rip Van Winkle will be held Thursday immediately after school in the school auditorium. Chapel Hill School children are eligible for parts in this classic comedy which will be produced May 13 and 14.

Reserved Parking

In order to facilitate visitors to the dedication program, the following parking spaces will be reserved for them Thursday and Friday from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.: The lot south of Peabody Hall, the lot between Memorial Hall and the School of Commerce, the lots beside Steele Dorm and Bynum Hall, the Planetarium lot, the Hospital and Dental School lots and a portion of the athletic field on Raleigh Road.

University Club Elects Next Year's Officers

The University Club has elected officers for 1953-1954.

They are president, PiKA Bill Calvert from Norfolk, Va.; vice-president, SAE Fred Hutchins from Winston-Salem; secretary, KD Lib Suddreth from Raeford; treasurer, Sigma Chi Bill Moore from Burlington, and historian, ZBT Alan Burnham from Atlanta.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

MUST SELL. 1951 STUDEBAKER Land Cruiser with automatic transmission. All extras. $1,450. Call 9-6519. 1-8003-2

GRAY BOSTON ROCKER AND 4 kitchen chairs. All are in good condition and very inexpensive. Call 9-7699.

LOST 12

LOST ON FRIDAY, APRIL 17, IN Lenoir, Bynum, or Saunders, a lady's red pocket book. Identification card inside with the name Mrs. Edison Davenport. Finder please leave at the "Y" and accept my thanks.

136 NROTC Students Will Train This Summer

One hundred and thirty-six Naval ROTC students at the University will participate in the Navy's summer training program this year.

Approximately 54 regular midshipmen will participate in Cruise Able (first cruise) and Baker (second cruise), 37 regular midshipmen will take part in the aviation-amphibious summer training, 26 contract midshipmen will participate in Cruise Charlie (third cruise) and nine Marine candidates will receive summer training at Quantico, Va.

More than 8,600 midshipmen from the U. S. Naval Academy and Naval ROTC units of 52 colleges and universities will participate in the program.

Plans call for 54 ships, including the battleships Missouri, Wisconsin and Iowa to take 5,900 first and third class (senior and sophomore) midshipmen on the three major cruises. For the 2,500 second class (junior) midshipmen not participating in the major practice cruises, the Navy has planned indoctrination programs in aviation and amphibious operations, ashore and afloat. In addition there will be specialized training for 275 NROTC midshipmen seeking commissions in the Marine Corps.

The ships of the first practice cruise will visit eight ports in the Caribbean and on the East Coast of South and Central America. The second cruise will call at four ports in Western Europe and one in the Caribbean. The third cruise will call at three Caribbean ports only.

Among the ports to be visited are: Rio de Janeiro and Santos, Brazil; Cartagene and Barranquilla, Colombia; Naval Station, Trinidad; Willemstad, Curacao; Barbadoes, British West Indies; Copenhagen, Denmark; Oslo and Bergen, Norway; and Edinburgh, Scotland.

The summer training program is designed to give its officer candidates the opportunity to "learn by doing" and to receive first-hand knowledge in many phases of naval operations. This training supplements classroom studies in engineering, gunnery, navigation, communications and tactics.

Rear Admiral E. T. Wooldridge, Fleet's battleship - cruiser Force, USN, Commander of the Atlantic will be in overall command of the practice cruises. He will be in tactical command of the first cruise, flying his flag in the Missouri.

A feature of each cruise will be gunnery exercises which in each case will be conducted at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Approximately 1,632 juniors from all 52 NROTC units will receive three weeks of amphibious training at the Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va., and three weeks of aviation trianing at Corpus Christi, Texas.

About 275 NROTC midshipmen seeking Marine Corps commissions will receive special training at Quantico, Va., from June 22 through August 1.

14 Governors Ask Extension Of TV Deadline

Governors of 14 Southern states including Gov. William B. Umstead of North Carolina have asked for a two year extension to protect channels for educational TV stations in their states in a recent telegram to the Federal Communications Commission.

Representatives of the governors agreed that additional time is needed for best development of educational TV. The governors acted on their recommendation by sending the telegram.

